"I didn't mean to steal it," whimpered Joe, cowed at once. "I only wanted to wear it at the theatre, like I've sometimes done before. And you wouldn't treat me so uncivil if you knew how much I know——"

"About what?"

"About the lady you're going to marry."

"That's just what you have got to tell me," observed Dudley coolly, as he seized the boy again by the collar and half flung him into a first-class compartment. "I shall get the guard, who knows me, to lock this door; and I may tell you that I have a loaded revolver in my overcoat pocket."

Whatever moral suasion Dudley employed, certain it is that Joseph Welldon left the train at Kingston Station in a very different spirit from the jaunty self-possessed defiant mood he had exhibited an hour before. He looked pale and frightened, his legs trembled under him, and he cast nervous glances to right and left, as though he were afraid of being followed.

"She'll murder me if she knows I've rounded on her," he whimpered to Dudley. "I daren't go home, or she'd find it out by looking at me. I told her I'd do it if she was to marry you; and she told me I'd better say my prayers and make my will first. She sorter laughed: but I know she menat it, and I daren't go home."

Turning scornfully away from the lad, Dudley walked in the booking office and bought him a single ticket for London. Then he scribbled an address and a few words on his card and handed it to the frightened Joseph.

"That is Mr. Simpson's private house in Bayswater," he said. "Take this card to him. I have asked him to keep you with him until I send for you. I may want you later as a witness."

"A witness! Not against her," Joe was beginning in terrified accents, when Dudley cut him short by hurrying him along the platform and into the train.

Much—very much—still remained to be done; but Dudley had learned a good deal by the confession he had wrung from Joseph Welldon, and his plans needed revision in consequence. For forty-eight hours he had almost dispensed with rest and food. His eyes burned, and his head ached with the prolonged strain and incessant traveling; but he was borne up by a passionate excitement and a fierce determination to unmask and punish the villainy which had compassed his brother's death, and he scarcely seemed capable of feeling fatigue.

Before seven o'clock he was standing in Kingston market-place. Revelsworth House could be reached in a few minutes; but it would be dinner-time there, and to make even a pretence of breaking bread with Francesca he felt would be impossible.

He entered an hotel and mechanically ate some food which was placed before him. At eight o'clock he called for his bill, and, ordering a conveyance, was driven rapidly towards the old house on the Green.

A host of recollections crowded upon him as the ivy-hung walls of Revelsworth House came in sight. Less than six months before he and his brother Victor had journeyed thither for the first time in a light-hearted mood, and, standing on the bridge at the bend of the road, Victor had jested as to which of them should win "the beautiful cousin Francesca."

"And, coming back," he muttered to himself, "we met her on the threshold—the demon who murdered him!"

He was seized by a sudden fear of himself. If Francesca should meet him now with these thoughts in his mind, if she should open the door to him and greet him with a smile upon her lying lips, might he not be tempted beyond control to draw out the revolver from his pocket and lay her dead at his feet!

He hardly dare to look up as the door was opened; but he experienced a feeling of relief at the sound of Betty Mannington's voice.

"Dudley! Back already! We did not expect you. Have you had any dinner? I am so glad I stayed at home and let Mr. O'Meara take Francesca on the river instead of me!"

"She is out, then? Thank Heaven!"

(To be continued.)

Piles To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & Co., Toronto

Dr. Chase's Ointment

A Sure Cure for Headaches. — Bilious headache, to which women are more subject than men, becomes so acute in some subjects that they are utterly prostrated. The stomach refuses food, and there is a constant and distressing effort to free the stomach from bile which has become unduly secreted there. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are a speedy alternative, and in neutralising the effects of the intruding bile relieves the pressure on the nerves which cause the headache. Try them.

When one gets hopping mad his reason goes on a crutch.

Will be Found an Excellent Remedy for sick headache. Carter's Little Liver Pills. Thousands of letters from people who have used them prove this fact. Try them.

Many a man's self-conceit is due to his ignorance.

The Well Known Strengthening Properties of IRON, combined with other tonics and a most perfect nervine, are found in Carter's Iron Pills, which strengthen the nerves and body, and improve the blood and complexion.

The average watch represents but 12 hours of human labor.

There is nothing equal to Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator for destroying worms. No article of its kind has given such satisfaction.

Much talk, many lies.

Some persons have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhoea, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for all summer Complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

Coral is a talisman against thunder and evils by flood and field.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of "Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup," and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

The wildcat's teeth are close to its purr.

Will positively cure sick headache and prevent its return. Carter's Little Liver Pills. This is not talk, but truth. One pill a dose. See advertisement. Small pill, Small dose. Small price.

A long portage makes a heavy canoe.

To Those of Sedentary Occupation. —Men who follow sedentary occupations, which deprive them of fresh air and exercise, are more prone to disorders of the liver and kidneys than those who lead active, outdoor lives. The former will find in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills a restorative without question the most efficacious on the market. They are easily procurable, easily taken, act expeditiously, and they are surprisingly cheap considering their excellence.

It takes money to voice the opinion of a lawyer.

UNTOLD MISERY — WHAT A WELL-KNOWN COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER SUFFERED, AND HOW HE WAS CURED.—Gentlemen, About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at that time travelling for Messrs. Walter Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine and when the third bottle was finished, I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery believing that the persistent use of it will cure any case of Dyspepsia.

(Signed),
T. S. McINTEE

All trails are long to the lazy.

He Has Tried It.—Mr. John Anderson, Kinloss, writes: "I venture to say few, if any, have received greater benefit from the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, than I have. I have used it regularly for over ten years and have recommended it to all sufferers I knew of, and they also found it of great virtue in cases of severe bronchitis and incipient consumption

The best way to get even is to forget.

Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum of twenty-five cents.

Bank of Montreal

ESTABLISHED 1817.

Capital and Rest, All Paid Up.

$23,000,000

(Twenty-three Millions)

Savings Bank Department

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A. G. PARKER,

Manager Belleville Branch

RAINY WEATHER NEEDS.

What a lot of weather we are having, very hot, then rainy and cold. Whether the weater is clear or whether the weather is cloudy, the fact remains that we have waterprof coats in plenty, guaranteed to keep out the wet.

A Few Specials

We have just received a few specials that should be of interest to you. There are so many very low priced, useless coats on the market that these extra good ones at moderate prices will surely prove fast sellers. Two lines, one dark the other medium, pure rainproof, velvet collar, raglan pocket and cuff, coats made to sell at $7.50. OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY $5.00.

A FEW BETTER

Then we have some extra good ones at $7, $8 and $10, coats that you would have to pay much more for in other stores. If you are thinking of a rainproof coat, come in and take a look around.

OAK HALL

Sole Agents for Sanford's Celebrated Clothing.

Holiday seekers will find full lines of

Trunks and Travelling Bags

At The J. J. Haines Shoe Houses.

Steamer Trunks
Round and Flat Top Trunks

Canvas, Leather or Metal Covered Trunks.

Bags, Suit Cases,

TELESCOPE VALISES

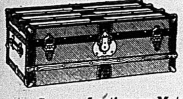
Fibre Cases, Club Bags, Shawl Straps, etc

TEMPTING Shoe Bargains on our Bargain Tables for old or young.

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES at Belleville, Napanee and Trenton

Kingston Ont. [illegible]



INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Justice Mixed With Humor.

In a small town in the United States lives an elderly German, who, because of the high esteem in which he is held in the community, has been elected justice of the peace. The old gentleman was recently called upon to decide a most perplexing question.

One of his neighbors is the possessor of a dog. The dog, although not actually vicious, delights in running out of the gate and barking savagely at passers-by. This had been the source of great annoyance to the neighbors, especially to one, who vowed to get even with "the pesky critter." Recently this neighbor was returning from a shooting trip, gun in hand. He was set upon by the dog, whereupon he raised his weapon and fired at the brute. His aim was not very good, and the dog ran yelping, minus his caudal appendage.

The owner of the dog had his neighbor haled before the old justice on a charge of cruelty to animals, and the court-room was crowded with the partizans of both men. The justice heard the charge, and then the defence that the dog was a dangerous animal and a menace to the neighborhood. The old German thereupon cleared his throat and delivered the dictum:

"Der man—he has been guilty of gruelty to animals." And one side of the court-room applauded the justice of the decision.

"But der tog—he was a vicious tog." And the other side voiced its approval.

"I will fine der man five tollars." Another murmur in the court-room.

"But I will gif him anodder shot at der tog." And both sides cheered.

To dress really well one needs a little more than one has.

Teacher (to class in geography)—And who knows what the people who live in Turkey are called? Class (unanimously)—Turks! Teacher—Right. Now, who can tell me what those living in Austria are called? Little boy—Please, mum, I know. Ostriches!—"Judge."

Wireless Telegraphy and the North Pole.

It has been suggested that wireless telegraphy may play an important part in future Arctic explorations. The conditions surrounding Arctic travel are such, says the "Electrical Review," that the principal difficulty is found in maintaining communication with a base of supplies. It is believed that wireless telegraphy has now reached a point where, at least, it promises such development that future exploring parties will be able to carry along apparatus and keep constantly in touch with their base camps. If this proves to be the case, much of the terror of the Arctic will be removed, and exploration will be made both easier and safer, with the possibility that this added instrumentality will enable the discovery of the pole at no far distant date.

Scotland has 146 parishes without paupers, poor rates or public houses.

When a storm is approaching, glow-worms are far more brilliant than at other times.

Seven hundred British subjects are yearly born at sea.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

The $2,500 forfeit, re rolling mills, has not dropped out of sight, although it has been transferred to the sinking fund.

• • •

Pity the woman whose husband is so faultless that she has no reason to find fault with him.

• • •

It is now possible to send a message around the world in one-sixth the time it takes for a woman to dress for church.

• • •

Have you secured your summer boarders yet? If not you may attribute the fact to your failure to advertise in The Intelligencer.

• • •

Doubtless Britain thinks the Yankee sailors and President Loubet a tremendous improvement on those gay Hindoos that had to be entertained coronation time.

• • •

An Indiana woman wants a divorce because her husband sleeps in his boots. The divorce court ought to interfere. Such a chap as that is likely to die with his boots on.

• • •

It is told of the great and venerable financier, Russell Sage, that much of his success is due to his habit of beating down the price of anything he wishes to buy, relates the New York News. One day, so the story goes, he was on his way home and stopped in a meat market. Seeing a piece of liver on the counter, he asked the dealer the price of it.

"I wouldn't charge you anything for that, Mr. Sage," said the white-aproned man, as he picked up the liver to wrap it up.

"Too much, too much," said Mr. Sage, gruffly. "It isn't worth it," for he had not heard the butcher distinctly.

"All right," said the dealer. "Take it along for a dime."

The great financier fished out a nickel and five coppers, laid them on the counter and walked away with the liver, satisfied that he had made a good bargain.

• • •

The Buffalo Express says: The Texas plan of solving the negro problem is to post notices warning all negroes to leave town and at the appointed time drive them out with shot guns if they have not fled voluntarily. The Sour Lake oil field is the latest region where it has been applied.

Killed on the Track.

St. Thomas, July 15.—Early Sunday morning the mangled body of a colored man named Jos. Browning was found on the Grand Trunk about a half a mile east of the city. One arm was fractured and a foot nearly severed, while the body bore other injuries of a serious nature. It is believed that he was struck by a midnight express. A whiskey bottle was found near the body. The dead man was about 45 and unmarried.

Bomb Throwing in Croatia.

Vienna, July 15.—Two dynamite outrages are reported from Agram, the capital of Croatia, yesterday. There was much material damage, but no fatalities.

Fell to His Death.

Bedford, July 15.—George Garrison, feldspar drawer, took a fainting spell, fell off his load, and the wagon wheel ran over his head, causing death.

Originated the Massacre.

Kishineff, Russia, July 15.—The murderer of the boy Doubassary, whose death was charged to the Jews, and which was the immediate cause of the massacre, has been discovered. He is a gardener and has confessed that he and the boy's uncle committed the crime.

You May Need

Pain-Killer

For Cuts
Burns
Bruises

Cramps
Diarrhoea
All Bowel Complaints

It is a sure, safe and quick remedy.

There's only one PAIN-KILLER. PERRY DAVIS'.

Two sizes, 25c. and 50c.

SAVE MONEY By JOINING The MUTUAL LITERARY MUSIC CLUB OF AMERICA

25 Cents pays for three months' membership. Each member receives the official club organ every month, including 6 pieces of high-class vocal and instrumental new music each month, 18 pieces in all; also a Certificate of Membership which gives the privilege of Club Room in New York City, and of buying literature, music or musical instruments of any description at wholesale prices, saving you from 20% to 50% on your purchases. Don't fail to join at once. You will get much more than your money's worth. MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB, Dept. , 150 Nassau St., N.Y.

His Sister.

THOSE who contend that the evil influences of heredity may be changed to good in a new and more wholesome environment will find confirmation of their cheerful philosophy in a story which comes from a settlement house in one of the "slum" districts of New York.

A visitor to the school attached to the settlement was watching the children at play. She became deeply interested in the care and attention bestowed upon a little crippled girl by a boy some years older. He had evidently done his best to make himself presentable. Hands and face were clean, his patched and faded clothes had been carefully brushed, and his much-worn shoes had been polished even to the heels.

He followed the little girl as she limped excitedly around the outskirts of the noisy group in whose pastime she could not actively share. He restrained her impetuosity, and when harm seemed to threaten from the excited crowd, he interposed himself between her and the danger. When she grew tired, he carried rather than led her to a convenient resting-place, and seated himself beside her, apparently content to be a spectator with her, although his comrades were shouting to him to "come on out and have some fun."

"Is she his sister?" the visitor asked of the superintendent.

"Yes and no," was the answer. "She came as a sister, providentially, but she is really not a relative at all.

"He was one of my toughest boys at first—was incorrigible, in fact; and he tried my patience severely.

"'I wish I had a sister,' he said to me one day, after I had scolded him for something he had done. This I took to be the first awakening of a desire for better things, and I was both surprised and encouraged.

"'It would be very pleasant if you had,' I said.

"'You bet!' he replied, and then added confidentially, 'You see it's this way: There's me fader, he licks Louie; Louie licks Jakie and Jakie licks me; but I ain't got nobody to lick! If I had a sister, I wouldn't to a t'ing to her—oh no! See?'

"When this little girl came to the school he regarded her at first with scorn and indifference. 'A gimpy,' as he called her, was an object of curiosity rather than of sympathy. But one day, while standing near the other children at play, she was crowded and thrown down. Her cry—more of fright than pain, for she was not hurt—seemed to appeal to feelings that had never been touched before. He rushed forward almost savagely, pushed the other children aside, and taking her up in his arms, carried her to the same seat where they are now. He soothed and consoled her, scowling in a shame-faced way at the other boys, who laughed at him, of course; and ever since then, in school or out, going or coming, he has watched over her like a brother.

"He has found a sister, and more, he has found his better self. I have had no trouble with him since that day. He has been obedient, and in many ways helpful to me, and I shall do everything in my power to see that the good that is in him shall not be lost to himself or to society."

Humor of the Court Room.

In the early days of the railroad in Michigan there was a farmer who owned two well-bred and useful dogs, named Major and Tige. On a certain morning the dogs chased a stray hog down the main road, and on the return trip stopped to play at the railroad crossing. Heedless of the conspicuous warning to look out for the locomotive, Tige was struck by that engine of destruction and killed, Major escaping by sheer dog luck. Damage suits were a new thing at the time, so when the owner of the dogs commenced an action before a rural justice of the peace there was an immense crowd of neighbors and sympathizers present at the hearing. The engineer swore that he gave one sharp blast of the whistle as he approached the crossing. It looked as though the railroad company was to go scot free, but the attorney for the farmer knew his business—and also the justice. "Your honor," he said, "it is required by your statutes in such cases made and provided, that when any person or domestic animal is upon a railroad and seen by the engineer, he must sound his whistle. In this instance, your honor, there were two domestic animals innocently playing on the track, and the whistle was sounded but once, when it is a positive legal requirement that it should have been blown twice—once for each dog." So convincing was this argument that the country justice would not even give the railroad attorney a hearing, and awarded the plaintiff the full amount of damages sued for.

His Cause For Tears.

At a seance the other day, when the lights had been turned low, the medium was describing a tall, dark-eyed, handsome spirit, with long moustaches, and hair parted carefully down the center, that was hovering round a middle-aged but elderly looking man, when he burst suddenly into tears; heartrending sobs shook his thin frame.

"George, George," he cried; "why, oh why, did you leave me to the misery of these past years?"

"Then you knew him?" asked the medium.

"Knew him?" murmured the down-hearted man. "I saw him daily for months and months. Oh, George," he continued, "why did you die?"

"My good man," pleaded the medium, "you must pull yourself together. Though his loss to you must have been a great one, you may yet meet another friend who will fill his place."

"No, no," he cried; "his place is filled."

"Filled! Why, what do you mean?" asked the medium, astonished.

"He was my wife's first husband!"—"Tit-Bits."

Not Anxious to Show It.

Madge—How did you know I wore my old hat to the theater last night? Marjorie—I was told you took it off.—"Judge."

JUST IN FUN

How much a man is like his shoes!
For instance both a soul may lose,
Both have been tanned, both are made tight
By cobblers, both get left and right.
Both need a mate to be complete
And both are made to go on feet,
They both need healing, oft are sold,
And both in time will turn to mold.
With shoes, the last is first, with men
The first shall be last, and when
The shoes wear out they're mended new;
When men wear out they're men dead, too.
They both are trod upon, and both
Will tread on others, nothing loth.
Both have their ties, and both incline,
When polished, in the world to shine,
And both peg out. Now, would you choose
To be a man or be his shoes?
—Hartford Times.

• • •

The wit of some of the distinguished ladies during the period of the late civil war is illustrated by the retort of a typical dame.

Mrs. C——l had a large plantation on the James river, where many officers and soldiers of the Union Army were encamped. One day an officer came to the house and most politely asked to see Mrs. C——l. When she appeared he said:

"Madame, we have had a death in the ranks, and I have come to ask your permission to bury a Union soldier on your property. May I do so?"

"Why, certainly, captain," replied Mrs. C——l. "You have permission to bury the entire Union army on my property, if you will only do so."—V. Halsey.

• • •

Uncle Silas—Statistics show that the world keeps gittin' healthier and healthier. People live longer than they did fifty or a hundred years ago. Anyone can observe the fact.

Aunt Salina—I've noticed it for a long time. It's got so that one can't pick up a paper any more without readin' about some one bein' cured and seein' their picture.—Brooklyn Life.

• • •

"What do you think of the statement put out by some of the astronomers that the planet Venus is an orb of solid gold?"

"I see no reason why it may not be true. One of the planets, we know, is Mercury."—Chicago Tribune.

• • •

He—There are two periods in a man's life when he never understands a woman.

"Indeed, and when are they?"

"Before he is married and afterward."—Collier's Weekly.

• • •

Mrs. Meddergrass (reading theatrical advertisement)—Wanted—Leading man, who can double, if necessary. Now, I wonder what that means.

Mr. Meddergrass—Want him to be one o' these here contortin' fellers, o' course.—Baltimore American.

• • •

Tom—Congratulate me, old chap! Miss Flypp has just presented me with the key to her heart.

Jack—Humph! It's dollars to doughnuts she will have the lock changed to-morrow.—Chicago News.

His Urban Affections.

Judge John L. Hall, of Macon, one of the South's ablest lawyers, is here attending the Supreme Court.

All efforts to interview him on the Boers, the Philippines or the unspeakable Turk failed, but he told this story with great effect:

"When war was declared against Spain the darkies became greatly agitated because there was talk of putting them to the front to fight the Spaniards. They offered all sorts of amusing excuses for not enlisting.

"One old negro said to a man who was urging him to take up arms against Spain:

"'What for, Mars George,' said the old man. 'I ain't got nuthin' aginst them Spaniards. They never done nuthin' to me. I ain't got a thing against them Spaniards, what's the use of us fightin'?'

"'Patriotism,' replied the man; 'you should fight for love of country.'

"'Heh!' said the darky, 'luv er country. I dun live in town so long I ain't got no use for de country.'"—Atlanta Jorunal.

It is usually those who are least to be trusted who demand the most implicit trust. Naturally.

To some intellectual palates conscience is a matter of taste, remorse a mere condiment of life, while sin is as the perfume of a dying rose.—By. R. W. St. Hill.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

SINGLE FARE

To Detroit and Return
in connection with
INTERNATIONAL EPWORTH LEAGUE CONVENTION,
July 16th to 19th.

Tickets good going July 15th and 16th. Valid for return until July 20th. Tickets may be extended for return until August 15th, on depositing tickets with joint agent not later than July 19th, and on payment of 50 cents.

The Grand Trunk service is unexcelled for those attending the convention. Fast and convenient.

TOURIST RESORTS.

Muskoka Lakes, Georgian Bay, Lake of Bays, Kawartha Lakes, Thousand Islands, Quebec, Portland, Old Orchard, White Mountains. All reached via the Grand Trunk.

For tickets and all information apply to
J. H. THOMPSON, City Agent,
Bridge Street,
T. H. COPPIN, Depot Agent,
J. D. McDONALD,
Dist. Pass Agt., Toronto.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM
Cures
Deep-seated Colds
Coughs - Croup - Bronchitis - LARGE BOTTLES $1.00
MEDIUM 50¢ - TRIAL SIZE 25¢

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& HUDSON RIVER R. R.
THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.			After 1st May
Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)		12.22 p.m.	1.30 a.m
Arr. Kingston	"	1.47 p.m.	3.12 a.m
Lv. Kingston (stage)..		2.30 p.m.	5.00 a.m
Arr. Cape Vincent (stage)		4 30 p m.	7.00 a.m
Lv. Cape Vincent N.Y.C.		5.05 p.m.	7.25 a.m
Arr. Watertown	"	5.55 p.m.	8.25 a.m
Arr. Oswego	"	9.05 p.m.	11.55 a.m
Arr. Syracuse	"	9.25 p.m.	12.07 p.m
Arr. Rochester	"	1.05 a.m.	2.20 a.m
Arr. Utica	"	9.45 p.m.	12.35 p.m
Arr. New York	"	7.25 a.m.	6.00 p.m

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C. R. R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from F. A. Folger, N.Y.C. Agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent.
New York,
A. H. SMITH, Gen'l Supt.,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

After Work or Exercise

POND'S EXTRACT

Soothes tired muscles, removes soreness and stiffness and gives the body a feeling of comfort and strength.

Don't take the weak, watery witch hazel preparations represented to be "the same as" Pond's Extract, which easily sour and generally contain "wood alcohol," a deadly poison.

Trial by jury in Britain dates from the reign of Ethered I., 866—871 A.D.

A man is generally at his heaviest in his fortieth year.

Shoes and Slippers

FOR SUMMER WEAR.

Ladies' Fine Low Shoes—ranging in price from 50c to $3.75

Ladies' Fine Strap Slippers—prices from 75c to $3.00

See our assortment of Children's Slippers, ranging in price from 25c to $1.25

We carry a large stock of Trunks and Valises, Dress Suit Cases, Club Bags, Cabin Trunks, etc.

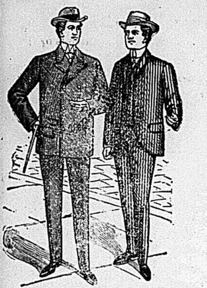
VERMILYEA & SON.

Sole Agents for the famous Queen Quality Shoe.

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY! 2 WEEKS

$5.00 Any Suit In This Great Clothing Store for $5.00

A STUPENDOUS CLOTHING OFFER WITHOUT PRECEDENT OR PARALLEL.



Some Suits $18, some $16, some $15, some $12, others $10. Just think of it! High grade, thoroughly tailored garments for Men, complete suits in fashionable fabrics, for

$5.00

This is just the opening gun in the great Mid-Summer Sale, in connection with this store. In every other department there will be equal sensational reductions. This Clothing Sale begins on July 11th and will end on July 25th. The earlier you come the better your choice as we anticipate a big rush.

The GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE.

Up-to-date Clothiers and Gents' Furnishiers, Look for the Globe Over The Door, 390 Front Street, Belleville.

Wall Paper

At first sight of our Wall Papers you will say there's an attractiveness about them that puts them lengths ahead of other lines.

IN STOCKING

we select only the best, we have no "shelf warmers" all our Papers are quick sellers. If you choose your Papers from us you have best value for the price obtainable anywhere.

Painting, Paperhanging and Decorating done on shortest notice by best workmen in the city.

JOHN CORNELIUS.
3 Doors South of Intelligencer Office.

NEW GOODS
JAPAN TEA

The first of this season's crop, exta quality, regular 50c line, we quote

40c Per lb.

Canned Halibut

Fine solid Fish, very tasty,

15c per can.

J. C. Hanley & Co.
GROCERS
Telephone 214

Flowers & Vegetables
Of all kinds in season.
... AT ...
J. D. COLLIP'S.
'Phone 205.

Western Beef.

Prime Western Beef together with all kinds of choice meats, supplied by the district, at

C. GREEN'S
267 Front St., 'Phone 109.

GODDESS OF LIBERTY

Solomon Sloan's Advice on How to Run the Universe.

Mr. Editor:—

If I were boss:—

There would be a new goddess. The Goddess of Liberty is too much of a myth.

Liberty is one of the things that would be grand and glorious, but unfortunately it does not exist.

The American people cut loose from Great Britain for the purpose of having their liberty. Did they get it?

They objected to taxation without representation. They insisted on the right of self-government.

How many people in the United States now are satisfied with the way taxes are levied? How many are satisfied with the people who levy them?

We wanted self-government. Did we get it? Is the President of the United States, the Governor of the State, the Mayor of the city, the Alderman from your own ward, the man you would have selected for the place?

How much has the average citizen to say about who shall govern him? Nothing. Even the political boss cannot always select the man he wants for the high places.

The man he wants in many cases would not stand a show of election, so the best thing he can do is to find a man that will partially suit him and can be elected.

And this is self-government! This is liberty!

The boy at home longs for the time when he shall be his own master, when he shall have his liberty.

He gets his liberty, the limited liberty that comes to any and all who dwell in a civilized community, and after a few years of it he is only too ready to limit his limited liberty still further by taking unto himself a wife and begetting himself a family.

The poor man longs for wealth that he may be at liberty to go where he pleases and do as he chooses.

The rich man sighs for the days of his poverty, for Wall street guides his movements, fashion dictates his place of abode, and his cook and his caterer even direct his thirsts and his appetites.

Liberty is an idle dream and the Goddess of Liberty a mockery and a sham.

We need a new goddess, and if I were boss we would have one.

If I were boss we would have on our flags and on our dollars a figure representing the Goddess of Duty.

Duty is an attainable ideal, Liberty is unattainable.

No man, however humble, but can do his duty—his duty to himself, to his family, to his employer, to the nation.

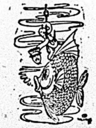
However high the ideals of liberty, the ideals of duty are immeasurably higher.

The man who does his duty to his fellow men is the highest type of man.

If I were boss heroic figures of the Goddess of Duty in the market places, in the exchanges, on the dollars, in the parks, would ever remind the nation of its duty, the man of his duty to himself and to the world.

Duty would be the American goddess and "E Pluribus Unum" would be always translated "duty," if I were boss.—Solomon Sloan.

No Time to Lose.



Tommy Bates (the elevator boy)—Hurry and catch on if you want to go up!

A Trying Occasion.

Smart Set.

"You are late, madam."

"You said 11."

"Yes, madam; but yesterday."

"My! how stupid! Did it matter?"

"It always matters with me madam."

"I am sorry. I beg your pardon."

"It is granted, madam. Slip this off, please."

"The waist first?"

"Oh, certainly. There. E cet, please."

"How is that?"

"Better. Emile, the pins."

"I'm sorry, now, you didn't let me have the other material. This looks——"

"Tut, madam. This will be perfect when it is completed."

"But——"

"You must allow me to be the judge, madam. Your elbow, please."

"The sleeve seems awkward."

"You do not know. Wait."

"Can I stand that so tight around my neck?"

"Certainly, madam. It is necessary."

"I am afraid that color——"

"Madam, you do not know. I am the judge."

"I think I am about to faint."

"How dare you, madam? Don't you see that I am in a hurry?"

A Few Years Hence.

The Wayfarer—Please can you help a poor man that can't git no work at his trade?

"What is your trade?"

"It used to be stealin' horses—when they was horses fer to be stole."—Indianapolis Press.

When the Veils Were Lifted

We saw three women in a street car that were disfigured.

One, when she smiled, showed a hideous cavity in her upper set of teeth.

One had a dark mole on her cheek, a repulsive mole, not one like that which Iachimo describes so amorously to the jealous king.

The third had an ugly mark on one side of her nose.

Apparently reconciled to their lot, they talked together in high glee, sisters in misfortune.

How handsome they would have been without those blemishes!

And we thought of stories—of Hawthorne's tale—of the old legend which tells how Gaultier won the daughter of Hippocrates and freed her from imprisonment in a snake's body by kissing her loathsome mouth.

Perhaps we dozed, for the sun was hot and the car was slow.

We looked again with a look of admiration tempered with respectful pity.

We rubbed our eyes. The women were radiant, without blemish.

They had all raised their black dotted net veils.—New York Evening World.

He Could Afford To.

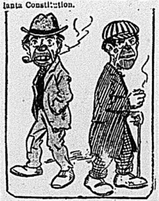
Guest (trying to be agreeable)—What an enormous number of magazines you must read, Mr. Millions! I notice your library table is piled high with them.

Millions (testily)—Must, my dear friend—must? I hope you'll admit I can afford to subscribe to every magazine that is published without being obliged to read one of them.

His Idea of It.

"Your Honor," said the lawyer to the rural Justice, "we appeal to a higher court."

"All right," replied the Justice, "take him out and lynch him."—Atlanta Constitution.



Both—Well I never seed a huglier mug in all my nat'ral!

CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY

CAPITAL

10,000 Shares 7 per cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, par value $100 each, $1,000,000
50,000 Shares Common Stock, par value $100, issued and fully paid 5,000,000
TOTAL CAPITALIZATION $6,000,000

Issues of $1,000,000 00 7 p.c. Preferred Stock in 10,000 Shares of $100 each at par.

This stock is preferred both as to Assets and Dividends.

The shares are entitled to cumulative preferred dividends from the net earnings of the Company, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable half yearly on the first days of April and October. They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at $115.00 per share, at any time after 1st January, 1909.

The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000.00, the whole of which is now offered.

Subsriptions for 10,000 Shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent. Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is $100 Share, as follows

per cent on application,
25 " " on allotment,
35 " " 30 days thereafter.
35 " " 60 days thereafter.

One share of Common, par value $100, given with each share of preferred.

The whole of instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of one per cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1 000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4000 acres of iron ore deposit, located Natashquan (tidewater) situated on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highet ever discovered, running from 69 per cent to 72 per cent in metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore has been received by the Company than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

Send for prospectus giving full information as to earnings, reports, etc., etc.

Address all communications and send subscriptions to

COLONIAL SECURITIES CO., 62 Wall Street, New York City OR W. L. MARSTON & COMPANY 110 State Street, Boston

The SAWYER COMPANY.
351 Temple Building, Montreal, Canada.

THE

Intelligencer Bindery

MAKES A SPECIALTY OF

Ledgers,
Journals,
Cash Books,
And all descriptions of Blank
Account
Books

Mailing Tubes

Gold Lettering on Leather Goods, &c.

MAGAZINES,
ART WORKS,
PERIODICALS,
SERIAL NUMBERS

NEATLY BOUND

Map Mounting & Varnishing

☞ Estimates cheerfully furnished for every class of work.

ADDRESS—

The Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONT.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Measurement Nonpareil—12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.
Subsequent consecutive insertions, 5c.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.
Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon usual or contract rates.
Minimum space, 10 lines.
Marriages and deaths, 50c each insertion
Births, 25c each insertion.
Rates for Condensed Advertisement will be found in 1st column of 2nd page.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of the Intelligencer.

Address all communications to the Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House Limited, or to Charles J. Bowell, Managing Director and Treasurer.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s Office, 30 Fleet Street, London, E. C.

CONDENSED ADVERTISEMENTS

TERMS.—Twenty-five words or less. 25c first insertion; two insertions, 50c; four insertions, 75c; one week $1.00, two weeks, $1.75, three weeks, $2.25; one month, $2.50. Strictly cash in advance.

WANTED.

Shirt makers wanted and apprentices to learn shirt making. Steady employment. Pay from the start. The Deacon Shirt Co, office 298 Front street.

40 teams, $3.50 per day, railroad work. Transportation free. Apply S. C. Phippen, Dundas street.

Cook, housemaid and laundress at the Belleville General Hospital. Liberal wages offered. Apply to Mrs. Clarke, 91 Victoria Avenue.

100 machinery moulders and coremakers. Steady work. Wages for moulders at least $4.00: coremakers $3.25. Address Post Office Box 511. Toronto. jy9-d10t

$6 per month will buy you a home anywhere under our plan. Live in it while paying for it Write for prospectus. Canadian Home Builders' Association, Manning Chambers, Toronto. jy11-6t

Have you spare time? Increase your income by work at night. Others are doing it. Our goods are used everyday everywhere. Write G. Marshall & Co., Teas, London, Ont.

Agents wanted, $2.50 per day. Apply Cooper, London, Ont. s27-1y

Young men ambitious to learn lucrative trades, of which there are eight in connection with the business. Apply The Belleville Hardware Company. Belleville, Ont. a7dtf

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

Stone house, 11 rooms, coal furnace, stable, barn. Large grounds. Cor. Frank and Moira Sts. north. Terms reasonable. H. Bull, on premises or Fred Bull, 133 Yonge St., Toronto. Terms easy. ap18-dtf

FOR SALE.

Shingles, shingles, dressed lumber, etc. GEO. WALTON & CO. jy14-1md

Two surreys, two phaetons, two buggies, one horse. Apply to H. L. CURRY, Pinnacle street. jy9-8td&16.23w

Dressed and Matched Lumber of all kinds, at ALFORD'S factory, Market Square. j12-tf

Contractors and masons, any any person requiring lime may procure it from E. G. STAPLEY, Canifton Road, Belleville. New lime always on hand. a9-d&w6m

TO RENT

A house on Moira street containing 8 rooms. All modern conveniences. Possession on or before 20th July.—Adam Henry.. dtf

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

New train 12.45 a.m., daily, except Sunday, for Brockville, Montreal and intermediate stations.
No. 16—Local, for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 2—1.45 a.m., Mail and Express, (Flyer), Daily.
No. 6—11.43 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.22 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 12—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5—3 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily except Monday.
No. 3—4.10 a.m., Limited Express, Daily.
No. 9—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 11—11.22 a.m., Passenger, Daily except Sunday.
No. 1—1.48 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7—5.12 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

Taking effect 12.01 o'clock, Sunday, June 14, 1903.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	9.10 a.m.	7.30 a.m.
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

THINGS RIGHT AND WRONG.

IT IS RIGHT TO

1. To break bread, muffins or biscuits at table.
2. To moderate one's speaking voice and to enunciate clearly and distinctly.
3. To answer at once an invitation to any social function, accepting or declining definitely.
4. To sign one's christian name to all communications. For example: "Sincerely yours, Henrietta Jones."
5. To speak of trousers and waistcoats.
6. For a gentleman to walk in the side nearest the curbstone when accompanying a lady.
7. To eat with a fork whenever possible. Iced creams, water ices and berries are eaten with a fork.
8. To use a knife at table only for cutting meat or fowl or game.
9. To place a spoon used for tea or coffee upon the saucer as soon as it has served its purpose.
10. To use a saltspoon where individual salts are not placed at each cover.
11. For a gentleman to remain standing until after ladies have been seated at table; to assist the lady whom he has escorted to the dining-room.
12. To reserve all matters pertaining to the toilet for the privacy of one's dressing-room (the care of the teeth included).
13. To accept a first invitation when possible to do so.
14. For people in deep mourning to decline an invitation to a social function without a written explanation. A card sent with black border conveys its own reason.
15. To take soup from the side of the bowl of the spoon.
16. To drink moderately a small quantity at a time, holding goblet or wineglass by the stem.
17. For a gentleman to throw away his cigar, or at least remove it from his mouth, when bowing to a lady.
18. For a gentleman to remove his hat when offering a lady his arm, and to do so in the manner represented by the illustration.
19. To hold the fork in the right hand when eating, with the tines forming a bowl shape. Illustration.
20. To raise the fork to the mouth with the right hand so that the fork shall be almost parallel with the mouth. Illustration.

IT IS WRONG TO

1. To cut sliced bread, buscuits or muffins.
2. To roar or scream, even at one's family or servants.
3. To answer an invitation to a luncheon, breakfast or dinner in a doubtful or hesitating manner.
4. To make use of a title as a signature. For example: "Mrs. Colonel Jones," or "Mrs. Hannah Brown."
5. To speak of pants and vests.
6. For a gentleman when accompanying a lady to permit her to walk "on the out side." When walking with two ladies to walk between them.
7. To eat anything from a spoon which can be properly conveyed to the mouth by the aid of a fork.
8. To use a knife for cutting lettuce, fish or vegetables.
9. To leave a spoon in a cup of tea or coffee.
10. To take salt with one's knife from a general salt-cellar.
11. For a gentleman to seat himself at table before ladies have been seated and to remain seated after ladies have made the first movement towardrising.
12. To use toothpicks in public; unpardonable at table.
13. To decline a first invitation without giving satisfactory and legitimate excuse for so doing.
14. To send invitations for ordinary functions to a household during the first month of their affliction. Weddings only are excepted.
15. To make a noise while taking soup, or to blow hot liquids with the object of cooling them.
16. To drink the entire contents of glass or cup at one attack. To hold glass or cup by the bowl.
17. For a gentleman to speak to a woman with his cigar in his mouth, or to smoke in her presence without asking and receiving her permission to do so.
18. For a gentleman to seize a lady by the elbow with an intention of aiding her.
19. To pile food upon the back of the fork, holding it upside down for this purpose. Illustration.
20. To jerk the hand with the fork around to the mouth with an awkward bend of the elbow and to bring the fork directly opposite the mouth. Illustration.

FACTS ABOUT ANIMALS

A species of fish is said to have been discovered in New Zealand which burrows in the sand, and it is reported that farmers often find it alive buried in the beach some distance from the water.

Butterflies invariably sleep head downward. They raise their wings and hold them back to back against each other so that from above they are almost invisible. Moths fold their outer wings tightly down over the brightly colored under wings. In each case the manner of folding their wings serves as protection.

A rattlesnake's bite, it is said equals in poisonousness the combined bites of 3,500 mosquitoes.

A new species of mountain sheep has been found in Alaska. It is known as the "saddle-backed" or "piebald" sheep. Its head, neck and breast are of snow white. The other portions of the body are brownish gray.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Store Closed Every Wednesday During July and August at 12 O'Clock Noon.

SALE ENTHUSIASM

Even the exceedingly warm weather does not effect the buying enthusiasm resultant from our low price offerings.

The factories in Europe and America are already turning out goods destined for our Fall showing

To accommodate these, the goods now left on our shelves must go at once.

This and our rule of not carrying goods past their season are secrets of our low prices and the large crowds daily visiting our store.

These visits mean from 25% to 35% saved on nearly every dollar spent.

Of some goods there are only ends, others of which we had large quantities contain more. All are priced much below regular to clear our shelves for summer goods. A bargain awaits you.

Half Price Muslins and Ginghams.

For us as a Wash Goods season—this has been a distinct success in at least two important features. Firstly, and most important, the ability of our assortment to satisfy all. Secondly, the greatly increased quantity we have sold.

But good stock as they may be now their value passes with the season. So out they go.

A careful inspection has revealed several pieces we are desirous of clearing.

Many of our fine Scotch Ginghams and French Muslins are among these. All are on sale at our Wash Goods counter at just Half Price.

A more deserving offering we have never made.

—Fine Persian stripe colored Muslin suitable for fine Waists, was 50c for .... .25
—Fine Washable Ginghams were 15c, 20c 25c, and 30c for 8c, 10c, 12c, and .... .15
—Fine White Waistings were 15 to 30c for HALF PRICE.

STYLISH HATS

Every day or so some new styles come from the fashion centres to keep our assortment at their "up to-date" point.

The latest arrivals are new Black Chiffon Hats.

Being the latest, the pretty styles and low price will recommend them to all.

—New Black tucked Chiffon Hats plenty of material .. 3.25
—A limited number of flowers, which we desire to clear, some were priced as high as $1 50 while they remain .... .10
—REMEMBER OUR HALF PRICE COLERED MILLINERY.
—A table of odds and ends of trimmings, some were as high as $1.00 yd. for .... .10

REASONS FOR PROSPERITY

There are reasons of the constant healthy growth in the volume of sales from our made-to-order clothing department.

One is our REPUTATION for low price dependable goods.

Another, TRUTHFUL ADVERTISING, years have proven to all that if it's in our ad it's true.

Another, probably the most telling reason of all. One which by itself would make these desirable garments.

The excellence in workmanship and fit and high class appearance perceptible in every 20th century article of clothing.

Have we yet convinced you that this feature of wholesale tailoring will save you dollars on your next suit without injuring your self respect.

If not five minuite in this departmet will do so.

—Samples of the very latest cloths to choose from, made from your measure, $10.00 to $25.00

UNDERWEAR

MEN'S
UNDERWEAR.

The Underwear problem either HAS or IS bothering most men these days.

If you purchased here, remember our guarantee goes with whatever you have.

If you have not bought your supply come in and see what our IDEAL buying and selling methods can save you even on the cheapest.

Every desireable brand is represented, and all marked at prices which have won this store its reputation for low cash selling.

Here is a cool line.

—Men's fine fish net Underwear with ½ length sleeves at 50c and .... 1.00 per suit.
—Fine Balbriggan Underwear for men and boys at per garment .38 —Sale Agents for Linocelle Underwear, made from pure Irish linen the best on the market, per garment 2.50

BATHING SUITS

Feel like going for a swim these warm days?

We have just the bathing suit you want at a moderate price.

Perhaps you are off for a vacation. If so there is no more important part of your outfit than this if you are going anywhere near the water. All kinds in stock—we mention these.

—Boys' swimming Trunks with elastic tops 7c, 10c, 15c, .. .20
—Men's and Boy's Bathing Suits, one piece 50c and 65c, two pieces 125

Agents for Standard Patterns.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

CLOTHING BOUGHT HERE PRESSED FREE OF CHARGE

Everything

Is Thoroughly

Good

That's certain, at QUICK & ROBERTSON'S—we are more particular about giving than you are in getting it perhaps.

But there are other reasons why you should buy at this store where quality is the first consideration.

We not only make goodness certain by applying every known test for quality, but are equally as careful to price that goodness as common as the ordinary sorts are priced elsewhere.

HERE are a few suggestions of summer fixin's that should interest men and mothers of boys.

FOR BOYS.

Vacation Suits and other wear, things that after good hard wear show the difference between our good sorts at our common prices and cheap sorts, which cost a little less.

—Regulation Sailor Blouse Suits, Cheviot mixtures, stripes and serges. .... $1.25 to $4.50

—Norfolk Jackets, single and double-breasted suits for older boys, extensive showing of plain and fancy mixtures .... $2.00 to $5.00

—Washable Sailor Suits 50c to $1.50.

—Wash Waists and Blouses, 25c to $1.00.

FOR MEN.

—SUMMER SUITS—Such as are impossible to obtain except at the best custom tailors—perfect fitting, stylish garments, suited to men who want the out-of-the-ordinary sorts. Homespuns, Tropical Serges, Worsteds and Flannels........................ $3.75 to $12.00

—OUTING TROUSERS $1.00 to $4.00.

—NEGLIGE SHIRTS—In stripes and patterned materials, such as custom shirt makers would show you as their newest—plain or plaited bosoms.......... 50c to $1.50

—STRAW HATS—Every one new, the largest assortment of the smartest shapes the best makers have produced.

Sailors, in low crown .... 50c to $2.00

Panama shape, the right ones .... 75c to $2.50

QUICK & ROBERTSON

Here is where you buy Johnston's Clothing for Men and Boys.

Frozen Dreams

You will find a peculair flavor, richness and smoothness in all Ice Cream, water ices and sherbets made in a

White Mountain Freezer

that you cannot obtain in any other.

It is so constructed that it freezes the cream perfectly and quickly and the result is that you procure frozen dreams of delicoious things such as you have never dreamed could be made.

The W. W. CHOWN Company, Limited

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines, or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

Pretty Home Wedding.

A very pretty home wedding took place in St. Ola at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Clark, on Friday last, when their only daughter, Estella, was married to Rev. F. W. White, B.A., of Enterprise. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. C. Beer, of London, uncle of the groom, assisted by the Rev. W. J. M. Cragg, B.A., B.D., St. Ola. The bride wore a gown of white taffeta silk, trimmed with applique, and with a shirred chiffon yoke and under sleeves. She wore a veil of silk tulle, fastened with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bride's going-away gown was of navy blue cloth, with hat to match.

1,000 ISLANDS AND ROCHESTER.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian" leave Belleville for Thousand Islands at 3.25 p.m., daily except Mondays. Fare $1.00. Returning Str. leaves at 11.38 p.m. for Rochester, N.Y. m20d&w3m

Summer Necessities

BATH SPONGES
SEA SALT
CHAMOIS
TALCUM POWDERS
TOILET WATERS
TOOTH BRUSHES
TOOTH POWDERS
WITCH HAZEL CREAM.

—AT—

WATERS'

Notice.

Beginning on Monday, the 20th day of July, Messrs.

GREENLEAF & SON

will (excepting Saturdays) close their store at 7 o'clock p.m.

Parties wishing to rent wheels will have to arrange for them before that hour.

Of Interest to Many.

Mr. T. H. Wickett, of this city, who is at present travelling in the North-west territories, writing to Mrs. Wickett from Indian Head, under date of July 4th says: We have had a three days heavy rain fall here, and although it was very much needed, yet the crops have not suffered to any great extent. The prospects are bright for an enormous wheat yield. Every person is jubilant and old 'timers say that even though there is no more rain this season, a big crop and an unprecedented early harvest is now assured. In conversation to-day with Mayor Bell (of Bell farm fame) he informed me that this last rain fall will increase the production in this district by two million bushels, and the prospects are that there will be an insrease of price over previous years of about 15c per bushel.

PIMPLES AND BLOTCHES.

How unsightly, sometimes disgusting, mortifying to the sufferer and unpleasant to all. An evidence of poor blood and lowered vitality of the eliminating organs. They need toning up—the whole system does. You can quickly bring about the improved condition by using Ferrozone. Poisons are driven out of the blood, organs grow stronger, the blood richer, the nerves stronger. Pimples and blotches disappear, color becomes good. Glad! just try and see how much joy can be gotten out of a box of Ferrozone.

Courting Capture.

If reports are correct, Charles Quackenbush, who escaped from the Central Prison is apparently courting capture. He was seen about Toronto on Saturday and on Sunday and Monday was reported to be in this section of the country, being at Twelve o'Clock Point.

CATARRH IS A GERM DISEASE.

Science, armed with the microscope, has established it a fact, and this conclusion renders obsolete the practice of treating asthma, catarrh and bronchitis by stomach drugging, sprays, snuffs, etc. Such treatments are an utter failure because they cannot penetrate the delicate air cells of the lungs, or permeate the air passages of the nose and bronchial tubes, where the germs of catarrh have their stronghold. Catarrhozone is the only certain remedy. It is inhaled by the mouth and after spreading through all the respiratory organs is exhaled through the nostrils. Catarrhozone kills the germs, heals the inflamed tissues, clears the head and throat in two minutes, and cures in a few hours. Nothing is so effective, pleasant and simple as Catarrhozone. Two months' treatment $1.00. Small size 25c. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

MEN OF THE NORTH

GREATEST "TWELFTH" EVER HELD IN NORTH HASTINGS—33 LODGES IN LINE.

Monday, the 13th of July, 1903, will be remembered for many years by the Orangemen of North Hastings and their thousands of admirers as "the big Twelfth." Every Orange and True Blue lodge in North and Central Hastings was present in greater numerical strength than ever, and to these were added several lodges from South Hastings, making in all twenty-nine "stand of colors." The immense demonstration was held in the rapidly growing and enterprising Village of Marmora, and didn't Marmora "put her best foot foremost," and prove equal to the occasion? You can believe she did. Fact is, not much else has been talked of around those regions for months but "the coming Twelfth." So everyone was on "the tiptoe of expectancy," and best of all the most sanguine anticipations have been far more than realized. When did they commence coming?—it could not have been long after the stroke of twelve on Sunday night when many started, and from that until eleven on Monday morning every avenue to the "Orange walk" was crowded with vehicles of all kinds: in the Huntingdon contingent alone there was counted two hundred and twenty buggies and wagons, the procession of these being half a mile long. Four trains from the north and two from the South had "standing room only." These trains were not "solid vestibuled Pullman cars," but never mind, it was the anniversary of

"When William conquered, and when James retired,
When Providence o'er William's temples held,
On Boyne's propitious banks the heavenly shield,"

And any old thing was good enough if but by any means one could share in the glad event.

How many all told were there? Certainly not less than five thousand, possibly six, perhaps more, for the crowds were constantly on the go, and it was hard to estimate.

Of course there were Orange arches and loyal mottoes spanning all the streets, only there were more of them than usual, while from all the houses of anybody who amounted to anything, some "bit of bunting" was flying to the breeze, and, by the way, there was a breeze, "so deliciously refreshing," we heard one young thing, with a lisp, not yet out of her teens, tell her delight at the temperature of the day. Well, barring the lisp, she expressed the universal opinion.

Having been on the road from before daylight, as so many were, and all having had an unusually early breakfast, dinner was the first consideration after having got "brushed up a bit," and herein is where the Methodist Church of Marmora shone that day. The Church is sometimes charged with not caring enough about people's bodies, and perhaps the charge is well founded. It may have been that the followers of the Rev. John Wesley in the northern metropolis (with apologies to Madoc) had been reading up his life and found how much "applied Christianity" he put into every day by caring for people's "inards," or it may have been—we say it MAY have been—the prospect of "much gain." However, we will let that go. Anyway, that church provided dinner and tea for the thousands. My! if after all that cooking and stewing and dish washing, it had turned out a wet day! but then it didn't, and "all's well that ends well." A structure had been specially put up with a roof on it, tables for seven hundred erected with seats along side them, and everyone supplied with knife, fork, plate and spoons. What do you think of that herculean task for a handful of people to undertake? The Orangemen were pledged to stand by the church, and loyally they did it, for possibly four thousand meals were served. Added to this, were booths on the streets and on the grounds, where refreshments and fruits and candies, galore, could be had. All were "run" by the church people, and how they did work! We specially noticed three former Bellevillians, Messrs. Frank S., Reginald and William Pearce, the two former had refreshment booths, and had pressed into their assistance a score or so of helpers, one of whom was no less than a professor of Cornell University, over here enjoying the blessings of freedom, and Mr. William Pearce had a tent with a phonograph in it, where, at "two tunes for five cents," the dimes came in.

For five mortal hours the Frankford and Marmora baseball clubs wrestled in the game of their lives to settle old scores, the match being finally given to Marmora.

We forgot to say that all these doings and other things yet to be told took place in the finest Agricultural Park in this county, or, for the matter of that, in any other county.

Then came the marshalling of the lodges for the grand parade. The Grand Marshall was Mr. H. J. Boyd, of Marmora—he would have made a general had he gone into the army, so dexterously did he get the men into line. It was an imposing procession, took twenty-one minutes to pass a given spot, and contained fifteen hundred Orangemen and True Blues, also a wagon filled with Lady True Blues. The procession was headed by the Stirling brass band, and each lodge had its fifes and drums, excepting one, which was led by bagpipes. The appearance of the procession was much enhanced by so many lodges having uniform dress and regalia, the ones that had not looked rather "off color," literally. The following is a list of the Orange lodges, with the Master's names, number of the lodges and place where it meets:

North Hastings.

County Master, James Spurr, L'Amable.

District Masters—No. 1, A. Kenighan, Monteagle Valley; No. 2 H. T. Boldrick, Bancroft.

74.—Eugene Toms, Highland Grove.
180.—James Grant, Maynooth.
276.—Hugh Wilcox, Monteagle Valley.
315.—Jeremiah Welsh, Fort Stewart
1111.—Chester Card, Maynooth.
1183.—Robert Walker, L'Amable.
1194.—Wm. Bennet, Combermore.

Central Hastings.

County Master—W. H. Rollins, Ivanhoe.

District Masters—No. 1 T. H. Matthews, Wellman's Corners; No. 2 James White, Madoc; No. 3, T. B. Reynolds, Madoc; No. 4, W. H. Nugent, Coe Hill Mines.

102.—James Gilmore, Ormsby.
110.—R. Eggleton, Stirling.
160.—Thos. Thompson, Madoc.
172.—Robert Cleugh, Wellman's Corners.
251.—Charles Rose, Holloway.
253.—Thos. Broad, Rimington.
285.—James S. Nickle, Malone.
300.—Jas. W. Haggerty, West Huntingdon.
319.—Joseph H. Warren, Marmora.
435.—W. W. Collins Crookston.
437.—F. O. Diamond, Queensboro.
442.—Samuel Stephens, Springbrook.
509.—E. Johnston, Rawdon.
517.—Edgar Fox, Eldorado.
907.—James Bryden, Flinton.
1070.—J. H. Cleveland, Millbridge.
1094.—Thos. B. Watt, Coe Hill.
1133.—J. N. Moore, Hazzard's Corners.
1389.—J. B. Thompson, St. Ola.

South Hastings.

94.—Wm. Montgomery, Hungerford.
240.—B. B. Ostrom, Frankford.
392.—Albert Blakely, Hungerford.

When the procession returned to the Agricultural Park, after traversing the chief streets of the village, a platform meeting was ozganized, with the County Master, Mr. W. H. Rollins, of Ivanhoe, as Chairman, when addresses were delivered in the following order, by the Chairman, Rev. D. S. Houck, of Marmora; Mr. Wm. Johnson, of Belleville, Past Provincial Grand Master; Rev. S. A. Duprau, Past Grand Chaplain, Belleville; Rev. Dr. Nimmo, Belleview; Mr. A. W. Carscallen, M.P., Marmora, and Rev. C. M. Harris, Marmora. The speeches were listened to by a large audience and were much appreciated.

A committee, composed of Past Grand Master Johnson, County Master W. H. Rollins and Thomas C. McConnell, Provincial Grand Treasurer of the Black Knights, had been selected to award a prize of a $10 Bible for the lodge that presented the best appearance and marched steadiest. This committee decided in favor of L.O.L. No. 509, of Rawdon, the Worshipful Master of which is Mr. E. Johnston, of Minto.

In the evening a concert took place. We learn from a despatch from Marmora that the net proceeds of the day will be about $1,200. Of this $1,000 goes to the Methodist Church and $200 to L.O.L. No. 319.

RAIN PROOF COATS.

A proper rain proof coat always does duty as a light overcoat. Get a good one at the Oak Hall for $10, $12 or $15. Travelling or going on an occasional excursion you ought to have just such a coat. We have all the cheaper grades—$2 to $8.

Sports and Pastimes

SPORTING NOTE AND COMMENT.

A Record for Trotting Mares.

Cleveland, July 11.—Before 12,000 people Lou Dillon to-day broke the world's record for trotting mares by one-fourth of a second, going a mile in 2.03 1-2. It was the second fastest mile ever trotted, Cresceus alone having a better mark. Mildred Sanders was in the sulky, and two runners accompanied the little mare. Lou got away at the first trial, stepping like a whirlwind. At no time did she falter. She reached the first quarter in 31 1-4, the half in 1.01 3-4, three-quarters in 1.32 1-2, and finished the mile in 2.03 1-2, amid tremendous cheering.

FISHING.

The Provincial Fisheries Department draws attention to the fact that by a recent amendment to the law prohibiting the sale of bass, maskinonge and speckled trout, which expired on July 1st inst., has been extended until July 1, 1906.

Elected Directors.

The annual meeting of The Atlas Arsenic Co. was held at their office here to-day, and the following gentlemen were elected to the board of directors:

C. S. Griffin, Cleveland, O., President.

W. A. Hungerford, Belleville, Ont., Vice-President

A. M. Britton, Cleveland, O., Sec'y-Treasurer.

G. S. Selover and H. S. Newberry, Cleveland, O., directors.

Feet Keep Cool on the Hottest Day.

IF YOU HAVE "FOOT ELM" IN YOUR SHOES.

It's wonderful, what a cool, soothing, refreshing feeling is imparted to your feet when you use "Foot Elm." It relieves burning and itching, allays swelling and inflammation, heals sore, raw, blistered spots and gives you comfort with your feet on the hottest day.

Price 25 cents a box of 18 powders at druggists or by mail. B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

Old Coughs New coughs are bad enough; old coughs are worse. They make you think of bronchitis or consumption. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cures consumption. Not all cases, but very many. 25c., 50c., $1.00. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

BATTLE OF THE BOYNE.

THE GATHERING OF ORANGE SOCIETIES AT DESERONTO WAS LARGE.

The celebration of the Battle of the Boyne at Deseronto on Monday was in every respect a great success. Lodges of Orangemen, 'Prentice Boys and True Blues wre present from many places, and when upon parade made an imposing appearance. The procession was one of the largest seen in this district for some time. After parading through the principal streets, the societies halted at the park and speeches were the order of the day. Those who spoke were: Rev. Messrs. Leach, White, McTavish, Castigan, Rogers, McCreegan. Messrs. W. P. Hudson, ex-M.P.P. and W. Boulter, Mayor of Picton. It is estimated that between 5,000 and 6,000 visitors were in the town during the day. The proceedings passed off pleasantly.

WHAT OLD AGE IS.

A FRENCHMAN'S DEFINITION AND HIS DECLARATION THAT PEOPLE SHOULD LIVE TO 140.

Do you wish to know what causes old age? It is merely "the consequence of a hypertrophy of the phagocytes, or white corpuscles which, having vanquished and devoured their natural enemies, the microbes, are obliged to batten at last, for lack of food, upon the nobler organs of the human frame." This is what Elie Metchnikoff, professor in the Pasteur Institute in Paris, says. The layman might suppose from this that the ideal protection against the stealing steps of old age would be exposure to a select assortment of microbes, to give the phagocytes something to do; but probably the medical man would not agree with him.

People generally will be interested in Metchnikoff's belief that we wear ourselves out prematurely. He declares that we should live to 140 years. He says:

"From twenty to 50 a man should live for himself and his family; from 50 to 100 for science and humanity, and after 100 for the state. Honored, useful, in full possession of all his faculties at six score years and ten, the graybeard of the approaching future will be among the most enviable of mankind. For the fear of death is an aberration. The fact is that only one man in a million at present dies a natural death. A man who expires at 70 or 80 is the victim of accident, cut off in the flower of his days, and he unconsciously resents being deprived of the 50 years or so which Nature owes him. Leave him a little longer and in due time he will desire to die, as a child at dusk desires to sleep. The sandman will pass."

Oddfellows' Relief Association.

The annual meeting of the Oddfellows' Relief Association was held at Kingston to-day. Those present from this city were; Messrs. J. T. Osborne, L. C. Pascoe, N. M. Ostrom, L. B. Cooper, J. S. McKeown and W. J. Diamond.

As They Have It 'Cross the Line

His hoss went dead an' his mule went lame;
He lost six cows in a poker game;
A hurricane come on a summer's day,
An' carried the house where he lived away;
Then a airthquake came when that wuz gone,
An' swallered the lan' that the house stood on
An the tax collector he came 'round
An' charged him up ter the hole in the groun'.
An' the city marshal, he come in view,
An' said he wanted his street tax,
tew.

Did he moan an' sigh? Did he set an' cry
An' cuss the hurricane sweepin' by?
Did he grieve that his ol' friends failed to call
When the airthquake came and swal-lered all?
Never word of blame he said,
With all them troubles on top o' his head.
Not him—he clumb to the top o'
the hill,
Whar' standin' room wuz left him still,
An' barin' his head, here's what he said:
"I reckon it's time to git up an'
git,
But, Lord, I hain't had the measles yit."

C A ROBINSON.

WOOL CRASH.

People are asking what it is. Wool crash is a sort of misnomer. It is not crash, but simply a light cool worsted in a crash weave. Hold it up to the light—you can see through it. Yet it's as tough and strong almost as thick beaver, and wiry enough to hold its shape. For a cool summer vacation knockabout suit, wool crash takes the lead. Good enough, too, for business. Come, see! Suit prices, $3.75, $5, $6 and $7.50.—Quick & Robertson, Belleville's Best Clothiers.

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc. Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mr. J. S. McKeown went to Kingston to-day.

Mr. John Taylor is spending a few days at Wellington.

Col. Lazier and wife are summering at the Sand Banks.

Miss Pearl Fanning left to-day for Cornwall and Montreal.

Mrs. Geo. McCarthy and Miss Evalyn leave for Cleveland to-morrow.

Rev. Eli and Mrs. Woodcock have gone to Brockville for a prolonged visit.

Mrs. Stratton, of this city, is visiting Mrs. Cornovsky, at Kingston.

Misses Nettie and Lottie Watson left to-day to attend the convention at Detroit.

Misses Mary and Annie McKenna left this morning for Toronto and Niagara.

Mrs. F. P. Meudell and Miss Corlette are registered at the London, Eng., office of the Globe.

Miss Lena and Master Robbie Watson, of Deseronto, are visiting their grandparents, Albert street.

Mrs. (Dr.) Clinton and her little daughter will shortly leave for a visit with friends in Sheboygan, Michigan.

Mrs. J. S. Bonar and children left to-day for their home at Cornwall, accompanied by Mrs. W. H. Meyers, of Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Rev. Dr. Meacham, of Toronto, was a passenger on the steamer Corsican going east this morning. He was greeted by friends at the dock. He is to be at Glenora for several weeks.

Dr. Clarke and Mrs. Clarke and daughter leave to-morrow morning for Georgian Bay and upper lakes for a month's holidays.

Rev. Principal Dyer and family left the city this morning to spend some time at the old St. Lawrence camp meeting ground in Brockville.

The many friends of Wm. Cornelius will be pleased to learn that he will shortly return to the city, fully restored to health.

Professor S. J. Courtice who has been so popular at Albert College for the past two years, has decided to sever his connection with the college.

Mrs. (Prof.) Willmott and Miss Kathleen Farley are spending a few days in Deseronto, after which Miss Farley will return to her home in Toronto.

At the Quinte:—J. McLellan, A. M. Boyington, J. A. MacDougall, Wm. Wilson, J. Owen, P. J. Edwards, J. E. Kent, W. A. Haight, Toronto; J. A. Lynch and family, St. Louis; F. J. McDonough and wife, Peterboro; F. A. Simmons, New York; T. P. Pelham and wife, R. Chase and wife, J. J. Daggett and wife, Buffalo; W. A. Hayes and niece, Rochester; C. C. Rance, Clinton; A. Ulley and wife, Montreal; D. Rupert, London; Mr. and Mrs. Peregrienne, Trenton; W. Connaford, Brantford.

A MORNING WEDDING.

TWO WELL-KNOWN YOUNG RESIDENTS OF THIS CITY UNITED FOR LIFE.

At the vestry of the John Street Presbyterian Church at 10 o'clock this morning a wedding took place, the participants being well known residents of the city. The bride was Miss Minnie Corbett, daughter of Mrs Hugh Corbett, Albert street and the groom Mr. Thos. Palos, machinist. Rev. A. H. Drumm was the officiating minister. The bridesmaid was Miss Lizzie Corbett, sister of the bride and Mr. Harry Palos, a brother of the groom, did honors for him. After the nuptial knot had been tied the wedding party repaired to the residence of the bride's mother, where a repast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Palos left at noon for Montreal, and will visit other places before returning to the city. The bride received many useful and beautiful presents. The congratulations of a large circle of friends will be extended to the young couple.

In the Justice Shop.

Assault.

Willie Colden admitted that he assaulted a lad named B. Taugher and a fine of $3 was imposed.

Vagrants.

Wm. Ryan and Garnet Hunt, two young men but 17 years of age, were arrested at an early hour this morning, being found asleep in the carters' office. The Magistrate allowed them to go east as they desired.

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

—— AT ——

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON'S

Just received from Manchester, England, several pieces of White Mercerized Mattings in fine, coarse and fancy weaves, to retail at - - 25c the yd

ALSO Wool Yak Laces

From Germany, these are the popular trimmings for Shirt Waists and Dresses, in great demand, to retail at 10c to 20c the yd.

The latest New York Style in Collars for the Ladies wear. "The Pauline."

We ask your special attention to the three foregoing items.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

DIRECT IMPORTERS

Daily Intelligencer.

THE INTELLIGENCER IS SOLD AT J. W. London's and G. Wardhaugh's.

Local Reading Advertisements,

words 50 cents; 2 cents per word first insertion, per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words; contracts for long periods made at office.

PERFECT TALCUM POWDER

If you wish a talcum powder that will heal and soothe and not irritate, that makes the skin soft and smooth instead of dry and harsh, that is practically invisible, that is antiseptic and delightfully perfumed, you will find just what you are looking for in our EUTHYMOL TALCUM POWDER—This exquisite preparation is dainty and perfectly harmless—good for babies or adults. It is as good a powder as can be bought anywhere at any price. It costs but 25c for a box with a sifting top.

McKEOWN'S DRUG STORE.

Rowntree's Empress Queen Chocolate

A dainty package, a delicious eating chocolate, a convenient price, 10c a package.

CHAS. S. CLAPP

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL $5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits, payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE, No. 46 Bridge St., Belleville.

J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

MONITOR

This is another fine Mantle Clock, not quite so expensive as Gadski in last week's advertisement, but fully as serviceable. It is an eight-day hour and half strike on cathedral gong, fancy columns with trimmings and drop handles, in every way a beautiful clock. Our price only $5 50.

T. BLACKBURN.

Eyes examined free of charge. Jeweller & Optician.

Going to Make Room!

Our Import Goods are coming too fast, that we are getting crowded for room.

We will have to make a big sacrifice in our China and Crockery department, slaughter will be the word.

Cost price or any other price will not be taken into account, come and get China and Crockery—at ridiculous prices.

McINTOSH BROS.

WOMAN'S HOUSEHOLD

The Household Pests.

Every house is invaded at some time or other by some variety of household pest.

Whether it be in the form of Croton bugs, mice or bedbugs, the result is the same—to drive a careful housekeeper to distraction.

The best thing to keep away mice is a cat; the next best thing is a trap. Few housekeepers know, however, that mice will not go near a trap unless it is thoroughly scalded and aired after every three or four captures.

Paris green will effectually destroy roaches and Croton bugs. It should be sprinkled sparingly around the places they frequent. Cloride of lime will also keep away water bugs.

Borax is an enemy to red ants. It is very difficult to get rid completely of these little pests once they have invaded a house.

Many housekeepers keep them out of refrigerators by placing each leg of the refrigerator in a saucer of water. The water must be renewed each day before it evaporates, and will prove an effectual barrier to armys of red ants.

Bedbugs are the bane of every woman's existence. The advent of the iron bed has done much to help rid houses of them, but still they will gather in carpets, closets and woodwork unless carefully watched. This is especially true of apartment houses.

Cut Glass and Bric-a-Brac

Clean water and a proper mixture is the secret of keeping glass brilliant.

If mirrors are very dull and speckled, the following fluid is excellent: Take a small portion of whiting and add sufficient cold tea to make a paste; rub the specks from the glasses' surfaces with warm tea, dry with a soft cloth; rub a little of the paste well on the mirror and polish dry with tissue paper. Stains and finger marks may be removed from a looking-glass by rubbing with a soft cloth wet with alcohol.

Discolored ivory may be restored to its original whiteness by soaking it in water and while wet inclosing it in a glass jar and exposing it to the strong rays of the sun. Repeat the process until the ivory is bleached.

China which has become discolored should be treated to a thorough scouring with coal ashes.

Marble is best cleaned with the following mixture: Four tablespoonfuls of baking soda, two of pumicestone and two of precipitated chalk. Add water until these ingredients are of a paste consistency. Rub preparation on marble, then wash it off with tepid soapsuds.

Bric-a-brac is generally in a dingy condition at the end of winter. If it is gummy, rub with dry salt or baking soda. A strong solution of ammonia and water will clean a piece of bric-a-brac thoroughly if an old toothbrush is vigorously used in immersing the article in the solution.

When Moths Corrupt.

An ounce of camphor is worth a pound of sachet!

That clothes are perfectly clean and free from dust is the first requisite for their preservation against the dissolute moth, common garden or "Buffalo" variety.

Blankets should be washed carefully and aired in the sun for two or three hours and then put away with each fold filled with camphor in chests lined with white shelf-paper.

Furs placed in tar paper bags and hung up in a roomy closet, with crushed camphor placed in the pockets, will defy the greatest moth gourmnd if every now and then during the season they are taken out and aired.

Woollen goods and silk articles may be prevented from turning yellow by placing pieces of bees wax about the goods. Silk fabrics should never be kept folded for any length of time in white paper, as the chloride of lime in the paper will impair the color of the silk.

To prevent creasing lay newspapers without opening in the folds of the goods and fold them up together.

Laces and fine white goods should be folded in blue paper. This prevents their turning darker.

All Kinds of Stains.

To clean knives nothing is better than the old fashioned brick dust.

Mud stains should be allowed to dry, then thoroughly brushed with a dry cloth and the spots removed by rubbing with alcohol.

Grease stains are eradicated most effectually with benzine. The liquid should be rubbed back and forth over the stain until it has disappeared. It will not then leave a ring.

On silverware, stains require prompt attention, or they take too long to remove. Sulphuric acid will remove the stain left by medicine. Dip the spoon in the acid, repeating the process until it has disappeared, then wash it in very hot water. To remove egg stain from silver rub it with table salt.

Ink stains on furniture use this: Add six drops of niter to a teaspoonful of water and apply to the ink stain with a feather. If the ink does not yield to this, make mixture stronger and repeat process.

On carpets, grease or gummy dirt stains may be removed by rubbing on them the following mixture: One bar of good soap to two teaspoonfuls of sal-soda and saltpeter and four quarts of boiling water. When cool add six ounces of aqua-ammonia. Bottle and use as required.

On pictures, soap should never be used. Wash the painting gently with clear warm water, dry with a piece of cheese-cloth, then rub it with a clean cloth saturated with olive oil.

Borax is best to use for stained tinware. Should the inside of a tin teapot or coffee pot be discolored boil it in strong borax solution for a short time and all its first brightness will return.

BACHELOR'S REFLECTIONS

All's fair in love and the millinery business.

There is no man who knows how he is going to act when he falls in love, and no woman who doesn't.

When a woman goes away from home the letters she writes her husband are half to make him jealous of her and half to make him think she is jealous of him.

Women are awfully foolish. I was telling four or five of them last night about a dress I saw that was white, with a little dash of lavender, and they all laughed. I wonder why they laughed.

Women aren't angels, and it's mighty lucky for the women.

Political opinion is like a mustache: it never looks well on a girl's lip unless there is a man hitched to it.

Probably the first thing Jonah's wife said after he told her the whale story was that she needed a lot of new clothes.

A woman's foot is two sizes bigger than the shoe she wears to be stylish and two sizes smaller than the ones he wears to be comfortable.

If the average woman could have her choice of the way she would like to be "won," she would probably choose the man that would knock her down with a club and then sit on her.

A woman can always find some flaw in a man's story—unless it isn't true.

For the first three weeks after it gets born a baby looks 'most as red and uncomfortable as its father.

It takes a smart woman to make a man out of a fool, but any fool woman can make a fool out of a man.

No girl over 16 can be expected to be satisfied with the idea of kissing that she gets out of Sunday school books.

A girl's way of flattering a new man is to insinuate that she has heard the other women talking a lot about him.

It is much more likely that women are angels than it is that angels are women.

Marriage is a great thing for a man; it makes him ashamed to talk about his small troubles.

If the men got up a "Fathers' Club" and talked nothing but baby-talk, all the women would believe they did nothing but drink cocktails.

A woman can get engaged and have the wedding all talked over in less time than she can decide with another woman what is the best kind of canary seed.

It is easier for a woman to find a reason than it is for her to find a hairpin, and harder for a man to find any reason in it than it is for him to find her pocket.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

Anger is a stone cast into a hornet's nest.

The harbor buoy is a child of the sea.

Keeping out of debt is a first class life policy.

Some people are so cheerful they make other folks weary.

The man who walks wires may be skillful, but he isn't in it with the politician who pulls them.

A man can always manage to attract attention by either raising whiskers or having them shaved off.

Let a fireman play on your piano with his hose for a few minutes if you want to get all the music possible out of it.

The leter "I" is always in visible, yet it is never out of sight.

Trying to cut your own hair is shear nonsense.

In Zululand the women fill their mouths with water in order to keep silent. In America they fill their mouths with tea—and gossip more than ever.—Chicago News.

A full purse is the best pocket companion.

The dull man bores you and the sharp one skins you.

A matchless story is a novel that ends without a wedding.

About the only force some people have is the force of habit.

Knife wounds heal quicker than those caused by a sharp tongue.

When a man offers you something for nothing it will pay you to walk around it by the furthest possible route.

It is far better to have large feet than a small understanding.

The house of a tidy woman and a motion to adjourn are always in order.

The actual weight of a ton of coal as sold by some dealers is a dark secret.

Gall and wormwood are both used in making imported wine in this country. The man who labels it supplies the gall.

When you see a girl with only one glove on it's a sign that she has a new ring on the other hand.

A bachelor objects to female barbers on account of a disastrous haircut a certain Mr. Samson once received at the hands of one.—Chicago News.

MENTAL GEOGRAPHY

The most populous country is Oblivion; many go there, few return.

The largest river is Time.

The deepest ocean is Death.

The region where no living thing hath habitation is called Yesterday.

The most highly civilized country is To-day.

The highest mountain is called Success. Few reach the top save those who watch sharply for the passing spirit of the mountain, Opportunity, who carries upward all those who seize hold on him.

The region where no man hath ever set foot is called To-morrow.

THE MARKETS.

Wheat Prices at Chicago Somewhat Recovered—A Small Drop in Liverpool—Heavy Cattle Markets—Quotations.

Tuesday Evening, July 14.

Liverpool wheat futures closed ⅛d to ⅜d lower to-day than yesterday, and corn futures ⅜d lower.

At Chicago, Sept. wheat closed ½c higher than yesterday, Sept. corn ½c higher, and Sept. oats ¼c lower.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London—Close—Wheat on passage easier and neglected. Parcels No. 1 hard Manitoba, passage, 31s 3d; passage, 31s 4½d; July, 31s 3d; passage, 31s 4½d. Maize on passage rather easier. Spot American mixed, 22s 6d. Flour, spot Minn., 27s.

Paris—Holiday.

Antwerp—Wheat, spot quiet; No. 2 R.W., 16¾f.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

Following are the closing quotations at important wheat centres to-day:

	Cash.	July.	Sept.	Dec.
New York	....	....	....	81⅜
Chicago	....	....	77¼	76⅝
Toledo	78	78	78¼	79⅜
Duluth, No. 1 N.	86	86	77⅞	75½

TORONTO ST. LAWRENCE MARKET.

Grain—
Wheat, red, bush	$0 76½ to	$....
Wheat, white, bush	0 77	....
Wheat, spring, bush	0 70	0 72
Wheat, goose, bush	0 70	....
Barley, bush.	0 42½	....
Beans, bush.	1 30	1 50
Beans, hand-picked	1 75	....
Peas, bush.	0 78½	....
Rye, bush.	0 45	....
Oats, bush.	0 36½	0 37½

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, July 14.—Wheat—Spot dull; No. 1 red Northern spring, 6s 5d; No. 2 red western winter, 6s 2d; No. 1 Cal., 6s 6½d. Futures quiet; July 6s 6¼d, Sept. 6s 3⅛d, Dec. 6s 3d. Corn—Spot easy; American mixed, 4s 6¼d. Futures quiet; July 4s 6⅛d, Sept. 4s 5⅜d. Beef—Extra India mess dull, 67s 6d. Pork—Prime mess, western, dull, 78s 9d. Bacon—Short ribs steady, 53s 6d. Lard—Prime western, in tierces, easy, 37s; American refined, in pails, easy, 36s. Cheese—American finest colored dull, 49s. Peas—Canadian dull, 5s 6½d. Cottonseed Oil—Hull refined, spot, firm, 23s. Tallow—Australian in London easy, 30s.

NEW YORK GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

New York, July 14.—Flour—Receipts, 17,452 barrels; sales, 3700 packages; flour was unsettled and rather weak, with bids still further reduced. Rye flour—Dull. Wheat—Receipts, 48,075 bushels; sales, 1,150,000 bushels; wheat declined under a renewal of liquidation, coupled with fine weather thru the West and predictions of showers in the spring wheat sections; July, 85c to 85½c; Sept., 81⅛c to 81⅝c; Dec., 81¼c to 81⅝c. Rye—Easy; state, 58c to 59½c, c.i.f., New York; No. 2 western, 60c., f.o.b., afloat. Corn—Receipts, 80,750 bushels; sales, 25,000 bushels; corn was weaker, following good weather and the wheat decline; July, 57c; Sept., 56⅝c to 56⅞c; Dec., 56¼c to 56⅝c. Oats—Receipts, 72,000 bushels; oats were dull and easier; track white, 43c to 49c. Sugar—Raw, firm; fair refining, 3 1-16c; centrifugal, 96 degrees test, 3 9-16c; molasses sugar, 2 13-16c; refined firm. Coffee—Quiet; No. 7 Rio, 5 3-16c. Lead—Quiet. Hops—Dull; state common to choice 1902, 17c to 23c; Pacific coast 1902, 17c to 21½c. Wool—Firm.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, July 14.—Butter—Steady; receipts, 14,427; state dairy, tubs, firsts, 18c to 19c; do., seconds, 16c to 17c; do., thirds, 15½c; do., fourths, 14c to 14½c.

Cheese—Steady to firm, unchanged; receipts, 18,626.

Eggs—Firm, unchanged; receipts, 16,167.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—New York, Buffalo and Chicago Also Steady.

London, July 14.—Live cattle steady at 11c to 12c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 10c to 11½c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 8⅝c per lb. Sheep, 10½c to 12c.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock were 94 carloads, composed of 1773 cattle, 60 hogs, 342 sheep and lambs, with 68 calves.

Exporters—Best loads exporters are worth $5 to $5.15 per cwt.; medium to good at about $4.75 to $4.90.

Export Bulls—Choice quality bulls sold at $4 to $4.30 per cwt.; good bulls sold at $3.60 to $3.80 per cwt.

Export Cows—Export cows sold at $4.25 per cwt.

Butchers' Cattle—Choice picked lots of butchers, weighing from 1025 to 1100 lbs. each, equal in quality to best exporters, sold at $4.65 to $4.80; loads of good sold at $4.50 to $4.65; fair to good, $4.35 to $4.45; common, $3.85 to $4.25; rough to inferior, $2.65 to $3.25.

Feeders—Steers of good quality, 900 to 1000 lbs. each, are worth $4 to $4.40 per cwt.

Short-keep Feeders—Good steers, 1100 to 1200 lbs. each, are worth $4.50 to $4.00 per cwt.

Stockers—One-year to two-year-old steers, 400 to 700 lbs. each, are worth $3.50 to $4.00 per cwt.; off-colors and of poor breeding quality of same weights are worth $2.75 to $3 per cwt.

Milch Cows—Milch cows and springers are worth $30 to $55 each.

Calves—Calves sold at $2 to $10 each, or from $3.50 to $5 per cwt.

Sheep—Prices, $3.50 to $3.65 per cwt. for ewes, and bucks at $2.75 to $4.

Spring Lambs—Prices easy at $2.50 to $4 each.

Hogs—Best select bacon hogs, not less than 160 lbs., nor more than 200 lbs. each, off cars, sold at $5.65 per cwt.; lights and fats at $5.40; sows, $4 to $4.25 per cwt., and stags, $2 to $3 per cwt.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, July 14.—Cattle—Steady; prime and shipping steers, $4.90 to $5.40; butchers' steers, $4.25 to $4.90; cows and heifers, $2.75 to $4.75; bulls, $3.25 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $3.25 to $4.15; veals steady, $5 to $6.25. Hogs slow; heavy, $5.60 to $5.65; mixed, $5.60 to $5.65; Yorkers, $6 to $6.10; light Yorkers, $6.10 to $6.15; pigs, $6.20 to $6.35; roughs, $4.80 to $4.90; stags, $4 to $4.25. Sheep and lambs steady; lambs, $4 to $6.50; yearlings, $4.50 to $5; wethers, $4.25 to $4.50; ewes, $3.50 to $3.75; sheep, mixed, $2 to $4.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, July 14.—Beeves—Receipts, none; dressed beef steady; city dressed native sides, 6½c to 8½c per lb. Reported exports for to-day, 2005 beeves, 750 sheep, 4200 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 19 head; very little trading; a few veals sold at about steady prices, or at $5 to $6.50 per cwt. City dressed veals, 7c to 10c per lb.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 11,652 head; good sheep ⅛c higher; common and medium grades quiet, steady; lambs in good demand and steady, closing firm; sheep sold at $2.50 to $4 per 100 lbs.; a few small lots at $4.10 to $4.25; lambs, $5.70 to $6.75; dressed mutton, 6c to 8½c per lb.; dressed lambs, 8½c to 11½c.

Hogs—Receipts, 1085 head.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, July 14.—Cattle—Receipts, 3300, including 100 Texans; market steady; good to prime steers, $3 to $5.50; poor to medium, $4 to $5; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.50; cows and heifers, $1.50 to $5; canners, $1.50 to $2.80; bulls, $2.25 to $4.35; calves, $2.50 to $6; Texas-fed steers, $3.55 to $4.50. Hogs—Receipts to-day, 17,000; estimated for to-morrow, 30,000; left over, 60,000; market steady to 10c lower; closed weak; medium and butchers, $5 to $5.35; good to choice, $5.25 to $5.40; rough heavy, $4.50 to $5.20; light $5.40 to $5.65; bulk of sales, $5.20 to $5.35. Sheep—Receipts, 10,000; sheep and lambs opened steady.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Campbellford, Ont., July 14.—There were 1425 cheese boarded; sales: Magrath 495, Cook 4905, Brenton 440. All sold at 9 7-16c. Balance refused 9 3-8c.

The much abused but very potential factor in human events—public taste—seldom wanders far afield. At its foundation lies the good common sense of the people.

The fact that

Malta-Vita

has an ever increasing sale among all classes of people is ample evidence of the solid and growing demand for more rational living in the way of Perfect Food—the whole wheat ready cooked, partly digested, flaked and toasted ready to eat, is what the people like, and raw meal foods have had their day.

The Rush Still On!

Goods Going Very Fast.

NATHAN JONES.

Our clearing Sale is rapidly reducing our stock, the prices we sell for being very low.

Colored Muslins

We now offer all our 10c to 15c Muslins for 7c yd. All our 20c to 30c Muslins for 12½c yd. This will clear them quickly.

Ladies' Whitewear

All our stock of Ladies' Whitewear at 33⅓ off, till all is sold.

Our Dress Goods and Parasols at 20% discount.

NATHAN JONES.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's. At Wallbridge & Clarke's

Supplies For Camp or Cruise

New York Biscuits

In "In-er Seal" pkgs.

Uneeda "Jinger" Wafers, Butter Gems, Cheese Biscuits, German Zwieback, Pretzelettes, etc., etc.

Christie's Fancy Biscuits

Fresh supplies every week — 40 varities.

Heintz's Pickles

Heintz's Celery Sauce,
Heintz's India Relish.
Heintz's Sweet Midgets.
Heintz's Sweet Pickles.

Spanish Olives

A fine assortment of Olives from 10cts per bottle up.

Campers Supplies

Essence of Coffee, Condensed Milk, Lime Juice, Raspberry Vinegar, Fancy Cheese, New Pack Lobster and Shrimps, French Sardines, Scallops, Deviled Crabs, Concentrated Soups, French Potage, Beef Extracts, etc., etc.

Pickles and Sauces

A complete assortment of English and American Pickles and Sauces, including Pickled Walnuts, Onions, Chow Chow, Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce, Yorkshire Relish, Mushroom Catsup, Harvey's Sauce, Sultana Sauce, Chutney's Capers, Durkee's Salad Dressing, etc., etc.

Delicious Teas

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious English Breakfast Teas in lead packets at 30, 40, 50 and 60cts per lb.

Canned Meats

New Packs. Finest Quality.

Whole Ox Tongues.
Lunch Tongues.
Lamb's Tongues.
Boned Chicken.
Boned Turkey.
Boned Duck.
Pate de foie.
Potted Ham.
Potted Tongue.
Sliced Dried Beef.
Ham Loaf.
Veal Loaf.
Chicken Tamales.
Lunch Beef.
Lunch Bacon.
Chicken, Ham and Tongue.
Pigs Feet.
Jellied Tenderloins.
Vienna Sausages.
Luncheon Sausages.
Baked Beans—plain or in Tomato or Chili Sauce, etc., etc., etc.

Ale and Stout, Wines, etc.

Carling's, Labatt and Davies' Dominion Ale, Bass' Ale, Dow's Sand Porter, Guinness' Stout, in prime condition.

Gurd's Ginger and Soda Water Appollinaris and Radnor Water.

Barton & Guestler's and Nath. Johnston's Bordeaux Clarets and Sauterne AT POPULAR PRICES.

Rhine Wine and Burgundy Cordials and Liqueurs.

Light Canadian Wines, red or white, at lowest prices.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE

EST'D. 1871.

BRIDGE ST. Tel. 139.

Branch Store
[illegible] St.—Tel. 157.

For Torpid Liver, Flatulence, Constipation, Biliousness and Sick Headache, TAKE

BRISTOL'S Pills

Safe, Mild, Quick-acting, Painless, do not weaken, and always give satisfaction.

Reliable Household Medicine, can be taken at any season, by Adults or Children.

Druggists sell "BRISTOL'S."

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 37. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JULY 16, 1903 NO. 63

ASHORE OFF NEWFOUNDLAND

Canadian Pacific Steamer Monterey May Be a Wreck.

If the Ship Is a Total Loss the Figure Will Be One and a Half Millions—Description of the Vessel and Her Cargo—Toronto Cattle Shippers Heavily Interested — Vancouver Man the Only Passenger.

Montreal, July 16.—Despatches received yesterday announce that the C. P. R. Steamer Monterey had gone ashore a little west of Point Platte, Miquelon.

The cargo consisted of cattle. The passengers were put ashore yesterday morning in dense fog. Wrecking steamers are being sent from St. Johns in the hope of re-loading the ship and saving the cargo.

Sir Thomas Shaughnessy said that he was not sufficiently a good seaman to be able to account for the accident, but it appeared as if there was in the neighborhood a considerable amount of sea room. However, the information to hand in regard to it was of a general character.

"Supposing," he was asked, "the ship is a total loss; what will be the figure?"

Will Mean $1,500,000 Loss.

"One and a half millions," he replied, "would be about the figure." That would cover the boat and cargo.

The point where the Monterey went ashore is well known as a dangerous spot to mariners, as the current is very strong and the rocks abound on every side.

The Steamship Montrose will take the place of the Monterey on the Bristol route. The details of the work are as yet very meagre, but Sir Thomas was of the opinion that the casualty occurred late on Tuesday night, the isolation of the spot accounting for the tardy arrival of the news.

Later despatches received at the offices of the company state that halls 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 of the Monterey are leaking, and the salt water has got into the tanks of fresh water that is used for the cattle. An attempt was made at high water yesterday to float the steamer under her own steam, but the attempt was not successful. Fortunately the weather is quite calm, and the efforts to float the Monterey are being carried on, therefore, under favorable conditions.

In the event of a storm springing up the outlook will be grave, as owing to the position of the vessel she would be speedily broken up.

The hull of the Monterey is valued at $700,000, and her cargo of live stock alone is valued at $97,000. There was one passenger on board, Mr. Percy J. Chalmers of Vancouver.

The Cargo Carried.

The cargo carried by the Monterey on what seems to be her last trip, was as follows: 1,043 head of cattle, 2,046 boxes of butter, 7,025 sacks of flour, 789 boxes of boxed meats, 3,150 pails of lard, 250 boxes of lard, 3,932 pieces of deals, 112,246 pieces of boards, 28 pieces of timber, 86 bundles of backing, 71 crates of moulding, 18 bales of leather, 210 barrels nickel copper mats, 88,115 bushels of wheat.

The steamship Monterey belonged to the Canadian Pacific Atlantic Steamship service. She left Montreal on July 10 with a full cargo, bound for Bristol, and was under the command of Captain R. O. Williams, one of the most trusted and capable captains in the service of the company. The Monterey was of 5,455 tons gross and 8,000 tons dead weight.

She was comparatively a new boat, being built in the month of May, 1898, on the Tyle, by the Palmers of Newcastle. With a length of 415 feet, 52 feet wide and 27 feet deep, she was an up-to-date and excellent type of the vessel built for the Atlantic freight service. Her engines were of 661 horse-power, and she could maintain a speed of 12¼ knots.

Toronto Shippers.

Toronto, July 16.—Mr. Snell, Toronto Junction, had 72 head. Mr. Levack, Torooto, 100 head; Messrs. Lummis & Halligan, 150 head. Others having cattle on board are Mr. Elliott and Mr. Honeyford of Toronto, as well as many other city dealers. Indeed nearly all the cattle are owned by Toronto shippers. The animals are all insured; but, in the event of the cattle being taken ashore, they may be delayed several weeks, which causes the shippers much anxiety and trouble. W. H. Acheson of this city had two sons, William and James on board the Monterey, along with their uncle, John Fortune, who was in charge of Halligan's cattle.

Owen Sound, July 16.—James Dwyer was sentenced to two years in Kingston Penitentiary yesterday for stealing a quantity of silverware from a C.P.R. loaded car.

SPECULATION ON CRISIS

Members Indulge in Guesses as to Mr. Blair's Successor.

Remaining Items in the Main Estimates For Immigration Passed—"Hands Off the Canadian Militia," Says Mr. Fitzpatrick's Amending Bill to the Criminal Code—The Constitution Fractured—An Amusing Discussion.

Ottawa, July 16. — There were no developments in the Cabinet crisis yesterday. Every one is waiting for the official explanations to be made in the House to-day. Meantime members are busy speculating as to the nature of the Cabinet shuffle that will take place.

Immigration Estimates Passed.

The House yesterday passed the remaining items in the main estimates for immigration.

The bill to amend the criminal code was partially considered in committee, but none of the clauses were passed, as the Minister of Justice desired to have them fully considered by the members.

The principal clause discussed was that making it an offence to interfere with a man's employment on account of his belonging to the militia.

The Clause.

Clause 75 makes it an offence punishable by six months imprisonment or by a fine or both to deprive any person of his employment, to prevent any other person from being employed, whether by himself or another, or to obstruct or to annoy any other person or his employer, because such person is an officer or a man of the active militia or to dissuade any other person from enlisting in the active militia by threat of injury to him in case he should enlist.

Dr. Sproule raised a question as to the constitutionality of the adjournment on Friday last, when neither the Speaker nor the Deputy Speaker was present, and an amusing discussion ensued. The House rose at 1.40 a.m.

Canadian Telephone Company.

Ottawa, July 16.—The Railway Committee yesterday morning amended the Canadian Telephone Company's bill by providing that the company shall not at any time amalgamate with the Bell Telephone Company. Mr. Brock again opposed the bill, saying that the scheme proposed would involve an expenditure of $5,000,000. Mr. Birkett said that there is $30,000,000 behind the project.

SINCLAIR'S AD SINCLAIR'S AD.

Mid=Summer Sale

See Our Prices for Ladies' and Children's Stockings

KABO CORSETS
NO BRASS EYELETS

Kabo Corsets have won a world-wide reputation for excellence. They Fit Well

Feel Well
Wear Well
Look Well

We have a great variety of styles comprising the latest designs and exclusive novelties and can fit you perfectly

Call and see our new spring style Kabos.

See Our Prices for Ladies' and Children's Vests.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO

BOERS FOR MEXICO.

One Hundred Thousand Acres Sold to Joubert and O'Donnell.

Monterey, Mex., July 16.—Marion Butler, United States Senator from North Carolina, has closed a contract with the Boer generals, Joubert and O'Donnell, for 100,000 acres of land, to be used for colonization purposes by the Boers. The tract is located between Sota La Marina River and the Carnazal River, and fronts the entire distance on the Gulf of Mexico.

Caught Alleged Murderer.

Altona, Man., July 16.—Lucas Kyryk, accused of murdering a fellow-countryman near Tyndall, was recognized while passing through the town of Altona by W. H. Tyson, traveler for the McCormick Machine Company. On his arrival in town he reported having seen him about half a mile south of the village, and the authorities were immediately put upon his track. Search parties caught him on the west side of the track about four miles south of the town. Constable Johnston has taken the prisoner to Winnipeg.

Ashamed of Saw-Off.

Owen Sound, July 16.—At a largely attended business meeting of the Conservatives of North Grey, held in the Municipal Buildings here yesterday afternoon, it was unanimously decided to proceed with the election protest. A change of solicitors was decided upon, a point demanded by those who are not satisfied with the saw-off of which Conservatives here are so thoroughly ashamed. Over $500 was subscribed at the meeting. This time ther will be no compromise in North Grey, and the case will continue.

U.S. Steel Corporation in Hamilton.

Hamilton, July 16.—It is thought here that Hamilton is still in the race for one of the branches of the United States Steel Corporation. It has been announced that a branch will be located at Port Colborne, and it is claimed that the corporation has an option on the plant of the Hamilton Steel & Iron Company of this city. When the directors of the local concern were asked about the rumor yesterday they refused to either deny or confirm it.

Lynched a White Man.

Maysville, Ky., July 16.—Enraged at the tardiness of the courts, a mob broke into the Flemingsburg jail yesterday morning and hanged William Thacker, a white man, who had been given a life sentence, for the murder of John Gordon two years ago.

Wife Dead, His Throat Cut.

London, July 16.—J. H. Wallace, formerly secretary of the late Sir Francis Cook, has been arrested in connection with the mysterious death of his wife. She was found dead in their flat, while Wallace was discovered on the floor with his throat cut.

Dominion Appointments.

Ottawa, July 16.—G. P. Rennie has been appointed Collector of Inland Revenue at Stratford in place of Caven, deceased. T. S. Tobin has been appointed deputy collector in the place of Mr. Rennie, promoted to the collectorship.

Both Legs Taken Off.

Toronto Junction, July 16.—Yesterday William J. Wilson, who is C. P. R. yard foreman, was standing on the front of the engine, not expecting it to start. When it suddenly began to move he was thrown to the track and the wheels passed over his legs. Dr. Clendenan was called and the unfortunate man was removed to the Western Hospital, where the right leg and a portion of the left had to be amputated.

Mr. Wilson, who died at 2.45 p.m. yesterday, leaves a wife and four children.

Drowned at Dundas.

Dundas, July 16.—At about 1 o'-o'clock yesterday afternoon Michael Carrol, laborer, of this town, was drowned. While attempting to cross the apron of the dam in the rear of the axe factory, he slipped and fell, striking the rocks 15 feet below. The body was found about 4 o'clock in the afternoon lying with the head in the water. Deceased was 40 years of age and unmarried.

Long Lease Is Ratified.

Detroit, Mich., July 16.—The action of the Michigan Central directors in renewing the lease of the Canada Southern for a period of 999 years, was ratified yesterday at a formal stockholders meeting here.

Moral, But Not Legal.

Salt Lake, Utah, July 16.—According to a decision of the State Supreme Court a man is under moral, but not legal obligations to support his plural wives and educate his children by such unions.

Disastrous Day at New York.

New York, July 16.—Demoralization ruled in the stock market yesterday, making it up to the time of the closing rally one of the most disastrous days since the memorable panic of May, 1901.

CZAR GROWS HUMANE.

Does Away With Castigation With Cudgels and Other Barbarities.

St. Petersburg, July 16.—The Birzhevia Vedomosti says that the Czar has abolished the harshest remnants of the barbaric punishments of former times, namely, Castigation with cudgels, and cat-o-nine-tails, chaining to the car and shaving the head, which were still inflicted for certain offences on persons exiled to penal settlements or to the mines. This form of punishment frequently ended in death by torture.

The cudgel and the "cat" are replaced in the new statute, says the newspaper, by prolongation of term or by solitary confinement up to one hundred days, with bread and water, except every third day, when hot food will be served at one meal. The revised statute of June 15 prescribes chastisement with birch rods up to 100 blows "for slight offences, and misdemeanors."

Unionism in Russia.

St. Petersburg, July 16.—In furtherance of the proposed domestic reforms, a new law has been promulgated, giving factory employes the right to appoint delegates from their co-workers to represent their interests in conferences with the factory inspectors.

BRITAIN AND PERSIA.

Treaty That Led to Lansdowne's "British Monroe Doctrine" Speech.

London, July 16.—The treaty between Great Britain and Persia, which was hinted at by the Marquis of Lansdowne, in his speech in the House of Lords May 7, when he proclaimed the "British Monroe Doctrine" in the Persian Gulf, is made the subject of a blue book, issued yesterday. The treaty was concluded at Teheran, Feb. 9, and was ratified May 27. It grants reciprocally the most favored nation treatment to each country; abolishes the Persian 5 per cent. export duty upon all except a few articles and abolishes the system of farming out the customs duties, replacing this system by Government customs offices and warehouses. It undertakes to allow British merchandise any reduction conceded to merchandise imported from Russia.

THE BISLEY MARKSMEN.

In the Steward Challenge Cup Canadian Scored [illegible] Bulls.

Bisley Camp, July 16.—The weather yesterday was sunny, with a very stiff gale blowing. In the Steward Challenge Cup match Staff-Sergt. Baylis of the Royal Grenadiers, Toronto, scored nineteen bulls, nearly a record. Wallingford the champion shot of the army, scored fourteen bulls.

Canada, England, Australia and Scotland have entered teams for the Mackinnon Challenge Cup. The following marksmen will represent Canada: A. Elliott, 12th; T. H. Hayhurst, 13th; J. M. Jones, 82nd; W. C. King, 46th; E. C. O'Brien, 30th; J. T. Peddie, 5th Royal Scots; J. H. Simpson, 10th R. G.; R. J. Spearing, 53rd; J. D. Stuart, 6th D.C.O.R.; E. Skedden, 13th; G. Vroom, 69th; J. White, 13th.

JUDGE ARMOUR'S FUNERAL.

It Was Attended in London by Many Prominent Men.

London, July 16.—The funeral services were held yesterday at the Temple Church over the remains of Justice John Douglas Armour, of the Canadian Supreme Court, who died July 11. Secretary White attended as the representative of the United States Embassy. Other distinguished personages present were Lord Strathcona, Chief Justice Alverstone, Sir Robert Finlay, Attorney-General, and Sir Charles Tupper, former Premier of Canada. Colonial Secretary Chamberlain was not present, but was represented by Lord Monkbretton, his private secretary.

Freemasons of Canada.

Toronto, July 16.—The Grand Lodge of Freemasons of Canada opened here yesterday, with M. W. Bro. John E. Harding, Grand Master, in the chair. Previous to the formal opening, the members were welcomed on behalf of the city by His Worship Mayor Urquhart, after which the Grand Master presented his annual address. The Grand Treasurer's report receipts, for the year ended May 30, of $26,724.61, with expenditures of $22,807.89, leaving a surplus of $3,916.72. The report of the condition of Masonry showed 2,600 initiations during the year. To-day's meeting will be devoted to adopting the various reports and the election of officers. Grand Master Harding outlined his scheme to raise a semi-centennial fund of $100,000, for benevolence, the interest to be appropriated to extreme cases, $200 to be the limit in any one case of a beneficiary. Every subordinate lodge is expected to collect from each of its members $1 a year for three years.

Orangemen of the World.

Dublin, July 16.—The triennial conference of the Imperial Grand Orange Council of the world convened here yesterday under the presidency of M. W. Bro. David Graham of New York, who was supported by the Earl of Erne. John McMillan of Toronto, Grand Master of West Ontario, who replied on behalf of the Canadian delegates, spoke well, and made a most favorable impression upon the historic gathering.

PONTIFF DYING OF OLD AGE

All Science Can Do Is Preserve Life as Long as Possible.

Pope Leo Cannot Live—The Doctors Cannot Save Him—His Holiness' Condition Has Not Much Changed in Twenty-four Hours—Somewhat Restless After Midnight, and Dr. Lapponi Assisted Nature With Stimulants.

Rome, July 16.—Dr. Mazzoni, in reply to the question, "Can the Pope recover?" gave the Associated Press correspondent the following statement:

"At the present moment the disease of His Holiness has lost its character of absolute gravity which it had at its acute period. It might be considered to have entered the period of the possible solution. This might occur in a man of strong fibre and young, but it is impossible to entertain such a hope in a man in his 94th year, with whom the physical energy absolutely necessary for the recovery is lacking. Pope Leo's organism is perfect, and as such maintains itself after 93 years of never interrupted work, but his motor force is no longer sufficient for the complex functions essential to life. In other words, the 93 years of Pope Leo XIII. bring him into that category of extraordinary longevity, when life is destined to flicker out independent of the action of any pathological complication. The only service that science and effection can render is that of struggling to have this precious existence preserved to us as long as possible.

THE BULLETINS.

July 15.—7.25 p. m.—During the day no special phenomena were noticed in the general condition of the august patient. The depression in his strength was not augmented. Respiration, pulse and temperature about stationary. Respiration 30, temperature 36.4 centigrade, pulse 84.

8.10 p. m.—The Pope has again taken a little nourishment. Speaking to Mgr. Angeli, one of his secretaries, the Pontiff said he felt oppression of the chest, but hoped it would pass away in a few days.

July 16.—1.10 a. m.—The Pope has slept during the last hour, but the sleep is too profound to be quite natural.

3.05 a. m.—The beginning of the second part of the night was somewhat restless, and Dr. Lapponi tried to assist the patient with stimulants and nourishment.

ONLY IF VOTE OF CENSURE.

Will Premier Balfour Allow House to Discuss Fiscal Scheme.

London, July 16.—Premier Balfour, in the House of Commons yesterday, refused to give the House facilities for a full general debate on Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's proposed fiscal changes.

The matter was brought up by Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, and was supported by Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Liberal leader.

Mr. Balfour said he did not think any useful purpose would be served by an abstract discussion, addressed to no particular motion; that the matter had already been debated several times under similar conditions.

If Sir Henry raised a debate by introducing a vote of censure of the Government, he said he would grant the facilities desired.

PREPARED TO HOLD MANCHURIA.

Russia Prepares to Hustle Troops Into the Country.

Port Arthur, Manchuria, July 16.—The conference of prominent Russian officials ended, and the last special train departed for Moscow Tuesday. Exultation over Russia's increasing power in Manchuria was the dominant note in the gathering. The possibility of taking any backward steps are scoffed at if mentioned by outsiders. The evidence of the increase of warlike preparations since the arrival of Gen. Kuropatkin, the Minister of War, and of the intention to bring more troops to Manchuria are abundant.

Called to the Colors.

St. Petersburg, July 16. — Over 320,000 men have been called to the colors, in order to complete the strength of the Russian army and navy for the present year.

Cornwall Police Blundered.

Cornwall, July 16.—Donald Peter McIntosh, a well-known and respectable farmer from the vicinity of St. Andrew's, north of here, came to town Tuesday afternoon, and while making some purchases at Mr. Brown's drug store fell off a chair and became unconscious. Mr. Brown, thinking the man was under the influence of liquor, called a policeman and Mr. McIntosh was removed to the police station and locked up. About 2 o'clock yesterday morning Chief Smith, who was on duty, heard a groan in his cell and upon investigation found McIntosh was dead. Mr. McIntosh was seventy years of age. It appears he had been subject to weak spells, and that this was the trouble instead of liquor.

Charged With Murder.

Windsor, July 16.—Detective Fred Campeau, Windsor, swore out a warrant under orders from Magistrate Bartlet, charging Richardson with murder. Campeau says that the colored people of Colchester Township are much aroused against Richardson, and that they gathered around the prisoner with glowering looks during the inquest on Tuesday.

PHYSICIANS AND HOSPITALS.

During the past twenty years, millions of bottles of Angier's Petroleum Emulsion have been sold, and nearly all upon doctors' prescriptions. It is also extensively used in hospitals, especially for consumption, and wasting diseases of children. A good reason why you should use it.

POLICEMEN AND STRIKERS.

Dozen Men With Broken Heads Left Lying on Chicago Pavement.

Chicago, July 16.—Desperate fighting between the police and the strikers of the Kellogg Switch Board Company took place yesterday afternoon and evening while the company attempted to send freight to some of the railroad depots. In one instance the police opened fire with revolvers, and, although the fusilade was continued for several minutes, no one was hurt. Later there was a fight, in which no revolvers were used, and the police laid out a number of men, some of whom were left in the street until their friends picked them up.

Go Back to Work.

Vancouver, July 16.—The strike of the mill factory hands, which has been in force since June 1, ended yesterday in the defeat of the men, who return to work to-day under the old regulations. The men demanded nine hours a day in place of ten.

The Carpenters Yield.

Toronto, July 16.—The carpenters' strike is at an end. They have abandoned their demand of 35 cents an hour and will work for the original scale of 30 cents, which prevailed before May 1. For eleven weeks the striking unionists have been idle.

Color Line Drawn.

Woodstock, July 16.—A small strike is on here in the Thomas Organ Factory and the basis of the trouble is the objection which seven of the employes have to a colored fellow workman. This is the first strike caused by raising the color line.

Walking Delegates Indicted.

New York, July 16.—The grand jury yesterday concluded their investigation of the labor troubles, and returned indictments against Samuel J. Parks, Richard Carvel and Timothy McCarthy, walking delegates, who are charged with extortion. There are four counts against Parks, two against Carvel and one against McCarthy.

ONTARIO CROPS.

Magnificent Outlook For the Farmers of the Banner Province.

Toronto, July 16.—Special telegraph reports received by The News yesterday from the principal agricultural districts of Ontario indicate that magnificent progress has been made by practically all the growing grains, and the harvest, which is just beginning, will be one of the greatest in the history of the Province. The statements of crop conditions have been carefully compiled, and they present a bright picture of the agricultural outlook. From every section there is the same story of good yields, fine quality of grain, abundant pasture, and a general feeling of satisfaction with the prevailing conditions. From a perusal of the reports, it would seem that the banner industrial Province of the Dominion had no reason to take second place in the matter of agricultural produce.

In general, wheat seems to have made good progress and to promise a large yield. Corn has been greatly delayed on account of the recent wet weather, but will be heavy if the weather during the coming month is fine. Other grains, particularly oats and barley, are in fine shape, some counties reporting them the "best ever." Hay has suffered in many parts owing to early drought, but is a fair crop. Clover and timothy are promising well, and give no cause for dissatisfaction. Fruit will probably be abundant, and it is almost certain to maintain the standard of other years in the matter of quality. Potatoes are rather plentiful, and other root crops are in good condition. Pastures and grasses are growing magnificently, and are now abundant.

Caused a Sensation.

Hamilton, July 16.—James Weir of the Customs Department, Toronto, has made very grave charges against W. F. Miller, Collector of Inland Revenue here. It is claimed that the accusation is of general misconduct, covering several years, and includes the charges of misuse of money and of retaining money from subordinates after they had signed receipts. Henry Lawlor, Montreal, has been appointed by the Government to make an investigation. This announcement has caused a sensation in the city.

Will Run Sunday Cars.

Kingston, July 16.—The Street Railway Company has decided to run Sunday cars. This decision was reached before the finding of the Privy Council re. the constitutionality of the Lord's Day Act was announced. The cars will run from 8 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night each Sunday, each car going to Lake Ontario Park.

30 Retail Stores DAVIES 30 Retail Stores

WATCH this space for Saturday's specials to appear in Friday and Saturday's papers. Kindly let us have your orders early so we can give prompt service.

Daily Deliveries, Phone. 286.

The WM. DAVIES CO., Limited.

Big Sale of Photos

Great Bargains in all the latest designs.

A chance of a lifetime to secure high-grade Photos at the price of the ordinary kind.

From July 15th until further notice we will offer the following great snap in Photos.

Regular $4.00 Cabinets	$2.99 a doz.
Regular $3.50 Cabinets	$2.49 a doz.
Regular $3.00 Cabinets	$1.99 a doz.
Regular $2.00 Panels	$1.49 a doz.

All other sizes and styles at the same cut rate. This studio has gained a reputation for high-grade work, and the same quality of work will be made during this sale.

Every Photo. made satisfactory to our customers and our guarantee stamp on every one.

C. J. SMITH

Studio next to Dicken's Restaurant. PHOTOGRAPHER.

First in Point of Fit.
First in durability.
First in graceful model.
First in genuine comfort.

It fits you, but does not squeeze you. It supports you, but does not burden you. It lends perfect grace to your figure, but does not weary you. You are sure to like it, sure to buy it, sure to enjoy it.

Drab, White, Black.

D & A Corsets

Are the Correct thing.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

—FOR—

Stylish and Durable Turnouts.

- —Surreys
- —Corning Buggies
- —Piano Box Buggies
- —Rubber Tire Buggies
- —Micadoes
- —Phaetons
- —Bike Buggies
- —Democrats
- —Grocer Wagons
- —Butcher Wagons

Cheese Factory Milk Wagons.
Steel Tubular Axle Lumber Wagons.

Rubber Tires put on your old wheels at reasonable prices.

Mill St., - - Belleville

HOW IS YOUR LIVER?

USE

BEECHAM'S PILLS

For Billious and Nervous Disorders, such as Wind and Pain in the Stomach, Sick Headache, Giddiness, Fulness and Swelling after meals, Dizziness and Drowsiness, Cold Chills, Flushings of Heat, Loss of Appetite, Shortness of Breath, Costiveness, Blotches on the Skin, Disturbed Sleep, Frightful Dreams, and all Nervous and Trembling Sensations, &c. The First Dose will give Relief in Twenty Minutes. This is no fiction. Every sufferer is earnestly invited to try one Box of these Pills, and they will be acknowledged to be "WORTH A GUINEA A BOX." BEECHAM'S PILLS, taken as directed, will quickly restore Females to complete health. They promptly remove any obstruction or irregularity of the system. For a

Weak Stomach; Impaired Digestion; Disordered Liver

they act like magic—a few doses will work wonders upon the Vital Organs; Strengthening the muscular system; restoring the long-lost Complexion; bringing back the keen edge of appetite, and arousing with the Rosebud of Health the whole Physical Energy of the human frame. These are "facts" admitted by thousands, in all classes of society, and one of the best guarantees to the Nervous and Debilitated is that Beecham's Pills have the largest Sale of any Patent Medicine in the World. Full directions with each box.

Prepared only by THOMAS BEECHAM, St. Helens, England.

Sold Everywhere in Canada and U. S. America. In boxes, 25c.

Daily Intelligencer.

WORK DENIED CANADIANS.

The Dominion, under a policy of free trade protection, brought the following iron and steel products in foreign markets during 1902:

	Tons.	Value.
Pig Iron	40,014	$585,803
Scrap (Cast)	3,048	39,958
Scrap (wrought) billet and blooms ...	55,761	938,941
Rails	130,602	2,953,230
Wire rods and their products	92,919	3,593,851
Sheets of all kinds, tin plates, etc.	63,390	3,385,208
Bars, round, flat and small sections, etc.	62,441	2,549,669
Plates	30,301	905,183
Plates, universal	3,953	101,682
Plates, agricultural.	2,336	178,704
Pipes, boiler tubes, etc., but not pipe 2 1-2 in. dia. and over for mining ...	12,071	841,670
Structural shapes, etc.	28,011	789,644
Hoops, etc	2,080	96,728
Shafts, plates, angles, etc. "......	1,786	70,707
Shelp	16,195	496,130
Totals	544,598	$17,527,108

Canada consumes 800,000 tons of these articles each year, so that our importations in 1902 amounted to over two-thirds of our aggregate needs. The proportion of importations to home production is absurd and unhealthy. Canadians are quite capable of manufacturing all the iron and steel we need, but they are prevented from doing so by lack of adequate protection for Canadian industries. If we were to make the articles enumerated above thousands of men would obtain lucrative employment, but the Government has declined, by refusing to recognize the claims of iron and steel producers, to allow Canadians to earn the money now sent abroad to enrich foreign workmen.

TIMELY TOPICS

Mr. H. F. Gardiner, editor of The Hamilton Times, son of the Rev. Dr. Gardiner, of this city, has been appointed principal of the Institution for the Blind, at Brantford. If Mr. Gardiner talks to his pupils as strenuously as he used to talk to his Conservative confreres he will certainly make them stand around. It is agreed on all hands that Mr. Gardiner will make an excellent principal, and The Intelligencer heartily congratulates himself and family on the appointment.

• • •

A contemporary says the devil lurks about the beer glass these hot days. We thought His Satanic Majesty had too much sense to tamper with alcoholic beverages in torrid weather.

• • •

Hon. Mr. Blair found it hot enough in Ottawa, without waiting to be fired.

• • •

It is now asserted that kisses will cure hysteria. Yes, but they have been known to cause delirium.

• • •

What's the reason that a one-armed man can never get a girl to go buggy-riding with him?

• • •

Creditors of King Alexander and Queen Draga are to sue for debts of those monarchs, but nobody has heard of any administrators being appointed to accept service of the complaints.

• • •

An Arkansas convict has committed suicide with the steel ends of his shoestrings. The man flattened the metallic shoestring tips and contrived to cut his throat with them. This case is certainly entitled to take rank among the curiosities of suicide.

• • •

The following from a Buffalo contemporary is respectfully submitted for the consideration of the Belleville City Fathers: "If common sense were more common there would be much less demand for lawyers."

• • •

A writer on athletics tells us that "a man who really knows how to walk should walk like a cat or a race horse." Go on; a man can't walk on all fours in these days of tight suspenders.

• • •

Mr. C. M. Reid's interesting letter from Berlin shows that, as a writer, he is not a broken Reid, by any means.

• • •

It looks as though the Manitoba wheat crop was going to beat the record. The Belleville weed crop has done so already.

• • •

One hundred Brockville families will move to Hamilton with the Deerings. 'Tis a moving time for Brockville, sure!

• • •

Mr. Andrew Carnegie pauses long enough in his library charities to write a letter protesting against imperial preferential trade because "it will not tend towards the union of Great Britain and the United States." It was not generally thought that it would, and on this side of the line it was not generally cared. However, if Carnegie is against it, that is another strong argument in its favor.

• • •

EVEN A GRIT OBJECTS.
(Hamilton Times.)

Hastings County extends a long distance from the Bay of Quinte in the direction of the North Pole, but has only a width of three townships The proposal to divide the County for Dominion election purposes into East and West Hastings, instead of North and South Hastings, will give a couple of constituencies something like that North Ontario that wore out the legs of Hon. George E. Foster and young Mr. Grant.

• • •

"Rolff House," a thrilling story of love and adventure, will start in The Intelligencer on Saturday. Don't miss one of the papers, or you'll have a rough house at home.

• • •

Plenty of work about Belleville for those who want it. The G. T. R. wants men, and Mr. Phippen wants men and teams.

• • •

Speaking to a leading alderman today, The Intelligencer learned that the much-talked-of "opinion" of a Toronto lawyer, re the Council's right to sell the Front street rails, has been received. The legal gentleman consulted, it seems, was Mr. Fullerton, who is considered quite an oracle on municipal law.

"Might I ask what the opinion is?" queried the newspaper man, cautiously.

The worthy Alderman admitted that the pencil-pusher might ask the question if he wanted to, but gently and firmly defined his own opinion in the matter, which was that the celebrated and expensive "opinion" should be kept a dark secret till such time as it had been formally read to the Council. And the newspaper man could not help gracefully admitting that, perhaps, the Alderman was right.

"So we'll have to wait till the Council meeting?" said The Intelligencer man.

"Well, I rather think you will," said the City Father, "but I don't mind telling you this much: The Cement people will not get the rails."

And really when you come to think over that remark, it seems painfully easy to guess what the opinion will be.

• • •

Mr. W. B. Deacon's new shirt factory is such a neat-looking place that we can't help congratulating him and wishing him well. There is room on the banks of the beautiful Moira for many more establishments like Mr. Deacon's. If other people had the same faith in Belleville that he has there would be many more of 'em erected.

• • •

The Kingston Street Railway Company will run Sunday cars. Trust dear old Kingston for picking up all the bad habits that are going, though they're slower than a hoppled tortoise in picking up any good scheme that comes over the pike.

• • •

After being idle for eleven weeks, Toronto carpenters will go back to work at the old scale. They saw their plane duty at last, poor fellows, after it had been hammered into their heads by the employers, who they thought were trying to chisel them.

• • •

Things are coming to a pretty pass in Kentucky, where a mob lynched a white man yesterday. Are the Colonels becoming color blind?

• • •

There are now two vacancies in the Senate, and it seems to be about up to Laurier to redeem the alleged promise made to a certain Thurlow man.

• • •

Employees of the Woodstock organ factory struck because the bosses would not discharge a colored man who had been in their employ for eight years. It's a wonder the strikers didn't object to the black keys on the organs.

DELICIOUS LOG-CABIN CREAM.

Made up fresh to-day, besides a lot of of other good things such as :—

Molasses Kisses.
Salted Peanuts.
Peanut Taffy.
Lady Carmels, &c.

J. ARTHUR MARSH.

Sports and Pastimes

SPORTING NOTE AND COMMENT.

If hard practice and proper condition count for anything, the local lacrosse boys are going to put up the game of their lives next Wednesday afternoon, when they stack up against the Athletics of Peterboro on the Driving Park. The Indians will be on, and the team will surely be the huskiest and most skilful seen in this city for many a long year. The boys are determined to wipe out that Peterboro defeat, and, as they will be out of it if they lose the next match, they will leave no stone unturned to win. Stay in town next Wednesday and give the boys a hand. They've had all sorts of hard luck and deserve a bumper gate. The Peterboro lads will come down loaded up with all sorts of confidence, but they'll strike a snag of two before the last quarter is over.

Toronto Star: Ned Hanlan has been deposed from his position of rowing coach at Columbia University. Hanlan's downfall was due to over-indulgence of his tongue. He talked and talked until he persuaded Columbia that she had the only eight on top of water. The students stacked their wads on the crew and lost, and Hanlan got his walking ticket. Now Columbia's crew may have been as fast as Hanlan claimed, but they did not show it on race-day, and Hanlan suffers. Had Hanlan said nothing he would still be drawing Columbia money. A silent tongue saves a whole lot of trouble.

By altering the rig of his boat Sir Thomas Lipton has forfeited most of his time allowance. But Sir Tom is too good a sport to want to win by time allowance, anyhow.

Two local ball-tossers, Messrs. "Jack" Marks and "Copper" Jordan, are playing with the Pawtucket, Mass., baseball team, as catcher and pitcher respectively. In a game lately played at Milford, Jordan held that team down to four hits, but lost the game, as his own team made seven errors, one of which was contributed by Marks, who also got one of the seven hits made by his team and did not have a passed ball. Jordan is under contract with the Worcester team of the Eastern League, but has been farmed out to Pawtucket, where he is doing gilt-edged work.

THE CHEAP SUIT OF CLOTHES.

Don't let cheapness guide you in selecting your suit. You must consider quality if you expect satisfaction. The Oak Hall will give you better clothing for less money than any other house in the trade. Let us prove to you that what we say is true. We keep every suit bought from us pressed and in repair free for one year. Where else can you get that offer.

LATEST NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS

As Furnished to The Intelligencer by H. R. Beattie, Stock Broker.

New York, July 16.

Stock	Op'g	H'st	L'st	Close.
Atchison	64¼	64⅞	63⅛	64⅛
do. pref ..	87½	88⅛	87	87¾
St. Paul.. ..	140⅜	142⅛	140½	140½
Mo. P.	98⅛	99⅛	97⅛	96½
Union. Pac .	76¼	77⅛	75¾	76½
C. P. R.	120½	124¾	119¾	122⅜
South Pac. ..	46	46⅜	45⅜	45⅞
R. I.	29¾	30½	28¾	29½
Ills. C.	127	129	126½	127¾
Sou. Ry.....	22¾	22¾	22¾	22⅜
Texas.........	26⅜	26¾	26⅜	26¼
B & O.......	82⅞	83⅛	82⅛	82½
N. Y. C.	115¾	116⅞	114¾	115¾
Penna	120	120½	119⅛	119¾
Soo	53	57	52½	56
T. W....	96	97	96	96
Erie	30⅞	31⅛	30¼	30⅜
do. pref. ...	65	65¾	64⅞	65
Reading	49	49½	48⅛	48½
C. O.	34½	35	33⅞	34½
O. & W.	23	23⅞	22⅞	23⅜
Manhattan ..	132	132¾	131½	132
W. C.	18¼	18¾	18¼	18¾
L. & N	106	107½	105½	105½
A. F.	34	35	34	34
Nor.	62⅞	63⅜	62½	63⅛
Wab.........	22	22¼	21⅞	22
do pref. ..	38⅞	39⅞	38½	39
W.U.......	82	83	82	83
C. G. W. ..	17¼	17½	16⅞	17
T.C.I.	47¼	48	46⅞	47¾
U S. S.I......	26½	26¼	25⅜	25⅞
do pref.....	77¼	77½	75⅞	76¼
Sugar	116	117	115¼	116¼
B. R. T......	51¼	52	50½	50½
Pc...........	95⅜	96¼	94⅞	95¾
A. C. P. ..	50⅛	50½	47	47
Met.........	118¼	119¾	118¾	118½
Al.	20¼	20¼	19¼	19⅞

Sept. wheat opened at 77; closed at 76⅞
Sept. corn opened at 50½; closed at 50⅛

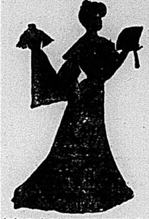
WOOL CRASH.

People are asking what it is. Wool crash is a sort of misnomer. It is not crash, but simply a light cool worsted in a crash weave. Hold it up to the light—you can see through it. Yet it's as tough and strong almost as thick beaver, and wiry enough to hold its shape. For a cool summer vacation knockabout suit, wool crash takes the lead. Good enough, too, for business. Come, see! Suit prices, $3.75, $5, $6 and $7.50.—Quick & Robertson, Belleville's Best Clothiers.

Seven hundred British subjects are yearly born at sea.

Fashion Notes.

White linen and colored linen gowns are exceedingly smart this season, but have been so imitated in cheap qualities and made with such quantities of cheap embroideries and lace that they have lost the distinctive individuality that gave them such a charm last year, says Harper's Bazar. The smart gowns and the expensive ones now are, however, exceedingly handsome. They are most elaborate in design and in the manner in which the lace is inserted, showing an originality that is very attractive. The skirts and waists to match are trimmed so that the lines of trimming meet at the belt, and the narrowest possible waistband is all-sufficient, so as to give the effect of a Princess frock. There are a great many new weaves in the linens; a curious fad is to use linen that looks as though intended for table linen, and has much the same damask pattern. This, however, is merely a passing fad, and is not a wise fashion to adopt. The plainer materials are best with a little embroidery, provided it is well done; this is far better than quantities of machine work.



The all-important question of deciding upon the selection of one or more fetching bathing suits is puzzling many feminine minds, and never was there such a tantalizing display of stunning suits to choose from as there is this season.

Taffetas and India silks make up into the smartest of all, but following closely after these are English mohairs and Siciliennes, and many of the lighter grades of French flannels are also used. After the material is decided upon the next consideration is the fashioning of it, and this requires time, for in the tendency toward elaboration on all kinds of feminine apparel the bathing suit has not by any means been overlooked.

One of the most stunning combinations is a white taffeta suit with turquoise blue. The skirt has tiny bias tucks forming points at the various seams, all stitched alike with blue silk, and at the edge of the skirt above a deep hem are five small circular tucks. The skirt is shaped rather similar to an umbrella or parasol covering, exceedingly scant and almost close fitting around the waist, but increasing considerably in width as it lengthens. The waist is closely tucked in the same bias fashion as the skirt with a vest showing down the front of straight tucks. The broad sailor collar is of the plain blue taffeta silk, with five rows of white silk braid bordering it all around, and the sleeves are finished just above the elbows with turned-back cuffs of the blue silk.

Something decidedly new this season is a bathing suit of natural colored pongee. It has just enough suggestion of a contrasting color on the blouse to make it becoming. Pale blue is charming combined with this peculiar shade of tan, and in fact the paler tones of blue adapt themselves so delightfully with so many different colors that touches of it appear everywhere and on about everything this season.

The accepted walking skirt barely clears the ground; does not indeed clear when the wearer walks, but the outing girl absolutely needs a shorter skirt for serviceable country wear, and if she cannot afford two tailored outing costumes she would better have two skirts made for wear with one jacket. One skirt may be of the inconvenient length dictated by fashion; the other should clear the ground well and be suitable for bad weather, rough tramping, and active exercise of any kind.

The form of coat accompanying the short skirt is a disputed question this summer. There can be no doubt that the bolero or Eton in some form, or the coat of hip length, is more generally becoming with a short skirt than a longer coat, and marks the proportions of the figure in more satisfactory fashion, but the blouse coat with knee length skirt seems to have obtained a certain hold upon feminine favor, and many other knee-length coats are seen in walking costumes.

One famous London tailor has contrived a combination outing suit, which has found favor with fashionable English women and has been copied by some New York makers. The close fitting, plain coat and gored short skirt, clearing the ground by five inches, have nothing unusual about them, but the unique feature of the costume is an additional skirt by which the suit may be in a twinkling converted into a long skirt costume. This supplementary skirt is silk down to the knees, but from there is a gored, flowing flounce of the cloth over which the short skirt falls closely in a manner that gives the effect of one of the popular double skirts. The underskirt, being chiefly of silk, adds little to the weight. It is buttoned on without removing the upper skirt, and for the traveller who does not care to appear at a hotel or make a call in a serviceable short tramping skirt, yet does not want to carry a second gown, this supplementary skirt, easily packed into a small bag, is a decided convenience.

The expensive Panama straw so largely sought after last year has a rival this season in bamboo straw, which in coloring and effect is somewhat similar to the Panama, and is even lighter in weight. The bamboo straw hats are made in shapes much like those adopted for the Panamas, and are certain to be favorites, though their cost bars them from the multitude. Round, tailor-trimmed hats, with a medium quiet color scheme, is relieved by a cherry velvet ribbon band, which goes round the crown and ties in a loose flat bow. A white puggaree scarf ties about a Panama straw in a big soft bow, which hangs down the back over the brim a quarter of a yard or so, giving an East Indian flavor to the hat it drapes. Another Panama straw tilts up in front to show a great plaited rosette of black velvet ribbon which is laid on the under brim so that its edge projects beyond the brim by an inch and a half. The projecting edge of a similar rosette placed on the upper side of the brim meets the under rosette. Through the under rosette in becoming curve is run a long white quill.

Many people might suppose that the $15 ring would be the one purchased by the millionaire to present to his bride, and that the $3 ring would be bought by the workingman, but the case is exactly the reverse. The workingman seems to want the wedding ring that will cover his wife's entire hand, while the wealthier purchaser wants a small ring, so as to allow room for a finger full of diamonds and other gems. When you talk about style in wedding rings you are talking about something that does not exist. The station in life determines it all. Perhaps the most common and most prevalent variety, in the past few years at least, is that about three-tenths of an inch in width and weighing six pennyweight.

"Pure soap!" You've heard the words. In Sunlight Soap you have the fact.

SUNLIGHT SOAP REDUCES EXPENSE

Ask for the Octagon Bar.

THE WEATHER.

To-day's Probs—

To-day and Friday, light to moderate winds, becoming variable, fine and warmer.

To-day's Temperature

As Registered by The Intelligencer's Guaranteed Thermometer:

8 a.m.	61
12 m.	75
2 p.m.	78
3 p.m.	79

Situate between Montreal and Ottawa on the Pacific short line the MAGI Caledonia Springs are most convenient of access.

You Can't Oversleep

If it takes quite a noise to awaken you in the morning we have Clocks that will furnish the necessary disturbance.

They will not arouse you too soon, neither will they let you sleep too long.

If you set them properly they never fail to do their duty.

They are useful in most homes at odd times. They are indispensable in many homes every working day in the year.

$1.50 buys a GOOD ONE, though we have them cheaper as well as dearer.

Angus McFee.
Jeweler & Optician
310 Front St.

MILLINERY
—AT—Half Price

All our Trimmed and Untrimmed Hats at HALF PRICE.

A few very choice ones still to choose from.

10 per cent. off Corsets Thursday' Friday and Saturday.

MISS IRWIN
Millinery and Corset Specialist

Summer Necessities

BATH SPONGES
SEA SALT
CHAMOIS
TALCUM POWDERS
TOILET WATERS
TOOTH BRUSHES
TOOTH POWDERS
WITCH HAZEL CREAM.

—AT—

WATERS'

Bank of Montreal

ESTABLISHED 1817.

Capital and Rest, All Paid Up.
$23,000,000
(Twenty-three Millions)

Savings Bank Department

Interest on sums of $1.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R.C.S., England.
Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. J. F. MATHER
Has removed his office to Pinnacle St., three doors north of Hotel Quinte. my29-6mw

DENTAL.

Dr. Clarke has removed to the offices formerly occupied by the late Dr. Ward, over Burrows', and opposite Scantlebury's Book Store.
a27dtf

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—2 Campbell Street.

MALCOLM WRIGHT.
J. FRANKLIN WILLS.
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for the City of Belleville.
Office—Metropolitan Block, Corner Front and Campbell Streets.

PORTER & CARNEW,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices — Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 87.
E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Office, Bridge Street, Belleville.
Money to Loan — Private Funds, Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, Etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent., on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire Insurance.

Guardian . . .	Est'd 1821
The North America,	Est'd 1792
Quebec, . . .	Est'd 1818

City, Town and Village Property insure at lowest rates.

R. W. ADAMS. Agent.
Office opposite Post Office.

THOS. STEWART,
Insurance and Commission Agent.
Agent for the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Scottish Union National Insurance Co.
BRIDGE, ST.

FIRE, LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE

At Lowest Rates The Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Perth Mutual on farm and city property. Also money to loan at 4½ per cent. upwards.
JAMES A CHISHOLM,
Office Ashley Block, · Front st., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned

can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at lower rate than other stock companies Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance.

Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont,
Lloyd's Plate Glass,
Home Life Association, Toronto,
North British & Mercantile,
Farm and City Property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation, and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan & Investment Society. Money to Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, Office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., opposite Postoffice and Hotel Quinte, Belleville,
'Phone 168.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. G. NORTHROP,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Shire Hall, Belleville, Ont.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the Post Office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St.
Appointments made.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

Life has no blessing like a prudent friend.

FAST MAIL SERVICE

Bay of Quinte Route
TO
ROCHESTER N. Y.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian"

Taking Effect 27th June.

GOING DAILY (EXCEPT MONDAY)
Lv. Belleville .... 11.38 p. m.
Ar. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 6.43 a. m
RETURNING DAILY (Except Sunday)
Lv. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 8.30 p. m.
Ar. Belleville .... 3.25 a. m.
Baggage checked to all points. Connection with all railways.

$1.00 THOUSAND ISLANDS $1.00
AND RETURN.

Commencing 28th June. Steamer leaves Belleville at 3 25 a.m. daily except Monday for 1000 Islands, calling at Bay of Quinte ports, Kingston. Alexandria Bay and Gananoque. Passing through American and Canadian channels.
Right reserved to change time with or without notice.
Full information from
THE RATHBUN CO., } Agents.
U. E. THOMPSON, }
E. E. HORSEY, G. P. & F. Agent, Kingston.

Str. "Alexandria"

Montreal, Rochester & Quebec Transit Co'y.

Popular Quebec Excursions NOW ON.

Belleville to Quebec and return.. $18 00
Belleville to Montreal and return $12.00
(including meals and berth)
Steamer runs all rapids.
For Rochester, Olcott Beach, Niagara Falls and Buffalo every Saturday at 11 a.m.
Particulars from
A. W. HEPBURN, General Manager, Picton, Ont.
THE RATHBUN CO. Agents, Belleville.

The Deseronto Navigation Co

TIME TABLE
Taking effect April 13, 1903.
Belleville, Trenton, Picton & Napanee

Str. "ELLA ROSS"

Leaves Belleville for Trenton at 10 a. m., daily, Sundays Excepted, returning leaves Trenton at 1 p. m., leaving Belleville at 3 p.m. for Deseronto, Napanee and Picton.

Quick and Superior Service to NEW YORK CITY

Steamers RESOLUTE and RELIANCE will leave Deseronto for Oswego after arrival of Str. Ella Ross connecting at Oswego with the New York, Ontario Western Ry.

Fare to New York, Single, $8.40
Return, $13.25

For further particulars apply to THE RATHBUN CO., Local Agents
J. F CHAPMAN. Asst. Gen. Frt. Pass. Agt., Deseronto
R. C Carter, General Manager, Deseronto.

Str. "Niagara"

Monday 13th July—True Blues to Picton.
Tuesday, 14th July — St. Andrew's Church Sunday School to Twelve O'Clock Point.
Wednesday, 15th July—Baptist Sunday School to Twelve O'Clock Point.
Saturday 18th July—First Saturday Afternoon Excursion to Picton. Fare 35c. Leaves wharf at 2.30 p.m. sharp.
THOMAS STEWART,
Manager,
45 Bridge St., Belleville.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

New train 12.45 a.m., daily, except Sunday, for Brockville, Montreal and intermediate stations.
No. 16—Local, for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 2—1.45 a.m., Mail and Express, (Flyer), Daily.
No. 6—11.43 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.22 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 12—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5—3 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily except Monday.
No. 3—4.10 a.m., Limited Express, Daily.
No. 9—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 11—11.22 a.m., Passenger, Daily except Sunday.
No. 1—1.48 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7—5.12 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
Taking effect 12.01 o'clock, Sunday, June 14, 1903.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	9.10 a.m.	7.30 a.m.
Mixed	5.08 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

Our Mid-Summer Sale

Our entire stock of FANCY GOODS,

Including China (cups and saucers, Vases, Dishes, etc., etc.), Brass Goods, Candles, Silk Shades, Brushes (both hat and hair), Mirrors, Candlebras, Dickens and Art Pottery Ware, all 40 per cent. off regular prices.

Wrist Bags AND Chatelaines

Latest New York designs in walrus, seal and other leathers, from 35c to $7.00 each, all

25 per cent. off regular price.

Framed Pictures

Entire stock of our Art Gallery, comprising Steel Engravings, Platimums, Prints, etc., beautifully framed Prices from 50c to $25, all

30 per cent. off regular prices

Wall Paper

Special prices on all Wall Papers and free bordering—2 yards with each double roll.

Paper Hanging and Painting—the largest and most efficient staff of workmen.

C. B. Scantlebury

Belleville's Decorator.

Wall Paper Wholesale and Retail.

For the Revelsworth Millions,

—OR—

AN ANGEL OF EVIL.

A Story of Intense Interest in which a Beautiful but Unscrupulous Woman's Schemes are Made to Fall by the Man She Loves.

"She is out; and we cannot find Joe Welldon anywhere; and—Dudley! What has happened?"

"Nothing has happened yet, dear," he said, drawing her arm within his and the platform at Waterloo Station a leading her to the billiard-room. "But a good deal is going to happen. I have had my dinner—I want nothing of that sort. But now, before Francesca returns, you must take me up-stairs to Mrs. Harold's room and you must express no surprise at anything I may say to her. Do you understand, dear?"

"Yes."

"I have had no sleep for two nights, and I shall go to bed very early. I want you, when you go to bed, to lock the door of your room as usual, and not to open it, whatever you may hear, unless I actually call you."

"I will do as you wish; but Dudley——"

"Well?"

"Your face frightens me! You—you have found out something—something dreadful, I can see. Oh, Dudley, remember—she is a woman, and she—loves you!"

"I will remember," he said, "and I will show all the mercy she has shown."

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"Within three days' time, by special license, I hope to make your daughter Francesca my wife." This was what Dudley had been so anxious to say to Mrs. Harold before Francesca's return

Betty Mannington regarded the hideous face, as it appeared to her, that she and Dudley Revelsworth were playing with repugnance and fear. That they two, Dudley and she, should affect to believe in this woman's personation of Francesca's dead mother, and that she, on her part, should imagine that they were deceived, and pile lie upon lie in her rhapsodies over her late husband, was most distressing to the straightforward young English girl and it pained her deeply to note how well—how far too well—Dudley played his part in the ghastly comedy.

"I cannot trust myself to speak about Francesca," Dudley said to the old Italian woman. "I can only try to be worthy of her."

"You are admirable, charming in every way," purred the old woman in return; "but a marriage so soon after our beloved Victor's death is out of the question. His mother would be shocked, and so should I——"

"It will be quite a private affair," interrupted Dudley. "And Francesca and I have made up our minds, so you really must not oppose us. We both want a change of scene, and will take it together. To-night," he continued, rising as he spoke, "I very much fear that I shall not see her. I look a deplorable object after so much traveling and after two sleepless nights I am so sleepy that I can scarcely keep my eyes open, and must go to bed at once."

"Poor boy—you must indeed be tired!" murmured Mrs. Harold, fixing her keen gaze upon his pale haggard face.

"And thirsty," assented Dudley turning towards her with a pleasant smile. "I am going to petition you, Betty, for a jug of that iced water which Vernon condemns so strongly, to place by my bedside in the American fashion. I feel as if I could drink up the sea!"

Not a musle of Mrs. Harold's face moved. Yet both Dudley and Betty fancied that they caught a sudden gleam in her sunken eyes.

She parted from the young man affectionately.

"In three days' time you will be my son," she said, and gave him her clammy cold hand.

"In three days' time!" he returned, gallantly bending over the hooked fingers.

"Oh, Dudley, it was all horrible!" Betty whispered, as soon as they found themselves in the passage outside.

"This is only the first act," he returned sardonically. "There is much worse to come. And now go downstairs, dear, and make and send me up some of the strongest and blackest of coffee—coffee that would keep the Seven Sleepers wide awake!"

"But I thought——"

"Ah, that's just what you must not do! Good night, Betty!"

But, tired as Dudley had declared himself to be, when he reached his own room, he made no attempt to go to bed. Instead, during the earlier portion of the night, he paced restlessly backward and forwards in his slippers from his own room to that recently occupied by his brother.

The mystery of the shadowy hand beheld by Betty was now partly clear to him, for a close examination of the wooden partition between the head of Victor's bed and the haunted room had revealed to him the fact that a portion of the panelling was loose and had recently been cut neatly out, and that afterwards narrow strips of wall-paper had been deftly pasted over the edges of the cut-out portion, so that the wall should again present a uniform appearance.

"But I will not give any one the trouble to make a hole in the wall in order to poison me," he said to himself with a sombre smile, as at eleven o'clock he extinguished the light and got, fully dressed, into bed.

Close to his bedside he had placed a small table, upon which stood in a conspicuous position the jug of iced water for which he had made request, a glass, a candle, and a box of matches while under his pillow lay the loaded revolver.

The room was very dark, for, although the moon shone brilliantly, the green blind and the heavy window-curtains effectively shut out the light. More than once slight sounds about the house caused Dudley to grasp the revolver; but it was not until after the hour of midnight had sounded from the clock on the adjacent stables that anything happened to rivet his attention.

He had purposely left the door of his room unlatched, and more than an hour before he had heard Francesca retire to her room, which was next to his, after bidding her foster-mother "Good night." Preternaturally wakeful and alert, the sound which first caught his ears after midnight was the stealthy opening of a door and the withdrawal and insertion of a key in a lock.

He started up in bed to listen. He imagined that the sound proceeded from Francesca's room. Then there was silence, followed shortly by a slow rustling, as of a person in a dress of stiff brocade moving along the corridor

His heart beat loud and fast. In his mind's eye he could already see the baleful figure which had so terrified Betty, the malignant "thing" that, gliding in and out of old Margaret Revelsworth's room, had left death behind it and whose claw-like hands, thrust through the panelling of the haunted room, had brought death to his unsuspecting brother.

Dudley's teeth were clenched, his hand was on his revolver, when "creak"—the sound came for which he had been waiting, and the "thing" was in the room with him.

By almost superhuman self-control, he lay still and drew his breath as regularly as he could to resemble the breathing of a sleeping person. The creature's tread was noiseless, and only a slight, a very slight rustling betrayed its presence. But, as he strained his eyes to pierce the darkness, a luminous patch revealed itself to him at a height of less than five feet from the ground

He knew what it meant, and laughed to himself.

"It will guide my aim," he thought, and waited.

At length, after another spell of perfect stillness, there fell upon his ear the sound of the slow dropping of liquid into the jug of iced water at his bedside.

This was the signal for which he had waited.

Thrusting out his hand, he caught the fingers of the unknown object in a grasp so savage that the phial they held was shattered into a thousand splinters. The "thing" recoiled from him, strove to free itself, fought and writhed like an infuriated cat under his grasp, threw itself upon the ground and strove to wriggle free, and finally buried its sharp teeth in his other hand.

The pain made Dudley drop the revolver, but he did not relax his hold of his enemy; and, without the weapon, he was the better able to cope with this wild creature that bit and tore and kicked and struggled with him in dead silence in his arms, and, rushing to the window, tore aside the curtains, tore down the blind, and let the moonlight stream in and reveal to him what he held.

And then, distorted with rage, and rendered the more hideous by the luminous paint upon her wizened cheeks and the pearl-decked yellow wig awry upon her gray elf-locks, with her fierce black eyes ablaze with a frenzy of baffled rage and hate, and her hands cut and bleeding from the broken glass clawing the air in impotent fury, he beheld, as he knew he should behold the ape-like face of the woman who had sought his aunt's hospitable roof as Francesca's mother, Mrs. Harold Revelsworth!

CHAPTER XXIX.

"She knew nothing of it! Don't tell her! She is innocent! She will never forgive me!"

That was all in the nature of a confession or an explanation which could be wrested from Dudley's captive.

He had not even asked so much as that, but had contented himself with securing her hands behind her back with a knotted handkerchief, and, after leading her to her room and placing her in her invalid-chair, he had tied her feet together and fastened her securely with blind-cord, which he had cut down for that purpose.

The old woman had pretended paralysis and helplessness long enough—she should taste the reality now.

As Dudley turned to leave the room without deigning to address one word to her, she broke into a volley of curses in her native tongue. At the door he stopped to look at her.

A light was burning brightly by the mantelpiece, and showed him a figure of such grotesque hideousness that, but for the seriousness of the situation and of the work which lay before him he felt he must have laughed aloud.

In her torn and crumpled gown of yellow brocade, with a limp ruff dangling round her skinny throat, and an absurd golden wig hanging among her unkept hair, this little, ugly, evil-looking woman, crouching in the chair with her feet tied together beneath it spitting curses at him in a foreign tongue, looked like nothing in the world but one of the nondescript figures carried about in derision by English boys on the fifth of November.

As Dudley looked at her, his face must have shown something of the feeling with which she inspired him for she suddenly stopped cursing, and addressed him in English in tones that were almost humble.

"You are not going to her, are you? You will not bring her here? Ah do what you like to me, signor, but do not let me face her!"

Dudley looked at her, frowning with disgust, but did not vouchsafe one word in reply. With his hand upon the handle of the door, he turned, again to her.

"I suppose it is useless to expect anything but lies from you," he said sternly. "But why did you want to kill me as well as the others?"

"So that Francesca should have all the money, and so that she should not marry you," the woman answered promptly. "What are you going to do to me?"

"Lock you in here until I send for the police," he answered laconically. "Later on, you will be tried and hanged."

To that the woman answered not a word; and he drew the key from the inside of the door and, passing out into the passage, locked her in and thrust the key into his pocket.

There was still Francesca to be faced But he felt strong enough for any ordeal, and, going to her door, he tapped sharply upon the pannels.

"I have something to say to you," he called to his cousin. "You must get up and dress and come down-stairs and hear it."

"I have been dressed for a long time," Francesca answered from the other side of the door. "I was disturbed by a noise in the next room, and I have been trying to get out and calling for some one to unfasten the door. I am locked in."

If she had indeed called for help Dudley certainly had not heard her But she was speaking the truth about the key. It had been turned in the lock by her foster-mother, and Dudley remembered to have heard her withdraw it and insert it again before she crept into his own room on her deadly errand.

He turned the key in the lock and stepped aside to let Francesca come out. There was no light in the passage but he was enabled by the light of the moon to see that she was dressed in a clinging garment of soft black crape with here and there a gleam of silver among its folds, that her white neck shone through the diaphonous draping of the material, and that her magnificent hair flowed loosely over her shoulders, caught together with a comb surmounted by a diamond crown

Francesca stood still for a moment looking at him.

"You want to speak to me, Dudley dear!" she said sweetly. "Where shall we talk?"

"In the billiard-room," he answered shortly, and strode thither in front of her without a glance behind him

As he was lighting the gas, she laid her hand upon his arm.

"Not in here," she said pleadingly with a little shudder. "It is so cold and bare and chill and unfriendly!"

"I have nothing friendly to say to you," he returned harshly. "This room will do as well as any other."

"Please—I must have my own way in this!" she demurred, with that half-caressing, half-imperative accent he knew so well. "Even if we are going to be unfriendly, we will be unfriendly comfortably. Come to my little room!"

Without waiting for his assent she moved before him in her trailing black garments towards the room she had furnished on the same floor, and directed him to light the lamp of ruby glass suspended by silver chains from the ceiling, the wax candles attached to sconces on the wall, and the tall lamp under an amber shade, which stood near her tapestry-frame in the farther corner of the room.

Dudley chafed over the delay and what seemed to him the ridiculous trifling at such a moment. But, when, having carried out her directions, he turned to face her, he understood her reason for giving them.

She had curled herself among the silken cushions piled upon the window-seat, and, as she gazed at him with brilliant blue eyes, half sitting, half reclining, resting her cheek upon her white arm, round which the enamelled snake bracelet clung, she looked more beautiful than he had ever seen her yet—the living embodiment of a great Florentine painter's dream.

He had never seen her hair unbound before. He had never thought such hair could grow on a woman's head, wave after wave of perfumed silk, in color varying from a reddish-brown to the purest gold. It rippled about her, over the yellow silk cushions, over her arms and shoulders gleaming white through sleeves of black crape, and it even lay, when she bent her head, like a carpet of feathers upon the floor. Hair to her knees, smelling so sweetly, and eyes blue and clear as at child's, and a figure every curve of which was perfection in its full womanly grace, and a skin like a pale-pink wild-rose, soft and smooth as a peach to the touch, and under it—oh, the pity of it!—a soul hard and callous and cruel!

So Dudley thought as he looked down at her with pale set face and eyes in which no charm of hers could light one spark of passion again.

"Why don't you sit down, Dudley?" she inquired at last. "You look so fearfully serious standing there! And, besides, you must be tired after all that traveling."

CHAPTER XXX.

Dudley bent his head.

"You are perfectly free," he said coldly, "to make what statements you please. They will not alter the course of conduct I am resolved to follow."

"You mean," she said, with a touch of scorn, "that, having decided with your confederate Betty that I am guilty of all manner of unheard-of crimes, you don't intend to listen to anything I may have to say."

"I am listening."

"Where are your proofs, then?" she burst out passionately, coming close to him. "By what right do you dare to connect me with the death from heart-disease of aunt Margaret, or with the death by drowning of your brother Victor?"

"Your foster-mother, as you know perfectly well, murdered them both. Creeping into my aunt's room in the ghost disguise, she killed her; then, secreting herself in the haunted room, by means of a removable panel, she dropped her infernal decoction into the cooling drink you prepared for my brother. To-night she made an attempt to poison me; but, luckily, I was on my guard and expected her."

"And do you mean to say," she asked, coming closer still to him, so that she

(To be continued.)

Piles To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & CO., Toronto.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

NOTHING KILLS LIKE

WILSONS FLY PADS

ALL DRUGGISTS

A Sure Cure for Headaches. — Bilious headache, to which women are more subject than men, becomes so acute in some subjects that they are utterly prostrated. The stomach refuses food, and there is a constant and distressing effort to free the stomach from bile which has become unduly secreted there. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are a speedy alternative, and in neutralizing the effects of the intruding bile relieves the pressure on the nerves which cause the headache. Try them.

When one gets hopping mad his reason goes on a crutch.

Will be Found an Excellent Remedy for sick headache. Carter's Little Liver Pills. Thousands of letters from people who have used them prove this fact. Try them.

Many a man's self-conceit is due to his ignorance.

The Well Known Strengthening Properties of IRON, combined with other tonics and a most perfect nervine, are found in Carter's Iron Pills, which strengthen the nerves and body, and improve the blood and complexion.

The average watch represents but 12 hours of human labor.

There is nothing equal to Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator for destroying worms. No article of its kind has given such satisfaction.

All trails are long to the lazy.

Some persons have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhoea, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for all summer Complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

Coral is a talisman against thunder and evils by flood and field.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of "Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup," and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

The wildcat's teeth are close to its purr.

Will positively cure sick headache and prevent its return. Carter's Little Liver Pills. This is not talk, but truth. One pill a dose, See advertisement. Small pill, Small dose. Small price.

A long portage makes a heavy canoe.

To Those of Sedentary Occupation. —Men who follow sedentary occupations, which deprive them of fresh air and exercise, are more prone to disorders of the liver and kidneys than those who lead active, outdoor lives. The former will find in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills a restorative without question the most efficacious on the market. They are easily procurable, easily taken, act expeditiously, and they are surprisingly cheap considering their excellence.

It takes money to voice the opinion of a lawyer.

UNTOLD MISERY — WHAT A WELL-KNOWN COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER SUFFERED, AND HOW HE WAS CURED.—Gentlemen, About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at that time travelling for Messrs. Walter Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine and when the third bottle was finished, I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery believing that the persistent use of it will cure any case of Dyspepsia.
(Signed),
T. S. McINTEE.

Much talk, many lies.

He Has Tried It.—Mr. John Anderson, Kimloss, writes: "I venture to say few, if any, have received greater benefit from the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, than I have. I have used it regularly for over ten years and have recommended it to all sufferers I knew of, and they also found it of great virtue in cases of severe bronchitis and incipient consumption."

The best way to get even is to forget.

Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum

RAINY WEATHER NEEDS.

What a lot of weather we are having, very hot, then rainy and cold. Whether the weater is clear or whether the weather is cloudy, the fact remains that we have waterprof coats in plenty, guaranteed to keep out the wet.

A Few Specials

We have just received a few specials that should be of interest to you. There are so many very low priced, useless coats on the market that these extra good ones at moderate prices will surely prove fast sellers. Two lines, one dark the other medium, pure rainproof, velvet collar, raglan pocket and cuff, coats made to sell at $7.50. OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY $5.00.

A FEW BETTER

Then we have some extra good ones at $7, $8 and $10, coats that you would have to pay much more for in other stores. If you are thinking of a rainproof coat, come in and take a look around.

OAK HALL

Sole Agents for Sanfords Celebrated Clothing.

Holiday seekers will find full lines of

Trunks and Travelling Bags

At The J. J. Haines Shoe Houses.

Steamer, Trunks Round and Flat Top Trunks

Canvas, Leather or Metal Covered Trunks.

Bags, Suit Cases, TELESCOPE VALISES

Fibre Cases, Club Bags, Shawl Straps, etc.

TEMPTING Shoe Bargains on our Bargain Tables for old or young.

The J. J. Haines SHOE HOUSES at Belleville, Napanee and Trenton

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Sir Walter Besant.

The inscription upon the bronze bas-relief to be placed in St. Paul's Cathedral in memory of Sir Walter Besant runs as follows :—

Sir Walter Besant,
Novelist,
Historian of London,
Secretary of the Palestine Exploration Fund, Originator of the People's Palace, and Founder of the Society of Authors.
This Monument is Erected
by
His Grateful Brethren in Literature.

Origin of Woolwich.

Woolwich Arsenal, according to The London Chronicle, is said to owe its existence to an explosion. According to the story, the Surveyor-General gave orders that some old French guns, captured by the Duke of Marlborough, should be recast into English guns at Moorfields. A young Swiss student, Andrew Schalch, who was travelling in search of scientific knowledge, happened to be present, and noted that the moulds to receive the molten metal were not dry. He spoke to the authorities of the danger, but the metal was run, and the generation of steam in the damp mould caused an explosion, attended with loss of life. Schalch was subsequently summoned to the Ordnance Office, his abilities tested, and he was then requested to select a site for a new foundry. His choice fell on Woolwich, where he was superintendent of the arsenal for many years.

In the culture of squashes the use of pieces of mosquito netting eighteen inches square to place over the hills while the young plants are getting started is recommended as a protection against the striped cucumber beetle or squash bugs. A small wooden pin six inches in height is placed in the centre of the hill, the netting thrown over it to form a tent, and the sides fastened down with dirt.

Improving the Flock.

The common sheep is capable of much improvement by the use of well selected pure-bred rams of some desirable breed. The half-bred progeny of such a cross sometimes may appear to be equal in every respect to the pure-bred stock and is unquestionably so for all purposes except breeding. A few repeated crosses in this line will build up a flock to all appearances equal to the pure-bred original stock, writes Field and Farm. Of course there is great advantage to the shepherd who may procure as good blood as may exist but which is not of course held to be of equal value to the pure stock breeder. This applies to all well established breeds. The scale of points of the pure breeds is very exacting and a majority of lambs of the pure breeds do not fully come up to it. Hence there are grades of prices as of quality—the highest for exacting buyers, a second rate for the one who thinks pedigree is everything and who takes a second-class animal thinking that the blood will cover up some of the faults. The third class is the bargain hunter who takes the poorest stock at the lowest prices and boasts of the blood, but has no backing of quality to support it.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Good evening.

* * *

"You say you've been to Wellington," said the Stony Lonesome philosopher. "Nonsense! You've just escaped from the Mohawk Reserve!"

* * *

We'll have to spring one fish story, e'en though our reputation for veracity never recovers from the shock: Ten bass, one pickerel and eight rock fish is a pretty good morning's catch. What do you think? And if you don't believe that story we can take you over and show you the water the fish were caught in.

* * *

By the way, how is it that net fishing of all kinds is prohibited in East and West Lakes, at Wellington, and is allowed in the Bay of Quinte? An American gentleman, who is sojourning at Wellington, fishing, had pleasant memories of Belleville, where he used to come when the fishing was good. Now he has no use for our pretty little city at all. "Nice little place, sir," he said, "and nice people, but it's fishin' I'm looking for, and the nets have ruined that in your bay."

* * *

Now, isn't it about time something was done to bring about a betterment of this state of affairs. If net fishing can be prohibited in other bodies of water, surely it can here. If a petition were circulated it would no doubt be liberally signed. Hundreds of people say it should be done, yet nobody will take the initiative. This is not a matter of sporting sentiment; it is a matter of dollars and cents for some of our people, and we would respectfully draw the attention of our business men to the question, which might also be taken up by that eminent and urbane gentleman, J. M. Hurley, Esq., ex-M.P., F.I.

* * *

It was rather wet for the Sunday School excursions yesterday, but the Baptists, of course, were right in their element.

* * *

The Conservatives, if the Grit Redistribution Bill becomes law, will lose twenty-five seats. That's enough to make a man stand up and shout for justice.

CRAMPS ARE LIKE BURGLARS.

They come unexpected and when they are least welcome. Be armed with a one-minute cure for cramps and keep Polson's Nerviline handy; it acts instantaneously. Nerviline's anodyne power is unique, for its composition expresses the highest medical progress of the age. Polson's Nerviline is a true comfort in the family, for in all derangements of the stomach and bowels it is an absolute specific. Nerviline has five times greater medicinal value than any other remedy and is sold in large 25 cent bottles. Try it.

Five Years For Murder.

Pittsburg, July 16.—Dr. Walter P. Kountz, convicted recently of killing John E. Walsh, a wealthy contractor, was sentenced yesterday to five years in the penitentiary.

British Statue to Washington.

London, July 16.—At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Pilgrims' Club last night a committee was appointed to give effect to the recent suggestion to erect a statue to George Washington in London. It was decided that the subscriptions should be entirely confined to British subjects.

Eight Persons Killed.

Liverpool, July 16.—The Southport express train, crowded with passengers, jumped the track last evening at Waterloo, five miles from Liverpool. Eight persons were killed and 15 injured, according to late reports.

Healthful Action of The Bowels

IS ABSOLUTELY ESSENTIAL TO GOOD HEALTH.—DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

By increasing and invigorating the action of the liver and thus securing a good flow of bile—nature's own cathartic—Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills ensure regular and healthful action of the bowels. This is the only means by which constipation can be actually cured and a host of serious derangements prevented. Disease can find no lodgement when the kidneys, liver and bowels are kept regularly active by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. 10

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

THE MARKETS.

Wheat Futures Continue Firm at Chicago—Large Decrease in the Visible Supply—The Latest Quotations.

Wednesday Evening, July 15.

Liverpool wheat futures closed ½d higher to-day than yesterday, and corn futures unchanged to ⅜d lower.

At Chicago, Sept. wheat closed ¼c higher to-day, Sept. corn ⅛c lower, and Sept. oats ⅜c higher.

Bradstreet reports a decrease of 4,100,000 bushels in the world's visible supply of wheat for the past week, as against a decrease of 2,263,000 bushels the corresponding week of last year.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London—Close—Wheat on passage quiet but steady; No. 1 hard Manitoba, shipment within a month, 31s 4½d. Maize on passage quieter and hardly any demand.

Paris—Close—Wheat, tone quiet; July 24f 80c, Nov. and Dec. 22f 20c. Flour, tone steady; July 32f 00c, Nov. and Dec. 30f 15c.

Antwerp—Wheat, spot quiet; No. 2 R. W., 16¾f.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

Following are the closing quotations at important wheat centres to-day:

	Cash.	July.	Sept.	Dec.
New York	....	....	81¼	82
Chicago	....	....	77⅜	77
Toledo	78⅜	78⅜	78⅜	79¼
Duluth, No. 1 N.	85⅜	85⅜	77⅞	75⅝

TORONTO ST. LAWRENCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, read, bush.......	$0 77 to $....
Wheat, white, bush......	0 77	....
Wheat, spring, bush......	0 70	0 72
Wheat, goose, bush......	0 70	....
Barley, bush.	0 42½	....
Beans, bush.	1 30	1 50
Beans, hand-picked......	1 75	....
Peas, bush.	0 78½	....
Rye, bush.	0 45	....
Oats, bush.	0 36	....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, July 15.—Wheat—Spot, No. 1 Northern spring dull, 6s 5d; No. 2 red western winter quiet, 6s 2½d; No. 1 Cal. dull, 6s 6½d. Futures dull; July 6s 6⅝d, Sept. 6s 3⅜d, Dec. 6s 3½d. Corn—Spot easy; American mixed, 4s 6d. Futures quiet; July 4s 6½d, Sept. 4s 5⅜d. Beef—Extra India mess, 67s 6d; quiet. Pork—Prime mess, western, quiet, 78s 9d. Cheese—Dull; finest white, 47s; do., colored, 48s 6d.

NEW YORK GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

New York, July 15.—Flour—Receipts, 21,-606 barrels; sales, 3850 packages. Flour was steady, without much change, full prices being maintained. Rye flour steady.

Wheat—Receipts, 31,500 bushels; sales, 925,400 bushels. Wheat opened easier on foreign selling and good weather, but was rallied by western support, coupled with unfavorable crop news. July 84½c, Sept. 81⅝c to 82 5-16c, Dec. 81⅝c to 82 3-16c.

Rye—Dull; state, 58c to 59½c, c.i.f., New York; No. 2 western, 60c, f.o.b., afloat.

Corn—Receipts, 79,100; sales, 35,000 bushels. Corn acted steady with wheat, but rather quiet locally. Dec. 56c to 56⅜c.

Oats—Receipts, 66,800 bushels. Oats were neglected but fairly steady; track, white 42½c to 49c.

Sugar—Raw firm; fair refining, 3¼c; centrifugal, 96 test, 3⅜c; molasses sugar, 2⅞c; refined firm. Coffee—Quiet; No. 7 Rio, 5 3-16c.

Lead—Quiet. Wool—Firm. Hops—Firm.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, July 15.—Butter—Steady to firm, unchanged; receipts, 15,242.

Cheese—Steady, unchanged; receipts, 4387.

Eggs—Quiet, unchanged; receipts, 10,945.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Common Cattle Still Declining at Montreal.

London, July 15.—Live cattle steady at 11c to 12c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 10c to 11½c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 8⅝c per lb. Sheep, 10½c to 12c.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, July 15.—About 700 head of butchers' cattle, 200 calves and 600 sheep and lambs were offered for sale at the East End Abattoir to-day. Trade in cattle was slow and the prices of common cattle are still declining, and a considerable number of these will not be sold to-day. Prime beeves sold at from 4⅜c to near 5c per lb., but none of them were choice, as some that were sold on Monday's market at 5¼c per lb. Medium cattle sold at from 3½c to 4¼c, and the common stock at from 2⅜c to 3¼c per lb. Calves sold at from $2 to $8 each, or at from 3c to 5c per lb. Sheep sold at from 3c to 3⅜c per lb. Lambs sold at from $2.50 to near $4 each, or at from 4c to 4½c per lb. Good lots of fat hogs sold at from 5½c to 5⅜c per lb., weighed off cars. Some of the large farmers living near to the city were on the market to-day buying thrifty young stock to put on pasture for several months. Mr. W. Sinnamon of Pointe aux Trembles, has bought over 80 stockers here lately, paying from 2½c to 2⅜c per lb.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, July 15.—Cattle—Receipts, 80 head; steady; prime and shipping steers, $4.90 to $5.40; butchers' steers, $4.25 to $4.90; cows and heifers, $2.50 to $4.75; bulls, $3.25 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $3.25 to $4.15.

Veals—Receipts, 75 head; dull; $5 to $6.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 3000 head; 10c to 15c lower; heavy, $5.50 to $5.55; mixed, $5.50 to $5.60; Yorkers, $5.90 to $6; light Yorkers, $6 to $6.10; roughs, $4.75 to $4.90; stags, $4 to $4.25; light dairies, $5.80 to $5.85; heavy dairies, $5.25 to $5.30.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 400 head; sheep steady; lambs strong; lambs, $4 to $6.75; yearlings, $4.50 to $5; ewes, $3.50 to $3.75; sheep, mixed, $2 to $4; wethers, $4.25 to $4.50.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, July 15.—Beeves—Receipts, 2685; steers slow; steady to 10c higher; bulls steady to 10c lower; cows unchanged; steers, $4.25 to $5.50; oxen and stags, $3.15 to $4.90; bulls, $2.50 to $3.50; cows, $1.75 to $4; extra fat do., $4.15. Exports, 5500 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 4400; veals 25c lower; buttermilks 25c to 50c lower; slow trade; veals, $4 to $6.25; tops, $6.50; tail ends, $3.50; grassers and buttermilks, $2.50 to $2.75; mixed calves, $3 to $4; city dressed veals, 7c to 9½c per lb.; extra, 10c.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 4540; good, handy sheep higher; others full steady; lambs firm to 10c higher; sheep, $2.50 to $4; lambs, $5.50 to $6.85.

Hogs—Receipts, 5147; market 10c to 20c lower; state hogs, $6 to $6.30; rough western, $5.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, July 15.—Cattle—Receipts, 18,-000, including 500 Texans; steady, to 10c lower; good to prime steers, $5 to $5.50; poor to medium, $4 to $5; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.50; cows and heifers, $1.50 to $4.50; canners, $1.50 to $2.75; culls, $2 to $4.35; calves, $2.50 to $6; Texas fed steers, $3.25 to $4.

Hogs—Receipts to-day, 26,000; estimated for to-morrow, 25,000; left over, 5000; strong to 5c higher; mixed and butchers', $5 to $5.40; good to choice heavy, $5.25 to $5.40; rough heavy, $4.90 to $5.25; light, $5.30 to $5.70; bulk of sales, $5.25 to $5.40.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 12,000; sheep, steady; lambs, opened steady and closed lower; good to choice wethers, $3.75 to $4; fair to choice mixed, $3 to $3.75; native lambs, $3 to $6.50.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Woodstock, Ont., July 15.—At the Woodstock Cheese Board here to-day, 2208 boxes of colored cheese were offered, and 1821 boxes of white. Colored, 9⅝c to 9½c; white, 9⅝c to 9½c. Two lots sold at 9⅝c and 9 9-16c. Ten buyers present.

Stirling, Ont., July 15.—At Stirling Cheese Board to-day, 1190 cheese were boarded. Sales: Magrath, 640 at 9½c; Cook, 300 at 9 7-16c; Rollins, 100 at 9 7-16c; Alexander, 90 at 9 7-16c.

Quarantine Removed.

Boston, July 16.—The quarantine placed upon cattle in this state last November, because of the outbreak of foot and mouth disease, was removed yesterday.

Mr W. Denham

Of Denham's Drug Store, Petrolea, Ont., says:

"The O. R. Kidney Cure gives the best satisfaction to our customers of any kidney medicine we handle."

Belleville druggists speak highly of the O. R. Kidney Cure.

It does its work quickly.
It cures Lame Back.
It cures Lumbago.
It cures Bladder Trouble.
It cures Gravel in Bladder.
It cures Rheumatism.
It cures Kidney Troubles.
It will cure you.
Try one bottle.

O. R. KIDNEY CURE is put up in liquid form, contains no poisons, is quickly assimilated and will cure all kidney and urinary troubles.

O. R. Kidney Cure, 50c per bottle.
O. R. Liver Pills, 25c per bottle.
O. R. Dyspepsia Tablets 25c per box.

AT DRUGGISTS, OR WRITE—

THE O. R. MEDICINE CO.,
Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Curse —OF— DRINK

CURED BY
COLONIAL REMEDY

No taste. No Odor. Can be given in a glass of water tea, or coffee, without patient's knowledge.

Colonial Remedy will cure or destroy the diseased appetite for alcoholic stimulants, whether the patient is a confirmed inebriate, "tippler," social drinker or drunkard. Impossible for anyone to have an appetite or alcoholic liquors after using Colonial Remedy.

Indorsed by Members of the W.C.T.U

Mrs. Moore, Superintendent of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Ventura, Cal., writes: "I have tested Colonial Remedy on very obstinate drunkards, and the cures have been many. In many cases the Remedy was given secretly. I cheerfully recommend and endorse Colonial Remedy. Members of our Union are delighted to find a practical and economical treatment to aid us in our temperance work."

Sold by druggists everywhere and by mail.

Price $1. Trial package free by writing or calling on Mrs. M. A. Cowan (for years member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union), 2204 St. Catherine St., Montreal.

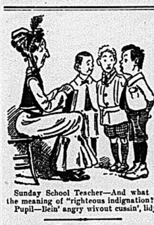
Sold in Belleville by F. Chas. Clarke Front St. and D. M. Waters, Bridge St

Why not own a copy of our 400 page "Guide to Investors." We mail it free, also send for our "Daily Market Letter." Correspondence solicited.

HAIGHT & FREESE CO.

Stocks, Bonds, Grain, Cotton.
7 Melinda St., Toronto, Ont.

"Determining the character and financial responsibility of your Broker, is as important as selection of right stocks"



Sunday School Teacher—And what is the meaning of "righteous indignation?"

Pupil—Bein' angry wivout cussin', lidy.

Reasons Why.

A correspondence has been taking place in an exchange with regard to the reason why men don't go to church, and as we know something about it, we beg to offer the following additional reasons:

Because the church won't come to them.

Because the missus goes there.

Because they want to smoke.

Because they are not allowed to show their new hats.

Because they cannot stand a man having all the conversation to himself.

Because they want exercise.

Because they want rest.

Because it reminds them of their wedding-day.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

SINGLE FARE

To Detroit and Return

in connection with

INTERNATIONAL EPWORTH LEAGUE CONVENTION,

July 16th to 19th.

Tickets good going July 15th and 16th. Valid for return until July 20th. Tickets may be extended for return until August 15th, on depositing tickets with joint agent not later than July 19th, and on payment of 50 cents.

The Grand Trunk service is unexcelled for those attending the convention. Fast and convenient.

TOURIST RESORTS.

Muskoka Lakes, Georgian Bay, Lake of Bays, Kawartha Lakes, Thousand Islands, Quebec, Portland, Old Orchard, White Mountains. All reached via the Grand Trunk.

For tickets and all information apply to

C. E. THOMPSON, City Agent,
Bridge Street,
T. H. COPPIN, Depot Agent,
J. D. McDONALD,
Dist. Pass Agt., Toronto.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

"Imperial Limited."

Fast tri-weekly Transcontinental service between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. Connection leaves Toronto at 1.45 p.m., Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, making run Toronto to Vancouver in 97 hours.

Upper Lake Steamships

Leave Owen Sound Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 5.30 p.m., on arrival of S.S. Express leaving Toronto at 1.30 p.m. Connections at Fort William and Port Arthur for Winnipeg and Pacific Coast points.

Daily First-Class Service Toronto to Winnipeg, Calgary, Banff and Pacific Coast.

Fully Equipped Through Tourist Cars leave Toronto Tuesday and Saturday for Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Full particulars from your nearest Canadian Pacific Agent or to

A. H. NOTMAN,
Asst. Gen. Pass. Agent, TORONTO.
S. BURROWS, C.P.R. and General Ticket Agent, Front St., Belleville

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& HUDSON RIVER R. R.
THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.		After 1st May
Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)	12.22 p.m.	1.30 a.m
Arr. Kingston "	1.47 p.m.	3 12 a.m
Lv. Kingston (stage)..	2.30 p.m.	5 00 a.m
Arr. Cape Vincent (stage)	4 30 p.m.	7.00 a.m
Lv. Cape Vincent N.Y.C.	5.05 p.m.	7.25 a.m
Arr. Watertown "	5.55 p.m.	8,25 a.m
Arr. Oswego "	9.05 p.m.	11.55 a.m
Arr. Syracuse "	9.25 p.m.	12.07 p.m
Arr. Rochester "	1.05 a.m.	2.20 a.m
Arr. Utica "	9.45 p.m.	12.35 p.m
Arr. New York "	7.25 a.m.	6.00 p.m

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C. R. R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from F. A. Folger, N.Y.C. Agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent.
New York.
A. H. SMITH, Gen'l Supt.,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

Trial by jury in Britain dates from the reign of Ethered I., 866–871 A.D.

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

Shoes and Slippers

FOR SUMMER WEAR.

Ladies' Fine Low Shoes—ranging in price from 50c to $3.75

Ladies' Fine Strap Slippers—prices from 75c to $3.00

See our assortment of Children's Slippers, ranging in price from 25c to $1.25

We carry a large stock of Trunks and Valises, Dress Suit Cases, Club Bags, Cabin Trunks, etc.

VERMILYEA & SON.

Sole Agents for the famous Queen Quality Shoe.

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY! 2 WEEKS

$5.00 Any Suit In This Great Clothing Store for $5.00

A STUPENDOUS CLOTHING OFFER WITHOUT PRECEDENT OR PARALLEL.

Some Suits $18, some $16, some $15, some $12, others $10. Just think of it! High grade, thoroughly tailored garments for Men, complete suits in fashionable fabrics, for

$5.00

This is just the opening gun in the great Mid-Summer Sale, in connection with this store. In every other department there will be equal sensational reductions. This Clothing Sale begins on July 11th and will end on July 25th. The earlier you come the better your choice as we anticipate a big rush.

The GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE.

Up-to-date Clothiers and Gents' Furnishiers, Look for the Globe Over The Door, 390 Front Street, Belleville.

Wall Paper

At first sight of our Wall Papers you will say there's an attractiveness about them that puts them lengths ahead of other lines.

IN STOCKING

we select only the best, we have no "shelf warmers" all our Papers are quick sellers. If you choose your Papers from us you have best value for the price obtainable anywhere.

Painting, Paperhanging and Decorating done on shortest notice by best workmen in the city.

JOHN CORNELIUS.
3 Doors South of Intelligencer Office.

NEW GOODS
JAPAN TEA

The first of this season's crop, exta quality, regular 50c line, we quote

40c Per lb.

Canned Halibut

Fine solid Fish, very tasty,

15c per can.

J. C. Hanley & Co.
GROCERS
Telephone 214

Flowers & Vegetables
Of all kinds in season.
...AT...
J. D. COLLIP'S.
'Phone 205.

Western Beef.

Prime Western Beef together with all kinds of choice meats, supplied by the district, at

C. GREEN'S
267 Front St., 'Phone 109.

The Housewives' Strike.

(From the Chronicles of Uncle Ike.)

No, I haven't forgotten the time Local Union Number One of the Amalgamated Society of Housewives of British North America went out on strike. It came right home to me, Mrs. Ike being a member of that late lamented organization.

It was off day at the shop. I'd calculated to take Mrs. Ike out for a drive, but she refused. "I'm ever so happy that you should have thought of it, Ike," she says, "and you know I'd far rather go with you than to the meeting, but," says she, "my obligation as a member of the Housewives calls for my attendance, except when physically impossible."

"Well," I says, "if you go for a drive with me 'twould be physically impossible to go to the meeting, too, so just put on your bonnet——"

"Why does a man always call a woman's hat a bonnet?" she interrupts, rather sharp like.

"Well, whatever it is," I answers, kinder apologizingly, "put it on and we'll go for a drive."

"I misdoubt, Ike," she says, shaking her head; "your sense of honor is somewhat warped."

"Where?" I asks, pretending to be anxious. "I don't feel drawn up anywhere, and, moreover," I went on, "s'long as my horse sense is in good working order we'll not worry much about the other senses except the sense of taste."

"Thinking of your supper already," says Mrs. Ike. "Just like a man!" And then she kissed me, hoped I wouldn't get lonely before she came back, and departed.

About the time she was due for supper I thought to myself, "How'd it do for me to have it ready for her when she comes in," and I was so pleased with myself for thinking of such a thing that I almost allowed it to stop at the thought. However, after a severe mental struggle, as the story books say, and a good deal of searching, I succeeded in getting the table set, and had just put a kettleful of water on the gas stove when Mrs. Ike came in. She looked a little bit surprised when she saw what I had done, but she sat down without saying anything more than was necessary.

"Well," I says, wondering why she hadn't fussed some about setting the things out, "nothing for you to do but just warm up the p'tatoes and meat left over from dinner, and that won't take you long."

"You'll have to do it yourself," she says, trying to speak very firm.

"Not to-day, thank you," says I, thinking she was just joking. "D'ye remember what happened the last time I tried to cook a meal the day you hurt your hand?" my mind going back to a day when I'd let a fine roast of beef burn to a crisp.

She looked uncomfortable, but answered back, "You'll have to do it; there's a strike on."

"Strike!" I just yelled the word.

"Yes," says Mrs. Ike, a bit angry like. "Why not?" she says. "Men have their strikes, why not the women?"

Well, I didn't know why, but I didn't say anything, just stood and stared at her for I don't know how long, and she just looked back.

"Local Union Number One of the Amalgamated Society of Housewives of British North America is on strike," she says, at last.

"That being the case," says I, "Local Branch Number One of the International Married Men's Association 'll have to hold an emergency meeting to-night to consider the situation."

"What!" she gasped; "Why I didn't know there was any such thing."

"No more did I," thinks I to myself, but aloud I says, "Tut, tut! Did ye think the heads of the household were going to be caught napping? We've been expecting this and preparing for it," I says. With that I took the frying pan from a hook at the top of the cellar stairs and managed to knock down a few other pans.

"What are you going to do?" says Mrs. Ike.

"The Married Men," I replied, as dignified as I could, "while refusing to talk for publication, maintain a very calm and confident attitude."

She looked dazed, but managed to rise and say, "I'll get the meat and potatoes."

"The Married Men," says I, waving to her to sit down again, "claim they have all the help they need, and will not re-engage any of their old hands unless the latter surrender unconditionally."

Then she began to look frightened. I went to the pantry to search for the meat. I made all the noise I could and knocked a milk jug to the floor, the ugliest jug you ever saw, and I'm thankful to say it was completely smashed. A woman who came and stayed with us for two weeks at Exhibition time, on the strength of her daughter being acquainted with Mrs. Ike's mother, gave it to us as a souvenir, and just because it was one of that kind it had seemed impossible to break it.

Mrs. Ike, not knowing what I might break next, jumped up and says, all sweet and hesitating: "Ike, we all decided we wouldn't do anything for our husbands to-day, and—and—'twas just foolishness, I—I," and then she stopped. There was a suspicious gleam in her eyes, and I guess my own were gleaming, too. But I opened my arms, and when her head was resting where it had a right to, I says, "It is officially stated that the Married Men and the Housewives have come to terms."

"The agreement," says Mrs. Ike, all sunshine again, "being entirely satisfactory to both parties." W. B.

Kentucky Assassins.

The Louisville correspondent of The New York Post, in an article dealing with the prevalence of assassinations in Kentucky, and which was suggested by the recent remarkable Jett-White trial at Jackson, traces two-thirds of the assassinations in that State to politics. He adds that the authors of these assassinations are the worst of cowards when it comes to an open fight, the accepted method of the murderers being to lie in wait for a victim, taking aim at a standing object between which and the assassin the unsuspecting traveller must pass. When the latter's figure intervenes, the trigger is pulled and the fatal shot fired, or, if the man is only wounded, another shot completes the work. Strangely enough, murderers of this class have, according to the correspondent, been idealized and made heroes by superficial provincial writers, encouraged by a false provincial pride. "There are many people in the State, supposed to be intelligent and law respecting, who have a lurking sympathy with these desperadoes and feel a secret pride in the terror which 'a Kentuckian' is supposed to carry with him wherever he goes. The present Governor has done all he could in published interviews to minimize the atrocities in Breathitt County, and within twenty-four hours after saying through the newspapers that no more troops were needed at Jackson an additional Hotchkiss gun and some forty or fifty more troops were ordered there to reinforce those already guarding the jail where Jett and White are confined, while ten soldiers are deemed necessary to guard the residence of a single witness. Two Hotchkiss guns and one Gatling, with nearly a hundred soldiers, are required to secure the arraignment and trial of two desperadoes, against whom a number of murders are charged, and one of whom the same Governor had previously pardoned for a felony."

"Say, doctor, what's that last $3 item in your bill for?"

"Let me see. Oh, yes; I gave you a thorough examination on that day. Don't you remember?"

"Sure I remember. But do you suppose I'm going to pay you for that when you took up an hour of my time and then couldn't find anything the matter with me, after all?"—Buffalo Express.

Mrs. Tomkins—Yes, my dear, Mrs. Jorkins is very badly bred. I passed her yesterday in the street, and she turned round and looked after me four times.

Not Transparent.

Lawyer Bullyrag—Sir, you have stated under oath that this man had the appearance of a gentleman. Will you be good enough to tell the jury how a gentleman looks, in your estimation?

Witness—Well—er—a gentleman looks—er——

Lawyer Bullyrag—I don't want any of your "ers," sir; and remember that you are under oath. Can you see in this court room any person that looks like a gentleman?

Witness (with sudden asperity)—I could if you would stand out of the way. You're not transparent.

An Eccentric Man's Funeral.

The will of Captain W. F. Norton Louisville's eccentric capitalist and landed proprietor, who died recently at Coronado Beach, contains a clause in which the deceased made these provisions for his funeral, and which is quite as eccentric as that of the late S. J. Major of Ottawa: "That no services of a religious character be held; that a special train of Pullmans be chartered to take his remains from Louisville—'where he has for so long been buried alive'—to Cincinnati; that the buffets of the cars be well stocked with good things to eat and drink, in order that his friends do not thirst or hunger; that while the remains are being cremated at Cincinnati an orchestra render a programme of popular and select music." The programme is attached to the will, and it is stipulated that when an intermission is reached the friends ask the orchestra to join them "in drinking my bon voyage."

The Playful Czar.

London "Truth."

I do not know whether—as stated by a medical journal—Peter the Great first made Spa a fashionable resort. But what I do know is that when his Czarish Majesty—as he was then termed—frequented a watering-place in order to benefit his health, his habits were peculiar. When he visited Marienbad or Carlsbad (I think it was Carlsbad), his doctor recommended him to take three glasses of water on rising. The next day, on calling upon him, he found Peter with three water barrels before him. He had got through the first and was attacking the second, but he complained that he was already feeling somewhat uncomfortable. The doctor assured him that he had recommended three glasses and not three barrels. In order to avoid such mistakes in future, Peter took up a pistol and shot him through the head.

"Pa, what's an auto-da-fe?" "Ask your uncle Billy; he knows more about the French machines than I do."

CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY

CAPITAL

10,000 Shares 7 per cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, par value $100 each, $1,000,000
50,000 Shares Common Stock, par value $100, issued and fully paid 5,000,000
TOTAL CAPITALIZATION $6,000,000

Issues of $1,000,000 00 7 p.c. Preferred Stock in 10,000 Shares of $100 each at par.

This stock is preferred both as to Assets and Dividends.

The shares are entitled to cumulative preferred dividends from the net earnings of the Company, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable half yearly on the first days of April and October. They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at $115.00 per share, at any time after 1st January, 1909.

The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000.00, the whole of which is now offered.

Subscriptions for 10,000 Shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent. Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is $100 Share, as follows

per cent on application,
25 " " on allotment,
35 " " 30 days thereafter.
35 " " 60 days thereafter.

One share of Common, par value $100, given with each share of preferred.

The whole of instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of ... per cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,000 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Novia Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1 000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4000 acres of iron ore deposit, located Natashquan (tidewater) situated on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highest ever discovered, running from 69 per cent to 72 per cent in metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore has been received by the Campany than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

Send for prospectus giving full information as to earnings, reports, etc., etc.

Address all communications and send subscriptions to

COLONIAL SECURITIES CO.,
62 Wall Street, New York City

OR

W. L. MARSTON & COMPANY
110 State Street, Boston

The SAWYER COMPANY.
351 Temple Building, Montreal, Canada.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Measurement Nonpareil—12 lines to th inch.

Display a lvertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions . ne

Reading adverti ements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent advant upon o[illegible] contract rates.

Minimum space 10 lines.

Marri ges and deaths, [illegible] each insertion.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisement will be found in 1st column of 2nd page.

All advert sements are subject to th approval of the Publisher of the Intelligencer.

Address all communications to the Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House Limited, or to Charles J. Bowell, Managing Director and Treasurer.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s Office, 30 Fleet Street, London, E.C.

CONDENSED ADVERTISEMENTS

SITUATIONS WANTED, HELP WANTED, LOST OR FOUND, FOR SALE OR TO RENT, &c

(Auction Sales not included in this list)

TERMS.—Twenty-five words or less 25c first insertion; two insertions 50c; four insertions, 75c; one week $1.00, two weeks, $1.75, three weeks, $2.25; one month, $2.50. Strictly cash in advance.

WANTED.

Bread baker, at once. Apply to L. H. Foster, Belleville. 1td

A good cook. Apply at once to Mrs. S. J. Millan, Hotel Congress, Kingston, Ont. jy16-1t

Shirt makers wanted and apprentices to learn shirt making. Steady employment. Pay from the start. The Deacon Shirt Co, office 298 Front street.

40 teams, $3.50 per day, railroad work. Transportation free. Apply S. E. Phippen, Dundas street.

100 machinery moulders and coremakers. Steady work. Wages for moulders at least $4.00: coremakers $3.25. Address Post Office Box 511, Toronto. jy9-d10t

$6 per month will buy you a home anywhere under our plan. Live in it while paying for it Write for prospectus. Canadian Home Builders' Association, Manning Chambers, Toronto. jy11-6t

Have you spare time? Increase your income by work at night. Others are doing it. Our goods are used everyday everywhere. Write G. Marshall & Co., Teas, London, Ont.

Agents wanted, $2.50 per day. Apply Cooper, London, Ont. s27-1y

Young men ambitious to learn lucrative trades, of which there are eight in connection with the business. Apply The Belleville Hardware Company, Belleville, Ont. a7dtf

WANTED Reliable Men in every locality throughout Canada to introduce our goods, tacking up show cards on trees, fences, along roads and all conspicuous places, also distributing small advertising matter. Commission or salary $60.00 per month and expenses, not to exceed $2.50 per day. Steady employment to good, honest reliable men. No experience needful. Write for full particulars. THE EMPIRE MEDICINE CO., London, Ont.

TO-LET.

That new solid brick house on Yeomans street. Hard and soft water in kitchen. Good cellar, stable and garden. In perfect order. $6.—J. J. B. Flint. jy16dtf

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

Stone house, 11 rooms, coal furnace, stable, barn. Large grounds. Cor. Frank and Moira Sts. north. Terms reasonable. H. Bull, on premises or Fred Bull, 133 Yonge St., Toronto. Terms easy. ap18-dtf

FOR SALE.

Shingles, shingles, dressed lumber, etc. GEO. WALTON & CO. jy14-1md

Dressed and Matched Lumber of all kinds, at ALFORD'S factory, Market Square. j12-tf

Two surreys, two phaetons, two buggies, one horse. Apply to H. L. CURRY, Pinnacle street. jy9-8td&16,23w

Contractors and masons, any any person requiring lime may procure it from E. G. STAPLEY, Canifton Road, Belleville. New lime always on hand. a9-d&w6m

TO RENT

A house on Moira street containing 8 rooms. All modern conveniences. Possession on or before 20th July.—Adam Henry.. dtf

Goods We Have

at Right Prices

- —Hammocks.
- —Fishing Tackle.
- —Tennis Goods.
- —Golf Goods.
- —Lacrosse Goods.
- —Base Ball Goods.
- —Screen Doors and Windows.
- —Fruit Jars.
- —Fruit Jar Rubbers.
- —Wall Paper.
- —Crystal Glass Vases
- —Glass Ware.
- —Dinner Sets.
- —Toilet Sets.
- —Ladies' Hose.
- —Ladies' Vests.

Everything in smallwares.

AT THE BEE HIVE

Chas. N. Sulman

It Has a Special Claim

on the attention of all Japan tea drinkers.

"SALADA"

Ceylon Natural GREEN tea is superior in infusion to the finest Japan tea grown. It has the advantage of being cleanly prepared and absolutely Pure Sold only in lead packets the same as the celebrated "SALADA" Black tea at 25c and 40c per lb. By all grocers.

SUNSHINE FURNACE

Uniform Heat

Reading comfortably on the ground floor,
Bathing baby comfortably on the second floor,
Writing comfortably on the third floor.
This, in short, is the story of every house heated with a

"Sunshine" Furnace.

The Regulators that divide the warm air are so constructed, and the pipes which carry it to the different registers so arranged, that any quantity of heat desired can be forced to the different rooms or flats of a house.

The "Sunshine" is the only furnace made in which hot-air pipes to first floor do not rob second and third floor pipes.

Burns coal, coke and wood equally well.
Sold by all enterprising dealers.
Write for free illustrated booklet.

McClary's

Makers of the "Famous Active" Range and "Cornwall" Steel Range.

London, Winnipeg. Toronto, Vancouver. Montreal, St. John, N.B.

The W. W. CHOWN CO., Limited.
SOLE AGENTS.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's. At Wallbridge & Clarke's

Supplies For Camp or Cruise

New York Biscuits

In "In-er Seal" pkgs.

Unceda "Jinger" Wafers, Butter Gems, Cheese Biscuits, German Zwieback, Pretzelettes, etc., etc.

Christie's Fancy Biscuits

Fresh supplies every week — 40 varities.

Heintz's Pickles

Heintz's Celery Sauce.
Heintz's India Relish.
Heintz's Sweet Midgets.
Heintz's Sweet Pickles.

Spanish Olives

A fine assortment of Olives from 10cts per bottle up.

Campers Supplies

Essence of Coffee, Condensed Milk, Lime Juice, Raspberry Vinegar, Fancy Cheese, New Pack Lobster and Shrimps, French Sardines, Scallops, Deviled Crabs, Concentrated Soups, French Potage, Beef Extracts, etc., etc.

Pickles and Sauces

A complete assortment of English and American Pickles and Sauces, including Pickled Walnuts, Onions, Chow Chow, Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce, Yorkshire Relish, Mushroom Catsup, Harvey's Sauce, Sultana Sauce, Chutney's Capers, Durkee's Salad Dressing, etc., etc.

Delicious Teas

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious English Breakfast Teas in lead packets at 30, 40, 50 and 60cts per lb.

Canned Meats

New Packs. Finest Quality.

Whole Ox Tongues.
Lunch Tongues.
Lamb's Tongues.
Boned Chicken.
Boned Turkey.
Boned Duck.
Pate de foie.
Potted Ham.
Potted Tongue.
Sliced Dried Beef.
Ham Loaf.
Veal Loaf.
Chicken Tamales.
Lunch Beef.
Lunch Bacon.
Chicken, Ham and Tongue.
Pigs Feet.
Jellied Tenderloins.
Vienna Sausages.
Luncheon Sausages.
Baked Beans—plain or in Tomato or Chili Sauce, etc., etc., etc.

Ale and Stout, Wines, etc.

Carling's, Labatt and Davies' Dominion Ale, Bass' Ale, Dow's Sand Porter, Guinness' Stout, in prime condition.

Gurd's Ginger and Soda Water Appolinaris and Radnor Water.

Barton & Guestier's and Nath. Johnston's Bordeaux Clarets and Sauterne AT POPULAR PRICES.

Rhine Wine and Burgundy Cordials and Liqueurs.

Light Canadian Wines, red or white, at lowest prices.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
EST'D. 1871.
BRIDGE ST. Tel. 139.
Branch Store
Front St.—Tel. 157.

SPECIAL OFFER

MIDSUMMER CLUBBING RATES.

Two Papers to January 1st, 1904

Family Herald & Weekly Star, and the Best Home Paper—The Weekly Intelligencer, BOTH for

65 CENTS

We are making this special offer as we require 1000 new subscriptions to our Weekly.

This offer is good to new subscribers only.

ADDRESS—
The Weekly Intelligencer
BELLEVILLE, ONT.

No agents handle this offer.

WISESAYINGS

The art of quotation requires more delicacy in the practice than those conceive who can see nothing more in a quotation than an extract.—Isaac Disraeli.

We Germans fear God, but nothing else in the world.Bismarck.

History is philosophy teaching by example.—Lord Bolingbroke.

In life it is difficult to say who do you the most mischief, enemies with the worst intentions or friends with the best.—Bulwer Lytton.

He that is down need fear no fall.—John Bunyan.

Men willingly believe what they wish.

In extreme danger fear feels no pity.—Julius Ceasor.

The true university of these days is a collection of books.

No sadder proof can be given by a man of his own littleness than disbelief in great men.—Caryle.

Every one is the son of his own works.

Don't put too fine a point to your wit for fear it should getblunted.—Cervantes.

Labor to keep alive in your breast that little spark of celestial fire called conscience.—Washington.

Private credit is wealth, public honor is security; the feather that adorns the royal bird supports its flight; strip him of his plumage and you fix him to the earth.—Junius.

Dare you look up to God and say, Deal with me in the future as thou wilt. I am of the same mind as Thou art; I am thine; I refuse nothing that pleases thee; lead me where Thou wilt; clothe me in any dress Thou choosest—Epictetus.

A penny saved is two pence clear,
A pin a day's a goat a year.

There never was a good war or a bad peace.—Ben Franklin.

Truth is justice's handmaid, freedom is its child, peace is its companion, safety walks in its steps, victory follows in its train; it is the brightest emanation from the Gospel; it is the attribute of God—.Sydney Smith.

He that commends me to mine own content commends me to the thing I cannot get.

If all the year were playing holidays to sport would be as tedious as to work.—Shakespeare.

Use every man after his desert, and who should 'scape whipping?

Trifles light as air are to be jealous confirmations strong as proof of holy writ.—Shakespeare.

If you are invited to drink at any man's house more than you think is wholesome you may say you wish you could, but so little makes you both drunk and sick that you should only be bad compny by doing so.—Lord Chesterfield.

What greater or better gift can we offer the republic than to teach and instruct our youth?

It is the act of a bad man to deceive by falsehood.

Any man may make a mistake; none but a fool will stick to it. Second thoughts are best, as the proverb says.—Cicero.

Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.—John Philpot Curran.

Nature has buried truth deep in the bottom of the sea.—Democritus.

Nothing is more easy than to deceive one's self, as our affections are subtle persuaders.—Demosthens.

The sun, too, shines into cesspools and is not polluted.

Diogenes once saw a youth blushing and addressed him: "Courage, my boy, that is the complexion of virtue."—Diogenes.

There is great unanimity among the dissolute.

They do not easily rise whose abilities are repressed by poverty at home.—Juvenal.

Nothing except a battle lost can be half so melancholy as a battle won.—Wellington.

What's well begun is half done.

Never inquire into another man's secret, but conceal that which is entrusted to you, though pressed both by wine and anger to reveal it.—Horace.

The human race is governed by its imagination.

It is the cause and not the death that makes the martyr.

Four hostile newspapers are more to be feared than a thousand bayonets.—Napoleon.

RULES OF POLITENESS

1. To be polite is to have a kind regard for the feelings and rights of others.

2. Be as polite to your parents, brothers sisters and schoolmates as you are to strangers.

3. Look people fairly in the eyes when you speak to them or they speak to you.

4. Do not bluntly contradict any one.

5. It is not discourteous to refuse to do wrong.

6. Whispering, laughing, chewing gum or eating at lectures, in school or at places of amusement is rude and vlugar.

7. Be doubly careful to avoid any rudeness to strangers, such as calling out to them, laughing or making remarks about them. Do not stare at visitors.

8. In passing a pen, pencil, knife or pointer, hand the blunt end toward the one who receives it.

9. When a classmate is reciting do not roise your hand until after he has finished.

10. When you pass directly in front of any one or accidentally annoy him say: "Excuse me," and never fail to say: "Thank you" for the smallest favor. On no account say "Thanks."—

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Store Closed Every Wednesday During July and August at 12 O'Clock Noon.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Our sale would be incomplete without an offering for the benefit of our younger customers, so on Friday and Saturday we give them this chance in

COATS AND WASH DRESSES

Besides our usual assortment of Serge, Flannel and Pique Coats we have added a number of traveller's samples, which are as fresh looking as our regular stock.

Of daily usefulness, a glance below will show you we have marked these at prices which make it true economy to purchase.

The WASH DRESSES—a new feature in our Ready-to-wear selling—have taken a little better than we anticipated. The ladies appreciating the dainty styles and pretty trimmings.

Many do not know how well our mantle room can fill the wants of children.

The stock is somewhat depleted—to clear it out and more widely introduce these garments we have made these reductions for Friday and Saturday—two days only.

COATS.

—Child's fine flannel coat with fancy trimmed sailor collar, large pearl buttons, $1.25, for 98c

—Child's white pique coat with wide embroidery trimmed collar, pearl buttons, $1.50, for $1.13

—Fine white pique coat, insertion in collar and sleeves, very pretty, $1 85, for $1.35

—Child's red flannel coat with sailor collar, trimmed with silk gimp and pearl buttons, $1.75, for $1 30

—Child's fine pique coat with embroidery trimmed collar, insertion in cuffs, pearl buttons, $2.25, for...... $1.88

—18 only Ladies' Linen Crash Skirts — 7 gore flare with wide hem—double stitched seams, regular 75c, for.... 38c

WASH DRESSES.

—Child's fine print dresses—size 6 to 10, prettily trimmed, 50c, for 35c

—Fine Gingham dresses, plain blue chambray or red and white or blue and white check, with tucked yoke, wide embroidery trimmed shoulder frill and sleeves, 95c. for.............. 65c

Gingham dress, sz, 6 to 10, pink, pale blue and navy small plaids with white fancy yoke trimmed with wide embroidery frill, $1.00, for 75c

—Fine plain linen and duck sailor suits, prettily trimmed, $1.25, for........ 98c

—Plain chambray or knicker linen dress with white trimmings, $1.50, for $1.13

—Linen sailor suits trimmed with navy jean and featherstitch braid, pearl buttons, $1.75, for $1.38

WHITE DRESSES.

—Child's white lawn dress, yoke trimmed with lace and featherstitch braid, $1.00, for................ 89c

—Fine lawn dress with wide tucked front and Valenciennes insertion strapping, $1.25 for...... .... 98c

—Fine lawn dress with fancy allover lace yoke trimmed with narrow satin baby ribbon and Valenciennes lace, $2.00; for $1.63

—Child's fine dress with embroidery and tucked front and swiss embroidery shoulder frill. ribbon trimmed, $2 50, for $2 00

—Fine white dress with fancy sherred and tucked yoke, wide embroidery frill over shoulder, insertion in skirt, white satin ribbon sash and rosette, $2.75, for.... $2 35

HALF PRICE REMNANTS

Usually our half price offering is not made until many of the desireable lengths have been picked up.

Our surpassing season's trade has left more than the usual quantity of Remnants behind.

With only the usual time to clear these out we have placed them at Half Price to have clear shelves when the new materials arrive.

Such a chance comes seldom—much of the goods being the very newest and as suitable for fall as any you could obtain later.

New ones are gleaned from the stocks each day. You'll need to keep closely in touch to get the best bargains.

Don't miss our Dress Goods counter when you are in. The inducements are exceptional.

New Collars and Belts

This has been the biggest Belt and Collar season in our history, you will understand why when you have seen these new ones and ask the prices.

—Fine Thread Lace Collar with long tab 35c

—Fine Matting Collar - trimmed with silk stitching, tabs 50c

—Pretty Muslin and open work collar with three fancy shapes tabs, very new 45c

—Fine White Pique Collar, edged with green 30c

—Plain Silk Elastic Web Belt with fancy back ornament and buckle Oxodised 75c

—Fine Black with double silk elastic web, Oxodised buckle and back ornament $1,50

—Fine Black Silk Belt with Oxodised buckle and back ornament 38c

Millinery Specials

The special inducements in our millinery room are keeping this department busy,

Such dainty creations as are being offered at Half Price offer almost irrestible inducements to buy. The trimmings alone in many cases being worth more than we ask for finished articles.

Straw shapes sailors trimmings, flowers, all are going at prices which to purchasers mean 50c saved on every $1.

—All our colored trimmed millinery HALF PRICE.

—Latest styles in straw shapes HALF PRICE.

—An odd lot of trimmings—some were as high as $1.00 a yard clearing at 10c

Lace Gloves

The demand for these quickly cleared on first assortment.

We have just been fortunate enough to secure another desireable line at a moderate price.

Those who have tried to procure these and know their scarcity will appreciate them.

—Black and White Silk Lace Gloves, sizes 6, 6½ 7, ... 35c

—A fine quality in yard wide Taffeta Silk, Black, Suitable for Skirts and flounces, per yard. $1 00

Agents for Standard Patterns.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

CLOTHING BOUGHT HERE PRESSED FREE OF CHARGE

Everything

Is Thoroughly Good

That's certain, at QUICK & ROBERTSON'S—we are more particular about giving than you are in getting it perhaps.

But there are other reasons why you should buy at this store where quality is the first consideration.

We not only make goodness certain by applying every known test for quality, but are equally as careful to price that goodness as common as the ordinary sorts are priced elsewhere.

HERE are a few suggestions of summer fixin's that should interest men and mothers of boys.

FOR BOYS.

Vacation Suits and other wear, things that after good hard wear show the difference between our good sorts at our common prices and cheap sorts, which cost a little less.

—Regulation Sailor Blouse Suits, Cheviot mixtures, stripes and serges, ... $1.25 to $4.50

—Norfolk Jackets, single and double-breasted suits for older boys, extensive showing of plain and fancy mixtures .... $2.00 to $5.00

—Washable Sailor Suits 50c to $1.50.

—Wash Waists and Blouses, 25c to $1.00.

FOR MEN.

—SUMMER SUITS—Such as are impossible to obtain except at the best custom tailors—perfect fitting, stylish garments, suited to men who want the out-of-the-ordinary sorts. Homespuns, Tropical Serges, Worsteds and Flannels........................ $3.75 to $12.00

—OUTING TROUSERS $1.30 to $4.00.

—NEGLIGE SHIRTS—In stripes and patterned materials, such as custom shirt makers would show you as their newest—plain or plaited bosoms.......... 50c to $1.50

—STRAW HATS—Every one new, the largest assortment of the smartest shapes the best makers have produced.

Sailors, in low crown .... 50c to $2.00

Panama shape, the right ones .... 75c to $2.50

QUICK & ROBERTSON

Here is where you buy Johnston's Clothing for Men and Boys.

Frozen Dreams

You will find a peculiar flavor, richness and smoothness in all Ice Cream, water ices and sherbets made in a

White Mountain Freezer

that you cannot obtain in any other.

It is so constructed that it freezes the cream perfectly and quickly and the result is that you procure frozen dreams of delicoious things such as you have never dreamed could be made.

The W. W. CHOWN Company, Limited

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

No Quorum.

A special meeting of the Separate School Board was called for last evening to consider and pass the estimates for the year. Only three members attended, namely, Messrs. E. J. Butler, J. Hanley and Mr. Lynch, and no business could be transacted.

PIMPLES AND BLOTCHES.

How unsightly, sometimes disgusting, mortifying to the sufferer and unpleasant to all. An evidence of poor blood and lowered vitality of the eliminating organs. They need toning up—the whole system does. You can quickly bring about the improved condition by using Ferrozone. Poisons are driven out of the blood, organs grow stronger, the blood richer, the nerves stronger. Pimples and blotches disappear, color becomes good. Glad! just try and see how much joy can be gotten out of a box of Ferrozone.

Literary Notes

THE AUGUST DELINEATOR.

The Delineator for August is an excellent midsummer number. It presents a charming array of Fashions, as well as numerous other features of deep interest to women, and stories and articles of a high literary standard. In fiction there are four storiettes that will furnish good reading for lazy summer afternoons, also the fourth installment of Mrs. Catherwood's story, The Bois Brules, in which the action becomes very thrilling. Lillie Hamilton French writes entertainingly about some of her city neighbors, including the very poor and the very rich. Our Summer in a Barn, by Frederick J. Burnett, is the narrative of a novel manner of spending the warm season in the country. Suggestions for an entertainment with silhouettes are given by Janet Brewster, in a paper illustrated with silhouette portraits of ladies prominent in Chicago society. A House on a Hillside is shown, with illustrations of exterior and interior and a page of exclusive photographs of Margaret Anglin is also a feature. Miss Laughlin discourses in characteristic vein on The quest of happiness, and Mrs. Birney has an interesting chapter on Childhood. The preparation of sea food is the subject of the "Carlotta and I" paper, and the general food problem is given consideration by Dr. Grace Peckham Murray. For the children there are the engaging pastimes, the Firelight story and other features. The various Departments are up to the usual standard.

1,000 ISLANDS AND ROCHESTER.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian" leave Belleville for Thousand Islands at 3.25 h.m., daily except Mondays. Fare $1.00. Returning Str. leaves at 11.38 p.m. for Rochester, N.Y. m26d&w3m

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions ONE CENT A WORD. No loss charged as less than twenty-five words.

The Judge's Court of Revision, re assessment, will be held on Wednesday next, 22nd inst.

To-day's market was well attended. Raspberries were offered for sale in large quantities.

Work on the new elevator to be erected here by Mr. A. V. Pearce, of Toronto, will be commenced on Monday next.

The pupils of the Public Schools who passed in the recent entrance examination can obtain their certificates by calling at School Inspector Johnston's office on Saturday morning next.

The half-holiday yesterday was generally observed, nearly every business place on Front street being closed. Notwithstanding the showery day, the various excursions out of the city were largely patronized.

Our new story, "Rolff House," by G. H. Benedict, STARTS SATURDAY. It is a thrilling tale of love and adventure. Get the first chapters in Saturday's issue.

Don't forget the G.T.R. Employees' popular old-time picnic to Massassaga Park, Wednesday, July 22nd. Boats leaving Rathbun's dock dourly. See games programme. 14,16,18,20,21

Rev Stratton, now Pastor of Belleville North charge, will run an excursion to 1000 Islands Saturday, August 1, leaving Belleville at 8.30, by Str. Varuna. Return any Monday. Only $1.00. Come and patronize a good cause. For particulars read bills. j16d&w

Best Wednesday holiday excursion, July 22nd, up the bay, through canal and into Lake Ontario with I.O.O.F. Band. Tickets 25c. Auspices of Christ Church. Str. Aletha leaves Corby's wharf at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Vans to convey ticket holders leave Taylor's and McGinnis' corners at 8.30 a.m. Moonlight excursion to Deseronto with band at 8 p.m. 10 ln.

Died in British Columbia.

Mr. D. N. DeMill received a telegram yesterday from British Columbia, stating that the widow of the late Dr. Lane had died that morning. She had spent the winter at St. Catharines, and, being in bad health, went to British Columbia in April to be with her children. Many friends in this city will sympathize with her family.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

A Dominion Day Dinner in Berlin.

MR. C. M. REID, OF THIS CITY, RESPONDED TO THE TOAST OF "CANADA, OUR HOME AND COUNTRY."

Mr. C. M. Reid, of this city, writing to The Intelligencer from Berlin, Germany, under date of July 2nd, says:

It will doubtless interest a number of your readers to know that a small party of about 15 Canadians, now in Berlin on business, met last night at the Savoy Hotel and had dinner together in honor of Dominion Day. This is the third time I have had the honor to be present at a Dominion Day dinner in Berlin, and it speaks well for Canada that so many of her business men are found nearly four thousand miles from home in one city at the same time on business. It shows that they are not satisfied with anything short of going to the fountain head of production for their wares. It is such a spirit of enterprise as this that builds up a country.

The hotel supplied a large private room and served a very excellent dinner. Mr. H. B. Bristol, of Pictou, acted as chairman, and Mr. Robert Wright, of Brockville, occupied the vice-chair.

The following was the toast list:

"The King"—God Save the King.

"The Emperor of Germany"—German National anthem.

"Canadian Confederation"—Responded to by Mr. E. B. Crampton, Brantford; Mr. J. Ross Geddes, Sarnia.

"The German Empire"—Mr. Wohleneur, Berlin, Germany.

"Canada, our Home and Country"—Mr. C. M. Reid, Belleville; Mr. Charles Mills, Berlin, Canada.

"The City of Berlin"—Dr. Macdonald, Windsor; Dr. Ramie, Chatham.

"Our Wives, Mothers and Sweethearts"—Mr. E. Mills, Owen Sound.

"The Ladies"—Mr. Victor Canham, Guelph.

The Berlin papers to-day give an account of the affair and it does no harm to let foreigners see that Canadians, though far away from the home land, do not forget to meet together and celebrate confederation.

This is one of the finest and cleanest cities in the world. Having been nearly all built within the last fifty years, the streets and buildings are modern, although the style of architecture is distinctly German, which is of a very much more ornate style than our own. One remarkable point was brought out by one of the speakers, who replied to the toast of "The City of Berlin," which was that since the confederation of the German provinces there had never been one instance of the least suspicion of boodling in connection with the city's finances. It would be well if the same could be said of every city in every country.

Yours respectfully,
C. M. REID.

Our new story, "Rolff House," by G. H. Benedict, STARTS SATURDAY. It is a thrilling tale of love and adventure. Get the first chapters in Saturday's issue.

A POPE'S ELECTION.

THE CEREMONY OF CHOOSING A SUCCESSOR—A SECRET BALLOT OF CARDINALS — TWO-THIRDS MAJORITY NECESSARY.

London Daily Mail Year Book: The Cardinals elect the Pope from their own number and are under lock and key while they do it, hence their assembly is called a Conclave (clavis, a key). The first meeting takes place on the tenth day after the Pope's death. A service and an election sermon begin the day. Then the master of ceremonies, carrying the Papal cross, precedes the Cardinals on their way to the chapel in conclave, where they swear to observe the Apostolic Constitutions. At night all except the Cardinals have to leave the Palace and the doors are locked. In 1878, 250 people were locked in the Vatican corridors.

The election is by secret ballot on papers. The papers are threefold. One bears the Cardinal's name and another his motto; these are sealed down. The third part bears his nomination, and is the only part visible to the tellers. A two-thirds majority is necessary.

When a selection is made the dean of the Cardinals addresses the Pope-elect in a loud voice, "Do you accept the election canonically made to the Supreme Pontificate?" If he accepts the Senior Cardinal Deacon goes outside to the people and says, "I announce to you a great joy. We have as Pope the Most Eminent and Most Reverend——Cardinal of the Holy Roman Church, who has taken the name of——."

The present Pope is Vincent Joachim Pecci, whose age is 93. He is the 257th Pope; was Archbishop in 1843, Cardinal in 1853, and elected Pope in 1878. He is the sixth Pope chosen this century. The others were:

Pius VII. 1800—Gregory XVI. 1831.
Leo XII. 1823—Pius IX. 1846
Pius VIII. 1829—Leo XIII..........1878

Our new story, "Rolff House," by G. H. Benedict, STARTS SATURDAY. It is a thrilling tale of love and adventure. Get the first chapters in Saturday's issue.

MR. BLAIR'S RETIREMENT.

SIR MACKENZIE BOWELL, IN THE SENATE, EXPRESSES HIS VIEWS ON THE MATTER.

In the Senate the announcement of the Minister of Railway's resignation was elicited by Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who said:—Before the orders of the day are called I should like to direct the attention of the Secretary of State to the rumors which are floating about the lobbies of the House, and also in the press, as to the Ministerial crisis, and to ask whether it be true that the Minister of Railways has tendered his resignation on account of difficulties arising between himself and his colleagues upon the railway policy of the Government. That there should be differences of opinion is not at all surprising, and more particularly when you consider the expression of individual opinion by members of the Cabinet on various occasions, which have to be repudiated by their colleagues afterwards. It is important that we should know how far the doctrine of responsible Government, as understood in the past, and as practised in England, is to prevail in this country. It was only the other day in the Railway Committee in the House of Commons—and this is only one of very many instances—that we found two Ministers fighting one against the other. The Minister of Railways, who was conducting a very important railway bill through the committee, took one view of certain amendments, which were proposed, while the Minister of Justice took very strong views in opposition to him, and it was amusing to those who have the slightest idea of what responsible government means, and the unity of action upon all great questions which should prevail in the Cabinet, to see Ministers differing so publicly. That they might differ in the Cabinet is not at all surprising, because Cabinet meetings are held for the purpose of discussing questions and coming to conclusions, but when those conclusions are arrived at, those who may differ in minor or important points when they leave the Council chamber are supposed to the outside world to have but one opinion. Sir Mackenzie reminded the House of the opinion adverse to the granting of additional Provincial subsidies expressed in the Senate the other day by the Secretary of State, and to the statement afterwards made by the Prime Minister, that Mr. Scott had expressed only his own personal views. He alluded to Sir Wilfrid's statement as a repudiation of Mr. Scott's views, and asked whether the latter was to be treated in the same way as Mr. Tarte.

Nineteen Years' Work

Crossley and Hunter, our Canadian Evangelists, closed their nineteenth year in evangelistic work on Sunday, 12th July, in Waterford.

During the nineteen years they have held 201 campaigns, have conducted meetings in every city in Canada outside of Quebec, and in many of the towns and villages from Atlantic to Pacific. Bermuda, Newfoundland and many American cities have also been visited by them.

They spend between ten and eleven months in each year in evangelistic meetings, and for a few weeks in July and August retire to "Evangeline Island" in Lake Muskoka for a change of work and recreation.

About one hundred thousand have professed conversion in their meetings during the past nineteen years.

The last year has been one of the most fruitful. They held two campaigns, namely, in Dungannon, Philadelphia, Pa.; Jackson, Mich.; Goderich, St. Thomas (their home city), Kingston, Bradford, Pa.; London, Campbellford and Waterford.

A Painful Accident.

Mr. Fraser Asseltine, residing on Victoria Avenue, yesterday met with a painful accident. He was engaged in moving a piano, which was encased in a box, when his hand became caught, crushing two fingers to such an extent as to make their amputation at the first joint necessary.

Died on Tuesday.

Mrs. Ella J. McCaw died on Tuesday night at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. A. C. McDonald, Brassey street. Deceased was 49 years of age and had resided in this city for some time.

CATARRH IS A GERM DISEASE.

Science, armed with the microscope, has established it a fact, and this conclusion renders obsolete the practice of treating asthma, catarrh and bronchitis by stomach drugging, sprays, snuffs, etc. Such treatments are an utter failure because they cannot penetrate the delicate air cells of the lungs, or permeate the air passages of the nose and bronchial tubes, where the germs of catarrh have their stronghold. Catarrhozone is the only certain remedy. It is inhaled by the mouth and after spreading through all the respiratory organs is exhaled through the nostrils. Catarrhozone kills the germs, heals the inflamed tissues, clears the head and throat in two minutes, and cures in a few hours. Nothing is so effective, pleasant and simple as Catarrhozone. Two months' treatment $1.00. Small size 25c. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Gray Hair Ayer's Hair Vigor does not suddenly turn your gray hair black; but gradually the old color comes back,—all the rich, dark color it used to have. The hair stops falling, too. Better try it. $1. All druggists. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc. Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Ald. C. N. Sulman is in Toronto.

Mr. A. McGie was in Toronto yesterday on business.

Mrs. Wm. Knight leaves for Toronto to-morrow.

Mr. Charles M. B. Holton has returned to New York.

Jas D. Ford, editor of this paper, has returned from his vacation.

Miss Lillian Moon is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Moon, Murney street.

Rev. Mr. Gilliland, who has been holidaying at Wellington, returned home yesterday.

Kingston News: Mr. and Miss Herchmer, Belleville, who spent a few days in town last week, left for home yesterday.

Mr F. J. McDonough, clerk at the Oriental Hotel, Peterboro, accompanied by his wife, is spending a few days in the city.

Miss de Pencier, who has been the guest of Mrs. (Rev.) Beamish, left to-day for Forester's Island, en route for her home at Burritt's Rapids.

At the Quinte:—J. P. White, F. C. Potter, W. McConnell, H. G. Pooler, T. L. Carter, D. R. Hawley, C. H. Creighton, G. H. Shavier, J. C. Heaton, W. R. McGill and family, R. M. Stevenson, Toronto; W. J. Clarke, London; J. W. Garvin, J. R. Garvin, C. W. Stringer, Peterboro; F. C. Lalonde, Brockville; W. H. Matthews, Trenton; Rev. W. T. Bond, Detroit; B. F. Martin, Rochester; D. J. Hoerner, F. Fischel, A. Robertson, Montreal; W. E. Henderson, Hamilton; J. J. Daly, Cobourg; H. B. Wilson, Hastings; A. S. Foster, Guelph.

Got the Fish—Lost His Watch.

A few days ago a young fellow in this city, hied himself to the bay bridge, to fish. He got a bite which felt as though a big fellow was on the hook. In his excitement the young man leaned over the railing of the bridge, and just as the fish came out of the water the fisherman's watch dropped out of his pocket and went down into the drink. The bass—a beauty—weighed four pounds, but it was dear at the price.

Band Concert To-night.

Weather permitting, the I.O.O.F. Band, under the leadership of Prof. Denmark, will render the following programme on Queen Victoria Park to-night:

March—"Silver Jubilee"...A. Winkler
Overture—"Hunter and Hermit" ....C. W. Dalbey
Waltz—"Militaire"... ....Waldeufel
Medley—"The Black Brigade"...Beyer
Schottische—"You and I"...R. W. Hall
"Marche des Petits Pierrots" —Bosc
Overture—"Le Claire" ....Dalbey
Polonaise—"Voyage of Life"...Collins
Medley—"For Old Time's Sake" .... Beyer
Two Step—"Fort Papham" ....Hall
God Save the King.

RECOGNITION HEREAFTER.

Rev. Henry M. Barbour, Church of the Beloved Disciple, New York.

Behold my hands and my feet, that it is I myself.—St. Luke, xxiv., 39.

The above words suggest the subject of our recognition of departed loved ones in the world to come. This subject is of interest at all times and touches well-nigh everyone. Hardly any there are but have buried their dead; hardly any but have, shut off from the daily activities of their souls, a consecrated void; hardly any but at times are earnestly asking, "Shall we see these dear absent ones again, and will there be some bond of recognition between us?"

Now on this question we could hardly expect the Word of God to say much. God would occupy us here with duty rather than with speculation, however tender and sacred. Not what heaven is, but how to get to heaven, is the great problem before us. We are given little of description, much of direction. No map of that golden city is provided, but on the narrow road the cross ever and anon is set up as a guidepost to point the way. But although the burden of inspiration has to do with the privileges and the requirements of this world, it gives us no empty consolation with reference to them who are fallen asleep. In the first place, there is that pervading undertone which we detect everywhere. We cannot explain it, we cannot point it out; but somehow, open the Bible where we may, it "comforts us concerning our brother."

But, again, the recognition of those we have known on earth is implied in many of the fundamental declaration of God's Word. We are to be held accountable, for instance, for our dealings with those around us. Can it, then, be possible that we are not to know those whom we have influenced for good or ill?

Perhaps, however, the strongest of the indirect teachings of the Bible on this point is to be found in those numberless similitudes which describe our state, here and hereafter, as one of association. The Kingdom of Heaven is like a net cast into the sea and enclosing a great multitude of fishes. It is like a supper furnished with guests. It is a fellowship, a communion, a family, a household. Surely, knit together by such ties, the members of that kingdom must know each other.

But we are not left to mere inferences and implications. The Bible asserts directly the doctrine of mutual recognition hereafter. "Many shall come from the east and from the west, and shall sit down with Abraham and Isaac and Jacob in the Kingdom of God." Of course, there would be no significance in this statement if the patriarchs are not to be known as Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. Again:—"Ye shall see Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets in the Kingdom of God." Says St. Paul to the Thessalonians:—"What is our hope or joy, or crown of rejoicing? Are not even ye in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ at His coming?" Again, he says to them:—"Now, we beseech you, brethren, by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and our gathering together unto Him." Again once more:—"I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not as others who have no hope." The hope referred to here is obviously that of meeting again. Many more allusions of like character might be drawn from the epistles of St. Paul. But it will suffice us to turn from them now and to consider only the further statement of our text. And were that statement alone it would be enough, for it tells us that the glorified body of our Lord was recognized; and He was our first fruits, and as He rose so shall we rise. There was, indeed, about Him an unearthly lustre, but the wounds were yet visible, the same eyes looked out upon the Apostles, the same lips spake to them, the same hands blessed them, albeit a wondrous glory illumined all. There was that about Him which dazzled and bewildered.

Not at first, did Mary and His disciples know Him. While they sought the gardener or would go a-fishing or walked sorrowful and hopeless by the wayside their eyes were darkened; but when they turned their spiritual gaze upon Him, then they knew Him. Then Mary said, "Rabboni;" then St. John cried, "It is the Lord"; then doubting Thomas believed; then repentant Peter sank at His feet. In like manner it shall be with us and ours. We shall be changed. For corruption there shall be incorruption, for weakness power, for dishonor glory, for the natural the spiritual body. And mayhap, too, the unseen struggles and sufferings of the past shall be registered upon our faces, and thus our real characters express themselves; the things which were hidden come abroad, and the good deeds done in secret be forever rewarded openly. But our identity, our appearance, our immortal individuality shall yet remain and we be known to each other by many infallible proofs. Abraham shall remain Abraham, Daniel shall still be Daniel, the Good Shepherd shall still call His sheep by name, and they who have met in this life shall meet again in that. An Isaac shall rejoin Rebecca, a David shall go to the child who could not come to him, a Mary and a Martha shall greet their brother, and the tears of a Rachel weeping for her children shall be wiped away.

A Volatile Community.

"What kind of a town have you here?" enquired a recently-arrived tourist from New England.

"Lively!" enthusiastically replied the landlord of the Atlantic and Pacific Hotel, at Boomopolis, Oklahoma. "Lively, stranger! Thar's a lynchin' most every night, and balls, shootin's, tar-and-featherin's, and other rallikaboos about as often as you can turn out to 'em; a couple was married in a balloon last week, two prominent preachers shot each other considerably at the Sabbath school picnic day before yesterday, and thar was a cyclone less than a month ago; new buildin's are bein' erected right along, we've got an enthusiastic county-seat fight on hand all the time, thar's a show in the Op'ry House once in a while, the O. K. barber shop put in a bathtub lately, the post-office was burglarized a spell ago—the front of the buildin' was flung half-way across the street, the safe blown wrong side out, and the children have been busy ever since pickin' postage stamps off'n the gum weeds whur the wind distributed 'em. You can git any kind of a game you like at any time or stir up any sort of trouble in a minute, by just lettin' your wants be known. They call this yere town the Paris of Oklahoma, and don't you forgit it!"—"Life."

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

—AT—

LAIDLAW & KETCHESON'S

Just received from Manchester, England, several pieces of White Mercerized Mattings in fine, coarse and fancy weaves, to retail at - - 25c the yd

ALSO Wool Yak Laces

From Germany, these are the popular trimmings for Shirt Waists and Dresses, in great demand, to retail at 10c to 20c the yd.

The latest New York Style in Collars for the Ladies wear. "The Pauline."

We ask your special attention to the three foregoing items.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

DIRECT IMPORTERS

Daily Intelligencer.

THE INTELLIGENCER IS SOLD AT
J. W. London's and G. Wardhaugh's.

Local Reading Advertisements,

·ords 50 cents; 2 cents per word first insertion, · per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words; contracts for ·ng periods made at office

PERFECT TALCUM POWDER

If you wish a talcum powder that will heal and soothe and not irritate, that makes the skin soft and smooth instead of dry and harsh, that is practically invisible, that is antiseptic and delightfully perfumed, you will find just what you are looking for in our EUTHYMOL TALCUM POWDER—This exquisite preparation is dainty and perfectly harmless—good for babies or adults. It is as good a powder as can be bought anywhere at any price It costs but 25c for a box with a sifting top.

McKEOWN'S DRUG STORE.

Rowntree's Chocolates

Cadbury's Chocolates

"G. B." Chocolates.

These are all high-class goods, made 'neath the folds of the "Union Jack." When hot weather comes they don't fade away, i.e. They don't melt. Perfect chocolate coatings made to withstand high temperature. Cadbury's and Rowntree's mixed $1.00 a lb, and "G.B." chocolates mixed 60c a lb.

CHAS. S. CLAPP

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits, payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE, No. 46 Bridge St., Belleville.

J. P. C. PHILLIPS.
Manager Belleville Branch.

MONITOR

This is another fine Mantle Clock, not quite so expensive as Gadski in last week's advertisement, but fully as serviceable. It is an eight-day hour and half strike on cathedral gong, fancy columns with trimmings and drop handles, in every way a beautiful clock. Our price only $5.50

T. BLACKBURN.

Eyes examined free of charge. Jeweller & Optician.

Going to Make Room!

Our Import Goods are coming too fast, that we are getting crowded for room.

We will have to make a big sacrifice in our China and Crockery department, slaughter will be the word.

Cost price or any other price will not be taken into account, come and get China and Crockery—at ridiculous prices.

McINTOSH BROS.

Travelling Incog.

Apropos of the Dutch Queen mother's visit to Villiers-la-Ville, Belgium, an amusing story is going the rounds, according to The Paris Daily Messenger. Her Majesty, accompanied by Mlle. van de Poll, the lady in waiting, and Baron van den Berg, decided to go to one of the chief establishments in the vicinity for refreshments after visiting the Abbey. As soon as coffee had been served the proprietor came to inquire if his guests were satisfied, and on the Queen replying in the affirmative, the jovial host crossed his arms and said with a smiling countenance, "You appear to me to be a brave petite maman, Madame, and it strikes me that I have had the pleasure of seeing you before." "You are right," replied the amused Queen, "I have been here before, for the country is very beautiful, and it gives me much pleasure to visit it again."

The Baron then asked if it were possible to procure a conveyance of any kind for a drive in the surrounding country, but, although horse and trap were available, there was no one to drive them, the coachman being on leave in Brussels. The host evidently approved of the appearance of his customers, and at last offered to trust them with his precious turnout if one of them would act as Jehu, declaring that he was sure they were "tres braves gens," the responsibility, however, was declined, and the host, in an access of obligingness, declared that he would actually drive them himself. No sooner offered than accepted, and off the party started. He proved a most entertaining character, and kept them all in bursts of laughter over his quaint and original remarks. When they returned her Majesty felt rather cold, and Baron van den Berg ordered some hot wine, which mine host, now thoroughly at ease with his pleasing guests, served himself. On paying the bill Baron van den Berg gave a note for a much larger amount, and the landlord was going off to get change when he was asked to accept the difference, as he had been so extremely attentive and amusing. This unexpected piece of luck caused the good man to think even more of the party than before, and nothing would content him but to drive them himself to the station, where the "tourists" all shook hands with him most heartily, the Queen especially thanking him for all his courteous attention. Mine host's surprise and bewilderment can be imagined the next morning when he took up a paper in which it was mentioned that the Dutch Queen and suite had spent the previous day at Villers-la-Ville. He rushed off to the station to obtain information, but no one there was better informed than himself, so he took the first train to Brussels, where he learned that his "brave gèns," his "brave petite maman," were no less personages than the Dutch Queen and her attendants. It is said that the worthy man is more than anxious to offer his excuses to her Majesty, or rather to find a channel through which he can do so, but in his case no excuses are necessary. Her Majesty was travelling incognito, and was lucky enough to meet on her travels with a host whose object in life seems to be to tender a genial welcome to his clients be they simple or gentle, and the gentle Queen, whose tact and charm of manner are so well known, would be one of the first to assure him that no offence could have been taken even by a woman of her exalted position.

Strength of Metals.

The Literary Digest has the following:—Changes in hardness, strength or elasticity in certain metals may be due to conditions analogous to disease in organic tissues, according to some German metallurgists. According to The American Inventor, the theory of the disease of metals has been so far accepted in Germany that the Imperial navy yard at Wilhelmshafen sends metals regularly to the "Autopsy room and dissecting tables" of Prof. Heyn, one of the leaders in the new investigation. That paper goes on to say:—

"'Who knows,' asked Dr. Bechhold in summing up his studies, 'if metallurgy will not soon create a new and vastly important branch for itself—the branch of producing inoculating material for metals, which will change their temper and form swiftly instead of waiting for the slow processes of forging and tempering that obtain to-day? Prof. Heyn has been studying the changes in iron under all grades of temperature, and he holds that the metal passes through various stages of disease that produce structural changes just as cells change in form, size, and position in the forms commonly called organic. He heated copper in order to find why the metal suffers from overheating, and his conclusion is that it becomes poisoned with copper protoxid, which so sickens it that its structure changes and partially breaks down. The metallurgists have joined the chemists in erasing the line which divides all substances into organic and inorganic—just as the line between animal and plant life has been expunged. The German metallurgists have come to speak as a matter of course of the life that unfolds itself in steel under various temperatures that are applied to it in working it. Poison this steel with hydrogen or hydrogenous matter and you sicken it so decidedly that it gets into a condition where it is as brittle as if it had been ruined in tempering. Pure glycerine cannot be frozen by ordinary means, even if they produce a temperature as low as 20 degrees below zero, until a bit of glycerine that has already been frozen is introduced. But as soon as this crystal of frozen glycerine is in, the rest of the glycerine begins to freeze. This process is nothing more or less than inoculating an inorganic substance with crystals in order to breed in it the condition of crystallization. Prof. Bredig found the point of infection in the crumbling tin roof of the Council House at Rothenburg, and that the disease, now known as tin pest, had spread to a nearby roof. If some of the grey powder of tin that has happened to disintegrate should attach itself to the sound tin, the disease then communicates itself to all parts of the metal.'"

Major Pond and Mark Twain.

The New York Journal in a long appreciation of Major Pond, the well-known manager of lecturers, who died recently, had the following:—

Of Mark Twain he always had delightful reminiscences. He had pushed the humorist in a wheelbarrow when the latter insisted that his contract with Major Pond expressly stipulated that he be "kept moving."

"At a little town in Minnesota we had been waiting since 4 o'clock in the morning," said Major Pond, "and Mark got uneasy. He said, 'I am tired of this business. Pond contracted with me to travel, and here I am waiting for late trains that never arrive.'

"Mrs. Clemens said, 'My dear, are you not making a fool of yourself?' 'No, I am not,' Twain replied. 'I contracted to travel, and I insist upon his keeping the contract.' So he sat down in a wheelbarrow and I pushed it.

"We went up to Vancouver next. Mark went to bed and stayed there four days. In fact, he never puts on his clothes unless he is obliged to. Nearly all his books are written in this position. When the reporters called I had to see that the bed was all right and send them up for their interviews."

And he paid this tribute to Mark Twain:—

"Mark Twain is to-day the most popular writer in the English language. Few men have ever written whose humor has so many sides, such breadth or reach."

J. Elbert Cutler, a post-graduate student at Yale, has just completed an exhaustive investigation into lynchings in the United States for the last twenty-one years. He finds that the total for this period is 3,233, of whom 1,872 were negroes and 1,256 were whites. There were sixty-one women lynched in that period, twenty-three of them white women, of whom nine were lynched for murder. In the South 1,001 negroes and 563 whites were lynched. Statistics can not be made to show more than thirty-five per cent. of negroes lynched for crimes against women.

Real Health for Summer Days!

The health that comes from well digested food, daily regularity, pure blood and peaceful sleep—that is the health that you can win with the help of

IRON-OX

Tiny Tonic Tablets

—the gentle but effective laxative tonic.

Let the dainty little tablets cleanse your system, build up your body, purify your blood and tone your brain and nerves—then you will be prepared to face the wearing heat of blazing Summer days. Remember that impure blood, clogged bowels, a system racked by bad digestion or sleeplessness, simply invite Prickly Heat, Summer Rashes and Sunstroke.

Iron-Ox Tiny Tonic Tablets are gently laxative.

They cure constipation. They build up your intestinal organs, help them to cleanse your system and to keep it clean by natural means. They will not "force" you and they will not teach you the "laxative-habit."

Iron-Ox Tiny Tonic Tablets cure Indigestion.

They are not a mere temporary relief but a real, lasting cure.

Iron-Ox Tiny Tonic Tablets are a wonderful tonic—

They make blood; they help the liver, the kidneys, the stomach, the bowels. They strengthen and feed the nerves.

Iron-Ox Tiny Tonic Tablets are pleasant to take.

Very small, very dainty, wrapped in their delicate chocolate coats, they are as tempting as candy.

Fifty Iron-ox Tablets, in an attractive aluminum pocket case, 25 cents at druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price. The Iron-ox Remedy Co., Limited, Walkerville, Ont.

50 Tablets for 25 Cents

At Your Druggists

Anecdotal.

At the silver wedding of the Prince and Princess of Wales, an English town wished to present an address, but there was a great discussion as to its wording; for some time they could not agree at all. "Conscious as we are of our own unworthiness," was universally condemned; but when some one proposed, "Conscious as we are of each other's unworthiness," it was agreed to to a man.

When the Princess Charlotte of Mecklenburg-Strelitz arrived in London to marry George III., the people, on seeing her appearance, cried: "Pug, pug, pug!" "Vat is dat dey do say—poog?" said the princess to the Duchess of Ancaster, who was sent to accompany her; "vat means poog?" "Oh, that means, 'God bless your majesty,'" promptly replied the duchess, without the slightest hesitation.

Convocation at the English universities is always, thanks to the irrepressible undergraduates, a lively proceeding. The chaff on these occasions is invariably personal and not always in the best taste. At Oxford convocation a few years ago, the public orator—a well-known don — was making his speech when he began to cough. "Take a glass of water," suggested an undergraduate. Unfortunately, the luckless orator, though a great temperance light, had an extremely rosy nasal organ. "You fool!" shouted someone from the other side of the theater, "don't you see he never touches it? Look at his nose!"

"It was in the terrific log jam in Grand River, Mich., in 1884," says "Leslie's Popular Monthly." "The men, under the leadership of one John Walsh, were driving piles to hold the feeble barrier which alone held the logs in check. After working through two sleepless nights and the intervening day, in plain view of death, the men became demoralized. There came a time when John saw that the limit of their endurance was reached. 'Boys,' said he, irrelevantly, 'let's have a smoke.' So they sat down on the logs, and for ten minutes puffed tobacco quietly into the air. 'Now,' said John, knocking the ashes from his pipe, 'let's get something done.' The crew responded to a man."

The Kansas City "Journal" tells this story: "Frank Anderson was for years a well-known commercial traveler who made Galena. He was passionately fond of honey, and the proprietor of the Galena Hotel, at which he always stopped, always had some on hand for him. On one trip Anderson took his wife along, and as he approached Galena he mentioned to her that he was getting to a place where he could have honey. When the pair were sitting at the supper table that night no honey appeared, and Anderson said sharply to the head waiter: 'Where is my honey?' The waiter smiled and said: 'You mean the little black-haired one? Oh, she don't work here now.'"

This story concerning the relations existing between Yankee military officers and their men is going the rounds. During the operations prior to the arrival of the allies at Pekin, an "American" volunteer artillery battery came into action. An English naval officer was standing by one of the guns when a Yankee officer hurried up. "Would you mind," the latter said, in most polite accents, "knocking that hut into atoms?" The gunner laid the gun, and did the needful. "Many thanks," said the officer, before departing, "much obliged." The English naval officer could not contain his curiosity. "Why didn't he order you to do it, instead of making all that fuss?" he asked of the gunner. "Waal, you see, it's this way," was the reply. "When we're not soldiering, we're both in the jewelry trade, same shop. Only I'm the boss of the store, and he's the assistant!"

One of the most kind-hearted men in the world was the late Bishop Joseph P. Wilmer of Louisiana. He could not hurt the feelings of the humblest mortal. He was once traveling in England with his cousin, Bishop Richard Wilmer, when an incident occurred which showed Bishop Joseph's readiness in a trying situation. The two bishops were being entertained by a gentleman who thought his wife had all the musical talent and accomplishment that any human being can possess. He insisted upon a specimen of her performance. The two apostolic cousins stood near the piano. Bishop Richard, recognizing that a compliment would be necessary and difficult to make, quietly stepped back, as most men do on such occasions, leaving the position of honor to Bishop Joseph, wondering what the end would be after "the assault upon the ivory keys" might suddenly terminate in an awkward selah. Bishop Joseph, with dignity and sweetness of thought, spoke to the hungry soul of the adoring husband: "Is that touch of your wife natural or acquired?" "Oh, it is perfectly natural," replied the delighted spouse. "I thought it was," said the bishop, "for I don't think such a touch could be acquired."

His Will.

I could not tell
Why all this fullest joy was mine to know,
Nor why it should be so
That all my life was fraught with sweet content,
And this great gift of love to me was sent—
I only knew
That God had giv'n me you.

I could not tell
Why I must know this awful pain and grief,
Nor could I find relief
In any thought of Heav'n or any prayer
That God would keep me in His holy care—
I only knew
That God had taken you.

—Eleonora Robertson.

London, Ont.

Diarrhoea

When you want a quick cure without any loss of time, and one that is followed by no bad results, use

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. It is equally valuable for children. It is famous for its cures over a large part of the civilized world.

The Rush Still On!

Goods Going Very Fast.

NATHAN JONES.

Our clearing Sale is rapidly reducing our stock, the prices we sell for being very low.

Colored Muslins

We now offer all our 10c to 15c Muslins for 7c yd. All our 20c to 30c Muslins for 12½c yd. This will clear them quickly.

Ladies' Whitewear

All our stock of Ladies' Whitewear at 33⅓ off, till all is sold.

Our Dress Goods and Parasols at 20% discount.

NATHAN JONES.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 37. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, JULY 17, 1903 NO. 64

MR. BLAIR'S RESIGNATION

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Makes the Ministerial Explanations.

Related the Events Which Led Up to the Resignation of the Minister of Railways—Mr. Blair Followed and Declared That His Disagreement With the Government's Railway Policy Was the Reason of His Leaving the Cabinet.

Ottawa, July 17.—When the House met yesterday Mr. Blair took a seat some distance from the desk which he held until a few days ago. He sat beside Sir Frederick Borden and just on the fringe of the Ministers' benches. Hon. Mr. Prefontaine and Sir William Mulock rose from their seats to shake hands with Mr. Blair. Hon. Mr. Sifton followed in the show of personal good will. Mr Blair, left to himself, talked quietly to the Minister of Militia.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

These little amenities were hardly over when the brief routine program being exhausted, Sir Wilfrid rose and addressed himself to Mr. Speaker. In his hand he held a document from which he read a statement outlining the events leading up to the resignation. Briefly he asserted the necessity of a second transcontinental line. He told how Mr. Blair at first assenting to the general scheme, finally urged strong objections to the construction of a Government road between Quebec and Moncton on the ground that it would parallel the I. C. R. The Premier had opposed this view.

"Entirely dissent" were the words he read from his written statement. He expressed his and his colleagues' sorrow over Mr. Blair's retirement, and said that on all other questions Mr. Blair was in accord with the Government.

Hon. Mr. Blair.

Mr. Blair said he admitted the gravity of the step he was taking, spoke pleasantly of his relations with his former colleagues, and said that he would gladly have avoided a course which would give anxiety to the Premier while the latter is in indifferent health.

Then he proceeded to justify his action, and denied that caprice or pique inspired his course. Those who believed him capable of resenting the conduct of Government followers on the railway had a very poor opinion of him indeed. If he had asked any of his Ministerial colleagues to assist him with his railway bill they would have gladly responded.

Mr. Blair assured the House that the Government's policy on the Grand Trunk Pacific and that alone prompted his resignation from the Cabinet. Then he denounced the proposed transcontinental scheme. He touched only a few general arguments, but intimated that he would discuss the project on its merits later.

"Of course a Government road between Quebec and Moncton would parallel the I. C. R.," said Mr. Blair. How could two roads begin from the same point and end at the same point without paralleling each other? And then as to the transcontinental scheme generally. Why should the Government rush impetuously into the construction of a road through an unknown country?

Mr. Blair declared that such a gigantic scheme should only be entered upon after the most mature deliberation. When he saw on the fourth of July that the Government was determined to build from Moncton to Quebec, he caused it to be made known that he would not support that policy. He told Sir Wilfrid that he was willing to hold over his resignation until he had put the railway bill before the House, and that suggestion the Premier accepted.

On the 10th of July the first letter was sent to Sir Wilfrid, and accompanying it was Mr. Blair's resignation. A consultation was held between Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Blair, with the result that the latter remodelled the letter and despatched it to the Premier on July 13. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's letter in reply was forwarded to Mr. Blair that day. These letters speak for themselves.

Every word of them was followed with intense interest by the House. The most sensational part of Mr. Blair's first letter was that in which he met the argument apparently advanced by the Premier, that he (Mr. Blair) might silently acquiesce in the Grand Trunk Pacific policy, taking no part in the presentation of the bill or in the discussion. This portion of the letter, Mr. Blair read rapidly.

When he concluded he took up the second letter despatched to the Premier on the 13th, in which he answered various claims made by Sir Wilfrid as to the excellence of the Government's transcontinental policy. He describes the scheme as one of the most indefensible railway transactions that ever took place in this country, and held up the policy of giving running rights to other roads over the Government lines between Quebec and Moncton as a hollow mockery.

There was frequent applause from the Opposition as these letters were read. When Mr. Blair concluded, the Conservatives again thumped desks, but there was not so much as a murmur of applause from the Government benches.

The Opposition Leader.

Mr. R. L. Borden paid a generous tribute to the public worth of Mr. Blair. He told the Government that it was taking serious responsibility in over-riding the Minister who, more than any other member of the Cabinet, knew the railway situation. Mr. Borden referred to the extraordinary character of the proposals that are to be made to Parliament. He pointed out that the transportation commission, which was to make an enquiry into the transportation policy, had not even been appointed, and in the face of that fact the Government is proceeding with a transcontinental policy. An extravagant and absurd policy, the leader of the Opposition described the Grand Trunk scheme, and why, he asked, should such a measure be brought down in the fifth month of the session? Mr. Borden also asked what Cabinet changes are proposed, and whether a general reconstruction was contemplated?

Mr. Tarte.

Hon. J. Israel Tarte was up the moment Mr. Borden concluded. He clutched in his left hand a copy of The Toronto News, from which he proceeded to read an editorial that had greatly displeased him. This article, which alleged that Mr. Blair and Mr. Tarte had never enjoyed the confidence of their colleagues, and that both had been marked for decapitation, Mr. Tarte ascribed to inspiration from the Government benches. Other articles in that paper, he said, had been similarly inspired. Mr. Tarte denied these insinuations, and mentioned as an illustration of the confidence reposed in him, that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had offered to recommend him for a high distinction. This he refused, feeling that he was not in a position to assume it.

Mr. Tarte also paid his respects to The Toronto Star for some uncomplimentary remarks, for which he held Sir Wm. Mulock responsible.

Sir Wilfrid Again.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied to Mr. Tarte and Mr. Blair in turn. He said he did not see the relevancy of Mr. Tarte's speech. With great earnestness he stated that he had not even read The News article until he entered the House. He imagined that Mr. Tarte had accused him of inspiring the editorial in question, and was proceeding to rebuke his former follower when Mr. Tarte rose hastily and disclaimed any intention of accusing the Premier of such an act.

Sir Wilfrid gladly accepted this explanation, and went on to say that he could not help what the newspapers might say. In fact, he said several uncomplimentary things about newspapers in general. He admitted that he had recommended Mr. Tarte for a high honor, and said that until the latter began to urge an odious policy on the Government he had always given him cordial support.

On the situation created by Mr. Blair, the Premier had little more to say. He said it was difficult to bring men to big schemes. When the resolutions were presented to the House he would discuss the merits of the Grand Trunk Pacific policy, not before.

The Cabinet Changes.

Concerning Cabinet changes, Sir Wilfrid remarked that he could not satisfy the fastidious curiosity of the leader of the Opposition. At no distant date would he ask His Excellency to approve of a successor to Mr. Blair. In a short time, the Premier concluded, the Government's railway policy would be presented to the House, and this, though it might not be approved by everyone, would, nevertheless, command the support of a large majority in the House.

Sir William Mulock disclaimed responsibility for the article in The Toronto Star. He said he had no more control over the articles in that newspaper than Mr. Tarte himself.

Thus the incident of the session closed.

SINCLAIR'S

Saturday All-Day Sale

These are some of the special lines on sale at our store All-Day Saturday.

Your Choice of one table of Muslins, Sateens and Cotton Crepe Wash Goods from 25c to 50c yd, about 2,000 yds. for - - - - 15c

Your choice of second table of Wash goods, Muslins, Ginghams, Prints, from 10c to 20c, for - - - - 8c yd.

4 doz. Ladies' $1.25 and $1.35 Print Wrappers will sell for - - $1.00 ea.

14 doz. Ladies' Bleeched Cotton Vests at 35c, 40c and 45c, our best Vests, will sell for - - - - - - 25c each.

8 doz. Children's Bleeched Cotton Vests, buttoned front will sell for 5c ea

40 doz. Ladies' and Children's 10c and 12½c Cotton Stockings, ribbed and plain, will sell 3 pair for - - - - 25c.

10 pieces 50c Fancy Silk and Linen Waistings will sell for - 25c yd.

Dress Skirt Sale

We have about 45 Ladies' Cloth Dress Skirts from $2.50 to $5.00, all this season's styles, in Black, Greys, Blue, Fawn and Black and White Stripes, lengths 39, 40, 41 and 42 inches and we place this lot on sale Saturday All-Day at ....$1.65 each.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO.

PROTECT BELL CO.

Stormy Scene Precipitated in Railway Committee on New Company.

Ottawa, July 17.—Yesterday morning the consideration of the Canadian Telegraph and Telephone Company's bill was resumed by the House Committee on Railways, and just before the committee rose a most exciting and stormy scene occurred.

Mr. Clarke moved an amendment compelling the company to interchange business with other companies, which provoked a bitter denunciation of the amendment by Mr. N. A. Belcourt, who characterized it as demagogy run mad and spoliation of the Bell Telephone Company. He declared that he would talk the bill out if Mr. Clarke insisted upon the amendment, and accused the member from Toronto of offering the amendment in order to make political capital.

The amendment proposed on behalf of the municipalities, providing that the company must get the consent of the municipalities before entering upon their streets, was adopted, and the expropriation clause was stricken out, confining the company in its operations to the public highway.

PERMANENT FORCE OF 25,000.

England Will Police South Africa at Cost of $7,500,000.

London, July 17.—During the discussion of the army estimates in the House of Commons yesterday, War Secretary Brodrick said it had been decided to keep a force of 25,000 men permanently in South Africa, whence reinforcements could be readily despatched to India in the event of an attack on the frontier.

Mr. Brodrick added that the preparations for such a contingency was a timely step, and estimated that the extra cost of keeping this emergency force in South Africa would be $7,500,000 yearly.

Canada Was Second.

Bisley, England, July 17.—The Mackinnon Challenge Cup, open to teams of twelve from England, Scotland, Ireland, Wales and the colonies of Great Britain, was won yesterday by the English team with a score of 1,408. Canada was second with a score of 1,390; Australia was third, and Scotland fourth. The distances were 800, 900 and 1,000 yards.

To Assist the Monterey.

Quebec, July 17.—The wrecking steamer Lord Strathcona and the barge G.T.D., left Quebec at eight o'clock Wednesday night to assist the stranded Canadian Pacific steamer Monterey, ashore on Miquelon Island.

Gets 23 Months.

Toronto, July 17.—Yesterday morning in the Police Court G. S. Pearce was sentenced to 23 months in the Central Prison, for breaking into the Rice Lewis hardware store a few days ago.

Paid Last Instalment.

Caracas, July 17.—The Venezuelan Government Wednesday paid to the representatives of the allied powers the last installments of the indemnity as stipulated by the protocol.

41 Deaths From Lockjaw.

Philadelphia, July 17.—Forty-one deaths from lockjaw as a result of Independence Day celebrations have been reported in this State.

Abner Paralyzed.

Johnstown, Pa., July 17.—Abner McKinley is reported dangerously ill at Somerset, with paralysis.

THIRTEEN CHINAMEN DEAD

Explosion in No. 6 Mine of the Wellington Colliery, B.C.

White Boss and Thirty-One Chinese Got Out Safely—Mine Manager Kelsey Had Narrow Escape From After-damp—Explosion Due to Ignition of Gas—In Feb., 1902, 64 Lives Were Lost in This Mine.

Victoria, B.C., July 17.—Thirteen Chinese miners are dead as a result of an explosion at No. 6 mine of the Wellington Colliery Company at Cumberland. Since the strike, few white men have been at work in this mine, and at the time of the explosion there was but one white boss with fifty Chinamen working. The boss and thirty-one Chinese got out safely, but twelve were killed outright, one died later and the others are severely burned. Manager Matthews, Overman Short and Mine Managers Walker and Kelsey descended to the pit and soon recovered the bodies, Kelsey, however, narrowly escaping being overcome by after-damp.

The explosion was due to the ignition of gas in one of the lower workings. The cause is unknown, as all men employed in No. 6 mine were compelled to use safety lamps on account of its gaseous state. There is no injury to the mine apparent at the mouth of the pit, and nothing was known of the disaster until the cage was run up with two frightened Chinese, who told of a fire.

This is the same mine in which the explosion occurred in February, 1902, in which sixty-four lives were lost.

STABBED IN FUN.

Peculiar Action of a Small Boy in the Ambitious City.

Hamilton, July 17.—A twelve-year-old daughter of Francis Maoirana of York street, an Italian shoemaker, was probably fatally stabbed last night in a most peculiar way. She had been sent to the butcher shop for some meat, and was met by a young lad about her own age named Earl Hurst, who, it is alleged, stabbed her in the breast with a horseshoe nail. She managed to get home, where it was found that her dress was saturated with blood. She was very weak, and the doctors fear that she is most seriously injured. The boy did not even know her, and it is alleged that he struck the blow in a spirit of mischief.

OLD MAN FOUND DEAD.

Member of Carousing Party, Aged 70, Dies on His Doorstep.

Stratford, July 17.—Found dead on his doorstep, William Smith, a laborer, living at Edgecombe Corners, was picked up about 2 o'clock yesterday morning. There are strong suspicions of foul play. He is 70 years of age, and it is stated that on the night previous to his death his wife, son and daughter, along with himself, were carousing. Mrs. Smith bears signs of violent treatment. The only explanation given is that the old man, in going out of the house, fell and struck his head.

Coroner Dr. J. P. Rankin of Stratford has issued a warrant for an inquest.

Killed by Lightning.

Edmonton, N.W.T., July 17.—News has just been received in Edmonton of the death from lightning of Halfbreeds Peter Ward, J. Buleau and L. Courti, near Moringville, 25 miles north of Edmonton, on Sunday morning. They were in a tepee with Indians. Indians were stunned but have recovered. The tent was ripped to pieces.

Four Persons Lost Lives.

Bonner Springs, Kas., July 17.—Four persons lost their lives in a fire early yesterday morning, which destroyed Bonner Springs Sanitarium at Bonner Springs, Kas., 17 miles west of Kansas.

Twelve Burned to Death.

St. Petersburg, July 17.—The steamer Nadejka, plying on the Volga, has been destroyed by fire near Nizhniy Novgorod. Twelve persons were burned to death.

Death of Ex-Ald. Carlyle.

Toronto, July 17.—Ex-Alderman William Carlyle died on Thursday morning. He had been in failing health for some time, and peacefully passed away at the ripe old age of 83. Deceased was born at Eaglesfield, Dumfrieshire, Scotland, in 1820, and came to Canada in 1849. In 1879 he was elected an alderman from St. Thomas' Ward, which he held for twelve years.

Russia Declines Petition.

Washington, July 17.—It was learned last night that the United States State Department has received a reply from Russia, stating that it neither would receive nor consider the matter of the Jewish petition on the subject of the Kisheneff incident.

George Rowley Examined.

St. Thomas, July 17.—George Rowley, who is accused of stealing $187,620.14 from the Elgin Loan Company, was examined for discovery yesterday morning before Judge Hughes, at the court house. The desire was to secure information that would be valuable in winding up the Elgin Loan Co.

POPE LEO AT A NEW CRISIS

His Holiness Experiences Much Difficulty in Breathing.

Third Operation For the Extraction of Serum Delayed Because of His Great Weakness—No Definite Determination as to When It Will Be Undertaken—Meantime Pontiff Continues in State of Great Depression.

Rome, July 17.—(2.25 a.m.)—The Pope's condition this morning is even less satisfactory than yesterday morning, and he suffered from much uneasiness and difficulty in breathing until relieved to some extent by an injection of caffeine. The new crisis in the Pope's condition presented itself yesterday, when the doctors were confronted on the one hand with the apparently imperative necessity of another operation, and on the other hand with the danger that such an operation might prove fatal. This dilemma was canvassed by Dr. Lapponi and Dr. Mazzoni throughout the day. At their earlier conference there was some prospect that the operation might not occur, and the doctors left the sick room without arriving at a definite determination as to when it would take place. They expressed the belief, however, that a delay until to-day would serve a useful purpose in permitting a larger extraction of serum in case the operation was undertaken. Meantime, the Pope continued in a state of great depression. Thanks to a fairly good afternoon's sleep, the physicians were also to issue a bulletin at 7.25 p.m., showing that there had been no vital change in the normal progress of the disease, though the same serious rapidity of breathing prevailed.

THE BULLETINS.

July 16.—12.40 p.m.—The doctors, after a thorough examination of the patient, have decided that the regathering of pleuric liquid, although serious, does not constitute immediate danger of dissolution, and, therefore, will defer an operation until the last possible moment.

July 17.—1.06 a.m.—The Pope is greatly disturbed by the difficulty of breathing, and is restless.

2.55 a.m.—Dr. Lapponi has again had recourse with beneficial effects, to an injection of caffeine, which had not been used for some days because of the Pope's dislike to it.

1902'S GRAIN CROP.

All Removed, and Existing Railways Are Able With Improved Equipment to Take Care of Coming Crop.

Winnipeg, Man., July 17.—The last of the crop of 1902 having been shipped out in June, the grain elevators at Fort William and Port Arthur are practically empty, and there is less than a million bushels in the inland elevators, which will be used for local purposes. No grain cargoes are offering via the lakes, and the Canadian Pacific Railway is hauling empty cars east to take care of freight destined west.

The condition, which is chiefly owing to the enormous additions that have been made to the rolling stock of the Railway Companies, exists now for the first time since Western Canada became a grain exporting country.

It is now certain that the forthcoming harvest can be easily handled by the existing roads, whose equipment is constantly being augmented, and this leads the people in the west to wonder if an additional railway in the west is worth a $70,000,000 or $80,000,000 debt.

DRAMATIC DEATH.

P. M. Arthur, Grand Chief Engineer of Locomotive Engineers, Drops Dead While Making a Speech.

Winnipeg, Man., July 17.—P. M. Arthur, Grand Chief Engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, dropped dead at midnight while speaking at the banquet closing the annual union convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which has been in session here for the past few days. Mr. Arthur had just risen to respond to a toast, and repeated the words: "It may be my parting words to many of you," when he fell backwards and expired a few minutes afterwards.

Robber Fired Two Shots.

St. Catharines, July 17.—Tuesday night in an attempt to escape from Constable Howe of Port Dalhousie, who caught him in the Maple Leaf Rubber Company's works in that place, where he was presumably for the purpose of theft at between 11 and 12 o'clock at night, James Smiley fractured one of the bones of his leg. Edward Forcey of Toronto, who was with him, but who said he had not the slightest suspicion that robbery was intended, was released on his own recognizance by the magistrate. Smiley, after the jump by which he broke his leg, fired two shots at the constable, but fortunately neither took effect.

YOUNG AND OLD FOLKS.

Pleasant to take, agreeable to the stomach, soothing and healing, Angier's Petroleum Emulsion is prescribed by physicians instead of cod-liver oil. It does all, and more, than cod-liver oil. The ideal medicine for children and enfeebled persons.

NESTLES FOOD
Where there is a Baby, there should be Nestlé's Food

For more than 35 years Nestlé's Food has been the favorite of the intelligent physician, and a household word the world over.

Nestlé's Food makes vigorous, healthy children and keeps them so. No other food is so readily digested and assimilated.

Nestlé's Food is purity itself and requires the addition of water only (no milk) to prepare it for use.

Sample free to any address.

LEEMING MILES & CO., MONTREAL.

BASEBALL THURSDAY.

The Eastern League.

		R.	H.	E.
Newark	0 2 1 0 4 0 0 1 0	8
Toronto	2 0 3 3 0 2 0 0 0	10

First base on errors—Newark 1, Toronto 5. Left on bases—Newark 7, Toronto 9. First base on balls—Off Newenham 2, off Briggs 3, off Wolfe 1. Three-base hit—Thiery. Two-base hits—Dillard, Brodie 2, Bruce. Sacrifice hits—Taylor, Bruce 2. Stolen bases—Bannon 2, Devlin, Carr, Wagner, White, Massey, Brodie and Toft. Double plays—Wagner, Taylor, O'Hagen 2. Umpire—Latham. Time—2.10. Attendance—1500.

		R.	H.	E.
Jersey City	0 1 0 1 0 0 0 0 0	2	7	3
Buffalo	1 1 1 1 0 0 2 0 0	6	10	0

Batteries—Thielman and McManus; Milligan and Laporte. Umpire—Swartwood. Attendance, 4500.

		R.	H.	E.
Baltimore	0 3 2 0 0 0 0 0 x	5	8	1
Providence	0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0	0	4	4

Batteries—Burchell and Robinson; McFarland, Dugan and Diggins. Umpire—Kelly. Attendance—350.

		R.	H.	E.
Worcester	4 2 1 0 1 0 0 0 x	8	9	1
Rochester	1 0 0 0 0 5 0 0 0	6	7	4

Batteries—Falkenburg, Pappalau and McCauley and Kellackey; Leary and Steelman. Umpire—Brown. Attendance—242.

National League Scores.

At Chicago—

		R.	H.	E.
Chicago	0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 1	2	9	3
Boston	2 0 0 0 0 0 1 1 0	4	7	0

Batteries—Weimer and Kling; Malarkey and Dexter. Umpire—Johnstone. Attendance—1400.

At Pittsburg—

		R.	H.	E.
Pittsburg	1 0 2 1 8 0 3 1 *	16	18	2
New York	0 0 2 1 0 0 0 1 0	4	10	2

Batteries—Lever and Smith; Cronin, McGinnity and Warner. Umpire—Emslie. Attendance—4420.

At Cincinnati—

		R.	H.	E.
Cincinnati	2 0 2 0 0 0 0 0 x	4	6	2
Philadelphia	0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0	1	8	2

Batteries—Sudhoff and Bergen; Fraser, Dooin and Zimmer. Attendance—1500.

At St. Louis—

		R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	2 0 0 2 0 0 0 0 0 0	4	9	1
Brooklyn	0 1 0 1 1 0 1 0 0 1	5	9	1

Batteries—Dunleavy and O'Neill; Schmidt and Ritter. Umpire—O'Day. Attendance—1578.

American League Results.

At Philadelphia—

		R.	H.	E.
Philadelphia	1 0 0 2 1 0 2 0 0	6	12	4
Chicago	0 0 6 0 0 0 2 0 3	11	15	2

Batteries—Coakley, Henley and Powers; Dunkle, Altrock, Flaherty and McFarland. Umpire—Hassett. Attendance—3985.

At Boston—

		R.	H.	E.
Boston	7 2 1 0 0 0 1 *	11	11	2
Cleveland	0 0 1 0 0 0 3 0	4	9	3

Game called to allow Cleveland to catch a train.

Batteries—Hughes and Criger; Wright, Dorner and Bemis. Umpire—Connolly. Attendance—5472.

At New York—

		R.	H.	E.
Detroit	2 0 1 0 1 5 0 0 1	10	10	1
New York	0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 1	2	5	3

Batteries—Kissinger and McGuire; Tannehill, Beville and O'Connor. Umpire—Sheridan. Attendance, 3300.

At Washington—

		R.	H.	E.
St. Louis	0 0 1 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 1	4	8	0
Washington	1 0 1 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0	3	10	2

Batteries—Wilson and Drill; Sudhoff, Terry, Evans and Kahoe. Umpire—O'Loughlin. Attendance, 1205.

Alleged Bigamist Arrested.

Toronto, July 17.—F. C. Thompson was arrested yesterday on a charge of bigamy, preferred by his alleged first wife, Harriet Payne. According to her story she was married to Thompson on May 20, 1898, by Rev. E. E. Rowe of the Euclid avenue Methodist Church and has two children by him. Only a few days ago she heard that he had been living in the city since November with another woman, Florence Gobel, to whom he had been married at Beaverton on Nov. 12 last, representing himself as a single man. Mrs. Thompson No. 1 has laid a charge of non-support and one of bigamy against the prisoner.

Lake Captain Dies, Aged 74.

Wyandotte, Mich., July 17.—Captain Nelson Dupuy, who, for 30 years, was one of the best known masters on the Great Lakes, is dead here, aged 74 years.

Approves the Sale.

Bogota, Columbia, July 17.—The Premier has sent a message to the House expressing approval of the sale of the Panama Canal to the United States.

Delightfully Refreshing

- For all occasions where a refreshing, nourishing and invigorating beverage is required there is nothing equal to Bovril Cordial with Mineral Water or Soda. It supplies all the nourishment of prime lean beef, while retaining the exhilirating effects of the Mineral Water. At your next picnic try

Bovril Cordial with Mineral Water or Soda.

Big Sale of Photos

Great Bargains in all the latest designs.

A chance of a lifetime to secure high-grade Photos at the price of the ordinary kind.

From July 15th until further notice we will offer the following great snap in Photos.

Regular $4.00 Cabinets .... $2.99 a doz.
Regular $3.50 Cabinets .... $2.49 a doz.
Regular $3.00 Cabinets .... $1.99 a doz.
Regular $2.00 Panels .... $1.49 a doz.

All other sizes and styles at the same cut rate. This studio has gained a reputation for high-grade work, and the same quality of work will be made during this sale.

Every Photo. made satisfactory to our customers and our guarantee stamp on every one.

C. J. SMITH

Studio next to Dicken's Restaurant. PHOTOGRAPHER.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

—FOR—

Stylish and Durable Turnouts.

—Surreys —Phaetons
—Corning Buggies —Bike Buggies
—Piano Box Buggies —Democrats
—Rubber Tire Buggies —Grocer Wagons
—Micadoes —Butcher Wagons

Cheese Factory Milk Wagons.
Steel Tubular Axle Lumber Wagons.

Rubber Tires put on your old wheels at reasonable prices.

Mill St., - - Belleville

For Torpid Liver, Flatulence, Constipation, Biliousness and Sick Headache, TAKE

BRISTOL'S Pills

Safe. Mild. Quick-acting, Painless, do not weaken, and always give satisfaction.

reliable Household Medicine, can be taken at any season, by Adults or Children.

[illegible] ggists sell "BRISTOL'S."

SPECIAL OFFER

MIDSUMMER CLUBBING RATES.

Two Papers to January 1st, 1904

Family Herald & Weekly Star, and the Best Home Paper—The Weekly Intelligencer, BOTH for

65 CENTS

We are making this special offer as we require 1000 new subscriptions to our Weekly.

This offer is good to new subscribers only.

ADDRESS—
The Weekly Intelligencer
BELLEVILLE, ONT.

No agents handle this offer.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

THE VIRTUOUS GLOBE.

That pure-minded Pecksniffian journal, the Toronto Globe, has been working itself into another spasm of righteous indignation, heedless of the dreadful effects of hard work in warm weather. The thunders of The Globe are now directed against what the Montreal Gazette calls "that most highly developed product of Ontario, the political parasite." He has got to go. That is what The Globe says, and this is how it says it:

> The cure for political parasitism in many instances is surgical; the fungus should be cut away. Few politicians have the courage to apply the knife, even in extreme and noxious cases; they are afraid of one parasite more than of ten honest and independent men. But the parasite can never be thrown off or his operations effectually resisted except by a regeneration and enrichment of our political life. Against a positive, vigorous, virile life the parasite has no power. To give politics the life that resists and overcomes is the supreme work of political redemption.

This, as The Gazette declares, is true, every word of it. The cure, as The Globe declares, is the use of the knife. Few politicians, as it asserts, have the courage to apply it even in extreme and noxious cases. It is hardly necessary to point out in this connection that a more notorious example of this lack of courage than is afforded by the Ross administration is unknown in the history of Canada. Take the Gamey affair. Consider it in its most favorable light and it must be recognized that an attempt was made to create a parasite out of the member for Manitoulin. He was promised the patronage of the Riding in return for his support in the Legislature. This is not denied. It was even defended by the accused Minister.

Who is "Cap." Sullivan? He is a parasite. He has been a parasite for years—the parasite of the Ross Government. Who are the Boles and the Vances and the many others who have flourished under the Ross administration? Are they parasites? The language used by judges on the bench give a tolerably clear understanding on that point. Can anyone point to a solitary instance in which the Ross administration attempted to cut away the fungus?

And where does The Globe stand in the attempt to give politics the life that resists and overcomes? The protectors of the parasite have had no more faithful and zealous advocate. It has even searched the Holy Scriptures for epithets to hurl at those who pointed out the presence of the parasite and the source of his protection. The ink, indeed, is hardly yet dry upon a weak-kneed defence of a scandalous sacrifice of the property of the province for the benefit of parasites. Instead of trusting the knife into the hands of the Ross Government with a demand that it be employed, The Globe has been persistently and energetically engaged in an attempt to chloroform the public opinion of Ontario. It probably imagines that the job has been well done, otherwise it would hardly dare to stand up and pose as a regenerator and enricher of public life. It should at least have had the decency to wait until the fumes of the chloroform have passed away.

TIMELY TOPICS

That excellent institution, the Belleville General Hospital, is just now the subject of deep consideration by many ladies and gentlemen in this city, who, naturally, desire to see it advance and become even more useful in the future than it has been in the past. The question is, how can that be done? Without attempting in any way to interfere with the self-sacrificing ladies whose efforts have been so successful, The Intelligencer would respectfully offer a few suggestions.

• • •

In the first place, it is absolutely necessary that, to put the Hospital in a proper state of preparedness and efficiency, there should be a resident physician. At present, if an accident happens or a patient is taken to the Hospital at night, much valuable time may be lost while one of the Hospital Medical Staff is being notified and makes his way to the institution. Were there a resident physician at the Hospital it can easily be seen what an advantage it would be.

• • •

Now, as to the expense of a resident physician. It would be a mere trifle; nothing in fact but his board and lodging. Young students who graduate from Queen's or other universities, are required to obtain a year's experience before they can hang out their shingle. It would, we are told, be easy to obtain a bright young fellow who would eagerly accept the position of resident physician at the Belleville Hospital, for the sake of the experience he would gain through contact with our clever physicians and surgeons.

• • •

And now the difficulty arises—there is at present no accommodation for a resident physician at the local Hospital. A new wing is needed, and badly needed. When that new wing is built it will afford quarters for a resident physician, and also the head nurse, who at present has not the accommodation to which she is entitled.

• • •

Taking the above facts into consideration, it appears to us that before the usefulness of the local Hospital can be enhanced to any great extent there must be a new wing built. That done, the installation of a resident physician will be easy, and until that is done, it does not seem that the future of our excellent institution down by the bay shore is so full of promise as we would like to see it.

• • •

Remember that in the good old summer there is very little difference between overeating and overheating. One brings on the other.

• • •

Gracious! Here's July only half gone and Toronto people are already beginning to hustle for hockey players for next year. When all's said and done, hockey seems to be the great Canadian game, after all.

• • •

While the Salvation Army was conducting services on a corner in Cleveland, a gentleman who had something to sell in a wagon nearby was trying to make himself heard. The exertion, however, was too great, and he fell over unconscious. This may be said to have been the first casualty on record to the credit of the Salvation Army.

• • •

The seat at the Council board, rendered vacant by the resignation of Rev. Dr. Galbraith, seems to be hard to fill. Ex-Ald. Wills, who was first among the "also rans," prefers, we are told, to retain his seat in the Board of Education, and will not accept Aldermanic honors. Ex-Ald. Price was the next in order on the list. He is now City Treasurer, and, as the boys would say, in his case there is "nothing doing." This puts it up to our old friend Prof. Rabbitts, and he, it is said, emphatically declines the honor. "No, sir," he is reported to have said, "If I become an Alderman it will by right of election at the hands of the people." Next in order for the honor is Mr. Donald Paterson, who is followed closely by Ex-Ald. Lattimer and Grills. If they decline the position the best thing the Council can do is to put their heads together and appoint the Stoney Lonesome philosopher.

• • •

Since the above was in type we learn that Mr. Paterson has accepted the position and taken the oath of office. Congratulations to Ald. Paterson, who will undoubtedly make a worthy City Father.

• • •

A gentleman shows us a burdock six feet tall, with leaves big enough to cover a baby's cradle, which he cut this morning on the west side of the river, about a stone's throw from the footbridge. There is a fortune waiting for somebody who starts a Burdock Blood Bitters factory in this vicinity.

• • •

It is a pity that something could not be done to place the streets in better repair after they have been torn up by the Water Department. Nearly every street in the city contains a few pitchholes which do not tend to make a cyclist's lot a happy one.

• • •

Mayor Graham has received a letter from Major Maude, expressing the Governor-General's gratification at the reception tendered himself and family on the occasion of their recent visit here, and enclosing a photograph of Lord and Lady Minto and Ladies Eileen and Ruby Elliott. It is a charming souvenir of a very delightful occasion.

• • •

The least the Mayor can do is to return a photograph of the Belleville City Council, taken on Victoria Park. Provided, of course, that bewildering assortment of stovepipe hats can again be rounded up.

• • •

Trenton's venerable bridge is now seventy years old, and, having been newly shingled and painted, bids fair to reach the century mark. They built for posterity in early days.

• • •

Sir Frederick Treves, the great English surgeon, who has just retired, performed 1000 operations for appendicitis without a single death. It does not appear that, in surgery, any country in the world is much ahead of old England.

• • •

Premier Ross is to be presented with a purse of $50,000. In this case it will be needless to ask "Where will the money come from?" Plenty of people will yield up subscriptions for the very good and simple reason that they dare not refuse.

• • •

Having sanctioned water as a proper liquid to drink toasts in, His Majesty the King may still find a few loyal subjects who will shy when it comes to drinking it.

• • •

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, of this city, has been appointed a member of the Board of General Purposes of the Masonic Grand Lodge. If the position carries with it oratorical opportunities, our worthy fellow-citizen will be right at home.

• • •

THIS MEMORABLE YEAR.

(Savannah News.)

Are the times accursed? One can scarcely pick up a newspaper without seeing an account of some terrible tragedy, and it has been so since the beginning of the year. It was estimated some two weeks ago that up to that time more than 1,000 people had met violent deaths in the United States since Jan. 1, and hundreds have been added to the list since then. Railroad wrecks, floods, cloudbursts, forest fires, mine explosions, elevator accidents, murders and lynchings have followed each other in rapid and terrible procession, until it would seem that some evil influence were at work to make 1903 memorable for its bloody record.

• • •

WELL PUT!

(Mail and Empire.)

George Washington's monument in St. Paul's Cathedral will serve to remind the American tourists of what they owe to a brave Englishman.

BARGAINS IN UNLINED SUITS.

We are offering big bargains these days in men's unlined suits at the Oak Hall. We are anxious to have each season speak for itself, and these suits must be cleared at once. If you want summer comfort for very little money, come in and see what we can do for you.

The Word "American."

(Printer and Publisher.)

From time to time, men who are generally dubbed "cranks" are to be found writing indignant letters to the press on the arrogance of the people of the United States in adopting the term "American" for their own particular use. With a great many of these protests little sympathy can be had. If the people of the United States do not give up the use of the word, as applied peculiarly to themselves (a thing which there is no prospect of their ever doing), it is simply ridiculous for Canadians to think of forcing them out of it. They possess the word by right of usage. What can be done, however, is not to humor them in the use of it. The greatest offender in this respect is the press, and if some of our telegraph and news editors would cull out the word "American" from their copy, it might make the reading of the papers more pleasant for the "kickers." Because the people of the United States have appropriated the word is no reason why Canadians should be forced to use it as applied to them.

Band Concert.

The attendance at the band concert last evening was, as usual, large. In addition to those on the park, the harbor was dotted with sail and row boats. The programme furnished by the band appeared to be much appreciated.

Sunlight Soap will not injure your blankets or harden them. It will make them soft, white and fleecy.

7B

THE JUDICIARY

A PROFESSIONAL VIEW OF THE SITUATION AS IT IS AT PRESENT.

The Canadian Law Journal, which does not recognize that the Bench is altogether above the level of criticism or comment, has the following remarks:—"The independence of the bench is of vital importance both to the public and the profession—much more important than the benefit resulting from having an occasional inquiry more satisfactorily conducted. There might be danger of this independance being jeopardised by the growing practice of taking judges away from their proper work to discharge extra duties with extra emolument. All these things give occasion to the enemy to blaspheme. The consequence is just what might be expected; unpleasant remarks are made in reference to the judges, with the inevitable result of lessoning the esteem in which the bench of this province has heretofore been held. We are on the down grade in connection with matters affecting the dignity of the bench and the respect for it in the public mind. It is time that more thought were given to these matters. The country cannot afford to have the judicial pedestal lowered. The effort must be to raise it, for it is not what it once was."

LATEST NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS

As Furnished to The Intelligencer by H. R. Beattie, Stock Broker.

New York, July 17.

Stock	Op'g	H'st	L'st	Close.
Atchison	65	66¼	64⅜	66⅛
do. pref ..	84½	89¼	83⅜	89¼
St. Paul.. ..	141¼	143⅜	141	143
Mo. P.	98⅛	100	98⅜	99⅜
Union. Pac .	76¼	78⅜	76¼	78⅜
C. P. R.	122½	123⅜	122½	123⅜
South Pac. ..	46⅜	47⅜	45¾	47¼
R. I.	29¼	30	27¼	29¼
Ills. C.	129½	131⅛	129½	131¼
Sou. Ry.....	22⅞	23	22½	23
Texas.... ...	26⅜	27	26¼	26⅞
B & O.......	82⅞	84	82⅜	84
N. Y. C.	116¼	118½	116⅛	118¼
Penna	120¼	121⅜	120⅛	121⅜
Soo	55	56¼	55	56¼
T. W....	97	97	96½	97
Erie	30¼	31⅛	30⅜	31⅜
do. pref. ...	65⅜	67⅜	65⅜	67⅜
Reading	49⅜	50½	49	50¼
C. O.	31⅜	35⅜	34⅛	35⅜
O. & W.	23½	24	23½	24
Manhattan ..	132¼	133¼	132⅜	133⅜
W. C.	18½	18⅞	18½	18¾
L. & N	106¼	108	106¼	108
A. F.	34⅜	35⅜	34½	35⅜
Nor.........	63½	64½	63½	64½
Wab........	22	23	22	22⅞
do pref. ..	38⅞	40	38⅞	39¾
W.U........	83	....	....	....
C. G. W. ..	17⅜	17⅜	17¼	17½
T.C.I.	48	48½	46	48½
U.S. S:l.....	26⅛	26¾	26	26¼
do pref.....	76½	77¼	76⅛	77⅛
Sugar	116½	117	114¾	116¼
B. R. T......	51¼	52	50⅞	52
Po.........	96⅛	96¾	95⅜	96¼
A. C. P.	48	49¼	45½	49⅜
Met........	119½	119¼	118⅜	119
Ak.	20⅛	20¼	19⅞	19¾

Sept. wheat opened at 76⅛; closed at 77⅛
Sept. corn opened at 49⅞; closed at 50¼

WOOL CRASH.

People are asking what it is. Wool crash is a sort of misnomer. It is not crash, but simply a light cool worsted in a crash weave. Hold it up to the light—you can see through it. Yet it's as tough and strong almost as thick beaver, and wiry enough to hold its shape. For a cool summer vacation knockabout suit, wool crash takes the lead. Good enough, too, for business. Come, see! Suit prices, $3.75, $5, $6 and $7.50.—Quick & Robertson, Belleville's Best Clothiers.

Our new story, "Rolff House," by G. H. Benedict, STARTS SATURDAY. It is a thrilling tale of love and adventure. Get the first chapters in Saturday's issue.

In the British army 90,000 men have good conduct badges.

Piles To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & CO., Toronto.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

In a Mexican Cemetery.

A correspondent describes the queer cemetery of the Mexican village of Guanajuato. There is hardly room in Guanajuato for the living, so it behooves her people to exercise rigid economy in the disposition of her dead. The burial place is on the top of a steep hill, which overlooks the city, and consists of an area inclosed by what appears from the outside to be a high wall, but which discovers itself from within to be a receptacle for bodies, which are placed in tiers, much as the confines of the native valleys compel them to live. Each compartment in the wall is large enough to admit one coffin, and is rented for one dollar per month. The poor people are buried in the ground without a coffin, though one is usually rented, in which the body is conveyed to the grave. As there are not graves enough to go around, whenever a new one is needed a previous tenant must be disturbed and this likewise happens when a tenant's rent is not promptly paid in advance. The body is then removed from its place in the mausoleum, or exhumed, as the case may be, and the bones are thrown into the basement below.—Phoenix Herald.

Thousands of People

Begin to eat MALTA-VITA for breakfast, simply because they like it—it tastes so good. But if it were not found to be more easily digested and more nourishing than the old time raw meal foods, they would not keep on eating it—but they do.

The proof of the pudding, you know, is in the eating.

No work, no heat; just cream, then eat.

THE WEATHER.

To-day's Probs—

Fine and warm to-day, Saturday, showers and thunderstorms, with fresh or strong southeasterly to southwesterly winds.

To-day's Temperature

As Registered by The Intelligencer's Guaranteed Thermometer:

8 a.m.	64
12 m.	78
2 p.m..........	83
3 p.m..	83

Situate between Montreal and Ottawa on the Pacific short line the MAGI Caledonia Springs are most convenient of access.

You Can't Oversleep

If it takes quite a noise to awaken you in the morning we have Clocks that will furnish the necessary disturbance.

They will not arouse you too soon, neither will they let you sleep too long.

If you set them properly they never fail to do their duty.

They are useful in most homes at odd times. They are indispensable in many homes every working day in the year.

$1.50 buys a GOOD ONE, though we have them cheaper as well as dearer.

Angus McFee.
Jeweler & Optician
310 Front St.

RUBBER

Do you know that we have the best RUBBER FRUIT JAR RINGS in the city. 10c a doz.

We have others, very good at 5c a dozen.

WATERS'

Generous Treatment.

The widow and family of the late C. W. Taylor, manager of the Globe, have been treated with the utmost generosity by the Globe directors. Until a new manager is appointed, which will not be for two months at least, Mr. Taylor's salary will continue to be paid to Mrs. Taylor. After the appointment of his successor, an annuity of $1,000 for ten years will be paid to her.

CATARRH IS A GERM DISEASE.

Science, armed with the microscope, has established it a fact, and this conclusion renders obsolete the practice of treating asthma, catarrh and bronchitis by stomach drugging, sprays, snuffs, etc. Such treatments are an utter failure because they cannot penetrate the delicate air cells of the lungs, or permeate the air passages of the nose and bronchial tubes, where the germs of catarrh have their stronghold. Catarrhozone is the only certain remedy. It is inhaled by the mouth and after spreading through all the respiratory organs is exhaled through the nostrils. Catarrhozone kills the germs, heals the inflamed tissues, clears the head and throat in two minutes, and cures in a few hours. Nothing is so effective, pleasant and simple as Catarrhozone. Two months' treatment $1.00. Small size 25c. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R., C.S., England.
Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. J. F. MATHER
Has removed his office to Pinnacle St., three doors north of Hotel Quinte. my29-6mw

DENTAL.

Dr. Clarke has removed to the offices formerly occupied by the late Dr. Ward, over Burrows', and opposite Scantlebury's Book Store.
a27dtf

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—9 Campbell Street.
MALCOLM WRIGHT. J. FRANKLIN WILLS.
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for the City of Belleville.
Office—Metropolitan Block, Corner Front and Campbell Streets.

PORTER & CARNEW,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices — Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 87.
E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Office, Bridge Street, Belleville.
Money to Loan — Private Funds. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, Etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent., on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire Insurance.

Guardian . . .	Est'd 1821
The North America,	Est'd 1792
Quebec, ...	Est'd 1818

City, Town and Village Property insure at lowest rates.
R. W. ADAMS. Agent.
Office opposite Post Office.

THOS. STEWART,
Insurance and Commission Agent.
Agent for the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Scottish Union National Insurance Co.
BRIDGE, ST.

FIRE, LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE
At Lowest Rates The Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Perth Mutual on farm and city property. Also money to loan at 4½ per cent. upwards.
JAMES A CHISHOLM,
Office Ashley Block, Front st., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned
can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance.
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass.
Home Life Association, Toronto.
North British & Mercantile.
Farm and City Property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation, and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan & Investment Society. Money to Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, Office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., opposite Postoffice and Hotel Quinte, Belleville,
'Phone 168.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. G. NORTHROP,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Shire Hall, Belleville, Ont.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the Post Office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St.
Appointments made.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

Life has no blessing like a prudent friend.

FAST MAIL SERVICE
Bay of Quinte Route
TO
ROCHESTER N. Y.
Strs. "North King" and "Caspian"
Taking Effect 27th June.

GOING DAILY (EXCEPT MONDAY)
Lv. Belleville .... 11.38 p. m.
Ar. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 6.43 a. m
RETURNING DAILY (Except Sunday)
Lv. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 8.30 p. m.
Ar. Belleville .... 3.25 a. m.
Baggage checked to all points. Connection with all railways.

$1.00 THOUSAND ISLANDS $1.00
AND RETURN.
Commencing 28th June. Steamer leaves Belleville at 3.25 a.m. daily except Monday for 1000 Islands, calling at Bay of Quinte ports, Kingston, Alexandria Bay and Gananoque. Passing through American and Canadian channels.
Right reserved to change time with or without notice.
Full information from
THE RATHBUN CO., U. E. THOMPSON, } Agents.
E. E. HORSEY, G. P. & F. Agent, Kingston.

Str. "Alexandria"
Montreal, Rochester & Quebec Transit Co'y.
Popular Quebec Excursions
NOW ON.
Belleville to Quebec and return.. $18 00
Belleville to Montreal and return $12.00
(including meals and berth)
Steamer runs all rapids.
For Rochester, Olcott Beach, Niagara Falls and Buffalo every Saturday at 11 a.m.
Particulars from
A. W. HEPBURN, General Manager, Picton, Ont. THE RATHBUN CO. Agents, Belleville.

The Deseronto Navigation Co
TIME TABLE.
Taking effect April 13, 1903.
Belleville, Trenton, Picton & Napanee
Str. "ELLA ROSS"
Leaves Belleville for Trenton at 10 a. m., daily, Sundays Excepted, returning leaves Trenton at 1 p. m., leaving Belleville at 3 p.m. for Deseronto, Napanee and Picton.
Quick and Superior Service to NEW YORK CITY
Steamers RESOLUTE and RELIANCE will leave Deseronto for Oswego after arrival of Str. Ella Ross connecting at Oswego with the New York, Ontario Western Ry.
Fare to New York, Single, $8.40
Return, $13.25
For further particulars apply to THE RATHBUN CO., Local Agents
J. F CHAPMAN, Asst. Gen. Frt. Pass. Agt., Deseronto
R. C Carter, General Manager, Deseronto.

Str. "Niagara"
Monday 13th July—True Blues to Picton.
Tuesday, 14th July — St. Andrew's Church Sunday School to Twelve O'Clock Point.
Wednesday, 15th July—Baptist Sunday School to Twelve O'Clock Point.
Saturday 18th July—First Saturday Afternoon Excursion to Picton. Fare 35c. Leaves wharf at 2.30 p.m. sharp.
THOMAS STEWART, Manager,
45 Bridge St., Belleville.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

New train 12.45 a.m., daily, except Sunday, for Brockville, Montreal and intermediate stations.
No. 16—Local, for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 2—1.45 a.m., Mail and Express, (Flyer), Daily.
No. 6—11.43 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.22 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 12—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5—3 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily except Monday.
No. 3—4.10 a.m., Limited Express, Daily.
No. 9—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 11—11.22 a.m., Passenger, Daily except Sunday.
No. 1—1.48 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7—5.12 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
Taking effect 12.01 o'clock, Sunday, June 14, 1903.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	9.10 a.m.	7.30 a.m.
Mixed	5.08 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

Our Mid-Summer Sale

Our entire stock of FANCY GOODS,

Including China (cups and saucers, Vases, Dishes, etc., etc.), Brass Goods, Candles, Silk Shades, Brushes (both hat and hair), Mirrors, Candlebras, Dickens and Art Pottery Ware, all 40 per cent. off regular prices.

Wrist Bags AND Chatelaines

Latest New York designs in walrus, seal and other leathers, from 35c to $7.00 each, all

25 per cent. off regular price.

Framed Pictures

Entire stock of our Art Gallery, comprising Steel Engravings, Platimums, Prints, etc., beautifully framed Prices from 50c to $25, all

30 per cent. off regular prices

Wall Paper

Special prices on all Wall Papers and free bordering—2 yards with each double roll.

Paper Hanging and Painting—the largest and most efficient staff of workmen.

C. B. Scantlebury

Belleville's Decorator.

Wall Paper Wholesale and Retail.

For the Revelsworth Millions,

—or—

AN ANGEL OF EVIL.

A Story of Intense Interest in which a Beautiful but Unscrupulous Woman's Schemes are Made to Fail by the Man She Loves.

almost touched him, "that, knowing as you do that I was locked into my room, you imagined that I was privy to the attempt—if there was such an attempt—to poison you?"

Dudley drew back, distressed against his will by her sudden pallor, the quivering of her lips, and the tears that had started to her eyes.

"I have not accused you of that," he answered.

"Then what do you accuse me of?"

"Why go through it again?" he asked wearily. "A fortune was left between us three Revelsworths. Presumably your idea in bringing this wretched creature with you was to employ her to murder your co-heirs, and claim the entire property as your own next year; or to kill one of us and marry the other, though you were rather averse from such an arrangement, being already married."

"Married?"

"Yes. No more lies on that subject are necessary. At this hour yesterday I was in Paris with your husband, and heard from him the entire story of your married life."

"He told you?"

"It would be more accurate to say he sold me the information."

"And you believed the word of such a creature as that against mine?"

"I believe neither him nor you. But his story is the more credible, and I have not tested his powers of lying as I have yours."

"Dudley," Francesca cried, and suddenly clasped her hands, "how can you be so hard? You love me—you were going to marry me——"

"That was a trick to throw you off your guard, and to make that creature of yours show her hand!" he interrupted.

Francesca stared at him with dilated eyes for a moment and then suddenly cast herself upon his breast, twining her arms about him, laying her beautiful head upon his shoulder, and murmuring softly to him with warm lips that touched his neck.

"Dudley, Dudley, say it is not true—say you are doing this to try me! I am innocent of everything—I have no control over that woman! She is my foster-mother, and she adores me; she cannot live out of my sight; she has been with me all my life. I have nothing but pity for her; she worships me, and, if she did indeed try to murder you or your brother, it was her crazy jealousy that prompted her, because she feared lest I might marry one of you. She has been the only person in the world that cared for me, dear; I could not turn her away to starve. And she knew—what you cannot understand—that I love you—love you with all my soul! Even when you are hard and unkind to me, I love you, and when you speak cruelly to me, I long to kiss the words away upon your lips. Night after night I dream of you, and lie awake thinking of you. I keep you portrait under my pillow like a lovesick girl, and almost wear it away with kisses. Dudley, you don't know what a love like mine is! You I love, you yourself, with your broad shoulders and cold blue eyes and soft curly hair. If you had not a farthing in the world, if you were a beggar in the street, I should love you just the same way, and long for your love in return, and quiver at your touch, and feel my heart leap at the sound of your voice as it is leaping now!"

She gripped his hand convulsively and pressed it against her heart, so that he could feel its rapid beating.

Her passionate tenderness, the gentle accent of her voice, her beautiful blue eyes shining up at him through tears almost unmanned him, and it was only by a supreme effort of will that he remained cold and impressive under her caresses.

"From what I have learned of your career," he said, "you are liable to these sudden freaks of passion—of what you call love. But I have no desire to be married, and then poisoned by you or your fostermother when you tire of me as you tired of your two former husbands."

Francesca sprang from him her cheeks glowing with anger.

"Is that what you were told?" she exclaimed. "Were you told also that I, a child of sixteen, fatherless and motherless, was lured from my home by a man so base and vile that, once having made me his wife, he not only forced me, Francesca Revelsworth, with blows and curses to work and drudge for him, but he would have had me encourage rich men to pay me court that he might profit by their admiration? Do you know what a life I have led and what men I have known? Do you wonder if I have grown to scorn them? But for my foster-mother I should have died under my first husband's brutal treatment when he found I would not stoop to obey him. But, when I was ill and almost heart-broken with the misery of the life and disgust of the wretch I had married, she came and nursed me and tended me. A little later the man died, and I was rid of him."

"He died—poisoned—you own it, then?"

"I do not own it," Francesca said shrugging her shoulders impatiently. "I know nothing of it. It all happened nine years ago. But of what value was a vile life such as his? If you saw a venomous reptile blocking you path, would you not crush it."

"You poisoned him?" he repeated, aghast at her callousness.

"I sent for my foster-mother," she returned, with sudden fire, "and showed her upon my arms and neck black bruises made by this cur, who was starving me because he could not break my self respect and my pride! She promised to free me from him—I did not ask how—and he died. Would you have me pretend to be sorry?"

"No," he answered slowly—"I would not have you pretend anything. I want you, at this our last interview, to tell the truth, if you can."

"Our last interview?" she faltered.

"Yes. I intend this vary day"—he winced as he spoke—"to apply for an order to exhume the bodies of my brother and my aunt, that they may be examined for any trace of poison. If any is found, there will be a warrant issued for your arrest as well as your foster-mother's, who will be already in custody on a prior charge of attempting to murder me!"

"You would do this?" Francesca cried. "Have you considered the scandal, the disgrace?"

"The disgrace?" will fall upon the heads that merit it!" Dudley said sternly. "My duty is to avenge my brother."

"And you think," she said softly, "that you can best avenge him, as you call it, by tormenting and disgracing me? You think that, if the dead can watch the living, as some think, it would please and gratify your brother to see me hounded down because of my foster-mother's crime, if crime it was? You think he would be happy if he could see me dragged to prison, or forced into a witness-box, to be browbeaten and insulted and made to lay bare the story of my wretched life before a court filled with sneering and unfeeling strangers? You have told me that your brother would have given his life for me; and yet for his sake you are determined to treat me like this!"

"What did you expect if your guilt were discovered?" he asked. "What mercy did you hope to receive?"

"I do not ask for mercy, I do not own to guilt," she answered proudly. "But I looked for love and tenderness from you, loving you as I do, and believing that you loved me. I am your affianced wife, and you are, besides, my cousin, the only male relative I have in the world, the one to whom I should naturally look for protection. You can torture me, persecute me, hound me down with false accusations, blast my character in the eyes of the world—you can ruin my life and break my heart; but what can you prove? That my foster-mother, Margherita Spara, unknown to me, believing that she was serving my interests, attempted to poison my relatives, also that, on one occasion when you actually surprised her in the attempt, she had taken the precaution to lock me into my room lest I should interfere. "I tell you that that foolish and ignorant old woman will never dare to face me again now that I know she has tried to injure you! Have her seized and tried for it if you like—it is a matter of perfect indifference to me what becomes of her now—but the tortures of the rack would not drag from her one word which would incriminate me!"

"You will soon have every opportunity of proving your innocence before all the world," Dudley returned coldly. "You have also now had fair warning of what I mean to do, and, if you wish to escape from this house to-night, I shall make no attempt to detain you. You are quite free to go."

He went to the door, and threw it open to emphasize his words. He was beginning to feel acutely the strain of this long interview with a woman whom he had every reason to distrust and hate, but to whose personal witchery he could not be wholly indifferent. The mingled cunning and eloquence of her address had frequently appeared to put him in the wrong; and yet, through all the charm she exercised over his senses, his reason vehemently asserted that he was in the right, and that this woman with the shining blue eyes and caressing voice was wholly evil, wholly cruel.

"You can go," he said again, and turned to look at her.

She sat upright among the cushions in the window-seat, her long hair shrouding her shoulders, her hands clasped firmly. Her face had grown very pale, and her lips were firmly compressed.

All her life came before her as she sat there perfectly still—all her life of five-and-twenty years, with its constant vicissitudes, its kaleidoscopic changes from a palace to a garret, from the cheap lodgings of a fourth-rate singing-troupe to luxurious hotels and brightly-lighted gaming-tables, back to penury again, and then this last great chance of fortune, which she had played for and had lost.

From childhood, Francesca had craved for power and splendor—power especially—and the knowledge that she possessed the means of secretly taking life had been a source of joy to her. Her passions were strong, but her will was stronger, and of all vices the one that chiefly dominated her was cruelty. The light would flash into her eyes and the warm blood would flush her cheeks at sight of a creature in mortal agony, and, as in the days of old her Roman ancestresses had revelled in the fierce sports of the Forum, so Francesca set no value upon human life, and, herself in perfect physical health, rejoiced at the sight of pain.

And this man before her, this man whom she loved after her fashion, knew her and understood her and hated her! She could not break his will, she could not dominate him, she could not even deceive him. So she sat and thought, and a sense of impotent failure took possession of her.

She, beautiful splendid Francesca, who had thought to control a million of money and have this man at her feet until she tired of him—she would not crawl like a convict thief from this house in the cold dawn, leaving those two, Dudley and Betty, to triumph over her discomfiture. She would not go back to a life of shifts and discomfort, lacking even the slavish service of the creature who had reared her from her cradle. Dudley Revelsworth should at least have cause to remember her so long as he himself should live!

"I will go," she said at last, and her voice had a hollow far-away sound. "You shall never be troubled with me any more."

With her right hand she lifted the head of the enamelled snake which clung to her wrist.

"Will you say 'Good-bye' to me?" she asked gently.

"Good-bye!" Dudley said, and stood by the door, holding it open for her to pass out.

She did not move however, but looked at him with pleading eyes, which slowly filled with tears.

"Good-bye?" she murmured. "No more than that! And it is for the last time! And I have loved you! Dudley, look at me! If I go now and you never see me again on earth, just to show you forgive me, will you not kiss me once?"

Francesca had risen and came a step nearer to him, her right hand clasped over her left wrist. She inclined her head a little towards him, her eyes gleaming, her lips slightly parted; but he drew back coldly.

"I do not forgive you," he said, and, as she made no movement, he turned to leave the room.

As he did so, a sound like a sob reached his ears. Francesca had sunk back in her old seat amid the cushions and was staring fixedly at him. Something strange and unnatural in her appearance arrested his attention. At first he thought she had fainted, and he was about to call for Betty's assistance, when, as he spoke to her and received no answer, filled with a sudden misgiving, he approached her, and touched her on the shoulder.

Francesca's head drooped forward heavily, and Dudley saw that her lips were compressed and her features drawn as though in a spasm of intense agony. There was no need to repulse her now. He laid her gently among the cushions, and endeavored to unclasp the rigid fingers which still clasped the head of the enamelled snake. Just beneath them two small dark punctures on the white skin told their own tale.

Dudley laid his handkerchief over her distorted face and agonized blue eyes, and smoothed her long bright hair. Then, with a heart full of pity and pain, he locked the door and left the dead woman alone.

• • • • • • •

At midsummer of the following year the settlement of the Revelsworth property took place, and the fortune, in pursuit of which two lives had been sacrificed, became the sole property of Dudley Revelsworth.

He, for his part, did not trouble to come forward and claim it, leaving the business to his lawyers. Ever since the distressing suicide of his cousin, to whom it was reported that he had been engaged to be married, Dudley had avoided England, and had spent his time traveling in the North of Europe. After Francesca's funeral, Betty Manington accepted a pressing invitation to stay with Madame Giles, the servants were paid off and Revelsworth House, with its ugly memories, was deserted, until a tenant was at length found for it in the person of an old gentleman with whom economy was a stronger factor than superstition.

Of that sinister figure which had masqueraded under the name of Mrs. Harold Revelsworth no trace was ever seen in the neighborhood again. Within a few hours of Francesca's death she was found to have disappeared, having freed herself from her bonds and with cat-like agility escaped from the window of her room, as was proved by the torn and broken ivy and lattice-work beneath it.

It was unlikely that Dudley would take any steps to trace her; and, whether she contrived to make her way back to Italy, or whether she still hovers witchlike, among the poor Italian colony in the neighborhood of Saffron Hill, is unknown to this day.

Within six months of the break-up of the Revelsworth House establishment, Mr. Welldon, senior, married Susan the parlormaid, and took with her an inn on the banks of the Thames, having been comfortably pensioned off by Dudley when the latter dispensed with his services.

"Inn-keeping is not what it was," Mr. Welldon has been heard to complain, "what with the spread of teetotalism and the police always ready to drop on a man if he salts or waters the beer. And Susan is impudent and wasteful. But I had to have a woman of some sort to manage the business, and it's best to have one whose faults a man knows all about beforehand. It was a kindness to her, poor soul, since she had proposed to all the young chaps at Hampton Court, and was nearing thirty! And she does know how to round on that puppy of a son of mine, with his London waiter airs, and make him know his place! I shall live to see him in the criminal dock yet!"

On the same midsummer day which put into his hands the control of the Revelsworth fortune, Dudley arrived at his step-mother's country house in France, and joining a happy family group in the garden—a group of five persons—Monsieur Giles, stout and radiant, sunning himself in a white waistcoat and straw hat, and proud beyond measure of the pink-faced baby-boy in white lace and white embroideries, carried by a be-ribboned Alsatian bonne, and two very pretty women, who might have passed for sisters in spite of twenty years' difference in age.

The Little Mother was as pretty as ever, if a little, a very little, plumper than of old, and the chance resemblance which her two sons had discovered between her and Betty, and which had so much endeared the latter to them both, was emphasised by a similarity in their fresh white summer toilets, and by the fact that Betty had let her dark curls grow and fastened them coquettishly at the back of her head.

Both greeted Dudley with delight; and he, bronzed almost beyond recognition, lifting the cap from his silvered curls, threw his arms about them both at once kissed them both in quick succession.

Betty laughed and blushed, half vexed, for was there not something a little too brotherly in such a greeting?

But Dudley's first words dispelled her misgivings, as in tones of deep tenderness he exclaimed—

"Thank Heaven I have you two with me again—my mother and my wife!"

END.

A Sure Cure for Headaches. — Bilious headache, to which women are more subject than men, becomes so acute in some subjects that they are utterly prostrated. The stomach refuses food, and there is a constant and distressing effort to free the stomach from bile which has become unduly secreted there. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are a speedy alternative, and in neutralizing the effects of the intruding bile relieves the pressure on the nerves which cause the headache. Try them.

When one gets hopping mad his reason goes on a crutch.

Will be Found an Excellent Remedy for sick headache. Carter's Little Liver Pills. Thousands of letters from people who have used them prove this fact. Try them.

Many a man's self-conceit is due to his ignorance.

The Well Known Strengthening Properties of IRON, combined with other tonics and a most perfect nervine, are found in Carter's Iron Pills, which strengthen the nerves and body, and improve the blood and complexion.

The average watch represents but 12 hours of human labor.

There is nothing equal to Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator for destroying worms. No article of its kind has given such satisfaction.

All trails are long to the lazy.

Some persons have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhoea, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for all summer Complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

Coral is a talisman against thunder and evils by flood and field.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of "Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup," and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

The wildcat's teeth are close to its purr.

Will positively cure sick headache and prevent its return. Carter's Little Liver Pills. This is not talk, but truth. One pill a dose. See advertisement. Small pill, Small dose. Small price.

A long portage makes a heavy canoe.

To Those of Sedentary Occupation. —Men who follow sedentary occupations, which deprive them of fresh air and exercise, are more prone to disorders of the liver and kidneys than those who lead active, outdoor lives. The former will find in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills a restorative without question the most efficacious on the market. They are easily procurable, easily taken, act expeditiously, and they are surprisingly cheap considering their excellence.

It takes money to voice the opinion of a lawyer.

UNTOLD MISERY — WHAT A WELL-KNOWN COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER SUFFERED, AND HOW HE WAS CURED.—Gentlemen, About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at that time travelling for Messrs. Walter Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine and when the third bottle was finished, I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery believing that the persistent use of it will cure any case of Dyspepsia.

(Signed),
T. S. McINTEE

Much talk, many lies.

He Has Tried It.—Mr. John Anderson, Kimloss, writes: "I venture to say few, if any, have received greater benefit from the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, than I have. I have used it regularly for over ten years and have recommended it to all sufferers I knew of, and they also found it of great virtue in cases of severe bronchitis and incipient consumption."

The best way to get even is to forget.

Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum of twenty-five cents.

Bank of Montreal
ESTABLISHED 1817.
Capital and Rest, All Paid Up.
$23,000,000
(Twenty-three Millions)

Savings Bank Department
Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.
A G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

RAINY WEATHER NEEDS.

What a lot of weather we are having, very hot, then rainy and cold. Whether the weater is clear or whether the weather is cloudy, the fact remains that we have waterprof coats in plenty, guaranteed to keep out the wet.

A Few Specials

We have just received a few specials that should be of interest to you. There are so many very low priced, useless coats on the market that these extra good ones at moderate prices will surely prove fast sellers. Two lines, one dark the other medium, pure rainproof, velvet collar, raglan pocket and coff, coats made to sell at $7.50. OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY $5.00.

A FEW BETTER

Then we have some extra good ones at $7, $8 and $10, coats that you would have to pay much more for in other stores. If you are thinking of a rainproof coat, come in and take a look around.

OAK HALL

Sole Agents for Sanfords Celebrated Clothing.

A Clean Sweep

~Sale~

NOW ON. In Ladies' Patent Kid and Patent Colt Skin Shoes.

The balance of season's goods to be cleared before our Fall arrivals.

25 per cent. off the regular prices.

6 pairs Laced, French Heels, $5.00, now	$3.75
9 pairs Laced Style, $4.00, now	$3.00
11 pairs Laced Style, $3 50 now	$2.60
7 pairs Laced Style, $3.00, now	$2.25
6 pairs Patent Oxfords $3.00, now	$2.25
20 pairs Fine Kid Oxfords, $2.00, now	$1.50

Bell's, McPherson's and "Empress."

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES at Belleville, Napanee and Trenton

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Curiosities of Book Sales.

Commenting on the phenomenal sale of some recent novels, a correspondent of the "Book Buyer" writes interestingly of notable books that years ago were popular, but since have become practically unknown. He says:

There was once a very popular preacher who wrote many books, and for every one there was a large demand on the day of publication. But most of them passed out of print while he was still living, and I doubt if a single one of them is now kept in stock by any bookstore. Not many years ago appeared a book which the laboring classes and the tenement-house population bought so eagerly as to run the sale into the hundreds of thousands, because they thought it showed how an equal distribution of all property might be brought about. Now it appears to be dead. Helper's "Impending Crisis" attained a sale of 140,000 copies, forty years ago, which was as great an achievement as half a million would be to-day. That was because of its bearing on burning political questions and the fact that it was systematically attacked in Congress. Now you can occasionally find a stray copy of it in a second-hand shop. Tourgee's "Fool's Errand," twenty years later, reached about the same circulation. For purposes of comparison, this and "Uncle Tom's Cabin" would seem to be closely analogous. But while the "Fool's Errand" has almost, if not quite, gone out of circulation, Mrs. Stowe's great novel, thirty years older, still sells largely in several editions, and at many libraries is called for more frequently than any other book. Mrs. Stephens' "Fashion and Famine" was the best selling novel of its day, and three translations of it were published in France. But to-day it is difficult to find a copy of it anywhere except in the lumber-room of a public library. Another example may be seen in the sudden popularity and subsequent deadness of "Robert Elsmere," the author of which is still writing successful books. Were it not that it might seem like telling tales out of school, something could be said of certain books that have begun life with a phenomenal sale, which has stopped suddenly and unaccountably, as if at some mysterious signal.

For the reverse of the picture, the most notable example is afforded by "Ben Hur." This book had no sale worth mentioning for a year after its publication, and was considered dead. Now it is said to have attained a circulation surpassing that of any other American novel, with the single exception of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Someone might prepare a curious and entertaining article on three classes of books in light literature: 1. Those that have had an immediate large sale, and have then gone to oblivion. 2. Those that have had no sale at first, but afterward have met with large success. 3. Those that have been popular at the start and never lost their popularity. The first class would be the largest. Probably the second class would be the smallest. Two that would shine in the third are the "Autocrat at the Breakfast Table" and "Reveries of a Bachelor."

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Well, it seems the Aldermen can't sell the rails to the Cement Company for $10 a ton, but we don't know of any law which forbids them to go down into their pockets and personally contribute $6.50 per ton towards the purchase of other rails for the Cement people. Having been so ready to hand over money, or its equivalent belonging to the city, they certainly should not be stingy with their own.

• • •

We move that, after that celebrated "opinion" has been read in open Council, it be framed and hung up on the walls of the Council Chamber. It will then point a moral to any future Councils which are not satisfied with the opinion of an official who is paid to, and evidently does, know his business.

• • •

Have the members of the Board of Education heard of any complaints in respect to a certain Public School last season? If they haven't they must have their ears stopped up on purpose.

• • •

The Dublin City Council will not give King Edward an address of welcome. There must be a lot of dubs in that Council, sure.

• • •

There now seems to be two wings of the Grit party, and those are about the only wings most of them will ever get.

Weak Heart, Sudden Death

MANY FALLING BY THE WAY BECAUSE OF THIN BLOOD AND WEAK HEART ACTION.

Scarcely a newspaper but contains the report of some sudden death resulting from heart trouble. With the blood in proper condition the heart repairs its own waste and throbs on day after day and year after year. By enriching and purifying the blood Dr. Chase's Nerve Food prevents and cures palpitation of the heart, irregular beating, weak heart action and all similar derangements. It ensures healthful and vigorous action of all the vital organs. Note your increase in weight while using it. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase are on every box. 11

Freemasons Elect Officers.

Toronto, July 17.—The Grand Lodge of Canada, A. F. and A. M., brought their session to a close yesterday afternoon. There were nearly 800 of the brethren at the session. The inauguration of the Semi-Centennial Fund was adopted. M. W. Bro. John E. Harding was elected Grand Master and M. W. Bro. B. Allen Deputy Grand Master. M. W. Bro. E. T. Malone was elected Grand Treasurer and M. W. Bro. Hugh Murray of Hamilton was chosen Grand Secretary. Brockville was chosen as the next place of meeting.

Hall Goes For Trial.

Aurora, July 17.—Thomas Hall, who burglarized the store of Wm. Warner on the 18th, was brought from Toronto yesterday on remand to answer the charge. The prisoner, who had been shot three times, once in the head and twice in the shoulder, presented a very pitiful appearance when brought into court. Hall pleaded guilty and was committed for trial.

Labor Smugglers Sentenced.

Jamestown, N. Y., July 17.—In the United States District Court here yesterday William Kerrys of Toronto was fined $100 for importing contract labor into the United States. George Judson of Buffalo got eight months in jail and $1,000 fine for smuggling Chinese. George S. Hills of Buffalo got six months in jail and a fine of $250 for the same offence.

Marconi's New Idea.

London, July 17.—The Marconi Company announces fresh discoveries which will greatly facilitate the sending and receiving of long distance messages. These discoveries will be applied to the system before it is opened for public use, some months hence. Meanwhile private messages are being sent daily between England and Canada.

Hay For the Cattle Saved.

Halifax, N. S., July 17. — The steamer Newfoundland will sail for St. Pierre to-day with two hundred tons of hay for the cattle saved from the steamer Monterey. The steamer will also assist in saving the cargo.

Dr. Caven Out of Danger.

Toronto, July 17.—The Rev. Dr. Caven has been steadily improving of late, and has now been pronounced out of danger by his physicians. He is still confined to bed, however, and his recovery will be slow.

Cutting His Wheat.

Woodbridge, July 17.—J. J. Marshall of Pine Grove, Ont., one of the largest and most up-to-date farmers in this section of the country, has started to cut wheat, and a fine sample it is.

THE MARKETS.

Grain Markets Are Easier — American Wheat Prices Are Lower—Live Stock —The Latest Quotations.

Thursday Evening, July 16.

Liverpool—Wheat futures, closed ¼d higher to-day than yesterday and corn futures unchanged.

At Paris—Wheat futures closed 10 centimes higher than yesterday.

At Chicago—September wheat closed ⅞c lower than yesterday; September corn ⅝c lower, and September oats 1c lower.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London—Close—Wheat on passage, very inactive. Maize—On passage, spot, American mixed 22s 6d. Flour—Spot, Minn., 27s.

Paris—Close—Wheat, tone steady; July, 24f 90c; Sept. and Feb., 22f 30c. Flour—Tone steady; July, 33f 10c; Sept. and Feb., 30f 15c.

Antwerp—Wheat—Spot, steady; July, 24f 90c.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

Following are the closing quotations at important wheat centres to-day:

	Cash.	July.	Sept.	Dec.
New York	....	....	81⅝	81¾
Chicago	....	....	76⅝	76⅞
Toledo	77½	77½	77⅝	78⅝
Duluth, No. 1 N.	85½	85½	....	....

TORONTO ST. LAWRENCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, red, bush	$0 76 to	$0 77
Wheat, white, bush	0 76	0 77
Wheat, spring, bush......	0 70	0 72
Wheat, goose, bush......	0 70	....
Barley, bush.	0 42½	....
Beans, bush	1 30	1 50
Beans, hand-picked......	1 75	....
Peas, bush.	0 78½	....
Rye, bush.	0 45	....
Oats, bush	0 36½	0 37½

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, July 16.—Closing—Wheat—Spot, No. 1 Northern spring, dull, 6s 5d; No. 2 red Western winter, quiet, 6s 2¼d; No. 1 California, dull; 6s 6¼d; futures, firm; July, 6s 7¼d; Sept., 6s 3⅝d; Dec., 6s 3¼d. Corn—Spot, easy; American mixed, 4s 5¼d; futures, steady; July, 4s 6¼d; Sept., 4s 5⅜d.

Hams—Short cut, quiet, 52s 6d. Bacon—short rib, steady; 53s 6d; Cumberland cut, steady; 47s 6d. Lard—Prime Western, nominal; American refined, firm; 39s. Tallow—Prime city, quiet; 28s 6d.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, July 16.—Butter—Steady to firm; receipts, 10,774; Western factory firsts, 15½c to 16c; do., seconds, 15c; packing stock, No. 2, 14c. Cheese—Steady; unchanged; receipts, 5220. Eggs—Weak; receipts, 8774; dirties, 9c to 12½c; checks, 7c to 10c; steady; inferior culls, 5c to 6c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Prime Cattle Retain Their Price at Montreal.

London, July 16.—Live cattle steady at 11c to 12c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 10c to 11¼c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 9⅝c per lb. Sheep, 10½c to 12c.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock amounted to 79 carloads, composed of 1086 cattle, 1760 hogs, 1287 sheep and lambs and 79 calves.

Exporters—Best loads exporters are worth $5 to $5.12½ per cwt.; medium to good at about $4.75 to $4.90.

Export Bulls—Choice quality bulls sold at $4 to $4.50 per cwt.; good bulls sold at $3.60 to $3.80 per cwt.

Export Cows—Export cows sold at $4.00 per cwt.

Butchers' Cattle—Choice picked lots of butchers, weighing from 1025 to 1100 lbs. each, equal in quality to best exporters, sold at $4.75; loads of good sold at $4.50 to $4.65; fair to good, $4.35 to $4.45; common, $3.75 to $4; rough to inferior, $2.65 to $3.25.

Feeders—Steers of good quality, 800 to 900 lbs. each are worth $3.50 to $4 per cwt.

Short-keep Feeders—Good steers, 1100 to 1200 lbs. each, are worth $4.50 to $4.60 per cwt.

Stockers—One-year to two-year-old steers, 400 to 700 lbs. each, are worth $3 to $3.75 per cwt.; off colors and of poor breeding quality of same weights are worth $2.75 to $3 per cwt.

Milch Cows—Milch cows and springers are worth $30 to $55 each.

Calves—Calves sold at $2 to $10 each, or from $3.50 to $5 per cwt.

Sheep—Prices, $3.65 to $3.75 per cwt. for ewes, and bucks at $2.75 to $3.

Spring Lambs—Prices steady at $2.50 to $4 each.

Hogs—Best select bacon hogs, not less than 160 lbs., nor more than 200 lbs. each, off cars, sold at $5.65 per cwt.; lights and fats at $5.40; sows, $4 to $4.25 per cwt., and stags, $2 to $3 per cwt.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, July 16.—About 600 head of butchers' cattle, 250 calves and 600 sheep and lambs were offered for sale at the east end abattoir to-day; a considerable number of these cattle were offered here yesterday, and not a few of them will remain unsold to-day. Prime cattle maintain their price, but the common stock bring low rates. A few of the best cattle sold at from 4¾c to near 5c per pound. Medium animals sold at from 3¼c to 4½c, and the common stock at from 1⅝c to 3c per pound. A carload of Quebec cattle, old cows, small bulls and lean small heifers were sold today at $1.90 per 100 pounds. Calves sold at from $2 to $10 each, or from 3c to 5c per pound. Sheep sold at from 3c to 3⅜c per pound. Lambs sold at from $2.25 to over $4.50 each, or from 4c to 4⅜c per pound. Fat hogs sold at from 5½c to 5⅜c per pound for good lots, weighed off cars.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, July 16.—Cattle—Receipts, 60; fair demand; steady; prime and shipping steers, $4.90 to $5.40; butchers' steers, $4.25 to $4.80; cows and heifers, $2.50 to $4.75; bulls, $3.25 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $3.25 to $4.45; veals, slow; $5 to $6.25. Hogs—Receipts, 3500 head; active; yorkers, steady; others 10c to 20c higher; heavy, $5.65 to $5.75; mixed, $5.70 to $5.75; yorkers, $5.90 to $6; light yorkers, $6 to $6.05; pigs, $6.20 to $6.25; roughs, $4.80 to $5; stags, $4 to $4.25; light dairies, $5.75 to $5.85; heavy dairies, $5.40 to $5.50. Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 800 head; strong, 25c to 50c higher; top lambs, $4.75 to $7; yearlings, $5.25 to $5.50; wethers, $4.50 to $5; ewes, $4 to $4.50; mixed sheep, $2 to $4.50.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, July 16.—Beeves—Receipts, 2822; dressed beef, steady; city dressed native sides, 6¾c to 8½c per pound. Calves—Receipts, about nominal; Buffalo veals sold at $4 to $5.50 per 100 pounds; city dressed veals, general sales, 7c to 9½c per pound. Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 6500; good sheep, firm, other grades quiet and steady; lambs, active; ¼c to ½c higher; sheep sold, $3 to $4 per 100 pounds; a few head for export at $4.50; lambs at $5.75 to $7; dressed mutton, 6c to 8½c per pound; dressed lambs, 8½c to 11½c. Hogs—Receipts, 916.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, July 16.—Cattle—Receipts, 7000, including 500 Texans. Market strong to 10c higher; good to prime steers, $5.10 to $5.60; poor to medium, $4 to $5; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.50; cows and heifers, $1.50 to $4.75; canners, $1.50 to $2.80; bulls, $2.25 to $4.35; calves, $2.50 to $6; Texas fed steers, $3.25 to $4.85.

Hogs—Receipts to-day, 17,000; estimated for to-morrow, 20,000; left over, 6500; 10c to 15c higher; closed easy; mixed and butchers', $5.15 to $5.65; good to choice heavy, $5.40 to $6.60; rough heavy, $5 to $5.35; light, $5.30 to $5.80; bulk of sales, $5.35 to $5.00.

Sheep—Receipts 6000; sheep, steady to 10c higher; lambs, 15c to 20c higher; good to choice wethers, $3.75 to $4.10; fair to choice mixed, $3 to $3.75; western sheep, $2.50 to $4.50; native lambs, $3 to $6.50.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Tweed, Ont., July 16.—Six hundred cheese were boarded here to-day; all sold at 9 7-16c. Buyers: Magrath, Watkins and Kerr.

Vankleek Hill, Ont., July 16.—There were 1048 boxes of white and 80 boxes of colored cheese boarded here to-day. Only 528 boxes were sold on the board, white at 9⅝c and colored at 9½c.

CUTICURA OINTMENT

Purest of Emollients and Greatest of Skin Cures.

The Most Wonderful Curative of All Time

For Torturing, Disfiguring Skin Humours

And Purest and Sweetest of Toilet Emollients.

Cuticura Ointment is beyond question the most successful curative for torturing, disfiguring humours of the skin and scalp, including loss of hair, ever compounded, in proof of which a single anointing preceded by a hot bath with Cuticura Soap, and followed in the severer cases, by a dose of Cuticura Resolvent, is often sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing forms of itching, burning and scaly humours, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure when all other remedies fail. It is especially so in the treatment of infants and children, cleansing, soothing and healing the most distressing of infantile humours, and preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scald and hair.

Cuticura Ointment possesses, at the same time, the charm of satisfying the simple wants of the toilet, in caring for the skin, scalp, hair, hands and feet, from infancy to age, far more effectually, agreeably and economically than the most expensive of toilet emollients. Its "Instant relief for skin-tortured babies," or "Sanative, antiseptic cleansing," or "One-night treatment of the hands or feet," or "Single treatment of the hair," or "Use after athletics," cycling, golf, tennis, riding, sparring, or any sport, each in connection with the use of Cuticura Soap, is sufficient evidence of this.

Cuticura Resolvent, liquid and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.

☞ Send for "The Cuticura Skin Book."

King's Visit to Ireland.

The main lines of the programme for the royal visit to Ireland have been provisionally settled. The intention is that the King and Queen shall leave London on Monday, July 20, arriving in the Irish capital on the next day. The engagements at Dublin, Belfast and elsewhere will occupy them till the following Saturday, when they go to visit the Marquis and Marchioness of Londonderry at Newtownards, staying over Sunday. On the 27th they leave Bangor and proceed by sea to Lough Swilly, en route to Londonderry, which should be reached on the 28th. A couple of days will be spent in touring by motor car, probably in County Donegal, and on August 1 their Majesties are expected to visit the Cork Exhibition, and present new colors to the military station there.

The Game of Life.

Not the quarry, but the chase,
Not the laurel, but the race,
Not the hazard, but the play,
Make me, Lord, enjoy alway.
—Gelett Burgess in "McClure's."

A Commentator.—N. Y. "Life."

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Fast and Convenient Service to Canadian Summer Resorts.

Muskoka Lakes, Lake of Bays, Kawartha Lakes, Georgian Bay, Parry Sound, Magnetewan River, Jackson's Point, Montreal, Penetang, Quebec, Lake Nipissing, Old Orchard, White Mountains.

Trains make direct connection at Muskoka Wharf for all points on Lakes, also at Huntsville for all points on Lake of Bays.

Unexcelled service to Detroit, Buffalo, Chicago and all western points.

For tickets, information, descriptive and illustrated literature of Canadian Summer Resorts, apply to

D. E. THOMPSON, City Agent,
Bridge Street,
T. H. COPPIN, Depot Agent,
J. D. McDONALD,
Dist. Pass Agt., Toronto.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

"Imperial Limited."

Fast tri-weekly Transcontinental service between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. Connection leaves Toronto at 1.45 p.m., Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, making run Toronto to Vancouver in 97 hours.

Upper Lake Steamships

Leave Owen Sound Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 5.30 p.m., on arrival of S.S. Express leaving Toronto at 1.30 p.m. Connections at Fort William and Port Arthur for Winnipeg and Pacific Coast points.

Daily First-Class Service Toronto to Winnipeg, Calgary, Banff and Pacific Coast.

Fully Equipped Through Tourist Cars leave Toronto Tuesday and Saturday for Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Full particulars from your nearest Canadian Pacific Agent or to

A. H. NOTMAN,
Asst. Gen. Pass. Agent, TORONTO.
S. BURROWS, C.P.R. and General Ticket Agent, Front St., Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL

& HUDSON RIVER R. R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.			After 1st May
Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)		12.22 p.m.	1.30 a.m
Arr. Kingston	"	1.47 p.m.	3.12 a.m
Lv. Kingston (stage)..		2.30 p.m.	5 00 a.m
Arr. CapeVincent (stage)		4.30 p.m.	7.00 a.m
Lv. Cape Vincent N.Y.C.		5.05 p.m.	7.25 a.m
Arr. Watertown	"	5.55 p.m.	8.25 a.m
Arr. Oswego	"	9.05 p.m.	11.55 a.m
Arr. Syracuse	"	9.25 p.m.	12.07 p.m
Arr. Rochester	"	1.05 a.m.	2.20 a.m
Arr. Utica	"	9.45 p.m.	12.35 p.m
Arr. New York	"	7.25 a.m.	6.00 p.m

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C. R. R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from F. A. Folger, N.Y.C. Agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent.
New York.
A. H. SMITH, Gen'l Supt.,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

Trial by jury in Britain dates from the reign of Ethered I., 866—871 A.D.

LIKE OTHER EVILS cramps and diarrhoea come suddenly. Promptly give a dose of Perry Davis' Painkiller and the pains will go immediately. A bottle at hand will save hours of suffering—be prepared.

Shoes and Slippers

FOR SUMMER WEAR.

Ladies' Fine Low Shoes—ranging in price from 50c to	$3.75
Ladies' Fine Strap Slippers—prices from 75c to	$3.00
See our assortment of Children's Slippers, ranging in price from 25c to	$1.25

We carry a large stock of Trunks and Valises, Dress Suit Cases, Club Bags, Cabin Trunks, etc.

VERMILYEA & SON.

Sole Agents for the famous Queen Quality Shoe.

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY ! 2 WEEKS

$5.00 Any Suit In This Great Clothing Store for $5.00

A STUPENDOUS CLOTHING OFFER WITHOUT PRECEDENT OR PARALLEL.

Some Suits $18, some $16, some $15, some $12, others $10. Just think of it! High grade, thoroughly tailored garments for Men, complete suits in fashionable fabrics, for

$5.00

This is just the opening gun in the great Mid-Summer Sale, in connection with this store. In every other department there will be equal sensational reductions. This Clothing Sale begins on July 11th and will end on July 25th. The earlier you come the better your choice as we anticipate a big rush.

The GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE.

Up-to-date Clothiers and Gents' Furnishiers, Look for the Globe Over The Door, 390 Front Street, Belleville.

Wall Paper

At first sight of our Wall Papers you will say there's an attractiveness about them that puts them lengths ahead of other lines.

IN STOCKING

we select only the best, we have no "shelf warmers" all our Papers are quick sellers. If you choose your Papers from us you have best value for the price obtainable anywhere.

Painting, Paperhanging and Decorating done on shortest notice by best workmen in the city.

JOHN CORNELIUS.
3 Doors South of Intelligencer Office.

NEW GOODS
JAPAN TEA

The first of this season's crop, exta quality, regular 50c line, we quote

40c per lb.

Canned Halibut

Fine solid Fish, very tasty,

15c per can.

J. C. Hanley & Co.
GROCERS
Telephone 214

Flowers & Vegetables
Of all kinds in season.
. . . AT . . .
J. D. COLLIP'S.
'Phone 205.

Western Beef.

Prime Western Beef together with all kinds of choice meats, supplied by the district, at

C. GREEN'S
267 Front St., 'Phone 109.

Literary Pretense.

If all of us who in these latter days have acquired some repute of knowledge of literature were to be tried before a jury of real experts, it is to be feared, writes Guy Carleton Lee, that the vast majority of us would win this sentence: "Guilty of having gained a reputation under false pretenses." Let us be candid with ourselves, since the confidence need go no further. Have we really made ourselves familiar with English masterpieces? It were damning to confess ignorance of Chaucer, for example; let all who have read the "Canterbury Tales," to take but a portion of his works, mentally hold up their hands. The resulting show might not carry an election in the smallest election precinct.

Perhaps we have taken an unfair test. Chaucer is difficult reading to any but the scholar, and the quaint old words are apt to interfere with any pleasure in the reading. Let us return, then, to writers of a later date, whose language holds no obscurity of form. How many of us have read "The Faery Queen" from beginning to end? Perhaps some few, to whom literature is a profession, not a recreation; but of the rest of us who so glibly discuss Edmund Spenser and his influence upon poetry, and who talk learnedly of the Spenserian stanza, the vast majority are utter strangers to the works of the poet they praise.

The early dramatists, again. Most of us are vaguely aware that Marlowe wrote plays called "The Jew of Malta" and "Tamburlaine," and a dramatic poem entitled "Doctor Faustus;" but our knowledge of him stops there. Massinger, because of the occasional presentation on the stage of "A New Way to Pay Old Debts," is more familiar to us; but our acquaintance with him is strictly limited to that one work. Beaumont and Fletcher are by name "familiar in the mouth as household words," but some of us would be sorely puzzled to quote a line written by these old collaborators. Ben Jonson we know by his epitaph; but by his works we know him not. Shakespeare—ah! there we are safe; all of us have read him. Have we so? Along comes some villainous prier-into-secret-places and questions us of our knowledge of the "Sonnets;" and straightway we wish that we were dead or that Shakespeare had never been born to write twaddle that is called literature.

Dryden, again. He is sometimes talked of nowadays; is he ever read? And the dramatists of the Restoration —Wycherly, Congreve, Farquhar, Vanbrugh? And—to retrace our steps for the moment—Sidney and Harvey and Rochester and Herrick—oh, yes, we all know the quotation from the latter concerning the little feet which stole in and out; but, singular as it may appear, these lines were not the sole production of Herrick.

Pass on. Is Pope ever read nowadays? Who of us can ever give a list of his principal poems? It would be a good wager that ninety-nine out of a hundred among us, being asked to do this, would promptly exclaim: "The Essay on Man," and then continue "Er—and—'The Rape of the Lock,' you know—and—h'm—on, well, and all the rest."

Cowper—didn't he write something about a sofa? Southey? Oh, yes, he wrote "How the Water Comes Down at Lodore," and—and other things. Richardson? Addison? Steele? We seem to know these names—we are before our jury of experts now—but we cannot recall their writings for the moment. Swift? Oh, he wrote "Gulliver's Travels;" we read that when we were young; yes, we have entirely forgotten it, and recall no political satire in it. We know that Fielding and Smollett were very coarse writers; we do not remember any other characteristics. Ever read them? No, but we have read of them.

But, the attorney for the defence may urge, these are not names of giants; knowledge of their works is not indispensable. Waiving this point, the prosecuting attorney sternly demands if we have never claimed acquaintance with these men, if we have never referred to them with an air of easy nonchalance calculated—and intended—to impress our auditory with the fact that we were profoundly versed in their works. How many of us pretenders can honestly answer "No"?

"Now," says the prosecuting attorney, "I have but one more question to ask you. You have often sneered at Byron as out of date and monotonous; have you ever read 'Childe Harold's Pilgrimage,' or that magnificent dramatic poem, 'Cain'?" And we answer desperately: "No; Byron is no poet; he is not literature; it would be waste of valuable time to read his stuff."

And then the attorney for the defence, in despair at our admissions, yet still fighting his case, asks us to name the works with which we are familiar, that we may show that our reputation is deserved. Sure of our ground, we go trippingly on with a list of the "Trilbies," the "Ladies of Quality," the "Richard Carvels," the—but here our attorney hastily bids us leave the stand, and submits the case without argument.

Is the picture overdrawn? We fear not.

Salmon Ova for New Zealand.

A few days ago six boxes containing about 90,000 salmon ova were placed on board the steamship Rimutaka, lying in the London docks, and these are now well on their way to their destination in New Zealand. The establishment of trout in many waters at the antipodes (which formerly were absolutely bare of that variety of fish) has been successfully accomplished. Many rivers at the other side of the world are now plentifully stocked and yield fish in abundance and of remarkable size.

The project of dispatching a consignment of salmon ova this year to New Zealand has been attended with no little difficulty. So many of the fishery boards throughout the country have now started fish hatcheries for districts that they are naturally somewhat loath to give permission for the collection of ova for stocking other than their own waters. At times, indeed, owing to various causes, they find it difficult to get sufficient ova to fill their hatching troughs, let alone those of others. Due to the kindly intervention of the duke of Richmond, who, it should be recollected, has a fish hatchery near Fochabers, permission was granted to collect ova from the Spey, and under the direction of Spey fish and carefully deposited at Howietoun, whence they were in due course packed and dispatched on their long journey. The Spey, Forth and Teith have each contributed ova for this shipment to New Zealand. From the first mentioned has been sent the largest number, and it is hoped that a further consignment of between 50,000 and 60,000 Spey ova will shortly be forwarded from the Howietoun rearing ponds.—London Times.

His First Deer.

Buck fever is a hunter's disease, the symptoms of which are pretty well known, but they have seldom been more feelingly described than by a Marquette citizen, whose first experience in deer shooting is related in the Mining Journal.

After spending a few hours tramping through the woods, feeling tired, he sat down on a log to rest. Like most hunters, he had taken his pipe and tobacco along. Filling the pipe, he smoked for a time without interruption, when, happening to turn his head a little to one side, he saw a large buck coming straight toward him. As luck would have it, he had sat down to smoke near a deer trail.

The deer came nearer and nearer, until he was nearly opposite the place where the hunter sat concealed. While the hunter was watching the approach of the deer he forgot that he had a gun, and that the deer was his "meat." He began to tremble and shake in every limb and joint, and it was difficult for him to restrain a yell of fright.

He watched and trembled until the deer passed his hiding place and went into the thicket beyond. Then feeling for his pipe, he discovered that it lay on the ground near his feet. By the time he had picked it up the deer was out of range, and then he discovered that in his excitement he had bitten the mouthpiece of his pipe in two.

He was greatly relieved to see the deer move on, as it seemed to him that he was the game and the deer was the hunter.

The Duke of Norfolk takes pleasure in telling many stories about himself. Here is one of them: A large party of Americans arrived one day at Arundel, with an order to go over the Castle. As the butler was away, the Duke, fond of a joke, acted his part, and conducted them personally through the various stately rooms. They plied him hard with questions, such as, "What sort of man is the Duke?" "Is he good-looking?" "Couldn't we have a peep at him somewhere?" "Is he a good master?" "And how long have you been in his service?" etc. The Duke preserved a perfectly rigid demeanor through all this personal cannonade, replying respectfully to all their queries, and when the party left was rewarded with a handsome tip of half a crown.

CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY

CAPITAL

0,000 Shares 7 per cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, par value $100 each, $1,000,000
50,000 Shares Common Stock, par value $100, issued and fully paid 5,000,000
TOTAL CAPITALIZATION $6,000,000

Issues of $1,000,000 00 7 p.c. Preferred Stock in 10,000 Shares of $100 each at par.

This stock is preferred both as to Assets and Dividends.

The shares are entitled to cumulative preferred dividends from the net earnings of the Company, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable half yearly on the first days of April and October. They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at $115.00 per share, at any time after 1st January, 1909.

The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000.00, the whole of which is now offered.

Subsriptions for 10,000 Shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent. Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is $100 Share, as follows

per cent on application,
25 " " on allotment,
35 " " 30 days thereafter.
35 " " 60 days thereafter.

One share of Common, par value $100, given with each share of preferred.

The whole of instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of one per cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Novia Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1,000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4000 acres of iron ore deposit, located Natashquan (tidewater) situated on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguney, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highet ever discovered, running from 69 per cent to 72 per cent in metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore has been received by the Campany than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

Send for prospectus giving full information as to earnings, reports, etc., etc.

Address all communications and send subscriptions to

COLONIAL SECURITIES CO.,
62 Wall Street, New York City

OR

W. L. MARSTON & COMPANY
110 State Street, Boston

The SAWYER COMPANY.
351 Temple Building, Montreal, Canada.

Our New Story

ROLFF HOUSE

—BY—

G. H. Benedict,

COMMENCES IN

Saturday's Paper

You will enjoy this tale of

Love and Adventure

Read The Opening Chapters

ADVERTISING RATES.

Measurement Nonpareil—12 lines to th inch.

Display a lvert'isements, 10c pe: line. Subsequent consecutive insertions, ne

Reading adverti ements, 15c per line. Preferred positi n, 20 per cent. advanc upon o inal or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriages and deaths, 50c each insertio Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisement will be found in 1st colnmu of 2nd page.

All advert sements are subject to th approval of the Publisher of the Intelligencer.

Address all communications to the Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House Limited, or to Charles J. Bowell, Managing Director and Treasurer.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s Office, 30 Fleet Street, London, E. C.

CONDENSED ADVERTISEMENTS

SITUATIONS WANTED, HELP WANTED, LOST OR FOUND, FOR SALE OR TO RENT, &c

(Auction Sales not ncluded in this list)

TERMS.—Twenty-five words or less. 25c first insertion; two insertions, 50c; four insertions, 75c; one week $1.00, two weeks, $1.75, three weeks, $2.25; one month, $2.50. Strictly cash in advance.

WANTED.

Woman or girl to do housework by the day. Apply immediately. Mrs. C. J. Bowell, 163 Albert street. 2t

40 teams, $3.50 per day, railroad work. Transportation free. Apply S. E. Phippen, Dundas street.

100 machinery moulders and coremakers. Steady work. Wages for moulders at least $4.00: coremakers $3.25. Address Post Office Box 511, Toronto. jy9-d10t

$6 per month will buy you a home anywhere under our plan. Live in it while paying for it Write for prospectus. Canadian Home Builders' Association, Manning Chambers, Toronto. jy11-6t

Have you spare time? Increase your income by work at night. Others are doing it. Our goods are used everyday everywhere. Write G. Marshall & Co., Teas, London, Ont.

Agents wanted, $2.50 per day. Apply Cooper, London, Ont. s27-1y

Young men ambitious to learn lucrative trades, of which there are eight in connection with the business. Apply The Belleville Hardware Company, Belleville, Ont. a7dtf

TO-LET.

That new solid brick house on Yeomans street. Hard and soft water in kitchen. Good cellar, stable and garden. In perfect order. $6.—J. J. B. Flint. jy16dtf

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

Stone house, 11 rooms, coal furnace, stable, barn. Large grounds. Cor. Frank and Moira Sts. north. Terms reasonable. H. Bull, on premises or Fred Bull, 133 Yonge St., Toronto. Terms easy. ap18-dtf

FOR SALE.

Shingles, shingles, dressed lumber, etc. GEO. WALTON & CO. jy14-1md

Dressed and Matched Lumber of all kinds, at ALFORD'S factory, Market Square. j12-tf

Two surreys, two phaetons, two buggies, one horse. Apply to H. L. CURRY, Pinnacle street. jy9-8td&16.23w

Contractors and masons, any any person requiring lime may procure it from E. G. STAPLEY, Canifton Road, Belleville. New lime always on hand. a9-d&w6m

TO RENT

A house on Moira street containing 8 rooms. All modern conveniences. Possession on or before 20th. July. Adam Henry.. dtf

Goods We Have at Right Prices

—Hammocks.
—Fishing Tackle.
—Tennis Goods.
—Golf Goods.
—Lacrosse Goods.
—Base Ball Goods.
—Screen Doors and Win 'ows.
—Fruit Jars.
—Fruit Jar Rubbers.
—Wall Paper.
—Crystal Glass Vases.
—Glass Ware.
—Dinner Sets.
—Toilet Sets.
—Ladies' Hose.
—Ladies' Vests.
Everything in smallwares.

AT THE BEE HIVE

Chas. N. Sulman

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

Author's Early Struggles.

A magazine of recent date contains several moderately interesting letters written by Blackmore, for which the publishers undoubtedly paid a good price, yet "Lorna Doone" was offered to eighteen publishers before it found acceptance. The original manuscript of "The Bells," by Poe, was considered a great bargain when it was purchased a few years ago for two hundred and seventy-five dollars; but "The Gold Bug," now so frequently mentioned as a perfect example of the short story, was many times rejected. Thackeray was at first laughed at when he proposed having his printed work republished in book form. Many of his novels, including "Vanity Fair," appeared in "Frazer's Magazine." Jane Austen was likewise unfortunate, for it took her ten years to find a publisher for her first three novels. Fielding, too, found difficulty in disposing of "Tom Jones." Great Britain, however, did not contain all the unappreciative publishers, for Motley's "Rise of the Dutch Republic" and Mrs. Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" met with similar difficulties in America. Even Charles Dudley Warner's "My Summer in a Garden" was rejected by two Boston publishers.

To come to more modern instances Archibald Clavering Gunter's "Mr. Barnes of New York" was rejected by every publisher in America, and England, too before the author published it himself in a yellow paper cover, and made a fortune. Many a worse book has appeared since in far more sumptuous binding. Dr Doyle's apprenticeship lasted ten years; his "Micah Clarke" was declined by Blackwood, Bentley, Cassell and several other publishers before it was accepted by the Messrs. Longman, upon the recommendation of Andrew Lang. "John Strange Winter" wrote industriously for six years before her first cheque—for ten English shillings—came as a reward Clara Louise Burnham's first two novelettes were declined. Walter Besant's first manuscript was refused by several publishers, and was finally destroyed by the author in a moment of despair. David Christie Murray's first book met with a similar fate. Barrie's first stories had all been many times rejected before he put them together and tried to sell them under the title "Auld Licht Idylls." Even then the book manuscript was declined by many publishers. Edna Lyall's "Donovan," a book that made a fortune for its publisher, was many times rejected Marie Corelli's "A Romance of Two Worlds" was again and again refused.

Sarah Grand's first book, "Ideals," was several times rejected. It was then thrown into a drawer, where it remained undisturbed for seven years before the discouraged author again offered it to a publisher. "The Heavenly Twins" was repeatedly declined. That clever bit of fiction, "The Tenor and the Boy," written originally as a short story, was declined by every publisher or magazine editor to whom it was offered: but as a chapter in "The Heavenly Twins" it created a furore. The author has been obliged to explain again and again why that chapter had never appeared as a short story When Grant Allen first decided to write he produced about a hundred magazine articles, every one of which was promptly declined by as many editors. He once confessed, too, that it was three years from the time of the publication of one of his stories in a leading magazine before he was again successful in that particular quarter. Maurice Thompson [illegible] owned to having one short story that he could not sell, although he had offered it to every important periodical in the States and Canada. Even Mr. Howells's first work went begging; his "Venetian Life" was many times refused; and he too, owns to holding a manuscript that he once tried in vain to sell. Riley labored for twenty years to get into one magazine; he was finally successful, but as they used to say in the concluding chapters of most sensational novels "Joy does not kill," and the Hoosier Poet lived to get into the same magazine again. Perhaps no modern writer is more popular than Anthony Hope, yet all of his first work was rejected; his first five published books were only partially successful before the appearance of "The Prisoner of Zenda."—June "Bookman."

One Cause of Roosevelt's Success.

Much as the public at large respects and likes Mrs. Roosevelt, her fondest admirer is undoubtedly the President himself. Tousley Streator, in "Good Housekeeping," relates that at one of the White House musicales he said to the President that it was wonderful how much Mrs. Roosevelt could do socially, and to how large a number she was able to extend White House hospitality; and the President looked pleased, and replied: "Yes, whatever people may think of the President, I suppose it is pretty generally known that Mrs. Roosevelt makes a good mistress of the White House. I like her entertainments myself Now, this musicale is just the sort of thing we all enjoy—it gives pleasure to her friends and is dignified in its entertaining. But," he added, "Mrs. Roosevelt is as good a mother as can be found—a good mother to six children, giving them her time and thought. Yet, busy as she is in always attending to them herself, she manages to give me some time, too. Now, to-day she rode with me an hour and a half. She is a conscientious mother, let me tell you, with a heart full of love, always thinking of what is best for the children."

Grandma Went Skating.

One day last winter a little boy who attended a Walnut Hills school, according to the Cincinnati "Enquirer," arrived in the schoolroom not only half an hour late, but very dirty.

"Willie," said the teacher, "why are you late, and why is your face not washed?"

"Please," explained Willie, "my grandmother was out skatin' last night, and she was too tired to get up this morning and get me ready for school."

So absurd an excuse naturally excited the teacher's wrath, and she started an investigation, threatening punishment for Willie's supposed untruthfulness.

To her amazement she found that the boy had told the exact truth. The old lady, who had been an expert skater in her youth, had been tempted to join a skating party. The result was that she felt the next morning, as the boy expressed it, as if her bones were "cracking like a horse-fiddle," and it took the services of three neighbors to pry her out of bed.

GEN. WASHINGTON

Was the Subject on Which the Citizen of of Piety Hill Let his Patriotism Loose.

After he had helped the plates and vetoed the baby's proposition to sit with both feet on the table after kicking over the coffee pot, this patriotic citizen of Piety Hill thought it the proper time to discuss Washington for the children's benefit. He first told the hatchet fable to the smaller ones and came out strong on the moral.

"But that is denied," interrupted the elder daughter, who is wearing her first long dresses this winter. He flashed an awful frown upon her and meant to hurry along that the sublime faith of the "kids" might not be impaired by this heresy, but the daughter had no idea of being suppressed.

"And I just read the other day," she went on, "that he had a horribly violent temper. It was something frightful when he got to going."

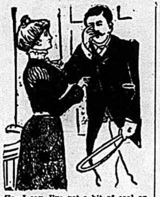
Baby's attempt to swallow a dessert spoon made a welcome interruption, and the father branched off to the farewell address. It was one of the most beautiful, soul stirring and impressive things in the English language. It was superb——

"But I just read in a January magazine Washington did not write it at all. The author"—

"Go to your room, young lady. You sceptics would have interrupted the Sermon on the Mount. Bacon wrote Shakespeare. Half the authors have been plagiarists. The Bible is not authentic. Nothing is real, not even the toothache. The world's going crazy. I say that Washington never told a lie. He wrote his own speeches. He was first in peace, first in war and first in the hearts of his countrymen. Catch that baby!"

But it was too late. The patriotic little chap, in his excitement had kicked himself over backward, a shower of dishes submerged him, and the subject of Washington was, by tacit consent, put over for a year.—Detroit Free Press.

Housewifely.



He—I say, I've got a bit of coal or something in my eye.

She—Dearest!.. If it is coal do be careful. Remember coal is $5.25 a ton!

Willing Testimony.

"How do you like your new typewriter?" inquired the agent.

"It's grand," was the immediate reply. "I wonder how I ever got along without it."

"Well, would you mind giving me a little testimonial to that effect?"

he rolled up his sleeves and in an incredibly short time pounded out this:

"After Using the amtomating Back-action a type writ, er for thre emonths and Over. I unhessttattingly pronounce it pronoce it to be al even more than the Manufacturs Cliaim? for it During the time been in possession e l. th ree month zi id has more than paid for itself in the saving of an dlabor.—John $ Gibbs."

"There you are, sir."

"Thanks," said the agent, and most quickly went away.

He Got All His Change.

"I never felt so cheap in all my life," said Short, "as I did one day in a department store. I bought a book for 99 cents and while I was waiting for it a young woman, whose good opinion I valued, came up and we began to talk. The book was wrapped up and handed to me by the girl at the counter, and after a short while the young woman asked?

"'Are you waiting for your change?"

"I replied that I was, but in fact I hadn't been thinking of it. I wanted to talk to her and made that an excuse for staying. After the usual long delay, when it had passed entirely out of my mind the girl at the book counter stepped up and said:

"Here's your change, sir.'

"And she held a bright new cent in her open hand so that the other girl saw it. I felt a chill at once and just because it appeared to the young woman that I had been waiting all that time for a cent. I got a reputation for close-fistedness that is still sticking to me."

As Fate Would Have It.

Many years ago an Arkansas youth, on leaving the home of his sweetheart late at night, received a severe kick as he stepped out of the door. His beloved had not responded definitely to his proposal of marriage, but had assured him that she would soon let him know what she could do for him. He, unfortunately for two tender hearts, took the kick for an answer departed for a far and wild country. Here he brooded over his wound and his broken heart until his beard grew down to his knees and his nose became Roman.

As fate would have it, as fate always has it, he turned up late one sad, sad evening when the straw-neck hens were quarreling on the roost and the brindle cow was lowing mournfully for her hungry offspring. A young man some six feet tall met the lonely visitor. It was one of seven sons, born, from time to time, unto his old love. Explanations followed. It was not the girl who kicked him thirty years before. Oh, no! It was her angry father. She loved him. It was all clear now. He went out to the horse lot cut off his beard with the sheepshears and kicked himself down the hill.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Store Closed Every Wednesday During July and August at 12 O'Clock Noon.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Our sale would be incomplete without an offering for the benefit of our younger customers, so on Friday and Saturday we give them this chance in

COATS AND WASH DRESSES

Besides our usual assortment of Serge, Flannel and Pique Coats we have added a number of traveller's samples, which are as fresh looking as our regular stock.

Of daily usefulness, a glance below will show you we have marked these at prices which make it true economy to purchase.

The WASH DRESSES—a new feature in our Ready-to-wear selling—have taken a little better than we anticipated. The ladies appreciating the dainty styles and pretty trimmings.

Many do not know how well our mantle room can fill the wants of children.

The stock is somewhat depleted—to clear it out and more widely introduce these garments we have made these reductions for Friday and Saturday—two days only.

COATS.

—Child's fine flannel coat with fancy trimmed sailor collar, large pearl buttons, $1.25, for 98c

—Child's white pique coat with wide embroidery trimmed collar, pearl buttons, $1.50, for $1.13

—Fine white pique coat, insertion in collar and sleeves, very pretty, $1 85, for $1.35

—Child's red flannel coat with sailor collar, trimmed with silk gimp and pearl buttons, $1.75, for $1.30

—Child's fine pique coat with embroidery trimmed collar, insertion in cuffs, pearl buttons, $2.25, for...... $1.88

—18 only Ladies' Linen Crash Skirts — 7 gore flare with wide hem—double stitched seams, regular 75c, for.... 38c

WASH DRESSES.

—Child's fine print dresses—size 6 to 10, prettily trimmed, 50c, for 35c

—Fine Gingham dresses, plain blue chambray or red and white or blue and white check, with tucked yoke, wide embroidery trimmed shoulder frill and sleeves, 95c. for.............. 65c

Gingham dress, sz, 6 to 10, pink, pale blue and navy small plaids with white fancy yoke trimmed with wide embroidery frill, $1.00, for 75c

—Fine plain linen and duck sailor suits, prettily trimmed, $1.25, for........ 98c

—Plain chambray or knicker linen dress with white trimmings, $1.50, for $1.13

—Linen sailor suits trimmed with navy jean and featherstitch braid, pearl buttons, $1.75, for $1.38

WHITE DRESSES.

—Child's white lawn dress, yoke trimmed with lace and featherstitch braid, $1.00, for.................. 89c

—Fine lawn dress with wide tucked front and Valenciennes insertion strapping, $1.25 for...... .... 98c

—Fine lawn dress with fancy allover lace yoke trimmed with narrow satin baby ribbon and Valenciennes lace, $2.00; for $1.63

—Child's fine dress with embroidery and tucked front and swiss embroidery shoulder frill, ribbon trimmed, $2.50, for $2.00

—Fine white dress with fancy sherred and tucked yoke, wide embroidery frill over shoulder, insertion in skirt, white satin ribbon sash and rosette, $2.75, for.... $2.35

HALF PRICE REMNANTS

Usually our half price offering is not made until many of the desireable lengths have been picked up.

Our surpassing season's trade has left more than the usual quantity of Remnants behind.

With only the usual time to clear these out we have placed them at Half Price to have clear shelves when the new materials arrive.

Such a chance comes seldom—much of the goods being the very newest and as suitable for fall as any you could obtain later.

New ones are gleaned from the stocks each day. You'll need to keep closely in touch to get the best bargains.

Don't miss our Dress Goods counter when you are in. The inducements are exceptional.

New Collars and Belts

This has been the biggest Belt and Collar season in our history, you will understand why when you have seen these new ones and ask the prices.

—Fine Thread Lace Collar with long tab 35c

—Fine Matting Collar trimmed with silk stitching, tabs 50c

—Pretty Muslin and open work collar with three fancy shapes tabs, very new 45c

—Fine White Pique Collar, edged with green 30c

—Plain Silk Elastic Web Belt with fancy back ornament and buckle Oxodised 75c

—Fine Black with double silk elastic web, Oxodised buckle and back ornament $1.50

—Fine Black Silk Belt with Oxodised buckle and back ornament 58c

Millinery Specials

The special inducements in our millinery room are keeping this department busy.

Such dainty creations as are being offered at Half Price offer almost irrestible inducements to buy. The trimmings alone in many cases being worth more than we ask for finished articles.

Straw shapes sailors trimmings, flowers, all are going at prices which to purchasers mean 50c saved on every $1.

—All our colored trimmed millinery HALF PRICE.

—Latest styles in straw shapes HALF PRICE.

—An odd lot of trimmings—some were as high as $1.00 a yard clearing at 10c

Lace Gloves

The demand for these quickly cleared on first assortment.

We have just been fortunate enough to secure another desireable line at a moderate price.

Those who have tried to procure these and know their scarcity will appreciate them.

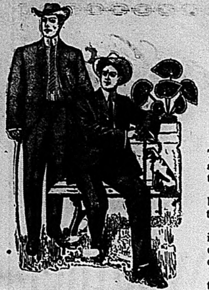
—Black and White Silk Lace Gloves, sizes 6, 6½ 7, ... 35c

—A fine quality in yard wide Taffeta Silk, Black, Suitable for Skirts and flounces, per yard. $1.00

Agents for Standard Patterns.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

CLOTHING BOUGHT HERE PRESSED FREE OF CHARGE



Everything
Is Thoroughly Good

That's certain, at QUICK & ROBERTSON'S—we are more particular about giving than you are in getting it perhaps.

But there are other reasons why you should buy at this store where quality is the first consideration.

We not only make goodness certain by applying every known test for quality, but are equally as careful to price that goodness as common as the ordinary sorts are priced elsewhere.

HERE are a few suggestions of summer fixin's that should interest men and mothers of boys.

FOR BOYS.

Vacation Suits and other wear, things that after good hard wear show the difference between our good sorts at our common prices and cheap sorts, which cost a little less.

—Regulation Sailor Blouse Suits, Cheviot mixtures, stripes and serges, ... $1.25 to $4.50

—Norfolk Jackets, single and double-breasted suits for older boys, extensive showing of plain and fancy mixtures .... $2.00 to $5.00

—Washable Sailor Suits 50c to $1.50.

—Wash Waists and Blouses, 25c to $1 00.

FOR MEN.

—SUMMER SUITS—Such as are impossible to obtain except at the best custom tailors—perfect fitting, stylish garments, suited to men who want the out-of-the-ordinary sorts. Homespuns, Tropical Serges, Worsteds and Flannels........................ $3.75 to $12 00

—OUTING TROUSERS $1.00 to $4.00.

—NEGLIGE SHIRTS—In stripes and patterned materials, such as custom shirt makers would show you as their newest—plain or plaited bosoms.......... 50c to $1.50

—STRAW HATS—Every one new, the largest assortment of the smartest shapes the best makers have produced.

Sailors, in low crown .... 50c to $2.00

Panama shape, the right ones .... 75c to $2.50

QUICK & ROBERTSON

Here is where you buy Johnston's Clothing for Men and Boys.

Reliabe Lawn Hose

..AT..

8c, 10c, 12c per foot.

The W. W. CHOWN Company, Limited

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

O. R. Association.

The Oddfellows' Relief Association of Canada held its annual meeting on Wednesday at Kingston, upwards of one hundred delegates being in attendance. The membership on June 30, 1903, was 15,461, a net increase for the year of 1,302, the total insurance in force at the same date being $19,753,500; net increase for the year, $1,508,250. The funds are in good shape and invested in first-class securities, the total surplus over all liabilities being $340,869.50, the average age of the membership being 37.57. The surplus for the year over expenditure was $38,320.91. The Relief Association has very nearly three hundred members in this city. A vote of thanks was passed to the officers for their efficient services during the year, and the meeting was brought to a close by all joining in singing "God Save the King."

CRAMPS ARE LIKE BURGLARS.

They come unexpected and when they are least welcome. Be armed with a one-minute cure for cramps and keep Polson's Nerviline handy; it acts instantaneously. Nerviline's anodyne power is unique, for its composition expresses the highest medical progress of the age. Polson's Nerviline is a true comfort in the family, for in all derangements of the stomach and bowels it is an absolute specific. Nerviline has five times greater medicinal value than any other remedy and is sold in large 25 cent bottles. Try it.

CALL OPTIONS.

The following are the quotations on call options for one, two and three months from London, Eng.:—

	To mid Aug.	To mid Sept.	To mid Oct.
Canadian Pacific	2½	3¼	4
Hudson's Bay................	5	7¼	8¾
Atchison	2¼	3	2¼
St. Paul...	4	5	6
Erie, common...	1¾	2	2¼
Louisville & Nash..	2½	3½	5
Missouri, K. & T......	1	1⅛	1⅝
Norfolk & Western	1¾	2¾	2½
Ontario & Western	1⅛	1⅝	1⅛
Reading, $50 shares	1¾	1⅜	1⅝
Southern Common	1⅜	2	2⅜
Southern Pacific	3	4	5
U. S. Steel, ordinary	1¼	1⅞	2¾
Union Pacific	2½	3	3½
Wabash, preferred	1⅜	1⅞	2¼
Baltimore	3	4	5
Denver, common	1¾	2⅛	2½
Southern pref.	2¼	2¾	3¾
U. S. Steel, preferred	1½	2⅛	2¼
Grand Trunk ordinary ...	½	¾	1
Grand Trunk firsts	2¼	3¼	4¼
Grand Trunk seconds	2	2¼	3
Grand Trunk thirds	1⅜	1⅞	2¼

We are prepared to deal in options at the above prices. All transactions in options are for cash, expire at 12 noon on contango day of the account in which the call is due. Free booklet on application.

PARKER & CO., 61 Victoria St., Toronto.

Died in Albany.

Mr. James Dolan, brother of Mr. Frank Dolan, of this city, died on Wednesday night at Albany, N.Y. Deceased had been ill for some time and an operation was performed, which did not have the desired effect. Mr. Dolan was about 64 years of age. He was born in Ireland, but had lived the greater portion of his life in the United States. His home was at Watertown. A wife, but no family, survives. Although Mr. Dolan never resided in this city, he was known to many here, having visited Belleville several times. Mr. Frank Dolan is attending the obsequies.

Plate Glass Broken.

An overhanging sign on an implement establishment on Front St., yesterday afternoon fell and crashed through the large plate glass window, reducing it to atoms. The glass in question was insured against accident, so that the owner will not suffer any loss.

Our new story, "Rolff House," by G. H. Benedict, STARTS SATURDAY. It is a thrilling tale of love and adventure. Get the first chapters in Saturday's issue.

"That Tallest Devil."

Though Wu Ting Fang is no longer a resident of the United States, memories of him still continue to augment the gayety of the nation. At a dinner party the other night a guest recounted a speech of Mr. Wu's. "He was discoursing," said a guest "upon love. He spoke poetically. It was delightful to hear him.

"He told how a certain mandarin once determined to bring up his son in perfect innocence, in perfect ignorance of women. Accordingly, he took the boy to a hut upon a mountain top and dwelt with him there alone, teaching him to love the gods and to fear those evil spirits and devils that molest mankind.

"In this manner the boy grew into early manhood. He was not aware that women existed. He knew nothing but the precepts of the philosophers of old time. He reverenced all the gods; he hated all the devils."

"Then, one day, his father took him part way down the mountain, and by ill chance three maidens appeared in the distance. They drew nearer. They passed close by. The youth regarded them with profound interest.

"'What are they, father' he asked.

"'They are devils, my son. Hate them,' the father replied.

"From that moment the boy became melancholy. He sat for long hours motionless, gazing far away. He would eat little. He sighed often. He grew thin and pale.

"'My son,' his father asked him, finally, 'what is the matter with you?'

"'Oh, father, that tallest devil; that tallest devil!'"

REV. J. P. WILSON, B. A.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE GENTLEMAN WHO WILL BE THE NEXT PASTOR OF BRIDGE STREET CHURCH.

The following sketch of Bridge Street's next pastor will be of interest to many people in this city: The Rev. J. P. Wilson was born in the County of Lennox, in a Methodist parsonage, and is a son of the late Rev. David Wilson, a descendent of the U. E. Loyalists, on his mother's side, of which fact he is very proud. He was educated at Napanee, graduating from the High School there and attended Albert College, from which he graduated in Arts with honors in 1872. Mr. Wilson in his University Career had no intention of entering the ministry. His University education was obtained with the view of fitting him to take up the practice of law, but his early training and his father's love for the work of the ministry influenced him, and he entered the ranks of that noble band of heroes, to whom no biographer has yet been able to give sufficient tribute. As a junior pastor he supplied at Gananoque, Brockville and Demorestville, being ordained in 1878, since when he has been stationed at Tamworth, Picton, Kingston, Napanee, in 1887 being called to Brandon, Man., where he remained a full term, and during his pastorate the membership of the church and Sunday School was more than doubled, and on leaving to come to Ontario again although having received an invitation to Winnipeg, he brought many valuable testimonials from the people of the church which he had ministered to so successfully. After returning he was stationed at Madoc, Colborne, Oshawa, (Simcoe Street) and Peterborough. He has filled many important positions in the church; among them, Journal Secretary of the Bay of Quinte Conference, member of the Alma College Board, member Board of Examiners for 10 years, Secretary of Board of Examiners for Victoria University, Chairman of Bowmanville District, and is at present Chairman of Peterborough District.

BEES SWARMED.

SETTLED ON A MAN AND HE CAPTURED THEM SAFELY.

W. C. Bingham, of Aylmer, Ont., had a strange experience a few days ago, and one which few people would have the nerve to go through. He was driving out towards Kingsmill to look after his bees, and when nearing the farm saw a swarm going over which he knew would be lost unless he took prompt action. He managed after considerable work to call them down and they soon began to gather in a big bunch on a fence rail. He then commenced a search for the queen bee and when he found her he pinched her head off. When their queen is lost a swarm of bees will nearly always return to the hive from which they came, but as these did not seem inclined to go, Mr. Bingham took his whip and began brushing them off the rail. Instead of going they began to gather on Mr. Bingham's breast and gradually covered him from his chin down to his knees several inches thick. He stood still and, allowed them to gather. They soon formed a complete bridge from one leg to the other and hung in a bunch below. Then came the critical part of the program. With this buzzing mess of thousands of bees hanging to him in such a manner that he could only take short steps, he moved off towards the farm about a quarter of a mile away and reached the hive without any mishap. He shook the bees off in front of the hive and got them all safely inside without being stung once.

Do Your Feet Get Sour

Sour, sweaty, ill-smelling feet cause many people a great deal of discomfort, annoyance and shame. Wash your feet as you may, the bad odor still persists. You can easily get rid of it, though, and have your feet sweet and dry by the use of FOOT ELM.

It destroys the disagreeable, sweaty odors, whether of armpits, feet or any part of the body. Prevents and cures scalding and chafing, relieves sore, hot, tired, burning feet, and gives you comfort with your feet you never knew before. Foot Elm is 25 cents a box of 18 powders, at druggists or by mail. B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

BIRTH.

DEACON.—To Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Deacon, Saturday, June 11th, 1903, a son. 1t

DEATHS

TURNER.—In Syracuse, on Wednesday, July 15, 1903, C. E. Turner, aged 34 years.

The funeral will take place on Sunday, July 19, from the residence of his father, C. Turner, Park St., at 3 p.m. Service at the house at 2.30 o'clock. 17-18

A SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING

WAS NOT HELD YESTERDAY AFTERNOON FOR A VERY GOOD REASON.

Mr. A. V. Pearce, of Toronto, who intends to erect an elevator on Pinnacle street, near the Canning Factory, wrote a letter to Mayor Graham stating that he desired the Council to give him the right of way to build a switch to the proposed premises. The G.T.R. company had assured him of their willingness to build it provided the Council gave the right of way.

A special meeting of the Council to consider the matter was called for yesterday afternoon, but it transpired that two members of the Council were absent from the city and therefore could not be notified, hence any business which the Council might have felt disposed to transact would not have been legal. Those who were present were: Mayor Graham, Ald. Panter, McFee and Chown.

Sports and Pastimes

SWIMMING.

Wilson Wins a Race.

London, July 16.—In the 300 yards handicap at Holborn Baths on Tuesday, Joe Wilson, of Toronto, who was scratch, won in four minutes and 25 seconds, beating several speedy English swimmers, and winning the Life Saving Society medal. Wilson's amiability and good humor have popularized him, despite the fact that he lost in the race for the King's Cup.

BICYCLING.

Riders Wear Football Armor.

New York, July 16.—Fatal accidents caused by desperate speed on a bicycle behind motor pace have driven followers of motor pace to adopt the football headdress advocated for so long by several trainers, and worn for the past several months by little Joe Nelson and Bennie Munroe.

These riders put on the head dress, their motormen followed suit, and then people at race meets applaud them for taking necessary precautions to protect themselves against fractures of the skull. Munroe and Hunter, the latter now pace-making for Nelson, fractured their skulls in a fall last September at Baltimore. Munroe now follows Bob Schultz and both have their heads protected against trouble.

Nelson has found the head-piece not at all uncomfortable, and says that he would not be without it. Upon it he could strike head first, so he says, and not feel the jar at all, as there is a large space at the top which takes up the jar pneumatically. Nelson now takes all the chances that are to be taken in the game, and takes them fearlessly. He stops at nothing, and has struck the roller of the motor while going at a speed of 1.07 to the mile, and bounded back only to go forward again and strike it once more.

Munroe, in spite of the fact that he has a piece as big as the palm of a large hand removed from his skull, rides absolutely without fear when provided with the head-piece. Up to date Nat Butler, the veteran, has been the only other rider to adopt the head-piece, but others have them ordered and will don them.

SPORTING NOTES.

Secretary Hall, of the C. L. A., has to date issued over 1,500 playing certificates this year.

In a race against time, Albert Champion rode a mile on his double cylinder motor in 58 4-5 seconds, making the world's record distance.

At the Birmingham Athletic Club sports, at Birmingham, England, A. F. Duffy, the American runner, won the 100 yards dash. Time inside of 9 4-5 seconds.

To Clarence Beaumont, the outfielder of Pittsburg, belongs the honor of being the first player in either league to make 100 base hits since the season opened.

Conroy, of New York, was retired on a peculiar play that bothered the scorers not a little on Wednesday. He was hit on the head by a fair ball that he himself hit. Consequently, he was credited with a base hit and an out.

After a forty-mile leeward and windward race off Sandy Hook Lightship yesterday, Shamrock III. led her trial horse to the finish line by six minutes and thirty seconds, and won by only 15 seconds less.

28 TROUT COST $480.

SUCH LITTLE ONES THAT GAME WARDEN ARRESTS FISHERS.

Harrisburg, Pa., July 16.—A. Fish, Warden of the Pennsylvania Department of Fisheries in Centre County, caught John Kosiek and J. L. Millard fishing for trout. They resisted the efforts to examine their baskets and the officer was compelled to use force.

Twenty-eight trout less than six inches in length were found in their possession. They pleaded guilty to violating the fish law and paid $280 for the short trout and $100 each for resisting the officer, making a total of $480.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY.

The uniform size of this remedy has made it the most popular preparation in use for bowel complaints. It is everywhere recognized as the one remedy that can always be depended upon and that is pleasant to take. It is especially valuable for summer diarrhoea in children and is undoubtedly the means of saving the lives of a great many children each year. For sale by all druggist.

Weak? No matter how long you have been ill, nor how poorly you may be today, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine you can take for purifying and enriching the blood. Take Ayer's Pills for constipation. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc. Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mr. Charles Walters is visiting in Toronto.

Ald. Pope and Sinclair have returned from Toronto.

Police Magistrate Flint was in Tweed to-day on business.

Mr. A. Brown, of Comber, Ont., is visiting his brother, Mr. G. R. Brown, Town Line.

Chief Newton, accompanied by his wife, will leave on Thursday next for the Old Country.

Miss Lucile Hubble leaves on Monday next for Edmonton, where she has secured a lucrative position.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. A. Chown have returned home, after a pleasant trip to Chatauqua, Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

Miss Spangenberg, of this city, was one of the guests at the Kingston Yacht Club's dance on Wednesday night.

Rev. Prof. Doxsee is taking charge of the Northport circuit during the month. His family have returned from a visit there.

Miss Elizabeth Walsh arrived on the "Corsican" this morning from Quebec, to visit her aunt, Mrs. (Dr.) Clarke, Victoria avenue.

Mr. James Connolly, of New York, who has been visiting his uncle, Mr. C. F. Draycott, North Front St., for some time, leaves to-day for home.

Miss Eastland, nurse-in-training at the Belleville Hospital, has had to return to her home in Peterboro, owing to the serious illness of her father.

Belleville people at the Sandbanks include Mr. H. Corby and family, Col. Lazier and family, Sheriff Hope, Mrs. Yeomans, and Mr. J. V. Jenkins and family.

Mr., Mrs. and Master Cecil Armistead were passengers on the steamer Corsican this morning. They expect to be away three or four weeks, visiting friends in Toronto and other places in Western Ontario.

Miss M. Winter, of Shannonville, Ont., is visiting in the city.

Mr. Byron Hudson is taking his vacation. He has gone to Saginaw, Michigan, to visit his brother, Dr. Hudson.

Mrs. Wm. McCreery and daughter, Miss Maggie, left Tuesday for a six weeks' visit with her daughter, Mrs. W. Campbell, Carman, Manitoba. After returning they will reside in Rochester, N.Y.

Picton Times: Mrs. Sutherland has returned to Belleville after a month's visit with her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Terrill. Mrs. Foltz and daughter, Helen, of Belleville, and Mrs. Shannon, of Lindsay, were guests of Mrs. D. Sullivan, Centre street, on Wednesday of last week.

At the Quinte:—M. Thwaite, Oshawa; D. W. Hobart, F. N. Northcott, E. H. P. Thompson, T. P. Birchall, J. P. White, A. C. Burnett, H. M. Bowdy, J. E. Brown, Toronto; H. C. Douglas, C. Punk, W. Turner, J. G. Wallace, Montreal; P. H. Macarow, Kingston; A. J. Bartlett, Chicago; J. D. Cummingworth, Dusbury, Eng.; C. W. Stringer, Peterboro; W. S. Miller, Frankford; M. Seeley and wife, Rochester, N.Y.; J. E. Halliwell, Stirling; J. Beatty, A. J. Wilson, Woodstock; C. Henderson, Newburg; Mrs. W. K. Pruyn, Mrs. Burrett, Mrs. McNaughton, Miss Pruyn, Miss Scott, Napanee; Mrs. R. A. Weddell, Mrs. J. Brooch, Miss J. Weaver, Miss A. Weaver, H. Bleecker, Trenton.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions ONE CENT A WORD. No less charged as less than twenty-five words.

Our new story, "Rolff House," by G. H. Benedict, STARTS SATURDAY. It is a thrilling tale of love and adventure. Get the first chapters in Saturday's issue.

A number of dog cases were down for hearing to-day, but the Magistrate was out of the city, and in consequence they had to be laid over.

The gentleman who will take Rev. Dr. Galbraith's seat in the City Council is Mr. Donald Paterson, he having to-day taken the oath of office.

The sidewalk on the Canifton Road, near the G.T.R. crossing, is reported to be in a dangerous condition.

A drunk last night had possession of the cells.

The remains of the late Mr. Chas. Turner, who died at Syracuse, N.Y., arrived here last evening for interment.

A special meeting of the City Council was held at 4.30 this afternoon to consider Mr. Pearce's proposition re siding on Pinnacle street.

Mr and Mrs. A. Gibson, residing on Cedar street, last evening celebrated the fifth anniversary of their marriage. A number of invited friends were present, who thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Mrs. Gibson received a number of useful presents.

Best Wednesday holiday excursion, July 22nd, up the bay, through canal and into Lake Ontario with I.O.O.F. Band. Tickets 25c. Auspices of Christ Church. Str. Aletha leaves Corby's wharf at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Vans to convey ticket holders leave Taylor's and McGinnis' corners at 8.30 a.m. Moonlight excursion to Deseronto with band at 8 p.m. 10 1t

KING'S CORONATION OATH.

GRAND ORANGE LODGE OPPOSED TO ANY MODIFICATION OF IT.

Dublin, July 16.—The annual meeting of the Grand Orange Lodge was held in the Rotunda last night. The Earl of Erne presided, and delegates were present from the colonies and the United States. The meeting passed a resolution expressing determined hostility to the establishment of a Roman Catholic University in Ireland, or to any modification of the King's Coronation oath.

M. W. Bro. William Galbraith, of Montreal, Deputy Grand Master for British America, said that the conference showed the universal adaptability of Orangeism.

M. W. Bro. Rev. William Walsh, of Brampton, Grand Chaplain of British America, said that there was danger in empty protests without aggressiveness.

M.W. Bro. Duncan Monroe, of Cornwall, Grand Master of Ontario East, eloquently appealed for support of Orangeism as a prop of religious and civil liberty.

All the Canadian delegates were heartily cheered.

PIMPLES AND BLOTCHES.

How unsightly, sometimes disgusting, mortifying to the sufferer and unpleasant to all. An evidence of poor blood and lowered vitality of the eliminating organs. They need toning up—the whole system does. You can quickly bring about the improved condition by using Ferrozone. Poisons are driven out of the blood, organs grow stronger, the blood richer, the nerves stronger. Pimples and blotches disappear, color becomes good. Glad! just try and see how much joy can be gotten out of a box of Ferrozone.

1,000 ISLANDS AND ROCHESTER.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian" leave Belleville for Thousand Islands at 3.25 a.m., daily except Mondays. Fare $1.00. Returning Str. leaves at 11.38 p.m. for Rochester, N.Y. m26d&w3m

30 Retail Stores DAVIES 30 Retail Stores

Saturday Specials

Pure Leaf Lard .... 2 lbs. for 25c.
New Mild Cheese ....2 lbs. for 25c.
Finest Dairy Butter Special price, per lb. .... 18c.
Choicest Creamery, per lb. .... 20c.
Davies 40c Quality of Tea, selling for 25c
Good Salmon, new stock .... 3 for 25c.
Pork and Beans in Tomato Sauce .... 2 for 15c
Beans, Corn and Pumpkin .... 3 for 25c.
Hams, sugar cured, whole or half, per lb. 14c
Bacon, selected sides, mild cured 13c

Choice Western Beef, always on hand. Our stock of spring Lamb is the finest this country can produce.

The seasons latest vegetables, Fresh daily.

Daily Deliveries, Shop Early or Phone. 286.

The WM. DAVIES CO., Limited.

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

SATURDAY NIGHT
AT 7.30 O'CLOCK.

PARASOLS
They Must Go.

And to do so we place on sale all our Fancy Parasols exactly at 1-2 of the original selling price.

ALSO

A number of pieces of fine Zephyr Ginghams that were 12½ and 15c per yd. To clear in a hurry at 7 1-2c per yd.

These two items afford early buyers an exceptionally good bargain.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson
DIRECT IMPORTERS

Daily Intelligencer.

THE INTELLIGENCER IS SOLD AT
J. W. London's and G. Wardhaugh's.

Local Reading Advertisements,

ceeds 50 cents; 2 cents per word first insertion, per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words; contracts for long periods made at office.

PERFECT
TALCUM POWDER

If you wish a talcum powder that will heal and soothe and not irritate, that makes the skin soft and smooth instead of dry and harsh, that is practically invisible, that is antiseptic and delightfully perfumed, you will find just what you are looking for in our EUTHYMOL TALCUM POWDER—This exquisite preparation is dainty and perfectly harmless—good for babies or adults. It is as good a powder as can be bought anywhere at any price. It costs but 25c for a box with a sifting top.

McKEOWN'S DRUG STORE.

Rowntree's Chocolates
Cadbury's Chocolates
"G. B." Chocolates.

These are all high-class goods, made 'neath the folds of the "Union Jack." When hot weather comes they don't fade away, i.e. They don't melt. Perfect chocolate coatings made to withstand high temperature. Cadbury's and Rowntree's mixed $1.00 a lb, and "G.B." chocolates mixed 60c a lb.

CHAS. S. CLAPP

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario.
AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits, payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE, No. 46 Bridge St., Belleville.

J. P. C. PHILLIPS
Manager Belleville Branch.

MONITOR

This is another fine Mantle Clock, not quite so expensive as Gadski in last week's advertisement, but fully as serviceable. It is an eight-day hour and half strike on cathedral gong, fancy columns with trimmings and drop handles, in every way a beautiful clock. Our price only $5 50.

T. BLACKBURN.

Eyes examined free of charge. Jeweller & Optician.

Going to Make Room!

Our Import Goods are coming too fast, that we are getting crowded for room.

We will have to make a big sacrifice in our China and Crockery department, slaughter will be the word.

Cost price or any other price will not be taken into account, come and get China and Crockery—at ridiculous prices.

McINTOSH BROS.

THE MYSTERY OF BHOTAN.

A Weird Tale From The East.

PHIL and I were going to India, that far-away land of which so much has been written. We had talked the matter over for many a year, and now our hopes were about to be realized, as in a few days we were to set sail for the enchanted realms of the Orient. Phil was a companionable fellow—fearless, yet withal gentle and lovable. His equal could not be found in a week's march.

The object in view in taking this long journey was to personally study the habits of that peculiar and ancient race—the Hindus—and to gather specimens of fauna and flora which we, as scientific men, so much desired to add to our respective fine collections already gathered together from different sections of our own America and Europe.

Our trip across the Atlantic was uneventful. We reached Calcutta in due time without mishap. We first sought out one of those necessities to travelers in a strange land, a guide. A couple of onagers or burros were also secured, and on the third day after our arrival we were ready to proceed inland. We laid our route to the northward, through the Bengali district, whence we would proceed to the mountains of the Himalaya range and spend most of our time in and around Bhotan.

We journeyed leisurely and found much that interested us. We had been fortunate in securing for our guide a native who was thoroughly acquainted with the territory through which we desired to go. He and Phil became fast friends.

We had a very successful trip without incident until we neared the borders of Bhotan, some three hundred miles distant from Calcutta. Here Poonjah confessed that he did not care to go further toward the north; said we could go to the east or to the west, or anywhere else, but not there. We coaxed, cajoled and entreated; but he stood firm. Finally, when pressed for his reasons for refusing to continue the trip into the territory which we had selected, he graphically portrayed to us by speech articulate and pantomimic that it was a land of evil spirits, and that the Bhotanese were sorcerers and in league with the demons of the air. If we insisted on going there we would take our lives in our own hands. Furthermore, he personally had been warned away from there severals years ago, and was told that should he ever return anywhere within the borders of Bhotan his life would pay for his temerity; that he was a marked man, and though he should escape the watchful eyes of the people, he would still be in danger, for the spirits would seek him out and slay him.

The vivid portrayal of Poonjah's feelings and fears impressed us both deeply. But before us were the coveted prizes that this land held, and which we had come so far to secure. To retreat now before an imaginary foe was galling to our pride. We sympathized with our benighted guide, and we argued that he belonged to a superstitious race, and that if we could but prevail upon him to proceed with us all would be well, and we could later convince him of the folly of his fears.

As we were then in an interesting district we let the matter drop so far as Poonjah was concerned, but took it under advisement between ourselves for several days.

Our silence upon the subject had about convinced our faithful guide that we would not attempt to go farther north, and he had in the meantime regained his usual happy demeanor and gentle composure.

One morning Phil suggested that we once more broach the subject to him. We could not then give up our further trip, and if our arguments with him should not prevail we would dismiss him to return to his own land, while we pushed on alone to the goal of our desires.

"Come here, Poonjah," said I, as he was passing near our tent. "We are about to take up our journey to the northward, with or without you, as you please. We have thoroughly discussed the situation, and while we deeply sympathize with you in your dread of this land, we cannot forego our trip in consequence of it. If you are afraid to continue we will go on alone, and you may retrace your steps without us."

I had unwittingly struck the keynote to his pride. He listened to me in silence. When I had finished speaking he straightened up his lithe form, and in measured tones said:

"A Hindu is not a coward. Poonjah knows no fear for himself. He can but die. It is for you that he has feared and has dared to rebel. But as you are determined to go, Poonjah is but your slave and will go with you. May Buddha save you from all harm."

With a gracious salaam he quitted our presence.

This matter being settled, we set about preparing to take up our line of march, our destination being Tassgong, the principal village of Bhotan, where we hoped to be hospitably received by the natives.

At break of day the following morning we were astir. Poonjah had our burros ready, and not a line of fear or hesitation was visible upon his mobile countenance. In fact, he appeared more voluble and cheerful than usual, and he and Phil became more attached than ever.

Two days later we were upon the lofty table-land separating British India from Bhotan, and by another day we hoped to be in the latter country—the reputed land of evil spirits.

I must confess to a feeling akin to superstitious dread as the night closed around us, and for the first time my thoughts reverted seriously to the many rumors which I had heard and tales that I had read respecting the people with which we were to sojourn during the next few weeks.

"A fellow-feeling makes us wondrous kind." I could now more fully feel for Poonjah. He had been reared and educated in a land of darkness, superstition and occult mysteries. My training had been altogether in a different atmosphere, where superstition had no habitat, and wherein it would have been an evidence of ignorance and cowardice to have betrayed a semblance of dread of the supernatural. Yet here I found myself upon this borderland actually imbibing the fears of our benighted guide.

I mentioned not a word to either Phil or Poonjah that would betray to them my sensations; [illegible] discover in either of the twain aught that would lead me to believe that they were at all worried over the prospect.

That night I slept the sleep of the just, and it was broad daylight when I awoke. Poonjah and Phil had been astir long before me, and breakfast was already prepared.

I had become much attached to our Hindu guide; but between him and Phil a friendship had sprung up that was more than ordinary. The two were almost inseparable.

As I emerged from the tent I noticed them in animated conversation, which ended in a warm embrace as they saw me approaching. Phil afterward told me that his friend still had misgivings about the safety of the party, and they had mutually pledged eternal fealty come what would, but did not want to worry me about it.

We were on a peaceful errand and hoped it would have a peaceful ending, and if we should find the natives to be warlike or resentful at our approach we would try to win them over by kindness and a liberal distribution of small treasures among the chiefs.

Two days more and we had reached Tassgong. We were not molested on our way thither, but were eyed with much curiosity by all. We repaired first to the chief of the village and through our guide told him what we desired. We gave him several pieces of silver and gold, and we were taken into His Majesty's good graces at once. He tendered us the use of one of his bungalows, which was dry and comfortable, and, thanking him for his courtesy and generosity, we were shown to the place.

It was one of the typical bungalows of that section, only larger, and contained three rooms, with flooring and matting. It was elevated like others, as a protection against creeping and crawling things abounding in that country. It furthermore possessed doors, which could not be said of all structures used as habitations in Tassgong.

The chief gave orders among his people that we be not molested, and tendered us the freedom of the place.

We were all very weary and sought rest at an early hour that night. A large bed, well supplied with skins of wild beasts abounding in that region, lured us quickly to sleep. Phil and I occupied this bed, and Poonjah a smaller one in an adjoining room or alcove.

It seemed to me as though I had just closed my eyes in slumber when I awoke with a start, and instinctively felt the presence of another person in our room. The room was dark—very dark. I was spellbound. I could neither move nor speak. There was something or somebody moving stealthily along in front of our bed. A clamminess came over me that chilled me to the heart. I essayed to move or speak, but my limbs remained rigid and my tongue clave to the roof of my mouth. It was a sensation impossible for me to describe. An uncanny chilliness pervaded the room. The thing moved with a rustling sound that was bloodcurdling. I waited for a denouement which I felt must soon come. Whatever or whoever it was, it quickly withdrew, and I breathed freer. It had made the circuit of the room two or three times as though in search of something. When it finally departed it apparently vanished through the floor, for no door was open to allow of exit that way.

For a few moments I remained in a horrified state, but soon felt the return of my faculties and was about to waken my companion and tell him of my experiences, when I felt him move, and, rising upon his elbow, he almost yelled:

"Professor, did you hear that?"

"Hear what?" I ejaculated, sleepily, as though just aroused from slumber and annoyed at being disturbed.

"There has been someone in this room, and now he has gone!"

"Nonsense!" I rejoined. "You are afraid of spirits and have had a bad dream. Lie down and go to sleep again."

But he would not have it so, and insisted that he had been fully awake. He then went on to relate in detail just what he had heard, and it agreed exactly with my experiences. We arose at once and lighted a taper, and began an exploration of the place. Not hearing a word from where Poonjah lay, we went there first. He was awake—his face distorted with agony. When at length our presence had somewhat reassured him, he repeated to us the same unearthly tale.

We searched the three rooms of the bungalow. There was no hole large enough for even a cat to crawl through. The doors were securely fastened as we had left them on retiring. Referring to our watches, we found that it was just past midnight.

Outside all was deathly still except for the distant laugh of a hyena or the howl of a jackal.

There was no more sleep for any of us the balance of the night, and we heartily welcomed the first glimmer of dawn.

We said nothing to anyone in the village about our experiences. We even dreaded to speak of them among ourselves.

We spent several days following with great profit and pleasure to ourselves. The venerable chief and his tribesmen were exceedingly friendly, and aided us greatly. Our fears had been by this time allayed, and we had attributed our unpleasant experiences of the first night to overwrought imagination and the fatigue of a long tramp the day previous.

However, we never relaxed vigilance, and loaded pistols were kept under our pillows while we slept, we more than half believing that our nocturnal visitor might come again and prove himself to be real flesh and blood, in which case we would be able to successfully cope with the fellow.

But our troubles were not destined to end so happily as we had hoped. One night I was again awakened as suddenly as on the previous occasion, and there was no mistake about what I heard. There was that same dreadful, indescribable presence in the room. Strive as I might to move, I could not. It was as though I had been chained to the spot by the links of Prometheus. Phil was perfectly quiet, and silence reigned except for the beating of my heart and the swish, swish of garments as though trailed along. The cold perspiration stood out in great beads on my face. The thing came toward the bed. I could now feel its chill and terrible breath upon my cheek, and how I survived the ordeal and remained sane I know not. When the Thing at last left us, it, as before, apparently disappeared through the floor.

Phil had heard it and was ready to assist again in the search. The hour was midnight. Poonjah, his eyes nearly bulging from their sockets, welcomed our presence and accompanied us in our search. But it was vain. No clue had been left behind, and we were more mystified than ever.

We could not bring ourselves to desert the bungalow while working in that district, and we were not yet through there. Besides, we could offer to the chief no reason for rejecting his hospitality while still remaining in his country. But we determined to leave just as soon as we could decently do so.

We remained there for two more weeks without further adventure worth speaking of, and had packed up our belongings, prepared to start on our southward journey the next morning.

Phil and Poonjah were in ecstasies. We had had a most successful trip, and we were returning freighted with precious treasures—some of them priceless. The chief was to give us safe conduct to the border, and we had much to be thankful for.

It was late that night when we retired, and we were not long awake after reaching our beds. It is a sleepy, drowsy climate, and we were never troubled with insomnia while there.

The bed which was occupied by Phil and me was placed against the inside partition and elevated some two feet from the floor. I usually slept on the front side of the bed, and did so in this instance.

My mind is perfectly clear as to my exact position. I went to sleep lying upon my right side, facing the room. When I awoke, shortly after, I was still in the same position. All my senses were alert. I felt that same horrible and gruesome presence again! It was near our bed and advancing toward us. On, on, nearer and nearer, slowly, like a cat upon its prey!

An unutterable sensation crept through my veins. I felt that something terrible was impending. What it could be I had not the slightest conception.

I would have given all my precious treasures could I at that moment have spoken or even moved. But my voice and limbs refused their offices, and I lay there as helpless as a child.

The strain was terrible. Had there been a visible enemy with whom to do battle it would have been different. But here in a strange land, said to be infested with evil spirits, and in the midst of a night whose darkness could be fairly felt, I was face to face with some intangible Thing that was advancing upon me unseen!

When finally it reached the bedside it leaned forward, touching my left side, which was uppermost.

Suddenly it drew back slightly, and then, with a lunge forward, it appeared to strike a mighty blow at my sleeping companion.

With this movement came release for me, for I was no longer bound.

Simultaneously with this blow Poonjah cried out in apparent agony:

"Buddha! Phil! Buddha!" and he was then silent.

Phil rose up in the bed, screaming.

"My God, it has struck me!" and with a peculiar gurgle, as though being strangled, he fell back upon his pillow and uttered not another sound.

Quick as a flash I now rose up in the bed, only to come in contact with a form that appeared like a man's. I grappled with it, all fear having fled. I felt the strength of a Samson in my sinews. It was as real to me then as though I could see the intruder. Only one thought pervaded my mind—to capture this thing or die in the attempt.

My arms closed around it as firmly as would the coils of a python, and with a power born of desperation I brought them closer and closer, tighter and tighter. I could feel it in my grasp struggling to free itself, but it might as well have fought against the embraces of an octopus! I was getting the better of my unknown antagonist. My arms came together relentlessly, and before I could utter a word they cleaved the object in twain and came together, when I found in my arms—nothing

I jumped from the bed more dead than alive. I cried aloud to Phil in my terror, and then to Poonjah. But no response came from either.

I struck a light as quickly as my nerveless condition would allow and looked around me. One glance at the spot where Phil lay told a tragic story. His features were distorted and livid, and it did not require a second look to convince me that he was dead.

I reached over and tenderly touched the tortured face, but there was no response. The vital spark had fled.

With a cry of despair I rushed to where our guide had slept, half-fearing that in some way he might have been responsible for this terrible and mysterious tragedy. But I had wronged the poor fellow. He, too, was beyond the power of man, and lay on his cot in his last, long sleep.

I looked at my watch, and it was just past midnight. I examined the bungalow carefully, but found all secure.

I now opened one of the doors. Outside the air seemed oppressive. My brain reeled, and I fell to the ground in merciful unconsciousness.

• • • • • •

There are two lonely graves upon the hillside near Tassgong. A slab stands at the head of each. One was marked by me in English simply "Phil," the other, "Poonjah." But after my departure (which fact I learned from the missionary who had given them Christian burial) a cabalistic inscription was placed on each by some person unknown, which translated signifies, "The spirits are avenged!"

The Old Man's Occupation.

The old man of the following story lived, presumably, in England, since we copy his words from an English journal, but we are not quite sure that his counterpart might not be found on this side of the water.

"It's a queer world when you come to look it over," said the old man. "You know I eddicated Jim fer a lawyer."

"Yes."

"An' Bill fer a preacher.'

"Exactly."

"An' Tom fer one of them literary fellers."

"Yes."

"An' Dick fer a doctor."

"Yes."

"Well, now, what do you reckon I'm a-doin' of?"

"Can't say."

"Well, sir, you might not believe it, but I'm a-supportin' of Jim an' Bill an' Tom an' Dick, an' it keeps me a-goin' from daylight to dark."

There is an old Chinese proverb,
"That Brain is in the Stomach."
A simpler Anglo-Saxon maxim is,
"A clean stomach makes a clear head."

Abbey's
Effervescent
Salt

Is a wonderful rectifier of that weary, tired-out feeling that comes to us all in the

Hot Weather

It clears the bowels regularly and without the slightest discomfort. Keeps the stomach clean and sweet, quickens the action of the liver, clears the head and tones up the whole nervous system.

Abbey's Salt is made from the juice of fresh fruits and contains no minerals. It is at once the simplest, most natural and most effective remedy for all the ills and ails of the Hot Summer months.

Sold by Druggists.

The Rush Still On!
Goods Going Very Fast.

NATHAN JONES.

Our clearing Sale is rapidly reducing our stock, the prices we sell for being very low.

Colored Muslins

We now offer all our 10c to 15c Muslins for 7c yd. All our 20c to 30c Muslins for 12½c yd. This will clear them quickly.

Ladies' Whitewear

All our stock of Ladies' Whitewear at 33⅓ off, till all is sold.

Our Dress Goods and Parasols at 20% discount.

NATHAN JONES.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's. At Wallbridge & Clarke's

Supplies For Camp or Cruise

New York Biscuits

In "In-er Seal" pkgs.
Uneeda "Jinger" Wafers, Butter Gems, Cheese Biscuits, German Zwieback, Pretzelettes, etc., etc.

Christie's Fancy Biscuits

Fresh supplies every week — 40 varities.

Heintz's Pickles

Heintz's Celery Sauce.
Heintz's India Relish.
Heintz's Sweet Midgets.
Heintz's Sweet Pickles.

Spanish Olives

A fine assortment of Olives from 10cts per bottle up.

Campers Supplies

Essence of Coffee, Condensed Milk, Lime Juice, Raspberry Vinegar, Fancy Cheese, New Pack Lobster and Shrimps, French Sardines, Scallops, Deviled Crabs, Concentrated Soups, French Potage, Beef Extracts, etc., etc.

Pickles and Sauces

A complete assortment of English and American Pickles and Sauces, including Pickled Walnuts, Onions, Chow Chow, Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce, Yorkshire Relish, Mushroom Catsup, Harvey's Sauce, Sultana Sauce, Chutney's Capers, Durkee's Salad Dressing, etc., etc.

Delicious Teas

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious English Breakfast Teas in lead packets at 30, 40, 50 and 60cts per lb.

Canned Meats

New Packs. Finest Quality.
Whole Ox Tongues.
Lunch Tongues.
Lamb's Tongues.
Boned Chicken.
Boned Turkey.
Boned Duck.
Pate de foie.
Potted Ham.
Potted Tongue.
Sliced Dried Beef.
Ham Loaf.
Veal Loaf.
Chicken Tamales.
Lunch Beef.
Lunch Bacon.
Chicken, Ham and Tongue.
Pigs Feet.
Jellied Tenderloins.
Vienna Sausages.
Luncheon Sausages.
Baked Beans—plain or in Tomato or Chili Sauce, etc., etc., etc.

Ale and Stout, Wines, etc.

Carling's, Labatt and Davies' Dominion Ale, Bass' Ale, Dow's Sand Porter, Guinness' Stout, in prime condition.

Gurd's Ginger and Soda Water Appolinaris and Radnor Water.

Barton & Guestier's and Nath. Johnston's Bordeaux Clarets and Sauterne AT POPULAR PRICES.

Rhine Wine and Burgundy Cordials and Liqueurs.

Light Canadian Wines, red or white, at lowest prices.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
EST'D. 1871.
BRIDGE ST. Tel. 139.

Branch Store
Front St.—Tel. 157.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 37. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, JULY 18, 1903 NO. 65.

THE PREMIER AGAIN DENIES

Inspiration of Article in Toronto Paper Criticising Mr. Blair.

No Agricultural Banks Yet—Mr. Fielding, However, Says Subject Will Be Discussed Before Next Session—Some of Mr. Sifton's Immigrants—Importation of Strike Breakers Brought Up in the House—90,000 Immigrants Examined.

Ottawa, July 18.—Yesterday afternoon, in the House Sir Wilfrid Laurier a second time disclaimed responsibility for the editorial published recently in The Toronto News regarding the retirement of Mr. Blair and Mr. Tarte from the Cabinet.

Sir Wilfrid rose to a question of privilege. He read from the parliamentary correspondence of La Patrie, Mr. Tarte's paper, a paragraph to the effect that the offensive News article was inspired by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

"There is no foundation for the statement directly or indirectly," said the Premier, emphatically.

Hon. R. Prefontaine read from The Montreal Star a severe criticism on the policy pursued in connection with the St. Lawrence River, which said that one per cent. of the amount that is to be squandered on the Grand Trunk Pacific would make the river as safe as the Lachine Canal. Other criticisms were made in connection with the accident to the Monterey. Mr. Prefontaine replied that the Department of Marine and Fisheries had no jurisdiction in foreign waters.

G.T.P. Resolution Next Week.

Mr. Borden again urged the Premier that if the Grand Trunk Pacific policy is to be brought before the House this session it should be brought forward at once.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that he expected to bring down the resolutions next week, perhaps early in the week. The discussion would take place the following week.

No Rural Banks.

The House went into committee on the bill respecting penny banks.

Mr. Monk asked if the Government was considering the advisability of establishing agricultural banks, such as exist in Germany.

Mr. Fielding replied that the subject had not yet been discussed, but it would receive full consideration before next session. The bill was read a third time.

The bill extending the time during which the sum of $60,000 is voted annually to improve the city of Ottawa, from ten to twenty years, was considered in committee of the House.

Mr. Sifton's Immigrants.

During the discussion on Mr. Sifton's estimates, Mr. E. F. Clarke brought up the matter of the complaints of the Toronto District Trades and Labor Council against H. H. Murray, Canadian emigration agent at Glasgow, of having secured mechanics to come to Canada and take the place of strikers at the Kingston locomotive works. Mr. Sifton's explanations were not regarded by the Council as being satisfactory.

Mr. Sifton answered that the correspondence did not show that Mr. Murray knew of the circumstances at Kingston. However, Mr. Murray had been given another position. The Glasgow office was put in charge of Mr. Walker, a newspaper man of Brantford, at a salary of $1,800 per annum.

Mr. Clarke quoted from the evidence taken before the United States Senate Committee, in which it was declared that the reason that the Beaver Line got so many passengers was that the company was given the deficient passengers from Europe, those who did not wish to undergo medical examination, so came to Canada. Mr. Clarke suggested that greater care should be exercised in the inspection of immigration entering Canada.

Mr. Sifton replied that 90,000 immigrants had been medically inspected last year in Canada, of whom 700 had been rejected or retained for treatment. The number rejected in the United States was 4,974, which was about in the same proportion to their total immigration.

Gave His Shares Away.

Ottawa, July 18. — Hon Sydney Fisher was a witness at the Public Accounts Committee yesterday in reference to some accounts of The Montreal Herald. Mr. Fisher said that he had transferred his interests in The Herald, amounting to a good many thousand dollars to his brother, Roswell C. Fisher, after he took office. No consideration was received or asked, as the shares were of no value. Mr. Fisher did not remember whether he had given anything to The Herald in the way of cash since he became Minister. He had previously assisted the paper.

Sir Richard Ill.

Ottawa, July 18. — Sir Richard Cartwright is down with a severe attack of grippe at his residence, "The Maples," Kingston. He will be unable to be in Ottawa for some days yet.

MUNYON

CURED NEIL O'NEIL.

"I have suffered from Rheumatism for 5 years, principally in the arms and legs. My feet and ankles were badly swollen and I was laid up for 5 or 6 weeks in the Doctor's care. I obtained very little relief and suffered greatly until I procured a trial vial of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure: this did me an extraordinary amount of good. I am now greatly benefited and can work as I did formerly." Neil O'Neil, 183 Simcoe street, London.

If you are sick, if you have indigestion, if you are nervous, if your liver or blood is out of order, if you have any kidney disease, if you have piles, or any ailment, ask your druggist for "Munyon's Guide to Health"; it is free and will tell you how to cure yourself for 25c. Thousands of testimonials. 26B

Italian Boy Ate Poison.

Stratford, July 18.—Gasbaro Rosso, the little son of Mr. Frank Rosso, the Italian fruit merchant on Downie street, died yesterday morning from the effects of eating some poisonous mixture which he and his two older sisters found near their home. All three were taken sick but the two girls responded readily to an emetic and will recover, but the boy did not and the efforts of the attending physicians were of no avail.

New Telephone Line.

Albany, N.Y., July 18.—The State Line Telephone Company incorporated yesterday is to operate a telephone line connecting Albany, New York City, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo and other places in the State and in Canada. The capital is $7,000,000, and the directors are New York and Brooklyn men.

Found Dead.

Stratford, July 18.—Philip Harting, a retired farmer, living in Gadshill, was found dead in his yard yesterday morning. Death is attributed to heart failure. Deceased was aged 68 years.

Chief Constable Committed.

Milton, July 18.—Chief Constable Bradley was yesterday committed for trial by G. Hume, J.P., for an assault on William Ward on July 9, while making an arrest.

POSED IN CANOE FOR PHOTO

Frail Craft Upset and Miss Sadie Burns Was Drowned.

Her Companion in the Canoe, Miss Edna Wright, Was Saved by the Splendid Efforts of Syd. A. Heyes, Who Was Boating Near—Miss Winnifreth, the Photographer, Who Was on the Bank, Assisted in the Rescue.

Toronto, July 18.—The Humber claimed another victim last night about 6 o'clock. Miss Sadie Burns, daughter of Mrs. Burns, 235 Seaton street, widow of the late Mr. Burns of Dudley & Burns, printers, being drowned in sight of her two companions only a short distance from shore. The fact that the other two young ladies, Miss Edna Wright, daughter of James Wright, 438 Sherbourne street, and Miss Alice Winnifreth, stenographer, with W. P. Sloan & Co., were saved, was chiefly due to the splendid efforts and presence of mind of Syd. A. Heyes, living at 1,405 West King street.

The three young ladies had hired a canoe and proceeded up the river to enjoy themselves, taking with them a camera, which, unfortunately, seems to have played an important part in the disaster which followed.

Posing For a Photograph.

Miss Winnifreth, at the time of the accident, was on the shore taking pictures of her companions, who were in the canoe, a little from the bank when, in posing for the picture, the two fell into the water, the canoe drifting towards the shore. Miss Winnifreth, almost frantic, jumped into the canoe, and having no paddles, drifted out some distance fortunately to about where the two girls were struggling in the water. Just at this moment the cries and shouts of Miss Burns and Miss Wright attracted the attention of E. H. Hobberlin and Syd. A. Heyes, who were rowing in separate boats, a short distance above. Mr. Hobberlin arrived first, but owing to the fact that he was encumbered with a boat full, was unable to render much assistance. Mr. Heyes arrived a moment later, and succeeded in lifting Miss Wright into his boat. In the meantime Miss Burns had sunk. Her body was not recovered until an hour later. The young woman who lost her life was 19 years of age.

Drowned at London.

London, July 18.—Thomas Irwin, a boy 13 years of age, was drowned yesterday morning in the Thames at the foot of Egerton street. He could not swim and went beyond his depth. His companions were smaller and unable to render any assistance, and by the time he was got out of the water the boy was beyond resuscitation. Edward Irwin, an attendant at the asylum, is the father of the boy.

Found Floating Body.

Port Stanley, July 18.—At three o'clock yesterday afternoon Miss Stella Campbell of London, while walking along the shore near the Fraser House, discovered the body of a woman about 22 years of age, dressed in black, brown hair, straw hat trimmed with velvet, black stockings, lace shoes and sateen waist. She had not been in the water very long.

Both Were Drowned.

Syracuse, N.Y., July 18.—Charles Long and Florence Miller were drowned to day at Saranac Lake. The two were in a row boat.

ARTIST WHISTLER DEAD.

Passed Away Unexpectedly Though Had Been Seriously Ill.

London, July 18.—James Abbott McNeill Whistler died yesterday, at his residence, at 79 Cheyenne walk, Chelsea, at the age of 73. His death came unexpectedly, although for some time he had been seriously ill. The papers publish elaborate obituary notices, recognizing the distinguished and unique personailty of Whistler.

James Innes, Ex-M.P., Dead.

Guelph, July 18.—Word was received here yesterday afternoon that James Innes, ex-M.P. of South Wellington, died at North Sydney, C. B., of pneumonia. He left here on Monday morning last in good health, and was on his way to Newfoundland to visit his friend, Mr. Reid of St. John's.

Dr. Neilson, Ex-M.P.P., Dead.

Winnipeg, July 18.—Dr. W. J. Neilson, member for North Winnipeg in the last Manitoba Legislature, died yesterday afternoon, after an illness extending over several months. He was born in Perth, Ont., in 1854.

W. G. Reid Dead.

Montreal, July 18.—W. G. Reid, railway contractor and brother of R. S. Reid, the Newfoundland railway magnate, died here yesterday after a long illness. Deceased's last work was the construction of the Midland Railway, between Windsor and Truro, N.S.

Died at Owen Sound.

Owen Sound, July 18.—Philip Eaton of the Eaton Bros. Brewing and Malting Company was found unconscious, lying on the floor, by his wife upon her coming into the house about 9 o'clock Thursday night. He died about 8 o'clock yesterday morning, never regaining consciousness. Apoplexy is supposed to be the cause of death.

TO PICK OUT SHOTS.

Canadian Marksmen Shoot in the Gregory, the Steward and the Golden Penny Competitions at Bisley.

Bisley, July 18.—The conditions for shooting yesterday were most favorable, and as a result much better scores were made. The weather cleared and a very light breeze was blowing. Col. Sherwood decided to have the entire Canadian team shoot in the "Gregory," "Steward" and "Golden Penny" competitions, with a view of picking out the squad to fire for the "Kolapore Cup." They are all competing, with the exception of Russell. The following scores were made in the "Gregory:" W. A. Annand, 43rd, 35; John Crowe, 30th, 28; W. Drysdale, 1st, 31; A. Elliott, 12th, 31; T. H. Hayhurst, 13th, 32; J. M. Jones, 82nd, 34; W. C. King, 46th, 30; H. Morris, 28; R. McGregor, G.G.F.G., 27; R. Naughton, 5th, 29; E. C. O'Brien, 30th, 32; J. T. Peddie, 5th, 33; J. H. Simpson, 10th R.G., 30; J. W. Smith, 21st, 33; R. J. Spearing, 53rd, 32; J. D. Stuart, 6th, 32; E. Skedden, 13th, 30; G. H. Vroom, 69th, 33; J. White, 13th, 35.

The scores of Annand and White are particularly good.

For the Golden Penny.

Later in the day when firing for the "Golden Penny" the wind changed and became very shifty. The competitors also complained of a very bad light.

While the morning broke fine it afterwards became overcast, although no rain fell. The following scores were made: Annand 27, Crowe 27, Drysdale 28, Elliott 23, Hayhurst 28, Jones 28, King 28, Morris 25, McGregor 25, Naughton 32, O'Brien 31, Peddie 25, Simpson 32, Smith 27, Spearing 26, Stuart 33, Skedden 25, Vroom 31, White 28.

Firing in Bad Light.

While firing for the "Steward" the light was still bad, but some fair scores were made: Annand 31, Crowe 30, Drysdale 29, Elliott 33; Hayhurst 32, Jones 28, King 33, Morris 31, McGregor 31, Naughton 32, O'Brien 31, Peddie 31, Simpson 30, Smith 33, Spearing 30, Stuart 34, Skedden 33, Vroom 29, White 31.

SHOULD GRANT SALVAGE.

Though Furnessia Went to Rescue of Government Boat, It Loses Suit.

London, July 18—The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council has dismissed the appeal of the Anchor Line and uphold the decision of the Newfoundland Supreme Court, that the Anchor Line steamer Furnessia could not claim remuneration for the salvage of the Canadian Government steamer Scotia, which, while adrift and short of coal, provisions and water, was taken in tow in September, 1901, and brought to St. John's, Nfld., by the Furnessia. The Judicial Committee's decision was on the ground that the Scotia belonged to Canada, and was, therefore, the King's property. The Lord Chancellor, in delivering judgment, suggested that the Dominion Government should nevertheless grant the Anchor Line compensation, otherwise ship masters would hesitate to assist distressed vessels belonging to the King.

FOR NEW GRAIN ROUTE.

Canadian Government Sends Another Expedition to Spy Out the Land.

St. John's, Nfld., July 18.—The Canadian Government has chartered the Newfoundland sealing steamer Neptune to convey a scientific expedition to Hudson Bay. The expedition will winter at Chesterfield Inlet. Its object is to determine the availability of the region for a Canadian grain route.

Capt. Samuel Bartlett, for several years navigator of the Peary steamers, is in command of the ship, the crew of which consists of Newfoundlanders familiar with ice work. The scientific party is composed of Canadians.

The ship will also enforce the Canadian customs laws against American whalers who are operating in Hudson Bay.

TORNADO IN ILLINOIS.

Kills Five Men and Does Damage to the Extent of $2,000,000.

Streator, Ills., July 18.—A tornado killed five men, injured a score of others, and caused a property loss of $2,000,000 here last night. Four were killed at the race-track, where all the buildings were demolished. The ball ground amphitheatre and Stauber's clothing factory were also wrecked. At the Vulcan Western Company's plant, which suffered heavily, the fifth man was killed. The Indiana and Iowa bridge, costing $1,000,000, is half gone. The hoisting works at Spring Hill shaft were ruined. Many buildings in Kangley, four miles west of Streator, were blown down and several persons were injured.

Wingham Strikers Fined.

Wingham, July 18.—The trial of the striking moulders for assaulting a man on the 13th took place here yesterday before Mayor Vanstone and Magistrate Dulmage, and on the evidence one of the strikers was fined $10 and costs.

The Dead Total 15.

Victoria, B.C., July 18.—All trace of the disaster in No. 6 mine, Cumberland, has been cleared away, and the mine will be ready to recommence work to-morrow. The list of dead now totals 15.

SHOT WITH INTENT TO KILL

Jury Say Richardson So Aimed at Edmund Matthews.

Evidence at the Inquest Showed That White Farmer Several Times Threatened Colored Man's Life—Matthews, It Was Also Shown, Got Along All Right With Former Occupants of the Richardson Farm—The Slayer Is Cool.

Harrow, July 18.—The adjourned coroner's inquest on the death of Edmund Matthews was opened yesterday morning, and the evidence of eight more witnesses was heard. The evidence of the dying man was corroborated by that of his son, who was present at the time of the shooting.

Several of the witnesses had heard Richardson on different occasions say he would shoot Matthews. Matthews had been aggravated intensely and constantly by Richardson in matters of the line fence, but the only witness who stated that he had heard Matthews make any threatening statements was Richardson's son.

The previous owner of the Richardson farm had never experienced any difficulty in getting along with Matthews.

After the jury has been out an hour they brought in the following verdict, which was entirely unanimous:

"Edmund Matthews came to his death on July 11 by a wound caused by a bullet shot from a pistol on July 10 in the hands of Oliver Richardson, with intent to kill, while Matthews was on his own property in the third concession of the Township of Colchester, south County of Essex."

Richardson and his wife were present during the whole sitting of the jury, and took everything very coolly, but always paid good attention to the evidence.

Detectives Campeau and Mahoney were with Richardson and took him back to Sandwich County jail.

Coroner Ordered Post Mortem.

Stratford, July 18.—A great deal of excitement exists here over the strange death of James Smith of Edgecombe Corners on Thursday morning. When the body was picked up a V shaped wound was found on the head which, it was thought at first, had been caused by falling on something. But investigation shows conclusively that there is nothing the man could fall on which would produce such a wound. An inquest was held Thursday night by Dr. Rankin, and he ordered a post-mortem examination. The jury will meet again next Tuesday.

BASEBALL FRIDAY.

The Eastern League.

Newark .... 0 1 1 0 0 0 0 1 1—4
Toronto .... 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 1 0—3

First base on errors—Toronto 2. Left on bases—Newark 6, Toronto 7. First base on balls—Off Moriarity 1, off Bruce 3. Two base hits—Dillard, Downey. Sacrifice hits—Bannon, O'Hagan, White, Moriarity, Bruce and Toft. Double plays—Carr, Massey, Carr. Umpire—Latham. Time—1.50. Attendance—800.

R.H.E.
Rochester .. 1 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 4—6 11 3
Worcester .. 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—2 6 4

Batteries—Mills and Steelman; Falkenburg, McCauley and Kellackey. Umpire—Brown. Attendance—280.

R.H.E.
Baltimore .... 3 3 2 1 0 1 3 0 x—13 21 3
Providence ... 1 0 0 0 3 3 0 0 0—7 7 4

Batteries—Adkins, Pounds and Ahearn; Brown, Vian and Duggan. Umpire—Kelly.

Jersey City......1 1 0 3 1 0 0 0 x—6 6 1
Buffalo.. ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—1 6 6

Batteries—Pfanmiller and McManus; Amole and Laporte. Umpire—Swartwood. Attendance,4200.

National League Scores.

At Pittsburg—
R.H.E.
Pittsburg. 0 2 0 0 0 0 1 1 1 0 0 1—6 12 3
New York 0 2 0 0 0 2 1 0 0 0 0 0—5 10 1

Batteries—Kennedy and Smith; Taylor and Warner. Umpire—Emslie. Attendance—5628.

At Cincinnati—
R.H.E.
Cincinnati .... 2 0 0 3 1 0 0 1 x—7 13 4
Philadelphia .. 0 2 6 0 0 0 0 0 3—5 13 0

Batteries—Hahn and Bergen; Washburn and Doolin. Umpire—Johnson. Attendance—25,000 (including children).

American League Results.

At Philadelphia—
R.H.E.
St. Louis .... 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1 4 2
Philadelphia .. 0 0 2 0 0 0 2 0 x—4 8 0

Batteries—Evens and Sugden; Waddell and Schrack. Umpire—Hassett. Attendance—4229.

At Boston—
R.H.E.
Boston ..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—1 3 2
Detroit ..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 4 4

Batteries—Gibson and Criger; Donovan and Buelow. Umpire—Connolly. Attendance—4489.

At Washington—
R.H.E.
Washington ... 0 2 1 0 1 0 0 0 0—4 13 1
Chicago .. ... 0 3 1 2 0 1 0 0 0—6 13 4

Batteries—Orth and Kittridge; Owen, Dunkle and Slattery. Umpire—O'Loughlin. Attendance—1629.

At New York—
R.H.E.
Cleveland .... 4 0 0 0 3 4 0 0 0—11 14 1
New York .... 1 0 0 0 0 1 0 2 0—4 5 2

Batteries—Moore and Abbott; Howell, Chesbro and Beville. Umpire—Sheridan. Attendance—2307.

Barn Raising Accident.

Newtonville, July 18.—Four men were injured Thursday at a barn raising at Charles Hancock's, two miles northwest of here. They were standing on a scaffold made by placing planks across three poles, when the middle pole gave way, letting them fall a distance of 20 feet to the floor. Frederick Hancock, Milton Graham and W. J. Robinson received a few bruises and sprained ankles, while Mr. Henning's carpenter from Newcastle had the planks fall on him. It is feared he is hurt internally. The escape of all was miraculous.

Will Be Total Wreck.

St. John's, Nfld., July 18. — The British steamer Monterey, which went ashore west of Point Plato, Island of St. Pierre Miquelon, July 14, will be a total wreck. She has 27 feet of water in her hold.

ALMOST FROM BIRTH.

"Almost from birth my little girl was troubled with bronchitis and a harsh, hacking couth. Angier's Petroleum Emulsion was prescribed. It cured her cough, and she almost immediately gained in flesh and color. To-day she is strong and robust."—Al Pudsey, Toronto, Canada.

THE WEATHER.

To-day's Probs—

Strong winds and moderate gales, shifting to northwest and west, showery with thunderstorms. Sunday gradually decreasing winds and fine.

To-day's Temperature

As Registered by The Intelligencer's Guaranteed Thermometer:

8 a.m.	68
12 m.	76
2 p.m.	75

Fell 150 Feet.

Halifax, N. S., July 18.—Jesse Murphy and D. Donovan, while repairing the steeple of the R. C. Cathedral, fell to the ground, a distance of 150 feet. Murphy will die; Donovan is badly injured.

POPE STILL LIVING.

Fear, However, Rests on All—Liquid of Pleura Can Not Be Absorbed by August Patient.

Rome, July 18.—From last night's examination of the Pope it appears that the liquid in the pleura remains at about the same level, which is marked with a dermographic pencil on the Pontiff's side. The physicians think the liquid amounts to about 1,200 grammes. Considering the physical conditions of the Pope, the doctors do not believe it possible that his body can absorb it as might a strong, young, well-nourished organism.

After the visit of the physicians, the new Pope received Cardinal Rampolla, who remained in the sick room only a few minutes. He again gave the Pontiff a full report of the prayers offered in his behalf all over the world. His Holiness, raising both hands, said: "I bless all those who pray to God for me."

THE BULLETINS.

Rome, July 17, 9.05 a. m.—Dr. Mazzoni entered the Pontiff's bedroom at 8.30 o'clock this morning, after Dr. Lapponi had reported to him how His Holiness had passed the night. He found the patient, as Pope Leo himself said, "unrefreshed and tired." His Holiness complained that, while the doctor had promised that his illness would not last long, it is now two weeks since he went to bed. The Pontiff prefers to sit up in bed, as in that position he feels less oppression on his lungs and can breath more easily. Dr. Mazzoni spent much time in examining him. As His Holiness is reduced almost to a skeleton, if a new operation is decided on, it will not be because of any hope of saving the patient's life, but simply for the purpose of rendering the death agony less acute.

9.30 a. m.—The following bulletin has just been issued by Pope Leo's physicians: "His Holiness had during the night some hours of sleep, together with short periods of slight excitement. The level of the pleuric liquid is maintained within the limits already noted without seriously troubling the Pontiff. The personal condition of the august patient presents no noteworthy change. His pulsation is 88, respiration 30 and temperature 36.5 centigrade. (Signed) Lapponi, Mazzoni."

12.20 p. m.—The Pope complained of suffering from soreness, owing to lying down so long, and succeeded in sitting up. He then rose momentarily from the bed and seated himself in his arm chair.

4.10 p. m.—The Pope received Monsignor Pifferi, his confessor, and then had a short sleep. No change in the Pontiff's condition is apparent.

6.15 p. m.—Dr. Lapponi, answering an inquiry on emerging from the sick room a short time ago, said: "I cannot say that the Pope is better, but he is no worse. His condition continues grave, but he may linger for some time."

8 p. m.—The day has been passed calmly enough. The august patient had intervals of rest, and his general condition is a little less depressed. Pulsation, 58; respiration, which is less superficial, 32; temperature, 36.6 centigrade.

July 18, 2.15 a. m.—The Pope is now reported to be in a somewhat quieter sleep than he had last night, although his breathing is perhaps not so easy.

4.10 a. m.—After having some sleep the Pope appeared to be again restless and required the frequent assistance of Dr. Lapponi and his valet, Centra.

A Marvelous Story.

Paris, July 18.—The Rome correspondent of The Galois says that when Dr. Mazzoni entered the sick room yesterday morning and found the Pope seated in his arm chair and feeling less exhausted, he said: "What would you say, Holy Father, if the doctor transformed himself into a photographer."

"By all means, my good Mazzon," replied Pope Leo, smiling. Dr. Mazzoni then produced a camera and took a dozen pictures of Pope Leo, who was taken seated, with Dr. Lapponi standing beside him and his valet, Centra, kneeling at his feet.

SINCLAIR'S

aturday All=Day Sale

These are some of the special lines on sale at our store All-Day Saturday.

Your Choice of one table of Muslins, Sateens and Cotton Crepe Wash Goods from 25c to 50c yd, about 2,000 yds. for - - - - - - - - 15c.

Your choice of second table of Wash goods, Muslins, Ginghams, Prints, from 10c to 20c, for - - - - - 8c yd.

4 doz. Ladies' $1.25 and $1.35 Print Wrappers will sell for - $1.00 ea.

14 doz. Ladies' Bleeched Cotton Vests at 35c, 40c and 45c, our best Vests, will sell for - - - - - - - 25c each.

8 doz. Children's Bleeched Cotton Vests, buttoned front will Sell for 5c ea

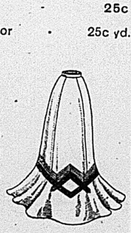
40 doz. Ladies' and Children's 10c and 12½c Cotton Stockings, ribbed and plain, will sell 3 pair for - - - - - 25c

10 pieces 50c Fancy Silk and Linen Waistings will sell for - 25c yd.

Dress Skirt Sale

We have about 45 Ladies' Cloth Dress Skirts from $2.50 to $5.00, all this season's styles, in Black, Greys, Blue, Fawn and Black and White Stripes, lengths 39, 40, 41 and 42 inches and we place this lot on sale Saturday All-Day at ....$1.65 each.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO.



It Has a Special Claim

on the attention of all Japan tea drinkers.

"SALADA"

Ceylon Natural GREEN tea is superior in infusion to the finest Japan tea grown. It has the advantage of being cleanly prepared and absolutely Pure. Sold only in lead packets the same as the celebrated "SALADA" Black tea at 25c and 40c per lb. By all grocers.

Big Sale of Photos

Great Bargains in all the latest designs.

A chance of a lifetime to secure high-grade Photos at the price of the ordinary kind.

From July 15th until further notice we will offer the following great snap in Photos.

Regular $4.00 Cabinets	$2.99 a doz.
Regular $3.50 Cabinets	$2.49 a doz.
Regular $3.00 Cabinets	$1.99 a doz.
Regular $2.00 Panels	$1.49 a doz.

All other sizes and styles at the same cut rate. This studio has gained a reputation for high-grade work, and the same quality of work will be made during this sale.

Every Photo. made satisfactory to our customers and our guarantee stamp on every one.

C. J. SMITH

Studio next to Dicken's Restaurant. PHOTOGRAPHER.

30 Retail Stores DAVIES 30 Retail Stores

Saturday Specials

Pure Leaf Lard	2 lbs. for 25c.
New Mild Cheese	2 lbs. for 25c.
Finest Dairy Butter Special price, per lb.	18c.
Choicest Creamery, per lb.	20c.
Davies 40c Quality of Tea, selling for	25c
Good Salmon, new stock	3 for 25c.
Pork and Beans in Tomato Sauce	2 for 15c
Beans, Corn and Pumpkin	3 for 25c.
Hams, sugar cured, whole or half, per lb.	14c
Bacon, selected sides, mild cured	13c

Choice Western Beef, always on hand. Our stock of spring Lamb is the finest this country can produce.

The seasons latest vegetables, Fresh daily.

Daily Deliveries, Shop Early or Phone. 286.

The WM. DAVIES CO., Limited.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

—FOR—

Stylish and Durable Turnouts.

—Surreys
—Corning Buggies
—Piano Box Buggies
—Rubber Tire Buggies
—Micadoes
—Phaetons
—Bike Buggies
—Democrats
—Grocer Wagons
—Butcher Wagons

Cheese Factory Milk Wagons.
Steel Tubular Axle Lumber Wagons.

Rubber Tires put on your old wheels at reasonable prices.

Mill St., - - Belleville

SPECIAL OFFER

MIDSUMMER CLUBBING RATES.

Two Papers to January 1st, 1904

Family Herald & Weekly Star, and the Best Home Paper—The Weekly Intelligencer, BOTH for

65 CENTS

We are making this special offer as we require 1000 new subscriptions to our Weekly.

This offer is good to new subscribers only.

ADDRESS— The Weekly Intelligencer
BELLEVILLE, ONT.

handle this offer.

Daily Intelligencer.

SIR GILBERT PARKER ON IMPERIAL RECIPROCITY.

As our readers well know, Sir Gilbert Parker, our whilom fellow-citizen, now represents the Borough of Gravesend in the Imperial Parliament. It is pleasing to see that he has gone frankly to his constituents, and has asked for their approval of his course in supporting the policy which Hon. Mr. Chamberlain has laid before the people of the Mother Country. And it is also pleasing to see that he was not over-confident, for he obtained, unreservedly, the approval which he sought. If public opinion, as expressed in Gravesend, can be taken as expressing the trend of public opinion in other constituencies in Great Britain, then the old fetich of free trade seems doomed to lose its hold upon Britons.

The Gravesend Standard, of July 4, contains a lengthy report of Sir Gilbert's speech. The Conservative club rooms, we are told, "were crowded by members of the Conservative and Unionist Association, the address proved extremely interesting and important, and every point of it was approved enthusiastically by the audience." We regret that space forbids the publication of the speech in full. Suffice it to say that Sir Gilbert set forth his views with his usual eloquence and power, introduced a resolution which was carried unanimously amid tremendous applause, and wound up with the following peroration:

Upon the united prosperity of the English speaking peoples depend, I firmly believe, the individual prosperity within the circle of English speaking peoples, and I have not the faintest doubt, I myself have not the faintest doubt, and I don't say this to challenge your sympathy, as we come to the resolution about to be presented, I have not the faintest doubt of the issue, as I throw my political life into this crucible, where fires will burn fiercely during the next year or two—for there will not be calm and quiet enquiry, there will not be careful and accurate deliberation, there will be excitement, behind which does not always lie sound judgment. But there will be, either upon the side where those free traders stand, who will not face the new music, and those others, where I stand, who are willing to face whatever the results of enquiry may be, there will be desperate ill-feeling, there will be irritation. There will be some who will go from the party to which I belong, never again, perhaps, to return, and some who will come over from the other party, never again to return. But I do hope and believe that this country will divide itself into two parties who are anxious and eager for the good, the ultimate good, of the United Kingdom and the whole Empire. (Cheers) As to the end, well the end will be hastened, if you will to-night do me the honor to say that you have confidence in me, that you do not fear any action that I may take in this direction, believing that I shall act patriotically for the good of this land (loud and prolonged cheering), and will pass this resolution which I have presented to you, if you can conscientiously do so. For, believe me, as the workers in this constituency, and the chairmen of committees, and as the men on whom I rely, and in whose hands lies my political life, you will take on yourselves the responsibility of committing yourselves to this resolution, which embodies the desire for enquiry "for devising needful measures for checking the increasing inroads upon our home and foreign trade by protected foreign rivals, and of further developing trade on a preferential basis, between the Mother Country and the colonies," which we believe to be for the security, for the prosperity and the unity of the Empire at large. (Cheers). I leave the case now in your hands to decide. (Enthusiastic cheers).

Following is the text of the resolution:

"This meeting is of opinion that the time has come for a close enquiry into our present fiscal system, with a view to devising needful measures for checking the increasing inroads upon our home and export trade by protected foreign rivals, and of further developing trade on a preferential basis between the Mother Country and the colonies, as being the best means of securing the most stable prosperity, and promoting the unity and strength of the Empire."

DELICIOUS LOG-CABIN CREAM.

Made up fresh to-day, besides a lot of of other good things such as :—

Molasses Kisses.
Salted Peanuts.
Peanut Taffy.
Lady Carmels, &c.

J. ARTHUR MARSH.

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

Weak and Fainting

THE SAD PLIGHT OF ANAEMIC PEOPLE.

THEY HAVE HEADACHES AND BACKACHES—ARE LANGUID AND UNABLE TO STAND EXERTION.

From the Sun, Orangeville, Ont.

You can always tell anaemic men and women. They are pale, weak and languid. They can't eat — or they can't digest what little they do eat. And it all comes from poor blood and unstrung nerves. Banish anaemia at once by enriching your blood and toning up your nerves with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Thousands of grateful women have said that these pills have restored them after all other means tried had failed. Mrs. Josias McIlroy, of Orangeville, Ont., was a great sufferer for several years and spent much money looking for a cure. To a reporter of the Sun, Mrs. McIlroy said: "Several years ago my health gave out completely. I was so weak that I could not do my housework. If I went upstairs my heart would palpitate violently, and sometimes I would faint away through weakness. My nerves were unstrung, and I suffered much from dizziness. I tried many remedies, but they did not help me. Then I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to do so. I am glad I did for the pills soon built me up and made me a well woman. My health remained good until last spring, when I was again taken with weakness. I now knew by experience the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and at once got a supply. The result was as beneficial as before and I can conscientiously say the pills have done me untold good. I am grateful for this and hope my experience will benefit some other sufferer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured more sickly, pale-faced girls and women than any other medicine ever discovered, for they supply new, rich, red blood, and so strengthen every part of the body. They are equally suitable for men, women and children, and cure not only anaemia, but decline, consumption, indigestion, rheumatism, St. Vitus' dance, and the special ailments which all women dread. These pills can be had through any druggist, or will be sent post paid at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Look for the full name on every box, so that no worthless substitute may be palmed off on you.

TO PREVENT POTATO BLIGHT.

INFORMATION WHICH MAY BE USEFUL TO MANY OF OUR READERS JUST NOW.

A bulletin sent out by W. T. Macoun, horticulturist, of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, advises that now is the time to spray potatoes to prevent blight and rot. This is done with the Bordeaux mixture. As there are reports of extensive damage to the potato crop already done in the west, the particulars given in the circular are timely and valuable.

In 1901 eight varieties were tested at the Central Farm. The average increase in yield per acre of the eight varieties, where sprayed, was 94 bushels. In one variety, however, there was an increase of 171 bushels, and in another 155 bushels per acre.

In 1902 eleven varieties were tested. The average increase in yield of marketable potatoes, where sprayed, was 120 bushels per acre, the yield per acre of marketable potatoes from the sprayed being 310 bushels 12 lbs. per acre, and from the unsprayed 189 bushels 54 lbs. The cost of the bluestone, which is the principal expense, was $7.98 per acre, or 114 lbs. at 7 cents per lb. In spraying large areas the cost would be less. At 40 cents a bushel, an increase of 120 bushels per acre would mean 48 dollars, or after deducting the cost of the bluestone, about $40.

The object of spraying is to destroy the spores of the disease on the foliage. If the mixture is not there when the spores are there the disease will usually spread very rapidly and soon the tops are destroyed. The foliage should be kept covered with the mixture from the middle of July, when the spores may be expected to appear, until the end of the season, and from four to five sprayings will be found necessary. In 1902 the vines were kept growing 18 days longer by spraying. The vines were sprayed on July 10th, July 22nd, July 30th and August 13th, and probably even better results would have been obtained if another spraying had been made.

Formula for spraying to prevent potato blight and rot:—

Copper sulphate (bluestone)	6 lbs.
Unslacked lime	4 lbs.
Water	40 gallons

Dissolve the copper sulphate with hot water or by suspending for several hours in a coarse bag in a wooden or earthen vessel containing 4 or 5 or more gallons of water. Slake the lime in another vessel. If the lime when slaked is lumpy or granular it should be strained through coarse sacking or a fine sieve. Dilute the sulphate of copper solution to about 20 gallons, and the lime mixture to about 10 gallons, and then pour the latter into the former, then dilute to forty gallons and stir the mixture thoroughly.

1,000 ISLANDS AND ROCHESTER.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian" leave Belleville for Thousand Islands at 3.25 p.m., daily except Mondays. Fare $1.00. Returning Str. leaves at 11.38 p.m. for Rochester, N.Y. m26d&w3m

MR. PEARCE GOT THE PERMISSION HE ASKED.

COUNCIL WILL ALLOW SIDING TO BE BUILT ON THE USUAL CONDITIONS.

A special meeting of the City Council was held yesterday afternoon, at which Mayor Graham, Ald. Chown, Panter, McFee, Pope, Marsh, Paterson, Sulman and Sinclair were in attendance.

A communication was read from Mr. A. V. Pearce, of Toronto, which was to the effect that he desired to have a siding built from the line of the Grand Junction Railway, on Pinnacle street, to the elevator he proposed building on the lot he had procured from the city. The G.T.R. Company had signified their willingness to build the siding if permission was obtained from the city.

Mayor Graham said the whole question was, will the city give Mr. Pearce the right of way to build the siding? The gentleman in question had endeavored to procure some vacant properties on the west side of Pinnacle street, where the track is situated and thus avoid the necessity for a siding, but one party had declined to set a price and in another case an exorbitant price was asked. Mr. Pearce then procured some property from the city on the east side of the street.

Ald. Marsh asked if there was any objection to building the siding.

Ald. Sinclair said it might possibly be a nuisance to a certain extent.

It was shown by a plan that Mr. Pearce would have the siding run up in front of the elevator, and would also have a driveway around the building for teams. In his communication Mr. Pearce stated that it would be so constructed as to cause as little inconvenience as possible and the city would be protected.

Ald. Marsh moved, seconded by Ald. Chown, that the request be granted, on the same condition as a similar request was granted to Mayor Graham, Mr. Pearce to indemnify the city in case of any accident.

The motion was adopted and, as this concluded the business for which the meeting was called, the Council adjourned.

DEATHS

TURNER.—In Syracuse, on Wednesday, July 15, 1903, C. E. Turner, aged 34 years.

The funeral will take place on Sunday, July 19, from the residence of his father, C. Turner, Park St., at 3 p.m. Service at the house at 2.30 o'clock. 17-18

WOOL CRASH.

People are asking what it is. Wool crash is a sort of misnomer. It is not crash, but simply a light cool worsted in a crash weave. Hold it up to the light—you can see through it. Yet it's as tough and strong almost as thick beaver, and wiry enough to hold its shape. For a cool summer vacation knockabout suit, wool crash takes the lead. Good enough, too, for business. Come, see! Suit prices, $3.75, $5, $6 and $7.50.—Quick & Robertson, Belleville's Best Clothiers.

Seven hundred British subjects are yearly born at sea.

A man is generally at his heaviest in his fortieth year.

CATARRH IS A GERM DISEASE.

Science, armed with the microscope, has established it a fact, and this conclusion renders obsolete the practice of treating asthma, catarrh and bronchitis by stomach drugging, sprays, snuffs, etc. Such treatments are an utter failure because they cannot penetrate the delicate air cells of the lungs, or permeate the air passages of the nose and bronchial tubes. where the germs of catarrh have their stronghold. Catarrhozone is the only certain remedy. It is inhaled by the mouth and after spreading through all the respiratory organs is exhaled through the nostrils. Catarrhozone kills the germs, heals the inflamed tissues, clears the head and throat in two minutes, and cures in a few hours. Nothing is so effective, pleasant and simple as Catarrhozone. Two months' treatment $1.00. Small size 25c. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Touch.

"A sweet book!" she exclaimed. "Not a touch of materialism in it!"

I opened the volume. On the first leaf I read:

"Two dollars and fifty cents."

"Ha!" I thought, but said nothing. I would not for the world shatter my wife's illusions.—Detroit Free Press.

One the Less.

Sunday School Teacher—How many commandments are there, Willie?

Willie—Ten.

Sunday School Teacher—And suppose you were to break one of them?

Willie—Then there'd only be nine.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Where He Got His Start.

"Fillem is a good dentist, I suppose, but he seems to take a fiendish delight in working those emery paper files on a fellow's teeth every chance he gets."

"That's due to his early training. He began his career as a saw sharpener."—Minneapolis Tribune.

Grew on Him.

Burton—Your garden is pretty small, isn't it?

Barton—It seemed so to me before I began to take care of it.—Somerville (Mass.) Journal.

What's Left.

Mrs. Bingo—Oh, dear! Do you think death ends all?

Bingo—All but the estate. The lawyers end that.—Exchange.

Importance of Cleanliness.

We do not intend to repeat any further how essential a feature of successful dairying is the observance of proper cleanliness, but at the last meeting of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen Dr. Connell gave forth some fresh figures on the question which afford further confirmation of the position held by all progressive dairy workers.

The doctor gave the results of analysis of milk taken from cows under the different conditions as to cleanliness. In one case—where the cow was brushed before milking, the udders wiped, the stable kept in a thoroughly sanitary condition, and the person of the milker was also clean—the milk still showed 4,300 bacteria to sixteen drops of milk. In another case milk was taken from cows the udders of which had been wiped, which were kept in a fairly clean barn, that were milked into clean pails (but pails that had not been scalded), and by men whose hands had been wiped, but not washed. In this case the number of bacteria was 15,500. In another case, where cows were milked under ordinary conditions which prevailed on the ordinary farm, the number of bacteria was 30,000 to sixteen drops. The bacteria found in the milk taken from cows under the best possible conditions as to cleanliness were, it is believed, for the most part just inside the teat before milking began. The old practice of squirting the first stream of milk outside the pail has a scientific basis to rest upon.

Absolute cleanliness in the stable, cooling of the milk after milking, sterilization of utensils by scalding, cool curing of cheese, and no more sending home of whey in milk cans, are pointers which may also be strongly insisted upon.

In touching on the question of water supply, it was stated that no factory should be considered properly equipped that is without pure water.—The Maritime Farmer.

Wife—Before we were married you pretended that you liked to have me sit on your knee.

Husband—Well, you were a pretty good pretender yourself. You pretended that you preferred to sit on a chair—Chicago News.

The Norfolk's Monkey.

The 2nd Battalion, Norfolk Regiment, which recently returned from South Africa, and is now quartered at Colchester, is very proud of its regimental pet—a large monkey named Bronko, secured at Pretoria. Bronko is proud of his slatish-colored coat, and knows his name when he is addressed, frowns at strangers, and points at them as much as to say, "Who are you?" To some people he takes readily; to others he shows his teeth. When told that General Gatacre or the Colonel is coming he draws himself up to his full height—over four feet—brushes his coat and salutes in quite a soldierly fashion. He likes a game of tug-of-war with a wisp of straw, at which he is very cunning, eats a quantity of oranges, which cost 6s 6d per week, and is fond of bananas, sweets and almonds. He has a failing for cigarettes, which he does not smoke, but dissects, and can drink beer in a fashion which creates visions of the Black List.

Had the Advantage.

The Kansas papers tell a story of an incident in President Hayes' visit to that State in 1879. President Roosevelt's visit is the occasion for telling it, and, had it happened to the present occupant of the White House, it would have amused him beyond anything else in his entire trip. Mr. Hayes was engaged in a speechmaking and handshaking tour. At Hutchinson a large crowd had gathered to greet him. In Hutchinson at the time was one "Bill" Graham, a cattleman much given to the use of intoxicating liquor. "Bill" joined the crowd without knowing what it was all about. He fell in line and gradually approached the President, who was standing on the lower step of his car and shaking hands with all who came. As "Bill" came near, the President reached over, grasped him by the hand, shook it vigorously and said:—"My friend, I am delighted to see you."

"Thash all right, pard," said Bill "but, b'gosh, yer got the advantage o' me!"

It is usually those who are least to be trusted who demand the most implicit trust. Naturally.

To some intellectual palates conscience is a matter of taste, remorse a mere condiment of life, while sin is as the perfume of a dying rose.—By. R. W. St. Hill.

The Baby in Summer

The heated term is always a trying one for Infants It is therefore of the utmost importance that the baby should be well nourished and its strength maintained and increased, to enable it to withstand the enervating effects of the hot weather. This result can be attained with absolute certainty by the use of FERROL [The Iron Oil Food] Babies like it and it always agrees with them.

Sample free. 75c at all druggists or from

The Ferrol Company, Limited,
134 King St. West,
TORONTO.

What frayed your linen?
Not Sunlight Soap—
No, indeed!

SUNLIGHT SOAP REDUCES EXPENSE

Ask for the Octagon Bar 533

When a storm is approaching, glow-worms are far more brilliant than at other times.

Situate between Montreal and Ottawa on the Pacific short line the MAGI Caledonia Springs are most convenient of access.

You Can't Oversleep

If it takes quite a noise to awaken you in the morning we have Clocks that will furnish the necessary disturbance.

They will not arouse you too soon, neither will they let you sleep too long.

If you set them properly they never fail to do their duty.

They are useful in most homes at odd times. They are indispensable in many homes every working day in the year.

$1 50 buys a GOOD ONE, though we have them cheaper as well as dearer.

Angus McFee.
Jeweler & Optician
310 Front St.

Mr W. Denham

Of Denham's Drug Store, Petrolea, Ont., says:

"The O. R. Kidney Cure gives the best satisfaction to our customers of any kidney medicine we handle."

Belleville druggists speak highly of the O. R. Kidney Cure.

It does its work quickly.
It cures Lame Back.
It cures Lumbago.
It cures Bladder Trouble.
It cures Gravel in Bladder.
It cures Rheumatism.
It cures Kidney Troubles.
It will cure you.
Try one bottle.

O. R. KIDNEY CURE is put up in liquid form, contains no poisons, is quickly assimilated and will cure all kidney and urinary troubles.

O. R. Kidney Cure, 50c per bottle.
O. R. Liver Pills, 25c per bottle.
O. R. Dyspepsia Tablets 25c per box.

AT DRUGGISTS, OR WRITE—

THE O. R. MEDICINE CO.,
Limited, Toronto, Ont.

McGill University.

MONTREAL.

Session 1903-1904.

Courses in Art, Applied Science (Civil, Mechanical, Electrical and Mining Engineering; Architecture and Practical Chemistry), Law and Medicines.

Matriculation Examinations and Examinations for Exhibitions and Scholarships, will be held on the 9th September, 1903.

Lectures in Law will begin on 15th September, 1903. In all other Faculties Lectures will begin on the 22nd September.

Particulars of examinations and copies of the Calendar containing full information as to entrance, courses of study, scholarship, fees, etc., may be obtained on application to

J. A. NICHOLSON,
Registrar.

RUBBER

Do you know that we have the best RUBBER FRUIT JAR RINGS in the city. 10c a doz.

We have others, very good at 5c a dozen.

WATERS'

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R., C.S., England.
Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. J. F. MATHER
Has removed his office to Pinnacle St., three doors north of Hotel Quinte.
my29-6mw

DENTAL.

Dr. Clarke has removed to the offices formerly occupied by the late Dr. Ward, over Burrows', and opposite Scantlebury's Book Store.
a27dtf

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—9 Campbell Street.

MALCOLM WRIGHT. J. FRANKLIN WILLS.
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for the City of Belleville.
Office—Metropolitan Block, Corner Front and Campbell Streets.

PORTER & CARNEW,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices — Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 87.
E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Office, Bridge Street, Belleville.
Money to Loan — Private Funds, Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, Etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent., on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire Insurance.

Guardian	Est'd 1821
The North America,	Est'd 1792
Quebec,	Est'd 1818

City, Town and Village Property insure at lowest rates.
R. W. ADAMS. Agent
Office opposite Post Office.

THOS. STEWART,
Insurance and Commission Agent.
Agent for the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Scottish Union National Insurance Co.,
BRIDGE, ST.

FIRE, LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE

At Lowest Rates The Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Perth Mutual on farm and city property. Also made to loan at 4½ per cent. upwards.
JAMES A CHISHOLM,
Office Ashley Block, Front st., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned

can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at lower rate than other stock companies Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance.

Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass,
Home Life Association, Toronto,
North British & Mercantile.
Farm and City Property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation, and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan & Investment Society. Money to Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, Office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., opposite Postoffice and Hotel Quinte, Belleville,
'Phone 169.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. G. NORTHROP,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Shire Hall, Belleville, Ont.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the Post Office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St.
Appointments made.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

Life has no blessing like a prudent friend.

Our Mid=Summer Sale

Our entire stock of FANCY GOODS,

Including China (cups and saucers, Vases, Dishes, etc., etc.), Brass Goods, Candles, Silk Shades, Brushes (both hat and hair), Mirrors, Candlebras, Dickens and Art Pottery Ware, all 40

per cent. off regular prices.

Wrist Bags AND Chatelaines

Latest New York designs in walrus, seal and other leathers, from 35c to $7.00 each, all

25 per cent. off regular price.

Framed Pictures

Entire stock of our Art Gallery, comprising Steel Engravings, Platimums, Prints, etc., beautifully framed. Prices from 50c to $25, all

30 per cent. off regular prices.

Wall Paper

Special prices on all Wall Papers and free bordering—2 yards with each double roll.

Paper Hanging and Painting—the largest and most efficient staff of workmen.

C. B. Scantlebury

Belleville's Decorator,

Wall Paper Wholesale and Retail.

A Sure Cure for Headaches. — Bilious headache, to which women are more subject than men, becomes so acute in some subjects that they are utterly prostrated. The stomach refuses food, and there is a constant and distressing effort to free the stomach from bile which has become unduly secreted there. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are a speedy alternative, and in neutralizing the effects of the intruding bile relieves the pressure on the nerves which cause the headache. Try them.

When one gets hopping mad his reason goes on a crutch.

Will be Found an Excellent Remedy for sick headache. Carter's Little Liver Pills. Thousands of letters from people who have used them prove this fact. Try them.

Many a man's self-conceit is due to his ignorance.

The Well Known Strengthening Properties of IRON, combined with other tonics and a most perfect nervine, are found in Carter's Iron Pills, which strengthen the nerves and body, and improve the blood and complexion.

The average watch represents but 12 hours of human labor.

There is nothing equal to Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator for destroying worms. No article of its kind has given such satisfaction.

All trails are long to the lazy.

Some persons have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhoea, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for all summer Complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

Coral is a talisman against thunder and evils by flood and field.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of "Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup," and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

The wildcat's teeth are close to its purr.

Will positively cure sick headache and prevent its return. Carter's Little Liver Pills. This is not talk, but truth. One pill a dose. See advertisement. Small pill, Small dose. Small price.

A long portage makes a heavy canoe.

To Those of Sedentary Occupation —Men who follow sedentary occupations, which deprive them of fresh air and exercise, are more prone to disorders of the liver and kidneys than those who lead active, outdoor lives. The former will find in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills a restorative without question the most efficacious on the market. They are easily procurable, easily taken, act expeditiously, and they are surprisingly cheap considering their excellence.

It takes money to voice the opinion of a lawyer.

UNTOLD MISERY — WHAT A WELL-KNOWN COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER SUFFERED, AND HOW HE WAS CURED.—Gentlemen, About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at that time travelling for Messrs. Walter Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine and when the third bottle was finished, I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery believing that the persistent use of it will cure any case of Dyspepsia.

(Signed),
T. S. McINTEE.

Much talk, many lies.

He Has Tried It.—Mr. John Anderson, Kinloss, writes: "I venture to say few, if any, have received greater benefit from the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, than I have. I have used it regularly for over ten years and have recommended it to all sufferers I knew of, and they also found it of great virtue in cases of severe bronchitis and incipient consumption

The best way to get even is to forget.

Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum of twenty-five cents.

This plan is slow and not very sure.

Wilson's Fly Pads

Will kill millions and do it quickly.

10 Cents

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

CHAPTER I.

It was many years ago—before this era of steam, telegraph and electrical and mechanical development in fact, just previous to that very queer war of 1812—that in a quaint old Dutch-built village of southern New York, lying not far from Hudson's noble river, there was living one Jacobus Bruyn, a substantial farmer, of the purest Dutch lineage.

On a beautiful sunny fall afternoon farmer Bruyn was sitting on the front porch of his fine old Dutch farm-house, lolling at ease in his great chair, and smoking his long clay pipe with an expression of perfect contentment resting in his stolid features. He could well afford to take his ease. His broad acres of fat valley land had borne unusually abundant harvests, and his capacious farm buildings were filled to overflowing. As he sat and allowed the wreaths of blue smoke to curl up about his swarthy, honest face, he was listening with satisfaction to the beating of the flails of his threshers in the great red barn not many rods distant.

The house of farmer Bruyn was built on the substantial, comfortable style of the well-to-do Dutch burghers of the colonial period of New York history. It was a large stone building, whose heavy walls had been laid by those who evidently intended them to last for generations. The great roof mounted up to a high peak, and sloped nearly to the ground in the rear. The numerous windows, with their many little green panes of glass, hinted of light and cheerfulness within. Everything about the place was neat and orderly. Along the garden fence, at the end of the low kitchen, was a bench, on which a row of shining milk-pans were sunning themselves. In the rear a tall, sloping churning machine hinted at one of the domestic occupations of the place. The yard was not particularly spacious, but showed the supervision of some one with a love for order and beauty in clumps of shrubbery and beds of late blooming flowers. It was evident who was the presiding spirit of this horticultural display, for a young maiden was wandering among the flower beds, dallying with the plants in a patronizing way that declared more plainly than words the deep interest of affection and guardianship. This was Rosa, farmer Bruyn's only daughter, whose age, it was apparent from her looks, could not be far from eighteen. Moving gracefully about under the soft light of the clear autumn sky, her plain, neat house-dress contrasting with the brilliant verdure about her, the young girl presented a charming object to the eye—and so thought farmer Bruyn, as he watched her from his seat on the porch. Her figure was plumb and comely, although perhaps a trifle under size, and perfect health was indicated in the full, graceful curves of her form, the rosy bloom upon her cheeks and the liquid clearness of her soft grey eyes. A wealth of rich brown hair hung about her shoulders in natural ringlets, unconfined and untied, free to the kisses of the sun and the toyings of the gentle zephyrs. No fairy creature was Rosa Bruyn, but a substantial bodily presence, who might have sat for the Madonna of some old Flemish painter. The form, features and movements all indicated a pure, healthy, womanly nature, capable perhaps of great devotion and tenderness, but one not likely to succumb to any trial or duty of life.

The house of farmer Bruyn sat some distance back from the road. Several tall poplar trees threw their shade along the roadway in front, and, at the upper edge of the yard, some clumps of shrubbery acted as a partial screen to a lane that led to the outbuildings in the rear of the house. The road in front wound down a gradual hill and down the hill the tall form of a young man could be seen drawing near. Rosa's wandering gaze had detected his approach, and, with a sudden flush, she drew slowly away from her position among the flower beds, and proceeded, as if inadvertently, up to the lane fence among the shrubbery. Her movements were evidently observed by the young man, for he entered the lane, and, drawing near, placed his hand on the fence, gave a light spring, and bounded over.

In a moment he had taken the blushing maiden in his arms, and pressed a kiss upon her brow with all the ardor of an accepted lover.

As they stood thus in the shade of the bushes, no handsomer youthful couple could have delighted the eyes of an artist who wished to sketch some scene of rural love-making. The young man was of a form and style of manly beauty to contrast well with the plump, rosy girl. He was tall, and his form was lithe and graceful. His face was frank, open and handsome, and the features were chiseled in outlines of almost Grecian beauty. Ringlets of fair, flaxen hair escaped from beneath his cap, and curled over a broad, white brow. Clear, mirthful blue eyes lit up a countenance in which the expression of geniality was offset by a certain air of over-confidence that almost indicated recklessness.

"And how's my little sweetheart?" he asked, releasing her form from his arms, and gazing upon her with undisguised admiration.

"I am well, Claude," she replied. "Little need there is to ask. And you appear well, too. But how is your aunt to-day?"

"Aunt? oh, she is growing worse," he replied. "The doctor told me since dinner that she is failing slowly but surely, and cannot possibly survive long. Indeed, it looks as if I were soon to be free."

"Free!—why, Claude, what can you mean? One might suppose that you rejoiced that your aunt is worse—perhaps upon the brink of the grave."

A peculiar shadow passed over the young man's face.

"Do you think so kindly of me, Rosa?" he asked. "Or—but, no; you read my feelings, and you misinterpret them. Suppose aunt should die—can I help it? I shall sorrow for her as sincerely as anybody; but I must own that there is a sense of freedom in the thought of my being my own master and coming into my fortune. What is the use of denying or concealing it? I do not wish her dead; but I cannot deny that the grief I should feel is tempered by the thought of the scope that will be opened to my hopes and ambition. There, there, little one—don't look so grave. Remember, I have not been brought up to be sensitive. Aunt has not wasted any tenderness upon me, although I know she loves me well."

"But, Claude, think how it would grieve her to the soul to dream for a moment that you could count up the gain her death would be to you."

"But she will not dream it, little monitress. No act or word of mine shall add a pang to her dying hours. I shall do all and be all that duty and affection require. But can I help my natural feelings? I am not an angel in human guise, like yourself, Rosa. I profess only one virtue—a desire to be honest, and not to hide my real feelings for mere appearance's sake. It is not in my nature to play the hypocrite. I shall feel very badly if aunt dies. She has always been kind to me—in her way—and I truly believe has loved me with her whole heart. But it is only just to remember that her way has always been a strange one, and that her guardianship has deprived me of the rights and privileges in a large measure to which I was born. A strange, gloomy, eccentric woman, fixed in her ideas and immovable in her resolves, no one can tell the tyranny her government has exercised over me. And, by a strange fate, I have no escape from tyranny so long as she lives except at the peril of my fortune. Look at it!—with all her wealth, her farms, her boats, her ferries, her mills (there is an immense fortune stowed up somewhere, and I the prospective heir), what pleasure or privilege has been mine in life that the veriest country lad in the region could not enjoy? Aunt's love of hoarding has run away with her judgment till her household has been kept as if we were predestined victims of poverty. Rolff House has been abandoned to decay. As for me, the eccentric whim of my father has made me more subject to her than the veriest servant—dictated to in my education, curbed in every natural wish and ambition, and left to dream of freedom and happiness only as possible through her death. My name—the name of Rolff — has become a very by-word through the country. Half the country folk believe Rolff House to be haunted, and it is not two years ago that I thrashed a burly lout who taunted me with my aunt being a witch. If aunt dies, I come into absolute proprietorship of all the Rolff estates and wealth—and not till then. Ah, Rosa, can I help contrasting my present position with what it will be then? Is it in human nature not to desire to throw off the burden that has weighed upon my hopes and aspirations for so many years?"

"I will not try to answer your questions, Claude," replied the young girl, with a pained expression of countenance. "I know that it is wrong, very wrong, for you to talk and think as you do. If I did not believe you to be truer at heart than you represent yourself to be, I should almost lose my faith in you. As for your aunt, although she is peculiar in many things, I know that she loves you too much to have curbed you needlessly or cruelly. Perhaps your fancy has painted your treatment in exaggerated colors. Your ambition is intense; you are proud and not a little willful; and it may be you are not the proper judge of all that is good and necessary for you. I fear, if your wishes are now realized, and you are given the freedom and opportunity you seem so to desire, you will only demonstrate the wisdom and prudence of your aunt's treatment of you."

An expression of gloom passed over the young man's countenance.

"You judge me severely, Rosa," he said; "but I do not care for that. I do not plead the propriety of my feelings, but only that I cannot help them. Yet why should I not gratify my ambition? I am the son of a wealthy man, and in justice and right should be undisputed master of my father's estate. I do not long for vulgar display and pleasure. No, no; my desire is to travel; to store my mind with observation; to develop my taste; and, above all, to give myself opportunity for the study of the art that is my ambition and delight. forget that I inherit a right to art. has aunt ever encouraged me in ambition? No; she has repressed it every way. She would make of me nothing but an overseer of laborers, and a hoarder of money. My soul loathes the life she would have me lead. Oh, Rosa, you cannot know how I long to be away, spending my days among the great galleries of Utrecht, of Munich, of Dresden, of Venice and Rome, drawing inspiration and knowledge from the works of the mighty masters of art. How can I help the spirit that is within me? At the mere thought of being able to fulfill my dreams, my soul is filled with an ecstacy that seems to banish far from my sight every other feeling and consideration."

(To be continued.)

THE DANGERS OF CHILDHOOD.

Summer is the most deadly season of the year for little ones. The little life hangs by a mere thread; diarrhoea, infant cholera and other hot weather ailments come quickly and sometimes in a few hours, extinguish a bright little life. Every mother should be in a position to guard against, or cure these troubles, and there is no medicine known to medical science will act so surely, so speedily and so safely as Baby's Own Tablets. A box of the Tablets should be kept in every home where there are little ones, and by giving an occasional tablet hot weather ailments will be prevented, and your little one will be kept well and happy. Don't wait until the trouble comes—that may be too late. Remember that these ailments can be prevented by keeping the stomach and bowels right. Mrs. A. Vanderveer, Port Colborne, Ont., says: "My baby was cross, restless and had diarrhoea. I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and they helped her almost at once. I think the tablets a splendid medicine for children."

The tablets are guaranteed to cure all the minor ailments of little ones; they contain no opiate or poisonous drug and can be given safely to a new born babe. Sold by medicine dealers, or mailed at 25 cents a box by writing to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Scotland has 146 parishes without paupers, poor rates or public houses.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Fast and Convenient Service to Canadian Summer Resorts.

Muskoka Lakes, Lake of Bays, Kawartha Lakes, Georgian Bay, Parry Sound, Magnetewan River, Jackson's Point, Montreal, Penetang, Quebec, Lake Nipissing, Old Orchard, White Mountains.

Trains make direct connection at Muskoka Wharf for all points on Lakes, also at Huntsville for all points on Lake of Bays.

Unexcelled service to Detroit, Buffalo, Chicago and all western points.

For tickets, information, descriptive and illustrated literature of Canadian Summer Resorts, apply to

U. E. THOMPSON, City Agent, Bridge Street,
T. H. COPPIN, Depot Agent,
J. D. McDONALD, Dist. Pass Agt., Toronto.

CANADIAN PACIFIC Ry.

"Imperial Limited."

Fast tri-weekly Transcontinental service between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. Connection leaves Toronto at 1.45 p.m., Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, making run Toronto to Vancouver in 97 hours.

Upper Lake Steamships

Leave Owen Sound Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 5.30 p.m., on arrival of S.S. Express leaving Toronto at 1.30 p.m. Connections at Fort William and Port Arthur for Winnipeg and Pacific Coast points.

Daily First-Class Service Toronto to Winnipeg, Calgary, Banff and Pacific Coast.

Fully Equipped Through Tourist Cars leave Toronto Tuesday and Saturday for Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Full particulars from your nearest Canadian Pacific Agent or to
A. H. NOTMAN,
Asst. Gen. Pass. Agent, TORONTO
S. BURROWS, C.P.R. and General Ticket Agent, Front St., Belleville

NEW YORK CENTRAL

& HUDSON RIVER R. R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.		After 1st May
Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)	12.22 p.m.	1.30 a.m
Arr. Kingston "	1.47 p.m.	3.12 a.m
Lv. Kingston (stage)..	2.30 p.m.	5.00 a.m
Arr. CapeVincent (stage)	4.30 p.m.	7.00 a.m
Lv.Cape Vincent N.Y.C.	5.05 p.m.	7.25 a.m
Arr. Watertown "	5.55 p.m.	8.25 a.m
Arr. Oswego "	9.05 p.m.	11.55 a.m
Arr. Syracuse "	9.25 p.m.	12.07 p.m
Arr. Rochester "	1.05 a.m.	2.20 a.m
Arr. Utica "	9.45 p.m.	12.35 p.m
Arr. New York "	7.25 a.m.	6.00 p.m

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C. R. R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from F. A. Folger, N.Y.C. Agent, Kingston Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, New York.
A. H. SMITH, Gen'l Supt., New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent, Watertown, N.Y.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

FAST MAIL SERVICE

Bay of Quinte Route
TO
ROCHESTER N. Y.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian"

Taking Effect 27th June.

GOING DAILY (EXCEPT MONDAY)
Lv. Belleville .... 11.38 p. m.
Ar. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 6.43 a. m
RETURNING DAILY (Except Sunday)
Lv. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 8.30 p. m.
Ar. Belleville .... 3.15 a. m.

Baggage checked to all points. Connection with all railways.

$1.00 THOUSAND ISLANDS $1.00 AND RETURN.

Commencing 28th June. Steamer leaves Belleville at 3 25 a.m. daily except Monday for 1000 Islands, calling at Bay of Quinte ports, Kingston, Alexandria Bay and Gananoque. Passing through American and Canadian channels.

Right reserved to change time with or without notice.

Full information from
THE RATHBUN CO., U. E. THOMPSON, } Agents.
E. E. HORSEY, G. P. & F. Agent, Kingston.

Str. "Alexandria"

Montreal, Rochester & Quebec Transit Co'y.

Popular Quebec Excursions NOW ON.

Belleville to Quebec and return.. $18 00
Belleville to Montreal and return $12.00
(including meals and berth)
Steamer runs all rapids.
For Rochester, Olcott Beach, Niagara Falls and Buffalo every Saturday at 11 a.m.

Particulars from
A. W. HEPBURN, General Manager, Picton, Ont.
THE RATHBUN CO. Agents. Belleville.

The Deseronto Navigation Co

TIME TABLE.

Taking effect April 13, 1903.

Belleville, Trenton, Picton & Napanee

Str. "ELLA ROSS"

Leaves Belleville for Trenton at 10 a. m., daily, Sundays Excepted, returning leaves Trenton at 1 p. m., leaving Belleville at 3 p.m. for Deseronto, Napanee and Picton.

Quick and Superior Service to NEW YORK CITY

Steamers RESOLUTE and RELIANCE will leave Deseronto for Oswego after arrival of Str. Ella Ross connecting at Oswego with the New York, Ontario Western Ry.

Fare to New York, Single, $8.40
Return, $13.25

For further particulars apply to THE RATHBUN CO., Local Agents
J. F CHAPMAN, Asst. Gen. Frt. Pass, Agt., Deseronto
R. C Carter. General Manager, Deseronto.

Str. "Niagara"

Monday 13th July—True Blues to Picton.
Tuesday, 14th July — St. Andrew's Church Sunday School to Twelve O'Clock Point.
Wednesday, 15th July—Baptist Sunday School to Twelve O'Clock Point.
Saturday 18th July—First Saturday Afternoon Excursion to Picton. Fare 35c. Leaves wharf at 2.30 p.m. sharp.

THOMAS STEWART, Manager,
45 Bridge St., Belleville.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

New train 12.45 a.m., daily, except Sunday, for Brockville, Montreal and intermediate stations.
No. 16—Local, for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 2—1.45 a.m., Mail and Express, (Flyer), Daily.
No. 6—11.43 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.22 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 12—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5—3 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily except Monday.
No. 3—4.10 a.m., Limited Express, Daily.
No. 9—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 11—11.22 a.m., Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 1—1.48 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7—5.12 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

Taking effect 12.01 o'clock, Sunday, June 14, 1903.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	9.10 a.m.	7.30 a.m.
Mixed	5.08 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

RAINY WEATHER NEEDS.

What a lot of weather we are having, very hot, then rainy and cold. Whether the weater is clear or whether the weather is cloudy, the fact remains that we have waterprof coats in plenty, guaranteed to keep out the wet.

A Few Specials

We have just received a few specials that should be of interest to you. There are so many very low priced, useless coats on the market that these extra good ones at moderate prices will surely prove fast sellers. Two lines, one dark the other medium, pure rainproof, velvet collar, raglan pocket and cuffs, coats made to sell at $7.50. OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY $5.00.

A FEW BETTER

Then we have some extra good ones at $7, $8 and $10, coats that you would have to pay much more for in other stores. If you are thinking of a rainproof coat, come in and take a look around.

OAK HALL

Sole Agents for Sanfords Celebrated Clothing.

A Clean Sweep —Sale—

NOW ON. In Ladies' Patent Kid and Patent Colt Skin Shoes.

The balance of season's goods to be cleared before our Fall arrivals.

25 per cent. off the regular prices.

6 pairs Laced, French Heels, $5.00, now	$3.75
9 pairs Laced Style. $4.00, now	$3.00
11 pairs Laced Style, $3 50 now	$2.60
7 pairs Laced Style, $3.00, now	$2.25
6 pairs Patent Oxfords $3.00, now	$2.25
20 pairs Fine Kid Oxfords, $2.00, now	$1.50

Bell's, McPherson's and "Empress."

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES at Belleville, Napanee and Trenton

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

In hastening to decline the resignation of Dr. Gibson, the Hospital Board acted wisely. At the same time it may be remarked that a man like the Doctor might very easily be at better business than distressing himself about the brutal and ridiculous remarks of people who are afflicted with moral strabismus, and whose enmity is rightly deemed a high honor by all right-thinking men. It would be a calamity, indeed, if a yellow dog journal, with axes to grind on every corner, were allowed to cause the retirement of one who, like Dr. Gibson, has for years given his time and talents gratuitously to the aid of the afflicted and distressed. Dr. Gibson should feel honored by the stone-throwing attentions of the mendacious and mercenary Grit sheet. He suffers in good company.

• • •

There is no truth in the rumor that Ald. Sulman, Chairman of the Market, went to Toronto to purchase a lamp for the City Hall clock that would burn all night.

• • •

His Holiness the Pope, the despatches say, is now too weak to talk, but people will observe with joy that his Aldermanic namesake in this fair city finds himself beset by no difficulties of that kind.

• • •

It is gratifying to note that The Intelligencer's suggestion in regard to stopping net fishing in the Bay of Quinte has been taken up energetically, and that a petition will at once be prepared and presented to the Government with that end in view. The petition will be placed in the Post Office, where an opportunity to sign it will be given everybody interested. That the signatures should be numerous goes without saying. If net fishing can be prohibited in other bodies of water, it certainly can be, and should be, in the Bay of Quinte. With game fish once more plentiful in our beautiful bay there is no doubt we would soon obtain our share of the tourists, on fishing bent, who now spend their time and money in other places. Put your autograph to the petition, which will, if granted, help to make Belleville what it was in the past, an angler's paradise, as well as one of the prettiest summer resorts between Halifax and the north pole.

• • •

Says the Stony Lonesome philosopher: "Gentle words, my son, always have the most effect, and soft soap is best for cleansing woodwork."

• • •

Perhaps, when we get another elevator in the city, it may be possible to elevate the moral tone of the Grit organ. But it would take a derrick to do that.

• • •

The Stony Lonesome philosopher says if somebody doesn't hurry up and start a petition to stop net fishing in the bay he'll do it himself, though he never eats any fish but canned salmon.

• • •

When Bridge St. Church gets its new minister the congregation will have a Wheler and Wilson.

• • •

The City Council sent to Toronto and paid handsomely for an "opinion," and now plenty of people in this city are ready to give their opinion of the Council without charging a cent for it.

• • •

"I'm going to presint the City Council wid toy pistols," said Mr. Dooley.

"For Why," said Mr. Hennessy.

"Bekase," said Mr. Dooley, "I see in the paper that forty-one byes in the Shtate of New York got lock-jaw through using thim on the 4th of July."

"Where can I get a second-hand one?" said Mr Hennessy, "be-dad, I'll take it right up to Yankee Curtis."

• • •

The joke is on an amateur gardener on the East Hill, who is alleged to have been carefully spraying a bunch of burdocks to kill potato bugs.

• • •

If Chief Newton will take our advice he won't spring that bear story on his English friends too suddenly. People who don't know him as well as we do might doubt his veracity.

• • •

Counterfeit Canadian $2 bank notes are in circulation. They are clever productions. United States $1 notes raised to $10 are also in circulation in the province. Look out for them.

• • •

Looks like nice weather for to-morrow. Cool weather and a short sermon ought to tempt you to go to church.

• • •

At Asbury Park, N. J., a clergyman finds some good words to say for dime novels and remarks that Deadwood Dick was not such a bad sort of fellow. Maybe this clergyman had absorbed so much theological reading that he was o'er grateful when he found a contrast in the wild and weird dime novel.

The TOILET IS INCOMPLETE WITHOUT POND'S EXTRACT

RELIEVES CHAFING, ITCHING OR IRRITATION. COOLS, COMFORTS AND HEALS THE SKIN, AFTER SHAVING.

Avoid dangerous, irritating Witch Hazel preparations represented to be "the same as" Pond's Extract, which easily sours and often contain "wood alcohol," a deadly poison.

In the Justice Shop.

Dog Cases.

A number of citizens were to-day charged before the Magistrate with neglecting to register their dogs. In some cases the medal was procured and a number were fined $1 and $1 costs.

Dispute as to a Dollar.

A disagreement arose on the market between two women, it being alleged by one that she had given the other $1, which had been kept. Both told their story and the Magistrate was convinced that the money was the property of the first named, but did not think it was a wilful transaction. The money was paid back to the party complaining.

The Oldest Grangeman.

Acton Free Press.

Acton Lodge turned out in good strength, marshaled by W. Bro. Jas Hall, and led by Acton Cornet Band. At the head of the procession the province's oldest Orangeman, Robt. Mills, was driven by ex-Reeve Williams behind one of his white chargers. Mr. Mills is a native of County Down, Ireland, and was born in December, 1802, having celebrated his 100th birthday last Christmas. He was made an Orangeman at Belfast when a young man of eighteen, and has consequently been a member nearly eighty-three years. Mr. Mills came to Canada fifty-eight years ago, resided for some time in Quebec and was married there on July 4, 1854, to Jane Ann Annis, daughter of the late customs house officer of that city. Many years ago he settled in Garafraxa, where he led a very active life as a farmer. Mr. Mills came to Acton some seventeen years ago.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

BRIDGE ST. METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. Dr. Crothers will preach at both services.

Morning subject, 11 a.m.—The Progress of Revelation.

Choice music.

Sunday School and Bible Classes at 2.30 p.m.

Evening subject, 7 p.m.—The Second Coming of Christ.

Services during warm weather bright and brief.

College students and strangers gladly shown to seats.

JOHN ST. PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Corner of Victoria Avenue and John Street.

REV. A. H. DRUMM, Pastor.

Sunday services at 11 a.m, and 7 p. m.

Sunday School at 3 p.m.

Pastor's Class for Bible Study—Sunday at 3 p.m.

Young People's Guild—Monday at 8 p.m. Prayer meeting—Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Service at 11 a.m., and 7 p.m.

THE TABERNACLE METHODIST CHURCH.

Church St.

Services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Sunday School and Bible Classes at 2.30.

Strangers and visitors conducted to seats by obliging ushers.

VICTORIA AVE BAPTIST CHURCH,

Cor. Victoria Ave.and Pinnacle St

REV. O. C. ELLIOTT, Pastor.

Prayer meeting—10.30 a.m

Services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Sunday School at three o'clock.

The Pastor will conduct both services.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend the above services. All seats are free.

HOLLOWAY ST. METH. CHURCH

Rev. J. R. Real, Pastor.

Services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. by the Pastor.

2.30 Sunday School.

Epworth League on Monday at 8.

Prayer meeting on Wednesday at 7.45.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

BELLEVILLE NORTH (BLEECKER AVE) METHODIST CHURCH.

Rev. F. B. Stratton, Pastor.

Bleecker Ave. sermons at 11 and 7 by the Pastor.

2.30 Sunday School.

League Monday 8 p m.

Kingston Road. Sermon 2.30 Rev. F. B. Stratton.

Sabbath School 10 30 a.m.

League and Prayer meeting Thursday at 8 p.m.

Centre Street—Rev. A. Martin 7 p.m. Sabbath School 2 30 p m.

League Monday at 8 p.m.

Seats free in all the churches. Come and welcome.

BETHEL HALL, Front St.

11 a.m.—Lord's Supper.

7 p.m.—Gospel meeting.

Subject Sunday evening — The Two Resurrections, Judgment of the Great White Throne, The Millennium, The Lake of Fire, New Heaven and New Earth.

Tuesday 8 p.m.—Prayer and ministry of the word.

All invited. Seats free.

July 19th, 1903.

Sixth Sunday After Trinity

EMMANUEL REFORMED EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

(Free Church of England).

Victoria Avenue, between Church and Pinnacle Streets.

Rev. William J. Gilliland, Rector.

SUNDAY SERVICES—Morning at 11. Evening at 7.

Sunday School and Bible Classes 10 o'clock a.m.

Young People's Meeting Sunday 8 p m.

Strangers and visitors in the city welcome.

All seats free.

Resignation Not Accepted.

Dr. Gibson yesterday tendered his resignation as a member of the medical staff of the Hospital. Upon receipt thereof the Board met and immediately wrote Dr. Gibson that they could under no circumstances accept his resignation as he had been too good a friend and physician for them to permit him to sever his connection with the local institution.

HOT WEATHER NEEDS.

Probably you feel the need of an umbrella or a waterproof coat. Drop into the Oak Hall and see how good an umbrella you can buy for $1. Then have a look at the new waterproofs just received at $2, $2.50, $3, $4 and $5. Extra nice ones $7 up to $15. We will be very pleased to show these goods whether you are buying or not.

Did Not Arrest the Thieves.

It was reported to the police that a chicken coop in West Belleville was being visited quite frequently of late and young chickens were missed. An officer last night kept a watch on the place and about midnight his vigilance was rewarded by seeing three small animals visit the coop. It is needless to say that the officer did not attempt to catch the intruders.

FIVE LITTLE MINUTES are all the time Perry Davis' Painkiller needs to stop a stomachache, even when it is sharp enough to make a strong man groan. Don't be fooled by imitations. 25c and 50c.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Measurement Nonpareil—12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line. Subsequent consecutive insertions, 5c.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance on regular or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriages and deaths, 50c each insertion Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found in 1st column of 2nd page.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of the Intelligencer.

Address all communications to the Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House Limited, or to Charles J. Bowell, Managing Director and Treasurer.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s Office, 30 Fleet Street, London, E. C.

CONDENSED ADVERTISEMENTS

TERMS.—Twenty-five words or less, 25c first insertion; two insertions, 50c; four insertions, 75c; one week $1.00, two weeks, $1.75, three weeks, $2.25; one month, $2.50. Strictly cash in advance.

WANTED,

Woman or girl to do housework by the day. Apply immediately. Mrs. C. J. Bowell, 163 Albert street. 2t

40 teams, $3.50 per day, railroad work. Transportation free. Apply S. E. Phippen, Dundas street.

$6.00 per month buys a $1,000 home. $9.00 per month buys a $1,500 home. $12.00 a month buys a $2,000 home. A postal will bring particulars. The Canadian Home Builders' Association, Manning Chambers, Toronto. j18-6t

100 machinery moulders and coremakers. Steady work. Wages for moulders at least $4.00; coremakers $3.25. Address Post Office Box 511, Toronto. jy9-d10t

Have you spare time? Increase your income by work at night. Others are doing it. Our goods are used everyday everywhere. Write G. Marshall & Co., Teas, London, Ont.

Agents wanted, $2.50 per day. Apply Cooper, London, Ont. s27-1y

Young men ambitious to learn lucrative trades, of which there are eight in connection with the business. Apply The Belleville Hardware Company, Belleville, Ont. a7dtf

WANTED Reliable Men in every locality throughout Canada to introduce our goods, tacking up show cards on trees, fences, along roads and all conspicuous places, also distributing small advertising matter. Commission or salary $60.00 per month and expenses, not to exceed $2.50 per day. Steady employment to good, honest reliable men. No experience needful. Write for full particulars. THE EMPIRE MEDICINE CO., London, Ont.

TO-LET,

That new solid brick house on Yeomans street. Hard and soft water in kitchen. Good cellar, stable and garden. In perfect order. $6.—J. J. B. Flint. jy16dtf

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

Stone house, 11 rooms, coal furnace, stable, barn. Large grounds. Cor. Frank and Moira Sts. north. Terms reasonable. H. Bull, on premises or Fred Bull, 133 Yonge St., Toronto. Terms easy. ap18-dtf

FOR SALE.

Shingles, shingles, dressed lumber, etc. GEO. WALTON & CO. jy14-1md

Dressed and Matched Lumber of all kinds, at ALFORD'S factory, Market Square. j12-tf

Two surreys, two phaetons, two buggies, one horse. Apply to H. L. CURRY, Pinnacle street. jy9-8td&16,23w

Contractors and masons, any any person requiring lime may procure it from E. G. STAPLEY, Canifton Road, Belleville. New lime always on hand. a9-d&w6m

TO RENT

A house on Moira street containing 8 rooms. All modern conveniences. Possession on or before 20th July.—Adam Henry.. dtf

The Market.

The market was well attended to-day, and prices were good for all products offered. Butter sold at from 17c to 20c per lb, eggs 14c to 15c per dozen, and chickens 50c to 80c per pair. New potatoes sold at 75c per bushel. Considerable quantities of raspberries were sold at 5c per box. Cherries are scarce, and sold at 10c per box.

Our New Story

ROLFF HOUSE

—BY—

G. H. Benedict,

COMMENCES IN

To-day's Paper

You will enjoy this tale of

Love and Adventure

Read The Opening Chapters

Shoes and Slippers

FOR SUMMER WEAR.

Ladies' Fine Low Shoes—ranging in price from 50c to $3.75

Ladies' Fine Strap Slippers—prices from 75c to $3.00

See our assortment of Children's Slippers, ranging in price from 25c to $1.25

We carry a large stock of Trunks and Valises, Dress Suit Cases, Club Bags, Cabin Trunks, etc.

VERMILYEA & SON.

Sole Agents for the famous Queen Quality Shoe.

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY! 2 WEEKS

$5.00 Any Suit In This Great Clothing Store for $5.00

A STUPENDOUS CLOTHING OFFER WITHOUT PRECEDENT OR PARALLEL.

Some Suits $18, some $16, some $15, some $12, others $10. Just think of it! High grade, thoroughly tailored garments for Men, complete suits in fashionable fabrics, for

$5.00

This is just the opening gun in the great Mid-Summer Sale, in connection with this store. In every other department there will be equal sensational reductions. This Clothing Sale begins on July 11th and will end on July 25th. The earlier you come the better your choice as we anticipate a big rush.

The GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE.

Up-to-date Clothiers and Gents' Furnishiers, Look for the Globe Over The Door, 390 Front Street, Belleville.

Wall Paper

At first sight of our Wall Papers you will say there's an attractiveness about them that puts them lengths ahead of other lines.

IN STOCKING

we select only the best, we have no "shelf warmers" all our Papers are quick sellers. If you choose your Papers from us you have best value for the price obtainable anywhere.

Painting, Paperhanging and Decorating done on shortest notice by best workmen in the city.

JOHN CORNELIUS.

3 Doors South of Intelligencer Office.

NEW GOODS

JAPAN TEA

The first of this season's crop, exta quality, regular 50c line, we quote

40c Per lb.

Canned Halibut

Fine solid Fish, very tasty,

15c per can.

J. C. Hanley & Co.

GROCERS

Telephone 214

Flowers & Vegetables

Of all kinds in season.

...AT...

J. D. COLLIP'S.

'Phone 205.

Western Beef.

Prime Western Beef together with all kinds of choice meats, supplied by the district, at

C. GREEN'S

267 Front St., 'Phone 109.

For pure blood, a bright eye, a clear complexion, a keen appetite, a good digestion and refreshing sleep, TAKE

BRISTOL'S Sarsaparilla

It arouses the Liver, quickens the circulation, brightens the spirits and generally improves the health.

Sixty-eight years trial have proved it to be, the most reliable BLOOD purifier known.

All druggists sell "BRISTOL'S."

At Wallbridge & Clarke's. At Wallbridge & Clarke's

Supplies For Camp or Cruise

New York Biscuits

in "In-er Seal" pkgs.

Uneeda "Jinger" Wafers, Butter Gems, Cheese Biscuits, German Zwieback, Pretzelettes, etc., etc.

Christie's Fancy Biscuits

Fresh supplies every week — 40 varities.

Heintz's Pickles

Heintz's Celery Sauce,
Heintz's India Relish.
Heintz's Sweet Midgets.
Heintz's Sweet Pickles.

Spanish Olives

A fine assortment of Olives from 10cts per bottle up.

Campers Supplies

Essence of Coffee, Condensed Milk, Lime Juice, Raspberry Vinegar, Fancy Cheese, New Pack Lobster and Shrimps, French Sardines, Scallops, Deviled Crabs, Concentrated Soups, French Potage, Beef Extracts, etc., etc.

Pickles and Sauces

A complete assortment of English and American Pickles and Sauces, including Pickled Walnuts, Onions, Chow Chow, Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce, Yorkshire Relish, Mushroom Catsup, Harvey's Sauce, Sultana Sauce, Chutney's Capers, Durkee's Salad Dressing, etc., etc.

Delicious Teas

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious English Breakfast Teas in lead packets at 30, 40, 50 and 60cts per lb.

Canned Meats

New Packs. Finest Quality.
Whole Ox Tongues.
Lunch Tongues.
Lamb's Tongues.
Boned Chicken.
Boned Turkey.
Boned Duck.
Pate de foie.
Potted Ham.
Potted Tongue.
Sliced Dried Beef.
Ham Loaf.
Veal Loaf.
Chicken Tamales.
Lunch Beef.
Lunch Bacon.
Chicken, Ham and Tongue.
Pigs Feet.
Jellied Tenderloins.
Vienna Sausages.
Luncheon Sausages.
Baked Beans—plain or in Tomato or Chili Sauce, etc., etc., etc.

Ale and Stout, Wines, etc.

Carling's, Labatt and Davies' Dominion Ale, Bass' Ale, Dow's Sand Porter, Guinness' Stout, in prime condition.

Gurd's Ginger and Soda Water Appolinaris and Radnor Water.

Barton & Guestier's and Nath. Johnston's Bordeaux Clarets and Sauterne AT POPULAR PRICES.

Rhine Wine and Burgundy Cordials and Liqueurs.

Light Canadian Wines, red or white, at lowest prices.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE

EST'D. 1871.
BRIDGE ST. Tel. 139.

Branch Store
Front St.—Tel. 157.

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc. Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mr. Carl Igelstrom, of Toronto, is in the city.

Miss M. Winter is holidaying at Shannonville.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell will spend Sunday in the city.

Mrs. Edward Kirsch, of Chicago, is visiting friends in the city.

Mrs. Jas. S. Cook will be at home on the 23rd and 24th of July.

Rev. Mr. Beamish and the church Boys' Brigade return from 12 o'Clock Point this afternoon.

Mrs. T. Hanley and family leave on Monday for Port Arthur, to join Mr. Hanley, who is located there.

Mrs. N. H. Woof and daughter, Miss Helen, of Syracuse, N.Y., are visiting relatives here for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Geen, of New York, who have been visiting in the city, return home to-morrow.

Miss Vermilyea Cantour, of Deseronto, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Frank Caron, Everett street.

Mr. A. Rowan, who has been visiting friends in this city, returned to his home at Sault Ste. Marie to-day.

Misses Lila Burrows and Ruby Robb left this morning for Port Sandfield, Muskoka, where they will spend a couple of weeks.

Mr. E. C. Lawrence leaves on Monday morning for Toronto, where he has secured a lucrative situation. His many friends will wish him well.

Messrs. Walter and Sam Turner, of Syracuse, N.Y., are in the city to attend the funeral of their late brother, Mr. Chas. Turner.

Dr. Dolan and Mr. Frank Dolan, jr., left last evening for Albany, N.Y., to attend the funeral of their uncle, the late Mr. James Dolan.

Mrs. Daggatt, a graduate of the Conservatory of Music, Boston, Mass., will sing solos both morning and evening in one of our local churches to-morrow.

Piles To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & CO., Toronto,

Dr. Chase's Ointment

LATEST NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS

As Furnished to The Intelligencer by H. R. Beattie, Stock Broker.

New York, July 18.

Stock	Op'g	H'st	L'st	Close.
Atchison	65¾	65⅞	64¾	65
do. pref ..	89¾	89¾	88	88
St. Paul.. ..	143½	143½	141⅝	141¾
Mo. P.	100	100	99⅛	99¾
Union Pac .	77¾	77⅞	76⅞	76⅞
C. P. R.	123⅝	123¾	122½	122½
South Pac. ..	47	47	46¾	46½
R. I.	29⅛	29⅛	27¾	27⅞
Ills. C.	131	131	130½	130½
Sou. Ry.....	22⅞	22⅞	22⅜	22½
Texas......	27½	27⅛	26⅛	26¾
B & O.	84⅜	84⅜	83⅜	83⅞
N. Y.C.	117⅞	118¾	117¾	118
Perna	122	122	121⅝	121⅝
T. W.... ...	97	....	....	....
Erie	31⅛	31⅛	30⅞	30⅞
do. pref. ...	67¾	67¼	66¾	66¾
Reading	50⅛	50⅛	49¾	50⅛
C. O.	34⅞	35¼	34½	34½
O. & W.	23¾	23⅞	23¼	23⅛
Manhattan ..	133¾	133¼	133	133
W. C.	19¼	19¼	18⅜	18⅞
L. & N	107	107½	107	107
A. F.	35½	35⅛	35	35
Nor.	64½	64½	64⅜	64⅛
Wab	23	23	22¾	22⅞
do pref. ..	40	40	39⅝	39¾
C. G. W. ..	17⅜	17⅜	17⅜	17⅜
T.C.I.	47½	47½	47	47
U S. S.I.. ...	26⅛	26¾	26½	26⅛
do pref.....	77⅛	77⅜	77	77
Sugar	117½	117¼	116	116
B. R. T......	52¾	52⅜	51¾	51¼
Po	96¾	96¾	95¾	95¾
A. C. P. ..	49⅛	49⅛	47¾	47¾
Met........	120	120¾	118	118
Alc	20	...	...	....

THE PEOPLE KNOW VALUE.

The sale of $5.00 suits at the Globe Clothing House has been a great success. Hundreds of them have been sold and still there are hundreds more. The very newest in tweeds, homespuns, serges, still in stock, and all suits in this store for eight days more will go for $5.00. They must be sold to make room for our fall stock. Take advantage of this great opportunity of obtaining a $10, $12, or $15 suit for $5. 1t

Sports and Pastimes

New Shamrock is the Real Thing.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 17.—Sir Thomas Lipton's cup hunter was in her finest training trim to-day, and beat Shamrock I. over a 30-mile course by 11 minutes 44 seconds, elapsed time. Twice in the shifty wind the keen captain of Shamrock I. got the better of it in a shift of wind, after the challenger had established a big lead. Only the challenger's superior heels enabled her to regain her advantage. Shamrock III. beat Shamrock I. by 7 minutes 33 seconds going to windward, and 4 minutes and 6 seconds running home. The wind varied from 3 to 10 knots.

MARRIED IN ST. THOMAS.

FORMER RESIDENT OF THIS CITY FINDS A CHARMING BRIDE.

On Wednesday, July 8th, at St. Thomas, Mr. Charles Robert Clapp was married to Miss Ethel, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Boyce, and one of St. Thomas' most charming young ladies. Mr. Clapp was a graduate of Belleville High School, also an honor graduate of Toronto University. He was formerly teacher of Mathematics in Waterford High School, and is now in the real estate business in St. Thomas. His many friends in this city will join in wishing both Mr. and Mrs. Clapp a happy and prosperous life.

CZAR WILL CHANGE THE LAW.

UNLESS A MALE HEIR TO RUSSIA'S THRONE ARRIVES WOMEN WILL BE ELIGIBLE.

It is reported that the Czar intends, should his next child be a daughter, to publish a new law of succession, under which, on a failure of sons, the eldest daughter of the reigning sovereign would, as in England, succeed to the throne. The decree, it is said, will greatly irritate the princes of the imperial house, who will thus be pushed back or superseded, but there can be no doubt that it is within the prerogative of the czars, who have repeatedly decreed rule of succession.

The new scheme is, moreover, in full accordance with the history of Russia, where women have so often reigned, and there is no reason to believe that it would be unpopular. The arrangement seems to Englishmen the one most in accordance with the principle of hereditary monarchy, the Salic law involving the risk that a dynasty may perish. Male heirs have never been wanting in France, but they failed in Austria when Marie Theresa mounted the throne, and they have failed entirely in our own time in Holland. It is quite possible that the consent of the next heir has been obtained, as he is in ill-health and his chance of surviving his brother is but a doubtful one.—London Spectator.

Lost chances never leave any trail.

LIKE OTHER EVILS cramps and diarrhoea come suddenly. Promptly give a dose of Perry Davis' Painkiller and the pains will go immediately. A bottle at hand will save hours of suffering—be prepared.

"AN EXCELLENT FOOD, admirably adapted to the Wants of Infants."
SIR CHAS. A. CAMERON, C.B., M.D.,
Professor of Chemistry, R.C.S.I.,
Ex-President of the Royal College of Surgeons, Ireland.

Neave's Food

For Infants, Invalids, And The Aged.

GOLD MEDAL, WOMAN'S EXHIBITION, London, 1900.

DR. BARNARDO says:—

"We have already used Neave's Food in two of our Homes (Babies' Castle and the Village Home), and I have no hesitation in saying it has proved very satisfactory."—July 27th, 1901.

USED IN THE Russian Imperial Nursery.

Manufacturers:—JOSIAH R. NEAVE & CO., Fordingbridge, England.

Wholesale Agents:—THE LYMAN BROS. & Co., Ltd., Toronto and Montreal.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM

will positively cure deep-seated COUGHS.
COLDS.
CROUP.

A 25c. Bottle for a Simple Cold.
A 50c. Bottle for a Heavy Cold.
A $1.00 Bottle for a Deep-seated Cough.
Sold by all Druggists.

Turkey now exports $3,000,000 worth of opium a year.

Trial by jury in Britain dates from the reign of Ethered I., 866—871 A.D.

It takes a long time to tell of what you have not done.

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

Goods We Have
at Right Prices

- —Hammocks.
- —Fishing Tackle.
- —Tennis Goods.
- —Golf Goods.
- —Lacrosse Goods.
- —Base Ball Goods.
- —Screen Doors and Windows.
- —Fruit Jars.
- —Fruit Jar Rubbers.
- —Wall Paper.
- —Crystal Glass Vases.
- —Glass Ware.
- —Dinner Sets.
- —Toilet Sets.
- —Ladies' Hose.
- —Ladies' Vests.

Everything in smallwares.

AT THE BEE HIVE

Chas. N. Sulman

SANTAL-MIDY

Standard remedy for Gleet, Gonorrhœa and Runnings IN 48 HOURS. Cures Kidney and Bladder Troubles.

MIDY

Nearly 500 different kinds of tiny shells go to make up chalk.

Sunshine Furnace.

REGULATED LIKE A WATCH.

"Sunshine" dampers are so ingeniously arranged and control the fire so perfectly that the consumption of fuel can be regulated almost as accurately as a watch—the operator knows just what time a certain quantity of coal will retain fire and the degree of heat it will produce.

All parts of "Sunshine" furnaces are mechanically correct—the castings are clean and extra heavy, while the steel used in the dome is of the finest quality and is specially made for the "Sunshine" furnace.

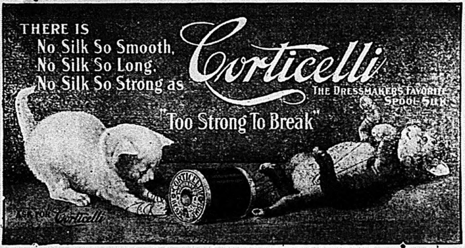
Every detailed feature in the "Sunshine" has its purpose, and all combine to produce the most heat from the fuel consumed and distribute it without waste.

Burns Coal or Wood. Booklet Free.

McClary's

LONDON, TORONTO, MONTREAL, WINNIPEG, VANCOUVER, ST. JOHN, N. B.

The W. W. CHOWN CO., Limited
SOLE AGENTS.



CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY

CAPITAL

10,000 Shares 7 per cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, par value $100 each,	$1,000,000
50,000 Shares Common Stock, par value $100, issued and fully paid	5,000,000
TOTAL CAPITALIZATION	$6,000,000

Issues of $1,000,000.00 7 p.c. Preferred Stock in 10,000 Shares of $100 each at par.

This stock is preferred both as to Assets and Dividends.

The shares are entitled to cumulative preferred dividends from the net earnings of the Company, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable half yearly on the first days of April and October. They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at $115,00 per share, at any time after 1st January, 1909.

The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000.00, the whole of which is now offered.

Subsriptions for 10,000 Shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent. Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is $100 Share, as follows

per cent on application,
25 " " on allotment,
35 " " 30 days thereafter.
35 " " 60 days thereafter.

One share of Common, par value $100, given with each share of preferred.

The whole of instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of one per cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Novia Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1 000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4000 acres of iron ore deposit, located Natashquan (tidewater) situated on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highest ever discovered, running from 69 per cent to 72 per cent in metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore has been received by the Company than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

Send for prospectus giving full information as to earnings, reports, etc., etc.

Address all communications and send subscriptions to

COLONIAL SECURITIES CO.,
62 Wall Street, New York City

OR

W. L. MARSTON & COMPANY
110 State Street, Boston

The SAWYER COMPANY.
351 Temple Building, Montreal, Canada.

Food Value of Dried Vegetables.

One of the most remarkable peculiarities of the lower organisms, as exhibited in seeds and other vegetable bodies, is the fact that they are capable of withstanding desiccation for very considerable periods without losing capacity for germination and development. The vitalized crystalloids and colloids which possess the power of assimilation and metabolism appear capable of having all uncombined water removed by evaporation without undergoing molecular disruption by the loss of their combined water. They appear to retain the combined water much as crystals retain water of crystallization. If the ordinary drying of seeds, corms, rhizomes and bulbs does not destroy the integrity of their protoplasm or alter the availability of their stored-up albumen, starch or sugar, it would appear that they should retain all their nutritive value, and that the same should hold true of most, if not all, vegetables used for food by man as well as it does for forage crops preserved by drying.

It is curious that the desiccation of culinary vegetables should be so much neglected, nowadays in view of the universal use of dried fruits from prehistoric times and the practice of drying such vegetables as the pumpkin, in vogue among early New Englanders, in evidence of which the shiny pumpkin poles are still to be seen hanging on hooks in the ceiling in front of the fireplace of many an old homestead. Experiments made in Germany, and more recently in California, have demonstrated that desiccated vegetables suffer no loss of nutriment, and that they remain savory and wholesome.

Here is a splendid opportunity for the utilization and conservation of potatoes, beets, parsnips, cabbage and the like at the season of their greatest abundance and in years of overproduction, whereby there may be added to the regular supply a line of familiar food concentrated so as to admit of economic transportation for army rations and for those who cannot afford such fresh vegetables out of season. While it may not pay to can such vegetables as we have mentioned, it would be a boon to many if they were put on the market dried.

Feed and Care of Chicks.

So many complaints come to me about young chicks dying from some mysterious cause that I take this opportunity to give my method of feeding and caring for them, as I have had 30 years' experience in poultry raising. While my method may not suit all, I have been very successful with it myself. I have fed all kinds of feed in as many forms and ways as I could invent, and found that it is absolutely necessary that you feed the food in as near a natural state as possible. Don't feed too much, for if you do it will become sour and foul from the chicks tramping on it, and if they are fed sour food they will get indigestion; which is only a little longer road to death. I believe that indigestion kills more chicks than any other cause, or at least this has been my experience. The causes are many that bring on indigestion, and cannot be explained in the confines of this article, for what is the cause with one is not the cause with another. Rich food fed too soon after incubation; sour quarters; too much food and not enough grit; not enough pure water before them all the time; dark, damp brooders or pens will kill the ruggedest chicks.

I have had women tell me the past season that they lost from 150 to 500 young chicks, and ask me the reason why. From all I could gather from their remarks, I conclude the trouble was indigestion. It requires constant watchfulness to raise chicks and make them profitable. I have found that to mix the different grains and seeds makes the ideal food for both chicks and fowl. The larger grains, such as corn, wheat, buckwheat, etc., must be ground coarse and then mixed with the finer grains and seeds for young chicks. If chicks are kept warm and dry, fed plenty of this ground food, have grit and water always before them, there is no reason why 90 per cent. of all chicks hatched should not be raised. I have raised 96 per cent., and so can you.—A. E. Alden, in Rural World.

The Quietness Too Much For Him.

A West Philadelphia druggist who recently became the proud father of his first baby was called to Baltimore the other day on a business trip, says The Philadelphia Record. Early in the afternoon the telephone bell in his home rang and his wife answered the call. Hubby was at the other end in Baltimore. "It seemed so funny not to hear the baby crying," came the voice over the wire, "that I couldn't stand it any longer. Can't you bring him to the 'phone so I can hear him?" Wifey woke the child up out of a sound sleep and he very accommodatingly began to bawl at the top of his lungs into the receiver, while his mother held him in her arms. This continued until the baby had cried 80 cents worth over the long-distance wire, when the happy father rang off.

The Nice Conductor.

"Talking of hardships," remarked the minister with a smile, "reminds me of a little romance connected with one of my marriages some time ago. The bride was a very pretty girl, and was one of my parishioners. The bridegroom was a motorman on a trolley car. I wondered when I married them how he had found time to court her, as he was on duty for long hours day and night. Meeting the bride on the street shortly after the honeymoon, I asked her about it.

"'You couldn't have seen much of John while you were engaged?' I remarked.

"'Oh, but I did,' the bride replied. 'I used to ride around with him on the front platform at night, and the conductor didn't look.'"—Philadelphia Telegraph.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Store Closed Every Wednesday During July and August at 12 O'Clock Noon.

WHITE WAIST CLEARING

This has truly been a whitewear season.

The rapid selling has left Our White Shirt Waist assortment in a depleted state. Many styles only having large sizes left, many having only small.

New goods are already on the ocean. These must be gone before their arrival. So on Saturday Night and Monday we make this worthy offering in what—when style and workmanship are considered—are scarce goods.

Every size is here—only a few of some, more of others—to make sure you should come Saturday Night. Here they are.

—Fine Lawn Waist trimmed with tucks, hemstitching and embroidery insertion straps, regular 75c Waist for 50c

—Fine White Muslin Waist, trimmed with rows of narrow tucks and embroidery insertion, mostly large sizes, regular 85c for 50c

—Fine India Linen Waist, trimmed with tucks and hemstitching, embroidery insertion straps and box plait front, large sizes only, regular 95c for ... 50c

HALF PRICE WRAPPERS

Our Wrapper sale has been keeping us busy and now with only a few left we make this last effort —our best.

Styles—material, etc, are all you could desire, The quantity we purchased being a little to great for our needs.

On sale SATURDAY NIGHT and until cleared at HALF PRICE.

—Fine Print Wrappers in fast colors, fancy stripes and designs, regular $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 for .... .50, .63, & .75

MUSLIN CURTAIN REDUCTION

Although but a small quantity of colored muslin Curtains are sold the constant demand makes necessary the keeping of full assortment.

Slightly soiled—we offer the remainder of this range at prices which will be interesting to housekeepers who desire pretty window decoration.

The patterns are very neat and at regular prices were our usual good value.

—13 pairs, frilled colored Muslin Curtains in neat stripes and figures.

$2.50 for $2.00
$3.00 for $2.25
$2.65 for $2.15
$3.25 for $2.65.

MEN'S COLLARS AND BELTS

Much of your comfort these hot days depends on the style of collar you are wearing.

The low double band "STANMER" style has taken a permanent place in many wardrobes—it combines QUALITY, STYLE and COMFORT.

A Belt, too, adds much to the appearance of the vestless man. In fact it is neccessary to be "correct."

It's in these little things you will find the superiority for which our furnishing department is noted.

— Men's fine summer collars 15c, 2 for 25c
— Men's fine belts all kinds and sizes 50c to .. $1.50

WIRE DOOR MATTS

During wet and muddy weather the protection of floors and carpets neccessitates a mat.

We have just secured the best, made from the best galvanized steel wire woven, in double fabric it is exactly the same on both sides.

Being flexible it readily conforms to uneven surfaces without warping.

It is effective, neat, elastic and self cleaning and practically indistructable,

—Size 16x24 inches, .. $1.25, 18x30 inches .. $1.75
—Size 22x36 inches, .. $2.75, 26x48 inches .. $3.50

ABOUT CLOTHING

The daily increased number of satisfied men our clothing is making is ample payment for the time and care spent in the choosing.

Our first season's trade has been much beyond our expectations. Although we are not surprised as the garments are worthy.

Already much of our Fall cloth is on the way toward completion.

Ready cash and unsurpassed buying opportunities have procured for us many lines to sell at prices which, we are sure will mean for us a greatly increased patronage,

Just now we are bending our efforts to the selling of summer clothing.

Takes very little — they sell themselves when seen. Have you been in?

—Men's fine summer Suits in single and double breasted, sack and Norfolk styles $5.00 to $10.00

Agents for Standard Patterns.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

CLOTHING BOUGHT HERE PRESSED FREE OF CHARGE

Everything Is Thoroughly Good

That's certain, at QUICK & ROBERTSON'S—we are more particular about giving than you are in getting it perhaps.

But there are other reasons why you should buy at this store where quality is the first consideration.

We not only make goodness certain by applying every known test for quality, but are equally as careful to price that goodness as common as the ordinary sorts are priced elsewhere.

HERE are a few suggestions of summer fixin's that should interest men and mothers of boys.

FOR BOYS.

Vacation Suits and other wear, things that after good hard wear show the difference between our good sorts at our common prices and cheap sorts, which cost a little less.

—Regulation Sailor Blouse Suits, Cheviot mixtures, stripes and serges, ... $1.25 to $4.50

—Norfolk Jackets, single and double-breasted suits for older boys, extensive showing of plain and fancy mixtures .... $2.00 to $5.00

—Washable Sailor Suits 50c to $1.50.

—Wash Waists and Blouses, 25c to $1 00.

FOR MEN.

—SUMMER SUITS—Such as are impossible to obtain except at the best custom tailors—perfect fitting, stylish garments, suited to men who want the out-of-the-ordinary sorts. Homespuns, Tropical Serges, Worsteds and Flannels........................ $3.75 to $12.00

—OUTING TROUSERS $1.00 to $4.00.

—NEGLIGE SHIRTS—In stripes and patterned materials, such as custom shirt makers would show you as their newest—plain or plaited bosoms.......... 50c to $1.50

—STRAW HATS—Every one new, the largest assortment of the smartest shapes the best makers have produced.

Sailors, in low crown .... 50c to $2.00

Panama shape, the right ones .... 75c to $2.50

QUICK & ROBERTSON

Here is where you buy Johnston's Clothing for Men and Boys.

Reliabe Lawn Hose

. . AT .

8c,

10c,

12c

per foot.

The W. W. CHOWN Company, Limited

Gas Works For Sale.

The Belleville Gas Company, Limited, have decided to offer for sale

BY TENDER

the whole of their Gas Plant and franchise, including the Gas Building and Factory, street mains and piping and an electric lighting plant. Also a water power privilege on the river Moira at the city limits containing about five acres of land.

The Gas Plant is in good working order and up-to-date, and is the only Gas Plant in the City of Belleville. Inspection solicited. Inventories of stock and plant and also list of present consumers and location of mains can be seen on application at the office of the Belleville Gas Company, Limited.

Tenders will be received up to Twelve o'clock noon of Friday the Thirty-first day of July, 1903.

Tenders to be directed to J. W. Johnson, Esq., President of the Belleville Gas Company, Limited, Belleville, Ont., and marked "Tenders."

Terms and conditions of sale and any further information required can be had on application to Robert Thomson, the company's Secretary, or to Messrs. Bell & Biggar, Barristers, etc., Belleville, or to the undersigned.

Highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Belleville, June 29th, 1903.
Stewart Masson,
Vendors' Solicitor.
Belleville, Ont.

30-4-11-18-25.

Are you Bilious?

Do you have Sick Headaches? You can be quickly and easily relieved by taking

Beecham's Pills

Sold Everywhere. In boxes, 25 cents

Bank of Montreal

ESTABLISHED 1817

Capital and Rest, All Paid Up.
$23,000,000
(Twenty-three Millions)

Savings Bank Department
Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.
A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch

ST. AGNES' SCHOOL,

Elmpool, Belleville,
OPENS D.V., SEPT. 9th.

A high-class Boarding and Day School for girls. Under the patronage of the Lord Bishop of Ontario.

Boys admitted to primary department only.

MISS F. E. CARROLL,
Lady Principal

Prospectus sent upon application. Address P. O. Box 535, Belleville.

Worth its weight in Gold

BABY'S OWN SOAP

keeps the most tender skin soft, smooth, and free from chaps.

No Other is Just as Good.

ALBERT TOILET SOAP CO., Mfrs., Montreal.

Notice.

Beginning on Monday, the 20th day of July, Messrs.

GREENLEAF & SON

will (excepting Saturdays) close their store at 7 o'clock p.m.

Parties wishing to rent wheels will have to arrange for them before that hour.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

THE AGILE OSPREY.

A Hungry Bird and a Tragedy of a Trout Stream.

A big brown and white bird came sailing up the trout stream, his long wings stretched far out to right and left. He flew slowly, for he was looking for something—something that he wanted very much. He was doing his family marketing. Up in the top of a big pine tree a mile away his wife was sitting on a nest full of eggs, and it was both his duty and his pleasure to find a supper for her. Suddenly he stopped short. He had caught sight of the thing for which he was searching—a dusky, shadowy shape, with an outline like that of a submarine torpedo boat, lying moveless in the clear water. For just an instant he seemed to hang poised in the air, but it was only long enough to change the direction of his motion; then down he went with a rush and a swoop.

The brook trout saw him coming and tried to dart away, but it was too late. With a mighty splash the osprey struck the stream and went clear under and out of sight, while the water boiled and surged over him. He could not see for the commotion about him, but his aim had been true, and his outstretched feet touched a slippery, slimy, wriggling body that was just beginning to gather headway.

Quicker than a wink his toes closed about it and his sharp talons sank deep into the trout's flesh. Then up he came, rising out of the stream like some fabled monster of old and shaking the water from his feathers in a shower of flying drops. Every thread of muscle in his wings and breast was working with all its might to lift that heavy trout. Up went the bird's great pinions till they were straight above him; then down they came, lashing the air like whips. Up again and down, up and down, up and down, harder and faster and fiercer, and little by little he and his victim rose from the stream till at last they were clear of the tree tops, then straight away to the nest in the old pine, where the wife was waiting to make them both welcome.—W. D. Hulbert in Leslie's Monthly.

PITH AND POINT.

The more culture the less jewelry.

Night is only a tunnel to him who travels toward hope.

What some folks call luck is in reality disaster to them.

It is love of virtue, not fear of law, that makes civilization.

A man's business may be a success and yet the man a failure.

Don't weep over a bad crop. Get your land ready and sow again.

You can conquer your cares more quickly if you do not continually carry a long face.

Whatever you may have in your purse, carry hope in your heart and spend it freely.

There is no law against laughter, my [illegible] on earth and entitled to its sunshine.

What fortunes are wasted by men and women who are struggling to know those who are hardly worth knowing!

Keep on trimming your lamps, tilling your soil, tugging and pegging away. You never can tell when the messenger of success will come.—Schoolmaster.

The Travels of a Jewel.

Fanny Kemble when in the United States years ago was persecuted by the attentions of a wealthy lunatic. When finally rejected by her he flung a package upon the table, exclaiming, "Well, at least take this!" and disappeared. The parcel proved to contain a very beautiful jewel. The actress was not long permitted to retain it. She saw no more of her persecutor, but did not remain under any sense of obligation to him. The gem was stolen from her before she quitted the United States. She forgot all about it in the course of the years that followed. A very long time afterward she was in Italy. A peddler displayed the contents of his pack before her at Sorrento. There lay the long lost jewel. Through whose hands it had passed there was nothing to show.

Peppermint Drops.

To make peppermint drops take a cupful of sugar crushed fine and just moistened with boiling water; then boil five minutes; take from the fire and add cream of tartar the size of a pea; mix well and add half a teaspoonful of essence of peppermint; beat briskly until mixture whitens, then drop quickly upon white paper; have cream of tartar and essence of peppermint measured while the sugar is boiling; if it sugars before it is all dropped add a little water and boil a minute or two. Wintergreen drops are made the same way by using half a teaspoonful of essence of wintergreen.

The White Man In Africa.

"The footprint of the white man is like the footprint of the elephant," says a Swazi native proverb; "it remains in the ground."

Another proverb: "White men are like and yet unlike quails. When you see one in your country you will soon see a flock. But the quails leave you again, the white men never."

Comparing Notes.

"So Mr. Smilax told you his heart was broken when you refused him," said Maud.

"Yes," answered Mamie.

"The impudence of him to offer me damaged goods the next day!"

Dangerous.

"To tell you the truth"—

"Sh-sh-sh! Don't try it, old man! George Washington did that once, and look at him now—he's dead!"—Baltimore News.

Sports and Pastimes

SPORTING NOTE AND COMMENT.

The Peterboro Athletics are making strenuous preparations for their game here on Wednesday next, and they are wise, for the locals will be right on edge to meet them. The match should be the best seen in this city in many a long day.

Montreal will, after August 1st, be again represented in the Eastern League, the Worcester club's franchise having been secured by the Habitants.

"Ernie" Ford, of this city, is playing third defence for the Peterboro Athletics second team. In a recent match between them and the T.A.S. second team the score was 0—0 at the end of play. The Review says: "Ford's fast running had a telling effect, and his good work was noticeable."

The local lacrosse boys are putting in great practice for their match next Wednesday. About twenty-five players were out last night, and from them a rattling team can be picked. It is said the home is faster and trickier than ever, and will make the Peterboro defence step lively to check them.

CRAMPS ARE LIKE BURGLARS.

They come unexpected and when they are least welcome. Be armed with a one-minute cure for cramps and keep Polson's Nerviline handy; it acts instantaneously. Nerviline's anodyne power is unique, for its composition expresses the highest medical progress of the age. Polson's Nerviline is a true comfort in the family, for in all derangements of the stomach and bowels it is an absolute specific. Nerviline has five times greater medicinal value than any other remedy and is sold in large 25 cent bottles. Try it.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

A tramp, 74 years of age, last night sought shelter at the police station.

The Y.M.C.A. will leave Monday, July 20, at 8.30 a.m., per Str. Annie Lake, for their Boys' Camp at Sandy Point.

Satan cast out of heaven. Judgment of the unsaved. The lake of fire. Satan's final doom. Bethel Hall, Sunday at 7.

Mr. Carl Igelstrom, of Toronto, the veteran piano tuner, is in town. Orders may be left at T. Blackburn's jeweller, or W. Flint Jones' music store.

Complaint is made of the dangerous [illegible] sidewalk on the south side of Bridge street west from Commercial street to the Agricultural Park.

A special meeting of the Sites, Buildings and Repairs Committee of the School Board was held last evening. Some matters as to repairs were considered and adopted.

Don't forget the G.T.R. Employees' popular old-time picnic to Massassaga Park, Wednesday, July 22nd. Boats leaving Rathbun's dock dourly. See games programme. 14,16,18,20,21

Best Wednesday holiday excursion, July 22nd, up the bay, through canal and into Lake Ontario with I.O.O.F. Band. Tickets 25c. Auspices of Christ Church. Str. Aletha leaves Corby's wharf at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Vans to convey ticket holders leave Taylor's and McGinnis' corners at 8.30 a.m. Moonlight excursion to Deseronto with band at 8 p.m. 10 In.

According to the Government returns, the Mutual Life of Canada did the second largest amount of new business in this country last year, and did it on the lowest ratio of expense of any of them, and paid the largest dividends showing it to be the most profitable company to insure in. S. Burrows, General Agent.

Mr. Daniel Jones, aged 69 years, a well-known resident of Crofton, Prince Edward County, died yesterday. Deceased had resided the greater portion of his life in Prince Edward County, and was a successful yeoman.

CANCER CURED WITHOUT CUTTING.

The new Constitutional Treatment cures cancers and tumors without the necessity of operation. It is a purely vegetable remedy, harmless to the system, but powerful in destroying cancer germs and eliminating cancer poisons from the system. We have dozens of testimonials from Canadians who have been cured even after operations failed. Send two stamps for book and particulars to B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

A horse has been known to jump 37 feet in a steeplechase.

PIMPLES AND BLOTCHES.

How unsightly, sometimes disgusting, mortifying to the sufferer and unpleasant to all. An evidence of poor blood and lowered vitality of the eliminating organs. They need toning up—the whole system does. You can quickly bring about the improved condition by using Ferrozone. Poisons are driven out of the blood, organs grow stronger, the blood richer, the nerves stronger. Pimples and blotches disappear, color becomes good. Glad! just try and see how much joy can be gotten out of a box of Ferrozone.

Mother "My mother was troubled with consumption for many years. At last she was given up to die. Then she tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was speedily cured."—D. P. Jolly, Avoca, N. Y.

25c., 50c., $1.00.
J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

PEN PICTURES OF PEOPLE YOU MEET

ON A BELLEVILLE STREET.

MAYOR GRAHAM.

For the past three years or so, it is doubtful if any citizen of Belleville has been more in the public eye than the gentleman who is the subject of our sketch to-day. And our worthy Chief Magistrate, it may be remarked, is something to look at, for he casts no inconsiderable shadow. In fact, one might almost compare him to the addresses which for three years in succession he has read to the City Council at the Inaugural meetings in January, for he has length as well as breadth. A jolly, good-humored face tops a pair of massive shoulders and a deep chest, the said chest containing a pair of lungs which, so far, have always been equal to any demands made upon them in the way of oratory. When the Mayor entered the Council some two years and a half ago he was practically an unknown quantity. But it didn't take people long to find him out. Under that calm and placid exterior reposed an aggressiveness which many were not prepared for. His Worship had a charmingly original way of handing out whacks to friend and foe alike which left half the people swearing by him and the other half swearing at him. That evanescent thing, popularity, seemed to be something for which he had not the slightest regard, and if ever a man in this city was an adept in the gentle art of making enemies it was Mayor Graham. Some people thought he did it from conviction; others thought he did it because he liked notoriety; others again, thought he did it because he was thorough in his methods and was a sort of a municipal car of Juggernaut which crushed all who came under his wheels. As, by this time, everybody in the city has formed an opinion in regard to these matters one way or the other it will not be necessary for us to unchain ours. This much, however, can be said, and said conscientiously—if all the civic representatives [illegible] been elected in this city in the past had been as hardworking, painstaking, economical and fearless as Mr. R. J. Graham it would have been better for Belleville. As a politician he cut a wide swath in the past, first as a Commercial Unionist and afterwards as a Prohibitionist. If so many of his Grit Prohibition friends had not knifed him on a certain occasion Mr. Graham would surely have been elected to the Local House. Rather a political stormy petrel in those days, he was, but he has done with side issues, he now says, and will henceforth nail his colors to the mast of the good old Conservative party. If there is anything the Mayor likes to talk about, it is the possibility of securing industries for Belleville, and he is interested in quite a few of them himself. But there are other subjects besides industries in which he can talk. At political meetings, church socials, five o'clock teas or banquets the Mayor is always ready to make a few remarks, and sometimes they are not so very few, either. Summed up in a few words, he is a plain, straight-forward man of more than ordinary energy, with a good head for business and a warm heart; who is best liked by those who know him best, whose ways do not please everybody and who is not very largely troubled over that. Some few years ago he visited Paris and the Continent, and since then has spoken French with a pure Front of Sidney accent. Mr. Graham's remarks re the miserable accommodations for the Canadian exhibit at the last Paris Exposition were quoted widely throughout Canada at the time. Of a deeply religious nature, he had always, until recent years, been connected with the Methodist Church, having been Sunday School Superintendent at Bayside for many years. Since his removal to this city, however, he has been attached to John St. Presbyterian Church, of which he is a pillar. He was born on the Graham homestead, Front of Sidney, forty-three years ago, and bears his age wonderfully well. He is a Free Mason and rides a bicycle. What the make of his wheel is we don't know, but it must be a good one. At the end of the present year he will, like the famous Dick Whittington, have been Lord Mayor for three years in succession. Whoever his successor is, he will have to step [illegible] example set by the subject of our sketch, who, it can be truly said, has worked faithfully and spared neither his time nor talents to advance what he considered to be the interests of Belleville.

Itching Piles or Pin Worms

AILMENTS WHICH ARE OFTEN CONFUSED—BOTH CURED BY DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Itching in the rectum is the common symptom of these two distressing and often torturing diseases. Dr. Chase's Ointment brings almost instant relief and if used regularly effects a cure. It is the standard ointment throughout the continent, and has been endorsed by more first-class people than any preparation you can mention. Your physician will tell you that there is no more effective treatment available for itching skin diseases. 60 cents a box at all dealers. 12

It takes a long time to tell of what you have not done.

Month after Month a cold sticks, and seems to tear holes in your throat. Are you aware that even a stubborn and long-neglected cold is cured with Allen's Lung Balsam? Cough and worry no longer. 4

Gladstone and the Actor.

An English speaker related this anecdote to an audience of theatrical employees: "Mr. Gladstone, when Mr. Beerbohm Tree was introduced to him, hardly knew upon what topic to converse with him, but at length asked Mr. Tree's opinion as to the politics of the stage, whether it is, as a rule, Liberal or Conservative. 'Well, sir,' said Mr. Tree wickedly, 'I really have not studied the question, but I should think the actors are mostly Conservative.' 'Dear me,' replied Mr. Gladstone, 'I wonder whether there is any exception to that rule?' 'I should say,' replied Mr. Tree, 'the scene shifters are Radicals to a man!'"

Arsenic a Necessity.

Arsenic—that terrible poison, abhorred of all people for ages, the chief ingredient of the philters of antiquity of the middle ages, when they were designed to get rid of a troublesome enemy—arsenic is neither more nor less than a constituent element of the tissues of all living beings, vegetable or animal. Without arsenic no life is possible. This purveyor of death is one of the great supporters of life. Such is the apparant paradox affirmed by Professor Armand Gautier as the result of physiological and clinical observations.—Paris Nature.

A Monopoly.

We have the Monopoly of this Corset, because it is a patented Corset, and nobody else can make it.

Every woman knows that a "CREST" Corset cannot break at the waist, and is therefore especially adapted to every active woman, and invaluable to those with rather full figures.

Do not fail to try one. If you do you will buy no other style of Corsets.

D&A
CREST 400

WEAR "CREST" CORSETS

MADE IN THREE STYLES

REGULAR SHAPES STRAIGHT FRONT DIP HIP

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

SATURDAY NIGHT
AT 7.30 O'CLOCK.

PARASOLS
They Must Go.

And to do so we place on sale all our Fancy Parasols exactly at 1-2 of the original selling price.

ALSO

A number of pieces of fine Zephyr Ginghams that were 12½ and 15c per yd. To clear in a hurry at 7 1-2c per yd.

These two items afford early buyers an exceptionally good bargain.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson
DIRECT IMPORTERS

Daily Intelligencer.

THE INTELLIGENCER IS SOLD AT J. W. London's and G. Wardhaugh's.

Local Reading Advertisements,

...ceeds 50 cents; 2 cents per word first insertion, ...per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words; contracts for ...ng periods made at office.

Rowntree's Chocolates
Cadbury's Chocolates
"G. B." Chocolates.

These are all high-class goods, made 'neath the folds of the "Union Jack." When hot weather comes they don't fade away, i.e. They don't melt. Perfect chocolate coatings made to withstand high temperature. Cadbury's and Rowntree's mixed $1.00 a lb, and "G.B." chocolates mixed 60c a lb.

CHAS. S. CLAPP

For the Baby

Warm weather makes the feeding of the baby a serious problem. This is a trying season on little folks and everything depends upon their digestion. If the food now used does not agree perfectly find one that will. We have all the best foods and take pains to supply them fresh and in perfect condition. We carry Nestle's, Wampole's, Mellen's, Christie's, [illegible] Malted Milk, [illegible] Food, etc., etc.

Also all the latest and most hygienic nursery supplies.

McKeown's DRUG STORE

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario.
AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits, payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE, No. 46 Bridge St., Belleville.

J. P. C. PHILLIPS.
Manager Belleville Branch.

Doing good is the only certainly happy action of a man's life.

MONITOR

This is another fine Mantle Clock, not quite so expensive as Gadski in last week's advertisement, but fully as serviceable. It is an eight-day hour and half strike on cathedral gong, fancy columns with trimmings and drop handles, in every way a beautiful clock. Our price only $5.50.

T. BLACKBURN.
Eyes examined free of charge. Jeweller & Optician.

Going to Make Room!

Our Import Goods are coming too fast, that we are getting crowded for room.

We will have to make a big sacrifice in our China and Crockery department, slaughter will be the word.

Cost price or any other price will not be taken into account, come and get China and Crockery—at ridiculous prices.

McINTOSH BROS.

THE MARKET.

Cables Lower For Wheat and Corn—Futures Steady at Chicago—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

Friday Evening, July 17.

Liverpool wheat futures closed ¼ to ⅝d lower to-day than yesterday and corn futures ½d to ⅝d lower.

At Chicago Sept. wheat closed ⅛c higher than yesterday; Sept. corn unchanged and Sept. oats ⅛c higher.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London—Close: Wheat on passage nominally unchanged. Parcels No. 1 hard Manitoba, passage, 31s 1½d; maize on passage rather easier; spot American mixed 22s 3d. Flour, spot Minn., 27s.

Paris—Close: Tone quiet; July, 24f 30c; Sept. and Feb., 22f 30c; flour tone quiet, July 33f 05c.

Antwerp—Wheat: Spot steady; 2 R.W., 16½f.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

Following are the closing quotations at important wheat centres to-day:

	Cash.	July.	Sept.	Dec.
New York	....	....	82	82
Chicago	....	....	77⅛	77⅛
Toledo	77½	77½	77⅞	78⅜
Duluth, No. 1 N.	85¾	85¾	....	....

TORONTO ST. LAWRENCE MARKET.

Grain—
Wheat, red, bush	$0 76 to	$0 77
Wheat, white, bush	0 76	0 77
Wheat, spring, bush......	0 70	0 72
Wheat, goose, bush......	0 70	....
Barley, bush.	0 42½	....
Beans, bush.	1 30	1 50
Beans, hand-picked.......	1 75	....
Peas, bush.	0 78½	....
Rye, bush.	0 45	....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, July 17.—Wheat—Spot No. 1 northern spring dull, 6s 5d; No. 2 red western winter quiet, 6s 2½d; No. 1 California dull, 6s 6½d; futures quiet; July 6s 7d, Sept. 6s 3¾d, Dec. 6s 3¾d. Corn—Spot American mixed easy, 4s 5¾d; futures quiet, July 4s 5d; Sept. 4s 4⅞d. Hops at London (Pacific Coast) steady, £5 12 to £6.

Liverpool, July 17.—Hams—Short cut steady, 53s. Bacon—Cumberland cut steady, 48s. Short rib—Quiet, 53s; long clear middles, light, quiet, 50s 6d; long clear middles, heavy quiet, 50s; short clear backs quiet, 48s; shoulders, square steady, 37s 6d. Lard—American refined in pails steady, 37s. Cheese—American finest white dull, 46s 6d; do. colored quiet, 48s 6d. Tallow—Prime city quiet, 23s.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, July 17.—Butter steady, unchanged; receipts, 7544. Cheese steady to firm, unchanged; receipts 7000. Eggs quiet, unchanged; receipts 5029.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—Receipts Light and Prices Easier at Buffalo.

London, July 17.—Live cattle steady at 11c to 12c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 10c to 11½c per lb; refrigerator beef, 9 c per lb. Sheep, 10½c to 12c.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock were light, 36 car loads, composed of 404 cattle, 865 hogs, 578 sheep and lambs, with about 30 calves.

Exporters—Best loads exporters are worth $5 to $5.15 per cwt.; medium to good at about $4.75 to $4.90.

Export Bulls—Choice quality bulls sold at $4 to $4.30 per cwt.; good bulls sold at $3.60 to $3.80 per cwt.

Export Cows—Export cows sold at $4.00 per cwt.

Butchers' Cattle—Choice picked lots of butchers, weighing from 1025 to 1100 lbs. each, equal in quality to best exporters, sold at $4.75; loads of good sold at $4.50 to $4.65; fair to good, $4.35 to $4.45; common, $3.75 to $4; rough to inferior, $2.65 to $3.25.

Feeders—Steers of good quality, 800 to 900 lbs. each are worth $3.50 to $4 per cwt.

Short-keep Feeders—[illegible] are worth $4.50 to $4.60

Stockers—One-year to two-year-old steers, 400 to 700 lbs. each, are worth $3 to $3.75 per cwt.; off colors and of poor breeding quality of same weights are worth $2.75 to $3 per cwt.

Milch Cows—Milch cows and springers are worth $30 to $55 each.

Calves—Calves sold at $2 to $10 each, or from $3.50 to $5 per cwt.

Sheep—Prices, $3.65 to $3.75 per cwt. for ewes, and bucks at $2.75 to $3.

Spring Lambs—Prices steady at $2.50 to $4 each.

Hogs—Best select bacon hogs, not less than 160 lbs., nor more than 200 lbs. each, off cars, sold at $5.65 per cwt.; lights and fats at $5.40; sows, $4 to $4.25 per cwt., and stags, $2 to $3 per cwt.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, July 17.—Cattle—Receipts, 100 head, easier; prime and shipping steers, $4.80 to $5.35; butchers' steers, $4.25 to $4.85; cows and heifers, $2.50 to $4.70; bulls, $2.25 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $3.25 to $4.15. Veals—Receipts, 265 head; slow, $5 to $6.25. Hogs—Receipts, 6800 head; steady; heavy, $5.70 to $5.80; mixed, $5.75 to $5.85; Yorkers, $5.90 to $6; light Yorkers, $6.05 to $6.15; pigs, $6.25 to $6.40; roughs, $4.90 to $5.15; stags, $4 to $4.50; light dairies, $5.70 to $5.90; heavy dairies, $5.50 to $5.60. Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 1400 head; sheep steady; lambs opened 25c higher, closing 25c lower; top lambs, $5 to $7.25; yearlings, $5.25 to $5.50; wethers, $4.50 to $5; ewes, $4 to $4.50; sheep, mixed, $2 to $4.50.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, July 17.—Beeves—Receipts, 3175; market active, 10c higher; stores, $4.00 to $5.50; bulls, $3 to $4.40; cows, $1.85 to $4.10; Exports to-day, 4900 qrs. of beef. Calves—Receipts, 177; prime fresh veals a trifle firm; veals, $4 to $6.25; tops, $6.50; culls, $3.50; buttermilks, $3.50; city dressed veals, 7 to 9½c per lb. Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 4631; good sheep strong; others steady; lambs, 15 to 25c higher; sheep, $2.75 to $4.25; export ewes, $4.50; wethers, $5; lambs, $6.15 to $7.15; culls, $4.50. Hogs—Receipts, 1672; market slow; heavy and medium hogs, $6 to $6.15; light state hogs, $6.40; rough western, $5.07½.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, July 17.—Cattle—Receipts, 3000, including 1500 Texans; steady; western, good to prime steers, $5 to $5.50; poor to medium, $4 to $5; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.50; cows and heifers, $1.50 to $4.75; canners, $1.50 to $2.50; bulls, $2.25 to $4.25; calves, $3 to $6; Texas-fed steers, $3, $3.25 to $4.75.

Hogs—Receipts today, 10,000; estimated for to-morrow, 10,000; left over, 10,000; light, 5c lower; others steady; mixed butchers', $5 to $5.65; good to choice heavy, $5 to $5.65; rough, heavy, $5 to $5.40; light, $5.35 to $5.70; bulk of sales, $5.35 to $5.60.

Sheep—Receipts, 6000; sheep and lambs steady to 10c higher; good to choice wethers, $3.75 to $4.10; fair to choice mixed, $3 to $3.75; native lambs, $3 to $6.55.

CHEESE MARKETS.

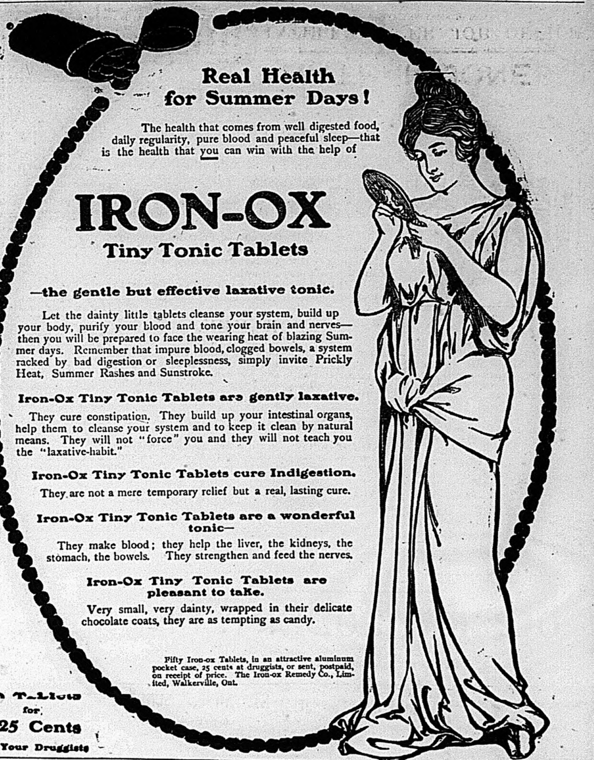
Iroquois, Ont., July 17.—There were 1117 cheese boarded here to-day, mostly colored. Buyers present, Agt, Weir, Pruner, Smyth and Johnson. Bidding commenced at 9⅛c and went to 9 13-16c. Johnson got several lots at 9⅝c, and Weir about 300 at the long price. Bidding was lively indeed.

Perth, July 17.—On the Cheese Market here to-day there were 2505 boxes of white cheese and 500 boxes of colored; all sold for 9⅝c for white and 9⅝c for colored. Fowler got 2000 boxes, Bissell 400, Webster 350, How 105 and Ferguson 10 boxes.

Ottawa, July 17.—There were 1588 boxes on the Ottawa Cheese Board to-day, 1186 white and 402 colored; all sold but one factory, at 9½c for white, and 9⅝c for colored. Four leading Montreal exporters, Ayer & Co., Alexander, Hodgson and Macpherson, were not represented, owing, it is said, to the clamor for Ottawa inspection.

Napanee, July 17.—There were 1300 white and 800 colored cheese boarded; all sold at 9 9-16c.

Kemptville, Ont., July 17.—Offering of 270 white and 1041 colored: total 1311; sales on board at 9⅝c for white and 9⅝c for colored.



Real Health for Summer Days!

The health that comes from well digested food, daily regularity, pure blood and peaceful sleep—that is the health that you can win with the help of

IRON-OX
Tiny Tonic Tablets

—the gentle but effective laxative tonic.

Let the dainty little tablets cleanse your system, build up your body, purify your blood and tone your brain and nerves—then you will be prepared to face the wearing heat of blazing Summer days. Remember that impure blood, clogged bowels, a system racked by bad digestion or sleeplessness, simply invite Prickly Heat, Summer Rashes and Sunstroke.

Iron-Ox Tiny Tonic Tablets are gently laxative.

They cure constipation. They build up your intestinal organs, help them to cleanse your system and to keep it clean by natural means. They will not "force" you and they will not teach you the "laxative-habit."

Iron-Ox Tiny Tonic Tablets cure Indigestion.

They are not a mere temporary relief but a real, lasting cure.

Iron-Ox Tiny Tonic Tablets are a wonderful tonic—

They make blood; they help the liver, the kidneys, the stomach, the bowels. They strengthen and feed the nerves.

Iron-Ox Tiny Tonic Tablets are pleasant to take.

Very small, very dainty, wrapped in their delicate chocolate coats, they are as tempting as candy.

Fifty Iron-ox Tablets, in an attractive aluminum pocket case, 25 cents at druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price. The Iron-ox Remedy Co., Limited, Walkerville, Ont.

50 Tablets
for
25 Cents
At Your Druggists

CALL OPTIONS.

The following are the quotations on call options for one, two and three months from London, Eng.:—

	To mid Aug.	To mid Sept.	To mid Oct.
Canadian Pacific	2⅝	3½	4
Hudson's Bay...........	5	7½	8½
Atchison	2½	3	3½
St. Paul..................	4	5	6
Erie, common.............	1¾	2	2½
Louisville & Nash........	2½	3¾	5
Missouri, K. & T.	1	1½	1¾
Norfolk & Western	1¾	2¼	2½
Ontario & Western	1¼	1½	1⅝
Reading, $50 shares........	1⅛	1¼	1⅝
Southern Common	1½	2	2¼
Southern Pacific	3	4	5
U. S. Steel, ordinary	1¼	1⅝	2¼
Union Pacific	2½	3	3½
Wabash, preferred	1½	1⅞	2¼
Baltimore	3	4	5
Denver, common............	1¾	2¼	2½
Southern pref.	2¼	2¾	3¼
U. S. Steel, preferred	1¼	2¼	2½
Grand Trunk ordinary	½	¾	1
Grand Trunk firsts	2½	3½	4½
Grand Trunk seconds	2	2½	3
Grand Trunk thirds	1¼	1⅞	2½

We are prepared to deal in options at the above prices. All transactions in options are for cash, expire at 12 noon on contango day of the account in which the call is due. Free booklet on application.

PARKER & CO., 61 Victoria St., Toronto.

Successful Traders, Keep well informed. To do so, read our 400 page "Guide to Investors" and "Daily Market Letter." Issued Gratis—Mailed free.

HAIGHT & FREESE CO.

Stocks, Bonds, Grain, Cotton.
7 Melinda St., Toronto, Ont.

"Determining the character and financial responsibility of your Broker, is as important as selection of right stocks."

The Whole Story in a letter:

Pain-Killer
(PERRY DAVIS'.)

From Capt. F. Loye, Police Station No. 5, Montreal:—"We frequently use PERRY DAVIS' PAIN-KILLER for pains in the stomach, rheumatism, stiffness, frost bites, chilblains, cramps, and all afflictions which befall men in our position. I have no hesitation in saying that PAIN-KILLER is the best remedy to have near at hand."

Used Internally and Externally.
Two Sizes, 25c. and 50c. bottles.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 40? Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

Ten Persons Killed.

Binghamton, N.Y., July 18.—It is reported here that a fireman and nine passengers have been killed in a wreck at Tunnel, on the Delaware and Hudson Railroad, ten miles northeast of this city.

Evanturel Ill Again.

Ottawa, July 18.—Hon. Alfred Evanturel, ex-Speaker of the Ontario Legislature, is reported to be ill again and not regaining his strength.

Youth Had Too Many Wives.

Hamilton, July 18.—Yesterday afternoon the police arrested Herman Winger, a young man 26 years of age, for having more wives than the law allows. His two wives put their two heads together and set the police after him. Wife No. 1 has three little children, the youngest of which is only nine months old. Wife No 2 is Hattie Stewart, who makes her home with Mrs. Buckingham, near the corner of James and Stuart streets. She has a certificate showing that she was married to Winger on June 20 at Niagara Falls, N.Y. After a brief honeymoon the couple returned to this city, where Winger has been dividing his attentions between them, sometimes living with one and then the other.

Against King Charles.

Berlin, July 18.—A despatch to The Cologne Gazette from Lisbon says that a number of officers of the 5th Portuguese Infantry have been arrested on the charge of conspiring against King Charles. They will be tried by court-martial. The instigators are officers who were cashiered some time ago. Other regiments are said to be affected.

More Scotch Mechanics Arrive.

Quebec, July 18.—The SS. Lake Erie, of the C.P.R. Line, from Liverpool, arrived in port at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. On board was a party of about 170 Scotch mechanics. These men are brought out by the Canadian Electric Company, to work at their extensive plant in Toronto.

Back Was Broken.

Halifax, N. S., July 18.—S. Eddons, a brakeman at the steel works, Sydney, was struck by a locomotive and received probable fatal injuries. His back was broken and one arm was severed.

An Ugly Branch.

"Wordley tells me he has been working on his family tree of late."

"Yes, it keeps him pretty busy."

"Rather complicated work, eh?"

"Well, I believe he found a noose on one of the branches, and he's having some trouble sawing it off."

Cholera Infantum

There is no danger whatever from this disease when taken in time and properly treated. All that is necessary is to give

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

after each operation of the bowels more than natural and then castor oil to cleanse the system. It is safe and sure. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

The Rush Still On!
Goods Going Very Fast.

NATHAN JONES.

Our clearing Sale is rapidly reducing our stock, the prices we sell for being very low.

Colored Muslins

We now offer all our 10c to 15c Muslins for 7c yd. All our 20c to 30c Muslins for 12½c yd. This will clear them quickly.

Ladies' Whitewear

All our stock of Ladies' Whitewear at 33⅓ off, till all is sold.

Our Dress Goods and Parasols at 20% discount.

NATHAN JONES.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 37. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, JULY 20, 1903 NO. 66

60 PASSENGERS DROWNED

Steamer Peter Plying on the River Volga, Russia, Burned.

Arthur Runnings, Aged 18, Drowned in the Sydenham River, While Trying to Swim to an Island—The Monterey Is a Total Wreck—Captain Delaney of the Steamer Reliance Drowned After It Had Collided With a Schooner.

London, July 20.—According to a special despatch from St. Petersburg the steamer Peter, plying on the River Volga, has been burned and sixty of those on board were drowned.

Drowned at Owen Sound.

Owen Sound, July 20.—Arthur Runnings, aged 18, was drowned Saturday morning while bathing in Sydenham River. He overestimated his strength in trying to swim over to an island in the upper part of the river, and sank within ten feet of the shore. The body was not recovered for two hours. The drowned youth is a son of William Runnings, a rafter.

Steamer Sinks Schooner.

Kingston, N. Y., July 20. — The steamer Hudson, formerly the James W. Baldwin of the Central Hudson Line, ran into and sank the schooner Reliance, loaded with brick, near Esopus lighthouse early Saturday. Calvin Delaney of Nyack, N.Y., captain of the Reliance, was drowned, his crew being unable to reach him on account of the steamer City of Troy happening along and backing water.

J. G. Cavers Drowned at London.

London, Ont., July 20.—John G. Cavers, a lead glazier, boarding at No. 419 Ridout street, was drowned in the north branch of the Thames River while bathing yesterday morning. Cavers and a friend named Lewis went in together, and had only been in the water a few minutes when Cavers, who was unable to swim, jumped from shallow into deep water. He was unaware of the existence of the hole. His parents live in Dutton.

Another Canoe Drowning.

Winnipeg, July 20.—W. R. Hall, a young Winnipeger, aged 29, was drowned in Red River last night by the upsetting of his canoe.

Jumped Into the River.

Elmira, N.Y., July 20.—Mrs. Adeline Cheney, who was visiting her sisters, the Misses Hull, in Oswega, arose early yesterday morning and made her way to the Susquehanna River, where she jumped into the water and was drowned. Mrs. Cheney was 65 years old, and had been suffering from nervousness.

A Total Wreck.

Montreal, July 20.—The Monterey will be, it is now anticipated, a total wreck. The ill-fated steamer is full of water fore and aft, which rises and sinks with the tide. All holds and tanks are broken.

Pacific Steamer Founders.

Victoria, B.C., July 20.—The steamer North Pacific foundered off Marrowstone Point yesterday morning. All passengers were landed safely at Port Townsend.

Three-Master Wrecked.

Monroe, Mich., July 20.—News was telephoned in from Pointe Aux Paux yesterday that a three-masted vessel is wrecked and is flying distress signals. The tug Roma has just left in an angry sea to render assistance. Another vessel lying about two miles south of Stony Point, is also flying signals of distress.

AERONAUT'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Parachute Failed to Work Until He Was Near the Ground.

Montreal, July 20.—M. B. Trussle, a young aeronaut, who is giving exhibitions here in company with Prof. Walcott, had a narrow escape from death Saturday. The aeronauts had ascended at Riverside Park, and when up about 4,000 feet, Trussle attempted to descend with his parachute, which, however, failed to work at first. As it was, he was dashed to the ground, and had his collar-bone broken. He is now at the hospital in this city.

Fell to His Death.

London, July 20.—Geo. McGuffin, a prominent farmer living on Lot 6, Eighth Concession of London Township, was accidentally killed Saturday afternoon while drawing hay from one of his fields. He was working on one of the wagons when he was in some way jolted out and fell a distance of ten feet, striking on the back of his head and breaking one of the large arteries. He died almost instantly.

Tried to Remove Cartridges.

Halifax, N. S., July 20.—Norman Lucas, aged 16 years, was accidentally shot dead at his parent's home, at Lucasville, Saturday night. He was attempting to remove some cartridges from the barrel of a revolver with a pen-knife, when the weapon was discharged and the ball passed through his brain. He lived two hours after the accident.

Instantly Killed.

Guelph, July 20.—Saturday morning while the Bell Organ and Piano Company's annual excursion by train to Orillia was running between here and Rockwood, Meldrum Clark, a son of David Clark, the night watchman at the factory, fell off the train and was instantly killed. His neck was broken.

First an Arm, Then His Life.

London, July 20.—Arthur Brock, a Grand Trunk yardsman, was run over and killed by the International Limited last night. Brock was struck by the same train exactly a year ago and then lost an arm.

Died From Exposure.

Ottawa, July 20.—Adlard Franche, 32 years of age, was found dead in a vacant lot on Sussex street yesterday afternoon. He had a weak heart, and death is likely to have been accelerated from exposure. He was a witless unfortunate.

Powder Magazine Exploded.

Roanoke, Va., July 20.—By the explosion of a large quantity of dynamite and blasting powder stored in a magazine near Peisburg yesterday, two men were killed, sixteen were more or less injured, and about 100 others severely shocked.

Four Killed on Track.

Cincinnati, O., July 20.— Four young men were killed yesterday near Avondale while walking on the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railway. In avoiding an out-going excursion train they stepped in front of an incoming passenger train.

Premier Roblin Sure of Winning.

Winnipeg, July 20.—There is no change in the political situation here. Interest in the city is at a low ebb, the general expectation being that Roblin will carry 25 out of 40 seats.

Sir Louis Sworn In.

Quebec, July 20.—Sir Louis A. Jette was on Saturday sworn in as Lieutenant-Governor for a second term. Sir Louis Casault administered the oath.

Eighty-Eight Rioters Indicted.

Evansville, Ind., July 20.—Eighty-eight persons, charged with taking part in the recent riot here, have been indicted by the grand jury.

SINCLAIR'S AD SINCLAIR'S AD.

Summer Sale Prices

If you are at all interested in Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Goods, our sale prices for this week should have a special attraction for you. Here are some of them.

34 Ladies' Cloth Skirts from $2.50 to $4.50, all this season's styles, will sell for .... $1.65 ea

15 Ladies' Silk Waists will sell at ⅓ off regular prices.

20 Ladies' Cotton Dresses will sell at Half Price.

Your choice of all our Colored Shirt Waists, both Linen and Cotton, at 25 per cent. off.

All $1.25 and $1.35 Print Wrappers, will sell for $1.00

1 only Ladies' $22.50 Black Taffeta Coat, will sell for $15.00

NEW STYLES IN WHITE WAISTS.

These are some of the very newest creations in Ladies' White Waists, to sell from $1.25 to $3.50 each.

SUMMER WASH GOODS

Cut to fit and properly made in Black and Navy Spots and Stripes, nicely trimmed, at $1.35, $1.50, $1.65, and $1.75 each. We also show White Pique and Linen Skirts, from $1.00 to $2.50 each.

Ladies' and Children's Vests.

We are now clearing the balance of our Summer Vests and offer some wonderful values from 5c and 25c each.

If YOU WANT WASH GOODS don't miss our 10c and 15c tables.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO.

END BELIEVED TO BE NEAR

"My Hour Has Come, Farewell," Said the Pope to Centra.

Pontiff Sinks Into a Condition of Coma, and the Cardinals Are Waiting For the Final Summons—Sunday a Most Trying Day Because of Great Heat—His Holiness Gave Pontifical Blessing and Sank Into Unconsciousness.

Rome, July 20.—(3.30 a.m.)—Now that the supreme last moment in the memorable life and reign of Pope Leo is expected almost hourly, the contrast between the quiet within and the excitement without the Vatican is most striking. In the vast place there is a hushed calm of expectation, the only apparent wakeful people being the Swiss guards. The doctors and attendants of the dying Pontiff speak in whispers and move noiselessly about, so that from the sick room no sound comes except the heavy breathing of the unconcious Pope or his occasional cries for Centra and Dr. Lapponi. His tone is one of fear, as though he felt himself abandoned. In reality, sleep is very far from his eyes. No matter at what hour death comes, the whole palace will spring into sudden life, as though touched by a magician's wand. In the piazza of St. Peter's, on the contrary, all is movement, there being a regular encampment of journalists before the famous bronze doors, which are now closed in their faces, and behind which the regular tramp of the Pope's chamber, overlooking the piazza, while the nearby cafes, especially those with telephones, are crowded. Bicycles ready for use are piled up outside them, and cabs are lingering about in the hope of catching a fare.

The Osservatore Romona, the chief Vatican organ, has received orders to hold itself in readiness to issue almost at a moment's notice a special edition. The only thing wanting to complete the paper is the hour of Pope Leo's death.

Just Before Midnight.

Shortly before midnight, Dr. Lapponi said: "The Pope at the present moment is in a state of coma, which may be called a condition preceding the last agony, the duration of which it is impossible to forecast, although everything leads to the belief that this condition cannot last. To be more exact, he is still in a state of torpor and stupor from which, however, he rouses occasionally when he hears sharp sounds, as, for instance, the insistent voice of one of his familiars calling loudly to him. Left alone he relapses immediately into a condition of torpor. At intervals he murmurs in his sleep, continuing to have foreboding that he is being abandoned by his valet, Centra, and myself. These are the symptoms of incipient cerebial anaemia and general exhaustion. He can no longer turn in his bed without assistance, and is being kept alive by artificial stimulants. During the twenty-three hours he has had two injections of camphorated oil, three of caffeine and two hypodermics of salt water, besides drinking stimulants."

Preparing For the End.

Both the Italian Government and the authorities of the Vatican have made final preparations for the Pope's death. The Government is rigidly censoring all telegrams and telephonic communications between Italy and the rest of the continent. At midnight but few people remain at the Vatican. Dr. Mazzoni and Dr. Rossoni and the cardinals have gone to their homes to await the last urgent summons.

Yesterday each hour added to the gravity of the reports from the sick room of the Pontiff until all Rome waited almost breathlessly in expectation of the announcement of his death. For the first time also the weather was strongly against him. A blistering heat fell upon the city and the great piazza of St. Peter's took up the fierce sun and threw it back against the Vatican until it was like a fiery furnace.

Gave Pontifical Blessing.

The condition of coma was interrupted shortly after sunset. He lifted his head. Cardinal Vives y Tuto took advantage of the opportunity to approach the bed and tell the Pontiff that some cardinals were in the ante-chamber.

"I, myself," said he, desire to have your benediction."

The Pope with a great effort raised a trembling hand and in an almost inaudible voice between long pauses gave the cardinal the Pontifical blessing. The effort, however, appeared to have been too much for him and he fell back into a condition of unconsciousness.

THE BULLETINS.

July 19.—9.30 a.m.—"The night was sleepless, with little tranquility. The Pope's strength continues to be [illegible]ed. His respiration is calm, [illegible]perficial at 34; pulse regular [illegible], but weak, at 98; temperature 36.5 centigrado. (Signed) Lapponi, Mazzoni."

6.40 p. m.—The following bulletin has just been issued: "The Holy Fat[illegible] spent the day in an almost continuous state of coma; strength more depressed; respiration 30; pulse, 86; temperature, 36.4. (Signed), Lapponi, Mazzoni, Rossoni."

9.45 p. m.—The Pope continued in a state of coma and his general condition has not changed. attack of delirium. The end appears inevitable. Cardinal Vannutelli, Grand Penitentiary, whose duty it is to say prayers for the dying, entered the sick chamber at 9 o'clock this evening. This is believed to indicate that the Pope is in extremis.

July 20, 1.55 a. m.—The condition of the Pope is unchanged and coma continues. It is believed a catastrophe will not occur during the night. A contributing element to the weakness of the Pope has been his inability to take nourishment. When an attempt is made to administer restoratives, although they are placed in his mouth, he does not swallow them. The Vatican has asked prayers for the Pope.

2.45 a. m.—A suspicion has arisen that the change in the Pope's condition is due to blood poisoning, as a result of derangement of the kidneys.

4.05 a. m.—When the Pope is called by his attendants he makes a great effort to arouse himself from the torpor into which he has sunk, but he is soon again overcome.

4.55 a. m.—At this hour it is announced that the condition of the Pope is apparently stationary.

Says His Hour Has Come.

Paris, July 20.—According to a Paris news agency despatch from Rome, Pio Centra, the Pope's valet, is greatly distressed because he is unable to assist his dying master, who does not recognize any one.

Centra left the sick room several times exclaiming: "It is finished; I can do no more."

The Pope during a lucid interval said to him as he was leaving: "My hour has come. Farewell," and "Thanks, my son."

BASEBALL SATURDAY.

The Eastern League.

At Worcester— R.H.E.
Rochester ....010000030—4 8 1
Worcester ....100001010—3 6 1
Batteries—Leary and Fuller; O'Connor and McCauley. Umpire—Brown.

At Worcester (second game)— R.H.E.
Worcester ....120230040—10 9 1
Rochester ....030000000—3 11 5
Batteries—Wheeler and Fuller; Winham and Killackey. Umpire—Brown.

Baltimore ....000010220—5 12 1
Providence ....000000200—2 9 2
Batteries—Atkins and Robinson; Yerkes and Diggins. Umpire—Kelly.

Buffalo at Jersey City—Postponed on account of rain.

Toronto at Newark—Postponed on account of rain.

National League Scores.

At Cincinnati, first game— R.H.E.
Philadelphia. 000300011—5 9 4
Cincinnati ... 220000000—4 11 4
Batteries—Sparks and Roth; Ewing and Bergen. Umpire—Johnstone.

At Chicago, first game— R.H.E.
Boston . 01000100000000—2 8 2
Chicago. 00020000000001—3 8 1
Batteries—Pittinger and Dexter; Menefee and Kling. Umpire—Moran.

At Pittsburg— R.H.E.
New York ... 010000100—2 8 0
Pittsburg ... 100000011—3 9 2
Batteries—Miller, Weaver and Warner; Phillippi and Smith. Umpire—Emslie.

At St. Louis— R.H.E.
Brooklyn .... 001104011—8 14 4
St. Louis ... 010000102—4 9 1
Batteries—Garvin and Ritter; Rhoades and O'Neill. Umpire—O'Day.

At Cincinnati, second game— R.H.E.
Philadelphia .. 100002000—3 10 1
Cincinnati .... 006000000—6 10 2
Batteries—Mitchell and Dooin; Harper and Bergen. Umpire—Johnstone.

At Chicago, second game— R.H.E.
Boston .... 3200000—5 6 4
Chicago .... 0030000—4 8 3
Batteries—Malarkey and Dexter; Wicker, Lundgren and Kling. Umpire—Moran. Game called middle of eighth by agreement.

American League Results.

Cleveland at New York—Postponed on account of rain.

At Washington (first game)— R.H.E.
Chicago ....0002000000000—2 7 2
Washington.0000101000001—3 5 1
Batteries—Patterson and McFarland; Patten and Kittridge. Umpire—O'Loughlin.

At Boston— R.H.E.
Detroit ....002010000—3 8 2
Boston ....000030200—5 6 2
Batteries—Mullen and McGuire; Young and Criger. Umpire—Connolly.

St. Louis at Philadelphia—Postponed on account of rain.

At Washington (second game)— R.H.E.
Chicago .....100000100—1 5 1
Washington .....000200000—3 9 2
Batteries—Flaherty and Slattery; Lee and Drill. Umpire—O'Loughlin.

Baseball Games on Sunday.

Newark .... 20000003x—5
Toronto .... 000000040—4
Left on bases—Newark 5, Toronto 5. First base on balls—Off Hesterfer 4, off Wolfe 2. Struck out—By Hesterfer 2, by Wolfe 1. Two base hits—Bannon, Burke, White. Sacrifice hit—Devlin. Stolen bases—Devlin. Double plays—Taylor, Wagner O'Hagan; Downey, Miller, Massey; Miller and Massey. Hit by pitcher—By Hesterfer 1. Time—1.40.

—Second Game—

Newark .... 01053030x—12
Toronto .... 000001000—1
First base on errors—Newark 2, Toronto 3. Left on bases—Newark 9, Toronto 1. Struck out—By Hesterfer 6, by Hardy 2. Three base hits—Bannon 2, O'Hagan, Devl'n. Two base hits—Wagner, Lawlor 2, Taylor, Shea. Sacrifice hits—Wagner, Miller. Stolen bases—O'Hagan. Hit by pitched ball—By Hardy 1. Time—1.50. Attendance—11,000. Umpire—Latham.

At St. Louis, American— R.H.E.
St. Louis .. 000200201—5 6 2
Brooklyn .. 100002000—4 8 4
Batteries—M. O'Neil and J. O'Neil; Jones and Ritter. Umpire—O'Day. Attendance—9174.

At Chicago, National— R.H.E.
Chicago ...... 20204000x—8 11 2
Pittsburg ...... 000000110—3 9 1
Batteries—Taylor and Kling; Doheny and Weaver. Umpire—Moran. Attendance—11,500.

At Cincinnati, 1st game National—R.H.E.
Cincinnati .... 11320101x—9 14 4
Philadelphia .. 000301001—5 6 3
Batteries—Poole and Bergen; Duggleby, Roth and Dooin.

Second game— R.H.E.
Cincinnati .... 101050x—7 11 6
Philadelphia .... 1010101—4 10 1
Batteries—Suthoff and Bergen; Fraser and Dooin. Umpire—Johnstone. Attendance—15,000.

At Providence—Wiltse pitched a strong game, striking out nine men. The locals played sharply. Connors' fielding was a feature. Inability to bat Wiltse was responsible for the shut-out. Score: R.H.E.
Baltimore ..... 00010100x—2 5 0
Providence .. 000000000—0 7 2
Batteries—Wiltse and Ahearn; A. Jones and Diggins. Umpire—Kelly. Attendance—1400.

The New York Americans played an exhibition game with the Hoboken professional team at St. George's cricket

KING'S VISIT TO IRELAND

All Eyes Are Being Turned Towards the Emerald Isle.

King Edward and Queen Alexandra Go Thither in State—What Is Hoped For in Political Circles—Irish Seas Never Seemed Less Estranging Than Now—Every Indication That His Majesty Will Be Enthusiastically Received.

London, July 20.—Ireland, whither the King and Queen will go in state to-day, will draw all eyes to herself for the next fortnight. Not for a century has the outlook seemed more pleasing to English eyes. To them a new Ireland appears; an Ireland in which landlord and tenant, Nationalist and Ulsterman, are at peace; an Ireland eager to place King Edward in the void left by the extinction of the old chiefs; an Ireland, in fact, of a new era of social contentment and political loyalty.

The King will probably pardon Col. Lynch and other political prisoners as a special act of force.

Preparation Completed.

The preparations for the approaching visit of King Edward to Ireland are completed, and there is every indication that an enthusiastic reception will be accorded to His Majesty through his tour. In official circles the hope is entertained that good political and social results will follow the royal visit.

The Irish cities generally have agreed to present addresses of welcome to the King. The Conservative press of the United Kingdom declares that the action of the Dublin Corporation in refusing to present an address to His Majesty in nowise represents the general sentiment of the city, where the decorations are unusually elaborate and the preparations extensive, while "Rebel Cork" has not only agreed upon an address, but, like most of the cities included in the itinerary, is preparing a welcome for the sovereign on a generous scale.

The Departure.

The King and Queen will leave Buckingham Palace at 12.40 o'clock the afternoon and preparations have been made in London to give Their Majesties an enthusiastic godspeed. The royal special train will leave Euston Station at 1 p.m., and no stops will be made until the Holyhead Pier is reached, at 6 o'clock, the run averaging 52 miles an hour.

The Victoria and Albert, according to the present arrangements, will proceed to the west coast of Ireland, and the King and his party will reembark at Berehaven and sail for Queenstown.

The most extraordinary precautions have been taken to protect King Edward through his visit, in view of the attitude of the factions opposing the recognition of the King as the ruler of Ireland, the Nationalist leaders having, since the royal visit was first proposed, stated that the Irish people would not be content to welcome His Majesty to Ireland as King until home rule should have been granted.

Offered to Mr. Aylesworth.

Ottawa, July 20.—The vacancy on the Supreme Court bench created by the death of the late Mr. Justice Armour has been offered to Mr. A. B. Aylesworth. The position carries with it representation on the Alaska Tribunal. It is not known whether Mr. Aylesworth will accept the Judgeship, he having declined the offer on previous occasions. The impression prevails, however, that he would not be indisposed to act for Canada on the Alaska Tribunal. Rumor also connects Mr. Aylesworth's name with a position on the Railway Commission.

Calgary Lockout Over.

Calgary, N.W.T., July 20. — The long-standing lock-out of the Calgary carpenters has been brought to an end. By the terms of the new agreement the contractors can employ whom they like. The contractors refuse to recognize the union, and all men must sign the new agreement as individuals. The terms are that a day's work will constitute nine hours, and the minimum wage shall be $2.50. The losses on account of the dispute were between $75,000 and $100,000 to the contractors in contract work, and over $7,500 in wages to the workmen.

Spain's New Cabinet.

Madrid, July 30.—The King has approved the new Cabinet which has been constituted by Marquis Villaverde, as follows: Premier, Marquis Villaverde; Foreign Minister, Count San Pernardo; Minister of Justice, Senor Buganal; Minister of Finance, Senor Besada; Minister of War, General Martitgui; Minister of Navy, Senor Estram; Minister of the Interior, Senor Garcia Alix; Minister of Public Instruction, Senor Osma; Minister of Agriculture, Senor Gassot.

Artist Whistler's Death.

London, July 20.—It is ascertained that the late James McN. Whistler, the eminent American artist, died under peculiarly distressing circumstances. He had been ill for a year, but his condition had improved to such an extent that he ordered a cab to go for a drive. As he was about to leave his home in Chelsea, he was seized with a fit. He recovered temporarily, but was the victim

NOTHING GOES RIGHT.

Nothing goes right while the stomach and bowels are wrong. Angier's Petroleum Emulsion is the ideal remedy for all forms of stomach and bowel disorders. It aids digestion, improves nutrition, creates rich, red blood, firm flesh, and makes life well worth living. Pleasant to take.

SKEDDEN A WONDER.

Makes Seven Bullseyes in the Stock Exchange Match.

Bisley Camp, July 20.—Shooting began Saturday in a perfect downpour of rain, but at 11 o'clock the weather cleared, and an almost tropical heat set in.

In the Stock Exchange match at 200, 500 and 600 yards, Staff-Sergt. Skedden of the 13th Regiment, scored a possible at the 200 range and won the match with a total of 95 out of a possible 105.

The other scores at the 200 yard range were: King, 33; Bayles, 33; Russell, 32; Elliott, 31; Stuart, 30; Hayhurst, 30; Drysdale, 27; Spearing, 26.

Over a dozen possibles were made in this match. There were 40 odd 34's and 55 83's.

In The Daily Graphic match Vroom was the first to finish, with a score of 29 at 200 yards. The men who shot early scored low on account of the bad weather conditions. The Canadians scored as follows: McNaughton, 33; Simpson, 33; White, 32; Smith, 31; Crowe, 31; Annand, 30; Macgregor, 30; Peddie, 29; Vroom, 29.

Watch and Money Gone.

Hamilton, July 20.—A most daring burglary was pulled off at 3.30 yesterday morning at 33 South Pearl street, the residence of Charles Whitmore, the proprietor of the Dominion Hotel barber shop. He and his wife were awakened by some one stumbling on the stairs. He got up in time to see a pair of coat-tails disappearing through the window. When he went back to his room he found that a valuable gold watch and $12 in money were missing. They had been in his trousers, which hung on the bottom of the bed.

Murder Is Suspected.

Ottawa, July 20.—A post-mortem examination was held Saturday afternoon on Herbert Jackson, a colored attache of the Pan-American circus, who was found dead early Saturday morning on top of one of the circus train cars at the Union Station. His skull was found to be crushed in. Whether that was caused by a blow from some one or received by a blow from an overhead bridge is to be determined by the police. Murder is suspected.

Woman Struck at Toronto.

Toronto, July 20.—A severe rainstorm, accompanied by hail, swept over the city Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Elizabeth Dickson, living on George street was stunned by a bolt of lightning, which passed through her house, a barn was struck at Toronto Junction and a few trees were destroyed. These were the visible evidences of the storm.

Two Murderers Lynched.

Butte, Montana, July 20.—A special from Basin, Wyo., says that a mob stormed the county jail at that place Saturday night, and took from their cells Gorman and Walters, two condemned murderers, and lynched them. Their bodies were riddled with bullets. One county officer was killed during the attack upon the jail.

Old Woman Missing.

Gore Bay, July 20.—Great anxiety is felt in Burpee over the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. George Martin, over 90 years of age, who made her home with her son, John Martin, near Ellens Bay, but who has not been seen or heard of since Friday noon last. The old lady was of a slightly unsound mind.

Inquest on an Unknown.

Port Stanley, July 20.—The inquest into the death of the woman found on the beach has been adjourned till Tuesday next. In the meantime, a post-mortem has been perfomed by Dr. Curtis of St. Thomas, the results of which will be made known when the jury assembles again on Tuesday.

Tumut For Australia's Capital.

Melbourne, Australia, July 20. — The committee which was appointed to consider the choice of a federal capital for the Australian Commonwealth has made a report recommending the selection of Tumut, a small town in New South Wales.

Enticing Girls From Canada.

Syracuse, N. Y., July 20.—A deputy United States marshal Saturday arrested Carrie Leighton of this city, charged with enticing girls from Canada for immoral purposes. This is the first arrest in the Federal district under the statute of 1903.

Bridges Swept Away.

Gore Bay, July 20.—A heavy electric storm passed over here yesterday afternoon, followed by a cloudburst, which swept away all the bridges in the south part of the town. Heavy hail accompanied the storm. McAush's barn in Gordon was burned to the ground.

Rabies Among Cattle.

Middletown, N.Y., July 20.—A serious outbreak of rabies gas occurred among cattle at Montgomery, in

Daily Intelligencer.

AS TO IMPERIAL UNITY.

Commenting on Mr. Joseph Chamberlain's tariff policy, the Ottawa Citizen says:

"Every loyal Canadian knows what reciprocity or commercial union with the United States means,—it means that sooner or later the commercial interests of the two countries will become so intimate and inextricably intermixed that there will be no solution but political union. Reciprocity with Great Britain, on the other hand, will have a similar influence and knit the mother country, Canada, and the rest of the colonies with ties that bind. If Great Britain declines to go in for reciprocity with the colonies, this country can scarcely be blamed for turning to the United States. If Canada ever turns to the United States commercially it will be the beginning for the end of Britain's colonial empire. That is what Chamberlain means when he talks about the British people writing the epitaph of the nation if they decline to go in for closer relations with the colonial portion of the empire."

True, that, every word of it, but does it not point a moral for Canada as well as Great Britain? Yea, verily! As witness the fact that the Quebec organ of the Laurier Government has given as the reason why Laurier persists in thwarting the policy that Mr. Chamberlain is advocating, that such a policy would "tie us up with the Empire." Leaving aside the veiled disloyalty in such an insinuation, it may be asked if the Liberals realized it when they, some years ago, were advocating the same kind of tariff policy between Canada and the United States. The Conservatives opposed the Liberal policy and prevented annexation, and, by the same rule of reasoning, the Canadian who supports Laurier in his policy of preventing the consummation of Chamberlain's policy may be justly taken as an enemy of Imperial unity. He may not think so, but he must be judged by the company he keeps.

TIMELY TOPICS

A prominent member of the Council is quoted as expressing the opinion that, when the Judge's Court of Revision is over, the city's assessment will have been reduced to such an extent that one will need a magnifying glass to see any increase over last year. "Yes, sir," as the Stony Lonesome philosopher would say, "it was a base assessment, sure!"

• • •

On many of the back streets people are straining their eyes, looking for men to come and lay those gravelithic sidewalks which were promised early in the year. Any kind of walks would be preferable to the man traps which at present lie in wait for the unwary.

• • •

How about those great big bunches of noxious weeds which are at present growing on vacant lands in this city? The law requires that they should be destroyed. In many cases the owners of the lands live out of the city? Would it not be well for the corporation to cut the weeds and charge it on the taxes, like the snow shovelling is done in winter? One piece of vacant property, not far from the footbridge, contains enough noxious weeds to seed a large part of the County of Hastings.

Lovely and cool in church yesterday, wasn't it? No excuse for anybody to sidestep his religious duties on a day like that.

• • •

If the City Council wants another opinion about the rails on Front street they might get it from a man who had every spoke smashed in one of his wagon wheels the other day through contact with them.

• • •

Up to the hour of going to press, so far as we can learn, nothing has been received from Mr. Kirkwood re the council's notification to him that unless he at once operated the rolling mills, the $30,000 bonus would be withdrawn. The time limit for his answer expired to-day. Judging by the motion passed at the last meeting of the Council, it would appear that nothing now remains but to withdraw the $30,000 in the Bank of Montreal and apply it to the retiring of rolling mills debentures. The general opinion seems to be that this should be done at once. The mills are assessed for $65,000, and, so far as public opinion in this city is concerned, the taxes should be collected. Mr. Kirkwood has been fairly treated by Belleville, and it is time that all dilly-dallying in the matter should stop.

• • •

A prominent young merchant of this city thinks that Belleville is suffering somewhat as a result of the last census, which, he feels sure, put our population at altogether too low a figure. Other places have taken steps to take a census on their own account, and in every instance it has been found that the Government figures were largely added to. Then again, many families have moved into the city since the census was taken, not to mention the many fathers and mothers who have been made happy by opportunities for christenings. Taking the above facts into consideration, our friend suggests that it would be an excellent thing if steps were taken to take a correct census of this city, which could be done with ease and despatch if one individual in each block would volunteer to collect the data and report to a small committee organized for the purpose. The idea has much to recommend it, and might well be considered by our citizens.

• • •

The idea of a petition to the Government to stop net fishing in the Bay of Quinte is viewed with great favor by everybody with whom we have talked. The following letter, which contains some excellent suggestions, shows that the idea is fully as popular in other places as it is in Belleville:

Trenton, Ont., July 18, 1903.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—I notice in your issue of to-day a petition is being circulated re net fishing in the bay. If one is sent here for signatures I will look after it, and everybody would sign it. It's what we want. In my opinion they should be sent to all points from Picton up, and it would be signed by thousands. If net fishing was stopped the bay would soon be what it was years ago, the finest fishing waters for sportsmen in Ontario. Hoping the effort may prove successful,

I remain yours,
An Old Fisherman,
J. R. CHRISTIE,
P.M.

Things are not evenly divided in this world. If it were not that the waterworks the market fountain would not be able to play.

• • •

Hon. Mr. Stratton is now touring the province inspecting reformatories, which, perhaps, is more in his line than laying cornerstones.

• • •

The Toronto Baseball team got trimmed twice yesterday. Served 'em right. No business to play ball on Sunday.

• • •

A married man's musings: A man doesn't have to die to join the silent majority—he may get married.

• • •

The Pope has gone. Requescat in pace! The world may see many a worse pope before it sees a better than Leo XIII. The gentle, kindly life has flickered out, and to-day many millions will mourn the loss of one whose personal influence has always been for good.

• • •

An old Bay of Quinte boy, Premier Roblin, of Manitoba, is to-day on the anxious seat, as this is election day in the Prairie Province. All signs point to the return of the Roblin Government to power. Here's luck to 'em anyhow.

• • •

General Botha, it is stated, will seek election to the British House of Commons, and it would be just like a lot of the "Little Englanders" to vote for him and thus introduce another disturbing element into British politics.

• • •

The King and Queen have gone to Ireland, and the chances are they will be received with enthusiasm, though there may be a few brickbats in the air when the Royal party strikes "Dear, Dirty Dublin." If Mrs. McBride (nee Gonne) can only be persuaded to behave herself all may be well. The great majority of the Irish people seem to be favorably disposed towards King Edward, and goodness knows they ought to be, for one can call to mind no part of the British Empire which in recent years, has been half so well treated as the Emerald Isle. It's enough to make the Scotchmen and Englishmen turn green with envy.

OUT OF THE SHADOW.

The discouragement, the despair of ill-health, out into the noon-tide glory of health, vigor and strength. Are you seeking this way? Are you wishing to replace weakness by strength, despondency by hope and expectation, pale cheeks and lustreless eyes by the rose's bloom and sparkling eyes. If you but use Ferrozone, you will make rich, red blood, your nerves will grow strong. Old-time vigor will return and with it endurance that will enable you to live an active, energetic and successful life. Remember the name, Ferrozone. Sold by all druggists.

NEW NAME FOR DISEASE.

PICTON DOCTORS CALLED CASES OF SMALLPOX "GLOSSPOX."

Toronto, July 18.—There are fewer reports regarding outbreaks of smallpox through the province being received now by the Provincial Board of Health than at any time since the setting in of cold weather last fall, and if the stamping out process continues much longer the province will again be free of the disease. An outbreak in the vicinity of Picton has gained some headway because the doctors in attendance on the first patients did not recognize the disease and gave it the fantastic name of "glosspox."

In the Justice Shop.

Alleged Misappropriation.

James Bell was charged with the misappropriation of some money belonging to Mr. Wm. McDonald. The evidence disproved the charge and the accused was honorably acquitted.

Drunks.

Edward Little and Samuel Peoples were fined $2 each or 10 days for being drunk.

Presentation.

Miss Lucile Hubble left to-day for Edmonton. For some time Miss Hubble had been an employee of the Ritchie Company and on Saturday the employees presented her with a handsome silk umbrella as a token of esteem. Upon the handle her name was suitably inscribed.

HERE IS A POINTER. Because you haven't used Catarrhozone is the best reason why you should use it right away. It will cure the catarrh that makes your breath so heavy and your hearing so poor. Catarrhozone is a scientific cure for catarrh, bronchitis and asthma, recommended by doctors and druggists as a certain cure. Mr. Henry A. Taylor, the oldest druggist in Halifax, says: "Catarrhozone gives satisfaction wherever it goes. It is simple and convenient to use, and enjoys fully three times the sale of any other catarrh remedy sold in the city." Catarrhozone is guaranteed to cure, and if it fails you can have your money returned. Price $1.00 for two months' treatment. Small size 25c. Druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Sports and Pastimes

SPORTING NOTE AND COMMENT.

Peterboro Examiner: The Athletics, with an All-Peterboro aggregation, will go to Belleville on Wednesday to do battle for the C.L.A. championship of their district. The personnel of the team will be practically the same as in the first game. No scouring of the country has been done to secure players from outside places, and in this respect the Athletics are an exception to the great majority of lacrosse teams. The players have all developed their abilities at home, and whether they win or lose, they will do so in the knowledge that in the team management a true sportsmanlike spirit has dominated. Since the game here with the Bellevilles the Athletics have been practicing steadily and will give a good account of themselves on Wednesday. Club rates have been secured for all who may wish to accompany the team, of whom no doubt there will be a goodly number.

This will be a case of two strictly amateur teams meeting.

Mail and Empire: Even if Shamrock III. fails to lift the America's Cup, her trip across the ocean will not have been altogether a failure, as the yacht has broken world's records for speed in some of her recent trials. On Monday last she covered a 30-mile leeward and windward course in 2 hours and 58 minutes. The fastest time ever made in an America's Cup contest (30 miles) is 3 hours 24 minutes, by Vigilant, in 1893. Sir Thomas Lipton's prospects have never been so bright.

Lacrosse results on Saturday: Cornwall 4, Toronto 2. Brantford 4, St. Kitts 3. Montreal 5, Capitals 3, Toronto has dropped to fifth place in the Eastern League baseball race. They'll be tailenders if they don't get in a protest or something.

TROTTING.

A Match Race Arranged.

Albany, N.Y., July 19.—It was announced here to-night that a match race for $2,500, 75 per cent. to the winner and 25 per cent. to the loser, has been arranged between W. J. Scannel's The Abbott, with a record of 2.03, and A. P. McDonald's Major Delmar, with a record of 2.05 1-2. The race is to take place at Island Park, near this city, during the circuit races, on Wednesday, July 29th. John Kelley, otherwise known as "Directum" Kelley, is to drive The Abbott, and Mr. McDonald will drive his own horse. The match originally arranged was between The Abbott and Lord Derby.

YACHTING.

Reliance a Fast Boat.

New London, Conn., July 18.—The Reliance led the racing fleet of the New York Yacht Club into the harbor this afternoon. She crossed the finishing line at Sarah's Ledge buoy at 1.31.48. It was raining at the time, but that did not send away the fleet of steamers that had been following the racers from Morris Cove to the harbor.

They gathered around the finishing line and there waited while the Constitution, Columbia, Vigilant, and some of the leaders in the other classes finished. The Constitution crossed the line at 1.41.57, and the Columbia at 1.50.37. It had been a reaching race from off the breakwater at Morris Cove in a southerly wind that blew from about ten to twelve miles an hour.

On elapsed time the Reliance beat the Constitution 6.29, and the Columbia 16.24. The Reliance will probably allow the Constitution about 2.24, so that she has won the race by a good margin. The race was a very fast one. The Reliance sailed the 39 miles in 3.18.28, and her average speed over the course was 11.52 miles an hour.

The Little Doctor for the Feet.

When your feet bother you in any way, call in the aid of "Foot Elm," the wonderful specialist for all troubles of the feet.

A white, odorless, soothing, healing, antiseptic powder, "Foot Elm," when shaken into the shoes simply works wonders in relieving painful, sore, blistered, chafed feet. It rests tired feet. Cools hot, burning feet. Reduces swelling and inflammation of the feet, destroys all disagreeable, sweaty odors, takes the sting out of a corn and the burn out of a bunion. New shoes that pinch and cramp the feet, fit easy when Foot Elm is used. There is not an ache or ailment of the feet that Foot Elm will not relieve and cure. Price 25 cents a box of 18 powders at druggists or by mail. B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

1,000 ISLANDS AND ROCHESTER.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian" leave Belleville for Thousand Islands at 3.25 h.m., daily except Mondays. Fare $1.00. Returning Str. leaves at 11.38 p.m. for Rochester, N.Y. m26d&w3m

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

A Peculiarity of Japan.

"One of the strange features of Japan," said a man who has lived long in that country, "is that all crops and fruits are almost certain to deteriorate. I have seen beautiful peaches grown the first year from stock imported from the United States. The second year they were still fairly good, the third season poor, and after that unfit to eat. Nothing in the vegetable world would seem to retain its excellence for any length of time. It is a bamboo country, and everything reverts to the bamboo. Beautiful lush grass covers many a plain, and yet it gives no nutriment to cattle. Garden vegetables look as fine as any grown in the United States, but when cooked they have no taste. The flowers are of gorgeous hues, but they are without perfume.

"But even with these imperfections it is a very interesting corner of the earth, and many things recommend it. Its inhabitants are in their way a fine people. In the rural districts particularly the natives are the most honorable beings I ever met. In the cities they are sharper mentally, but not nearly so scrupulous."

The Emotional Foreigner.

I saw a very pathetic sight on Forbes street, said the observing young woman, and it made me smile. A poor foreigner—I can't tell you his nationality—stood on the corner surrounded by a big pile of luggage.

He signaled to an approaching car, but the car passed right on. Motorman and conductor possibly objected to the load of freight. No sooner had the car passed than the young man burst out crying, and the tears rolled down his cheeks. It seemed strange to see a man act so.

It was one of those stories which have no beginning and no ending. It may be that he had waited there long and that no car would stop for him. It may be that he thought that that was the last car that was going to his destination. I only know that he was a stranger in a strange land and that he seemed broken hearted and that I smiled to see a grown man in tears for so simple a thing.

Cues as Life Preservers.

The fashion of wearing the hair in a cue commenced to wane in the latter part of the seventeenth century. As we think now of those queer pigtail appendages it seldom occurs to us that they could have been of any use except as an index to human folly. It appears, however, that occasionally they were a very important part of a gentleman's person, as may be inferred from the following complaint published in England at the time the fashionables commenced to cut their hair:

"The bathers of Brighton complain bitterly of the trouble they have in pulling young gentlemen out of the sea since they have cut off their cues. Till one of these docked fashionables is drowned from this circumstance the rage for cropping will not die out."

Encouraging the Horses.

A clergyman who spent many years in missionary work in the west says that he had occasion one day to ride in a full stagecoach up a steep hill. The driver where the ascent was sheerest got out and walked, and as he walked he would frequently open the door of the coach and then shut it again with a slam. This the passengers found annoying.

"Look here, driver!" one of them said. "Why do you kick up such an infernal noise with that door?"

"To hearten up my horses," the driver answered. "Every time they hear this door close they think that one of you, taking pity on them, has got out, and that makes them imagine that their load is lighter."

Fishhooks.

Practically all the best fishhooks in the world—and nearly so of all qualities—are made at Redditch, England. The annual output is probably 500,000,000 hooks, about 10,000,000 per week, ranging in size from enormous and ferocious looking shark hooks to the tiniest hooks for very small trout flies, with a "bend" diameter of about one-sixteenth of an inch, a thousand of which will not more than fill a good sized thimble. The price varies as much as the size, ranging from a few pence to two or three pounds per thousand.

No Violence.

Jolkley—I submitted some humorous sketches here several days ago. They haven't appeared. Did you kill them?

Editor—I passed upon them, but I don't think that killed them.

Jolkley—No?

Editor—No; I think they just died naturally of old age.

Very Affecting.

"My plea," said the young lawyer who had just won his first case, "seemed to strongly affect the jury."

"Yes," replied the judge. "I was afraid at one time that you would succeed in getting your client convicted in spite of his innocence."—Chicago Record-Herald.

His Guess.

"Where were they married?"

"I ain't jest sure," answered the small boy, "'cause they left me home, but I guess it was in the steeple."

"In the steeple?"

"Well, I heard 'em say it was a high church wedding."—Chicago Post.

Knew Braggsby.

Braggsby—I tell you the current issue of the Purple Peony is a swell one from a literary standpoint.

Waggsby—That so? What is the name of your contribution?—Baltimore American.

To live long it is necessary to live slowly.—Cicero.

Lace Curtains and delicate fabrics are best washed with Sunlight Soap. No injury from scrubbing or impurities. 88

THE WEATHER.

To-day's Probs—

Moderate to fresh west to northwest winds, a few scattered showers or thunderstorms to-day, but mostly fair. Tuesday, light to moderate winds, fine and warm.

To-day's Temperature

As Registered by The Intelligencer's Guaranteed Thermometer:

8 a.m.	71
12 m.	82
2 p.m.	84
3 p.m.	85

At no resort can children derive more health and enjoyment than at the MAGI Caledonia Springs.

You Can't Oversleep

If it takes quite a noise to awaken you in the morning we have Clocks that will furnish the necessary disturbance.

They will not arouse you too soon, neither will they let you sleep too long.

If you set them properly they never fail to do their duty.

They are useful in most homes at odd times. They are indispensable in many homes every working day in the year.

$1.50 buys a GOOD ONE, though we have them cheaper as well as dearer.

Angus McFee.
Jeweler & Optician
310 Front St.

RUBBER

Do you know that we have the best RUBBER FRUIT JAR RINGS in the city. 10c a doz.

We have others, very good at 5c a dozen.

WATERS'

Origin of the Term Philistines.

About the year 1690, at Jena, where the west gate of the city is remarkable for four images of monkey heads, cut in stone at each corner of the gate, a quarrel arose between the students of the university and the citizens, during which the gownsmen called the gate watchmen "monkey watchmen." To avenge this insult the watchmen killed one of the students, whose funeral sermon was preached from the text, "The Philistines be upon thee, Samson." From that time the townspeople were called by the students "Philistines," and this use of the word spread to other places.

In another explanation, given as early as 1777 by Adelung, reference is made to the Balistarii, or crossbowmen, who were called in Hungary Philistaei, and to the municipal soldiers of Vienna, who had the nickname Philisters as early as the seventeenth century.

The word was brought into prominent notice in England by Matthew Arnold, who appears to have adopted it from Heine. By a Philistine he meant "a strong, dogged, unenlightened opponent, like Goliath, of the chosen people, of the children of sweetness and light."

VALUABLE ADVICE TO RHEUMATICS.

Eat meat sparingly, and take very little sugar. Avoid damp feet, drink water abundantly, and always rely on Polson's Nerviline as an absolute reliever of rheumatic pains. Being five times stronger than other remedies, its power over pain is simply beyond belief. Buy a large 25 cent bottle to-day, test it, and see if this is not so. Polson's Nerviline always cures rheumatism.

30 Retail Stores DAVIES 30 Retail Stores

Have you tested DAVIES TEA yet? It is delicious, 25c, 40c, and 60c per lb. A cup of our tea is considered by women as a popular beverage for an entertainment. This being true you should have the best tea obtainable. Our teas are delightfully fresh, and fragrant, carefully picked from the choicest plants, and basket dried, which we import direct from the grower and bring them straight to the consumers. Try a package and be convinced.

DAVIES COFFEE is an excellent breakfast tonic.

Davies are noted to be Headquarters for Picnic and Camping Supplies of which they carry 32 varieties, Jellied and Ready-to-Serve Meats, which are pure and wholesome.

This store closes at 12 o'clock Wednesday's during July and August.

Daily Deliveries, Shop Early or Phone. 286.

The WM. DAVIES CO., Limited.

SPECIAL OFFER

MIDSUMMER CLUBBING RATES.

Two Papers to January 1st, 1904

Family Herald & Weekly Star, and the Best Home Paper—The Weekly Intelligencer, BOTH for

65 CENTS

We are making this special offer as we require 1000 new subscriptions to our Weekly.

This offer is good to new subscribers only.

ADDRESS—— The Weekly Intelligencer
BELLEVILLE, ONT.

No agents handle this offer.

Huckleberry Ice Cream

One of the nicest of the fifteen flavors we offer in our Ice Cream Sundys.

J. ARTHUR MARSH.

THERE IS
No Silk So Smooth,
No Silk So Long,
No Silk So Strong as
Corticelli
THE DRESSMAKERS FAVORITE SPOOL SILK
"Too Strong To Break"
CORTICELLI
ASK FOR Corticelli

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R. C.S., England.
Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets. Squares streets East of Post Office.

DR. J. F. MATHER
Has removed his office to Pinnacle St., three doors north of Hotel Quinte. my29-6mw

DENTAL.

Dr. Clarke has removed to the offices formerly occupied by the late Dr. Ward, over Burrows', and opposite Scantlebury's Book Store. a27dtf

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—9 Campbell Street.

MALCOLM WRIGHT. J. FRANKLIN WILLS.
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for the City of Belleville.
Office—Metropolitan Block, Corner Front and Campbell Streets.

PORTER & CARNEW,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices — Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 87.
E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Office, Bridge Street, Belleville.
Money to Loan — Private Funds. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, Etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent., on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire Insurance.

Guardian . . . Est'd 1821
The North America, Est'd 1792
Quebec, . . . Est'd 1818

City, Town and Village Property insure at lowest rates.

R. W. ADAMS. Agent.
Office opposite Post Office.

THOS. STEWART,
Insurance and Commission Agent.
Agent for the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Scottish Union National Insurance Co..
BRIDGE, ST.

FIRE, LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE

At Lowest Rates The Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Perth Mutual on farm and city property. Also mone to loan at 4½ per cent. upwards.
JAMES A. CHISHOLM,
Office Ashley Block, - Front st., Belleville.

Money Saved Is Money Earned

can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at lower rate than other stock companies Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance.

Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont,
Lloyd's Plate Glass,
Home Life Association, Toronto,
North British & Mercantile,
Farm and City Property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation, and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan & Investment Society. Money to Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, Office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., opposite Postoffice and Hotel Quinte, Belleville,
'Phone 162.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. G. NORTHRUP,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Shire Hall, Belleville, Ont.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the Post Office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St. Appointments made.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

Life has no blessing like a prudent friend.

Our Mid= Summer Sale

Our entire stock of FANCY GOODS,

Including China (cups and saucers, Vases, Dishes, etc., etc.), Brass Goods, Candles, Silk Shades, Brushes (both hat and hair), Mirrors, Candlebras, Dickens and Art Pottery Ware, all 40 per cent. off regular prices.

Wrist Bags AND Chatelaines

Latest New York designs in walrus, seal and other leathers, from 35c to $7.00 each, all

25 per cent. off regular price.

Framed Pictures

Entire stock of our Art Gallery, comprising Steel Engravings, Platimums, Prints, etc., beautifully framed Prices from 50c to $25, all

30 per cent. off regular prices

Wall Paper

Special prices on all Wall Papers and free bordering—2 yards with each double roll.

Paper Hanging and Painting—the largest and most efficient staff of workmen.

C. B. Scantlebury

Belleville's Decorator,

Wall Paper Wholesale and Retail.

FAST MAIL SERVICE

Bay of Quinte Route
TO
ROCHESTER N. Y.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian"

Taking Effect 27th June.

GOING DAILY (EXCEPT MONDAY)
Lv. Belleville .... 11.38 p. m.
Ar. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 6.43 a. m
RETURNING DAILY (Except Sunday)
Lv. Summerville, N. Y. (Fort of Rochester) .... 8 30 p. m.
Ar. Belleville .... 3.25 a. m.

Baggage checked to all points. Connection with all railways.

$1.00 THOUSAND ISLANDS $1.00
AND RETURN.

Commencing 28th June. Steamer leaves Belleville at 3 25 a.m. daily except Monday for 1000 Islands, calling at Bay of Quinte ports, Kingston, Alexandria Bay and Gananoque. Passing through American and Canadian channels.

Right reserved to change time with or without notice.

Full information from
THE RATHBUN CO., U. E. THOMPSON, } Agents.
E. E. HORSEY, G. P. & F. Agent, Kingston,

Str. "Alexandria"

Montreal, Rochester & Quebec Transit Co'y.

Popular Quebec Excursions NOW ON.

Belleville to Quebec and return .. $18 00
Belleville to Montreal and return $12.00
(including meals and berth)
Steamer runs all rapids.
For Rochester, Olcott Beach, Niagara Falls and Buffalo every Saturday at 11 a.m.
Particulars from
A. W. HEPBURN, General Manager, Picton, Ont. THE RATHBUN CO. Agents, Belleville.

The Deseronto Navigation Co

TIME TABLE.

Taking effect April 13, 1903.

Belleville, Trenton, Picton & Napanee

Str. "ELLA ROSS"

Leaves Belleville for Trenton at 10 a. m., daily, Sundays Excepted, returning leaves Trenton at 1 p. m., leaving Belleville at 3 p.m. for Deseronto, Napanee and Picton.

Quick and Superior Service to NEW YORK CITY

Steamers RESOLUTE and RELIANCE will leave Deseronto for Oswego after arrival of Str. Ella Ross connecting at Oswego with the New York, Ontario Western Ry.

Fare to New York, Single, $8.40
Return, $13.25

For further particulars apply to THE RATHBUN CO., Local Agents

J. F CHAPMAN, Asst. Gen. Frt. Pass. Agt., Deseronto
R. C Carter, General Manager, Deseronto.

Str. "Niagara"

THOMAS STEWART, Manager,
45 Bridge St., Belleville.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

New train 12.45 a.m., daily, except Sunday, for Brockville, Montreal and intermediate stations.
No. 16—Local, for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 2—1.45 a.m., Mail and Express, (Flyer), Daily.
No. 6—11.48 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.22 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 12—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5—3 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily except Monday.
No. 3—4.10 a.m., Limited Express, Daily.
No. 9—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 11—11.22 a.m., Passenger, Daily except Sunday.
No. 1—1.48 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7—5.12 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

Taking effect 12.01 o'clock, Sunday, June 14, 1903.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	9.10 a.m.	7.30 a.m.
Mixed	5.08 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 408 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

CHAPTER I.

It was many years ago—before this era of steam, telegraph and electrical and mechanical development in fact, just previous to that very queer war of 1812—that in a quaint old Dutch-built village of southern New York, lying not far from Hudson's noble river, there was living one Jacobus Bruyn, a substantial farmer, of the purest Dutch lineage.

On a beautiful sunny fall afternoon farmer Bruyn was sitting on the front porch of his fine old Dutch farm-house, lolling at ease in his great chair, and smoking his long clay pipe with an expression of perfect contentment resting in his stolid features. He could well afford to take his ease. His broad acres of fat valley land had borne unusually abundant harvests, and his capacious farm buildings were filled to overflowing. As he sat and allowed the wreaths of blue smoke to curl up about his swarthy, honest face, he was listening with satisfaction to the beating of the flails of his threshers in the great red barn not many rods distant.

The house of farmer Bruyn was built on the substantial, comfortable style of the well-to-do Dutch burghers of the colonial period of New York history. It was a large stone building, whose heavy walls had been laid by those who evidently intended them to last for generations. The great roof mounted up to a high peak, and sloped nearly to the ground in the rear. The numerous windows, with their many little green panes of glass, hinted of light and cheerfulness within. Everything about the place was neat and orderly. Along the garden fence, at the end of the low kitchen, was a bench, on which a row of shining milk-pans were sunning themselves. In the rear a tall, sloping churning machine hinted at one of the domestic occupations of the place. The yard was not particularly spacious, but showed the supervision of some one with a love for order and beauty in clumps of shrubbery and beds of late blooming flowers. It was evident who was the presiding spirit of this horticultural display, for a young maiden was wandering among the flower beds, dallying with the plants in a patronizing way that declared more plainly than words the deep interest of affection and guardianship. This was Rosa, farmer Bruyn's only daughter, whose age, it was apparent from her looks, could not be far from eighteen. Moving gracefully about under the soft light of the clear autumn sky, her plain, neat house-dress contrasting with the brilliant verdure about her, the young girl presented a charming object to the eye—and so thought farmer Bruyn, as he watched her from his seat on the porch. Her figure was plumb and comely, although perhaps a trifle under size, and perfect health was indicated in the full, graceful curves of her form, the rosy bloom upon her cheeks and the liquid clearness of her soft grey eyes. A wealth of rich brown hair hung about her shoulders in natural ringlets, unconfined and untied, free to the kisses of the sun and the toyings of the gentle zephyrs. No fairy creature was Rosa Bruyn, but a substantial bodily presence, who might have sat for the Madonna of some old Flemish painter. The form, features and movements all indicated a pure, healthy, womanly nature, capable perhaps of great devotion and tenderness, but one not likely to succumb to any trial or duty of life.

The house of farmer Bruyn sat some distance back from the road. Several tall poplar trees threw their shade along the roadway in front, and, at the upper edge of the yard, some clumps of shrubbery acted as a partial screen to a lane that led to the outbuildings in the rear of the house. The road in front wound down a gradual hill and down the hill the tall form of a young man could be seen drawing near. Rosa's wandering gaze had detected his approach, and, with a sudden flush, she drew slowly away from her position among the flower beds, and proceeded, as if inadvertently, up to the lane fence among the shrubbery. Her movements were evidently observed by the young man, for he entered the lane, and, drawing near, placed his hand on the fence, gave a light spring, and bounded over.

In a moment he had taken the blushing maiden in his arms, and pressed a kiss upon her brow with all the ardor of an accepted lover.

As they stood thus in the shade of the bushes, no handsomer youthful couple could have delighted the eyes of an artist who wished to sketch some scene of rural love-making. The young man was of a form and style of manly beauty to contrast well with the plump, rosy girl. He was tall, and his form was lithe and graceful. His face was frank, open and handsome, and the features were chiseled in outlines of almost Grecian beauty. Ringlets of fair, flaxen hair escaped from beneath his cap, and curled over a broad, white brow. Clear, mirthful blue eyes lit up a countenance in which the expression of geniality was offset by a certain air of over-confidence that almost indicated recklessness.

"And how's my little sweetheart?" he asked, releasing her form from his arms, and gazing upon her with undisguised admiration.

"I am well, Claude," she replied. "Little need there is to ask. And you appear well, too. But how is your aunt to-day?"

"Aunt? oh, she is growing worse," he replied. "The doctor told me since dinner that she is failing slowly but surely, and cannot possibly survive long. Indeed, it looks as if I were soon to be free."

"Free!—why, Claude, what can you mean? One might suppose that you rejoiced that your aunt is worse—perhaps upon the brink of the grave."

A peculiar shadow passed over the young man's face.

"Do you think so kindly of me, Rosa?" he asked. "Or—but, no; you read my feelings, and you misinterpret them. Suppose aunt should die—can I help it? I shall sorrow for her as sincerely as anybody; but I must own that there is a sense of freedom in the thought of my being my own master and coming into my fortune. What is the use of denying or concealing it? I do not wish her dead; but I cannot deny that the grief I should feel is tempered by the thought of the scope that will be opened to my hopes and ambition. There, there, little one—don't look so grave. Remember, I have not been brought up to be sensitive. Aunt has not wasted any tenderness upon me, although I know she loves me well."

"But, Claude, think how it would grieve her to the soul to dream for a moment that you could count up the gain her death would be to you."

"But she will not dream it, little monitress. No act or word of mine shall add a pang to her dying hours. I shall do all and be all that duty and affection require. But can I help my natural feelings? I am not an angel in human guise, like yourself, Rosa. I profess only one virtue—a desire to be honest, and not to hide my real feelings for mere appearance's sake. It is not in my nature to play the hypocrite. I shall feel very badly if aunt dies. She has always been kind to me—in her way—and I truly believe has loved me with her whole heart. But it is only just to remember that her way has always been a strange one, and that her guardianship has deprived me of the rights and privileges in a large measure to which I was born. A strange, gloomy, eccentric woman, fixed in her ideas and immovable in her resolves, no one can tell the tyranny her government has exercised over me. And, by a strange fate, I have no escape from tyranny so long as she lives except at the peril of my fortune. Look at it!—with all her wealth, her farms, her boats, her ferries, her mills (there is an immense fortune stowed up somewhere, and I the prospective heir), what pleasure or privilege has been mine in life that the veriest country lad in the region could not enjoy? Aunt's love of hoarding has run away with her judgment till her household has been kept as if we were predestined victims of poverty. Rolff House has been abandoned to decay. As for me, the eccentric whim of my father has made me more subject to her than the veriest servant—dictated to in my education, curbed in every natural wish and ambition, and left to dream of freedom and happiness only as possible through her death. My name—the name of Rolff — has become a very by-word through the country. Half the country folk believe Rolff House to be haunted, and it is not two years ago that I thrashed a burly lout who taunted me with my aunt being a witch. If aunt dies, I come into absolute proprietorship of all the Rolff estates and wealth—and not till then. Ah, Rosa, can I help contrasting my present position with what it will be then? Is it in human nature not to desire to throw off the burden that has weighed upon my hopes and aspirations for so many years?"

"I will not try to answer your questions, Claude," replied the young girl, with a pained expression of countenance. "I know that it is wrong, very wrong, for you to talk and think as you do. If I did not believe you to be truer at heart than you represent yourself to be, I should almost lose my faith in you. As for your aunt, although she is peculiar in many things, I know that she loves you too much to have curbed you needlessly or cruelly. Perhaps your fancy has painted your treatment in exaggerated colors. Your ambition is intense; you are proud and not a little willful; and it may be you are not the proper judge of all that is good and necessary for you. I fear, if your wishes are now realized, and you are given the freedom and opportunity you seem so to desire, you will only demonstrate the wisdom and prudence of your aunt's treatment of you."

An expression of gloom passed over the young man's countenance.

"You judge me severely, Rosa," he said; "but I do not care for that. I do not plead the propriety of my feelings, but only that I cannot help them. Yet why should I not gratify my ambition? I am the son of a wealthy man, and in justice and right should be undisputed master of my father's estate. I do not long for vulgar display and pleasure. No, no; my desire is to travel; to store my mind with observation; to develop my taste; and, above all, to give myself opportunity for the study of the art that is my ambition and delight. forget that I inherit a right to it. has aunt ever encouraged me in ambition? No; she has repressed it every way. She would make of me nothing but an overseer of laborers, and a hoarder of money. My soul loathes the life she would have me lead. Oh, Rosa, you cannot know how I long to be away, spending my days among the great galleries of Utrecht, of Munich, of Dresden, of Venice and Rome, drawing inspiration and knowledge from the works of the mighty masters of art. How can I help the spirit that is within me? At the mere thought of being able to fulfill my dreams, my soul is filled with an ecstacy that seems to banish far from my sight every other feeling and consideration."

"And to feed that ambition, you would banish me, too, from your thoughts, Claude, and leave me for your art?"

"Why—yes, Rosa; to be sure—that is, for a little time. It would not be long; we are both young, and do not contemplate speedy marriage; so there seems no reason why I should not devote my time to improving myself, so that I may become more worthy of your love. I can't stay here, in this dismal little village, to rust and fret myself to death. I must cultivate my talents. I desire to become a great painter. As soon as I am in a position to carry out my plans, I will tell you all my dreams, and I am sure you will sympathize with me, and take delight in my purpose to achieve talent and fame. It will not be so long that I will be separated from you; and we are young, Rosa, and can bear up under separation, and wait patiently for the happiness that will be ours when I return with some part of my ambition achieved to claim you as my bride."

The eyes of Rosa Bruyn lit up for a moment, but she dropped them quickly to the ground, and was silent. At last she spoke quietly:

"I hope your aunt will get well soon, Claude."

The young man bit his lip and turned his face impatiently away.

But his anger was only momentary. Turning his gaze back to the fair, grave young face before him, an expression of deep tenderness took possession of his handsome countenance.

"You do well to reprove me, Rosa," he said. "Yes, I, too, hope aunt will get well, and live many years. Then all my fine plans will be scattered to the winds, and I shall be sure of nothing—not even of you."

"But you know, Claude, we are so young yet — and — and father may change his mind when you settle down to steady habits. He thinks you are wild and reckless."

"I see, Rosa," said the young man, with a return of the bitterness of his tone, "that even in your estimation to aspire to any life but that of a plodding money-getter is to be wild and reckless."

"No, no, Claude," she exclaimed hastily, "you know I do not think so. But you would not have me offend father?"

"No, my love and my light!" he exclaimed, with a glow of enthusiasm, "I would have you do nothing unbecoming your character as the purest and best girl in the world. Better that I should suffer the wreck of every hope. But I must not linger. Your father will begin to suspect something. Good-bye!"

And, with a tender caress, he turned and, springing over the fence, disappeared as he had come.

CHAPTER III.

The tavern in Voorhiskill, (so let us call the little old Dutch village), was a wooden, clap-boarded building, with three stories, a double-sloped roof, and many windows. It was a somewhat pretentious structure, and did a thriving business, for the village was on the line of an important mail and business route, and the times were favorable to travel and conviviality.

The bar-room of Ronk's Tavern, as the hostlery was called, was the great meeting-place for the men-folk of the vicinity. Here they gathered of an evening, and smoked their pipes, and drank their flip or other decoctions, and told stories, talked politics and retailed the gossip of the vicinity.

It was on the evening after the events detailed in the last chapter. The candles were lighted in the bar-room, and the landlord was behind his bar answering the calls of his customers, who had begun to drop in. He was a tall, grave man, with a complexion and skin like parchment, dark straight hair mingled with gray, and an almost preternaturally solemn countenance. At bottom, however, he was generous and whole-souled, and delighted in nothing more than to see his guests well-provided for, his bar-room thronged, and jest and anecdote going the round of an evening, as pipes were lit and stout potations dealt out.

The usual group was gathered around. It was early evening yet, however, and more were to come before the gossip or discussion reached its full height. One after another dropped in, til at last there entered an old man of rather singular appearance. He was short and sturdy of frame, and dressed in old, rusty brown woolen clothes, with knee-breeches and stockings, while his heavy shoes had broad steel buckles. His face was almost covered up by a heavy growth of snowy white beard that descended and swept his breast. Underneath his heavy, grizzled eye-brows a pair of keen, pleasant blue eyes gazed out. His general appearance was that of an intelligent, self-possessed old fellow, with probably a large portion of eccentricity and individuality doxe up in his composition. His sturdy frame had evidently withstood the assaults of many years, as also a liking for good spirits, of which it was much the fashion of the time to partake freely. To introduce him without further words, this old fellow was Carl Krum, and his special business it was to have in charge a boat ferry that crossed the river at the landing about a mile and a half from the village. This ferry belonged to the mistress of Rolff House, and the old fellow had from time immemorial almost been in charge of it, and constituted one of the family at Rolff House. He was not a frequent visitor to the bar-room of Ronk's Tavern, and when he came it was generally the case that something had happened that excited public gossip unusually or had some special interest to himself.

The group of talkers sitting about the room grew suddenly silent as the old man entered. A seat was offered him, and he dropped quietly into it, and continued puffing sedately on a short pipe that was in his mouth.

After an interval of silence, a short, pursy little fellow, who was sitting with his chair tipped beside the emberless fireplace, spoke up:

"Here's old Carl," he said. "He can tell us all about it. Now, let me state the matter. I maintained that the old lady was eighty-three; you all denied it. Now, how is it, Mr. Krum?"

The old man took his pipe quietly out of his mouth.

"She's eighty-three," he said, "and she'll be ninety-three, if the good Lord so will and my prayers are heard. But what matters it, ye idle gossips?"

(To be continued.)

A Sure Cure for Headaches. — Bilious headache, to which women are more subject than men, becomes so acute in some subjects that they are utterly prostrated. The stomach refuses food, and there is a constant and distressing effort to free the stomach from bile which has become unduly secreted there. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are a speedy alterative, and in neutralizing the effects of the intruding bile relieves the pressure on the nerves which cause the headache. Try them.

When one gets hopping mad his reason goes on a crutch.

Will be Found an Excellent Remedy for sick headache. Carter's Little Liver Pills. Thousands of letters from people who have used them prove this fact. Try them.

Many a man's self-conceit is due to his ignorance.

The Well Known Strengthening Properties of IRON, combined with other tonics and a most perfect nervine, are found in Carter's Iron Pills, which strengthen the nerves and body, and improve the blood and complexion.

The average watch represents but 12 hours of human labor.

There is nothing equal to Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator for destroying worms. No article of its kind has given such satisfaction.

All trails are long to the lazy.

Some persons have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhoea, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for all summer Complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

Coral is a talisman against thunder and evils by flood and field.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of "Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup," and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

The wildcat's teeth are close to its purr.

Will positively cure sick headache and prevent its return. Carter's Little Liver Pills. This is not talk, but truth. One pill a dose. See advertisement. Small pill, Small dose. Small price.

A long portage makes a heavy canoe.

To Those of Sedentary Occupation. —Men who follow sedentary occupations, which deprive them of fresh air and exercise, are more prone to disorders of the liver and kidneys than those who lead active, outdoor lives. The former will find in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills a restorative without question the most efficacious on the market. They are easily procurable, easily taken, act expeditiously, and they are surprisingly cheap considering their excellence.

It takes money to voice the opinion of a lawyer.

UNTOLD MISERY — WHAT A WELL-KNOWN COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER SUFFERED, AND HOW HE WAS CURED.—Gentlemen, About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at that time travelling for Messrs. Walter Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine and when the third bottle was finished, I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery believing that the persistent use of it will cure any case of Dyspepsia.
(Signed),
T. S. McINTEE.

Much talk, many lies.

He Has Tried It.—Mr. John Anderson, Kimloss, writes: "I venture to say few, if any, have received greater benefit from the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, than I have. I have used it regularly for over ten years and have recommended it to all sufferers I knew of, and they also found it of great virtue in cases of severe bronchitis and incipient consumption."

The best way to get even is to forget.

Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum of twenty-five cents.

Bank of Montreal

ESTABLISHED 1817

Capital and Rest, All Paid Up.
$23,000,000
(Twenty-three Millions)

Savings Bank Department
Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R.C.S., England.
Office and Residence. — Corner of Bridge and George streets, three streets East of Post Office.

DR. J. F. MATHER
Has removed his office to Pinnacle St., three doors north of Hotel Quinte.
my29-6mw

DENTAL.

Dr. Clarke has removed to the offices formerly occupied by the late Dr. Ward, over Burrows', and opposite Scantlebury's Book Store.
a27dtf

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—9 Campbell Street.
MALCOLM WRIGHT. J. FRANKLIN WILLS.
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for the City of Belleville.
Office—Metropolitan Block, Corner Front and Campbell Streets.

PORTER & CARNEW,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices — Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 87.
E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Office, Bridge Street, Belleville.
Money to Loan — Private Funds. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, Etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent., on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire Insurance.

Guardian . . .	Est'd 1821
The North America,	Est'd 1792
Quebec, . . .	Est'd 1818

City, Town and Village Property insure at lowest rates.
R. W. ADAMS. Agent.
Office opposite Post Office.

THOS. STEWART,
Insurance and Commission Agent.
Agent for the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Scottish Union National Insurance Co..
BRIDGE, ST.

FIRE, LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE
At Lowest Rates The Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Perth Mutual on farm and city property. Also mone to loan at 4½ per cent. upwards.
JAMES A. CHISHOLM,
Office Ashley Block, Front st., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned
can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at lower rate than other stock companies Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance.
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont,
Lloyd's Plate Glass,
Home Life Association, Toronto,
North British & Mercantile,
Farm and City Property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation, and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan & Investment Society. Money to Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, Office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., opposite Postoffice and Hotel Quinte, Belleville,
'Phone 168.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. G. NORTHRUP,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Shire Hall, Belleville, Ont.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the Post Office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St.
Appointments made.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

Life has no blessing like a prudent friend.

Our Mid-Summer Sale

Our entire stock of FANCY GOODS,

Including China (cups and saucers, Vases, Dishes, etc., etc.), Brass Goods, Candles, Silk Shades, Brushes (both hat and hair), Mirrors, Candlebras, Dickens and Art Pottery Ware, all 40

per cent. off regular prices.

Wrist Bags AND Chatelaines

Latest New York designs in walrus, seal and other leathers, from 35c to $7.00 each, all

25 per cent. off regular price.

Framed Pictures

Entire stock of our Art Gallery, comprising Steel-Engravings, Platimums, Prints, etc., beautifully framed Prices from 50c to $25, all

30 per cent. off regular prices

Wall Paper

Special prices on all Wall Papers and free bordering—2 yards with each double roll.

Paper Hanging and Painting—the largest and most efficient staff of workmen.

C. B. Scantlebury

Belleville's Decorator.

Wall Paper Wholesale and Retail.

FAST MAIL SERVICE
Bay of Quinte Route
TO
ROCHESTER N. Y.
Strs. "North King" and "Caspian"
Taking Effect 27th June.

GOING DAILY (EXCEPT MONDAY)
Lv. Belleville .... 11.38 p. m.
Ar. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 6.43 a. m
RETURNING DAILY (Except Sunday)
Lv. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 8 30 p. m.
Ar. Belleville .... 3.25 a. m.

Baggage checked to all points. Connection with ll railways.

$1.00 THOUSAND ISLANDS $1.00
AND RETURN.

Commencing 28th June. Steamer leaves Belleville at 3 25 a.m. daily except Monday for 1000 Islands, calling at Bay of Quinte ports, Kingston, Alexandria Bay and Gananoque. Passing through American and Canadian channels.

Right reserved to change time with or without notice.

Full information from
THE RATHBUN CO., } Agents.
U. E. THOMPSON, }
E. E. HORSEY, G. P. & F. Agent, Kingston,

Str. "Alexandria"
Montreal, Rochester & Quebec Transit Co'y.

Popular Quebec Excursions NOW ON.

Belleville to Quebec and return.. $18 00
Belleville to Montreal and return $12.00
(including meals and berth)

Steamer runs all rapids.

For Rochester, Olcott Beach, Niagara Falls and Buffalo every Saturday at 11 a.m.

Particulars from
A. W. HEPBURN, General Manager, Picton, Ont.
THE RATHBUN CO. Agents, Belleville.

The Deseronto Navigation Co
TIME TABLE
Taking effect April 13, 1903.
Belleville, Trenton, Picton & Napanee
Str. "ELLA ROSS"

Leaves Belleville for Trenton at 10 a. m., daily, Sundays Excepted, returning leaves Trenton at 1 p. m., leaving Belleville at 3 p.m. for Deseronto, Napanee and Picton.

Quick and Superior Service to NEW YORK CITY

Steamers RESOLUTE and RELIANCE will leave Deseronto for Oswego after arrival of Str. Ella Ross connecting at Oswego with the New York, Ontario Western Ry.

Fare to New York, Single, $8.48
Return, $13.25

For further particulars apply to THE RATHBUN CO., Local Agents
J. F CHAPMAN, Asst. Gen. Frt. Pass. Agt., Deseronto
R. C Carter, General Manager, Deseronto.

Str. "Niagara"
THOMAS STEWART,
Manager,
45 Bridge St., Belleville.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

New train 12.45 a.m., daily, except Sunday, for Brockville, Montreal and intermediate stations.
No. 16—Local, for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 2—1.45 a.m., Mail and Express, (Flyer), Daily.
No. 6—11.43 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.22 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 12—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5—3 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily except Monday.
No. 3—4.10 a.m., Limited Express, Daily.
No. 9—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 11—11.22 a.m., Passenger, Daily except Sunday.
No. 1—1.48 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7—5.12 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

Taking effect 12.01 o'clock, Sunday, June 14, 1903.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	8.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	9.10 a.m.	7.30 a.m.
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 408 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

CHAPTER I.

It was many years ago—before this era of steam, telegraph and electrical and mechanical development in fact, just previous to that very queer war of 1812—that in a quaint old Dutch-built village of southern New York, lying not far from Hudson's noble river, there was living one Jacobus Bruyn, a substantial farmer, of the purest Dutch lineage.

On a beautiful sunny fall afternoon farmer Bruyn was sitting on the front porch of his fine old Dutch farm-house, lolling at ease in his great chair, and smoking his long clay pipe with an expression of perfect contentment resting in his stolid features. He could well afford to take his ease. His broad acres of fat valley land had borne unusually abundant harvests, and his capacious farm buildings were filled to overflowing. As he sat and allowed the wreaths of blue smoke to curl up about his swarthy, honest face, he was listening with satisfaction to the beating of the flails of his threshers in the great red barn not many rods distant.

The house of farmer Bruyn was built on the substantial, comfortable style of the well-to-do Dutch burghers of the colonial period of New York history. It was a large stone building, whose heavy walls had been laid by those who evidently intended them to last for generations. The great roof mounted up to a high peak, and sloped nearly to the ground in the rear. The numerous windows, with their many little green panes of glass, hinted of light and cheerfulness within. Everything about the place was neat and orderly. Along the garden fence, at the end of the low kitchen, was a bench, on which a row of shining milk-pans were sunning themselves. In the rear a tall, sloping churning machine hinted at one of the domestic occupations of the place. The yard was not particularly spacious, but showed the supervision of some one with a love for order and beauty in clumps of shrubbery and beds of late blooming flowers. It was evident who was the presiding spirit of this horticultural display, for a young maiden was wandering among the flower beds, dallying with the plants in a patronizing way that declared more plainly than words the deep interest of affection and guardianship. This was Rosa, farmer Bruyn's only daughter, whose age, it was apparent from her looks, could not be far from eighteen. Moving gracefully about under the soft light of the clear autumn sky, her plain, neat house-dress contrasting with the brilliant verdure about her, the young girl presented a charming object to the eye—and so thought farmer Bruyn, as he watched her from his seat on the porch. Her figure was plumb and comely, although perhaps a trifle under size, and perfect health was indicated in the full, graceful curves of her form, the rosy bloom upon her cheeks and the liquid clearness of her soft grey eyes. A wealth of rich brown hair hung about her shoulders in natural ringlets, unconfined and untied, free to the kisses of the sun and the toyings of the gentle zephyrs. No fairy creature was Rosa Bruyn, but a substantial bodily presence, who might have sat for the Madonna of some old Flemish painter. The form, features and movements all indicated a pure, healthy, womanly nature, capable perhaps of great devotion and tenderness, but one not likely to succumb to any trial or duty of life.

The house of farmer Bruyn sat some distance back from the road. Several tall poplar trees threw their shade along the roadway in front, and, at the upper edge of the yard, some clumps of shrubbery acted as a partial screen to a lane that led to the outbuildings in the rear of the house. The road in front wound down a gradual hill and down the hill the tall form of a young man could be seen drawing near. Rosa's wandering gaze had detected his approach, and, with a sudden flush, she drew slowly away from her position among the flower beds, and proceeded, as if inadvertently, up to the lane fence among the shrubbery. Her movements were evidently observed by the young man, for he entered the lane, and, drawing near, placed his hand on the fence, gave a light spring, and bounded over.

In a moment he had taken the blushing maiden in his arms, and pressed a kiss upon her brow with all the ardor of an accepted lover.

As they stood thus in the shade of the bushes, no handsomer youthful couple could have delighted the eyes of an artist who wished to sketch some scene of rural love-making. The young man was of a form and style of manly beauty to contrast well with the plump, rosy girl. He was tall, and his form was lithe and graceful. His face was frank, open and handsome, and the features were chiseled in outlines of almost Grecian beauty. Ringlets of fair, flaxen hair escaped from beneath his cap, and curled over a broad, white brow. Clear, mirthful blue eyes lit up a countenance in which the expression of geniality was offset by a certain air of over-confidence that almost indicated recklessness.

"And how's my little sweetheart?" he asked, releasing her form from his arms, and gazing upon her with undisguised admiration.

"I am well, Claude," she replied. "Little need there is to ask. And you appear well, too. But how is your aunt to-day?"

"Aunt? oh, she is growing worse," he replied. "The doctor told me since dinner that she is failing slowly but surely, and cannot possibly survive long. Indeed, it looks as if I were soon to be free."

"Free!—why, Claude, what can you mean? One might suppose that you rejoiced that your aunt is worse—perhaps upon the brink of the grave."

A peculiar shadow passed over the young man's face.

"Do you think so kindly of me, Rosa?" he asked. "Or—but, no; you read my feelings, and you misinterpret them. Suppose aunt should die—can I help it? I shall sorrow for her as sincerely as anybody; but I must own that there is a sense of freedom in the thought of my being my own master and coming into my fortune. What is the use of denying or concealing it? I do not wish her dead; but I cannot deny that the grief I should feel is tempered by the thought of the scope that will be opened to my hopes and ambition. There, there, little one—don't look so grave. Remember, I have not been brought up to be sensitive. Aunt has not wasted any tenderness upon me, although I know she loves me well."

"But, Claude, think how it would grieve her to the soul to dream for a moment that you could count up the gain her death would be to you."

"But she will not dream it, little monitress. No act or word of mine shall add a pang to her dying hours. I shall do all and be all that duty and affection require. But can I help my natural feelings? I am not an angel in human guise, like yourself, Rosa. I profess only one virtue—a desire to be honest, and not to hide my real feelings for mere appearance's sake. It is not in my nature to play the hypocrite. I shall feel very badly if aunt dies. She has always been kind to me—in her way— and I truly believe has loved me with her whole heart. But it is only just to remember that her way has always been a strange one, and that her guardianship has deprived me of the rights and privileges in a large measure to which I was born. A strange, gloomy, eccentric woman, fixed in her ideas and immovable in her resolves, no one can tell the tyranny her government has exercised over me. And, by a strange fate, I have no escape from tyranny so long as she lives except at the peril of my fortune. Look at it!—with all her wealth, her farms, her boats, her ferries, her mills (there is an immense fortune stowed up somewhere, and I the prospective heir), what pleasure or privilege has been mine in life that the veriest country lad in the region could not enjoy? Aunt's love of hoarding has run away with her judgment till her household has been kept as if we were predestined victims of poverty. Rolff House has been abandoned to decay. As for me, the eccentric whim of my father has made me more subject to her than the veriest servant—dictated to in my education, curbed in every natural wish and ambition, and left to dream of freedom and happiness only as possible through her death. My name—the name of Rolff — has become a very by-word through the country. Half the country folk believe Rolff House to be haunted, and it is not two years ago that I thrashed a burly lout who taunted me with my aunt being a witch. If aunt dies, I come into absolute proprietorship of all the Rolff estates and wealth—and not till then. Ah, Rosa, can I help contrasting my present position with what it will be then? Is it in human nature not to desire to throw off the burden that has weighed upon my hopes and aspirations for so many years?"

"I will not try to answer your questions, Claude," replied the young girl, with a pained expression of countenance. "I know that it is wrong, very wrong, for you to talk and think as you do. If I did not believe you to be truer at heart than you represent yourself to be, I should almost lose my faith in you. As for your aunt, although she is peculiar in many things, I know that she loves you too much to have curbed you needlessly or cruelly. Perhaps your fancy has painted your treatment in exaggerated colors. Your ambition is intense; you are proud and not a little willful; and it may be you are not the proper judge of all that is good and necessary for you. I fear, if your wishes are now realized, and you are given the freedom and opportunity you seem so to desire, you will only demonstrate the wisdom and prudence of your aunt's treatment of you."

An expression of gloom passed over the young man's countenance.

"You judge me severely, Rosa," he said; "but I don't care for that. I do not plead the propriety of my feelings, but only that I cannot help them. Yet why should I not gratify my ambition? I am the son of a wealthy man, and in justice and right should be undisputed master of my father's estate. I do not long for vulgar display and pleasure. No, no; my desire is to travel; to store my mind with observation; to develop my taste; and, above all, to give myself opportunity for the study of the art that is my ambition and delight. forget that I inherit a right to it. has aunt ever encouraged me in ambition? No; she has repressed it every way. She would make of me nothing but an overseer of laborers, and a hoarder of money. My soul loathes the life she would have me lead. Oh, Rosa, you cannot know how I long to be away, spending my days among the great galleries of Utrecht, of Munich, of Dresden, of Venice and Rome, drawing inspiration and knowledge from the works of the mighty masters of art. How can I help the spirit that is within me? At the mere thought of being able to fulfill my dreams, my soul is filled with an ecstacy that seems to banish far from my sight every other feeling and consideration."

"And to feed that ambition, you would banish me, too, from your thoughts, Claude, and leave me for your art?"

"Why—yes, Rosa; to be sure—that is, for a little time. It would not be long; we are both young, and do not contemplate speedy marriage; so there seems no reason why I should not devote my time to improving myself, so that I may become more worthy of your love. I can't stay here, in this dismal little village, to rust and fret myself to death. I must cultivate my talents. I desire to become a great painter. As soon as I am in a position to carry out my plans, I will tell you all my dreams, and I am sure you will sympathize with me, and take delight in my purpose to achieve talent and fame. It will not be so long that I will be separated from you; and we are young, Rosa, and can bear up under separation, and wait patiently for the happiness that will be ours when I return with some part of my ambition achieved to claim you as my bride."

The eyes of Rosa Bruyn lit up for a moment, but she dropped them quickly to the ground, and was silent. At last she spoke quietly:

"I hope your aunt will get well soon, Claude."

The young man bit his lip and turned his face impatiently away.

But his anger was only momentary. Turning his gaze back to the fair, grave young face before him, an expression of deep tenderness took possession of his handsome countenance.

"You do well to reprove me, Rosa," he said. "Yes, I, too, hope aunt will get well, and live many years. Then all my fine plans will be scattered to the winds, and I shall be sure of nothing—not even of you."

"But you know, Claude, we are so young yet — and — and father may change his mind when you settle down to steady habits. He thinks you are wild and reckless."

"I see, Rosa," said the young man, with a return of the bitterness of his tone, "that even in your estimation to aspire to any life but that of a plodding money-getter is to be wild and reckless."

"No, no, Claude," she exclaimed hastily, "you know I do not think so. But you would not have me offend father?"

"No, my love and my light!" he exclaimed, with a glow of enthusiasm, "I would have you do nothing unbecoming your character as the purest and best girl in the world. Better that I should suffer the wreck of every hope. But I must not linger. Your father will begin to suspect something. Good-bye!"

And, with a tender caress, he turned and, springing over the fence, disappeared as he had come.

CHAPTER III.

The tavern in Voorhiskill, (so let us call the little old Dutch village), was a wooden, clap-boarded building, with three stories, a double-sloped roof, and many windows. It was a somewhat pretentious structure, and did a thriving business, for the village was on the line of an important mail and business route, and the times were favorable to travel and conviviality.

The bar-room of Ronk's Tavern, as the hostlery was called, was the great meeting-place for the men-folk of the vicinity. Here they gathered of an evening, and smoked their pipes, and drank their flip or other decoctions, and told stories, talked politics and retailed the gossip of the vicinity.

It was on the evening after the events detailed in the last chapter. The candles were lighted in the bar-room, and the landlord was behind his bar answering the calls of his customers, who had begun to drop in. He was a tall, grave man, with a complexion and skin like parchment, dark straight hair mingled with gray, and an almost preternaturally solemn countenance. At bottom, however, he was generous and whole-souled, and delighted in nothing more than to see his guests well-provided for, his bar-room thronged, and jest and anecdote going the round of an evening, as pipes were lit and stout potations dealt out.

The usual group was gathered around. It was early evening yet, however, and more were to come before the gossip or discussion reached its full height. One after another dropped in, till at last there entered an old man of rather singular appearance. He was short and sturdy of frame, and dressed in old, rusty brown woolen clothes, with knee-breeches and stockings, while his heavy shoes had broad steel buckles. His face was almost covered up by a heavy growth of snowy white beard that descended and swept his breast. Underneath his heavy, grizzled eye-brows a pair of keen, pleasant blue eyes gazed out. His general appearance was that of an intelligent, self-possessed old fellow, with probably a large portion of eccentricity and individuality done up in his composition. His sturdy frame had evidently withstood the assaults of many years, as also a liking for good spirits, of which it was much the fashion of the time to partake freely. To introduce him without further words, this old fellow was Carl Krum, and his special business it was to have in charge a boat ferry that crossed the river at the landing about a mile and a half from the village. This ferry belonged to the mistress of Rolff House, and the old fellow had from time immemorial almost been in charge of it, and constituted one of the family at Rolff House. He was not a frequent visitor to the bar-room of Ronk's Tavern, and when he came it was generally the case that something had happened that excited public gossip unusually or had some special interest to himself.

The group of talkers sitting about the room grew suddenly silent as the old man entered. A seat was offered him, and he dropped quietly into it, and continued puffing sedately on a short pipe that was in his mouth.

After an interval of silence, a short, pursy little fellow, who was sitting with his chair tipped beside the embarless fireplace, spoke up:

"Here's old Carl," he said. "He can tell us all about it. Now, let me state the matter. I maintained that the old lady was eighty-three; you all denied it. Now, how is it, Mr. Krum?"

The old man took his pipe quietly out of his mouth.

"She's eighty-three," he said, "and she'll be ninety-three, if the good Lord so will and my prayers are heard. But what matters it, ye idle gossips?"

(To be continued.)

A Sure Cure for Headaches. — Bilious headache, to which women are more subject than men, becomes so acute in some subjects that they are utterly prostrated. The stomach refuses food, and there is a constant and distressing effort to free the stomach from bile which has become unduly secreted there. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are a speedy alternative, and in neutralizing the effects of the intruding bile relieves the pressure on the nerves which cause the headache. Try them.

When one gets hopping mad his reason goes on a crutch.

Will be Found an Excellent Remedy for sick headache. Carter's Little Liver Pills. Thousands of letters from people who have used them prove this fact. Try them.

Many a man's self-conceit is due to his ignorance.

The Well Known Strengthening Properties of IRON, combined with other tonics and a most perfect nervine, are found in Carter's Iron Pills, which strengthen the nerves and body, and improve the blood and complexion.

The average watch represents but 12 hours of human labor.

There is nothing equal to Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator for destroying worms. No article of its kind has given such satisfaction.

All trails are long to the lazy.

Some persons have periodical attacks of Canadian cholera, dysentery or diarrhoea, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for all summer Complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

Coral is a talisman against thunder and evils by flood and field.

For coughs, colds, bronchitis and all lung and throat troubles, there is no preparation of medicine can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It never fails to afford prompt and permanent relief. It removes all soreness, and heals the diseased parts. It immediately soothes the most troublesome cough, and by promoting expectoration, removes the mucus which stops up the air tubes which causes difficulty in breathing, thereby gives relief to that depressing tightness experienced in the chest. Public speakers and singers will find Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup of inestimable value, as it speedily and effectually allays all irritation, and huskiness in the throat and bronchial tubes, and gives power to the vocal cords, rendering the voice clear and sonorous. If parents wish to save the lives of their children, and themselves from much anxiety, trouble and expense, let them procure a bottle of "Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup," and whenever a child has taken cold, has a cough or hoarseness, give the Syrup according to directions.

The wildcat's teeth are close to its purr.

Will positively cure sick headache and prevent its return. Carter's Little Liver Pills. This is not talk, but truth. One pill a dose. See advertisement. Small pill. Small dose. Small price.

A long portage makes a heavy canoe.

To Those of Sedentary Occupation. —Men who follow sedentary occupations, which deprive them of fresh air and exercise, are more prone to disorders of the liver and kidneys than those who lead active, outdoor lives. The former will find in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills a restorative without question the most efficacious on the market. They are easily procurable, easily taken, act expeditiously, and they are surprisingly cheap considering their excellence.

It takes money to voice the opinion of a lawyer.

UNTOLD MISERY — WHAT A WELL-KNOWN COMMERCIAL TRAVELLER SUFFERED, AND HOW HE WAS CURED.—Gentlemen, About five years ago I began to be troubled with Dyspepsia, and for three years suffered untold misery, from this terrible complaint. I was at that time travelling for Messrs. Walter Woods & Co., Hamilton, and was treated by some of the best physicians in the country, but to no purpose. I continued to grow worse, one day I was induced to try a bottle of Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and to my great surprise and joy, I soon began to improve. I continued using this medicine and when the third bottle was finished, I found I was entirely cured; and as a year has elapsed since then, I feel confident that the cure is complete and permanent. To all afflicted with this distressing complaint I heartily recommend Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery believing that the persistent use of it will cure any case of Dyspepsia.
(Signed),
T. S. McINTEE.

Much talk, many lies.

He Has Tried It.—Mr. John Anderson, Kinloss, writes: "I venture to say few, if any, have received greater benefit from the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, than I have. I have used it regularly for over ten years and have recommended it to all sufferers I knew of, and they also found it of great virtue in cases of severe bronchitis and incipient consumption."

The best way to get even is to forget.

Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum of twenty-five cents.

Bank of Montreal
ESTABLISHED 1817
Capital and Rest, All Paid Up.
$23,000,000
(Twenty-three Millions)
Savings Bank Department
Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.
A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch

RAINY WEATHER NEEDS.

What a lot of weather we are having, very hot, then rainy and cold. Whether the weater is clear or whether the weather is cloudy, the fact remains that we have waterprof coats in plenty, guaranteed to keep out the wet.

A Few Specials

We have just received a few specials that should be of interest to you. There are so many very low priced, useless coats on the market that these extra good ones at moderate prices will surely prove fast sellers. Two lines, one dark the other medium, pure rainproof, velvet collar, raglan pocket and cuffs, coats made to sell at $7.50. OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY $5.00.

A FEW BETTER

Then we have some extra good ones at $7, $8 and $10, coats that you would have to pay much more for in other stores. If you are thinking of a rainproof coat, come in and take a look around.

OAK HALL

Sole Agents for Sanford's Celebrated Clothing.

A Clean Sweep

—Sale—

NOW ON. In Ladies' Patent Kid and Patent Colt Skin Shoes.

The balance of season's goods to be cleared before our Fall arrivals.

25 per cent. off the regular prices.

6 pairs Laced, French Heels, $5.00, now	$3.75
9 pairs Laced Style, $4.00, now	$3.00
11 pairs Laced Style, $3 50 now	$2.60
7 pairs Laced Style, $3.00, now	$2.25
6 pairs Patent Oxfords $3.00, now	$2.25
20 pairs Fine Kid Oxfords, $2.00, now	$1.50

Bell's, McPherson's and "Empress."

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES at Belleville, Napanee and Trenton

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Mrs. Leslie M. Shaw, the wife of the Secretary of the United States Treasury, has recently given out in Washington a number of amusing interviews about the inadequacy of the salaries of cabinet officers. Mrs. Shaw was Miss Alice Crawshaw in her youth, and she has always been noted for her ready wit. It is said of her that a young man of humorous bent one day exclaimed in her presence: "What could be more dreadful than for a woman, after mending her husband's coat, to find in one of the pockets a love letter from another woman?" "Fortunately," said Mrs. Shaw, "that could never happen. The woman would find the letter first, and then she would not mend the coat."

A village clergyman, declares "Public Opinion," has this ingenious bit among his records: One day he was summoned in haste by Mrs. Johnston, who had been taken suddenly ill. He went in some wonder, because she was not of his parish, and was known to be devoted to her own minister, the Rev. Mr. Hopkins. While he was waiting in the parlor, before seeking the sick woman, he beguiled the time by talking with her daughter. "I am very much pleased to know your mother thought of me in her illness," he said. "Is Mr. Hopkins away?" The lady looked unfeignedly shocked. "No," she said. "Oh, no. But we're afraid it's something contagious, and we didn't like him to run any risks."

Mrs. Van Vorst, the author of "The Woman Who Toils," had many amusing and odd adventures during her life as a worker. One adventure that has not heretofore been printed concerned a taciturn man. She met this man on a New England road, mending a worm fence. "Can you tell me," she said to him, "how far it is from here to the next town?" He pointed forward. "Milestone little further on will tell you," he growled. Rudeness such as this vexed Mrs. Van Vorst. "But the milestone will be no good to me, for I can't read," she said. Thereupon the taciturn man chuckled a little. "Ho, ho," he said, "it is just the kind o' milestone for people that can't read, for all the writin's been washed off of it."

The following story of the Pope is current in Italy, where Leo XIII. personally is most popular even amongst the anti-Clericals. He has—or is supposed to have—some nephews who find it somewhat difficult to extract money from him. The wife of one of these nephews is said to have undertaken to get some from him. She solicited an interview, and, having obtained it, said: "Holy Father, I come to seek your advice. I am poor, I have a large family, and alas! I am in debt. I have been gifted by heaven with a good voice, and the proprietor of a music hall has offered me a large salary to appear on his stage and sing a few simple songs. Ought I to accept the offer?" "Certainly," replied his Holiness; "and I only regret that my official position will not allow me to be present at your debut."

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

A Michigan man in his eighty-ninth year died from the excessive use of tobacco. The young rascal!

* * *

"Dear me!" said a visitor in the city; "this is the first place I ever saw where hedges were planted on the sides of streets." He was looking at some of the weeds.

* * *

And by the piper that played before Moses, on certain streets they are something to lock at! All most people can do is to look at them, for it would take a six-footer to look over them.

* * *

It's a pity some of those burdocks don't grow on the market square. They might get so high that people could climb up them and whitewash the face of the town clock.

* * *

It looks as though the old prophecy about St. Swithin's day was going to prove true this year. From present appearances, the farmers, in regard to their crops, will have to follow the advice of Abe Lincoln, "stack all they can outdoors and put the rest in the barns."

* * *

The practise of "coming into a fortune" is becoming quite fashionable in Belleville, we are told, and we hasten to congratulate the fortunate parties. We never expect to be anything but poor and honest ourselves, but it fills our heart with joy to see other people shaking hands with fortune. Yes, indeed!

You Can Test The Kidneys

AND FIND OUT IF YOU REQUIRE THE ASSISTANCE OF DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Put some urine in a bottle or tumbler and let it stand for twenty-four hours; if there is a sediment at the bottom at the end of that time, or if it is discolored, milky, cloudy or stringy your kidneys are out of order and not doing their work properly.

Because of their direct and specific action on the kidneys, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills bring prompt relief and lasting cure for all derangements of these filtering organs. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. 1

Steel Men Ask For Charter.

Toronto, July 20.—The organization of capitalists who have secured the option for the site of the two-million-dollar steel plant at Port Colborne have filed their application for a provincial charter at Toronto. The name of the company is designated as the Steel Corporation of Canada. The paid-up capital is $2,000,000.

Will Ratify Treaty.

Panama, July 20.—Reliable information received here from Bogota says that it appears probable that the canal treaty will be ratified, making the sum payable to Colombia by the United States $25,000,000 instead of $10,000,000, as proposed by the treaty. Cable communication with the capital has been interrupted since Friday.

THE CRAWLING OF CANCER

One of the Symptoms by Which The Disease May be Distinguished.

A characteristic of a cancerous growth, distinguishing it from other lumps and growths, is a peculiar sensation of creeping or crawling which comes over the part affected.

Anyone suffering from a growth attended by such symptoms, should hasten to procure treatment without delay. The most effectual remedy that can be used is our Constitutional Treatment. It eradicates the cancer germs and poisons from the system and completely cures the disease without the necessity of resorting to painful operations. Send two stamps for full particulars. B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

Puzzling the Priest.

"Pat," said the priest to one of his erring parishioners. "Pat, I was very sorry to see you coming out of the public-house yesterday." "Sorry, is it, your riverence! Shure, ye wouldn't be afther having me stop in there, thin." "No, no, Pat, I am sorry you should go in, but I am thankful to see you come out." "Ah, now, yer riverence, and how could I be coming out if I didn't be going in first?" His reverence gives up for the time.

"Punch's" definition of an impressionist—"The burglar who takes the wax model of a key."

Piles To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & CO., Toronto.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

THE MARKETS.

Grain Futures Are Easier—Grain Cables Are Lower—Live Stock Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Saturday Evening, July 18.

Liverpool wheat futures closed ½d lower to-day than on Friday and corn futures unchanged to 1¼d lower.

At Chicago: Sept. wheat closed ⅝c lower than Friday; Sept. corn ⅝c lower and Sept. oats ⅝c lower.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London—Close: Wheat on passage very inactive. Maize on passage, less offering; spot American mixed, 22s 3d. Flour—Spot Minn. 27s.

Paris—Close: Wheat tone quiet; July 24f 85c, Nov. and Feb. 22f 35c. Flour—Tone quiet, July 32f 80c, Nov. and Feb. 30f 40c.

Antwerp—Wheat—Spot steady, 2 R.W. 16¼f.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

Following are the closing quotations at important wheat centres to-day:

	Cash.	July.	Sept.	Dec.
New York	....	....	81½	81⅛
Chicago	....	....	76⅝	79¼
Toledo	77¼	77¼	77½	78¼
Duluth, No. 1 N.	85½	85½	78¾	74⅛

TORONTO ST. LAWRENCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, red, bush	$0 76 to	$0 77
Wheat, white, bush	0 76	0 77
Wheat, spring, bush	0 70	0 72
Wheat, goose, bush	0 70	....
Barley, bush	0 41½	....
Beans, bush	1 30	1 50
Beans, hand-picked	1 75	....
Peas, bush	0 78½	....
Rye, bush	0 45	....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, July 18.—Close—Wheat—Spot No. 2 red western winter, quiet, 6s 2¼d; No. 1 northern spring, dull, 6s 5d; No. 1 California, dull, 6s 6½d; futures quiet; July, 6s 6¾d; Sept., 6s 3¼d; Dec., 6s 3½d. Corn—Spot American mixed easy, 4s 5d; futures dull, July 4s 5d, Sept. 4s 4⅞d. Peas—Canadian dull, 5s 6½d. Flour—St. Louis fancy winter quiet, 8s 3d. Hops at London (Pacific Coast)—Steady, £5 12s to £6. Beef—Quiet; extra India mess, 67s 6d. Pork—Quiet; prime mess, western, 78s 9d. Ham—Short cut, 14 to 16 lbs., steady, 53s. Bacon—Cumberland cut, 26 to 30 lbs., steady, 48s; short ribs, 16 to 24 lbs., quiet, 53s; long clear middles, light, 28 to 34 lbs., quiet, 50s; long clear middles, heavy, 35 to 40 lbs., quiet, 49s 6d; short clear backs, 16 to 20 lbs., quiet, 47s 6d; clear bellies, 14 to 16 lbs., steady, 47s 6d; shoulders, square, 11 to 13 lbs., steady, 37s 6d. Lard—Prime western, in tierces, nominal; American refined, in pails, firm, 37s 6d. Butter—Good United States, steady, 75s. Cheese—American finest white dull, 46s 6d; American finest colored dull, 48s 6d. Tallow—Prime city quiet, 23s. Turpentine spirits—Firm, 29s 3d. Resin—Common steady, 5s 3d. Petroleum—Refined nominal. Linseed oil—Steady, 24s.

NEW YORK GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

New York, July 18.—Flour—Receipts, 21,900 bbls.; sales, 3600 packages; flour had a small trade, but was steady. Rye flour—Steady. Wheat—Receipts, 48,950 bush.; sales, 715,000 bush.; wheat opened easier owing to poor cables and local unloading, but rallied later with corn; July, 83⅝c; Sept., 81⅞ to 82 1-16c; Dec., 81⅞ to 81⅞c. Rye—Steady; state, 58 to 59½c, c.i.f. New York; No. 2 western, 59c f.o.b afloat. Corn—Receipts, 56,500 bush.; complaints of rather cool weather and light speculation offerings held; corn steady to firm this morning. Oats—Receipts, 43,500 bush.; oats dull and barely steady; track white, 42 to 49½c. Sugar—Raw firm; fair refining, 3 3-16c; centrifugal 96 test, 3 11-16c; molasses sugar, 2 15-16c; refined, firm. Coffee—Quiet; No. 7 Rio, 5 2-16c. Lead—Quiet. Wool—Firm. Hop—Dull.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, July 18.—Butter—Steady, unchanged; receipts, 6671. Cheese—Steady, unchanged; receipts, 822. Eggs—Quiet, unchanged; receipts, 7586.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—American Markets Reported Dull and Steady.

London, July 18.—Live cattle steady at 11c to 12c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 10c to 11½c per lb; refrigerator beef, 9 c per lb. Sheep, 10½c to 12c.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, July 18.—Cattle—Receipts, 75 head; steady; prime shipping steers, $4.90 to $5.35; butchers' steers, $4.25 to $4.85; cows and heifers, $2.50 to $4.70; bulls, $3.25 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $2.25 to 4.15. Veals—Receipts, 250 head; slow, $5 to $5.25. Hogs—Receipts, 5300 head; active, 5 to 10c higher on good weights, others steady; heavy, $5.75 to $5.85; mixed, $585 to $5.95; Yorkers, $6 to $6.05; pigs, $6.25 to $6.40; roughs, $5 to $5.20; stags, $4 to $4.50; light dairies, $5.75 to $5.90; heavy dairies, $5.50 to $5.90. Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 600 head; active; lambs, $4.50 to $7; yearlings, $5.25 to $5.50; ewes, $3.75 to $4. Sheep—Top, mixed, $2 to $4.50; wethers, $4.50 to $5.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, July 18.—Beeves—Receipts, none; no sales reported; exports to-day: 1865 beeves, 161 sheep, 8895 quarters of beef. Calves—Receipts, 142; almost nominal; a few West Virginia calves sold at $5.50. Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 5087; good sheep were firm; other grades quiet, steady; sales of lambs averaged slightly lower; reported sales of sheep were at $3 to $4.50 per 100 lbs., of lambs at $6 to $7.15; closing price for prime lambs about $7. Hogs—Receipts, 2746; none on sale alive.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, July 18.—Cattle—Receipts, 1150, including 1000 Texans; market steady, nominal; good to prime steers, $5.10 to $5.50; poor to medium, $4 to $5; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.50; cows and heifers, $1.50 to $4.75; canners, $1.50 to $2; bulls, $2.25 to $4.35; calves, $3 to $6; Texas steers, $3.25 to $4.75.

Hogs—Receipts to-day, 7000; monday, 3000; left over, $2000; market for good medium and heavy, 10c higher; good to choice heavy, $5.55 to $5.75; and butchers, $5.75 to $5.77; rough heavy, $5 to $5.40; light, $5.35 to $5.70; bulk of sales, $5.40 to $5.65.

Sheep—Receipts, 4000; market, steady; good to choice wethers, $3.75 to $4.10; fair to choice mixed, $3 to $3.75; native lambs, $3 to $6.55.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Belleville, July 18.—At the weekly meeting of the Belleville Cheese Board to-day 31 factories offered 2870 white and 250 colored cheese. Sales on the board were. Thomas Watkin 630, James Alexander 445, Magrath & Co. 320. 150 colored, at 9 9-16c; James Alexander 50 at 9½c. Balance is selling on curb at 9½c to 9 9-16c, mostly the latter.

Archdeacon Llywd Dead.

Huntsville, July 20.—The Hon. Archdeacon Llywd, Archdeacon of Algoma and rector of All Saints' Church, died at his residence, "The Ranch," Huntsville, at 6 o'clock Saturday night of neurasthenia, aged 65 years and 6 months. The funeral will take place on Thursday, the 23rd, from the parish church.

Quits Work at Last.

Havana, July 20.—Congress Saturday night adjourned sine die, after an almost continuous session since the inauguration of the Cuban Republic, May 20, 1902.

To Visit England.

Cairo, July 20.—The Khedive, who was the guest of England three years ago, is to visit her again this summer.

The Exclusiveness of Caste.

An English officer who some years ago was wounded in a battle in India and left lying all night among the native dead and wounded tells this story: "Next morning we spied a man and an old woman, who came to us with a basket and a pot of water, and to every wounded man she gave a piece of joaree bread from the basket and a drink from her water pot. To us she gave the same, and I thanked heaven and her. But the Soobahdar was a high caste Rajpoot, and, as this woman was a Chumar or of the lowest caste, he would receive neither water nor bread from her. I tried to persuade him to take it that he might live, but he said that in our state, with but a few hours more to linger, what was a little more or less suffering to us—why should he give up his fate for such an object? No; he preferred to die unpolluted."

Babies In India.

Babies cry very little in India—they obey spiritual law as a flower. The lotos bud, lying on a stone bench in a dirty room, sucks its toe and seems dreaming of the pranks of baby Krishna and solving problems of the universe. As it grows older it is very timid and shy in the presence of its elders. It feels the religious awe around it and does not break out into boisterous sport when all seem at prayer

But there is much love in India and these humble households seem very happy. They are all in all to each other and seek nothing outside either in society or amusement. Beautiful character comes from obedience to law and not from lawlessness. In India children are the crowning gift of life. It is a horror to be childless.

The Same Brick.

One day a mother found her four-year-old Alice playing with a brick in the parlor.

She threw it out of doors and, turning to the child, said, "If you bring another brick into the parlor mother will whip you."

Shortly afterward she again found the child playing with a brick and, looking at her reprovingly, asked, "What did mother tell you about that brick, Alice?"

"Well, this isn't another brick," said the child. "This is the one I had before."

Love and the Doctor.

It would be well if in negotiations with a view to matrimony the doctor were to be called in as an accessory to the god of Love, who is proverbially blind and therefore regardless of consequences. The family doctor can do much to prevent unwholesome marriages, and we look with much greater confidence to the fruits of his teaching and persuasion than to legislative enactments.—British Medical Journal.

Don't Play Hymns at Sea.

Any woman who takes a sea voyage should be careful not to play or sing hymns aboard ship except at the regular Sunday morning service. Sailors think singing hymns at any other time is bound to bring bad luck. It is as bad, they say, as having a parson aboard, which is reckoned a sure sign that the ship will go to "Davy Jones' locker."

One Cause For Satisfaction.

"Well," said the detective, "there is one thing upon which we may congratulate ourselves in this case."

"Why, you haven't even found an important clew."

"That's just it. We can rest assured that no innocent person is going to suffer."

Hard Words.

"Your fingers seem twisted and bruised," we write on the pad which forms the medium of conversation with the deaf and dumb youth. "Are you on the ball team at your institution?"

"No, sir," he writes in reply to our question. "I have taken up a course in Russian."

The Retort Discourteous.

Miss Van der Whoop — Yes, Miss Binns, I am the youngest member of one of the oldest families in New York.

Miss Binns (envious)—I don't doubt that it's the oldest family—if you're the youngest member!

Time to Leave.

Husband (in an aside to his wife)—If you can't think of some more anecdotes of our children's smartness let's go home right away, for they're getting ready to tell us things about their own.—Baltimore American.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

Fast and Convenient Service to Canadian Summer Resorts.

Muskoka Lakes, Lake of Bays, Kawartha Lakes, Georgian Bay, Parry Sound, Magnetewan River, Jackson's Point, Montreal, Penetang, Quebec, Lake Nipissing, Old Orchard, White Mountains.

Trains make direct connection at Muskoka Wharf for all points on Lakes, also at Huntsville for all points on Lake of Bays.

Unexcelled service to Detroit, Buffalo, Chicago and all western points.

For tickets, information, descriptive and illustrated literature of Canadian Summer Resorts, apply to

U. E. THOMPSON, City Agent,
Bridge Street,
T. H. COPPIN, Depot Agent,
J. D. McDONALD,
Dist. Pass Agt., Toronto.

NEW YORK CENTRAL & HUDSON RIVER R. R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.		After 1st May
Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)	12.22 p.m.	1.30 a.m
Arr. Kingston "	1.47 p.m.	3.12 a.m
Lv. Kingston (stage)..	2.30 p.m.	5.00 a.m
Arr. Cape Vincent (stage)	4.30 p.m.	7.00 a.m
Lv. Cape Vincent N.Y.C.	5.05 p.m.	7.25 a.m
Arr. Watertown "	5.55 p.m.	8.25 a.m
Arr. Oswego "	9.05 p.m.	11.55 a.m
Arr. Syracuse "	9.25 p.m.	12.07 p.m
Arr. Rochester "	1.05 a.m.	2.20 a.m
Arr. Utica "	9.45 p.m.	12.35 p.m
Arr. New York "	7.25 a.m.	6.00 p.m

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C. R. R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from F. A. Folger, N.Y.C. Agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent.
New York.
A. H. SMITH, Gen'l Supt.,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

Goods We Have at Right Prices

—Hammocks.
—Fishing Tackle.
—Tennis Goods.
—Golf Goods.
—Lacrosse Goods.
—Base Ball Goods.
—Screen Doors and Windows.
—Fruit Jars.
—Fruit Jar Rubbers.
—Wall Paper.
—Crystal Glass Vases.
—Glass Ware.
—Dinner Sets.
—Toilet Sets.
—Ladies' Hose.
—Ladies' Vests.
Everything in smallwares.

AT THE BEE HIVE

Chas. N. Sulman

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines, or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

Shoes and Slippers

FOR. SUMMER WEAR.

Ladies' Fine Low Shoes—ranging in price from 50c to	$3.75
Ladies' Fine Strap Slippers—prices from 75c to	$3.00
See our assortment of Children's Slippers, ranging in price from 25c to	$1.25

We carry a large stock of Trunks and Valises, Dress Suit Cases, Club Bags, Cabin Trunks, etc.

VERMILYEA & SON.

Sole Agents for the famous Queen Quality Shoe.

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY! 2 WEEKS

$5.00 Any Suit In This Great Clothing Store for $5.00

A STUPENDOUS CLOTHING OFFER WITHOUT PRECEDENT OR PARALLEL,

Some Suits $18, some $16, some $15, some $12, others $10. Just think of it! High grade, thoroughly tailored garments for Men, complete suits in fashionable fabrics, for

$5.00

This is just the opening gun in the great Mid-Summer Sale, in connection with this store. In every other department there will be equal sensational reductions. This Clothing Sale begins on July 11th and will end on July 25th. The earlier you come the better your choice as we anticipate a big rush.

The GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE.

Up-to-date Clothiers and Gents' Furnishiers, Look for the Globe Over The Door, 390 Front Street, Belleville.

Wall Paper

At first sight of our Wall Papers you will say there's an attractiveness about them that puts them lengths ahead of other lines.

IN STOCKING

we select only the best, we have no "shelf warmers" all our Papers are quick sellers. If you choose your Papers from us you have best value for the price obtainable anywhere.

Painting, Paperhanging and Decorating done on shortest notice by best workmen in the city.

JOHN CORNELIUS.
3 Doors South of Intelligencer Office.

NEW GOODS
JAPAN TEA

The first of this season's crop, exta quality, regular 50c line, we quote

40c per lb.

Canned Halibut

Fine solid Fish, very tasty,

15c per can.

J. C. Hanley & Co.
GROCERS
Telephone 214

Flowers & Vegetables
Of all kinds in season.
...AT...
J. D. COLLIP'S.
'Phone 205.

Western Beef.

Prime Western Beef together with all kinds of choice meats, supplied by the district, at

C. GREEN'S
267 Front St., 'Phone 109.

Fate, Chance or What?

As we jog along life's pathway we know next to nothing of what is almost within our reach on each side of us, and yet by merely pushing aside the thicket of ignorance bordering our road we would undoubtedly discover no end of delightful possibilities. Sometimes, however, fate or chance or Providence, whatever we may call it, suddenly brings us to an opening, and we find that we have all along been in close companionship with some congenial spirit whose existence even we have never suspected.

"The way I met my wife is a curious exemplification of this," said a man who had been remarking how little one knows beyond his immediate range of vision. "I was taking a walking tour through the Tyrol with a couple of other fellows, and intended on that eventful day to make a certain village before nightfall. And now please note coincidence No. 1. A violent storm came up and we were obliged to go out of our way to take refuge in a little wayside inn. There we found that another party, consisting of a man and his wife and the latter's niece, who were driving through that picturesque region, had also sought a night's lodging and had taken possession of all the available rooms. They were most kind, however, the women insisting upon giving up one of their rooms, and we all became very friendly, foraging in the larder for our supper and cooking it with our landlady in her little kitchen. As I was supposed to be the culinary genius of our party, and the niece had attended a cooking class in New York we were installed as a committee on the commissariat, and we became necessarily very 'chummy,' especially as the rain continued the next day, and we all voted to remain where we were until the roads got into condition. Well, to make a long story short, the niece, as you probably have surmised, is at present my wife. The oddest part of it all is yet to come for mutual enquiries soon elicited the fact that we were both from New York; but it was not until some time afterward that we discovered that we lived in the same street, and, what was stranger still, actually next door to each other and had grown up without knowing each other, separated only by a wall of brick and plaster, my boyhood at school and young manhood at college making the circumstance a perfectly natural one especially as our parents were not acquainted."

Where Waves are Highest.

In his bok of sailing experiences, "Deep Sea Vagabonds," Albert Sonnischen, who threatens to outrival Frank T. Bullen as a describer of the life of the man before the mast, gives a vivid and awful account of his first trip around Cape Horn, the roughest sea passage in the world. He writes:

"For two solid weeks it blew a roaring gale with a few rare half-hour intermissions. With top-sails, foresail, mainsail and sometimes reefed top-gallant sails set we scudded before the wind at a twelve knot rate. Such waves I had never seen. I did not actually measure the distance between their tops; it seemed two miles but I will swear by one, anyhow. I have read somewhere that waves never reach over fifty feet in height. Our rigging was over a hundred, and still when we sat on our royal yards and the ship was down in the trough of a sea, we could not see beyond the waves before and astern of us. Nor is this to be wondered at so much, for in this belt, and only here wind and waves have the sweep of the globe's circumference. On would come those mighty green foam-capped mountains, heaving the big ship skyward, until it seemed our masts must pierce the clouds. It was a horrible sensation, even to me, who had never suffered seasickness, and that sickening fear as the ship topped over the crest, never leaving one weighing in one's bowels like a weight of lead. Fear is located somewhere below the stomach, I know that, because I here had the sensation long enough to analyze it thoroughly.

"For a moment the vessel balances on the crest, in a smother of foam, then that awful moment the stern falls, that sickening slant, a momentary pause, and then—down—down—down, into a great dark green abyss, so deep that the sun does not reach, and as we sink, the bellying sails drop listless, for even the wind is cut off by the wall coming up astern. A short pause, then a heave, and up again—up—up—up, until with a rush the wind catches the sails again, and that heart-sickening roar from aft, growing—growing, until it strikes the stern with a smash, washing over the bulwarks on both sides as it shoots forward. And then it begins all over again—the same experience.

"At such times only the most experienced seamen were sent to the wheel, and two at once, for when those caps strike the stern it takes muscle to hold the helm. A canvas screen was raised abaft the wheel, so that the helmsmen could not glance astern, for even experienced seamen have been known to leave their post in a panic at sight of those gigantic combers tearing up from astern, as though to swallow all, and to leave the wheel at such a time would mean instant disaster—loss of masts at least, for the ship must be kept directly before the seas. The least inattention might cause her to broach, and should she be caught by a comber abeam, then would come her finish. This was an experience we had off and on for almost two months, and men and officers were worn under the constant strain on body and nerves alike. But the owners wanted a quick passage, and then—the vessel was well insured."

An English schoolmaster offered a prize to the boy who could write the best composition in fiv minutes on "How to Overcome Habit." This is what was written by the nine-year-old boy who won the prize :—

"Well, sir, habit is hard to overcome. If you take off the first letter it does not change 'abit. If you take off another, you still have a 'bit left. If you take off still another, the whole of 'it remains. If you take off another, it is not wholly used up, all of which goes to show that if you want to get rid of a habit you must throw it off altogether."

Humor of the Day.

Some fellows marry poor girls to settle down, and others marry rich girls to settle up.—Philadelphia Record.

Mrs. Mann—This milk tastes as if it contained water.

Milkman—Great Scott! Did you expect I could put champagne in it?"—Chelsea Gazette.

Care of Farm Harnesses.

Farmers are accused of neglecting most things about them, and of suffering their property to fall into decay for want of proper attention, at least by those who fancy they know the farmer's business better than he does himself; but one of the things he really does neglect is his harness and cart gears that are in every-day use. Farm harnesses are often hung in the stable behind the horses, and this is bad, because ammonia exercises a most damaging effect on leather. Not only is no effort made to preserve the leather, but it is very rare that any examination is made of the harness to see if any portion of it is weak, needs repair or is likely to break. Generally the breakdown comes when there is no means near at hand of repairing. This is not purely agricultural "luck"—it happens to other users of horses who do not regularly look to the soundness of their harness. With the greatest care there is always the liability to have harness break when drawing heavy loads or working on rough ground, but it is not so great as when the harness is neglected. It is especially bad policy to use harness that is not of the strongest for colts. If anything breaks the animal gets frightened, there is very often a bad accident, and when a colt gets out of harness it often leaves a very lasting impression. "Wax to receive and marble to retain" admirably expresses the mental condition of the horse, especially where accidents and public houses are concerned. To prevent the leather of a harness from perishing, or drying up so as to crack, it should occasionally be treated with neat's foot oil, or with black harness oil sold by saddlers and others for dressing this class of gear. Harnesses need washing quite as much as they do oiling, for they become encrusted with dry sweat, and the dust that is continually settling on them absorbs the leather so that it cracks, letting in the water every time it is out in the rain, so that it becomes rotten. Harness should be frequently taken to pieces and well washed, and, when nearly dry, well rubbed with a woollen rag dipped in the oil selected. No more oil should be put on than will be absorbed or dry in, so that when the leather is rubbed with a dry cloth it will be perfectly clean. Harness that is properly cared for will last twice as long as that which is neglected, never washed, never oiled and only cleaned at holiday times.—American Cultivator.

CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY

CAPITAL

10,000 Shares 7 per cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, par value $100 each,	$1,000,000
50,000 Shares Common Stock, par value $100, issued and fully paid	5,000,000
TOTAL CAPITALIZATION	$6,000,000

Issues of $1,000,000 00 7 p.c. Preferred Stock in 10,000 Shares of $100 each at par.

This stock is preferred both as to Assets and Dividends.

The shares are entitled to cumulative preferred dividends from the net earnings of the Company, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable half yearly on the first days of April and October. They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at $115.00 per share, at any time after 1st January, 1909.

The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000.00, the whole of which is now offered.

Subscriptions for 10,000 Shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent. Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is $100 Share, as follows

per cent on application,
25 " " on allotment,
35 " " 30 days thereafter.
35 " " 60 days thereafter.

One share of Common, par value $100, given with each share of preferred.

The whole of instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of one per cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Novia Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1 000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4000 acres of iron ore deposit, located Natashquan (tidewater) situated on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highet ever discovered, running from 69 per cent to 72 per cent in metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore has been received by the Campany than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

Send for prospectus giving full information as to earnings, reports, etc., etc.

Address all communications and send subscriptions to

COLONIAL SECURITIES CO.,
62 Wall Street, New York City

OR

W. L. MARSTON & COMPANY
110 State Street, Boston

The SAWYER COMPANY.
351 Temple Building, Montreal, Canada.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Measurement Nonpareil—12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line. Subsequent consecutive insertion, 5c.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 25 per cent advance upon ordinary contract rates.

Minimum space, [illegible] lines.

Marriages and deaths, 30c each insertion.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisement will be found in 1st column of 2nd page.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of the Intelligencer.

Address all communications to the Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House Limited, or to Charles J. Bowell, Managing Director and Treasurer.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s Office, 30 Fleet Street, London, E. C.

CONDENSED ADVERTISEMENTS

WANTED.

40 teams, $3.50 per day, railroad work. Transportation free. Apply S. E. Phippen, Dundas street.

$6.00 per month buys a $1,000 home. $9.00 per month buys a $1,500 home. $12.00 a month buys a $2,000 home. A postal will bring particulars. The Canadian Home Builders' Association, Manning Chambers, Toronto. j18-6t

100 machinery moulders and coremakers. Steady work. Wages for moulders at least $4.00; coremakers $3.25. Address Post Office Box 511, Toronto. jy9-d10t

Have you spare time? Increase your income by work at night. Others are doing it. Our goods are used everyday everywhere. Write G. Marshall & Co., Teas, London, Ont.

Agents wanted, $2.50 per day. Apply Cooper, London, Ont. s27-1y

Young men ambitious to learn lucrative trades, of which there are eight in connection with the business. Apply The Belleville Hardware Company, Belleville, Ont. a7dtf

The only authorized "Life of Pope Leo XIII." Written with the encouragement, approbation and blessing of His Holiness by Mgr. Bernard O'Reilly, D.D., LL.D., (Laval). This distinguished author was summoned to Rome and appointed by the Pope as his official biographer. The book is endorsed by Donato Sbarretti, Papal delegate for Canada, and is approved and recognized by all church authorities as the only official biography of the Pope. Over 800 pages, magnificently illustrated, published in French. Best commission to agents. Sell only the official life by Mgr. O'Reilly. Elegant outfit free. The John C. Winston Company, Toronto, Ont. j20-6td

LOST.

On Sunday, July 19, between Foxboro and Belleville, fur caperine. Finder please leave at this office. 1t

TO-LET.

That new solid brick house on Yeomans street. Hard and soft water in kitchen. Good cellar, stable and garden. In perfect order. $6.—J. J. B. Flint. jy16dtf

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

Stone house, 11 rooms, coal furnace, stable, barn. Large grounds. Cor. Frank and Moira Sts. north. Terms reasonable. H. Bull, on premises or Fred Bull, 133 Yonge St., Toronto. Terms easy. ap18-dtf

FOR SALE.

A good rebuilt typewriter, guaranteed. Price $50. Apply at this office. j20-6t

Farm A—1. 100 acres, known as the Arthur Mullett Homestead, first con. Huntingdon, County Hastings. For particulars apply on the premises. j20-1td&4tw

Shingles, shingles, dressed lumber, etc. GEO. WALTON & CO. jy14-1md

Dressed and Matched Lumber of all kinds, at ALFORD'S factory, Market Square. j12-tf

Two surreys, two phaetons, two buggies, one horse. Apply to H. L. CURRY, Pinnacle street. jy9-8td&16,23w

Contractors and masons, any any person requiring lime may procure it from E. G. STAPLEY, Canifton Road, Belleville. New lime always on hand. a9-d&w6m

TO RENT

A house on Moira street containing 8 rooms. All modern conveniences. Possession on or before 20th July.—Adam Henry.. dtf

Curse

—OF—

DRINK

CURED BY

COLONIAL REMEDY

No taste. No Odor. Can be given in a glass of water, tea, or coffee, without patient's knowledge.

Colonial Remedy will cure or destroy the diseased appetite for alcoholic stimulants, whether the patient is a confirmed inebriate, "tippler," social drinker or drunkard. Impossible for anyone to have an appetite for alcoholic liquors after using Colonial Remedy.

Indorsed by Members of the W.C.T.U

Mrs. Moore, Superintendent of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Ventura, Cal., writes: "I have tested Colonial Remedy on very obstinate drunkards, and the cures have been many. In many cases the Remedy was given secretly. I cheerfully recommend and endorse Colonial Remedy. Members of our Union are delighted to find a practical and economical treatment to aid us in our temperance work."

Sold by druggists everywhere and by mail. Price $1. Trial package free by writing or calling on Mrs. M. A. Cowan (for years member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union), 2204 St. Catherine St., Montreal.

[illegible] in Belleville by F. Clrs. Clarke Front [illegible] and D. M. Waters, Bridge St.

THE VOYAGE OF LIFE

INDIVIDUAL HUMANITY IS LIKENED TO THE PASSING SHIP.

THE LONE NAVIGATOR'S FRIEND.

How These Passing Ships of Human Life May Be Rescued From the Shoals and Storms and Stress of Living—Human Derelicts—The Safe Harbor of Peace at the Close of the Christian's Life.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1903, by William Baily, of Toronto, at the Dep't of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Chicago, July 19.—The glories of the sea and its moving panorama of white sails furnish a theme for the preacher at this season, when the multitudes are leaving the heated cities for seashore and lake. The text is Psalm civ., 26, "There go the ships."

I always feel sorry for one who has not been lullabied to sleep by the low moaning song of the sea. Fascinating is the seashore on account of its endless variety. The ocean's beauty is never twice the same. Sometimes its colors are a white foam or a light green or a dark emerald or blue and black. Sometimes its surface is covered with broad highways of gold, when the light of the rising sun gilds it, or with that other highway of silver, when, in the midnight hour, the flush of the moon is reflected upon it. Sometimes the sea will do nothing but smile. Like a golden-haired baby, its cheeks are dimpled and wrinkled, as though it is trying to keep back a hearty laugh. It will look as harmless as some innocent lake cuddled up in the huge lap of a crooked backed mountain. Then the sea gulls, as white doves of peace, will hover over it.

But, after all, one of the most absorbing diversions of the summer tourists living by the seashore is to watch the passing of the ships. For over a quarter of a century my privilege was to spend every summer by the Atlantic coast. My father's country home was near the end of Long Island, at a small town called East Hampton. There, upon the sand dunes, I used to lie hour after hour, watching the great steamers and the sailing craft heading toward New York Narrows or starting upon their long trips to the distant harbors of the world. I used to watch them just as the psalmist did when he cried out in the words of my text, "There go the ships." How like those voyages are, with their unknown incidents, their calms and their storms, their successes and, alas, their wrecks, to human lives! Who can tell as he looks at an infant calmly sleeping in its cradle whether the voyage of its life will be like the ship skillfully steered safe into harbor or like the ship carelessly navigated that strikes the sunken rock or by collision with another ship is shattered and sunk into the depths of the sea? Let us see this morning what those points of resemblance are—what kind of a ship each human being ought to be, what kind of cargo he is carrying and toward what kind of a port he should be heading. The ships! The ships! There go the ships! There go the ships!

Every human vessel should be distinguished by some flag. Going down to New York harbor and examining the shipping, you will find the name of each vessel clearly marked upon the stern. You will also find the name of the city in which that vessel is registered. And if upon the high seas two ships approach each other, one captain will put the trumpet to his lips and call: "Ship ahoy! Ship ahoy! What ship is that?" Then the other captain will call back: "The Kensington of Antwerp, bound for New York! What ship is that?" The meaning of all this? Simply that when a ship is registered in a certain country that Government pledges itself to protect that ship. A British ship is under British protection; a French ship is under French protection; a German ship is under German protection; an American ship is under American protection. Therefore, if a nation dare to molest any foreign ship upon the high seas, that nation must answer for the insult to the flag which is flying above the stern of the outraged vessel.

Each human vessel always carries a very valuable cargo. Have you stopped to consider why a great Cunard or White Star transatlantic steamer spends as much time by her dock as in traveling the high seas? 'Tis true some of that time must be given to cleaning up the ship, but most of it is spent in loading and unloading the cargoes. The massive walls of a building rests upon deep foundations. The huge masts and upper decks of a great steamer must have a deep hull. This hull must be filled with ballast, or else the ship would soon topple over. This ballast is composed of boxes filled with merchandise or hundreds of bags of mail, of steel from Birmingham works and linens from the Irish mills, silks from France and wines from Italy, art treasures as well as expensive furniture and clothes.

Then food must be provided for the passengers and the crew and huge cargoes of coal to keep the engines in motion. One is amazed at the thousands of tons of coal which a ship like the Kaiser Wilhelm II. carries at the beginning of its passage across the Atlantic. The great stomachs of the furnaces seem to be insatiable. Their hunger is never satisfied. Relays of dust begrimed stokers are shoveling the coal day in and day out. But what about the enormous mass of food which must be provided for the hungry human passengers and crew? Those who live above and below a great ship's deck are not to be numbered by the scores, but by the hundreds. The average steamer plying the Atlantic is not to be despised. Its successful voyage means life to hundreds. Its destruction may mean death alike to passengers and crew and destruction to all the freight.

Does not each human craft carry a valuable cargo? What about the money which is entrusted to a man's care? If the cashier of a bank absconds and the bank has to close its door who suffers? Is it not the poor widow and orphan, the old man who has trustfully placed in the bank the savings of a lifetime so that he can have something in his old age and money enough to buy him a casket and a grave when he is dead? What happens when a human craft founders and sinks into the great sea of sin? Does it not nearly always destroy many human lives which are dependent upon its existence? What became of nearly all the ships' crews and passengers which were sunken at sea? Those ships not only went down, but they took most of their passengers and crews with them. Oh, I know lifeboats and life preservers are provided by law on every boat to guard against accidents. But, as a rule, they do but little good. By the time the hurricane has completed its work the lifeboats are splintered, and by the time the tornado of sin has wrecked a human craft it not only destroys a father and a husband, but also all those whose existences are dependent upon his life. Let us, as human crafts, beware how we allow ourselves to sink into the sea of sin and destroy those loved ones who are standing upon our upper decks.

The human vessels should be willing to stop and help those sister crafts which are lifting their signals of distress. Why? Because distress and need give a man an inalienable claim on the help of his brother. Nowhere is that claim recognized so surely and so promptly as on the high seas. A sailor on the ocean will never turn a deaf ear to a booming gun or shut his eye to an inverted flag or to a white handkerchief or cloth fluttering over a raft or a derelict. No sooner does the lookout cry, "Ship on starboard bow, and I believe it a wreck!" than the captain and the mates and the boatswains and the common sailors will turn their anxious faces toward the black object floating upon the edge of the horizon. If there should be but one human being aboard that doomed craft, five, ten, fifteen—ay, I believe practically all the members of the crew will be willing to risk their lives to save that one life. I never yet read of a ship upon the highways of the sea that would not go, if possible, to rescue the crew of a sinking ship. I never yet heard of any captain compelling his sailors to go to the rescue. All that the mates have to do under such conditions is to call for volunteers and every lifeboat will be manned and every oar held in a firm grip.

Oh, my dear friends, why is not a human being upon the land ready to answer signals of distress raised by his fallen brethren, as the sailors upon the sea try to help those who are in distress? Do not the whirlwinds of disaster shriek and howl and sweep up the streets of a great city as well as among the archipelagoes of a Mediterranean? When, some years ago, a dark, funnel shaped cloud swiftly approached St. Louis and in an instant broke and destroyed whole streets and buried many a corpse under the debris, did it wreck any more lives than do the cyclones of sin which are daily destroying the hundreds and thousands of young men and women? Every city has its two sides—its light side and dark side; its pure side and its morally diseased side; its Christian side and its infernal side; its happy side and its despairful side. Shall we who profess to love God and are living in health and strength have nothing to do with those who are flying the signals of distress?

Be not afraid, my brother, that you will never have an opportunity to save men and women upon the land who are flying signals of distress. If you will once consecrate your lives to his service God will reveal them to you, the same as he led old Captain Pendleton, many years ago, to save the passengers and the crew of a sinking ship. The old captain was a neighbor of my father's and a friend of my childhood. He had upon his wall a picture commemorative of this rescue. He again and again told me this wonderful story. He had been to the far east. After a voyage of many months he was nearing New York harbor. He was only two or three days from home. Suddenly, as he lay in his cabin, a strong and even imperative command came to him from on high. He seemed to hear a divine voice saying: "Go back! Go back! About ship and go back!" He was not in the least a man given to vagaries. He shook himself and went upon the deck. The stars were shining above. The sea was calm. The wind was brisk, and the sails were well filled. He went down to his cabin and again tried to sleep. Again came that strange command: "Go back! Go back! About ship and go back!" So forcibly did this second command come that Captain Pendleton gave the command to about ship. The mates and sailors thought he was going crazy. He said nothing, but sailed on for two hours, I think, when, lo, a sinking ship hove in sight, and he was able to rescue many lives. That picture upon the wall was presented to the old captain by the rescued men and women. So God, if we consecrate our lives to his service, will lead us in strange and devious ways. He will so guide us that we may be able to save immortal men and women from sin upon the land as old Captain Pendleton rescued those men and women from a watery grave.

The human vessel, in order to reach the harbor for which Christ intended him to sail, must be able in one sense to make the voyage of life alone. I mean by that that he must steer his own course irrespective of what other human vessels may do. A great harbor like New York's always teems with life. The many trees which cover the mountain sides do not seem to the imaginative eye to be denser than the forests of masts which are crowding about the docks. When the great steamer is being pulled out of her wharf the little tugs shriek and puff and grunt. The multitudes who have come to bid their friends goodby wave their handkerchiefs. The river boats salute the huge ship as she slowly moves down the bay. But after awhile the surrounding ships become less and less in numbers. Then if you are sailing upon the Pacific, or even upon the Atlantic, you may go days and weeks and not sight another craft. If you are on a sailing ship you will get head winds as well as those from the stern. Then you, as a sailing master, will have to tack and beat up against those head winds. You will have but one purpose—always working ahead toward the harbor, always pressing toward the one destination to which you wish to go. The voyage of the Christian's life is very similar to a sailing ship's journey across the seas.

Similarly, in reference to its solitariness. When we start out we have plenty of friends. But if we determine to do right, if we are set in our purpose to follow the course which Christ has laid out for us, we shall find that our friends will often leave us, one by one.

Similar in reference to the head winds and side currents which have to be fought against. It would not be so bad if in the voyage of life the human vessel had to make its journey alone, and that was all. But no sooner do our friends begin to leave our sides than the hurricanes of abuse and the undercurrents of slander begin to work against us. When a noted reformer at the end of his life was given a great popular demonstration of approval and presented with a beautiful gold watch he stood looking at it with embarrassment. Then he said, with a smile, "Friends, if it had been a brickbat or a bad egg hurled at me I would know what to do, but this beautiful watch in my hand absolutely takes away my breath." Ah, my Christian brethren, with such loneliness which must be endured and with such hurricanes of abuse which must be fought against, no human craft trying to follow the right course is safe unless Jesus Christ, as the divine captain, is guiding it and treading upon its quarter deck. No human ship can ever be sailed safely over the troubled sea of time into a harbor of a blessed eternity unless it has the magnetic needle of the cross for a compass and the great harbor of peace for its destination. Do you wonder that I declared every human vessel should be under the dominion of Jesus Christ?

Then, after a long journey of many months, have you ever felt in head and heart, in all parts of your being, mental, physical and spiritual, the exultant joy of heading toward home. Oh, then the bliss and yet the long drawn out impatience as the journey comes nearer to its close! The old ship's propeller will not revolve fast enough. You hang around the chart which is daily posted in the ship's cabin to tell you how many miles the ship is sailing. You bother the captain every time you meet him, saying, "Captain, will we be able to get in by Friday night?" Then if the ship is detained, as ours was all night long in a fog just outside of New York harbor, oh, how the time does drag! I never slept a wink that last night in my journey around the world. I walked up and down the deck, up and down. I wondered if the telegram had been flashed to my folks from Barnegat lighthouse that the Etruria had been sighted. I wondered if they would be down at the docks to greet me. And, though it was a stormy day when we went up the Narrows, I stood out near the bow. I was alone, entirely alone, without kith or kin for a traveling companion; yet, when I saw my dear ones upon the dock, I nudged the man nearest to me and cried out: "There they are! There are my folks! There are father and my sisters! Yes, there they all are." And the tears of joy rolled down my cheeks. That is the way the Christian voyager shall enter the harbor of peace. The physical ship in which he sails may be bruised and battered by many a storm, but that will amount to nothing. Then all our loved ones will come down to meet us. Oh, how many, many, many, dear ones are there! They shall all come down to the banks. I wonder if we will know them at once. I wonder if they will cry when we wave back. The Bible says there are no tears in heaven, but I do not think that statement is literally true. I do not believe we can see our own dear ones for the first time without crying just a little. But, mark you, in that great welcome they will only be tears of joy and not tears of sorrow.

Thus, my dear friends, as voyagers upon the great sea of life, to-day I greet you. I signal you with the warmest feelings of Christian joy stirring my heart. I feel that it is due to the providence of God that we have been brought together for a Christian purpose. The sea of life is so wide that many of us only meet each other this once before we sail into the harbor of peace. When a vessel becomes a wreck and floats about upon the seas as a derelict it sometimes takes months and even years for it to be found and destroyed. It may take all that time, no matter how many ships may be hunting for it. Therefore, what I am to say to you I must say quickly. Human vessels voyaging over the sea of life never allow any sinful current to turn your prow from your Christly destination. Never allow your sails to be stretched for a popular wind. Never allow your reckoning to be made from any star but that which once gleamed over the Bethlehem manger. And never feel, Christian voyager, that the storm of persecution will founder you if you have Christ in the hinder part of the ship. Christian voyager, if we should never meet again this side of the harbor of peace, I send you my Christian salutation and love—"Hail and farewell!"

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Store Closed Every Wednesday During July and August at 12 O'Clock Noon.

WHITE WAIST CLEARING

This has truly been a whitewear season.

The rapid selling has left Our White Shirt Waist assortment in a depleted state. Many styles only having large sizes left, many having only small.

New goods are already on the ocean. These must be gone before their arrival. So on Saturday Night and Monday we make this worthy offering in what—when style and workmanship are considered—are scarce goods.

Every size is here—only a few of some, more of others—to make sure you should come Saturday Night. Here they are.

—Fine Lawn Waist trimmed with tucks, hemstitching and embroidery insertion straps, regular 75c Waist for 50c

—Fine White Muslin Waist, trimmed with rows of narrow tucks and embroidery insertion, mostly large sizes, regular 85c for 50c

—Fine India Linen Waist, trimmed with tucks and hemstitching, embroidery insertion straps and box plait front, large sizes only, regular 95c for ... 50c

Picnic Napkins Given Away

Every lady making a purchase of 50c or over in our main store on Tuesday or Wednesday will be given one dozen picnic Napkins.

MUSLIN CURTAIN REDUCTION

Although but a small quantity of colored muslin Curtains are sold the constant demand makes neccessary the keeping of full assortment.

Slightly soiled—we offer the remainder of this range at prices which will be interesting to housekeepers who desire pretty window decoration.

The patterns are very neat and at regular prices were our usual good value.

—13 pairs, frilled colored Muslin Curtains in neat stripes and figures.

$2.50 for $2 00 — $3.00 for $2.25

$2.65 for $2.15 — $3.25 for $2.65.

MEN'S COLLARS AND BELTS

Much of your comfort these hot days depends on the style of collar you are wearing.

The low double band "STANMER" style has taken a permanent place in many wardrobes—it combines QUALITY, STYLE and COMFORT.

A Belt, too, adds much to the appearance of the vestless man. In fact it is necessary to be "correct."

It's in these little things you will find the superiority for which our furnishing department is noted.

— Men's fine summer collars 15c, 2 for 25c

—Men's fine belts all kinds and sizes 50c to .. $1 50

WIRE DOOR MATTS

During wet and muddy weather the protection of floors and carpets necessitates a mat.

We have just secured the best, made from the best galvanized steel wire woven, in double fabric it is exactly the same on both sides.

Being flexible it readily conforms to uneven surfaces without warping.

It is effective, neat, elastic and self cleaning and practically indistructable,

—Size 16x24 inches, .. $1.25, 18x30 inches .. $1.75

—Size 22x36 inches, .. $2.75, 26x48 inches .. $3 50

ABOUT CLOTHING

The daily increased number of satisfied men our clothing is making is ample payment for the time and care spent in the choosing.

Our first season's trade has been much beyond our expectations Although we are not surprised as the garments are worthy.

Already much of our Fall cloth is on the way toward completion.

Ready cash and unsurpassed buying opportunities have procured for us many lines to sell at prices which, we are sure will mean for us a greatly increased patronage,

Just now we are bending our efforts to the selling of summer clothing.

Takes very little — they sell themselves when seen. Have you been in?

—Men's fine summer Suits in single and double breasted, sack and Norfolk styles $5.00 to $10.00

Agents for Standard Patterns.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

CLOTHING BOUGHT HERE PRESSED FREE OF CHARGE

Everything Is Thoroughly Good

That's certain, at QUICK & ROBERTSON'S—we are more particular about giving than you are in getting it perhaps.

But there are other reasons why you should buy at this store where quality is the first consideration.

We not only make goodness certain by applying every known test for quality, but are equally as careful to price that goodness as common as the ordinary sorts are priced elsewhere.

HERE are a few suggestions of summer fixin's that should interest men and mothers of boys.

FOR BOYS.

Vacation Suits and other wear, things that after good hard wear show the difference between our good sorts at our common prices and cheap sorts, which cost a little less.

—Regulation Sailor Blouse Suits, Cheviot mixtures, stripes and serges, ... $1.25 to $4.50

—Norfolk Jackets, single and double-breasted suits for older boys, extensive showing of plain and fancy mixtures .... $2.00 to $5.00

—Washable Sailor Suits 50c to $1.50.

—Wash Waists and Blouses, 25c to $1.00.

FOR MEN.

—SUMMER SUITS—Such as are impossible to obtain except at the best custom tailors—perfect fitting, stylish garments, suited to men who want the out-of-the-ordinary sorts. Homespuns, Tropical Serges, Worsteds and Flannels.......... $3.75 to $12.00

—OUTING TROUSERS $1.00 to $4.00.

—NEGLIGE SHIRTS—In stripes and patterned materials, such as custom shirt makers would show you as their newest—plain or plaited bosoms.......... 50c to $1.50

—STRAW HATS—Every one new, the largest assortment of the smartest shapes the best makers have produced.

Sailors, in low crown .... 50c to $2.00

Panama shape, the right ones .... 75c to $2.50

QUICK & ROBERTSON

Here is where you buy Johnston's Clothing for Men and Boys.

In The Good Old Summer Time

You will enjoy doing your cooking and baking if you are wise enough to use a

Auto Valvo Blue Flame Oil Stove

The one stove above all others to make your work easy without heating up the whole house

The W. W. CHOWN Company, Limited

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

CALL OPTIONS.

The following are the quotations on call options for one, two and three months from London, Eng.:—

	To mid Aug.	To mid Sept.	To mid Oct.
Canadian Pacific	2½	3¼	4
Hudson's Bay	5	7½	8¾
Atchison	2¼	3	2¼
St. Paul	4	5	6
Erie, common	1¾	2	2¾
Louisville & Nash	2½	3½	5
Missouri, K. & T.	1	1⅛	1¼
Norfolk & Western	1¾	2¾	2½
Ontario & Western	1⅛	1⅛	1⅜
Reading, $50 shares	1¾	1⅛	1½
Southern Common	1⅛	2	2¼
Southern Pacific	3	4	5
U. S. Steel, ordinary	1¾	1⅞	2¼
Union Pacific	2½	3	3½
Wabash, preferred	1¼	1⅞	2½
Baltimore	3	4	5
Denver, common	1¾	2½	2½
Southern pref.	2¼	2¾	3¼
U. S. Steel, preferred	1½	2½	2¼
Grand Trunk ordinary	½	¾	1
Grand Trunk firsts	2¼	3¼	4½
Grand Trunk seconds	2	2½	3
Grand Trunk thirds	1⅛	1⅞	2½

We are prepared to deal in options at the above prices. All transactions in options are for cash, expire at 12 noon on contango day of the account in which the call is due. Free booklet on application.

PARKER & CO., 61 Victoria St., Toronto.

The Last Sad Rites.

The funeral of the late Mr. Charles Turner, who died at Syracuse, N.Y., and whose remains were brought here, took place yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. It was under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Foresters, and the members were out in large numbers. Services were conducted at the house by the Rev. D. Brown, pastor of the Tabernacle Church. The casket was covered with a number of beautiful floral tributes. The bearers were members of the Society, namely, Bros. G. Grills E. T. Cherry, W. Mills, C. Cochrane, O. McCurdy and J. E. Parks.

A TAILOR ON THE PREMISES.

We have a first-class tailor with us all the time at the Oak Hall. Those who have been in the habit of buying ready-to-wear clothing know that very often slight alterations are necessary, and how handy to have a man on the spot who knows his business. Then again, the suit is nicely pressed before leaving the shop. The best of all, we keep them pressed and in repair free for one year.

Died on Sunday Morning.

Mrs. Ann Smith, who has been ill for some two years, died at an early hour on Sunday morning at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Howell, Front street. Deceased, who was 75 years of age, had resided in this city for a number of years and was well-known to many. She was a member of the Tabernacle Church. A husband and family survive.

LATEST NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS

AS FURNISHED TO THE INTELLIGENCER BY H. R. BEATTIE, STOCK BROKER.

New York, July 20.

STOCK	Op'g	H'st	L'st	Close
Atchison	64¾	65	63¼	63½
do. pref	88½	88½	88	88
St. Paul	141¼	141⅞	139¾	140¼
Mo. P.	99	99½	96⅞	97¾
Union. Pac	76¾	77	75½	75½
C. P. R.	122⅛	122½	121	121⅛
South Pac.	46⅛	46⅛	44⅞	45¾
R. I.	27⅛	27⅛	25	25⅛
Ills. C.	129¾	129¾	128	128⅞
Sou. Ry.	22½	22½	21½	21⅛
Texas	26¾	26½	25¾	26
B & O.	83½	83⅛	81¾	81¾
N. Y. C.	117½	117⅛	116¼	116¾
Penna	121	121	120	120¾
Soo	54	54	53	53
T. W.	97	97⅛	96	96
Erie	30⅞	30⅞	30	30
do. pref.	66¼	67	65⅜	65¾
Reading	47⅞	50	48½	48⅞
C. O.	34⅛	34⅛	33	33
O. & W.	23	23	22⅜	22½
Manhattan	133	133	131½	132
W. C.	18¼	18¾	17¾	17¾
L. & N.	106¾	106¾	105¾	106
A. F.	34½	34⅛	33⅞	34
Ner.	63¾	63¾	62¾	62½
Wab	22⅛	23	22	22
do pref.	39	39	38	38⅜
W.U.	83¾	83¾	83	83½
C. G. W.	17⅛	17⅞	16⅞	16⅞
T.C.I.	48	48	44¾	45½
U.S. St.	26⅛	26⅛	25	25⅛
do pref.	76⅞	77	75¾	76
Sugar	115⅞	115⅞	112	113½
B. R. T.	51	51	46⅛	47¾
Po	95	95	93½	93⅞
A. C. P.	47¾	47¾	44½	45
Met.	119	119	117⅞	117⅞
Alc	20	20	18	18⅞

Sept. wheat opened at 76¼; closed at 75⅜

Sept. corn opened at 49¼; closed at 48⅞

All druggists will refund your money if you are not satisfied after using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is everywhere admitted to be the most successful remedy in use for bowel complaints and the only one that never fails. It is pleasant, safe and reliable.

WOOL CRASH.

People are asking what it is. Wool crash is a sort of misnomer. It is not crash, but simply a light cool worsted in a crash weave. Hold it up to the light—you can see through it. Yet it's as tough and strong almost as thick beaver, and wiry enough to hold its shape. For a cool summer vacation knockabout suit, wool crash takes the lead. Good enough, too, for business. Come, see! Suit prices, $3.75, $5, $6 and $7.50.—Quick & Robertson, Belleville's Best Clothiers.

Nearly 500 different kinds of tiny shells go to make up chalk.

Never is time more precious than when some member of the family is attacked by colic, dysentery or any bowel trouble. The doctor is distant, but if Perry Davis' Painkiller is near all danger is soon ended.

His Holiness Pope Leo XIII. Is No More

PASSED PEACEFULLY AWAY AT 4.04 THIS AFTERNOON, ITALIAN TIME.

Rome, July 20.—His Holiness Pope Leo XIII. died at 4.04 this afternoon.

Italian time is about 5 1-2 hours in advance of ours, so the Pope died, according to our time, about 10:30 this morning.

CHURCH CHIMES OF YESTERDAY

NOTES OF SERVICES IN DIFFERENT PLACES OF WORSHIP YESTERDAY.

Bridge St. Church.

A large congregation was present at Bridge Street Church last evening. The subject discussed by the Pastor was "The second coming of Christ," and the text was from the 22nd chapter of Revelations, 12th verse:

"And, behold, I come quickly, and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be."

During the service the choir sang an anthem, "Seek ye the Lord," Miss M. Vermilyea taking the solo. Previous to the taking of the offertory Mrs. J. J. Daggett, of Buffalo, sang a solo entitled "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," which was much appreciated.

Christ Church.

Rev. Prof. Howard conducted services at this church yesterday, which were well attended. In the evening the Rev. gentleman's text was from St. Matthew, 22nd chapter and 42nd verse:

"Saying, What think ye of Christ? whose son is he? The Son of David."

St. Thomas'.

Good congregations were present at both services yesterday, which were conducted by the Rector, Rev. G. R. Beamish. In the morning he preached a powerful sermon from the text found in the 12th chapter of the second Book of Samuel, 13th and 14th verses;

'And Daniel said unto Nathan, I have sinned against the Lord. And Nathan said unto David, the Lord also hath put away thy sin; thou shalt not die;

"Howbeit, because by this deed thou hast given great occasion to the enemies of the Lord to blaspheme, the child also that is born unto thee shall surely die."

As a canker at the heart of a tree would ultimately cause its destruction, so sin in any man, the preacher said, unless fought against and eradicated, would surely cause his downfall. As the work of a canker was gradual, so sin worked gradually in any man, for no one became wholly bad all at once. By fighting against small sins we could prevent large sins taking possession of us. He urged his hearers to remember this, lest their awakening might come too late.

Baptist.

There were good congregations at both services yesterday, and the sermons by the Pastor, Rev. O. C. Elliott, were able efforts. In the evening his text was from Colossians, 3rd chapter and 14th verse:

"And above all these things put on charity, which is the bond of perfectness."

St. Andrew's Church.

The Pastor, Rev. Mr. W. Maclean, conducted the services yesterday. In the evening his sermon was particularly for the young, the text being from Proverbs, 4th chapter, 6th and 7th verses.

At the morning service Mr. Jessop, of Montreal, sang a solo, "Come unto Me," with fine effect. In the evening the male quartette sang "There is rest in Jesus' Arms," and the choir sang "There is a Holy City," the solo of which was admirably taken by Miss Norah Lazier.

Long Delayed Judgment Given.

Police Magistrate Flint gave judgment to-day in the case of John Moore, Jas. Fox and Wm. Hamilton, who were charged with the theft of $100 from D. Mumby, of Bannockburn. The case has been pending for some time. Hamilton was discharged and the other two found guilty. Fox was given six months in the Central Prison and Moore four months.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY.

The uniform size of this remedy has made it the most popular preparation in use for bowel complaints. It is everywhere recognized as the one remedy that can always be depended upon and that is pleasant to take. It is especially valuable for summer diarrhoea in children and is undoubtedly the means of saving the lives of a great many children each year. For sale by all druggists.

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

Black Hair Ayer's Hair Vigor has been restoring color to gray hair for fifty years, and it never fails to do this work, either. And you can rely upon it for stopping your hair from falling. $1. All druggists. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc. Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Miss Ida Scott is spending her holidays at Havelock.

Mrs. (Rev. Dr.) Balfour, of Selby, is a visitor in the city.

Mr. Walter Luscombe is spending his holidays in Toronto.

Mr. Wm. Wood is spending his holidays in the city.

Miss McNinch is at her home at Gananoque enjoying a rest.

Mr. Frank Truiasch, of Montreal, spent yesterday in the city.

Mr. R. Cunnington, of Toronto, is in the city visiting his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Frost, of Toronto, are visiting in the city.

Miss Edith Frost left on Saturday for a visit to friends in Montreal.

Miss Madaline Gaurdieure, of Kingston, is visiting relatives in the city.

Messrs. Charles and Walter Symons have returned from a trip to Quebec.

Dr. Burdett and wife, of St. Paul, Minn., are spending a few days in the city.

Mr. Chas. Hardwick left the city to-day to take a position on the Galt Reporter.

Mr. Chas. McKeown, of Toronto, spent Sunday in the city with his parents.

Mrs. W. H. Ponton and Miss Ponton are leaving for England this week.

Mr. H. Eames, of Chicago, has returned home, after visiting friends in this city.

Mrs. Alex. Minto, of Windsor, is visiting her brother, Mr. W. H. Reed, of Strouds.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Barr (nee Clapp), of Ingersoll, are in the city, the guests of Mrs. Sarah Clapp.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Moodie and daughter, of Chicago, are visiting at Mrs. Kelly's John street.

Mr. Henry Pringle, now of Grand Rapids, Mich., arrived at home on Saturday for a week's visit.

Mrs. E. Fisher, Pine street, and Mrs. D. Collins leave to-morrow for a trip to Quebec and other points east.

Miss Vermilyea, a former graduate of the local Hospital, is temporarily acting as head nurse of that institution.

Mrs. B. D. Bissonette and sons Harold and Russell, of Detroit, are the guests of her sister, Mrs. Kyle, William St.

Rev. A. Doxsee and family are leaving town to-day for a three weeks' visit with friends at Cobourg and Newmarket.

Mrs. Warren H. Hambly and two children, Misses Edith and Kathleen, of Vineland, N.J., are guests of Col. and Mrs. P. H. Hambly.

Mr. Fred Hicks, of Owen Sound, is visiting at Mr. W. H. Wright's, Queen street, as are also Mr. and Mrs. John Topley, of Princeton, N.J.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Daggett, of Buffalo, who have been the guests of Mr. H. Beatty, at Hotel Quinte, for a few days, returned home to-day.

Mr. Angus Pringle leaves to-morrow morning for Michipicotin Harbor, Algoma, to spend a couple of months in the St. Helen Mine there, preparatory to entering McGill College.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Foster returned home Saturday evening from a trip to Washington State and British Columbia, where Mr. Foster had been on business connected with the Grand Trunk Railway.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. James Garrett, now of Brockville, will be pleased to know that Mrs. Garrett, who has been in the hospital in Brockville undergoing an operation, was able to sit up on Saturday, and is now likely to be better than she has been for years.

Miss Edna Baker, daughter of the Rev. E. N. Baker, B.D., is in the city, after seven years' absence. She is being welcomed back by a host of her own and her father's friends. She is the guest of Miss Madeline Young, John street.

Miss Alice Martin, daughter of Mr. John Martin, Dundas St., arrived in the city on Saturday. Miss Martin is a nurse-in-training in the City Hospital of Rochester, N.Y., and, as was expected, has won golden opinions from the Board of Management and the medical faculty for her aptitude, skill and happy manner.

At the Quinte:—E. R. Kearney, F. J. Trulasch, A. D. Thornton and wife, W. Turner, W. R. Carmichael, Montreal; Mrs. Hurst, Napanee; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Miller, Frankford; F. Herrington, Kingston; D. P. McGillvray, Hammonds Port, N.J.; F. W. Boser, W. E. Grim, W. B. Bertram, D. Morrison, J. A. Daggett, Miss D. Laporte, R. S. Pearce, F. W. Hudson, A. Doney, E. M. Javitz, J. E. Brown, E. O. Jones, C. R. Cherry, H. R. Flett, Toronto; F. C. Lalonde, J. W. Hook, J. A. Young, Brockville; T. S. Marshall, Ithaca, N.Y.; J. D. Silk, Pittsburg, Pa.; L. A. Austin, Ogdensburg; A. W. Vradenburgh, Buffalo; A. B. Smith, Hamilton; F. P. Culhane, E. W. Holton, Deseronto; E. B. Ireland, Ottawa; H. Burdett and wife, St. Paul; C. H. White, J. F. White, London; A. J. Bartlett, Chicago.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions ONE CENT A WORD. No less charged than for twenty-five words.

The Judge's Court of Revision re Assessment will be held to-morrow.

On Saturday night three drunks were taken in charge by the police.

A number of persons were disappointed yesterday morning owing to the failure of the steamer North King to call here on her trip across the lake.

The Presbytery of Kingston will meet in St. Andrew's Church, this city, to-morrow.

A young man, whose name could not be learned, but who resides in Deseronto, yesterday afternoon, in attempting to board a freight train near Napanee, was run over and lost both legs. He was taken to the Kingston hospital.

Don't forget the G.T.R. Employees' popular old-time picnic to Massassaga Park, Wednesday, July 22nd. Boats leaving Rathbun's dock hourly. See games programme. 14,16,18,20,21

Best Wednesday holiday excursion, July 22nd, up the bay, through canal and into Lake Ontario with I.O.O.F. Band. Tickets 25c. Auspices of Christ Church. Str. Aletha leaves Corby's wharf at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Vans to convey ticket holders leave Taylor's and McGinnis' corners at 8.30 a.m. Moonlight excursion to Deseronto with band at 8 p.m. 10 in.

Some time between Saturday and this morning 25 feet of garden hose was stolen from the city yard.

Two calls were answered by the police Saturday evening, resulting in one arrest.

Teach Language to Parrots.

A queer business which is carried on with considerable success in certain parts of London is the teaching of language to parrots. There are several persons engaged in this strange educational work. The country into which the bird is to be sent is first ascertained, and a sum of 10 shillings a week is then charged for a period varying from two to three months, according to the capacity of the parrot. With a year's tuition the teacher guarantees a bird with a polyglot vocabulary chosen haphazard from four different languages.

Cockfighting In England.

For centuries cockfighting was encouraged in English schools. Fitzstephen in the twelfth century mentions it as an amusement of Londoners and that yearly at Shrovetide the boys of every school brought cocks to their schoolmasters, and all the forenoon was spent in school witnessing these birds fight. As late as 1790 the income of the schoolmaster of Applecross, in Ross-shire, was drawn partially from cockfight dues. Down to 181? at least there was an annual exhibition of cockfighting at the Manchester grammar school.

Wig Dressing.

Not everybody who can dress a head of real hair becomingly can comb a wig with equal success. There is a special knack in wig dressing. In some shops where wax figures abound one or two of the employees are trained in the art of wig dressing and combine that with their other duties at a slight increase of salary, but in most places the entire business is intrusted to professional wig dressers.

Indiscretion.

"Aren't the perfect trust and confidence engaged people have in each other perfectly beautiful!"

"Perfectly idiotic, I should say."

"Why?"

"Because when I was engaged I told my future wife all about my income and prospects, and now I can't spend a dollar on myself without her knowing about it."

A Cupid Prescription.

"Well, then, how must I make love?"

"First you must believe that there is no one in the world but me."

"I've got that far already."

"Next you must make me believe that there is no one in the world but you."—Life.

An Unkind Suggestion.

"You love my daughter?"

"She's all the world to me, sir."

"Then I don't suppose you'll want a settlement."—Exchange.

Just about the time you conclude you are down and out your feet strike something that will hold you.—Atchison Globe.

The King Lacked Nerve.

Baroness Bonde wrote in her diary the following account of the abdication of Louis Philippe of France on the day of that remarkable occurrence: "An aid-de-camp of the minister of war, who was in the king's cabinet when he abdicated, gave me a detailed account of this most signal piece of cowardice. He had reviewed the troops in the carrousel on horseback, highly rouged, when a cry was raised, 'Voici les Faubourgs!' No one had any orders; no one gave any. The mob rushed forward, shouting, 'Vive la garde nationale! Vivent les troupes!' and shook hands with the outposts. The king retreated precipitately with his sons, and a sublieutenant of the national guard rushed into the palace asking to see him. He was admitted and in the greatest agitation said, 'Your majesty must abdicate.' 'Very well,' says the king. 'In favor of my grandson.' 'No, unconditionally,' says the young and self elected mouthpiece of public opinion. Would you believe it? Of all who were congregated round the royal person Piscatory alone said: 'Go down and head your troops. Fight for your crown and your dynasty.' He was overruled, and they all marched out of the palace except the Duchesse d'Orleans, her children and the Duc de Nemours."

The Frog's Breathing.

The frog's skin is so important as a breathing apparatus that the creature would die at once of suffocation if the pores were closed by a coat of sticky varnish, by dust or in any other way. While we are speaking of his breathing you will notice that his sides do not heave as ours do at each breath we take. A frog has no ribs and cannot inhale and exhale as we do, but is obliged to swallow his air in gulps, and if you will watch this little fellow's throat you will see it continually moving in and out as one gulp follows another. In order to swallow, his mouth must be closed. Just try to swallow with your mouth wide open and you will see what I mean. A frog, then, always breathes through his nose, and if you held his mouth open he would suffocate as surely as though you gave his skin a coat of varnish.

Wonders In Nature.

A thousand wonders in nature are lost to the human eye and only revealed to us through the microscope. Think of dividing a spider's web into a thousand strands or counting the arteries and nerves in the wing of a gossamer moth! Yet by the powerful lens of a microscope it is found there are more than 4,000 muscles in a caterpillar. The eye of a drone contains 14,000 mirrors, and the body of every spider is furnished with four little lumps pierced with tiny holes, from each of which issues a single thread, and when a thousand of these from each lump are joined together they form the single line of which the spider spins its web and which we call a spider's thread. Spiders have been seen as small as a grain of sand, and these spin a thread so fine that it takes 4,000 of them put together to equal in size a single human hair.

He Burned Lots of Wood.

A veracious chronicler of the times of Jonathan Edwards gives figures which prove a liberal consumption of fuel in the household of the great theologian. In the winter of 1740-41 the town of Northampton supplied the Edwards parsonage with seventy-five loads of wood. In the next season eighty-two loads were delivered. For the succeeding winter the total was seventy-eight, and a year afterward the astonishing quantity of ninety-five loads was supplied. There was no lack of fire at the Edwards hearth. Is it wonderful, then, that he preached burning sermons?

Suspicious of Her Aunt.

"Mamma," said little Marguerite when the family and the visitors from the country had sat down to breakfast, "is it true that people who snore have bad consciences? I read in one of my books that they do."

"I don't know, dear. Perhaps they have. What makes you ask such a funny question?"

"I was just thinking, if it's true, Aunt Susan must at least have killed somebody once."

His Measure.

"Naw," said the head waiter, "that man that jest went out ain't worth much."

"How do you know?" inquired the favorite customer.

"Oh, it's easy for us waiters to take a man's measure."

"I suppose you measure him from tip to tip, eh?"

Behind Bars.

Bus Driver (to car man of van in front, which is blocking the way)—J'yer, get on, get on! You've bin keepin' us waitin' five minutes.

Van Driver (turning round)—Five minutes? Well, that ain't so long. You 'ad to wait five years once, 'adn't yer?—London Tit-Bits.

White and Black.

Mrs. Suburbs—I suppose, now that Uncle Mose is better, he is out doing a little whitewashing?

Aune Chloe—No; he's at home doin' a little black washin'. He's gibin' lil Ephrum a bath in de wash boiler in de kitching.

Sure of Him.

Kitty—They tell me Fred has proposed to you?

Bertha—Well, no; not exactly, but it amounts to that. He asked me night before last if my father was worth as much as they say he is.—Boston Transcript.

A docile disposition will, with application, surmount every difficulty.

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

LACE— CURTAINS

An Odd Lot of

English Nottingham and Brussels Net Lace Curtains

This stock being so varied, it would be impossible to enumerate the different prices.

Come and inspect these goods and their quality and you will readily understand what a money saving investment awaits every one that will take advantage of this sale.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson
DIRECT IMPORTERS

Daily Intelligencer.

THE INTELLIGENCER IS SOLD AT
J. W. London's and G. Wardhaugh's.

Local Reading Advertisements,

words 50 cents; 2 cents per word first insertion, per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words; contracts for long periods made at office.

For the Baby

Warm weather makes the feeding of the baby a serious problem. This is a trying season on little folks and everything depends upon their digestion. If the food now used does not agree perfectly find one that will. We have all the best foods and take pains to supply them fresh and in perfect condition. We carry Nestle's, Wampole's, Mellen's, Christie's, Imperial Granum, Peptogine with Powder, Malted Milk, Robinson's Barley, Allenbury's, Lactated Food, etc., etc.

Also all the latest and most hygienic nursery supplies.

McKeown's DRUG STORE

Double Picnics on Wednesday

With double picnics Wednesday we'll be very busy to-morrow sending out supplies. We'll have plenty made, but would ask you to get your orders in early.

CHAS. S. CLAPP

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario.
AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE, No. 46 Bridge St., Belleville.

J. P. C. PHILLIPS.
Manager Belleville Branch.

Doing good is the only certainly happy action of a man's life.

MONITOR

This is another fine Mantle Clock, not quite so expensive as Gadski in last week's advertisement, but fully as serviceable. It is an eight-day hour and half strike on cathedral gong, fancy columns with trimmings and drop handles, in every way a beautiful clock. Our price only $5.50.

T. BLACKBURN.
Eyes examined free of charge. Jeweller & Optician.

We will still keep on SLAUGHTERING
—OUR—
China Stock

25c Cups and Saucers	12½c
25c Cups and Saucers	25c
50c Cups and Saucers	6c and 5c
10c Mugs	5c
Large Biscuit Jars	35c

China at prices that's wonderful.

McINTOSH BROS.

THE LIAR OF WINTERGREEN SHOAL.

BY JAS. A. TUCKER.

WHERE the little driftwood fire in front of "Bush" Gallagher's "shack" danced fitfully to the whimsical music of the west wind, the figures of four men reclined uneasily. Uneasily, for it was a rough beach—a narrow margin, bowlder-built and deadwood-strewn, 'twixt the dark, forbidding "bush" and the yet more dark, forbidding water. Twinkling lights, at intervals up and down the shore, told of other encampments and of civilized man's love of the cheer of fire, when divorced from his accustomed haunts and set down in the midst of inscrutable night and unfamiliar nature.

It was the time of the fall trolling at Wintergreen Shoal, on the Georgian. Men had come out from town to enjoy the unsurpassed sport, and to share the harvest of the waters with the bronzed and hardened fishermen and farmers. A fine season it had been, too, and great was the catch of that most toothsome and delicate of finny creatures—the plump, meaty, muscular, and always game salmon-trout, the "namaycush" of the fresh-water seas. Forty, fifty and even sixty of these mottled beauties, weighing anywhere from four to six or seven pounds, and taken, fish by fish, by the incomparably sporty method of line and spoon, had this season been no unusual day's record for experienced trollers.

"Bush" Gallagher was not only one of the oldest settlers and farmers along the lake shore—he was one of the best fishermen, hunters and trappers also, and, like all men of real prowess in these pursuits, something of an accomplished liar to boot. "Bush's" farmhouse being a couple of miles back from the beach, he had built a fishing shanty down by the water. Here he kept his boat and hither he came and established headquarters every fall when the fish schooled in to the shoal. Often he found profit in sharing the accommodation of the shack with townsmen, who feared rheumatism and colds from sleeping in tents, or in wigwams, or under upturned boats, in the latter end of October. And so it happened that this fall "Bush" Gallagher had three "boarders" who were glad enough to pay $2 a head for a week's comfortable shelter, with "yarns" to enliven the long nights and pointers on the subtleties of successful trolling from the most renowned fisherman and romancer of Wintergreen Shoal.

"Bush" had been, on the evening in question, reciting for the second time a marvelous account of the great fishing of thirty years before.

"Yes, siree, that was a great fall, a great fall, I say. Why, sir, us farmers took so many trout we couldn't eat 'em, salt 'em, or give 'em away, and so we fed 'em to the pigs by the hundr'd, sir; yes, sir, I say by the hundr'd. An' would you bee-lieve it, so much fish diet did the pigs have all that fall that when killin' time come, on towards Chris'mas, would you bee-lieve it, there wasn't a ham or a pork-chop or a side o' bacon in all this lake-shore settlement that didn't taste disagreeable strong o' fish—yes, sir, I say disagreeable strong."

"It's a wonder," quietly remarked Mr. Joshua Ketch, the dignified K.C., who was one of "Bush" Gallagher's guests and auditors, and who at that time was adding the right proportion of aqua pura to a modest dose of dark liquid from a stone jar, "it's a wonder that, with so much phosphorous diet, the porkers did not run entirely to brain rather than bacon."

"Yes," added Dr. Killem, "and outstrip their owners in intelligence."

"Which wouldn't 'a' been a very hard matter, sir, not a very hard matter, I say, considerin' the intellec' of a lot o' the neighbors hereabouts," added "Bush" with a laugh at his dexterity in turning the shaft aside from himself.

"Now, I say, 'Bush,'" said "the Kid," his third protege, drawing contentedly at his pipe, "we've had a good deal of fiction. I suppose that's but natural, seeing this is a fishing party. Let's have some fact for a change."

"I don't comprehend you, sir; what do you mean, sir?" said "Bush." "I've been tellin' you gospel truth, an' I hope you don't mean to suspicionate the same."

"Ah, go on 'Bush,'" put in the lawyer, winking with his weather eye. "The Kid's right. You needn't be so dead serious about it. Now, tell us, honest Indian, hope-you-may-die, what, in your judgment, was the most exciting occurrence in the history of this shoal."

"Bush" was silent for some moments, not so much in the effort to recall the past as with the evident purpose of appearing to disdain so direct an impeachment of his veracity. He stirred the fire, put on a fresh log—for the night, though pleasant for October, was growing late—and then, after resuming his seat, bit off a "quarter section" of a plug of black tobacco.

"In 1869," he began, dreamily, "yes, it was '69, 'cause that's the year there was nine cows killed by lightnin' on Beaconsfield Jones' farm, an' the year the nine cows was killed was the same year Martha Jane Meredith an' 'Slug' Parki'son got hitched, an' the year them two got hitched was the same year that—but there's my story. Well, in 1869, as I was sayin', there was a stranger come down the Center road, one stormy October night, and turned in at Pete McLean's. Pete was a pretty well-to-do farmer, you mus' understand, but not too well liked in this here neighborhood, fer he was keen on money an' always got ahead o' the other feller in a deal. This stranger was a shabby-lookin' customer, with seedy clo'es, an' a hooked nose an' curly hair an' beard. He had a big carpetbag bulgin' out with stuff, and he said he was a travelin' salesman (I'd call him a peddler), an' expected to do business with the settlers in these parts. He give his name as Sol Nitler or Needler, an' he asked fer a night's lodgin' an' breakfast at Pete McLean's. Pete, bein' keen fer money I suppose, dickered with him fer the price an' took him in—a mos' unheard-of thing fer a farmer in them days to charge a stranger fer a night's roostin' an' a slab o' sowbelly in the mornin'. But I daresay that stranger wouldn't eat pork an' had'ter have fresh eggs, an' that may be why Pete charged him, after all.

"Well, Sol Nitler was around this neighborhood fer three or four days, sellin' jewelry."

"Selling jewelry?" exclaimed the K.C., in the incredulous tone of a barrister cross-examining a hostile witness.

"Yes, jewelry, that's what I said," went on "Bush." "P'rhaps you don't know, Mr. Ketch, that you can sell luxuries where you can't git the price fer necessaries. But that's not in yer law books, it's jest a law of human nature. Sol Nitler drove a thrivin' trade, an' every night, reg'lar as the hens went to roost, he returned to Pete McLean's an' paid fer his bed an' breakfast. These fac's I wasn't seized of at the time, bein' as I was down here on the shoal, like most o' the men folk. Pete McLean—he wasn't fishin' much that fall.

"Sol Nitler engaged with Jim Gregory, who was goin' ter drive to the railway, twenty miles away, ter call fer him at McLean's an' take him along. Pete didn't know of this, and when Jim Gregory drives inter his place in the mornin' bright an' early an' asks fer the Jew, Pete vows Sol ain't there—that he'd never came back the night before. Jim says that's strange. Pete allows it is strange, an' talks kind o' confused like as if Jim's suspicionin' him of some wrong-doing. Of course Jim ain't doin' anything of the kind, and drives off to the railway, thinkin' most likely Sol had took some other chance.

"Nex' night, as I was sleepin' here in a makeshift balsam an' bark wigwam, I woke up all of a start round about midnight, and pretty soon I thinks I hears the 'tuck-tuck, tuck-tuck' of steady rowin' out on the lake. 'Queer time o' night,' thinks I, 'fer anyone to be out in a boat. Mischief's abroad, someone liftin' nets.' So I gets up an' creeps out to the beach. It wasn't very dark. There was a moon, but it was behind a bank of cloud. I could see a boat out about quarter of a mile from shore, and, by jiminy! come to look, my boat was gone from the beach. My first idea was ter holler at the thieves, but on second thought I knowed it was better to sit tight and wait developments.

"The boat was manoeuverin' round out there fer some time, an' then it puts in fer shore again. As it draws near I crouches down in the underbrush, and pretty soon I sees there's two men in the boat, an' hanged if they don't look like—well, never mind who they looked like; that's part of my story. They pushes in, very quiet-like, and before the boat can scrape her snout on the stones, out they steps as noiseless as jackrabbits an' lifts her bodily—she was just a little duck-boat—up the beach. 'They've got no fish, that's sure,' says I to myself. Then they dives through the bush, quick-footed as red Injins, takin' the direction of the settlement, an' leavin' me crouchin' here like a fool, too serprised ter tell my own name if I'd 'a' been asked sudden.

"I confides in the boys nex' day as to what I'd seen, an' the yarn spreads round and people is sayin' pretty soon that so-an'-so is mean enough an' graspin' enough ter lift nets, but they're glad he got nothin' fer his pains. But I knows in my heart it was no net-liftin' business, fer the only net in that direction was mine, an' nex' mornin' it was fuller o' fish than I'd ever seen a net before. But I keeps my counsel on that p'int.

"Soon Jim Gregory comes back from the railway an' brings word that Sol Nitler's not there nor been there, an' Jim tells somebody what passed at McLean's that mornin' he drove off, an' the story spreads, an' everybody matches my story with Jim's an' makes a piece o' them, an' the fat's in the fire. The men of the settlement meet at the blacksmith shop an' discuss the hull thing, pro an' con, an' a deputation is sent up to Pete McLean's, with me as spokesman.

"We call's Pete out o' the barn an' I tells him, straight up and down, that we don't want to make no charge nor no trouble, but we think circumstances calls fer explanation, and if he knows anything of the whereabouts of Sol Nitler he'd better say where or suffer the consequences. Peter McLean turns red an' then white, an' swears an' curses, tellin' us he don't know nothin' o' the Jew, an' we can go to all kinds o' places, if we like, fer any further information; an' he winds up by sayin' my yarn about the boat is a infernal lie, which he'd make me prove it. An' he calls on his son Martin to back him up.

"I keeps my head an' says that's all very well, but 'Meantime, Mr. McLean,' I says, 'we're goin' ter search the woods an' fields round your house to the last rod, an' we're goin' ter drag the lake, and to-morrow we'll send ter town fer a law-officer to further investigate.' Peter McLean rushes into the house an' comes tearin' out with a shotgun, and vows a bloody oath that the first man who moves another foot on his land except in the direction of the gate will die in his tracks.

"That settled it. Not bein' armed, we retreated in good order. But that very night we sent Bill Dougall to town on horseback fer the Crown Attorney. We also started ter drag the lake, but we couldn't find nothin', an' never did find nothin'. An' nex' day, when the law-officer arrived, what do you think?—Pete an' Martin had vanished clean as a half-hooked eel. No trace of either o' them was ever found, nor any of the Jew, though diligent search an' enquiry was made. Now, did Pete an' Martin kill the Jew or didn't they? In other words, is it true, as Spokeshave says, that murder will out?"

This gruesome yarn, with its singularly inconclusive ending, was surely a somewhat heavy and indigestible repast to retire on, and it would have been no matter for wonder had there been troubled dreams that night under the hospitable roof of "Bush" Gallagher. But exercise and fresh air are valiant enemies of the whole genus nightmare, and "Bush's" guests slept sweetly and arose early for their last day's sport.

Now it so happened that about noon Dr. Killem and "the Kid" pulled ashore for lunch at a point where a gray-bearded old man had his boat drawn up also. The three drifted into conversation, and the old man mentioned that his name was Bill Dougall. Then the doctor, still full of "Bush's" story, laid open his knowledge of the strange occurrences of October, 1869. Bill Dougall seemed mildly surprised and asked what the doctor was driving at, and when "Bush" Gallagher's whole story had been repeated, the old fellow lay back and shook with laughter like the traditional "bowl full of jelly."

"One of 'Bush' Gallagher's yarns, eh?" he exclaimed. "Well, when ye've known 'Bush' as long as I have ye'll put as much dependence in his murder stories as in his fish yarns, an' that's not sayin' much."

Of course "Bush" was taxed with deception at the evening camp-fire. Not the ghost of a smile or of a blush haunted his countenance. "You suspicioned my veracity when I was tellin' gospel truth, an' yet you wanted entertainment, an' you got it, didn't you?" This was the only explanation he deigned.

"Right you are, 'Bush,'" said Mr. Ketch, K.C. "Still, you might have added, as a sort of postscript, you know, that there never was a Sol Nitler; that Peter McLean died here in bed ten years ago; that his son (still residing in this township) is called McAlpine, not Martin; that there was no railway in this section of the country in 1869, and finally that you were not here then yourself — all which I myself have quietly gathered from your own lips to-day, independently of the discovery of the Doctor and 'the Kid.'"

"Had you been educated at college, 'Bush,' you'd be one of the distinguished historical novelists of the day," added "the Kid."

"Or, if you'd been trained in my profession," said the Doctor, "you'd be the right kind of man to give expert medical testimony in the courts."

"Gentlemen," said Mr. Ketch, K.C., "if 'Bush' had been brought up to the law, I will not venture to say what would have happened. But anyway, here's looking at you, 'Bush.' May you live long and 'lie' in peace. Everybody drink hearty, for this is our last night, for a year at least, on Wintergreen Shoal."

At the Window.

A Lonely Old Woman's Strange Flirtation.

Often, on returning to my apartment late at night, I saw a lighted window across the little garden which separates my house from its neighbors. Sometimes the window stood open, and in the dim light I could see the graceful outlines of a woman's form—a woman leaning on the sill, looking out.

One night in April, when the fair unknown was at the window, I raised my hat, and received a bow in return. My heart was thrilled. I seemed to discern a marvelous charm in the face which was shaded by the folds of a lace scarf thrown carelessly over the head. After this I saluted the lady every night, and always received the same slow, graceful bow in return.

From that time on my heart was filled with thoughts of my neighbor; she became dearer to me every night. Soon we began to communicate in a sign language which I had learned from an old uncle, and which, by a strange chance, she knew better than I.

At the outset, she exacted the most perfect discretion and a promise not to seek to know who she was until the moment when she herself chose to reveal her identity. I solemnly promised and our intimacy began. She responded only by degrees to my ardor, showing a curiosity at first which was gradually succeeded by a warmer feeling. Finally, one night in September, her heart yielded entirely, though at a distance. Oh, that September night, with its silvery ships on an ethereal sea, its round lamp shaded by veils of tulle blown aside by the western breeze, its trees rustling like the drapery of goddesses!

Autumn passed, then winter, and the idyl was still an idyl. In vain I supplicated, offering my life itself for an interview. It was denied me under the pretext of a sort of vow which she could not yet break. When spring came I was on the verge of madness; I grew thin and pale, with no interest in any hour except the one in which the loved form appeared at the window. And yet that was an hour of grief and despair, of vain entreaties and torturing passion.

One night the light in her window did not appear, and the next night it was still dark. Full of anxiety, I sat watching for hours, haunted by the most melancholy presentiments. On the morning of the third day, I received a letter, asking me to call at the office of a lawyer who was entirely unknown to me. Instinct told me that I was at last to hear news of my love. I responded to the summons at once, and was received in an old-fashioned office by a stout gentleman, who informed me that I was sole heir of Mlle. V——, a client of his, who had died a few days before.

"The fortune is in real estate and bonds," remarked the notary; "it amounts to about one hundred and sixty thousand dollars. As to the will, it is incontestable; it was made under my personal direction. There is also a letter which I was bidden to deliver to you personally."

I took the envelope, and stammered, in a trembling voice: "I will return for details later."

He bowed deferentially, and I went away in an excited frame of mind. I secluded myself in a corner of a cafe to read the message from the dead. It ran as follows:

"Forgive a lonely old woman for owing to you the only happiness of her life. Plain in feature and proud in disposition, I have never been able to care for any of the men who have sought my love; all of them repelled me by their coarseness and hypocrisy. So I have reached the age of seventy with a heart full of tenderness, and without ever having had the divine joy of thinking of a human being as a believer thinks of his God. You have at last given me that ineffable pleasure; thanks to you, I have enjoyed a year of ecstasy. I am satisfied now, for I have lived, and, in my last hour, it is my greatest hope that you will treasure a slight remembrance of your poor friend at the window."—Adapted from the French of J. H. Rosny by H. Twitchell.

"I don't understand how E. H. Harriman got up about two weeks after his operation for appendicitis," said one of a group at the club, "when it took me six weeks to get on my feet."

"Oh, well, your time was not so valuable," etc., from the crowd. Meanwhile the doctor in the group had been silent.

"You heard, of course, what they found?" he ventured. General interest—

"Why, the appendix was full of undigested securities, and all they had to do was to cut the coupons off."—New York Times.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.
—FOR—
Stylish and Durable Turnouts.

—Surreys
—Corning Buggies
—Piano Box Buggies
—Rubber Tire Buggies
—Micadoes
—Phaetons
—Bike Buggies
—Democrats
—Grocer Wagons
—Butcher Wagons

Cheese Factory Milk Wagons.
Steel Tubular Axle Lumber Wagons.

Rubber Tires put on your old wheels at reasonable prices.

Mill St., - - Belleville

TWO DAYS SALE.

Muslins, Foulards and Ginghams.

NATHAN JONES.

In order to clear them quickly we will sell for two days all our Colored Muslins and Foulards, worth from 12½c to 35c yard, and Ginghams from 10c to 20c yard

All at 7c yard.

NATHAN JONES.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's. At Wallbridge & Clarke's

Supplies For Camp or Cruise

New York Biscuits

In "In-er Seal" pkgs.

Uneeda "Jinger" Wafers, Butter Gems, Cheese Biscuits, German Zwieback, Pretzelettes, etc., etc.

Christie's Fancy Biscuits

Fresh supplies every week — 40 varities.

Heintz's Pickles

Heintz's Celery Sauce.
Heintz's India Relish.
Heintz's Sweet Midgets.
Heintz's Sweet Pickles.

Spanish Olives

A fine assortment of Olives from 10cts per bottle up.

Campers Supplies

Essence of Coffee, Condensed Milk, Lime Juice, Raspberry Vinegar, Fancy Cheese, New Pack Lobster and Shrimps, French Sardines, Scallops, Deviled Crabs, Concentrated Soups, French Potage, Beef Extracts, etc., etc.

Pickles and Sauces

A complete assortment of English and American Pickles and Sauces, including Pickled Walnuts, Onions, Chow Chow, Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce, Yorkshire Relish, Mushroom Catsup, Harvey's Sauce, Sultana Sauce, Chutney's Capers, Durkee's Salad Dressing, etc., etc.

Delicious Teas

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious English Breakfast Teas in lead packets at 30, 40, 50 and 60cts per lb.

Canned Meats

New Packs. Finest Quality.
Whole Ox Tongues.
Lunch Tongues.
Lamb's Tongues.
Boned Chicken.
Boned Turkey.
Boned Duck.
Pate de foie.
Potted Ham.
Potted Tongue.
Sliced Dried Beef.
Ham Loaf.
Veal Loaf.
Chicken Tamales.
Lunch Beef.
Lunch Bacon.
Chicken, Ham and Tongue.
Pigs Feet.
Jellied Tenderloins.
Vienna Sausages.
Luncheon Sausages.
Baked Beans—plain or in Tomato or Chili Sauce, etc., etc., etc.

Ale and Stout, Wines, etc.

Carling's, Labatt and Davies' Dominion Ale, Bass' Ale, Dow's Sand Porter, Guinness' Stout, in prime condition.

Gurd's Ginger and Soda Water Appolinaris and Radnor Water.

Barton & Guestier's and Nath. Johnston's Bordeaux Clarets and Sauterne AT POPULAR PRICES.

Rhine Wine and Burgundy Cordials and Liqueurs.

Light Canadian Wines, red or white, at lowest prices.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
EST'D. 1871.
BRIDGE ST. Tel. 139.
Branch Store
Front St.—Tel. 157.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 37. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, JULY 21, 1903 NO. 67

How Iron-ox Tablets Completely Cured Jas. Huston of 20 Years' Serious Trouble.

January 27, 1903.

I cannot express in words the praise that is due to Iron-ox Tablets, which I got as a trial package from our druggist, Mr. McDonald, who told me they were just what I wanted. I took them more for fun, but before I had finished one box I got great relief. I was subject to great misery after meals, with bloating, and would rift up bile of the bitterest taste, and always woke up in the morning in the same way for the last twenty years. Had tried all medicines, but now I am completely cured, and it was by taking Iron-ox Tablets. Words cannot express my gratitude to you.

JAS. HUSTON,
Victoria Hotel, Virden,
Manitoba.

Fifty Iron-ox Tablets, in an attractive aluminum pocket case, 25 cents at druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price. The Iron-ox Remedy Co., Limited, Walkerville, Ont.

He Didn't Know the Sex.

Mother—Do you think that young man has matrimonial intentions, my dear?

Daughter—I certainly do, mamma. He tried to convince me last night that I looked prettier in that two dollar hat than in the one that cost twenty.—Judge.

With Good Reason.

She—Now that we are going to be married we must begin to save. Promise me you will do nothing you cannot afford.

He—But in that case I would have to break off the engagement.

Sincerity is the basis of all true friendship. Without sincerity it is like a ship without ballast.

LEO'S SOUL HAS GONE HOME

Pope's Death Was Really Grand, Sublime and Serene.

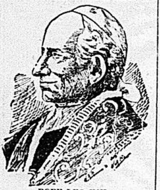
FINAL COURAGE SUPREME.

Pontiff Died at 4.04 P.M., Monday, July 20, After Twenty-Five Years as Supreme Ruler of the Catholic World—Papal Authority Goes on, Cardinal Oreglia Being in Full Command Until College of Cardinals Elect a Successor to Leo XIII.

Rome, July 21.—Pope Leo XIII. is dead.

His life flickered out at four minutes past four o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The period of over two weeks that Pope Leo passed in the shadow of death was no less wonderful than his life. The pleuro-pneumonia, with which His Holiness had been suffering, was scarcely so responsible for his death as the inevitable decay of tissue following old age. The emaciated and lifeless frame, which held so brave a spirit lies on the bed in the Vatican beside which almost all the world has prayed. The red damask coverlet rests lightly on the body, the cardinal's scarlet cape is about the shoulders, while on his head has been placed the Papal hood of velvet, bordered with ermine. A white silk handkerchief is bound about his chin, and in the hands, which have blessed so many thousands, has been placed a crucifix. So the body of Pope Leo will remain until to-day, watched by uniformed officers of the guard and rough clad Franciscan penitentiaries.



POPE LEO XIII.

College of Cardinals.

To-day the sacred college of cardinals will assemble for the impressive ceremony of officially pronouncing Pope Leo dead. After this sad function has been performed the body will be taken to the small throne room adjoining the death chamber, where it will be embalmed. The funeral ceremonies will extend over nine days, the remains being removed to the Cathedral of St. Peter's, where they will lie in state. The ultimate resting place of the dead Pontiff will be in the magnificent basilica of St. John the Lateran.

Pope's Final Moments.

Pope Leo's final moments were marked by that same serenity and devotion, and, when he was conscious, that calm intelligense which is associated with his twenty-five years' Pontificate. His was no easy death. An hour before he died, turning to Dr. Lapponi and his devoted valet, Pio Centra, he murmured, "The pain I suffer is most terrible."

Yet his parting words were not of the physical anguish that he suffered, but were whispered benedictions upon the cardinals and his nephews, who knelt at the bedside, and his look was toward the great ivory crucifix hanging in the death chamber. Practically all the cardinals now in Rome kneeling at the bedside, watched the passing of his soul. Earlier in the day Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli had impressivley pronounced the absolution in articulo moris.

Death Was Really Grand.

The condition of His Holiness varied from agony to coma. Of this supreme moment Dr. Lapponi gives an impressive description:

"Death occurred through exhaustion, although in the last two hours Pope Leo made a supreme effort to gather all his energies. He succeeded in recognizing those about him by the sound of their voices, and his sight was almost entirely lost. Still, he made a marvelous display of his energy, and even his death was really grand. It was resigned and serene. Very few examples can be given of a man of such advanced age, after so exhaustive an illness, showing such supreme courage in dying. The Pontiff's last breath was taken exactly at four minutes past four. I approached a lighted candle at his mouth three times, according to the traditional ceremonial, and afterwards declared the Pope to be no more. I then went to inform Cardinal Oreglia, the dean of the sacred college, who immediately assumed full power and gave orders that the Vatican be cleared of all curious persons having no right to be therein. Contemporaneously the cardinal instructed Mgr. Righi, master of ceremonies, to send two Swiss guards from the Clementine Hall to close all the entrances to the Vatican and dismiss all persons from the death chamber, the body being entrusted to the Franciscan penitentiaries."

Passing of Supreme Power.

Meantime events of momentous importance to Catholic christendom were occurring. The death of Pope Leo meant the passage of the supreme power into the hands of the sacred college of cardinals. The perfect administrative machinery of the church provided against the slightest interruption of the governing authority. As the senior member of the sacred college, Cardinal Oreglia, to whom the Pope yesterday solemnly confided the interests of the church, Cardinal Oreglia has become the striking personality of the hour.

The Funeral Ceremonies.

Only the most general funeral arrangements have thus far been made, as the shock of the Pope's death for the moment, occupies all attention. Cardinal Oreglia, together with the members of the sacred college, will determine the details of the elaborate funeral ceremonies, which will last nine days.

THE DEAD POPE'S CAREER.

Interesting Sketch of the Life of Joachim Vincent Raphael Lodovico Pecci, Born March 2, 1810.

High up in a cleft of Monti Lepini, a portion of the Volscian range, is situated the little town of Carpineto. Its five thousand inhabitants pursue the even tenor of their way far from the stir of the world. Though but fifty miles southwest of Rome, its inaccessibility practically cuts it off from the fretful rush of this age. No railway desecrates the quiet of the mountain hamlet, and few care to toil up the zig-zag path that leads to this fragment of the old world. It is surrounded by ancient fortifications. Early in the seventeenth century a monastery of the Reformed Franciscan Monks was established there. Its quaint mediaeval houses and streets straggle with picturesque lack of plan over its uneven resting place. It was to this refuge that a noble family of Siena came about 1530, driven from its native place by internecine feuds. This family bore the surname of Pecci. It settled down, and its members became distinguished in the church and in the law courts. It was in this quiet spot that, on March 2, 1810, Joachim Vincent Raphael Lodovico Pecci, the future Pontiff, was born. His mother was the soul of every good work of piety and act of philanthropy set on foot in the town. His father was an officer in Napoleon's legions.

His Early Training.

The boy was of a delicate constitution, and his mind was never turned by the glamor of his father's profession. Evidence of this is found in the fact that in his fourteenth year, on being chosen from his fellows to deliver an oration before the assembled faculty and students of his college, he chose as his subject the moral and bloodless triumph of the Holy See over the brute violence of Napoleon's despotism.

In 1817 the family moved to Rome in order that the lad might attain some tincture of letters. A year later he was placed in the Jesuit college at Viterbo, where he remained for six years. Among his schoolmates there was the venerable Father Telhier, S.J., who died not many years ago in Montreal, Superior-General of the Mission in Canada. In his eleventh year, while still in the care of the Jesuits, he was brought very near to death's door by a sickness that impaired his health for the remainder of his life. He was one of the first students to be enrolled in the Collejie Romano, after its restoration to the Jesuit order in 1825. In this year he headed a deputation of students who waited on Pope Leo XII. The character and personality of this pious man left an indelible impression on the youth's mind. It was then, no doubt, that his priestly ambition was fired.

Distinctions at College.

The academic course of Joachim Pecci was one of brilliance, and foreshadowed the greatness of the mature man. From his twelfth year he had written Latin prose and verse with facility and elegance. In 1828 he is recorded as being first of his class in physics and chemistry. At the close of his course in 1830 the high distinction was conferred upon him of being called upon to represent his college in a defence against all-comers of theses from the subject-matter of three years teaching. This tourney of mentality was a great scholastic event, and the highest dignitaries entered the lists on these occasions.

Unfortunately his frail constitution forbade that he should pluck this laurel. In the work of preparation he broke down and his physician would not allow him to participate in the strife of arguments.

At the completion of his arts course in 1830 he entered on the study of Divinity at the University of the Sapienza, or, more properly, the University of Rome. He so excelled in his first year that he was again selected for public disputation.

Register records: "The young disputant gave such evidence of his ability that one may easily divine to what distinction he is sure to attain." Such was his success that he was asked to repeat the lectures on philosophy to the students of the German college.

Enters Diplomatic Service.

Having cast in his lot with the secular priesthood he had in 1832 to choose between parochial duty or the diplomatic service of the Pontificial Government. He chose the latter and entered the academy for noble ecclesiastics. Here he was instructed by the most eminent jurists in civil and canon law. He continued to push his studies in theology and won notable honors. The eyes of the highest dignitaries had been drawn to the young scholar by the time he became Doctor of Civil and Canon Law. On the accession of Gregory XVI. to Peter's chair, Cardinal Pacca recommended warmly young Pecci to his notice. Accordingly in January of the year in which Victoria ascended the throne of Great Britain, he entered on his first clerical appointment as Domestic Prelate to Gregory. On Nov. 17 and 24 respectively he received subdeaconship and deaconship of Mgr. Sinbaldi, archbishop of Damietta, at the Church of St. Andrew on the Quirinal. On the 31st of December of the same year the order of priesthood was conferred upon him by Cardinal Odescalchi.

Administrative Faculties.

The young priest was, in February, 1838, appointed Governor of the Papal Province of Benevento. The state, though only forty-six square miles in extent, was in a condition of turbulence bordering on anarchy. The new governor had to deal with brigands and smugglers. Hardly had he entered on his duties than he was struck down by typhoid fever and his physicians pronounced his case hopeless. To the astonishment and joy of all his life was spared. Before his recall in 1841 he had transformed the province. Of his rule Right Rev. Bernard O'Reilly says in his excellent biography of Leo XIII: "With the extirpation of brigandage, the expulsion of political conspirators and refugees, and the revival of agriculture and industry, it was now an easy task to govern Benevento."

Further honors were waiting him. In May, 1841, he was appointed Delegate of Spoleto and was sent to Perugia. It was regarded by the church a most important commission, as the state was permeated with revolutionary societies and anti-Christian movements. His period of government was a repetition of his success at Benevento. Among other of his innovations was the establishment of the Perugia Savings Bank. He recognized that education was a potent agent for the regeneration of Italy and used all his influence to open schools where there were none, and to improve them where they existed.

Created Archbishop.

In his thirty-third year on January 27, he was created titular archbishop of Damietta, and was, on March 19, transferred to fill the post of Apostolic Nuncio at the court of Brussels. Difficult and more difficult were the tasks assigned to him. Belgium was at this time a hotbed of conspiracies against church and State. Education again became the care of Nuncio Pecci, and he set himself to build up the denominational schools and colleges. At court he won golden opinions, and Leopold I. was once compelled to say, "Really, Monsignor, you are as clever a politician as you are an excellent churchman." When in the autumn of 1845 he was recalled to become Bishop of Perugia, he bore with him a request from Leopold, that the Pope would confer on his young Ambassador the distinction of a cardinal's hat. His return was delayed by a month's visit at the court of St. James, in England, and several weeks' stay in Paris, so that when at last he arrived in Rome, Gregory was at death's door and unable to read the recommendation. It was the Pope's expressed intention, however, to bestow upon him the red hat, an intention the fulfillment of which was only prevented by the death of the Pontiff. It was not till Dec. 19, 1853, that Pius IX. raised him to this eminence, giving him the presbyteral title of St. Chrysojonus.

Burdensome Honors.

The episcopate of Bishop Pecci fell upon the darkest days of the Roman Catholic Church. It was the period during which temporal power was sequestrating the Papal property and revenues. In his bishopric he labored to strengthen the cause of the church by strengthening and reorganizing the educational and charitable institutions. He kept a close watch on the training and teaching of his clergy. For the encouragement of study of Christian philosophy, he, in 1858, drew up a constitution and rules for an academy of St. Thomas Aquinas, in conformation with which an academy was founded in 1872. When later Pecci became Leo XIII., the philosophical method of St. Thomas became the guide of all Catholic teachers. The pastoral letters issued by the Bishop of Perugia during these stormy years (1846-1878) were a remarkably strong defence of the Papal position, and were calculated to unite the Perugian people against temporal encroachments.

In 1875 Cardinal Pecci was appointed protector of the Third Order of St. Francis of Assissi, and on Nov. 26 of that year he took formal take up the duties of Cardinal Camerlengo, a charge involving, during the vacancy of the Papal chair, the supreme authority to administer the temporalities of the Holy See. Pius IV. at this time was drawing very near to the close of his days, and many were the burdens that fell on the Camerlengo.

Elevation to Peter's Chair.

On Feb. 7, 1878, Pius IX. passed away. After nine days' devotions the Sacred College prepared for the election of his successor. At the third ballot, on Feb. 20, Cardinal Pecci was elected by the votes of forty-four of the sixty-one cardinals present, and from that time he has been known to the world as Leo XIII. As such he was the 257th successor of St. Peter. The burden of honor seems to have been not altogether a welcome one. It is the custom after the ballots have been cast to read them aloud. Cardinal Donnet, who was present, says: "I remarked that Cardinal Pecci, hearing his own name mentioned so often, and that everything pointed to him as the successor of Pius IX., great tears rolled down his cheeks, and his hand shook so violently that the pen it held fell to the ground."

It has been stated that Leo was elected because his age and feeble condition promised but a short reign. To those who are familiar with his life, however, and who knew his mental and spiritual claims to the high office, cannot help believing that the cardinals were sincere in their choice. He was crowned with all due solemnity, in the Sistene Chapel, on Sunday, March 3, 1878.

As Pope, Leo's policy has been consistent with his record in Perugia. As Cardinal-Bishop he protested against the loss of temporal power in 1870, against the confiscation of the property of religious orders, and against the civil marriage established by the Italian Government. He refused, on one occasion, to welcome Victor Emmanuel in his diocese. As Pope he ever regarded himself as a prisoner within the Vatican. He made strong efforts to have foreign countries accredit ambassadors to the Vatican, but without success.

Of Lion-Like Power.

John Henry Newman, author of "Lead, Kindly Light," whom he created cardinal the year after his accession to Peter's chair, said of Leo: "In the successor of Pius I recognize a depth of heart, a winning simplicity, and a power answering to the name of Leo which prevent me from lamenting that Pius is no longer here."

The great civilizing potentiality of the British Empire had attracted the attention of Leo from his earliest student days. His first official act after coronation was the promulgation of a bull reconstituting the Catholic hierarchy of Scotland, with the title of the See of Edinburgh. In November of the same year the new diocese of Leeds was formed.

The new Pope set himself with vigor to do what he could to ameliorate the condition of the laboring classes throughout the world. So great an energy did he display in this direction that he won the affectionate title of "The Workingman's Pope." In December, 1878, he issued an encyclical on Socialism that received world-wide attention, not so much because of the high station of its author as on account of his mastery of his subject.

Leo kept a wonderful grasp on the minutia of political movements in all corners of the world. His consummate knowledge enabled him to choose a position for the church on all matters with such prescience that after events did not necessitate the humiliation of a withdrawal. In everything, whether the reception of a pilgrim or the rebuking of an Emperor, he was the embodiment of tact. He was perfunctory in nothing, but thorough in everything. His personal life was that of an ascetic. His repasts were most frugal. He was accustomed to labor at his encyclicals or other works in the quiet hours of the night, when all the rest of Rome slept. He was the first occupant of his office to give an interview to the press. He filled his high station for a quarter of a century with a beneficent care for the welfare of man that won him the title of "Prince of Peace."

Popular Affection.

His jubilees were occasions of great rejoicing to the 225,000,000 Catholics who acknowledged his sovereignty. The first of these was the jubilee of his ordination, when on Jan. 1, 1888, 50,000 of his spiritual subjects from all corners of the globe went to Rome to pay homage to him in St. Peter's. On Jan. 8 and 9 of the same year he received the French pilgrims, who gave him $100,000 in gold, as a token of their affection. On Feb. 20, 1902, the year of his Papal jubilee commenced, and was marked by a celebration of great splendor. Many crowned heads were represented on this occasion. On Feb. 20, 1903, the twenty-fifth anniversary of his election, another great outburst took place. Catholics of all nationalities on this day presented him with a magnificent tiara in gold and jewels. He ordered as a thanksgiving for God's mercies that $20,000 be given to the poor of Rome.

O'Reilly, his biographer, says: "Between the two great currents of thought in the church—the conservative and the progressive—he steered with a firm hand. He sought not to secure safety in the great game of statesmanship, by playing state against state. The nobler plan of conciliating all rivalries and softening all asperities was the only act on which he relied."

NECESSARY ELEMENTS.

Strengthen your throat and lungs with Angier's Petroleum Emulsion. It cures chronic coughs, makes breathing easy, cleanses the system of impurities, creates healthy blood, firm flesh, and supplies all the elements necessary for the successful treatment of consumption. Pleasant to take.

started for Rome last evening.

Bells to Toll Thrice Daily.

Toronto, July 21.—Archbishop O'Connor has issued a circular of instructions to the priests of this diocese conveying the news of the Holy Father's death, and directions for their conduct. All of the bells will be tolled three times daily for ten minute periods, at 6 a.m., 12 noon and 6 p.m., until the day of the funeral, which will probably be Thursday.

ROBLIN SWEPT PROVINCE

Government Candidates Have Twenty-Seven Seats to Four.

Every Member of the Conservative Cabinet Elected With the Possible Exception of Dr. McFadden in Emerson, where the Vote Is Very Close—Greenway Personally Successful in Being Elected For Mountain by 288 Majority.

Winnipeg, Man., July 21.—The results of the elections yesterday are as follows:

Avondale—Argue (Con.) elected by 150 majority.

Assiniboia—Prefontaine (Lib.), 24 ahead, three polls to hear from.

Arthur—Thompson (Con.), elected by about 15 majority.

Beautiful Plains—Davidson (Con.), probably elected by small majority.

Birtle—Mickle (Lib.), elected by 288 majority.

Deloraine—Briggs (Con.), elected by 20 majority.

Dufferin—Roblin (Con.), elected by probable majority of 450.

Emerson—Walton (Lib.), leading by five and three polls to hear from.

Gimli—Election July 30.

Gladstone—Wilson (Con.), leading by 100, three or four places to hear from.

Lansdowne—Norris (Lib.), probably elected, 15 majority.

Manitou—Rogers (Con.), leading by 470, with two polls to hear from.

Minnedosa—Waddell (Con.), elected by 80 majority.

Morden—Ruddell (Con.), elected by 88 majority.

Morris—Campbell (Con.), elected, 150 majority.

Mountain—Greenway (Lib.), elected 288 majority.

Norfolk—Lyons (Con.), elected, 149 majority.

Rhineland — Winkler (Lib.), elected, 71 majority.

Russell—Daig (Lib.), elected, 180 majority.

St. Andrews and Kildonan—O'Donohue (Lib.), leading by 12 with two polls to hear from.

St. Boniface—Bernier (Con.), elected, 10 majority.

Turtle Mountain — Johnson (Con.), elected by about 175 majority.

Dauphin—Gunn (Con.), elected by about 130 majority.

Rockwood—Riley (Con.), probably elected, small majority.

Returns from other constituencies are very incomplete. The government claim 27 seats to 4. The cabinet have all been re-elected, with the probable exception of Dr. McFadden, in Emerson, where the vote is very close.

BASEBALL MONDAY.

The Eastern League.

Toronto ....2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 2—4
Rochester ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 3—3

Two-base hits—Johnson, Kuhns, Carr. Sacrifice hits—Brodie 2, Briggs, White. Double plays—Miller, Downey, Massey and Toft. First base on errors—Rochester 1, Toronto 1. Bases on balls—Off Mills 2, off Briggs 3. Hit by pitched ball—Carr 2. Struck out—By Briggs 1, by Mills 3. Left on bases—Rochester 5, Toronto 6. Time—1.30. Attendance—350. Umpire—Swartwood.

R.H.E.
Providence ... 1 0 3 0 0 1 0 0 x—5 5 2
Newark ...... 0 0 0 2 0 0 0 0 0—2 3 2

Batteries—McFarland and Diggins; Burke and Thiery. Umpire—Shannon. Attendance—300.

Jersey City ... 0 5 0 0 0 2 2 1 x—10 14 1
Montreal .... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 2—2 6 3

Batteries—McCana and McManus; Hemming and McCauley. Umpire—Kelly. Attendance—800.

National League Scores.

At St. Louis—
R.H.E.
St. Louis ..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 5 x—5 6 3
Cincinnati .... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—1 6 2

Batteries—McFarland and O'Neil; Hahn and Bergen. Umpire—Moran. Attendance—1800.

At Chicago—
R.H.E.
Chicago ...... 0 0 3 0 0 0 0 0 x—3 8 2
Pittsburg ..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0—2 9 2

Batteries—Weimer and Kling; Weaver and Weaver. Umpire—O'Day. Attendance—3800.

American League Results.

At New York, first game—
R.H.E.
New York .... 1 1 0 0 2 3 0 0 x—7 8 4
Cleveland .... 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 2 0—3 6 5

Griffith and Veville; Joss and Abbott.

Second game—
R.H.E.
Cleveland .... 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 0 0—2 3 2
New York ... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 5 1

Batteries—Bernhard and Abbott; Chesbro, Wolfe and O'Connor. Umpire—Sheridan. Attendance—5300.

At Philadelphia—
R.H.E.
St. Louis .... 0 0 0 3 0 0 0 0 0—3 5 3
Philadelphia .. 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0—2 7 1

Batteries—Seivers and Sugden; Plank and Powers. Umpire—Hassett. Attendance—4872.

At Washington—
R.H.E.
Washington .. 2 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 1—4 5 3
Chicago ...... 1 0 0 0 2 0 0 0 0—3 6 3

Batteries—Wilson and Kittredge; Owen and McFarland. Umpire—O'Loughlin. Attendance—1428.

At Boston—
R.H.E.
Boston .... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 1—2 7 2
Detroit .... 0 0 0 0 3 0 0 0 0—3 9 6

Batteries—Winter and Criger; Kissinger and McGuire. Umpire—Conally. Attendance—4062

O.R.A. Matches.

Toronto, July 21.—The O. R. A.

SINCLAIR'S AD SINCLAIR'S AD.

Summer Sale Prices

If you are at all interested in Ladies' Ready-to Wear Goods, our sale prices for this week should have a special attraction for you. Here are some of them.

34 Ladies' Cloth Skirts from $2.50 to $4.50, all this season's styles, will sell for .... $1.65 ea

15 Ladies' Silk Waists will sell at ⅓ off regular prices.

20 Ladies' Cotton Dresses will sell at Half Price.

Your choice of all our Colored Shirt Waists, both Linen and Cotton, at 25 per cent. off.

All $1.25 and $1.35 Print Wrappers, will sell for $1.00

1 only Ladies' $22.50 Black Taffeta Coat, will sell for $15.00

NEW STYLES IN WHITE WAISTS.

These are some of the very newest creations in Ladies' White Waists, to sell from $1.25 to $3 50 each.

SUMMER WASH GOODS

Cut to fit and properly made in Black and Navy Spots and Stripes, nicely trimmed, at $1.35, $1.50. $1.65, and $1.75 each. We also show White Pique and Linen Skirts, from $1.00 to $2 50 each.

Ladies' and Children's Vests.

We are now clearing the balance of our Summer Vests and offer some wonderful values from 5c and 25c each.

If YOU WANT WASH GOODS don't miss our 10c and 15c tables.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO

YOUR MONEY BACK IF GIN PILLS DO NOT CURE.

Gin Pills for the Kidneys

We believe we have in Gin Pills the most perfect remedy that has ever been discovered for all kinds of Kidney Trouble. So positive are we that Gin Pills will cure any case of Kidney disease that we guarantee every box and authorize any druggist to refund the price in case of failure.

All Druggists, 50 cts. per box, 6 boxes for $2.50, or direct from

THE BOLE DRUG CO., WINNIPEG, MAN

30 Retail Stores DAVIES 30 Retail Stores

HAVE YOU TESTED

Davies Tea

Yet? It is delicious. 25c, 40c & 60c per lb.

A cup of our tea is considered by women as a popular beverage for an entertainment. This being true you should have the best Tea obtainable. Our Teas are delightfully fresh and fragrant, carefully picked from the choicest plants and basket dried, which we import direct from the grower and bring them straight to the consumer. Try a package and be convinced.

DAVIES COFFEE is an excellent breakfast tonic.

DAVIES are noted to be Headquarters for Picnic and Camping Supplies, of which they carry 32 varieties, Jellied and Ready-to-Serve Meats, which are pure and wholesome.

THIS STORE closes at 12 o'clock Wednesdays during July and August.

DAILY DELIVERIES. Shop Early or Phone 286.

The WM. DAVIES CO., Limited.

SPECIAL OFFER

MIDSUMMER CLUBBING RATES.

Two Papers to January 1st, 1904

Family Herald & Weekly Star, and the Best Home Paper—The Weekly Intelligencer, BOTH for

65 CENTS

We are making this special offer as we require 1000 new subscriptions to our Weekly.

This offer is good to new subscribers only.

ADDRESS—

The Weekly Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONT.

No agents handle this offer.

Sunshine Furnace.

LARGE, CLEAN ASH-PAN.

"In most furnaces the ash-pan is considered a minor detail—in the "Sunshine" it is given as much care as the most important feature.

And the ash-pit is constructed so that all the ashes must fall into the ash-pan which is large and roomy—no scraping, shovelling and sweeping up ashes in taking care of this heater.

In no other furnace are the unseen, but really important little features given so much thought and care.

"Sunshine" furnaces make house-warming easy, cheap and sure.

Burns Coal, Coke or Wood. Booklet Free.

Sold by all enterprising dealers.

McClary's

LONDON, TORONTO, MONTREAL, WINNIPEG, VANCOUVER, ST. JOHN, N.B.

The W. W. CHOWN CO., Limited,
SOLE AGENTS.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

—FOR—

Stylish and Durable Turnouts.

—Surreys
—Corning Buggies
—Piano Box Buggies
—Rubber Tire Buggies
—Micadoes
—Phaetons
—Bike Buggies
—Democrats
—Grocer Wagons
—Butcher Wagons

Cheese Factory Milk Wagons.
Steel Tubular Axle Lumber Wagons.

Rubber Tires put on your old wheels at reasonable prices.

Mill St, - - Belleville

Daily Intelligencer.

CONSERVATIVES GETTING READY

Persistent rumors of a general Dominion election this fall are rife in all parts of Canada just now, and in many places Conservatives are already preparing for the fray. This, it seems to us, is a wise course to take, and one that might well be copied in Hastings County. The Conservatives of Toronto will hold a great party demonstration in that city towards the end of August. Such a gathering is, of course, of interest, not only to Toronto Conservatives, but to those of the whole Dominion.

Whether or not the Government will hold an election this fall is problematical. There seems to be little doubt that it was the intention to hold an election before next winter. But that was before the resignation of Mr. Blair, and some are of opinion that Mr. Blair's resignation will tend strongly towards a postponement of such election. The Government might indeed well wish for time, if possible, to heal the shocks to which it has recently been subjected, but the further the Government goes the worse its record and reputation become, and the reasons of the Government for an election this fall may be such as will not brook delay.

In the meantime, now that election talk is in the air, we commend to our readers an attentive perusal of the following remarks of the Montreal Gazette, which, after commending the proposed Toronto demonstration, makes some highly pertinent and timely observations on the character and record of the Conservative party. They are, in part, as follows:

"The Conservative policy includes the improvement of the tariff so as to secure adequate protection to all Canadian industries, agriculture, manufacturing and transportation. Such an improvement would render unnecessary the costly and inefficient half-measures in the way of temporary bounty grants which the Laurier Government is resorting to, because it cannot make up its mind to act in accord with what is plainly the logic of the situation. Such an improvement, coming as a result of popular judgment after a trial of the present half-and-half fiscal arrangement, would be an assurance to investors that they could in the future count on reasonably permanent conditions, which would ensure them at all times that first essential to industrial success—permanent control of the home market. Such an improvement, it is plain, can only come when the present Government has taken from it the control of the power it no longer shows ability to wield. The Conservative leaders have definite ideas on other things besides the tariff also. They are the legitimate successors of the party chiefs under whose direction the foundations of the country's prosperity were laid. Sir John Macdonald did not need a commission to tell him and his followers that it was time to bring the Northwest into the federation. He did not propose to wait for a commission's report when in 1881 the chance offered itself to secure the construction of a railway to complete the connection between the East and British Columbia. His successor did not need a commission to instruct him when the time was ripe to put up a fast steamship line on the Atlantic to complete the chain in which a fast transcontinental railway and a fast Pacific steamship service were links. The Conservative party was never confronted with a national issue its chiefs were not capable of themselves coping with. It always had a clear policy which the people could understand, and which was the same wherever its platforms were erected. It is to-day as it has been. Mr. Borden makes just the same kind of a speech in Winnipeg as he does in Montreal, and as he speaks so do those who are associated with him in the hard work of the party. To have them together in the political, commercial and intellectual centre of the province of Ontario, meeting their friends face to face under the conditions that tend to create unity and enthusiasm, will have an effect for good all through Ontario, and, indeed, all through Canada."

Huckleberry Ice Cream

One of the nicest of the fiteen flavers we offer in our Ice Cream Sundys.

J. ARTHUR MARSH.

WOOL CRASH.

People are asking what it is. Wool crash is a sort of misnomer. It is not crash, but simply a light cool worsted in a crash weave. Hold it up to the light—you can see through it. Yet it's as tough and strong almost as thick beaver, and wiry enough to hold its shape. For a cool summer vacation knockabout suit, wool crash takes the lead. Good enough, too, for business. Come, see! Suit prices, $3.75, $5, $6 and $7.50.—Quick & Robertson, Belleville's Best Clothiers.

TIMELY TOPICS

Something dropped in Manitoba yesterday.

• • •

When the Hon. Thos. Greenway appears to have received the most monumental bump in his career.

• • •

Hurrah! for our old Bay of Quinte boy, Mr. R. B. Roblin, who seems to be properly appreciated in the Prairie province.

• • •

It must begin to dawn on Greenway by this time that the Manitobans are pretty well tired of Gritism.

• • •

Up to ten o'clock this morning the returns showed that Roblin had carried 27 seats out of 31. There are 40 seats altogether, and out of the whole of them the Grits will hardly get two sets of fours.

• • •

It has been noted in recent years that, as regards weather, Manitoba sets the fashion for the rest of Canada. Unless all signs fail, she is shortly going to set the fashion in politics, also.

• • •

There is no doubt at all that, were an election held in Ontario just now, the Grits would get a worse thrashing than they did in Manitoba.

• • •

In the Dominion House the Grits are all at sixes and sevens. It would surprise nobody to see Sir Wilfrid Laurier retire from politics before long. Then the smash would come, for they have no one to take his place.

• • •

Taken altogether, the political outlook is bright for the Conservatives. With a good cause, a good leader, and a good example set them by the stalwarts of Manitoba, they may well take heart of grace and confidently look for the swing of victory, which is surely in the air.

• • •

Kingston, according to The Whig, may have $6.25 coal if a pending deal goes through.

• • •

Radium, scientists say, will cure cancer. But at $900,000 a pound it's a costly cure.

• • •

A VICIOUS SUGGESTION.

(Halifax Herald.)

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's suggestion to Mr. Blair that he could remain in the Government though strongly opposed to its railway policy, is a fresh indication of the Premier's want of moral perception. It recalls his tribute to Sir Richard Cartwright—whom he praised and declared to be worthy of all honor, because in 1877 he did exactly the thing Mr. Blair refused to do, namely, accept a policy he disapproved of. Evidently Sir Wilfrid's political morality cannot be described as severely virtuous. But it is good enough for the crowd he leads.

• • •

If the lady whose communication is signed "JUST A WOMAN" will leave her name at this office, as a guarantee of good faith, we will publish her letter RE THE HOSPITAL.

• • •

The good Globe says "Profuse promises and free whiskey" were used in Manitoba. And once more we have the spectacle of Satan reproving sin!

• • •

Dr. Sheard, Medical Health Officer of Toronto, has been examining the antispitting by-laws which are in force in other places, and it is likely that some plan of stopping the evil may be formed there. In London, Hamilton and Guelph, says the Telegram, signs are placed in conspicuous places on the streets warning persons against the practice. When anyone is found violating the by-law in London he is handed a card containing the following:

> You are violating the law against spitting. You are subject to a fine of $50 and costs. By order of the City Council.
>
> C. B. EDWARDS,
> City Clerk.

Some action of that kind might well be taken in Belleville, where the spitting habit is a nuisance.

Going to the Northwest.

Rev J. J. Rice, formerly pastor of the Holloway Street Methodist Church, and of the Belleville North Mission, was in the city yesterday, saying good-bye to his many friends preparatory to leaving next month for the Northwest.

Rev. Mr. Rice's son, the Rev. J. P. Rice, Ph. B., of Toronto, has recently been requested by the Missionary Board of the Methodist Church, to take charge of the Indian Institute at Red Deer, Alberta, and, associated with him, his father. They have both responded to the call of the church, and anyone who knows them, will believe that the church has acted wisely in making the selections.

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc. Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mr. Frank Wills is visiting at Oshawa.

Mrs. E. G. Porter has gone to Wellington.

Mr. Angus Pringle left to-day for Sault Ste. Marie.

Master Harry Watkins is visiting friends in Lindsay.

Mrs. Wegner, of Houghton, Mich., is visiting relatives in the city.

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn and family are summering at Glen Island.

Mrs. H. H. Leavens and children are visiting friends at Rochester, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Woodley, of Saginaw, Mich., are in the city visiting relatives.

Miss Louise Fleming has returned home from a visit to Rochester and Cleveland.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Mills, of St. Louis, Mo., are spending the summer in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meyers, of Detroit, are spending a few days in the city with relatives.

Mr. Wm. Macintosh, of Madoc, School Inspector for North Hastings, was in the city to-day.

Mrs. W. N. Ponton and Miss L. M. A. Thompson have gone to Montreal for a couple of weeks' visit.

Kingston Whig. Rev. Father Piccette, Belleville, has been attached to the archbishop's palace, Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wallbridge leave to-day for Midland, where they will visit their son, Dr. Wallbridge.

Miss Bessie Fleming, of Rochester, N.Y., and Mrs. G. Donnelly and children, from the same place, are visiting in the city.

Master Harry Kelly, now of Lindsay, is again visiting Belleville, the guest of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Middleton, Charles St.

Mrs. Anderson and daughter, of Montreal, wife of T. Anderson, of the G.T.R. pay car, is spending a few days with Mrs. E. Keat, Bleecker Ave.

Rev. Mgr. Farrelly, of this city, has gone to New York on a month's vacation. Rev. Father Hanley, of Kingston, is here, and will remain until the Monsignor returns.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins, Henry street, celebrated the 30th anniversary of their wedding last night. Many friends were present to wish them joy, and many valuable presents were received.

Mrs. Wilson, of New York (nee Miss Emmons), is a visitor in the city, after six years' absence. She is accompanied by her daughter, Miss Kathleen, who is making her annual trip to see her grandfather and grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Emmons, Albert street. Miss Kathleen has been giving another evidence of her cleverness by winning a $100 scholarship at the High School she attends.

At the Quinte:—N. R. Turner, W. K. Beach, R. Bassett, E. H. Thompson, A. T. Smith, W. Pinkerton, F. J. Watson, S. W. Hobart, A. Alexander, R. J. Johnson, A. T. Boland, H. M. Boddy, Toronto; J. Driver, W. Crothers, G. J. Mann, Kingston; J. D. Gilbert, Picton; G. Ramsden, J. H. Moorehouse, H. L. Smart, S. W. Haskett, J. T. LeSeuir, A. Reddington, D. E. Vail, F. M. Smith, W. Brander, Montreal; H. E. Gamin, New York; H. Sadive, London; E. H. Ambrose, Hamilton; E. Denrock, Stratford; W. Macintosh, S. Eagleson, Mrs. Eagleson, Rev. E. W. Mackay, E. Eadie, Madoc; J. W. Donald and lady, Buffalo; A. P. McLean, E. J. Kamp, Peterboro; J. Carroll, D. C. Corbett, Port Hope; C. J. Wadsworth, Scranton, Pa.

OUT OF THE SHADOW.

The discouragement, the despair of ill-health, out into the noon-tide glory of health, vigor and strength. Are you seeking this way? Are you wishing to replace weakness by strength, despondency by hope and expectation, pale cheeks and lustreless eyes by the rose's bloom and sparkling eyes. If you but use Ferrozone, you will make rich, red blood, your nerves will grow strong. Old-time vigor will return and with it endurance that will enable you to live an active, energetic and successful life. Remember the name, Ferrozone. Sold by all druggists.

HOT WEATHER TOILET REQUISITES.

Whatever you need for the Toilet we can supply. As you no doubt know, we make a specialty of fine Toilet Goods—all the imported and domestic Perfumes, Sachets, Soaps, Creams, Lotions, Powders and Toilet Waters. We have them all, at least try to, or will gladly order and keep in stock any new one that you desire. We desire to have your trade in this line and assure you that we will do our best to please you. Free Quick Delivery. Telephone orders attended to at once. No delay Alex. Ray.

THE MASTER MECHANIC'S Pure Tar Soap heals and softens the skin, while promptly cleansing it of grease, oil, rust, etc. Invaluable for mechanics, farmers, sportsmen. FREE sample on receipt of 2c for postage. Albert Toilet Soap, Co., Mfrs., Montreal.

"PEANUT CONDUCTOR."

MR. JOHN MURRAY, OF THE G.T.R., RECALLS EDISON'S EARLY DAYS.

The following, from the Toronto Globe, concerns two gentlemen who, years ago, lived in this city. Mr. Murray was at one time a train despatcher here, and we are informed that Edison, when a boy, was a telegraph operator in the office of the late Geo. D. Dickson. The extract follows:

Mr. John Murray, who has been a train despatcher in the employ of the G.T.R. for nearly forty years, is just returning from an interesting holiday trip, during which he paid a visit to his old friend, Edison, the inventor. Mr. Murray knew Edison when the latter was a news vendor travelling on the G.T.R. in '69. The following note shows their relations. Mr. Murray had asked Mr. Edison for a note to the Superintendent of the Western Union offices at New York, so that he might see how business is conducted there, and this is what Edison gave him:

July 15, 1903.

Barclay,—Will you please have one of your men show an old telegrapher through operating room. The bearer, J. Murray, was train despatcher when I was a peanut conductor. Yours, Edison.

Mr. Murray prizes this document very highly.

LATEST NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS

As Furnished to The Intelligencer by H. R. Beattie, Stock Broker.

New York, July 21.

Stock	Op'g	H'st	L'st	Close.
Atchison	63½	64⅛	63⅜	63⅝
do. pref ..	87¾	88½	87¾	88
St. Paul.. ..	140⅛	141¾	140⅛	140⅛
Mo. P.	97⅛	97⅞	96¾	97¾
Union. Pac .	75⅝	76⅝	75¾	75⅝
C. P. R.	121½	122⅜	121¾	121¾
South Pac. ..	45⅝	45¾	44¾	44¾
R. I.	25⅛	25⅛	24½	24½
Ills. C.	128¾	130	128½	129
Sou. Ry.....	21½	21⅞	21	21⅛
Texas.... ...	25¾	26½	25½	25⅝
B & O.......	82⅛	82¾	81¾	82¾
N. Y.C.	117¾	118¾	116⅝	117⅜
Penna	120½	121	120⅜	120⅜
Soo	54	....	....	....
T. W....	95⅞	....	....	....
Erie	29⅞	30⅛	29⅝	29¾
do. pref. ...	66	67	65¾	66¾
Reading	49	49½	48¾	48½
C. O.	33¼	33¾	32¾	32¾
O. & W.	23¾	23	22½	22½
Manhattan ..	131½	132	131⅛	132
W. C......	17¾	17¾	16½	16⅝
L. & N	106	106½	105¼	105⅜
A. F.	33⅞	33⅞	33½	33¾
Nor.........	62⅛	63	61¾	62¾
Wab.........	21¾	21⅞	21½	21½
do pref. ..	38	38⅛	37⅜	37½
W.U.......	82⅝	83	82¾	83
C. G. W. ..	16⅞	17	16⅝	16⅝
T.C.I.	45	45¾	41	41
U.S. Stl......	25	25	22½	22⅝
do pref.....	74	74	70¼	70¾
Sugar	113¼	114	112¾	113
B. R. T.....	46	48	45⅝	46½
Po..........	93½	94	93¾	94
A. C. P. ..	44½	46⅛	44½	45
Met.........	117⅛	117½	115½	116⅛
Ak.	18	18	17	17

Sept. wheat opened at 75⅝; closed at 6⅜
Sept. corn opened at 48⅞; closed at 49⅞

Piles To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & Co., Toronto.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Notice.

Beginning on Monday, the 20th day of July, Messrs.

GREENLEAF & SON

will (excepting Saturdays) close their store at 7 o'clock p.m.

Parties wishing to rent wheels will have to arrange for them before that hour.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

CHEAP TRIPS

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay, Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

U. E. THOMPSON, City Agent, Bridge Street,
T. E. COPPIN, Depot Agent.
J. D. McDONALD,
Dist. Pass Agt., Toronto.

Worn thin? No! Washed thin! That's so when common soap is used.

SUNLIGHT SOAP REDUCES EXPENSE

Ask for the Octagon Bar. 235

THE WEATHER.

To-day's Probs—

Moderate to fresh west to south winds, fine and warm to-day, showers and thunderstorms towards morning on Wednesday.

To-day's Temperature

As Registered by The Intelligencer's Guaranteed Thermometer:

8 a.m. 72
12 m. 79
2 p.m. 83
3 p.m. 84

VALUABLE ADVICE TO RHEUMATICS.

Eat meat sparingly, and take very little sugar. Avoid damp feet, drink water abundantly, and always rely on Polson's Nerviline as an absolute reliever of rheumatic pains. Being five times stronger than other remedies, its power over pain is simply beyond belief. Buy a large 25 cent bottle to-day, test it, and see if this is not so. Polson's Nerviline always cures rheumatism.

At no resort can children derive more health and enjoyment than at the MAGI Caledonia Springs.

You Can't Oversleep

If it takes quite a noise to awaken you in the morning we have Clocks that will furnish the necessary disturbance.

They will not arouse you too soon, neither will they let you sleep too long.

If you set them properly they never fail to do their duty.

They are useful in most homes at odd times. They are indispensable in many homes every working day in the year.

$1.50 buys a GOOD ONE, though we have them cheaper as well as dearer.

Angus McFee.
Jeweler & Optician
310 Front St.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

New train 12.45 a.m., daily, except Sunday, for Brockville, Montreal and intermediate stations.

No. 16—Local, for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.

No. 2—1.45 a.m., Mail and Express, (Flyer), Daily.

No. 6—11.43 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 4—12.22 p.m., International Limited, Daily.

No. 12—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5—3 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily except Monday.

No. 3—4.10 a.m., Limited Express, Daily.

No. 9—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 11—11.22 a.m., Passenger, Daily except Sunday.

No. 1—1.48 p.m., International Limited, Daily.

No. 7—5.12 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

Taking effect 12.01 o'clock, Sunday, June 14, 1903.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R., C.S., England.
Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. J. F. MATHER
Has removed his office to Pinnacle St., three doors north of Hotel Quinte.
my29-6mw

DENTAL.

Dr. Clarke has removed to the offices formerly occupied by the late Dr. Ward, over Burrows', and opposite Scantlebury's Book Store.
a27dtf

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—2 Campbell Street.
MALCOLM WRIGHT.
J. FRANKLIN WILLS.
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for the City of Belleville.
Office—Metropolitan Block, Corner Front and Campbell Streets.

PORTER & CARNEW,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices — Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 87.
E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Office, Bridge Street, Belleville.
Money to Loan — Private Funds, Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, Etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent., on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire Insurance.

Guardian . . .	Est'd 1821
The North America,	Est'd 1792
Quebec, ...	Est'd 1818

City, Town and Village Property insure at lowest rates.
R. W. ADAMS. Agent.
Office opposite Post Office.

THOS. STEWART,
Insurance and Commission Agent.
Agent for the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Scottish Union National Insurance Co..
BRIDGE, ST.

FIRE, LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE
At Lowest Rates The Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Perth Mutual on farm and city property. Also mone to loan at 4½ per cent. upwards.
JAMES A. CHISHOLM,
Office Ashley Block, - Front st., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned
can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at lower rate than other stock companies Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance.
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont,
Lloyd's Plate Glass,
Home Life Association, Toronto,
North British & Mercantile,
Farm and City Property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation, and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan & Investment Society. Money to Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, Office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., opposite Postoffice and Hotel Quinte, Belleville,
'Phone 168.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. G. NORTHROP,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Shire Hall, Belleville, Ont.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the Post Office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St.
Appointments made.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

Life has no blessing like a prudent friend.

Our Mid= Summer
Sale

Our entire stock of FANCY GOODS.

Including China (cups and saucers, Vases, Dishes, etc., etc.), Brass Goods, Candles, Silk Shades, Brushes (both hat and hair), Mirrors, Candlebras, Dickens and Art Pottery Ware, all 40 per cent. off regular prices.

Wrist Bags
AND Chatelaines

Latest New York designs in walrus, seal and other leathers, from 35c to $7.00 each, all

25 per cent. off regular price.

Framed Pictures

Entire stock of our Art Gallery, comprising Steel Engravings, Platimums, Prints, etc., beautifully framed Prices from 50c to $25, all

30 per cent. off regular prices

Wall Paper

Special prices on all Wall Papers and free bordering—2 yards with each double roll.

Paper Hanging and Painting—the largest and most efficient staff of workmen.

C. B. Scantlebury
Belleville's Decorator.
Wall Paper Wholesale and Retail.

FAST MAIL SERVICE
Bay of Quinte Route
TO
ROCHESTER N. Y.
Strs. "North King" and "Caspian"
Taking Effect 27th June.
GOING DAILY (EXCEPT MONDAY)
Lv. Belleville .... 11.38 p. m.
Ar. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 6.43 a. m
RETURNING DAILY (Except Sunday)
Lv. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 8.30 p. m.
Ar. Belleville .... 3.25 a. m.
Baggage checked to all points. Connection with all railways.

$1.00 THOUSAND ISLANDS $1.00
AND RETURN.
Commencing 28th June. Steamer leaves Belleville at 3.25 a.m. daily except Monday for 1000 Islands, calling at Bay of Quinte ports, Kingston, Alexandria Bay and Gananoque. Passing through American and Canadian channels.
Right reserved to change time with or without notice.
Full information from
THE RATHBUN CO., U. E. THOMPSON, } Agents.
E. E. HORSEY, G. P. & F. Agent, Kingston.

Str. "Alexandria"
Montreal, Rochester & Quebec Transit Co'y.
Popular Quebec Excursions
NOW ON.
Belleville to Quebec and return.. $18.00
Belleville to Montreal and return $12.00
(including meals and berth)
Steamer runs all rapids.
For Rochester, Olcott Beach, Niagara Falls and Buffalo every Saturday at 11 a.m.
Particulars from
A. W. HEPBURN, General Manager, Picton, Ont.
THE RATHBUN CO. Agents, Belleville.

The Deseronto Navigation Co
TIME TABLE.
Taking effect April 13, 1903.
Belleville, Trenton, Picton & Napanee
Str. "ELLA ROSS"
Leaves Belleville for Trenton at 10 a. m., daily, Sundays Excepted, returning leaves Trenton at 1 p. m., leaving Belleville at 3 p.m. for Deseronto, Napanee and Picton.
Quick and Superior Service to NEW YORK CITY
Steamers RESOLUTE and RELIANCE will leave Deseronto for Oswego after arrival of Str. Ella Ross connecting at Oswego with the New York, Ontario Western Ry.
Fare to New York, Single, $8.40
Return, $13.95
For further particulars apply to THE RATHBUN CO., Local Agents
J. F. CHAPMAN, Asst. Gen. Frt. Pass. Agt., Deseronto
R. C. Carter, General Manager, Deseronto.

THE Steamers Armenia and Ella Ross will carry the Grand Trunk Picnic to Massassaga on Wednesday, July 22nd, in place of the Steamer Niagara.
Saturday afternoon excursion to Napanee by Steamer Armenia leaving at 2.30. Fare for adults 35c, children 15c,
Will be home early in the evening.
THOMAS STEWART,
45 Bridge St., Belleville.

A Wonderful Medicine.
Beecham's Pills
FOR ALL
Bilious and Nervous Disorders,
Sick Headache, Constipation,
Wind and Pains in Stomach,
Impaired Digestion,
Disordered Liver and Female Ailments.
PREPARED ONLY BY THE PROPRIETOR,
Thomas Beecham, St. Helens, Eng.,
Sold by all Druggists in Canada and U. S. America.
In boxes, 25 cents.

What to buy; when to sell; better determined by readers of our "Guide to Investors and Daily Market Letter." Both yours free—for the asking. Correspondence solicited.
HAIGHT & FREESE CO.
Stocks, Bonds, Grain, Cotton.
7 Melinda St., Toronto, Ont.
"Determining the character and financial responsibility of your Broker, is as important as selection of right stocks."

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

"Exactly," continued the first speaker, without noticing the old man's rebuke; "and that confirms what I said. 'Taint often, I tell you, that I make a mistake in a person's age when they die—that is, the old lady ain't dead yet, but everybody knows that old Doctor Pronk has given her up, and when he says anybody has got to die, he generally makes a sure job of it."

There was some laughter at this poor jest, but it was interrupted by the old man:

"That's a fair specimen of the devil's wit as well as the devil's manners, or I'm no judge," he said. "It's not given to any human being to fix the limit of a fellow creature's life; and, as for the good old Doctor, the only mistake he ever made was in not strangling some specimens of this ungodly generation at their birth. Yet I fear that it is only too true that Rolff House is to lose its mistress. I've no romantic fondness for the poor old lady; but it is a scurvy dog that will not fawn on the hand that has fed it for years."

"You'll be provided for, Carl," interrupted one of the party.

"I have received my full due," replied the old man, "and expect nothing."

"Well, she ought to give you something," interrupted the landlord; "but there's no telling—she's a queer old woman."

"Queer old place, too," broke in the little man again, who was evidently one of the kind that like to do most of the talking. "I don't wonder that anybody is queer after living in it so many years. Queer stories I've heard about it. Most folks believe the house is haunted; and I've heard that the old fellow who built it was a pirate, and had no end of money he'd made by murder and robbery on the high seas. After he built the house, they say he had rooms piled full of silver and gold. Then I've heard he sold himself to the devil, on condition that the money would always be kept safe in Rolff House; and a good bargain he made of it, seeing that the devil had him safe anyhow. But the devil came and took him one fine day; and the money is all in the house yet, and nobody can touch it, they say, except they sell themselves to the devil, too. That's the story, and some people believe it."

"Some people," interposed old Carl, "are born fools, and only fit to be gulled by stories of ghosts and hobgoblins. If anybody living is pretty well acquainted with Rolff House and the Rolff family, it is myself, for I have known them these fifty years; and, as I am an honest man and a good Christian, I pronounce all such silly tales but idle superstitions. There's enough that is strange and romantic about Rolff House without peopling it with ghosts or giving it over to the possession of the Evil One."

"That's all very well," here broke in a new member of the circle; "but I say it's good Scripture to believe in ghosts; and if there is any place that is likely to be haunted, it is Rolff House. And, as for the devil having a lease on that old pirate's gold, why shouldn't he? It's only claiming his own, and we all know the devil is pretty sure to do that. For my part, I believe that all ain't right at Rolff House. Many's the story I've heard of queer doings up there. There's my brother Sol.; he says he was going by there once about midnight, and everything was dark and gloomy about the house, when all of a sudden a stream of flame shot out of the big chimney on the east side, and a black object sprang out of it and was off in the air as quick as a flash. And I've been by there myself at nights, when I've heard queer noises coming from the house, and others have heard them, too, and seen strange sights. I don't know as it is respectful to the old lady to tell about these things now, but if they're so, they're so, and that's all there is about it."

The speaker was a short, very peculiar-looking man. A heavy beard covered his meagre face, and long frowsy hair reached down to his shoulders, and hair and beard both seemed to be of a dirty slate-blue color. His yellow skin appeared to have a bluish-green tinge; his large, staring blue eyes were as lustreless as the eyes of a corpse; and to add to his uncanny peculiarities, his voice had a strange, sephulchral tone.

"A fine countenance you have for a ghost story, Leb. Sackett," broke in the old man, with a tone of contempt. "It is such outrageous liars as you and your brother that impose upon simple-minded folk, and lead them to believe ill of their neighbors. I'll aver, that there's never yet been man or spirit about Rolff House that would pass for a hobgoblin as readily as you; and if the devil ever had half as safe a hold on old Magnus Rolff as he has on you, then may the Lord have mercy upon him."

This hit caused a roar of laughter and the discomfiture of Mr. Sackett. But he spoke up again:

"Well, let them deny it who can, there's queer things and queer stories about Rolff House. I don't suppose old Carl will own up what he knows, though, for the devil no doubt has put him under bonds to keep the peace about the matter. But I'd like him to tell me, if he can, what ever became of old Rolff?"

The landlord here spoke up:

"That's a pertinent question," he said. "Perhaps old Carl can answer it, or, at least, give us a short history of Rolff House. For my part, I should like to hear a correct account of its strange history. There is no use of denying that there is a mystery about the house. I remember once myself seeing a strange sight up there. I was coming by the house in the night—a bright moonlight night it was—and when at a point of the road where I could see the eastern side of the house, I plainly saw the figure of a man standing beneath one of the large windows. He was in the direct rays of the moon, and I saw him as plainly as I ever saw man. His appearance was that of a very aged man, tall and stooping, with long white hair, and dressed in an odd costume. As I was looking directly at him, he suddenly disappeared—seemed to sink into the ground close to the house. I could scarcely believe my eyes, but I am sure I saw what I have told you; and, as you may imagine, I thought at once of the story they tell, that at stated times the devil allows old Rolff to visit his money chambers. I suppose I must have been deceived in some way in the matter. But it would be interesting to know more about Rolff House, and I move that old Carl gives us its history."

"Yes, yes, Carl," "Let's hear it, Carl," and similar exclamations were uttered by a dozen voices, and chairs were drawn up near where the old man was sitting, for all knew that he enjoyed nothing better than an opportunity to rehearse some favorite matter.

CHAPTER IV.

"Well," began the old man, "I don't mind telling what I know about the matter, though I'm afraid you'll find it rather a dry tale, with your appetites all whetted for a recical of supernatural doings. But it's a strange story, nevertheless. It was long, long ago, during the last years of King George's war with the French and Spaniards, that there came to our village, then a mere hamlet, a tall fine-looking man, richly dressed, who put up at the little Dutch Inn that stood on the very spot that this tavern now stands. He remained week after week, and there was brought to him sundry heavy, iron-bound chests containing goods of some weighty character. The curiosity of the good burghers was much excited about this mysterious personage. He was fierce and gloomy at times, and would speak to no one, and then again he would be free and jovial to the extent of spending many a dozen of gold and silver coin, and getting himself and half the good burghers deeply intoxicated. This man gave his name as Magnus Rolff. At times, when in his cups, he would tell the most frightful tales of bloody adventures at sea; so that in time the good people began to regard him as a retired pirate, and this belief seemed confirmed by the number of heavy, strong chests he had brought with him, which no doubt contained the treasures he had acquired in his wild adtures. As Magnus Rolff rather enjoyed it to have the good people regard him with dread as well as admiration, he encouraged these stories about himself, it is to be feared, and so they have descended to this day.

"But it is not necessary for us to credit them, so I will give you the real history of the man as I have learned it on the best authority. His real name was Rolff Van Buysen, and he belonged to a wealthy family of Holland. His father was a man of great talent, a patron of the arts, and a distinguished public man. But Rolff was a wild boy, and, for some unknown escapade, he fled the country and took to life at sea, and at last came to the colonies. The war with France and Spain broke out, and he shipped in one of the privateers that sailed from our ports to prey on the commerce of the enemy. In this way he led a wild life for years, till he at last become captain of a cruiser himself. It is true that some of these privateers were little better than pirates; but if young Van Buysen was guilty of any crimes against the innocent, no one knows it now. The tales about him that have floated down to our day are the veriest gossip. But he gained riches by his adventurous life on the high seas; and, once while in the port of New York, returned from a cruise, an event occurred to him that decided his future life. He met a fair maiden, at the first sight of whom he was desperately enamored.

"He followed her up, discovered her name and whereabouts, and resolved on winning her. She was the daughter of a poor artist, named Lebrun, who had come to this country to ply his art, but found poor remuneration in the rude condition of the colonies and the lack of public taste. But poor as he was, his love for his daughter was greater than his love of money. He was angered at the attentions of the rich, dissipated sailor to his lovely daughter, and, to escape them, he fled with her from the city, and came to this lonely hamlet. But Rolff Van Buysen was not to be baulked. He ferreted out their whereabouts, and followed his sweetheart to this place. He had really succeeded in winning her heart, for he was handsome and well-educated, and had a strong element of the heroic in his character. So at last the poor artist was fain to give way, and consent to a union for his daughter that he did not approve.

"Magnus Rolff, as he called himself, was married in due time to the fair maiden of his love. In the heydey of his happiness, he resolved on building the finest country house in the whole colony for the keeping of his bride. So Rolff House was built, and a wonderful structure it was in the eyes of the honest burghers. All that is really known of the married life of Agnes Lebrun is that she bore her husband two children, a boy and a girl, and died. Magnus Rolff lived on some years after the death of his wife. He never filled her place, which would seem to be good proof that he loved her truly. Some time after her death, however, he installed in Rolff House as its mistress a sister who came from Europe. That sister is the present mistress of Rolff House. She was then a young and handsome woman, of fine education and great force of character, and she soon grew to have absolute control of Rolff House and all its inmates.

"There came a day when Magnus Rolff disappeared from this vicinity, and nobody ever heard of him again. The superstitious said that the devil had come to claim him, according to a bargain by which he had sold his soul for the gold he possessed. This is no doubt the story that our friend Sackett here would consider most credible. For my part, I can throw no light on the matter. He disappeared—that is enough. It was certainly a strange matter; but such disappearances are too common to call for any superstitious explanation of them. He left without leaving any will, or directions for the disposition of his property. His son had grown to manhood, but his daughter had died at an early age. The son married, and lived with his wife at Rolff House, over which, however, Mistress Van Buysen continued to exercise unlimited sway. One son was born to them—the present heir, Claude Van Buysen Rolff—who in course of time was left an orphan. After the death of the father, it appeared that by special deed all the property had been placed in the hands of the aunt, Mistress Van Buysen. She has lived to this day, exercising complete sway at Rolff House. There were, of course, always queer stories about Rolff House; and as she grew old and allowed the place to go somewhat to decay, these increased, and took the shape that we have heard here to-night. Rolff House is haunted by evil spirits, we are told; old Magnus Rolff had sold himself to the devil, and received his aid in acquiring immense stores of unhallowed treasure; this treasure is protected from all but one single member of the family, who likewise sells himself to the devil; and so Rolff House is given up to hobgoblins and evil report.

"Well, those can believe these stories who choose. I have received and handeled considerably of money from Rolff House, and it has never burnt my hands or my conscience either. I know not how old Magnus Rolff made his money, what murders or outrages he committed, or how many harmless merchantmen he sent to the bottom. I do know that at that time privateering was a popular pursuit with our daring sailors, and that many of them got rich without a suspicion of crime attaching to them. It was a legal business, to which they were duly commissioned; and there is no reason to suppose that Rolff Van Buysen was anything more than a brave and lucky privateer captain. He probably spent most of his money in dissipation and in the building of Rolff House, and the effort to meet the expenses of a large establishment, and keep up appearances. I believe that financial distresses account for his flight, and for all that seems strange to the world in the history of Rolff House. You gentlemen are entitled to differ from me if you will. Of course, I can't explain all the queer sights everybody may have seen at the dead of night about the place. People always will see strange sights around a house that is suspected of being haunted. I don't believe any of the superstitious stories about Rolff House. It is simply a fine old mansion gone to decay. I would that I might live to see it restored. You have my story, gentlemen."

The old man relapsed into silence, and a general shaking of heads showed that his story did not settle all doubts in regard to Rolff House.

The landlord was the first to speak up:

"I think you're about right, Carl," he said, "in regard to the stories about the old place. But I can't agree with you that there has been much lack of money at Rolff House. Why, the business and tenements alone must have footed up large sums annually for these many years. No doubt, the old lady has been close, and has a nice little pile saved up for young Master Claude. He'll scatter it, I'll warrant, spite of Old Sootie and all his imps But now let's drop the subject. I suppose some of you would like to keep up your stories of ghosts and hobgoblins. But it ain't good manners, with that poor old woman lying up there on her deathbed, perhaps; and I won't have it. No more of it, gentlemen, to-night."

All knew the landlord to be a man of his word, and he was recognized dictator in his own bar-room. So the conversation turned to other subjects, or, if the forbidden topic was discussed, it was in low and cautious tones.

CHAPTER V.

On the principal street of Voorhisville, a little white house obtruded itself boldly out to the line of the unpaved sidewalk. Over the door, a small sign bore the inscription, "Anthony Saybrook, Counsellor-at-Law."

Fronting on the street was the office of Mr. Saybrook, and the rest of the building was occupied by Mr. Saybrook, son and housekeeper as a domicile.

Mr. Saybrook was one of a trio of lawyers, with which the village was blessed, for it was the shire town of the section, and drew to it whatever litigation the quiet farming region indulged in.

He believed himself to be a great man confined to a petty sphere. In appearance, he was tall and rather lank. His forehead protruded; his thin black hair was sprinkled with grey, and the top of his head showed a small circular bald spot; his nose was rather long and sharp, and there was just the suggestion of a roseate tinge at the tip; his eyes were small and wiry; and the expression was that of restlessness and discontent.

On a lounge in the office lolled the younger Saybrook. The young man might have been twenty-two, and had the lank form of his sire without its more ungainly development. His fea-

(To be continued.)

Flies Everywhere in your food—in your bedroom—making life miserable.
Wilson's Fly Pads
will clear your house of flies in a few hours.

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSIA CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.
Signed, JEAN VALCOURT,
Wotton, P.Q. General Merchant.

The best way to get even is to forget.

FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

Much talk, many lies.

If you have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary disease have drifted into a consumptive's grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes; "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

It takes money to voice the opinion of a lawyer.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, and disordered stomach.

A long portage makes a heavy canoe.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

All trails are long to the lazy.

THEY DROVE PIMPLES AWAY.—A face covered with pimples is unsightly. It tells of internal irregularities which should long since have been corrected. The liver and the kidneys are not performing their functions in the healthy way they should, and these pimples are to let you know that the blood protests. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will drive them all away, and will leave the skin clear and clean. Try them, and there will be another witness to their excellence.

Coral is a talisman against thunder and evils by flood and field.

HAD LA GRIPPE.—Mr. A. Nickenson, farmer, Dutton, writes; "Last winter I had La Grippe and it left me with a severe pain in the small of my back and hip that used to catch me whenever I tried to climb a fence. This lasted for about two months, when I bought a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and used it both internally and externally, morning and evening, for three days, at the expiration of which time I was completely cured."

The wildcat's teeth are close to its purr.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed 'Perfection.'

The average watch represents but 12 hours of human labor.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly, subdues the pain and disease.

When one gets hopping mad his reason goes on a crutch.

Use the safe, pleasant, and effectual worm killer, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; nothing equals it. Procure a bottle and take it home.

Many a man's self-conceit is due to his ignorance.

Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum of twenty-five cents.

Bank of Montreal
ESTABLISHED 1817
Capital and Rest, All Paid Up
$23,000,000
(Twenty-three Millions)
Savings Bank Department
Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.
A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch

RAINY WEATHER NEEDS.

What a lot of weather we are having, very hot, then rainy and cold. Whether the weater is clear or whether the weather is cloudy, the fact remains that we have waterprof coats in plenty, guaranteed to keep out the wet.

A Few Specials

We have just received a few specials that should be of interest to you. There are so many very low priced, useless coats on the market that these extra good ones at moderate prices will surely prove fast sellers. Two lines, one dark the other medium, pure rainproof, velvet collar, raglan pocket and cuff, coats made to sell at $7.50. OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY $5.00.

A FEW BETTER

Then we have some extra good ones at $7, $8 and $10, coats that you would have to pay much more for in other stores. If you are thinking of a rainproof coat, come in and take a look around.

OAK HALL

Sole Agents for Sanford's Celebrated Clothing.

A Clean Sweep

—Sale—

NOW ON. In Ladies' Patent Kid and Patent Colt Skin Shoes.

The balance of season's goods to be cleared before our Fall arrivals.

25 per cent. off the regular prices.

6 pairs Laced, French Heels, $5.00, now	$3.75
9 pairs Laced Style, $4.00, now	$3.00
11 pairs Laced Style, $3.50 now	$2.60
7 pairs Laced Style, $3.00, now	$2.25
6 pairs Patent Oxfords $3.00, now	$2.25
20 pairs Fine Kid Oxfords, $2.00, now	$1.50

Bell's, McPherson's and "Empress."

See our Display in North Window.

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES at Belleville, Napanee and Trenton

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

FRUITS AND FLOWERS.

The northern slope of a hillside is the best location for an apple orchard.

The pear will come as near bearing a crop of fruit every year as any other kind of fruit.

If the currant worm makes its appearance, dust the foliage while the dew is on with white hellebore.

In transplanting plants from pots invert the pot and rap the bottom of it sharply, and the plant will come out.

An overloaded grapevine will not mature its fruit. If it bears more than it ought it will ripen its fruit late.

Air slaked lime sprinkled on rosebushes when the dew is on will destroy insects without injuring the bushes.

Rose plants should have plenty of light and heat. Nothing will blight their buds sooner than shade and moisture.

Nearly all cultivated fruits are liable to overbear. This is always injurious and should be prevented. One of the best preventives is thinning.

One of the best places to use coal ashes is around the base of the fruit trees. Put a mound of them around each tree. Borers will not be so apt to trouble them.

The Russian Amsterdam.

St. Petersburg is one of the few great cities which have been made and not born. During his residence in Holland Peter the Great was so impressed by Amsterdam, perched upon the waters, that he determined to abandon Moscow and build a new capital which should have canals for streets. In his campaign against Sweden in 1702 he noted an island situated in the midstream of the Neva. "Here is my Russian Amsterdam!" he exclaimed and immediately began the building of a city there. The site was a marsh in summer and a frozen morass in winter. Two miserable huts were the only buildings. The erection of the citadel, a great fort in the shape of a hexagon, with a tower 360 feet high, on the north bank of the Neva, was his first care. The cottage in which Peter lived while laying out the city still exists.

Children In Somaliland.

Children are regarded as a chief asset in the belongings of a Somali native. A man may have as many as four wives, and most of the patriarchs boast of tremendous families. One old chief of a tribe near Berbera was the head of a family consisting of 23 sons, 29 daughters and 390 grandchildren. A father sells his daughters for camels and often builds up for himself a fortune in this way. The children are named according to the circumstances of their birth, as Wa Berri (born in the morning) or Robleh (born in the rain).

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

The presentation to Chief of Police Newton last night was a graceful and timely act. His many friends in this city will hope that "The Chief" may have a pleasant voyage, a delightful sojourn with friends and relatives in the old land, and return safely to Belleville materially and permanently improved in health. Bon voyage, Chief. But steer clear of the bear story.

• • •

Excursions and picnics are getting so thick nowadays that the picnickers will be sitting down on each other's pie if they don't look out.

• • •

The Grit papers are growing very sore on Hon. Mr. Blair. It won't be long before they'll be spelling his name B-liar.

• • •

What are you going to do to-morrow afternoon? I'm going to the lacrosse match, myself.

• • •

That old saw about the good dying young is not always to be relied on. Look at the Belleville Board of Education, f'rinstance.

• • •

From far-off Burmah comes a protest against Yankee misstatements. The Rangoon Gazette, of June 8th, contains the following:

An American paper says: "While England has settled her accounts in South Africa, there is trouble in British India. Away down in the most rebellious part of British Burma the rebels are now moving and the news comes to us that a whole British force, marching to the relief of a body of soldiers which was in deadly peril, was wiped out almost to a man, reminding one of the bloody memories of Spion Kop, when the Black Watch was wiped out, hardly a man escaping to tell the tale." American news is sometimes a fearful and wonderful thing; Somaliland in British Burma, and the Black Watch on Spion Kop!

Paralysis and Locomotor Ataxia.

THE CERTAIN RESULT OF NEGLECTED NERVOUS TROUBLES — PREVENTION AND CURE IN DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

Sleeplessness, indigestion, headache and neuralgic pains, twitching of the nerves, weak or irregular heart action, inability to concentrate the mind, discouragement and despondency are among the symptoms which warn you of approaching prostration and paralysis. By forming new, rich blood and creating new nerve force Dr. Chase's Nerve Food prevents and cures the terrible nervous diseases which lead to so much suffering and helplessness. Being composed of nature's most powerful nerve restoratives, it is certain to do you good. Fifty cents a box at all dealers. 2

Rowley Admits Guilt.

St. Thomas, July 21. — George Rowley will not be sentenced for three weeks, in order to have Rowley's assistance in clearing up some of the mysteries in the books of the Elgin Loan Company. Rowley, in charge of a constable, will spend the next three weeks at the Loan Company's office. Rowley changed his plea from "not guilty" to "guilty" at the opening of the court.

Irish Post Mistress Arrested.

Windsor, July 21.—Detectives arrested here yesterday Mrs. Ellen McKee, formerly sub-postmistress at Tubbermore, a suburb of Belfast, Ireland. Mrs. McKee is wanted by the Irish authorities on a charge of embezzling about $2,500 from the post-office saving deposits and forging receipts to cover her misappropriations. She will go back without extradition.

Another Drowning.

Morris, Man., July 21.—Robert Brown, a young man aged 27, lost his life while bathing in Morris Creek Sunday. He was a son of John Brown, one of the pioneers of this section.

Miss Hurkett of London.

Port Stanley, July 21.—The body of the woman found on the beach here on Friday last has been fully identified as that of Miss Hurkett of London, Ont. The inquest will be resumed to-day.

Leg Taken Off.

Hamilton, July 21.—E. Taslino, an Italian navie, had his leg taken off by an engine yesterday afternoon. He was working on the tracks near the Stuart street station.

May Not Recover.

Owen Sound, July 21.—William Campbell fell from the roof of a house yesterday, 28 feet, breaking several ribs and sustaining internal injuries.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

The Bill to Amend the Fisheries' Act Read a Third Time.

Ottawa, July 21.—In the House yesterday, in reply to a letter read by Mr. Borden complaining that Fort Francis had not had a mail for a week, Sir William Mulock said the blame was with the Canadian Northern, which had cancelled the mail train and putting an express in its place. Hereafter all trains passing through Fort Francis will be mail trains.

After a long discussion, the bill to amend the Fisheries Act was read a third time and passed.

The bill respecting Dominion notes was read a second time, after a short discussion on the retirement of greasy old bills and mutilated silver coins.

In the evening militia supplementary estimates were passed, and the House adjourned.

KING GOES TO IRELAND.

Received at Holyhead by Sir Charles Beresford and the Fleet.

London, July 21.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra, accompanied by Princess Victoria and their suites, left London at 1 p.m. yesterday for Ireland.

The royal train arrived at Holyhead at 6.03 p.m. Their Majesties were received at the pier head by Vice-Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, the municipal authorities and the commanding officers of the fleet. Addresses were presented and the party embarked for Kingstown.

Victim of Lightning.

Newmarket, July 21. — Yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock Arthur Wilson, son of Joshua Wilson of Fourth Concession of Whitechurch, while plowing in a field, was instantly killed by lightning, while his horses remained unhurt.

THE MARKETS.

Grain Prices Are Lower at Chicago—Liverpool Steady to Lower—Cattle Firmer—The Latest Quotations.

Monday Evening, July 20.

Liverpool wheat futures closed ¼d lower to-day than Saturday and corn futures steady at 1¼d lower.

At Chicago September wheat closed 1c lower than Saturday, September corn ⅝c lower and September oats 1⅛c lower.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London—Close—Wheat on passage, buyers and sellers apart. Parcels No. 1 hard, Manitoba, passage, 31s; No. 2 hard winter, 28s 4½d. Maize on passage, easier and neglected; spot, American mixed, 22s 3d. Flour, spot, Minn., 27s.

Paris—Close—Wheat, tone steady; July, 25f 5c; Sept. and Feb., 22f 30c. Flour, tone quiet; July, 32f 75c; Sept. and Feb., 30f 15c.

Antwerp—Holiday.

THE VISIBLE SUPPLY.

As compared with a week ago, the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States has decreased 1,244,000 bushels; corn increased 171,000 bushels; oats increased 145,000 bushels. Following is a comparative statement for the week ending to-day, the preceding week and the corresponding week of last year:

	July 20,'03	July 13,'03	July 19,'02
Wheat, bu..	13,067,000	14,311,000	20,415,000
Corn, bu...	7,618,000	7,447,000	6,503,000
Oats, bu. ..	4,491,000	4,346,000	718,000

To recapitulate the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States, together with that afloat to Europe, is 42,907,000 bushels, against 43,511,000 bushels a week ago, and 48,950,000 bushels a year ago.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

Following are the closing quotations at important wheat centres to-day:

	Cash.	July.	Sept.	Dec.
New York	....	....	80⅝	80⅝
Chicago	....	....	75⅝	75⅞
Toledo	76	76	76⅝	77⅞
Duluth No. 1 N.	83⅞	83½	....	....

TORONTO ST. LAWRENCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, red, bush	$0 76 to	$0 77
Wheat, white, bush.	0 76	....
Wheat, spring, bush	0 70	0 72
Wheat, goose, bush	0 70	....
Barley, bush	0 41½	....
Beans, bush	1 30	1 50
Beans, hand-picked	1 75	....
Peas, bush	0 78½	....
Rye, bush	0 45	....
Oats, per bush.	0 37	....

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, July 20.—Closing—Wheat, spot dull; No. 2 red, western winter, 6s 2½d; No. 1 northern spring, 6s 5d; No. 1 Cal., 6s 6½d; futures quiet; July, 6s 6½d; Sept., 6s 2½d; Dec., 6s 2⅞d. Corn, spot American mixed, easy, 4s 4½d; futures steady; July, nominal; Sept., 4s 4½d.

Beef, extra India mess, dull, 65s. Bacon, Cumberland cut, firm, 48s 6d; clear bellies, steady, 48s. Lard, prime western, dull, 38s.

The imports of wheat into Liverpool last week were 50,400 quarters from Atlantic ports, and 58,000 from other ports.

The imports of corn from Atlantic ports last week were 50,500 quarters.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Firmer—New York and Other Markets Quote Higher Prices.

London, July 20.—Live cattle firm at 11½c to 12c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 10¾c to 11½c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 9c to 9½c per lb. Sheep, 10½c to 12½c.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, July 20.—About 350 head of butchers' cattle, 250 calves and 500 sheep and lambs were offered for sale at the East End Abattoir to-day. The muddy weather helped to make the market duller than it might otherwise have been, but the prices of cattle were a little better than on Thursday's market. Prime beeves sold at from 4⅝c to 5¼c per lb., medium cattle at from 3⅞c to 4½c and the common stock at from 2¾c to 3½c per lb. Calves sold at from $2 to $8 each, or from 3c to 5c per lb. Sheep sold at from 3c to 3¾c per lb. Lambs sold at from $2.50 to $4 each, very few bringing over $3.50 each. Good lots of fat hogs sold at about 5¾c per lb. There were over 40 milch cows offered here to-day, which met with a slow trade, and sales were made at from $20 to $55 each; only a few brought over $40 each.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, N.Y., July 20.—Cattle—Receipts, 5400 head; active; dry-fed steady to strong; others 10c to 15c lower; prime and shipping steers, $4.85 to $5.50; butchers' steers, $4.25 to $4.75; cows and heifers, $2.75 to $4.75; bulls, $3 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4.25; stock heifers, $2.50 to $3.25; fresh cows and springers steady; good to choice, $45 to $55; medium to good, $30 to $42.50; common, $18 to $27. Veals, receipts, 600 head; slow, 25 to $6.35. Hogs, receipts, 15,300 head; active pigs 10c to 20c higher; others 5c higher; heavy, $5.85 to $6.00; mixed, $5.90 to $6; yorkers, $6 to $6.10; pigs, $6.50 to $6.00; roughs, $5.10 to $5.25; stags, $4.50; light dairies, $5.80 to $6; heavy dairies, $5.50 to $5.75. Sheep and lambs, receipts, 5600 head; sheep strong; lambs opened 15c higher, closing easier; lambs, $4.50 to $7.15; yearlings, $5.25 to $5.50; wethers, $4.50 to $5; ewes, $3.75 to $4.50;

Most people get wise in their grandchildren's generation.—New York Press.

Sick Headache—Lack of Appetite.

Its glorious to feel right in the morning—ready for work. But how seldom one does. Sick headache, lack of appetite, disagreeable taste in the mouth—these are the usual morning feelings of most people—even of careful livers. This morning illness shows that the organs of digestion are not working properly. They need a tonic. Take a teaspoonful of in half a glass of water as soon as you rise—you'll be ready to do justice to a good breakfast.

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

Abbey's Effervescent Salt cleanses the bowels and intestines, invigorates the fagged out stomach and energises the torpid liver.

At all Druggists.

WHEN BURGLARS CALL.

The Proper Thing to Do and the Proper Way to Do It.

"Events that are apparently trivial in the daytime assume an immense importance in the dead of night. A slight noise, out of the ordinary, will sometimes have its bearing on the married lives of two people," says Tom Masson in Life.

"When, therefore, your wife wakes you up with that intensely nervous movement that indicates a brooding horror do not lose your presence of mind. Keep from shaking if possible, and while secretly your heart may be in your throat do not betray yourself. Above all, do not wake up too soon. Begin by groaning slightly, and roll over. At the second pull on her part it will be entirely proper for you to start slightly, rub your eyes and mutter any unintelligible sentence. Then, as you gradually wake up and she becomes more persistent, you may allow yourself to say, 'Oh, nonsense!'

"Remember that up to this moment the formula for a husband waked up by his wife who hears a noise is always the same and should only be varied later. Now, however, is the time to act.

"Dash quickly from the bed and either reach for your revolver, or if that isn't handy take the first thing that presents itself—fire tongs, curling irons or a chair—and rush madly to the door.

"If you have acted your part correctly and courageously you will find your wife there before you, barring the entrance.

"By this time, if you have made noise enough, the burglars, if there were any, have without doubt departed, and when you have persuaded your wife that the thing must be done you can search the house at your leisure and ever afterward pose as a genuine hero who was thwarted in his purpose at the critical moment."

Revenge.

The doctor's wife went to the door. She and the woman next door were not on friendly terms, but the tramp did not know that. "De lady next door," he said, "give me a piece of her home-made pie and I t'ought"—

"I'm sorry," interrupted the doctor's wife, "but the doctor isn't at home just now. However, there's a physician in the next block, and if you hurry he may be able to give you relief before much harm is done."

Sudden.

Ethel—There, I've forgotten to attend a function to which I was invited. How careless!

George—You should have an engagement calendar.

Ethel—Oh, George, this is so sudden!

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

"Imperial Limited."

Fast tri-weekly Transcontinental service between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. Connection leaves Toronto at 1.45 p.m., Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, making run Toronto to Vancouver in 97 hours.

Upper Lake Steamships

Leave Owen Sound Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 5.30 p.m., on arrival of S.S. Express leaving Toronto at 1.30 p.m. Connections at Fort William and Port Arthur for Winnipeg and Pacific Coast points.

Daily First-Class Service Toronto to Winnipeg, Calgary, Banff and Pacific Coast.

Fully Equipped Through Tourist Cars leave Toronto Tuesday and Saturday for Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Full particulars from your nearest Canadian Pacific Agent or to
A. H. NOTMAN,
Asst. Gen. Pass. Agent, TORONTO.
S. BURROWS, C.P.R. and General Ticket Agent, Front St., Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& HUDSON RIVER R. R.
THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.		After 1st May
Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)	12.22 p.m.	1.30 a.m
Arr. Kingston "	1.47 p.m.	3.12 a.m
Lv. Kingston (stage)..	2.30 p.m.	5.00 a.m
Arr. CapeVincent (stage)	4.30 p.m.	7.00 a.m
Lv. Cape Vincent N.Y.C.	5.05 p.m.	7.25 a.m
Arr. Watertown "	5.55 p.m.	8.25 a.m
Arr. Oswego "	9.05 p.m.	11.55 a.m
Arr. Syracuse "	9.25 p.m.	12.07 p.m
Arr. Rochester "	1.05 a.m.	2.20 a.m
Arr. Utica "	9.45 p.m.	12.35 p.m
Arr. New York "	7.25 a.m.	6.00 p.m

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C. R. R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from F. A. Folger, N.Y.C. Agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent.
New York.
A. H. SMITH, Gen'l Supt.,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

Goods We Have
at Right Prices

—Hammocks.
—Fishing Tackle.
—Tennis Goods.
—Golf Goods.
—Lacrosse Goods.
—Base Ball Goods.
—Screen Doors and Windows.
—Fruit Jars.
—Fruit Jar Rubbers.
—Wall Paper.
—Crystal Glass Vases.
—Glass Ware.
—Dinner Sets.
—Toilet Sets.
—Ladies' Hose.
—Ladies' Vests.
Everything in smallwares.

AT THE BEE HIVE
Chas. N. Sulman

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

Shoes and Slippers

FOR SUMMER WEAR.

Ladies' Fine Low Shoes—ranging in price from 50c to	$3.75
Ladies' Fine Strap Slippers—prices from 75c to	$3.00
See our assortment of Children's Slippers, ranging in price from 25c to	$1.25

We carry a large stock of Trunks and Valises, Dress Suit Cases, Club Bags, Cabin Trunks, etc.

VERMILYEA & SON.

Sole Agents for the famous Queen Quality Shoe.

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY! 2 WEEKS

$5.00 Any Suit In This Great Clothing Store for $5.00

A STUPENDOUS CLOTHING OFFER WITHOUT PRECEDENT OR PARALLEL.

Some Suits $18, some $16, some $15, some $12, others $10. Just think of it! High grade, thoroughly tailored garments for Men, complete suits in fashionable fabrics, for

$5.00

This is just the opening gun in the great Mid-Summer Sale, in connection with this store. In every other department there will be equal sensational reductions. This Clothing Sale begins on July 11th and will end on July 25th. The earlier you come the better your choice as we anticipate a big rush.

The GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE.

Up-to-date Clothiers and Gents' Furnishiers, Look for the Globe Over The Door, 390 Front Street, Belleville.

Wall Paper

At first sight of our Wall Papers you will say there's an attractiveness about them that puts them lengths ahead of other lines.

IN STOCKING

we select only the best, we have no "shelf warmers" all our Papers are quick sellers. If you choose your Papers from us you have best value for the price obtainable anywhere.

Painting, Paperhanging and Decorating done on shortest notice by best workmen in the city.

JOHN CORNELIUS.
3 Doors South of Intelligencer Office.

NEW GOODS
JAPAN TEA

The first of this season's crop, exta quality, regular 50c line, we quote

40c Per lb.

Canned Halibut

Fine solid Fish, very tasty,

15c per can.

J. C. Hanley & Co.
GROCERS
Telephone 214

Flowers & Vegetables
Of all kinds in season.
. . . AT . . .
J. D. COLLIP'S.
'Phone 205.

Western Beef.

Prime Western Beef together with all kinds of choice meats, supplied by the district, at

C. GREEN'S
267 Front St., 'Phone 109.

Boomerang Vengeance.

She was very, very fat,
And she sat upon his hat;
Think of that!
Seven dollars gone to smash,
With the quickness of a flash—
Think of that!
But she settled down demurely
With a sigh of sweet content
At the added sense of comfort
That the silken headgear lent;
Think of that,
Gentle reader,
Think of that!

Oh, the man was raving mad!
('Twas the only hat he had—
Think of that!)
But he didn't dare to swear,
He could only sit and stare—
Think of that!
So he waited for the curtain,
Then went out to get a bowl,
While the longing for revenge
Was throbbing madly in his soul—
Think of that—
Gentle reader,
Think of that!

When the angry man came back,
With a visage thunder-black,
Maiden's hat,
Covered o'er with feathers sweet,
Rested on the poor man's seat—
Think of that!
"Vengeance!" hissed he in his whiskers;
While exultant leaped his blood;
And he sat upon the bonnet
With a horrifying thud!—
Think of that!
Gentle reader,
Think of that!

No; she did not go insane,
But she never smiled again!
Think of that!
And they buried him next day,
In the sticky, yellow clay—
Think of that!
Oh, he did not swallow poison,
And it was not suicide;
He had overlooked the hatpin
In his anger, so he died—
For a hat,
Gentle reader,
Think of that!
—San Francisco "Bulletin."

A Warm Welcome.

Skagway heralded the arrival of the Canadian Pacific Navigation Company's steamship Islander in its port on her first trip by the following glowing report, which appeared on the front page of the "Daily Alaskan:"

"Sunday afternoon half of the population of Skagway accepted the cordial invitation of Captain Foot to inspect the steamship Islander. Captain Foot was personally in charge, and he was very solicitous to see that everybody had a chance to see the fine ship and partake of the good things. He was most ably assisted by Agent Dunn, Mr. Pumphrey and every member of the crew. They were all just as polite and attentive as though those aboard had paid their hard cash to be taken care of.

It would be difficult to give an accurate description of the vessel and her appointments without going into the minutest details. The ship's exterior is well remembered by many Skagwayans, but the interior has been so completely changed that it was absolutely unrecognizable yesterday. The fittings are most elaborate and the decorations are all of artistic merit and present a harmony of view which is indescribably grand.

The dining saloon is exceptionally large for a ship of the proportions of the Islander. Its finish could scarcely be finer it would seem. The furnishings of the ladies' cabin, the lounging room and other parts are of the finest. One of the attractions which is always looked for by the sea traveler is a chance to promenade. The Islander's cabin is so located that a splendid walk can be had around it.

But it is in the staterooms where the well-being of the passenger has been zealously guarded. Every arrangement and detail which could possibly contribute to the comfort has been provided. From main truck to kielson, from stem to stern, the ship is kept scrupulously clean. As many wended their way up town after viewing the vessel and enjoying the hospitality of Captain Foot, they were constrained to say she was the finest vessel with the most popular skipper on the run.

On the way up there were many musicians on board, and the last night out a concert was given, at which T. R. Pumphrey presided.

Too Mercenary.

"Here's more strange talk in this magazine," said Mrs. Ransom, with an expression of scorn on her sharp features. "I guess it's just as well, Hiram Ransom, that we never were blessed with money so's we could immigrate down below, as you've always wanted to."

"What's the matter now?" inquired Mr. Ransom, patiently, although his wife's snort of contempt had waked him from an agreeable slumber on the haircloth lounge.

"Matter!" echoed Mrs. Ransom; "matter enough, I should say! Here's a column of questions asked by a parcel of young folks, and what does one of the young men want to know?"

Mr. Ransom feebly shook his head.

"He wants to know," said his wife, rattling the magazine, "'what salary ought a young man to have to marry?' That's the way these city folks marry off their daughters so easy! But I guess Sarah and Ellen and Jane will stay with us till they're sixty before I'd bemean myself, or let you, Hiram Ransom, by offering a young man a salary to marry one of 'em!"—"Youth's Companion."

A salutation of respect in China is to comment on the mature and even venerable appearance of one's guest. When the United States Minister to Siam (Mr. Barrett) called officially on Li Hung Chang he was accompanied by a prominent missionary, a man eighty years of age, with white hair and beard, who was to serve as interpreter. Unknown to Mr. Barrett, the missionary and the Chinaman had had a falling out some years before. Li came into the reception room, saluted Mr. Barrett cordially, and bowed stiffly to the patriarchal interpreter. To the youthful Minister the Premier said: "I congratulate you, sir, on your venerable mien;" and then, nodding toward the octogenarian, he asked: "And is this your son?"

Where They Differ.

"Men are dreadfully brusque sometimes," sighed Belinda. "The other night my brother and I went to the house of a friend to a reception. It was a hot night, and the house was crowded, and there wasn't anything to do but to stand around and talk to the people one could reach, while the people one really wanted to talk with could only be seen at a distance and over a sea of intervening heads. In addition the croquettes were cold and the ice cream warm, so when we finally got away both my brother and I said: 'Thank Heaven,' quite fervently, and went to a hotel and had supper.

"The next day all of my friends whom I met asked: 'Didn't you have a lovely time at the Blanks last night?' and I invariably replied, 'Delightful.' Then we went on our separate ways. When they asked my brother the same question he answered with a frankness that appalled and embarrassed me. 'No, I did not. I had the stupidest time of my life; and, say, they'd better get another chef the next time they entertain, for the supper was awful.'

"Here," said Belinda, "I trace a strong point of difference between men and women. The average girl has too much pride to let it be known that she has gone to an entertainment and has still failed to be entertained. I saw one pretty, guileless looking creature sit alone one night at a dance for nine straight dances, then I had compassion on her and sent my escort and a couple of other men to ask her for the remaining twosteps and waltzes. She danced four times in all, yet the next time she saw me she said she'd had a real delirious time at that ball, a delightful, never-to-be-forgotten time, and, she added modestly, that she had been quite a belle. A man under the same circumstances, though they had been of his own making, asked if he had enjoyed himself, would have replied emphatically and vulgarly, 'No, I didn't. I had a fierce time.'

"Why, I know of one lord of creation who told some friends that his honeymoon had been very tiresome, and of another who in bidding his host good-by after a yachting trip remarked that he had had a pleasant time, all things considered, but that all water journeys were more or less of bores. Imagine a woman doing anything so tactless. Why, if it had been a girl instead of a man in the latter case, though she had been seasick for the entire two weeks, though the salt water and air had ruined her prettiest gowns, taken the curl out of her hair and the rose from her complexion, she would have staggered off the yacht declaring faintly that she'd had the time of her life, and that she'd like to go again to-morrow. That's the feminine idea of true politeness."—"Waverley Magazine."

"What is the remedy for poverty?" demanded the lecturer, in thunder tones. He paused for a reply, and during the pause a man in the rear of the hall called out: "You might try the gold cure."—Detroit "Free Press."

CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY

CAPITAL

10,000 Shares 7 per cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, par value $100 each, $1,000,000
50,000 Shares Common Stock, par value $100, issued and fully paid 5,000,000
TOTAL CAPITALIZATION $6,000,000

Issues of $1,000,000 00 7 p.c. Preferred Stock in 10,000 Shares of $100 each at par.

This stock is preferred both as to Assets and Dividends.

The shares are entitled to cumulative preferred dividends from the net earnings of the Company, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable half yearly on the first days of April and October. They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at $115.00 per share, at any time after 1st January, 1909.

The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000.00, the whole of which is now offered.

Subsriptions for 10,000 Shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent. Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is $100 Share, as follows

per cent on application,
25 " " on allotment,
35 " " 30 days thereafter.
35 " " 60 days thereafter.

One share of Common, par value $100, given with each share of preferred.

The whole of instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of one per cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Novia Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1 000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4000 acres of iron ore deposit, located Natashquan (tidewater) situated on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highet ever discovered, running from 69 per cent to 72 per cent in metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore has been received by the Campany than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

Send for prospectus giving full information as to earnings, reports, etc., etc.

Address all communications and send subscriptions to

COLONIAL SECURITIES CO.,
62 Wall Street, New York City
OR
W. L. MARSTON & COMPANY
110 State Street, Boston

The SAWYER COMPANY.
351 Temple Building, Montreal, Canada.

You Will Marvel

How you ever drank Japan tea after tasting

"SALADA"

Ceylon Natural Green tea. It has the same kind of flavor as Japan tea, but is much more delicious and is absolutely Pure. It is displacing Japan tea just as "SALADA" Black is displacing all other black teas Sealed packets only. 25c and 40c per lb. By all grocers.

THE Intelligencer Bindery

MAKES A SPECIALTY OF

Leders, Journals, Cash Books,

And all descriptions of

Blank Account Books

Mailing Tubes

Gold Lettering on Leather Goods, &c.

MAGAZINES,
ART WORKS,
PERIODICALS,
SERIAL NUMBERS

NEATLY BOUND

Map Mounting & Varnishing

☞ Estimates cheerfully furnished for every class of work.

ADDRESS—

The Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONT.

Bits of Information.

When very thirsty and only a small amount of water is at hand drink with a spoon or through a small hole in the cork of a canteen. It will do as much good as when taken in large mouthfuls. Boil putrid water in charcoal before drinking. Indians purify all waters by plunging hot irons and rocks into them.

When an Indian is cold he builds a small fire and huddles over it. A white man builds a big fire and cannot get near it.

When you wish to roll up your shirt sleeves do not turn the cuffs inside out, but turn them inward or under, and they will remain tucked up without being touched.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Measurement Nonpareil—12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.
Subsequent consecutive insertions, 5c.
Reading advertisements, 15c per line.
Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon usual or contract rates.
Minimum space, 10 lines.
Marriages and deaths, 50c each insertion
Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisement will be found in 1st column of 2nd page.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of the Intelligencer.

Address all communications to the Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House Limited, or to Charles J. Bowell, Managing Director and Treasurer.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s Office, 30 Fleet Street, London, E. C.

CONDENSED ADVERTISEMENTS

WANTED.

$6.00 per month buys a $1,000 home. $9.00 per month buys a $1,500 home. $12.00 a month buys a $2,000 home. A postal will bring particulars. The Canadian Home Builders' Association, Manning Chambers, Toronto. j18-6t

160 machinery moulders and coremakers. Steady work. Wages for moulders at least $1.00: coremakers $3.25. Address Post Office Box 511, Toronto. jy9-d10t

Have you spare time? Increase your income by work at night. Others are doing it. Our goods are used everyday everywhere. Write G. Marshall & Co., Teas, London, Ont.

Agents wanted, $2.50 per day. Apply Cooper, London, Ont. s27-1y

Young men ambitious to learn lucrative trades, of which there are eight in connection with the business. Apply The Belleville Hardware Company, Belleville, Ont. a7dtf

The only authorized "Life of Pope Leo XIII." Written with the encouragement, approbation and blessing of His Holiness by Mgr. Bernard O'Reilly, D.D., LL.D., (Laval). This distinguished author was summoned to Rome and appointed by the Pope as his official biographer. The book is endorsed by Donato Sbarretti, Papal delegate for Canada, and is approved and recognized by all church authorities as the only official biography of the Pope. Over 800 pages, magnificently illustrated, published in French. Best commission to agents. Sell only the official life by Mgr. O'Reilly. Elegant outfit free. The John C. Winston Company, Toronto, Ont. j20-6td

WANTED Reliable Men in every locality throughout Canada to introduce our goods, tacking up show cards on trees, fences, along roads and all conspicuous places, also distributing small advertising matter. Commission or salary $60.00 per month and expenses, not to exceed $2.50 per day. Steady employment to good, honest reliable men. No experience needful. Write for full particulars. THE EMPIRE MEDICINE CO., London, Ont.

TO-LET.

That new solid brick house on Yeomans street. Hard and soft water in kitchen. Good cellar, stable and garden. In perfect order. $6.—J. J. B. Flint. jy16dtf

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

Stone house, 11 rooms, coal furnace, stable, barn. Large grounds. Cor. Frank and Moira Sts. north. Terms reasonable. H. Bull, on premises or Fred Bull, 133 Yonge St., Toronto. Terms easy. ap18-dtf

FOR SALE.

A good rebuilt typewriter, guaranteed. Price $50. Apply at this office. j20-6t

Shingles, shingles, dressed lumber, etc. GEO. WALTON & CO. jy14-1md

Dressed and Matched Lumber of all kinds, at ALFORD'S factory, Market Square. j12-tf

Two surreys, two phaetons, two buggies, one horse. Apply to H. L. CURRY, Pinnacle street. jy9-8td&16,23w

Contractors and masons, any any person requiring lime may procure it from E. G. STAPLEY, Canifton Road, Belleville. New lime always on hand. a9-d&w6m

TO RENT

A house on Moira street containing 8 rooms. All modern conveniences. Possession on or before 20th July.—Adam Henry.. dtf

CAMP COMFORTS

Mosquito-Scat for Mosquitos, etc., 15c a bottle.

Witch Hazel Cream for Sunburn, etc , 25c a bottle.

Bathing Caps for ladies, 50c.

WATERS'

PORTRAITS OF CATS.

Various Reasons Why They Are Very Difficult to Paint.

In speaking of the putting of cats on canvas a painter of them recently said: "They are without doubt one of the most difficult creatures to paint, and lamentably few artists make a success of their portraiture. They are almost impossible to keep quiet, and the particular fluffy 'cattiness' of their coats is far from easy to depict in pigments. The famous cat painters are few, and when choice or chance discovers one he, or more often she, finds the gift a mine of wealth.

"In David Brooke's well known picture of the darky preacher at dinner in the Corcoran Art gallery in Washington the cat in the foreground could be induced to sit still only by having her feet glued to the floor. But satisfactory results as to expression, in which a cat's face can be particularly eloquent, are not to be secured in this way. Those who have had reason to know say that even the fur of felines is indicative of several things. In health and contentment it stands out fluffily from their bodies, while in fear or displeasure it lies flat and lankly to the skin.

"Not long since a picture was placed on exhibition of a cat lapping milk, with its tail held high. Though the technique was good and the fur really 'furry,' the value of the whole was practically nil, because no cat has ever been known to eat with its tail in the air. With waving tails they do indeed rush toward the food, but with the first lap or bite down goes the caudal appendage lower and lower, until with a full stomach it sweeps the ground. In the case of young kittens it is often different, however. They scramble into a dish of milk with their pointed ratlike tails at right angles to their rolly poly bodies and sometimes forget to take down this sign of animation and alertness. Any one who knows cats knows that the tail at every angle and with every movement is expressive of some definite emotion."

CHIVALRY OF SAVAGES.

Many Barbarous Tribes Are Exceedingly Deferential to Women.

Untraveled people commonly suppose that savages always treat their women badly, making mere slaves and beasts of burden of them. This is true in some cases, but many barbarians are exceedingly chivalrous toward women.

The Maoris of New Zealand always treat women with the greatest deference and respect, so much so that the Earl of Ranfurly once called them "the truest gentlemen on earth." They will not permit a woman to do any hard work if they can do it for her, and their boys are taught from earliest youth that rudeness and unkindness toward women are crimes only second to lying and cowardice.

A young English lady named Gertrude Bell traveled alone among the Druses of Syria. She was everywhere received by them with the greatest courtesy and hospitality. Special tents were assigned to her use, and the sheiks vied with each other in being her humble servants. "No well bred English gentleman could have been more chivalrous," she said, "and they were just as courteous to their own women as they were to me."

The Fijians go to extremes. They are so deferential and polite to their womenfolk that they let the latter "rule the roost" entirely. A woman's word is apt to be law in the Fiji Islands.

As a rule, women occupy a subordinate place in the east, but Kafiristan is an exception. The Kafirs are of Aryan origin and to all appearances are a white race. They claim Alexander the Great as their ancestor and have a lofty code of chivalry. Their women, lovely creatures with fair complexions, blue eyes and flaxen hair, are treated far better than most women in civilized society.

Constable and His Picture.

Constable, the eminent British painter, once sat on the hanging committee of the British Royal academy when a small landscape was brought up for judgment and pronounced "awfully bad" by everybody but himself. He rose and made a short and startling speech. "That picture was painted by me. I had a notion that some of you didn't like my work, and this is a pretty convincing proof. I am very much obliged to you." When his colleagues recovered from their stupefaction the head carpenter was bidden to bring back the picture. But Constable would not have it. "Out it goes!" he said grimly.

A Monument to Cheerfulness.

The following quaint epitaph is to be seen in Crayford churchyard, Kent. It strikes as one of the very prettiest monuments to cheerfulness in all Merrie England: "Here lieth the body of Peter Isnel (thirty years clerk of this parish). He lived respected as a pious and a mirthful man and died on his way to church to assist at a wedding on the 31st day of March, 1811, aged seventy years. The inhabitants of Crayford have raised this stone to his cheerful memory and as a tribute to his long and faithful service."—London Standard.

The Bad With the Good.

Visitor—Why don't you open your windows and let in some fresh air?

Flatman—Because as sure as we do we'll let in some stale air that cornetist next door starts playing about this time of night.—Exchange.

A Follower of Precept.

Simpson—You blow your own horn a good deal.

Jenkins—Well, if you want a thing well done do it yourself.—Detroit Free Press.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Store Closed Every Wednesday During July and August at 12 O'Clock Noon.

STOCK CLEANING DAYS

These are days of clearing for us and days of money saving to you if you take advantage of our offerings.

Remnants, oddments, broken assortments, in fact all summer goods are priced at what would clear much less desireable materials.

Its a good time to put the test on our advertising.

If you see what seem to be extravagant statements, come to the store and give us the pleasure of verifying them. We guarantee you perfect satisfaction.

The goods are well displayed on tables. A few minutes spent in each department will be a surprising revelation to you of what purchasing power money has in our store these days.

Many of our best offerings are not mentioned. These go to the ones who follow this with an early visit.

Numbers of ladies have already profited by an inspection. There is something here for you.

Reduced Baby Bonnets

"Nothing is too nice for the baby." The manufacturer who made our Baby Bonnets must have thought so.

But you can get even too much of a goodthing and desireable and all as they are we have priced them as below for Thursday to clear.

—2 doz. Children's fine Organdie Muslin Bonnets, trimmed with Valenciennes lace and narrow satin baby ribbon good quality, regular $1.50 for 75c

—Fine Organdie Baby Bonnet with fine tucks and baby ribbon trimming, full frill, $1 25 for 50c

—5 only Japanese taffeta silk Bonnets with wide silk lace frill and insertion and baby ribbon trimmings, regular $1 75 for 75c

Outing Items

Proper clothing is an important item in the most enjoyable outing.

Wherever you go the white Vest and Trousers will be "correct." Adding much both to the APPEARANCE and COMFORT.

There are in these as in everything, the right and wrong—the right is just as reasonable.

A number of new styles in both just received.

—Fine Duck Trousers plain white or with fine black stripe, deep hem $1.00, $1.25, ... $1.50

—New White Vests, just arrived from London, England, plain and fancy with, high button styles, $1 25, $1.50 .... $.200

Neglige Shirts

The neglige Shirt with soft collar is a much favored style with men who desire something comfortable yet dressy for this warm weather.

For Tennis or yatching nothing is more appropriate.

Our showing this season comprises many new and pretty designs, mostly light grounds with colored silk stripes.

Ask to see them in our men's furnishing department

—Men's Fine Neglige Shirts with attatcheh collar, silk stripes, fast colors 65c, 75c, ... $1.00

White Waistings

All the leading fashion journals anounce for fall a more wide spread use than ever of the heavier weave fancy Piques and mercerized Vestings for waists.

We have recently received a number of pretty designs in these which will be serviceable on cool evenings and again for later use.

The great demand will cause a scarcity of good patterns. Best get them while the assortment is at its best.

—Fine White Pique and Vesting with mercerized figures, 32" wide, 25c and 30c

Standard Patterns

If you do home dressmaking a good pattern will add much to the appearance of the garments and save from any disastrous mistakes.

You may obtain patterns cheaper but you'll get some as good for more. They are the best, and guaranteed correct in every way.

Our stock is large but it is impossible to keep all. If what you desire is not here we can have it for you in 3 days.

—Get a copy of the designer—it contains, besides much useful information as to styles, good stories, etc. price 10c

Half Price Table

Our Table of Half Price Wash Goods is the mecca for many shoppers.

Here are found a choice lot of this season's Wash Goods in Muslins, Prints, Ginghams, and Sateens.

Some are only short pieces others are longer lengths which have not sold as freely as we have desired. All are going now, quickly at Half Price.

Each day sees some addition to this assortment. If there you do not see what you want to-day you may tomorrow.

Summer Corsets

Our Corset department does not seem to need much publicity.

The crowds of ladies who patronize this counter and tell their friends of the excellence of the lines we sell, make our best advertisement,

Just let you know a new shipment opened places our stock in the complete stage generally found only at the beginning of the season.

If you want a perfect fitting, durable light weight, inexpensive Corset we can meet your needs.

—Ladies' Fine Percale Corset, bias gored, straight front, erect form, Percale Corset, steel filled, lace and ribbon trimmed, regular 75c for .... .50

—Fine Net Corset, steel filled, extra strong over hips, straight front, erect form, lace and ribbon trimmed .... .75

—Fine Percale Corset with 3 bias gores, strong hips erect form, straight front, a very fine Corset, for summer wear 1.00

Agents for Standard Patterns.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

CLOTHING BOUGHT HERE PRESSED FREE OF CHARGE

Everything

Is Thoroughly Good

That's certain, at QUICK & ROBERTSON'S—we are more particular about giving than you are in getting it perhaps.

But there are other reasons why you should buy at this store where quality is the first consideration.

We not only make goodness certain by applying every known test for quality, but are equally as careful to price that goodness as common as the ordinary sorts are priced elsewhere.

HERE are a few suggestions of summer fixin's that should interest men and mothers of boys.

FOR BOYS.

Vacation Suits and other wear, things that after good hard wear show the difference between our good sorts at our common prices and cheap sorts, which cost a little less.

—Regulation Sailor Blouse Suits, Cheviot mixtures, stripes and serges, ... $1.25 to $4.50

—Norfolk Jackets, single and double-breasted suits for older boys, extensive showing of plain and fancy mixtures .... $2.00 to $5.00

—Washable Sailor Suits 50c to $1.50.

—Wash Waists and Blouses, 25c to $1.00.

FOR MEN.

—SUMMER SUITS—Such as are impossible to obtain except at the best custom tailors—perfect fitting, stylish garments, suited to men who want the out-of-the-ordinary sorts. Homespuns, Tropical Serges, Worsteds and Flannels.......................... $3.75 to $12.00

—OUTING TROUSERS $1.00 to $4.00.

—NEGLIGE SHIRTS—In stripes and patterned materials, such as custom shirt makers would show you as their newest—plain or plaited bosoms.......... 50c to $1.50

—STRAW HATS—Every one new, the largest assortment of the smartest shapes the best makers have produced.

Sailors, in low crown .... 50c to $2.00

Panama shape, the right ones .... 75c to $2.50

QUICK & ROBERTSON

Here is where you buy Johnston's Clothing for Men and Boys.

In The Good Old Summer Time

You will enjoy doing your cooking and baking if you are wise enough to use a

Auto Valvo Blue Flame Oil Stove

The one stove above all others to make your work easy without heating up the whole house.

The W. W. CHOWN Company, Limited

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

A NOTE OF WARNING TO CHEESEMAKERS.

OF THIS DISTRICT, SOUNDED BY MR. H. HOWEY, CHEESE INSPECTOR.

I have just received several letters from Montreal exporters, stating they have only received a very few lots of cheese (clean in flavor) called finest for keepers.

Where does the fault lie? with the producer of the raw material or the cheesemaker because of his incompetency or because he has not proper buildings and utensils for manufacturing finest goods?

The causes of faulty cheese are: First, because the majority of factories have not the proper rules and regulations governing the quality of milk that should be supplied to cheese factories for making finest goods.

Second, too many cheese factories built on every four corners, poorly equipped, with no facilities for controlling the temperature. Cheap men are always engaged for such factories, because a competent man will not ruin his reputation as a cheesemaker by manufacturing in such a building.

Third, and I am sorry to say too many cheesemakers are reaching out their hands ready to receive the faulty patron's milk because he lives at the far end of the route, and there is another factory in that vicinity, and if he returns it he will lose his patronage. This is called the grab game system.

I am sorry to say there is a wrong impression among the farmers regarding the work of the Instructors. Many think we are in the country in the direct interest of the manufacturer and the cheesemaker. This impression is decidedly wrong, and I am sorry such a thing exists. I can assure you the instructions given me by the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, under the management of G. G. Publon, are far from this. It is my duty to instruct the patrons on the care and handling of milk for making finest cheese.

By milking and handling milk in a clean place, where the atmosphere is pure, straining, aerating and cooling, are the watch words, and without this is carried on in a clean place, away from anything that is contaminating, you are only doing an injury, and financially, effecting your own pocket as well as your brother patrons' by causing a larger number of pounds milk per pounds of cheese, and I can assure you that you must not expect fancy prices for such goods.

I understand the exporters are now searching for fancy goods, called keepers, and if fancy prices are not obtained, the question will be asked: Who is to blame, the patron or the cheesemaker?

H. HOWEY.

CALL OPTIONS.

The following are the quotations on call options for one, two and three months from London, Eng.:—

	To mid Aug.	To mid Sept.	To mid Oct.
Canadian Pacific	2½	3¼	4
Hudson's Bay..................	5	7½	8¾
Atchison	2¼	3	2¼
St. Paul...	4	5	6
Erie, common...	1¾	2	2¾
Louisville & Nash..	2½	3½	5
Missouri, K. & T.....	1	1⅜	1⅝
Norfolk & Western	1¾	2¾	2½
Ontario & Western	1⅝	1⅞	1⅝
Reading, $50 shares	1⅜	1⅜	1½
Southern Common	1⅞	2	2⅜
Southern Pacific	3	4	5
U. S. Steel, ordinary	1¾	1⅞	2¼
Union Pacific	2½	3	3½
Wabash, preferred	1⅛	1⅞	2⅛
Baltimore	3	4	5
Denver, common	1¾	2⅛	2½
Southern pref.	2¾	2⅝	3¾
U. S. Steel, preferred	1½	2⅛	2¼
Grand Trunk ordinary ...	½	⅝	1
Grand Trunk firsts	2¼	3¼	4¼
Grand Trunk seconds	2	2¼	3
Grand Trunk thirds	1⅜	1⅞	2⅜

We are prepared to deal in options at the above prices. All transactions in options are for cash, expire at 12 noon on contango day of the account in which the call is due. Free booklet on application.

PARKER & CO., 61 Victoria St., Toronto.

Wished Him Godspeed.

The following resolution was unanimously and most heartily adopted in the Holloway Street Methodist Sabbath School, Belleville, on Sunday, July 19th, 1903.

Moved by Mr. J. G. Vandusen, treasurer of school, and seconded by the Rev. A. Martin, whereas Mr. Ernest C. Lawrence, a member of our school, who has graduated from the infant class during the past twenty years to be one of our much respected teachers, is about to leave the city, resolved, That we cannot allow the occasion to pass without expressing to our brother our sincere respect for him and prayer for his future guidance. It is with mingled feelings we say good-bye to our dear brother; sorrow that his long connection with our school is to be severed, joy and gladness that he is removing to what we trust is a wider field of usefulness. May we confidently hope that the long years he has spent in our school were no small factor in the formation of character and that it may prove a blessing to him in all his future life. We assure him of the warm place he holds in our esteem and hope the remembrance of these happy days may prove a benediction to him throughout his future career.

Signed on behalf of the school.

J. R. Real, Pastor.
W. J. Magrath, Sup't.
J. McCarthy, Sec'y.

A PURSE OF GOLD FOR CHIEF NEWTON.

Presented by Some of His Friends and Well-Wishers in the Quinte Musical Club Rooms Last Night—Notes of a Happy Affair.

A very pleasant affair took place in the Quinte Musical Club rooms last night, being the presentation of an address and purse of gold to Chief Newton, who to-morrow morning leaves this city, accompanied by his wife, for a visit to his old home in England. For some time past the Chief has been ailing in health, and his medical men at last deemed it necessary to order a sea voyage in order to try and check the progress of his indisposition. When it became known that he was about to leave us for the home of his forefathers, a few of his friends thought the time a good one to give the Chief a send-off. Last night was chosen as the occasion, and about half-past eight the club room began to fill up with gentlemen who looked as though they could enjoy themselves anywhere, where the manners were not too formal or the atmosphere too warm. The Chief himself was seated at a table, playing his favorite game, pedro, all unconscious of the surprise in store for him. For half an hour or so the guests enjoyed themselves in social intercourse, etc., and when the time came for the business of the evening we noticed the following gentlemen present: Ald Sulman, ex-Ald. Lennox, Dr. McKeown, Messrs. C. H. Vermilyea, Wm. Johnson, C. J. Bowell, W. B. Deacon, H. Ackerman, A. Vandevoort, W. J. McCamon, E. Lear, G. Walton, J. H. Mills, Jas. Hanley, Prof. Rabbitts, F. H. Ketcheson, J. H Hart, S. Burrows, F. C. Clarke, J. A. Phillips, R. L. Terwilliger, Phil. Harrison, W. S. McDiarmid, and J. D. Ford.

It was about nine o'clock when Mr. James Hanley, president of the Quinte Musical Club, called the meeting to order, and, in a few well-chosen remarks, stated the object of the gathering. The citizens of Belleville, he said, hearing that the Chief was about to go away for his health, had come to the conclusion that it would be only right and fitting to give him, as a popular official of the city, a little "send-off" before he went away. Personally, he wished the Chief godspeed, and hoped he would come back to us much improved in health. He then called on Mr. F. H. Ketcheson to read.

The Address.

John Newton, Esq.,

Dear Mr. Newton,—Outside the circles of the different fraternal organizations you have membership in, there are many of our citizens who having admired the way in which you have discharged your duties as Chief of Police for so many years, desire, on the eve of your departure for a well-deserved and necessary holiday, to thank you for your uniform courtesy, your impartiality and the good-natured way in which you have generally done disagreeable things.

If our city enjoys a good reputation, it is only right that some of the praise for it should be given to you. This we assure you is the popular opinion about you and it will no doubt add to your joys when absent from us to know that your fellow-citizens hold you in such high regard.

We sincerely hope that your visit to the land of your birth may prove a great blessing to you and that you may return to the city, which has learnt to esteem you as a citizen and an official, completely restored to health.

To prove the sincerity of your numerous friends' feelings towards you in more than words, we ask your acceptance of a purse of gold.

Belleville, 20th July, 1903.

Just as Mr. Ketcheson finished Mr. "Si" Lennox stepped forward and handed to the Chief a handsome purse, containing $150 in gold. The purse, he explained, was to become the property of Mrs. Newton.

The Chief's Reply.

The Chief's face was a study while all these pleasant incidents were taking place, and it was apparent that he was "hit pretty hard." He had not expected anything of the kind, he said, and words failed him to express his thanks. He regretted deeply that he was not gifted with powers of oratory, but hoped he had always been courteous in the discharge of his duty, and was certainly deeply grateful for their great kindness to him to-night. During his long tenure of office in Belleville he had had many unpleasant duties, but had always tried to perform them in the least offensive way possible. As to his illness he had been afflicted in the same way some years ago, and hoped that his health would soon be restored. He sometimes thought the cause of his illness was in the unsanitary condition of the police quarters, but would not go so far as to say so positively. The police force, of which he was the executive head, were now getting along in years, but he believed they were, and always had been, faithful to the interests of the citizens of Belleville. If God spared him he hoped to see the old land soon, and was taking his good wife with him. They would land at Glasgow, and, after seeing his wife's relatives, would go to England, where, in his old home, breathing the pure air of his boyhood, he hoped soon to be restored to health. "All my old friends and playmates are gone, gentlemen" (the Chief's voice broke here, and he struggled with his emotions, while everybody sat in sympathetic silence). Continuing, he said the memories of the old land were still dear. However, all his interests were now centred in Canada, where he had tried to be, and hoped he had been, a loyal citizen and faithful subject of the King. He had tried to merit the good will of all men, and was grateful to see so many representative men present and proud to think he had so many friends. During his tenure of office he had done his best to smooth over private difficulties, and had experienced the greatest kindness from the city officials, to whom he was heartily grateful. In the name of his wife and himself he again thanked them heartily, and would ever cherish the memory of this evening.

The Chief's speech was punctuated with warm applause, and at its conclusion he was given an ovation.

The Chairman then called on

Mr. William Johnson, who, in the course of a good many happy remarks, said the verdict of the sensible people of Belleville was that the Chief had always tried to do his duty, and during his twenty-five years as Chief of Police had gained the good will of all. He was acquainted with the Chiefs of Police of fifteen counties, and the best official of all was Chief Newton. (Applause). He hoped and believed the Chief would be better when he returned, and that the sea trip would make him the same stalwart official he was twenty-five years ago, and that, with his good wife, he would yet have many happy and useful years in Belleville.

Prof. Rabbitts.

Prof. Rabbitts said he had an impetuous idea to be present when he heard of what was going on. He had met the Chief when he first came to this city, and had always found reason to respect him as an Englishman, a loyal subject of the King and a man with a high sense of duty. He hoped Mr. and Mrs. Newton would have a pleasant time in the Old Country, find many of their old friends still living to welcome them, and return to this city much improved in health.

Mr. S. Burrows.

Mr. Burrows said he had always been a warm friend of the Chief's, and had always respected him. He was glad he was going to his boyhood's home. It was good to be present at a gathering of this kind, for true happiness in this world consisted in trying to make other people happy. Mr. Burrows closed a characteristic speech by hoping that the Chief and his wife would have a good trip and return much improved in health.

Mr. McCamon.

Mr. McCamon, in a neat speech, said it afforded him great pleasure to be present and add his voice to the chorus of goodwill to the Chief, to whom he wished bon voyage and a safe return.

Ald. Sulman.

Ald. Sulman said the Chief's ill-health had been a source of regret to them all. He was sure he voiced the general wish when he hoped he would return much improved in health.

Mr. C. J. Bowell.

Mr. Bowell briefly re-echoed the sentiments of the other speakers. Among all classes of our citizens there was regret for the Chief's illness. He hoped the tour would prove highly beneficial, and that the Chief would return more vigorous in every way.

Mr. McDiarmid.

Mr. McDiarmid paid a tribute to the Chief's unfailing courtesy, and said there was no doubt his work had always been well done.

The Collectors.

Messrs. Lennox and Ketcheson, the collectors, said their task had been a pleasant one, showing the general esteem in which the Chief was held.

This ended the speech-making. Led by Mr. Burrows, the company sang "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" with great heartiness. Refreshments were served, and the remainder of the evening was passed in pleasant social intercourse, the guests, on going home, voting the gentlemen of the Quinte Musical Club ideal entertainers and "Jolly Good Fellows" truly.

Mr W. Denham

Of Denham's Drug Store, Petrolea, Ont., says:

"The O. R. Kidney Cure gives the best satisfaction to our customers of any kidney medicine we handle."

Belleville druggists speak highly of the O. R. Kidney Cure.

It does its work quickly.
It cures Lame Back.
It cures Lumbago.
It cures Bladder Trouble.
It cures Gravel in Bladder.
It cures Rheumatism.
It cures Kidney Troubles.
It will cure you.
Try one bottle.

O. R. KIDNEY CURE is put up in liquid form, contains no poisons, is quickly assimilated and will cure all kidney and urinary troubles.

O. R. Kidney Cure, 50c per bottle.
O. R. Liver Pills, 25c per bottle.
O. R. Dyspepsia Tablets 25c per box.

AT DRUGGISTS, OR WRITE—

THE O. R. MEDICINE CO., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Run Down? Ayer's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, gives strength to the nerves, and brings color to the cheeks. Ayer's Pills regulate the bowels, cure constipation and biliousness, and aid the digestion. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

LOST BOTH LEGS AND HIS LIFE.

SAD FATE OF A YOUNG DESERONTO MAN WHO WAS TRYING TO STEAL A RIDE.

Deseronto, July 20.—A sad accident occurred at Fredericksburg late Sunday night, by which a young man named P. N. Presley, whose home was at Deseronto, lost his life. Presley was visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Purdy, at Collins Bay, and Sunday, accompanied by a cousin named Purdy, boarded a freight train at that village and rode to Napanee. After spending an hour or two there they boarded another freight train for Kingston, but were put off. Nothing daunted they attempted to get aboard the next freight train that happened along, and it was while doing so that Presley met with the accident that resulted in his death.

Presley seems to have miscalculated the speed at which the train was moving, as he missed his hold and fell beneath the wheels, both legs being terribly mutilated and cut off above the knees. Dr. Leonard, of Napanee, was summoned and temporarily dressed the wounds. The injured youth was placed aboard the train, being made as comfortable as possible, but before Kingston was reached death put an end to the young man's pain.

In the Justice Shop.

Drunks.

For this offence Frank Compeau was fined $2 and 10 days and Bert Gill was allowed to go.

Disorderly Conduct.

Two young men were fined $1 and costs for acting in a disorderly manner on the park.

Rent Case.

Wm. Babcock was charged with owing Chas. Pretty $2.50 for rent. The evidence did not sustain the charge and it was dismissed.

Trespass.

Edward Bolyea was accused of trespassing upon the property of Joseph Breau. The case was dismissed.

Street Repairs.

The work of putting Bridge St. in a proper state of repair is progressing, and, when completed, that thoroughfare will be in first class condition.

The work on Mill street was commenced to-day, and it will be repaired from the upper bridge to the G.T.R. Station.

THE BEST $10 SUIT.

It pays to buy a good suit of clothes. You may see advertised glowing advertisements of wonderful suits for $5, and when you come to see them they are wonderful indeed: wonderfully poor. You can't buy a good suit under $10. In order to get good cloth, good trimmings and proper interlinings and have the work properly done, you must pay this price. The Oak Hall will sell you the best $10 suit you ever saw.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions ONE CENT A WORD. No local charged as less than twenty-five words.

Two drunks were last night gathered in by the police.

The front door of a prominent business place was found unlocked by the police last night during their rounds.

To-day's market was fairly well attended.

Hello, what's the rush? Getting ready for Rev. Stratton's Island Excursion Saturday, Aug. 1, 8.30 a.m. Going to hear America's great author and preacher, D. Hillis. Come along. Return any Monday. Only $1.00. Well, I will. 21&28

Do your shopping Wednesday mornings during July and August, as stores will close at noon on those days. je25-5tw&etd6t

According to the Government returns, the Mutual Life of Canada did the second largest amount of new business in this country last year, and did it on the lowest ratio of expense of any of them, and paid the largest dividends showing it to be the most profitable company to insure in. S. Burrows, General Agent.

Don't forget the G.T.R. Employees' popular old-time picnic to Massassaga Park, Wednesday, July 22nd. Boats leaving Rathbun's dock dourly. See games programme. 14,16,18,20,21

Best Wednesday holiday excursion, July 22nd, up the bay, through canal and into Lake Ontario with I.O.O.F. Band. Tickets 25c. Auspices of Christ Church. Str. Aletha leaves Corby's wharf at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Vans to convey ticket holders leave Taylor's and McGinnis' corners at 8.30 a.m. Moonlight excursion to Deseronto with band at 8 p.m. 10 1n.

Sports and Pastimes

SPORTING NOTE AND COMMENT.

The local lacrosse boys are in fine condition for their match with the Peterboro Athletics to-morrow afternoon, and the match should prove one of the finest sporting attractions seen in this city for many a long day. Go up to the Driving Park to-morrow afternoon and give the boys a hand. They deserve it.

• • •

One of the Toronto papers calls the Toronto Baseball Club the "Maple Leafs," but most of the Queen Cityites, since the team dropped to fifth place, call them lobsters. By the way, who gave the Toronto people the right to call their dub team of hired Yankee ball players a name which means something strictly Canadian?

• • •

The Pittsburgs are getting their bumps pretty regularly these days, and have been beaten two consecutive games by the Chicagos. It promises to be a Garrison finish in the National League, with the New Yorks having a good chance.

• • •

The Oxford-Cambridge lacrosse tourists are said to be improving, but are still "too ladylike" in their checking. Your Englishman, however, does not believe in turning a lacrosse field into an abattoir. "My dear boy," he will say, "it's only a bloomin' game, you know; why should I try to knock your block off, or you mine? Let us try to be gentlemen, and not butchers." And really, the English idea seems to have something to recommend it, after all.

FIVE O'CLOCK TEA.

We understand that a very enjoyable Five o'Clock Tea was given recently in Belleville by one of the leading society ladies, at which a large number of Belleville's elite was present, after which a very interesting debate occurred, the subject of which was: Resolved that Davies' 25c Tea is superior to the usual 40c Tea as sold in Belleville. After a very lengthy and heated debate, it was decided in favor of the affirmative. Have you tasted Davies' Tea yet? If not do so. It

DEEP GLOOM IN OTTAWA.

SIFTONIANS HAD COUNTED ON A MAJORITY OF FIVE IN MANITOBA.

Ottawa, July 20.—There is woe in the Liberal camp to-night. The Siftonians had been counting upon a clear majority of five in the Manitoba elections, and when return after return came in indicating the complete rout of the Grit forces there was a feeling of utter demoralization in Government circles here, and corresponding elation on the Conservative side. It is confidently expected that British Columbia will tell the same story in October.

"The Conservatives in the east," said Mr. R. L. Borden this evening, "are of course very much gratified and encouraged by the splendid victory which Mr. Roblin had won. From the knowledge which I derived of the Conservative spirit of that province during my tour last autumn, I felt satisfied that on the appeal to the people Mr. Roblin would meet with the endorsation of the electorate, which his able and progressive Government deserve. The victory must be particularly gratifying to the Government of Manitoba in view of the desperate but unsuccessful attempts which were made by their opponents to destroy public confidence in the integrity of the Administration."

HERE IS A POINTER. Because you haven't used Catarrhozone is the best reason why you should use it right away. It will cure the catarrh that makes your breath so heavy and your hearing so poor. Catarrhozone is a scientific cure for catarrh, bronchitis and asthma, recommended by doctors and druggists as a certain cure. Mr. Henry A. Taylor, the oldest druggist in Halifax, says: "Catarrhozone gives satisfaction wherever it goes. It is simple and convenient to use, and enjoys fully three times the sale of any other catarrh remedy sold in the city." Catarrhozone is guaranteed to cure, and if it fails you can have your money returned. Price $1.00 for two months' treatment. Small size 25c. Druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

CHEAP TRIPS.

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay, Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

1,000 ISLANDS AND ROCHESTER.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian" leave Belleville for Thousand Islands at 3.25 a.m., daily except Mondays. Fare $1.00. Returning Str. leaves at 11.38 p.m. for Rochester, N.Y. m29d&w3m

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

LACE—CURTAINS

An Odd Lot of

English Nottingham and Brussels Net Lace Curtains

This stock being so varied, it would be impossible to enumerate the different prices.

Come and inspect these goods and their quality and you will readily understand what a money saving investment awaits every one that will take advantage of this sale.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson
DIRECT IMPORTERS

Daily Intelligencer.

THE INTELLIGENCER IS SOLD AT
J. W. London's and G. Wardhaugh's.

Local Reading Advertisements.

Cards 50 cents; 2 cents per word first insertion, per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words; contracts for long periods made at office

Double
Picnics on Wednesday

With double picnics Wednesday we'll be very busy to-morrow sending out supplies. We'll have plenty made, but would ask you to get your orders in early.

CHAS. S. CLAPP

Wednesday, July 22nd,
GRAND TRUNK PICNIC
McKeown's DRUG STORE
will close at 1 o'clock.

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario.
AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE, No. 46 Bridge St., Belleville,
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

Lost chances never leave any trail.

MONITOR

This is another fine Mantle Clock, not quite so expensive as Gadski in last week's advertisement, but fully as serviceable. It is an eight-day hour and half strike on cathedral gong, fancy columns with trimmings and drop handles, in every way a beautiful clock. Our price only $5.50.

T. BLACKBURN.
Eyes examined free of charge. Jeweller & Optician.

We will still keep on SLAUGHTERING
—OUR—
China Stock

25c Cups and Saucers	12½c
50c Cups and Saucers	25c
10c Cups and Saucers	6c and 5c
10c Mugs	5c
Large Biscuit Jars	35c

China at prices that's wonderful.

McINTOSH BROS.

The Chiming Clock.

By C. Langton Clarke.

IT was on board a Cunarder, bound from New York to Liverpool, that I first met the man who was responsible for what has certainly been the most remarkable incident in my experience.

I was returning from a holiday in the United States to resume my duties about the person of a certain royal personage, and as the New York papers had given a good deal of prominence to my goings and comings, my identity was pretty generally known to my fellow-passengers. Among them was a tall, thin man, who on the third day out introduced himself as Mr. Amos Hanchard of Thomasville, Illinois.

"A citizen of the United States, sir," he said, as he shook me warmly by the hand, "but of good old British stock, sir, and maybe, if the truth were known, more of a Britisher at heart than yourself, as you might think, sir, if you knew my errand across this little pond."

I evinced a polite interest, but did not seek to prolong the interview, and it is probable that our acquaintance would have remained on the same distant footing but for an incident which occurred late that night. I was pacing the deck, preparatory to turning in, when I met Mr. Hanchard staggering towards the companion. He was evidently suffering extreme agony, and I could do no less than offer him my arm.

"Neuralgia of the optic nerve," he gasped, as I assisted him to his cabin. "It's hell upon earth, sir, till I can get at my medicine."

I would have hastened for the doctor, but he assured me it was unnecessary, as he never traveled without an opiate, and at his express desire I left him to prepare his own remedy.

He was late in putting in an appearance next day, and his eyes were heavy with the effects of the drug which he had taken. He thanked me heartily for the assistance which I had rendered him, and informed me that he was subject to neuralgic attacks of such extreme severity that he was at times hardly responsible for his actions. We became fairly intimate, and I found him an agreeable conversationalist, a shrewd judge of human nature, and insatiable in his thirst for information. He was particularly interested in English court life, and catechised me thoroughly as to the customs and appearance of princes and princesses, and my own duties about the person of my royal master.

"Will you step into my stateroom. I've got something there that I'd like real well to show you," he said on the evening of the fifth day. "I think you might be able to do me a good turn."

I followed him into his cabin, and the first thing he did was to produce a newspaper from his trunk. It was a copy of the Thomasville "Courier" of a comparatively recent date, and Mr. Hanchard, standing with one hand on my shoulder, smilingly indicated a paragraph which he desired me to read. It was headed, "A Gift to Royalty," and described a meeting of the "Prince of Scotland Club," at which it had been decided to present a suitable gift to my royal master on the occasion of his birthday.

The paragraph concluded by stating that "Mr. Amos Hanchard, president of the club, who is shortly leaving for the Old Country on private business, was deputed to make the presentation in person."

"Most of our club are Britishers," said Mr. Hanchard, in explanation, "but they thought the thing would have more Anglo-Saxon-Alliance frills on it if a native-born American did the presenting. See?"

"The Prince will be deeply gratified," I said, as Mr. Hanchard stood beaming.

"Hold on a moment," he said. "I haven't shown you the thing I'm taking. I guess you'll admit it's a hummer."

He dived to the bottom of his trunk and produced an oblong case of dark green morocco leather, embossed with my master's crest. Opening this he extracted a small gold traveling clock, of exquisite beauty in workmanship and design. The crest was outlined in brilliants on both sides, and on the back was the following inscription:

Presented to
THE PRINCE OF SCOTLAND
On the Occasion of his 50th Birthday,
By the Prince of Scotland Club of Thomasville, Ill.

I examined it with an admiration which I freely expressed. "Ain't she a beauty?" asked Mr. Hanchard, rapturously. "But you haven't seen the best of her yet. The Prince was born at eleven o'clock, wasn't he? Well, look here." He turned a couple of keys and set the hands at the hour he had named. Immediately, from a tiny set of bells, concealed within the works, the British National Anthem chimed forth, followed by the whirring of wheels and a little click.

"That's what I call a neat compliment," he said, "and all my own idea. I tell you it's made me solid for the presidency next year. They were tickled to death with it."

"And now," he continued, taking the clock from my hands and putting it away again, "I want you to do me a favor. The Prince's birthday is the day after to-morrow. Do you think you can work me an interview with His Royal Highness?"

"I think that under the peculiar circumstances it might be easily managed," I replied.

"If there should be any difficulty," he suggested, "maybe you wouldn't mind taking charge of the thing yourself, and seeing that His Royal Highness receives it at the right time. I'm pledged to get it into his hands on his birthday, and cable the club at its anniversary meeting that night. It'd kind of be a disappointment all round if the Prince and the timepiece failed to connect on the right day and at the right hour."

"I may safely promise you that he shall receive it either from your hands or mine," I replied, and Mr. Hanchard was profuse in his expressions of gratitude.

* * *

From Liverpool to London Mr. Hanchard and I traveled together, and at his earnest request I consented to postpone my return to my own quarters at the Palace until the following morning, and remain as his guest at a small hotel, which he assured me was a favorite stopping-place with tourists from Thomasville.

During the evening my companion evinced symptoms of nervousness, and several times expressed a doubt as to whether he would be able to summon sufficient courage to face royalty. "I'll make a mess of it sure," he said. "I guess I'll have to let you do the presenting after all."

I did by best to reassure him, but the question was eventually settled in a manner neither of us had foreseen. While ascending the stairs to his bedroom Mr. Hanchard slipped, and gave his ankle a wrench so severe as seemed to preclude the possibility of his putting his foot to the ground for several days.

He accepted the misfortune with philosophical composure, and I assured him that he need be under no apprehension with regard to the timely delivery of his chiming clock, as I would willingly undertake it, the more so as he was now physically incapacitated from making the presentation in person.

"I guess it's not going to make a deal of difference after all, then," he said. "And now," he added, "if you'll be so kind as to give me the black handbag you'll find in the top of that trunk, I'll just get her fixed up, so that she'll reel off her tune all right at eleven o'clock to-morrow, when you hand her over."

I obeyed his instructions, and then, at his request, went to my own room for a silk handkerchief, with which he wished to put a final polish on the case. When I returned he was sitting up in bed, regarding the clock with a look of affection.

"I hate to part with her, and that's the plumb truth," he said. "It's too bad as I can't be somewhere around to hear her say her little piece." He took the handkerchief I had brought, and carefully wiped the crystal and the inscription.

"She's all ready for business now," he said, handing the clock to me. "Put her back in the bag and take her with you, and be mighty careful you don't jar her, for them works is easy put out of gear."

"I think I'll let you take the responsibility until to-morrow," I replied. "I'll leave this bag in some safe place in your room for the night, and get it in the morning." I picked up Mr. Hanchard's walking-stick and with it pushed the bag with its precious contents well underneath his bed, and after again pledging my word that the Prince should receive the gift in time to judge of its musical capabilities, bade my companion good-night and departed.

When I entered Mr. Hanchard's room in the morning I found him sleeping heavily. A small bottle, labeled "chloral," stood on the table at his bedside, and I came to the conclusion that he had been seized during the night with one of his neuralgic attacks. On the floor at the head of the bed was the black bag. I picked it up without awakening the sleeper, and a few minutes later was driving to the palace.

My time was fully taken up with receiving greetings and replying to the enquiries of my friends, and it was not till half-past ten that I remembered my promise to Mr. Hanchard. I went at once to my room, where I had left the precious bag, but to my consternation, when I opened it I discovered that I had brought away the wrong one. The error was easily explained. The bag which I held in my hand was almost an exact counterpart of that which contained the presentation clock. It was fitted up as a portable medicine chest, and one vacant pocket was evidently intended for the chloral bottle, which I had seen on the table at Mr. Hanchard's bedside. There was nothing for it but to rush back to the hotel and rectify the mistake as soon as possible.

An accident to the hansom which conveyed me delayed my journey somewhat, and it was almost on the stroke of eleven when I entered Mr. Hanchard's bedroom. He was sitting up in bed, watch in hand. He had evidently just awakened, and seemed still drowsy from the effects of the drug.

"Hell," he exclaimed, in a startled tone, "what's brought you back? I reckoned you'd be making that presentation about this time."

"I am deeply grieved at the stupid mistake I have made," I replied, "but I took the wrong bag this morning, and I have come back for the right one."

"My God!" cried Mr. Hanchard, his face the color of the sheet. "Where is the clock?"

"Where I left it last night," I said, "under your bed. Listen!—there it goes!"

As I spoke the muffled notes of the clock, chiming the National Anthem, came to our ears.

I pray that I may never again see such an agony of terror depicted on any human countenance.

Mr. Hanchard uttered a frightful yell and rose up in bed. Unutterably astonished, I started back and, tripping over a low footstool, fell heavily.

The fall probably saved my life. As I went down a glare of blinding light filled the room, there came a deafening roar, the side of the room next the bed was swept away like paper, and then everything grew black before me and I sank into unconsciousness.

Several days elapsed before I regained my senses and was able to realize how narrow had been my escape, not only from losing my life, but from becoming the successful tool of a devilish conspiracy. The inner story of the chiming clock was not at the time revealed to the public, but was kept a profound secret as between my royal master, one or two Scotland Yard detectives and myself.

Enquiries discreetly made on the other side of the Atlantic showed that there was no such organization as a Prince of Scotland Club in Thomasville, and that the copy of the paper by which I had been first misled was entirely spurious.

The identity of the man who called himself Amos Hanchard was never discovered. The force of the explosion had mutilated him beyond all recognition, and in his steamer trunk, which was only partially destroyed, nothing was found that offered any clue. Whether he was an anarchist crank, working for his own hand, or the emissary of some "physical force" organization, is still a mystery.

There was little doubt that he had selected me from the first as a tool especially adapted to his purpose, and that the sprained ankle was merely a pretense to ensure the delivery of his infernal clock by my hands. Had it not been for the unforeseen neuralgic attack, which had driven him in his agony to the use of the chloral bottle, he would doubtless have been in safe hiding before the hour for which he had timed the explosion.

My royal master was kindness itself, and my friends did their best to make me forget my terrible experience; but to this day I carry on my face and body scars which serve as unpleasant reminders of the time when I was made the dupe of Mr. Amos Hanchard, and so nearly fell a victim to his chiming clock.

Prince Louis Napoleon, afterward Napoleon III., effected his escape from Ham in 1840 in a singular manner. He was imprisoned for his attempts against the French government, made at Boulogne in 1840. At 7 o'clock one morning the prince, having shaved his mustache and thrown a blouse and workingman's trousers over his own clothes and wearing wooden shoes, quietly walked out of the prison, carrying a bookshelf over his shoulder to complete his disguise. He was taken to be one of the painters then at work in the prison and was passed by several persons. A carriage was waiting in the neighborhood, and by 3 o'clock in the afternoon he was at Valenciennes, where he took a train to Brussels, and he arrived in London two days later. Meanwhile in the prison Dr. Conneau, the prince's physician, had placed a dummy in the prince's bed and told the governor that the prince was confined to his room by illness. This satisfied the governor until 7 o'clock in the evening, when he insisted on seeing the prince and discovered the fraud. By this time, of course, the prince was over the frontier. Dr. Conneau got off with three months of prison. Within thirty-one months Prince Napoleon was the first president of a French republic, supplanting King Louis Philippe, who had abdicated.

Bedouins and Water.

It is not unusual to hear a Bedouin upon reaching a camp where water is offered him refuse it with the remark, "I drank only yesterday." On the Bedouins' long marches across dry countries the size of the water skins is nicely calculated to just outlast the journey, and they rarely allow themselves to break the habit of abstemiousness, as this would be sure to make their next water fast all the harder. They are accustomed from infancy to regard water as a most precious commodity and use it with religious economy. They know every hollow and nook in the mountains where water may be found. Their camels and goats, which they take with them on their marches to supply them with milk and meat, live principally on the scanty herbage and foliage of the thorny mimosa. Neither men nor animals drink more than once in forty-eight hours. No wonder they can subsist where invaders quickly perish.

People who grumble in cloudy weather usually wear veils when the sun shines.

HAIR GROWTH

Promoted by Shampoos of Cuticura Soap

And Dressings of Cuticura the Great Skin Cure

Purest, Sweetest, Most Effective Remedies for Skin, Scalp and Hair.

This treatment at once stops falling hair, removes crusts, scales and dandruff, destroys hair parasites, soothes irritated, itching surfaces, stimulates the hair follicles, loosens the scalp skin, supplies the roots with energy and nourishment, and makes the hair grow upon a sweet, wholesome, healthy scalp when all else fails.

Millions of women now rely on Cuticura Soap assisted by Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings and chafings, for annoying irritations, or too free or offensive perspiration, for ulcerative weaknesses, and many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves, as well as for all the purposes of the toilet and nursery.

Cuticura remedies are the standard skin cures and humour remedies of the world. Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and, lastly, in the severer forms, take Cuticura Resolvent, to cool and cleanse the blood. A single set is often sufficient to cure the most torturing, disfiguring skin, scalp and blood humours, from pimples to scrofula, from infancy to age, when all else fails.

Cuticura Resolvent, liquid and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.
Send for "How to Cure Every Humour."

Diarrhoea

When you want a quick cure without any loss of time, and one that is followed by no bad results, use Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. It is equally valuable for children. It is famous for its cures over a large part of the civilized world.

This Long Hip Straight Front

Is the very latest Corset. The extra pieces at the side, cover and fit the hips with perfect smoothness, rounding off the lines into an exquisite curve. In no other makes of Corsets will you find this very latest Paris model.

The new tight skirts demand that you wear it.

These are the numbers and prices:

D&A

310 LONG HIP,	$1.25
425 DIP HIP,	1.00
110 DIP HIP,	1.00
208 DIP HIP,	1.00
CREST	1.25

A

For sale by all leading Dry Goods Houses.

TWO DAYS SALE.

Muslins, Foulards and Ginghams.

NATHAN JONES.

In order to clear them quickly we will sell for two days all our Colored Muslins and Foulards, worth from 12½c to 35c yard, and Ginghams from 10c to 20c yard

All at 7c yard.

NATHAN JONES.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's. At Wallbridge & Clarke's

Supplies For Camp or Cruise

New York Biscuits

in "In-er Seal" pkgs.

Uneeda "Jinger" Wafers, Butter Gems, Cheese Biscuits, German Zwieback, Pretzelettes, etc., etc.

Christie's Fancy Biscuits

Fresh supplies every week — 40 varities.

Heintz's Pickles

Heintz's Celery Sauce,
Heintz's India Relish.
Heintz's Sweet Midgets.
Heintz's Sweet Pickles.

Spanish Olives

A fine assortment of Olives from 10cts per bottle up.

Campers Supplies

Essence of Coffee, Condensed Milk, Lime Juice, Raspberry Vinegar, Fancy Cheese, New Pack Lobster and Shrimps, French Sardines, Scallops, Deviled Crabs, Concentrated Soups, French Potage, Beef Extracts, etc., etc.

Pickles and Sauces

A complete assortment of English and American Pickles and Sauces, including Pickled Walnuts, Onions, Chow Chow, Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce, Yorkshire Relish, Mushroom Catsup, Harvey's Sauce, Sultana Sauce, Chutney's Capers, Durkee's Salad Dressing, etc., etc.

Delicious Teas

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious English Breakfast Teas in lead packets at 30, 40, 50 and 60cts per lb.

Canned Meats

New Packs. Finest Quality.
Whole Ox Tongues.
Lunch Tongues.
Lamb's Tongues.
Boned Chicken.
Boned Turkey.
Boned Duck.
Pate de foie.
Potted Ham.
Potted Tongue.
Sliced Dried Beef.
Ham Loaf.
Veal Loaf.
Chicken Tamales.
Lunch Beef.
Lunch Bacon.
Chicken, Ham and Tongue.
Pigs Feet.
Jellied Tenderloins.
Vienna Sausages.
Luncheon Sausages.
Baked Beans—plain or in Tomato or Chili Sauce, etc., etc., etc.

Ale and Stout, Wines, etc.

Carling's, Labatt and Davies' Dominion Ale, Bass' Ale, Dow's Sand Porter, Guinness' Stout, in prime condition.

Gurd's Ginger and Soda Water Appolinaris and Radnor Water.

Barton & Guestier's and Nath. Johnston's Bordeaux Clarets and Sauterne AT POPULAR PRICES.

Rhine Wine and Burgundy Cordials and Liqueurs.

Light Canadian Wines, red or white, at lowest prices.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
EST'D. 1871.
BRIDGE ST. Tel. 139.
Branch Store
Front St.—Tel. 157.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 37. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, JULY 22, 1903 NO. 68

C.P.R. REAR-END COLLISION

Three Cattle Men Killed and Four Others Injured.

New Engine Was Badly Smashed, and Three Cars Were Precipitated Into the Grand River at Galt—Extra Freight From London Crashed Into Cattle Train Standing on the Long Bridge.

Galt, Ont., July 22.—Three killed and four lying in the hospital as a result of their injuries; three cars in the Grand River, and a new engine badly smashed, is the net result of a rear-end collision on the Canadian Pacific Railway early yesterday morning. The dead:

Hugh McMillan, cattleman, Dutton, Ont., killed by fall; David McPherson, cattleman, Dutton, died at hospital from injuries to head; Thos. Pinhale, cattleman, St. Thomas, found in river in wrecked caboose.

The injured are: F. J. Smale, cattleman, Glanworth; Peter Campbell, cattleman, Lawrence Station; Donald Ferguson, cattleman, Glanworth; Ernest McConnell, engineer of wrecked engine, Toronto Junction.

Crashed Into Cattle Train.

An extra freight from London crashed into a through extra cattle train to Montreal, which was taking water, and extended the entire length of the long bridge which spans the Grand River. Shortly after midnight the London extra, driven by Engineer McConnell, rounded the sharp curve about 200 yards from the bridge. Steam was shut off, as is the custom at this point, but the train had gained such momentum that as the red light of the rear of the standing train loomed up before the gaze of McConnell, all that was left to be done was to reverse steam, open wide the sand tank, and whistle a warning. As the heavy train was within a few yards of the caboose of the standing train, McConnell shouted to his fireman "jump." No sooner had he done so than the crash came. The caboose was jammed flat. Two cars in front went over the bridge, falling a distance of 80 feet into the river, carrying the shattered caboose along.

Leaped to Death.

Awakened by the shrieks of the whistle, Hugh McMillan rushed to the platform, and seeing the oncoming train leaped into the darkness, landing on the G.T.R. track beside the river. When picked up his head was crushed into an unrecognizable mass. Pinhale was picked up in the river, having fallen with the wrecked caboose. His leg was broken and skull crushed. David McPherson was taken from underneath the cowcatcher, but lived long enough to be taken to the hospital. On arriving there he became unconscious and died within a few hours. His death was due to a fracture to the base of the skull.

Injured Will Recover.

At a late hour last night Dr. Elliott was seen at the hospital and stated he had examined all the injured and found their injuries only superficial. They would all be around in about a week, he thought. Relatives and friends of the dead men arrived about noon and had them sent back to their respective homes.

Coroner Radford, after viewing the bodies and empanelling a jury earlier in the day, released the bodies, that they might be taken home.

Cause a Mystery.

Just who is responsible for the accident is still a mystery. The semaphore stationed at the curve should have signalled McConnell to stop. He claimes he did not see it. The station agent on duty, William Shaw, declares that it was up. Other than the assertion of McConnell, that he did not see it, there is nothing to disprove the agent's remarks. The night was dark and foggy and there is just a possibility that the signal could not be distinctly seen. The London train crew had been working since 10 o'clock on Monday morning.

Killed Well Known.

Hugh McMillan, killed, was a well-to-do farmer and drover living two and one-half miles north of Dutton, with his wife, his father, a man 96 years of age, and his sister. He was about 51 years of age.

David McPherson, killed, resided northwest of Dutton and is also a well-to-do farmer and drover. He was about 32 years of age and was married not long ago to a Mrs. Buchanan.

T. Penhale, killed, is a son of John Penhale, 16th concession of Yarmouth. He lived at Mapleton. He leaves a widow and six children. He is a brother-in-law of C. A. Brower, M.P.P.

Wreck at Peterboro.

Peterboro, July 22.—There was a serious head-on collision of two double-header freights yesterday afternoon near the Wm. Hamilton Company's shops. There was a train standing on the main line while the engine was taking in water. A train which was following ran into the rear end. Both engines of the rear train appear to be completely demolished. The accident occurred a couple of blocks from the business portion of the town. Both crews escaped by jumping.

Lost an Arm.

Teeswater, July 22.—A painful accident occurred last evening on the fourth concession of Culross, a short distance from this village. A young man named McCormick was engaged in moving hay when in some way his arm got caught in the machine, cutting it so badly below the elbow that amputation was necessary.

Indian Must Die.

Ottawa, July 22.—The sheriff of New Westminster wired yesterday if he was to proceed with the execution of the Indian Larie, who was respited, on the 24th. The Secretary of State telegraphed back to do so.

MAN TOOK PARIS GREEN.

John Logie Suicides Because Wife and Child Died.

Toronto, July 22.—John Logie, marine engineer, an Englishman who has been in Canada for only three months, took his life yesterday afternoon at Munro Park by swallowing Paris green. He was discovered in a dying state early in the afternoon and taken to the General Hospital, where he died.

The explanation of his rash act is that he was despondent owing to the fact that his wife and child had died at his home in Gateshead-on-the-Tyne, a short time ago. He was 35 years of age, and was employed at Polson's Iron Works. He had worked in the upper lakes. His papers showed him to be a high-class engineer, and a man of excellent reputation.

Has an Apostle Spoon.

Galt, July 22.—Mrs. Howell, Water street, has a genuine apostle spoon. It is valuable, worth perhaps $2,100.

Millions More Than Expected.

Ottawa, July 22.—When the details of Canada's foreign trade for 1902-3 are given out in a day or two it will be seen that the aggregate will reach the enormous sum of $470,000,000, or $20,000,000 more than was expected, and $50,000,000 better than the previous year.

SINCLAIR'S AD SINCLAIR'S AD.

Summer Sale Prices

If you are at all interested in Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Goods, our sale prices for this week should have a special attraction for you. Here are some of them.

34 Ladies' Cloth Skirts from $2.50 to $4.50, all this season's styles, will sell for .... $1.65 ea.

15 Ladies' Silk Waists will sell at ⅓ off regular prices.

20 Ladies' Cotton Dresses will sell at Half Price.

Your choice of all our Colored Shirt Waists, both Linen and Cotton, at 25 per cent. off.

All $1.25 and $1.35 Print Wrappers, will sell for $1.00

1 only Ladies' $22.50 Black Taffeta Coat, will sell for $15.00

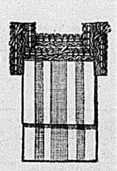
NEW STYLES IN WHITE WAISTS.

These are some of the very newest creations in Ladies' White Waists, to sell from $1.25 to $3.50 each.

SUMMER WASH GOODS

Cut to fit and properly made in Black and Navy Spots and Stripes, nicely trimmed, at $1.35, $1.50, $1.65, and $1.75 each. We also show White Pique and Linen Skirts, from $1.00 to $2.50 each.

Ladies' and Children's Vests.



We are now clearing the balance of our Summer Vests and offer some wonderful values from 5c and 25c each.

If YOU WANT WASH GOODS don't miss our 10c and 15c tables.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO.

ONE VAST REVERBERATION

Rome's 400 Church Bells Toll For the Passing of Leo.

Clanging Chorus For an Hour at Eventide Such as the World Has Seldom Heard—Body Will Lie in State For Three Days While Public Takes Last Farewell—The Interment Will Be Saturday.

Rome, July 22.—The body of Leo XIII. lay last night in the hall of the throne room, a few steps from the room in which his death took place. In the same vestments, the comauro hood, the rochet and the white gown which were put on Monday covered the form, which rests in semi-state surrounded by lighted candles, the noble guard and Franciscan penitentiaries.

This morning the diplomatic body, the high dignitaries and the Roman aristocracy will enter the hall to pay their tributes of respect to all that remains of the Pope.

In the afternoon the body will be arrayed in all the glory of the pontificial robes, the mitre replacing the hood, and at sunset it will be taken into the chapel of the sacrament of St. Peter's, where for three days the public will be given an opportunity of paying a last farewell. The interment will occur Saturday evening.

Yesterday was notable for the impressive ceremonial of the recognition of the death of the Pope, which occurred in the morning in the chamber in which he died. Thereafter only those were admitted who were concerned in the embalming of the body, an operation which occupied six hours. Meantime the authorities of the Vatican proceeded with the preparations for the funeral, the conclave and the acknowledgment of the condolences which have been received.

Throughout the day the Vatican was surrounded by crowds which increased toward night. Several thousand entered St. Peter's at Vespers and joined in prayers for the departed. Among these were many of the Italian officers, whose troops, shortly after sunset, were marched from the Vatican back to their barracks. At no time had their services been needed.

The quiet of the evening was broken by a chorus such as the world has seldom heard. On the stroke of eight, all of Rome's four hundred churches began to toll bells for the passing of the soul of Leo XIII. From the Seven Hills and from every quarter of the city which contained churches came the constant clang until all was one vast reverberation. The harsh jingle of the smaller chapel bells striking quickly and more often, was not drowned by the solemn strokes that came in mourning measure from the great dome of St. Peter's. Except in its common motive and common sorrow it was an amazing discord, which continued an hour and which will occur every night until the obsequies are over.

Touching Scene at Vatican.

There was a touching scene at the Vatican yesterday morning, when the nephews of Leo, with their families, entered the death chamber to take a last farewell of their uncle, for whom they had an intense reverence. The little party advanced on tip-toe, and, circling around the bed, fell on their knees and joined in the prayers of the penitentiaries. Presently the visitors arose and slowly filed past the bed, kneeling to kiss the dead as they passed.

Death Mask Taken.

A death mask of Leo XIII. was taken yesterday by Commendator Galli, director of the Vatican Museum. The delicate work was successfuly executed, and the result is considered highly satisfactory.

King Expresses Regret.

London, July 22.—King Edward has commanded Irish Secretary Wyndham to express to the Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of all Ireland, His Majesty's deep regret at the news of the death of the Pope, and to ask His Eminence to convey to the sacred college His Majesty's sincere regrets.

Condolences Adopted.

London, July 22.—The Irish Parliamentary party held a meeting at Westminster last night under the chairmanship of John Redmond, and adopted resolutions extending condolences upon the death of the Pope, and paying tribute to his noble character and saintly life. Sir Thomas Esmonds, member for North Wexford, and Captain Donolan, member for Cork, were appointed a committee to represent the Irish party at the obsequies.

30 SEATS TO 7.

Latest Manitoba Returns Show Great Conservative Victory.

Winnipeg, July 22.—The standing of the parties now is: Government 30, Opposition 7, with elections yet to be held in Gemli and Swan River.

Two doubtful seats are Assiniboia and Kildonan and St. Andrews.

Returns up to date give the Government candidates majorities in each.

A Lineman Injured.

Toronto, July 22.—Coming in contact with a feed wire of the Metropolitan Railway, while working at Richmond Hill, yesterday, Emile Madore, was thrown some distance up in the air and fell to the ground, a distance of over 25 feet. He was brought to St. Michael's Hospital here, but can hardly recover.

STOCK SPECULATION.

House of Commons Debates the Subject on the Motion of Mr. Bourassa—The House in Supply.

Ottawa, July 22.—In the House yesterday, Mr. Monk complained of the delay in issuing a writ for an election in St. James' division, Montreal, vacant since May 10. Sir Wilfrid Laurier promised to give his immediate attention to the matter.

On motion to go into supply, Mr. Henri Bourassa, Labelle, moved, "That it is necessary and urgent that efficiant measures be taken to control the operations of the stock market and place a check upon speculation which disturbs the financial security of Canada and retards the prosperity of her commerce and industries."

Mr. Bourassa made a long speech in favor of his motion, in the course of which he said that nine-tenths of the transactions in the stock exchange are of such a character that neither the broker who sold nor the customer who bought contemplated consummating a deal. He believed the broker only bought the shares at the date of transfer, and this, he declared, was a worse system of robbery than that of the bucket shops.

The debate was continued by Mr. E. B. Osler, Hon. Mr. Fielding, Mr. R. L. Borden, Mr. Jabel Robinson, Mr. F. D. Monk, Mr. Robert Holmes, Mr. W. F. Maclean, Mr. D. Henderson, Dr. Sproule, Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick and Hon. Mr. Tarte, after which the resolution was withdrawn.

Passing Estimates.

One census item passed during the evening. Hon. Sydney Fisher said that the census would be finished next year at a cost of about $1,150,000.

The vote of $150,000 for the Quebec arsenal was taken up. Sir Frederick Borden informed the committee that the amount was required to increase the capacity of the cartridge factory from one million to six or seven million rounds per annum. The item carried, and the House rose at midnight.

Friday a Fateful Day.

Ottawa, July 22.—It is understood that the Government's Grand Trunk Pacific resolutions will be brought down on Friday. The Prime Minister had a final conference with C. M. Hays on the subject Monday night.

For Exchange of Business.

The Railway Committee discussed the question of requiring telephone companies to exchange business under equitable terms, but the amendments were voted down and the clause stands. Mr. E. F. Clarke will move re-insertion when the Canadian Telephone and Telegraph Co.'s bill comes up in the House.

Bill Withdrawn.

Ottawa, July 22.—Senator Ferguson's bill respecting the extra judicial employment of judges was debated in the Senate yesterday. Afterwards he withdrew the bill.

AYLESWORTH ACCEPTS.

Will Represent Canada on the Alaska Boundary Commission.

Ottawa, July 22.—A cablegram has been received by Hon. Clifford Sifton from Mr. A. B. Aylesworth, consenting at act in place of the late Judge Armour as representative for Canada on the Alaska tribunal. The tribunal will meet in London on Sept. 3, when written argument will be presented. It is thought that all the meetings of the tribunal will be held in the English metropolis.

Hon. Mr. Sifton will have to attend the meetings of the commissioners in London, but it is not known when he will leave here. He will probably be required to go about the last week in August. Whether Mr. Aylesworth will accept an appointment on the Supreme Court bench still remains to be ascertained. There is no hurry, however, for this appointment, as the court does not meet until October.

CYCLIST FALLS 20 FEET.

Galt Man Drops Into Rock-faced Chasm and Is Badly Hurt.

Galt, July 22.—Ralph Rolland, a youth about 20 years of age, was seriously, if not fataly, injured at noon yesterday, while returning from the scene of the railway wreck. He was riding a wheel along a footpath skirting the river and turned off to allow two ladies going the opposite way to pass, but evidently miscalculated the distance between the roadway and a rock-faced chasm 20 feet deep, into which he rode, falling headforemost to the bottom. He was rendered unconscious and on examination it was found that besides being injured internally, his left arm was broken, one rib torn away from the breast bone and his upper lip cut in two. Young Rolland, who came here two years ago from Listowell, is a blacksmith in the employ of J. E. Hilbern.

No Signs of Foul Play.

Port Stanley, July 22.—The inquest on the death of Miss Hurkett, whose body was found on the beach here last Friday, was resumed yesterday morning. The doctors' report went to show that death was due to drowning, and the verdict brought in by the jury was that the deceased came to her death by drowning. The body showed no signs of foul play.

ROYAL PARTY IS IN DUBLIN

King and Queen Acclaimed by the Irish People.

Capital City of Ireland Taking a Holiday—Decorations Surpassed Everything Previously Attempted—People Crowded the Streets—King, in Replying to an Address, Says He Shares in the Sadness at the Death of the Pope.

Kingstown, Ireland, July 22.—King Edward and Queen Alexandria, accompanied by Princess Victoria and their suites, arrived here at five minutes past 9 o'clock yesterday morning on board the Royal Yacht Victoria and Albert. Immediately after the yacht took its position in the harbor the royal salute was fired by thirteen vessels of the home fleet. A heavy rain, which had been falling since an early hour, ceased at 9 o'clock, and the sky cleared, giving promise of fine weather for the royal entry into Dublin.

A Note of Mourning.

Thousands of persons lined the streets and wharves, awaiting the arrival of Their Majesties. A note of mourning was sounded amid the general rejoicings. It came from the great bell of the Roman Catholic Church of St. Michael, which was tolled solemnly in memory of the Pope.

Their Majesties were rowed from the Victoria and Albert in a royal barge to the Victoria Dock, where they landed at 11 o'clock. They were received by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, the Earl of Dudley, and a number of officials, and were conducted to a pavilion, where an address of welcome was read in behalf of the Kingstown municipal Council.

King Shared in the Sadness.

In replying to an address here King Edward said he shared in the sadness of multitudes of his subjects over the news of the Pope's death. His Majesty said he remembered the kindness with which His Holiness had so recently received him, and the interest which Pope Leo took in the welfare of the English people.

The King added that his visit came at a time when a new era is opening for Ireland.

A special performance, which had been planned for the Royal Theatre in Dublin July 24 has been countermanded in consequence of Pope Leo's death.

Immediately after the ceremony Their Majesties, accompanied by the Lord Lieutenant and a brilliant staff, and escorted by horse guard, drove off in the direction of Dublin amid the greatest enthusiasm on the part of the crowds lining the road between Kingstown and Bull's bridge.

Holiday in Dublin.

Dublin, July 22.—The entry of King Edward and Queen Alexandra into Dublin was made the occasion for a general holiday. The decorations surpassed anything hitherto attempted in Dublin.

The grand stands were crowded, while the people were massed on the sidewalks. Their Majesties bowed their acknowledgments to the warm greetings.

Their Majesties lunched with the Lord Lieutenant and the day's program was concluded with a formal visit by Their Majesties to the Duke of Connaught.

This city was again brilliantly illuminated last night, and dense throngs were parading and cheering "God Save Their Majesties." The King and Queen gave a grand dinner party at the vice-regal lodge.

Land Bill Passes.

London, July 22.—In the House of Commons yesterday Premier Balfour, in the absence of Irish Secretary Wyndham, moved the third reading of the Irish Land Bill. The bill passed the third reading by 317 to 20.

BASEBALL TUESDAY.

The Eastern League.

Toronto ....4 0 0 0 0 0 1 3 0—8
Rochester .... 1 0 0 2 1 1 0 1 0—6

Two base hits—Schrall, Wheeler, Johnson, Downey. Three-base hit—Fuller. Sacrifice hits—Johnson, Carr 2, Bruce. Stolen bases—Fuller, Bruce. Double plays—Wheeler to Lepine to Steelman. First base on errors—Rochester 3, Toronto 4. Base on balls—Off McPartlin 2, off Wheeler 4, off Bruce 3. Hit by pitched ball—Carr. Struck out—By Bruce 2. Left on bases—Rochester 6, Toronto 9. Time—2 hours. Attendance—207. Umpire—Swartwood.

R.H.E.
Jersey City .....1 0 2 0 0 1 0 0 *—4 8 3
Montreal ....0 0 1 0 0 0 0 1 0—2 6 3

Batteries—Thielman and McManus; Falkenburg and McAuley. Umpire—Kelly. Attendance—1800.

R.H.E.
Buffalo .. ..0 1 6 0 0 5 0 0 3—15 18 1
Baltimore .. ..0 0 0 0 3 0 0 0 0— 3 8 3

Batteries—Milligan and Laporte; Adkins, Burchell and Robinson. Umpire—Brown. Attendance—4872.

National League Scores.

At New York— R.H.E.
Brooklyn .... ..0 2 0 0 1 1 0 0 *—4 8 0
New York ......0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—1 5 1

Batteries—Garvin and Ritter; Matthews and Bowerman. Umpire—Emslie. Attendance—5500.

At Chicago— R.H.T.
Chicago ....0 1 0 1 0 1 0 0 *—3 9 2
Pittsburg ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—1 6 2

Batteries—Menefee and Kling; Kennedy and Weaver. Umpire—O'Day. Attendance—2400.

COUGHED FOR YEARS.

"For four years I had a severe cough. I was so weak and exhausted from coughing that I was unable to attend to my business. Two bottles of Angier's Petroleum Emulsion cured my cough and benefited me in every way."—A. Milligan, Toronto, Canada.

You can try it. FREE.

Every mother who sends us her address on a post card will receive a generous free sample—enough for eight meals—of

Nestlé's Food

LEEMING, MILES & CO., MONTREAL.

THE WEATHER.

To-day's Probs—

Moderate northwest winds, clearing, fine to-night and on Thursday.

To-day's Temperature

As Registered by The Intelligencer's Guaranteed Thermometer:

8 a.m. 66
12 m. 75

At St. Louis— R.H.E.
St. Louis ....0 0 1 2 0 1 0 0 1—5 15 0
Cincinnati .... ..0 0 0 1 1 0 1 1 0—4 9 5

Batteries—Dunleavy and Ryan; Ewing and Bergen. Umpire—Moran. Attendance—2300.

American League Results.

At Washington— R.H.E.
Washington .. ..1 0 2 0 5 0 1 1 *—10 12 2
Chicago ....2 1 0 0 4 0 0 0 0— 7 10 3

Batteries—Patten, Orth and Kittredge; Altrock, Flaherty, White and Slattery. Umpire—O'Loughlin. Attendance—1708.

At Philadelphia (first game)— R.H.E.
St. Louis ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 2 1
Philadelphia .....0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 *—1 8 0

Batteries—Sudhoff and Kahoe; Bender and Schreck.

Second game— R.H.E.
St. Louis ....1 0 1 1 0 0 0 0 0— 3 8 3
Philadelphia ....0 0 2 0 0 0 6 3 *—11 15 1

Batteries—Powell and Sugden; Henley and Schreck. Umpire—Adams. Attendance—11,005.

At New York— R.H.E.
New York ....0 2 0 0 2 4 0 1 *—9 10 1
Cleveland .... ..0 0 0 0 2 0 0 1 0—3 2 2

Batteries—Howell and Beville; Wright and Abbott. Umpire—Sheridan. Attendance—1449.

CANADIANS AT BISLEY.

Defeated in Contest For Kolapore Cup But Make Good Scores—Australians Won the Cup.

Bisley, July 22.—The first stage of the King's prize was the feature yesterday.

In The Daily Graphic Skeddon took fourth place, winning £5 and three sketches of a value of £10 10s. each.

In The Graphic Hayhurst took fourteenth place, winning £20 and two sketches.

The following were the scores of the Canadians in the King's prize at 200 yards:

Crowe, 33; King, 28; Naughton, 33; O'Brien, 31; Peddie, 30; Spearing, 33; Stuart, 31; Vroom, 34; Hayhurst, 33; Jones, 30; Morris, 32; McGregor, 33; Smith, 32; Drysdale, 30; Annand, 30; Elliott, 33; White, 33.

Staff-Sergt. Bayles of the 10th Grenadiers scored 33.

The Canadians were defeated yesterday in the contest for the Kolapore Cup. The weather was fair and some excellent scores were made by the various teams competing. It looked for a time as if the Canadians had a good chance, but Hayhurst had the misfortune to place his last bull's-eye at the 500-yards range on the wrong target, thus losing five points, while the targets of King and Stuart at 500 and 600 yards were poor. It was simply remarkable how little interest was manifested in the event, if one may judge by the attendance, which was miserably poor.

Australia won the cup, with Great Britain second and Canada third.

No More Plugs.

Windsor, July 23.—The Windsor customs department has received orders that in the future no horses shall be permitted to enter Canada unless they are valued at $25. This will revolutionize the heavy horse traffic done by many people in the neighborhood who buy old plugs in Detroit for $4 or $5 and take them over the border upon payment of 20 per cent. duty. As a result the countryside is flooded with useless horses. A fee of $30 is charged by the American customs on every horse brought in from Canada.

For the Antarctic Explorers.

Dundee, Scotland, July 22.—A sensation has been created by the news that the British Government, acting independently of the scientific societies which fathered the British exploring expedition now in the Antarctic regions, will soon send out a relief ship of its own, instead of contributing money to promote any other enterprise. An Admiralty official has been here secretly, and has arranged for the charter of a steam whaler, the Terra Nova, for this purpose.

British Elections in March Next.

London, July 22.—The Times announces that it is anticipated in official circles that Parliament will be dissolved early in the next session and that a general election will occur in March.

Geronimo Joins the Church.

Fort Sill, I.T., July 22.—Geronimo and a dozen of his Apache warriors have joined the Methodist Church, having been baptized in the presence of a large crowd of Indians and whites.

Seven hundred British subjects are yearly born at sea.

When a storm is approaching glow-worms are far more brilliant than at other times.

FORCE FOOD CO
JD SUNNY JIM
BUFFALO
FORCE FOOD CO
JD
BUFFALO

Jim Dumps, at Buffalo, went through Large mills, and more delighted grew
At every step. "How clean!" said he.
He saw them mingle skilfully
Malt, wheat and sunshine—strength for him.
"And that makes 'Force,'" nods "Sunny Jim."

FORCE

The Ready-to-Serve Cereal crisp cleanliness and purity.

Cleanliness the Characteristic.

"I have thoroughly inspected the mills and the method of manufacturing the product called 'Force.' I find that the sole ingredients—wheat and extract of malt—are of the highest possible quality and of absolute purity, and that every step in the process of manufacture is characterized by perfect cleanliness. The final drying, or roasting, thoroughly sterilizes the product, and from the time the grain is delivered at the mill until the final sealing of the packages, the food is handled entirely by machinery.

HERBERT M. HILL,

"Analytical Chemist University of Buffalo, and Chemist of the City of Buffalo."

88

THERE IS
No Silk So Smooth,
No Silk So Long,
No Silk So Strong as
Corticelli
THE DRESSMAKERS' FAVORITE SPOOL SILK
"Too Strong To Break"
Corticelli

30 Retail Stores DAVIES 30 Retail Stores

HAVE YOU TESTED

Davies Tea

Yet? It is delicious. 25c, 40c & 60c per lb.

A cup of our tea is considered by women as a popular beverage for an entertainment. This being true you should have the best Tea obtainable. Our Teas are delightfully fresh and fragrant, carefully picked from the choicest plants and basket dried, which we import direct from the grower and bring them straight to the consumer. Try a package and be convinced.

DAVIES COFFEE is an excellent breakfast tonic.

DAVIES are noted to be Headquarters for Picnic and Camping Supplies, of which they carry 32 varieties, Jellied and Ready-to-Serve Meats, which are pure and wholesome.

THIS STORE closes at 12 o'clock Wednesdays during July and August.

DAILY DELIVERIES. Shop Early or Phone 286.

The WM. DAVIES CO., Limited.

For Torpid Liver, Flatulence, Constipation, Biliousness and Sick Headache, TAKE

BRISTOL'S Pills

Safe, Mild, Quick-acting, Painless, do not weaken, and always give satisfaction.

Reliable Household Medicine, can be taken at any season, by Adults or Children.

Druggists sell "BRISTOL'S."

SPECIAL OFFER

MIDSUMMER CLUBBING RATES.

Two Papers to January 1st, 1904

Family Herald & Weekly Star, and the Best Home Paper—The Weekly Intelligencer, BOTH for

65 CENTS

We are making this special offer as we require 1000 new subscriptions to our Weekly.

This offer is good to new subscribers only.

ADDRESS—
The Weekly Intelligencer
BELLEVILLE, ONT.

No agents handle this offer.

Daily Intelligencer.

GOOD ADVICE, TRULY.

The Halifax Herald offers the following very excellent advice to Conservatives generally: "Whether the general Dominion election comes off this fall, or is delayed for several months beyond that date, there are no doubt many constituencies where Conservatives will need all the time between this and the election, whenever it comes, to put themselves into a position to meet their opponents on anything like fair fighting terms. Conservatives do not appear to have a sufficient appreciation of the fact that their opponents are in possession, not merely in possession at Ottawa, but in possession of most of the constituencies, and it stands to reason that those who expect to attack and dispossess the present occupants of the constituencies will need to make a good deal of preparation for the work in order to have any fair chance of success. In many cases, of course, the Conservatives will have men who have already been in Parliament and who are well-known in the constituencies, to offer as candidates; but in not a few cases the candidates are likely to be new men, new to political life or new to the constituencies in which they offer. In such cases it is clearly no good to wait till the very eve of the election, then rush into the field and try to make a canvass of a big county or a brace of counties in a few weeks. The thing cannot be done with the smallest chance of success. Such work can only make an exhibition of folly and failure. Unless an opposition in any county has, of a certainty, a candidate ready when they call, of political experience and as well-known to the electors of the county as is the sitting member, then they would do well to make up their minds that they need about a year to select a new man for candidate and give him a chance to go through the country and cultivate such an acquaintance with the electors as to afford him a fair fighting chance on election day. Where the men have not been in Parliament, or have not represented the constituency for which they are to be candidates, they should be selected early, and should devote a good part of several months to a personal canvass of the electorate. We venture to say that there are many constituencies where the party workers can and do attribute the defeat of their candidate at the last election mainly to the lack of such previous preparation. This has been such a common experience that it is surely about time for the party managers in the several counties to adopt a more prudent method and to put their candidates in the field early enough for a full canvass of the counties to be made even before the actual campaign begins. Of course the candidate, even though selected early, may neglect his opportunity to canvass, and so throw away his chances of election, but the chief error has been in waiting till a few weeks before an election before selecting candidates. A candidate selected in due time is not likely to take the responsibility of losing the county through his own personal neglect."

Night Lunches

This is our big specialty. Our Lunch Room is open every week night until after midnight ready to serve you a small lunch or a full meal at any time.

Drop in some night when you happen to be out late.

J. ARTHUR MARSH.

TIMELY TOPICS

The Liberal press can chortle as it will, but people can safely take for granted that it is for no small reason Hon. Mr. Blair is dropping out of the Cabinet. The Liberal party, through lack of a clearly defined policy, or through inability to grasp the needs of the country, has become dominated by a few daring schemers, headed by an opportunist, and honest men have to quit the field. Since the Laurier Government came into power it has lost the following of its original members:

Hon. Joly de Lotbiniere.
Sir Oliver Mowat.
Hon. David Mills.
Hon. J. Israel Tarte.
Hon. A. G. Blair.

The shop-worn remnant that is left may hang on for some time longer, but their time is coming.

• • •

Our friends the Yankees, in their patriotic demonstrations on the Fourth of July, killed 52 persons and injured no less than 3,665. The loss of property by fire amounted to about half a million dollars. It would appear that the poet's line, "butchered to make a Roman holiday," can be brought up-to-date by a changing of one word.

• • •

Much rain has fallen in England of late. Race tracks and cricket fields have been converted into swamps, the rivers have overflowed their banks, and all the low-lying districts of outer London, near the Thames, have been awash. But in one respect, at all events, the almost incessant rains of June have proved a blessing. A writer points out that for seven or eight years the Midland and some of the Eastern counties have been steadily drying up. Many of the beautiful old churches that lie along the valley of the Nene, near the Huntingdonshire and Lincolnshire fens, and along the junction lines of Northamptonshire and Huntingdonshire, have been showing alarming signs of splitting, and in very few cases have the engineers been able to find a remedy. After the third or fourth year of drought the marl of the subsoil began to shrink, and the effect was at once seen in cracks in the walls, which in some cases threatened actually to split the churches in two. Nothing could stop the mischief, but such an amount of rain as would restore the quality of the clay and marl. This has come, and many fine old buildings, both churches and mansions, will be saved.

• • •

SOME FAMILY HISTORY.
(Chicago Tribune.)

She had fifteen million dollars,
Placed in bonds, and shares, and rents;
He had fifteen million dollars,
So they merged their sentiments.
Now they've raised a son that's valued
At exactly thirty cents.

• • •

Hardly anybody, without severely fracturing the truth, could call this ideal picnic weather. It's rough on the little folks, who, of course, look forward for a long time to their Sunday School picnic.

• • •

However, the rain will do the crops good, and then again another difficulty crops up—The farmers now, it is said, complain that, from present appearances, their binder twine bill will be a tremendous one this year. It's pretty hard to please everybody, as the Chairman of Public Works might say.

PRESBYTERY OF KINGSTON

MET YESTERDAY IN ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH, THIS CITY—MOSTLY ROUTINE BUSINESS TRANSACTED.

The Presbytery of Kingston met in St. Andrew's Church on Tuesday at eleven o'clock, the moderator, Rev. Dr. McTavish, presiding.

The Rev. Dr. McTavish was re-elected moderator for the ensuing year.

The following commissioners to the General Assembly reported attendance at that court: Revs. McGillivray, Binney and McTavish.

Mr. Laird, of Kingston, gave a report in connection with Mr. Eadie's work.

Mr. Eadie, who represents the Presbyterian Students' Volunteer Movement, and whose object is to interest congregations in Foreign Mission work, gave a short address, explaining his work.

Several reports were presented relating to various missions within the bounds.

Arrangements were made for visiting the Home Mission Fields and augmented congregations within the bounds of the Presbytery.

The following standing committees were appointed:

Home Mission—Revs. J. Binnie, convenor; Maclean, McKay, Gracey, McTavish, Boyd, Dr. Jordan and Prin. Gordon, ministers; and Messrs. Russell, McIntosh, Sharp, Longman and W. G. Craig, elders.

Augmentation.—Revs. M. McGillivray, Con.; Prof. Ross, Rannie, Davey, Milligan, Heeney and Drumm, ministers, and Messrs. McKenzie, Hudson, R. J. Craig, Templeton (Belleville), and Neill (Kingston) elders.

Committee on Students.— Revs. A. Laird, Con.; Conn, Boyd, McGillivray, Prof. Fowler, ministers; and the representative elders of Kingston sessions.

Church Life and Work. — Revs. Gracey, Con.; Drumm, Mackie, Gaudier, Teomans, Fotheringham, Cumberland and Prof. McCombe, ministers; and Messrs. Dickson, Wood, Watt, Truesdale and Rollins, elders.

Sunday Schools.—Revs. J. A. Macdonald, Con.; McArthur, Burns, McLeod, Guy and Henry, ministers; and Messrs. Gilmour, Brant, Lennox, Balcanquhel and Sinclair, elders.

Statistics and Finance.—Revs. Wilkins, Con.; McKay, Leitch and Laird, ministers; and Messrs. Strange, Herbison, Meiklejohn and Holcroft, elders.

Young Peoples' Societies. — Revs. McArthur, Con.; Moore, Maclean, McDonald, Milligan and McLaren, ministers and Messrs. White, Shaw, Meiklejohn, Campbell and Mitchell, elders.

Aged and Infirm Ministers' Fund.—Revs. Gaudier, Con.; Prof. Ross, Burns, Cumberland, Drumm, ministers, and Messrs. Wood, Russell, McIntyre, McKenzie and Balcanquhel, elders.

The Rev. Mr. Maclean, after many years of service, retired from the convenership of the Home Mission Committee of the Presbytery, and a committee was appointed to draw up a resolution expressing the Presbytery's appreciation of the services rendered by Mr. Maclean.

Rev. Mr. Boyd reported the opening of a new mission in Kingston. The Presbytery decided to reorganize the Mission, and it was placed under the jurisdiction of the session of Zion Church.

The next meeting of the Presbytery will be held in Chalmer's Church, Kingston, on Tuesday, September 15, at 2 p.m., the Standing Committees to meet in the morning.

HIS LAST HOPE REALIZED.

[From the Sentinel, Gebo, Mont.]

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered much bad water, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by all druggists.

The Editor's Heaven.

An editor who died of starvation was being escorted to heaven by an angel who had been sent out for that purpose, says the Findlay, Ohio, Courier. "May I see the other place before we ascend to eternal happiness?" "Easily," said the angel. So they went below and skirmished around, taking in the sights. The angel lost sight of the editor and went around to hunt him up. He was found sitting by a furnace and fanning himself and gazing with rapture on a lot of people in the fire. There was a sign on the fire which said: "Delinquent Subscribers." "Come, we must be going," said the angel. "You go," said the editor, "I'm not going. This is heaven enough for me."

Piles To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & Co., Toronto.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

SEEKING LIGHT AND GUIDANCE.

Patrick J. Healy, S.T.D., Church of the Holy Innocents, New York.

Stand ye on the ways and see and ask for the old paths, which is the good way, and walk ye in it.—Jeremiah vi., 16.

Each generation has its perplexities and its needs. New kingdoms and commonwealths may spring into being from the ashes of empires that have crumbled, new systems of thought may arise from the shattered elements of those that have ceased to be, but throughout all change and revolution there remains constant and unchanged the innate desire in the souls of men to attain to some state, some condition of life in which will be found peace and contentment. Before the eyes of all has shone and still shines the phantom form of pleasure to be attained.

The same opportunities for reaching happiness have not fallen to the lot of all men alike. For some the desire and its fulfilment, the plan and its execution are one; but despite differences in the circumstances and endowment, all men are equal in those essential phenomenon human life. They have the same needs and the same cravings, and, undistinguished by rank or possessions, they all come at last before the bar of the great leveller, Death.

To each man comes at some time in his life the burning question, Why am I here? How can I make the most of the short span of years allotted to me? The world may go on from age to age, generation may succeed generation, but these questions still arise on the lips of men as a cry in the night, a plea for light and guidance to enable them to know whither they are tending.

Has the world found an answer to these questions? Has any voice come from the blackness of doubt and uncertainty to satisfy these cravings in the minds of men and to still the fear in their hearts?

One answer and one alone can satisfy this tireless longing, this ceaseless prayer. This world, the dole of time granted to men, is but the vestibule of another existence; it is but the portal to another life higher and better than this present one. This is the thought that reduces all human effort to its proper proportion, that gives the life of man its true perspective. In this is contained in the answer to the riddle of the Sphinx.

In striving for the home and the happiness beyond the tomb the burdens of our mortal existence become light and its cares and sorrows become sweet. To each one is given his load of trial of affliction—death, reverses, false friends, calumnies, unjust criticism, come in turn to all; but it matters little in what form or with what frequency they come. They are transmuted in the hope of the heaven to which they may lead.

Though our daily tasks may seem small and mean, they assume new proportions when viewed in the light that shines from beyond. The tasks imposed may sometimes be difficult, the path may be strewn with obstacles, but the prize is worth the struggle. Self-conquest and suffering are the badge of the true Christian. To conquer enemies from without and within, to place beneath his feet the world and everything that allures from the paths of virtue and righteousness, is the duty of every one who takes on himself the yoke of Christ.

The struggle for self-mastery, the desire to overcome pride and sensuality, to bring rebellious passion into the subjection of the spirit, are not things to be feared. As the pine on the mountain side has more strength and stability than the sycamore of the vale because of the tempests it has endured, so does the soul attain the true fibre of Christian virtue and perfection by triumphing over the storms of passion and the aridity of doubt.

Did Not Know Their Names.

Browning's lines on the assassination of the Emperor Paul of Russia, quoted in The London News, remind a New York Tribune correspondent of Tennyson's indirect connection with the same tragedy. Soon after the murder the poet's father dined with Lord St. Helens, the British Ambassador, in Moscow. Several Russian officers of high rank, whose names he did not know, were also guests. During dinner a guarded reference was made to the Emperor's death. "Why do you speak so gingerly about a matter so notorious?" cried Tennyson impulsively, leaning across his neighbor, a Russian, whose breast was covered with orders. "We know very well in England that the Emperor Paul was murdered. Count Zoboff knocked him down and Bennigsen and Count Pahlen strangled him." There was a strained silence; then the Ambassador abruptly changed the subject. As the guests filed out into an adjoining room Lord St. Helens drew Tennyson aside. "Don't go into the next room," he whispered, "but fly for your life. The man next you, across whose breast you leaned, was Count Pahlen, and Zoboff was also at the table." He gave a few hurried directions, and Tennyson rushed off, threw his clothes into a portmanteau and fled behind fast horses to Odessa, still in evening garb, though the cold was intense. He lay hidden for weeks, and at last, in the disguise of a servant, was smuggled on board an English frigate.

The London County Council some eighteen months ago decided to undertake the work of indicating, by means of memorial tablets, houses of historical interest in London. Since then the Historical Records and Buildings Committee have been considering the matter, and have prepared a list of houses which they consider worthy of commemoration. As a beginning, it is proposed that tablets shall be affixed to three of these. One is 122, Great Portland street, Oxford street, the house in which James Boswell died; another 67, Wimpole street, a residence of Henry Hallam, the historian; and the third 48, Doughty street, Mecklenburg square, where Charles Dickens once lived. The houses have not been selected as necessarily in the opinion of the committee those which require indication beyond all others, and in due course further lists will be submitted, forming together a fairly represented scheme. In all cases the facts will be carefully verified. The tablets will be similar in design to those previously used by the Society of Arts.—

Sunlight Soap is useful in more ways than one. It will demonstrate its wonderful cleansing power in every cleansing operation. 98

At no resort can children derive more health and enjoyment than at the MAGI Caledonia Springs.

We Have the Sellers

Ladies' Sterling Silver French-Grey Hat-Pins. In these we show a variety of designs, all new, 35c to 75c.

Ladies' Sterling Silver Enamelled and French-Grey Belt-Pins. These are the very newest on the market and must be seen to be appreciated. Prices 75c to $3.50.

Ladies' Bead Guards

These are immensely popular at present in the American cities, and are certainly an improvement to any summer dress. We show some beauties in the Roman-Filled Pearls, in both long guards and short necklaces. In the Corals the long guards are 75c to $1.50 and the short necklaces 50c and $1.00.

Angus McFee.
Jeweler & Optician
310 Front St.
The Store with the Big Clock.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

New train 12.45 a.m., daily, except Sunday, for Brockville, Montreal and intermediate stations.

No. 16—Local, for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.

No. 2—1.45 a.m., Mail and Express, (Flyer), Daily.

No. 6—11.43 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 4—12.22 p.m., International Limited, Daily.

No. 12—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5—3 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily except Monday.

No. 3—4.10 a.m., Limited Express, Daily.

No. 9—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 11—11.22 a.m., Passenger, Daily except Sunday.

No. 1—1.48 p.m., International Limited, Daily.

No. 7—5.12 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

Taking effect 12.01 o'clock, Sunday, June 14, 1903.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	9.10 a.m.	7.30 a.m.
Mixed	5.08 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

The Surest Remedy is Allen's Lung Balsam

It never fails to cure a SIMPLE COLD, HEAVY COLD, and all BRONCHIAL TROUBLES.

Large Bottles $1.00. Medium Size 50c. Small or Trial Size 25c.

Endorsed by all who have tried it.

A man is generally at his heaviest in his fortieth year.

Month after Month a cold sticks, and seems to tear holes in your throat. Are you aware that even a stubborn and long-neglected cold is cured with Allen's Lung Balsam? Cough and worry no longer.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R.C.S., England.
Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. J. F. MATHER
Has removed his office to Pinnacle St., three doors north of Hotel Quinte.
my29-6mw

DENTAL.

Dr. Clarke has removed to the offices formerly occupied by the late Dr. Ward over Burrows', and opposite Scantlebury's Book Store.
a27dtf

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—2 Campbell Street.

MALCOLM WRIGHT. J. FRANKLIN WILLS.
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for the City of Belleville.
Office—Metropolitan Block, Corner Front and Campbell Streets.

PORTER & CARNEW.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices — Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 87.
E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Office, Bridge Street, Belleville.
Money to Loan — Private Funds, Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, Etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent., on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire Insurance.

Guardian . . .	Est'd 1821
The North America,	Est'd 1792
Quebec, . . .	Est'd 1818

City, Town and Village Property insure at lowest rates.
R. W. ADAMS. Agent.
Office opposite Post Office.

THOS. STEWART,
Insurance and Commission Agent.
Agent for the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Scottish Union National Insurance Co.,
BRIDGE, ST.

FIRE, LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE
At Lowest Rates The Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Perth Mutual on farm and city property. Also money to loan at 4½ per cent. upwards.
JAMES A. CHISHOLM,
Office Ashley Block, · Front st., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned
can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at lower rate than other stock companies Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance.
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont,
Lloyd's Plate Glass,
Home Life Association, Toronto,
North British & Mercantile.
Farm and City Property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation, and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan & Investment Society. Money to Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, Office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., opposite Postoffice and Hotel Quinte, Belleville,
'Phone 168.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. G. NORTHROP,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Shire Hall, Belleville, Ont.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the Post Office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St.
Appointments made.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

Life has no blessing like a prudent friend.

Our Mid-Summer Sale

Our entire stock of FANCY GOODS.

Including China (cups and saucers, Vases, Dishes, etc., etc.), Brass Goods, Candles, Silk Shades, Brushes (both hat and hair), Mirrors, Candlebras, Dickens and Art Pottery Ware, all 40

per cent. off regular prices.

Wrist Bags AND Chatelaines

Latest New York designs in walrus, seal and other leathers, from 35c to $7.00 each, all

25 per cent. off regular price.

Framed Pictures

Entire stock of our Art Gallery, comprising Steel Engravings, Platinums, Prints, etc., beautifully framed. Prices from 50c to $25, all 30 per cent. off regular prices

Wall Paper

Special prices on all Wall Papers and free bordering—2 yards with each double roll.

Paper Hanging and Painting—the largest and most efficient staff of workmen.

C. B. Scantlebury

Belleville's Decorator.

Wall Paper Wholesale and Retail.

FAST MAIL SERVICE
Bay of Quinte Route
TO
ROCHESTER N. Y.
Strs. "North King" and "Caspian"
Taking Effect 27th June.

GOING DAILY (EXCEPT MONDAY)
Lv. Belleville .... 11.38 p. m.
Ar. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 6.43 a. m
RETURNING DAILY (Except Sunday)
Lv. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 8.30 p. m.
Ar. Belleville .... 3.25 a. m.
Baggage checked to all points. Connection with all railways.

$1.00 THOUSAND ISLANDS $1.00
AND RETURN.
Commencing 28th June. Steamer leaves Belleville at 3.25 a.m. daily except Monday for 1000 Islands, calling at Bay of Quinte ports, Kingston, Alexandria Bay and Gananoque. Passing through American and Canadian channels.
Right reserved to change time with or without notice.
Full information from
THE RATHBUN CO., } Agents.
U. E. THOMPSON, }
E. E. HORSEY, G. P. & F. Agent, Kingston.

Str. "Alexandria"
Montreal, Rochester & Quebec Transit Co'y.
Popular Quebec Excursions
NOW ON.
Belleville to Quebec and return .. $18.00
Belleville to Montreal and return $12.00
(including meals and berth)
Steamer runs all rapids.
For Rochester, Olcott Beach, Niagara Falls and Buffalo every Saturday at 11 a.m.
Particulars from
A. W. HEPBURN, General Manager, Picton, Ont.
THE RATHBUN CO. Agents. Belleville.

The Deseronto Navigation Co
TIME TABLE.
Taking effect April 13, 1903.
Belleville, Trenton, Picton & Napanee
Str. "ELLA ROSS"
Leaves Belleville for Trenton at 10 a. m., daily, Sundays Excepted, returning leaves Trenton at 1 p. m., leaving Belleville at 3 p.m. for Deseronto, Napanee and Picton.
Quick and Superior Service to NEW YORK CITY
Steamers RESOLUTE and RELIANCE will leave Deseronto for Oswego after arrival of Str. Ella Ross connecting at Oswego with the New York, Ontario Western Ry.
Fare to New York, Single, $8.40
Return, $13.25
For further particulars apply to THE RATHBUN CO., Local Agents
J. F. CHAPMAN, Asst. Gen. Frt. Pass. Agt., Deseronto
E. C. Carter, General Manager, Deseronto.

THE Steamers Armenia and Ella Ross will carry the Grand Trunk Picnic to Massassaga on Wednesday, July 22nd, in place of the Steamer Niagara.

Saturday afternoon excursion to Napance by Steamer Armenia leaving at 2.30. Fare for adults 35c, children 15c.

Will be home early in the evening.

THOMAS STEWART,
45 Bridge St., Belleville.

Steer a Safe Course
The safest course for delicate skins is to use
BABY'S OWN SOAP.
No Other Soap is as Good.
ALBERT TOILET SOAP CO., Mfrs. Montreal.

AFTER SHAVING POND'S EXTRACT
COOLS, COMFORTS AND HEALS THE SKIN, ENABLING THE MOST TENDER FACE TO ENJOY A CLOSE SHAVE WITHOUT UNPLEASANT RESULTS.
Avoid dangerous, irritating Witch Hazel preparations represented to be "the same as" Pond's Extract, which easily sour and generally contain "wood alcohol," a deadly poison.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

tures were also less sharp, and on the whole he was not an unattractive young man, but the experienced eye could easily determine that he would in time grow into a pretty close copy of his father.

The elder Saybrook had just entered the office and thrown himself into a chair.

"Oh, how tired I am," he whined, as he stretched himself in his easy chair. "It is always the old story with me—work, work, think, think, till body and brain are ready to give out. But I don't know as I should complain—I have had a good day's work, Ralph; yes, yes, a good day's work."

"You have drawn up the will, then?" suggested the young man.

"Yes," was the reply; "it is drawn, signed, sealed, witnessed and recorded—so that job is settled. But what a time I have had of it! I am wearied to death. I carried every point, however that is some satisfaction. In fact, things worked as well as I could have wished. I had some difficulty in getting the old lady to give up some of her crochets; but I finally persuaded her entirely to my views. But what is best, I am myself made sole executor of the estate. Now, I call that a pretty fine stroke of business. It needed very adroit working of the cards on my part, but I flatter myself that I proved equal to the occasion."

"Of course, the nephew gets everything then?" said the son.

"Yes, yes; that was my chief point, you know. The old lady's family pride was all in the direction of giving the nephew everything; but she had some queer notions, and it needed all my finesse to induce her to dismiss them. Only one thing troubles me. The money is not nearly so much as there was reason to suppose. This perhaps is not to be regretted, for I see the way clear in consequence of it for a very bold stroke. But it is queer—very queer. It almost leads one to believe in the stories of old Magnus Rolff's money vaults, and their control by the Evil One. What can the old lady have done with all her cash? It is strange—very strange. Young Master Claude won't have anything like the money he has anticipated. But there's lots of property, and he gets it all. Now mark me, Ralph. I think I see in this turn of affairs just the opportunity I have always wanted. There is nothing nicer for a lawyer than the handling of a big property for a reckless young spendthrift. I have planned to get the handling of the Rolff estate, and I have succeeded. The fact of there not being as much money as I expected is really in my favor. This boy Claude, I am certain, will be of a mind to spend money freely. I have talked with him, and he is eager to come into his fortune and has grand schemes of going to Europe, and becoming a gentleman. But the scapegrace won't have the money to carry out his plans. To gratify his desires, he must needs raise money on the property that will be left him. It is a fine chance for good bargains. With his inexperience and confiding nature, he can be led into almost any kind of an agreement. I have his confidence, I think, and it will be strange if there is not an opportunity afforded me for making a very good thing. Somebody is certain to take advantage of him, and why shouldn't I?"

"To be sure—why not?" echoed the young man.

"Very well put, Ralph," continued the elder. "There is a very fine moral point to consider in the matter. As I said—somebody will surely take advantage of this young man. Who shall it be? Now a man of weak mind might pause before taking advantage of such an opportunity. But why? It is plain that the young fool is bound to dissipate his fortune, and that it must of necessity fall into the hands of somebody. I cannot prevent him doing it. As executor, all I can do is to advise him. But advice, should I give it would only be wasted upon him. His is a nature not to take counsel of a disagreeable sort kindly. To give it, would only be to irritate him and forfeit his confidence. Well, shall I foolishly undertake to curb him in his set purposes, and thus forfeit his confidence, and allow some other and sharper person to usurp my place as legal adviser and reap the fruits of the transactions that there will be an opportunity to arrange? By no means. I can see no infraction of the moral law in managing a case of this kind. It is one of the legitimate perquisites of the legal profession. I can't help it if the young man throws his fortune away. I would be supremely foolish not to pick up what will naturally fall to my share. It is thus that Fortune restores a proper equilibrium, and decrees that the unworthy shall not long retain the possession of her favors. Do you see the point, Ralph?"

"Yes, father, I think I'm equal to seeing the drift of your argument," replied the young man.

"Well, Ralph, I'm glad of it. I'm rather proud of your intelligence. I think you will inherit my talent; but I trust you will never be forced to grub and toil as I have had to in order to make a reputation. In fact, my dear boy, what with my little savings, and the opportunity that is opened to me, I think I may reasonably look forward now to leaving you in pretty good circumstances. It only remains for you to aid my efforts by selecting a wife who will bring you a handsome dowry. And in this matter, my boy, I wish you to aim high. Don't imitate my unfortunate example of aiming too low at the outset of life. If I had married well off—and I don't wish to say a word against your mother, my boy, who was as desirable a wife in all except her fortune as anybody could wish for—if I had married well off, to what position of honor might I not have aspired! But talent allied to poverty has but a sorry show in this world; and if Fortune has deigned to throw a single smile upon me it is because of my ceaseless industry and perseverance. But to return to your affairs, Ralph. If, as I expect, we can get Claude out of the way after the old lady's death, it will leave the coast clear for you to lay siege to old Bruyn's daughter. Let me say to you, that she is by all odds the most desirable girl in these parts—the handsomest as well as the richest. Old Bruyn is very well off, and she is an only child. Young Rolff will probably soon forget her, after he gets off to Europe. Besides, her father loves money too well not to wish to make a good settlement for her, and if Master Claude scatters his money and we pick it up, our chances will be so much the better and his not worth considering. Moreover, the girl will be left without any gallant and any spruce young fellow ought soon to be able to console her and secure a transfer of her affections—eh, Ralph?"

"Well, father," replied the young man, "I have nothing against the girl except her excessively bad taste in ever having taken up with young Rolff, and I don't think it ought to be very hard to supplant him. With a good dowry, I think she would make me a very acceptable wife. I have nobody else on my list; so, if you wish that to be part of the little campaign you have been planning, I am agreeable."

"Well spoken, Ralph," exclaimed the fond parent. "This is indeed an auspicious day in the history of the Saybrooks. Just to celebrate the cheerful aspect of affairs, and to refresh us from our hard labors before supper, I think we may venture to have a little toddy. Just tap on the door, Ralph, and call Mrs. Grewy."

Ralph did as requested, and a small faded, middle-aged lady soon appeared. This was Mr. Saybrook's housekeeper. Mrs. Grewy might have been pretty at the time of life when she won the bachelor affections of Mr. Grewy, the blacksmith, but care and widowhood had left their marks upon her. What was evident from her appearance was that she still considered herself attractive, and dressed after a more youthful fashion than her years really entitled her to. The cap on her head was smartly decked with ribbons, and her attire though plain, was evidently cut to heighten her personal charms and make them appear youthful.

"A little warm water, if you please, Mrs. Grewy," said Mr. Saybrook.

"Certainly, sir," answered the widow, with a bewitching smile. "But is there not something else I can bring?"

"Nothing at all, Mrs. Grewy."

"Oh, but you must be hungry after a day's hard work, and it is two hours to supper time yet. I have some lovely cake, Mr. Saybrook, and, really, if I do say it myself, the apple pies I have been baking to-day are exquisite."

"Nothing but the water, Mrs. Grewy."

Defeated in her hospitable intentions, the widow fetched the water and retired.

Mr. Saybrook mixed himself a good stout toddy and Ralph a much weaker one, and the happy prospects of the Saybrook family were duly toasted and celebrated.

CHAPTER VI.

Rolff House was erected in the midst of a considerable park; but the shrubbery was grown wild and tangled, the walks were neglected and overgrown with grass, and the whole appearance of the surroundings indicated lack of care and gradual decay. A number of large, venerable trees reared their, imposing forms amid the surrounding desolation, with somethting of an air of melancholy dignity. It seemed as if their great arms were raised up in mute protest at the decay of the former grandeur over which they had stood as sentinels.

The house itself was a large, many-windowed, many-gabled structure, of stone, so solidly built that it seemed as if it might have been intended to defy even the hand of Time. But decay had set its marks upon it. The great roof was moss-covered; doors and shutters were warped and weather-stained; a number of windows were broken out; and about the whole place was the evidences of neglect which yet could not hide the imposing dignity of the old mansion. It was indeed a noble structure, too large and massive to ever look mean or undignified, and only growing more stately and picturesque in its decay.

Within there was plenty of evidence of former grandeur. The builder had been a man of taste, and, in furnishing his residence, had imported many costly and elegant articles from the old world. There were at least a score of rooms in the house, many of which were now vacant, and given up to dust and emptiness. A large hall ran through the centre of the house. Doors opened on either side into large rooms, which had formerly been used as the reception rooms of the mansion. These and adjoining rooms on the ground floor were now occupied by the few persons living in the house, and all were filled with massive furniture and many quaint and valuable articles. The rooms on the floors above were scarcely occupied at all, except in two or three cases as store-rooms.

In a large room, whose three windows looked to the east and south, lay the dying mistress of Rolff House. The apartment was large and quaintly furnished. The windows were shaded, so that the light was subdued, and the shadows lurking behind chairs and in the corners added to the mysterious solemnity of the apartment. In a large four-poster bed, with snowy pillows and counterpane, lay the invalid lady, unable to move hand or foot. The paralysis of age had smitten her frame, and it was only a question of a few days or hours when the vital spirit would escape its tenement. But her active mind was as clear as ever, and, at the threshhold of death, she was as interested in all household and business matters, and exercised the same supervision, as when she was in a state of perfect health.

As she lay thus stretched out in helplessness, the most casual glance could note that the features were those of a woman of keen intelligence and strong force of character. The face was rather long and narrow, the forehead high, the eyes deep-set, grey and keen, the nose prominent and almost Roman in shape, and the mouth and chin of a kind that indicated firmness and self-poise. The hair was abundant, and partly concealed under a neat black lace cap.

Rolff House had few servants. Old Carl Krum performed the duties of man-of-all-work about the old place, having an assistant at the ferry, which he was getting too old to attend to exclusively. There was besides a kitchen maid, and a single old servant named Margaret, who had long been the companion of the mistress of the house. To this reduced state had Rolff House, which once boasted of a dozen servants and retainers, gradually descended. These faithful servitors were the only occupants of the house save Claude and his aunt.

Old Margaret was sitting quietly in a chair near one of the windows. The invalid had been lying with closed eyes apparently asleep. She opened them, and Margaret, who had been sitting with her eyes bent upon the Bible upon her lap, seemed to become instinctively aware that her attention was wanted, for she closed the book and turned her head toward the bed as if awaiting some message.

"Margaret, has Claude come in yet?"

The tones were clear and calm, though feeble.

"I saw him coming up the path but a moment ago, ma'am," answered Margaret, "and I thought I heard him go to his room."

"Go tell him to come to my room, and do not return yourself till I have dismissed him."

Margaret simply bent her head. She was accustomed to executing orders without waste of words. She went directly to Claude's room, and delivered the message.

Claude proceeded at once to his aunt's chamber. As he entered, she lay with closed eyes. So still and white did she appear in the half shadow of the room, that it needed no very lively imagination to be startled into a surmise that the form and features were those of a corpse. It was with a half-fear that his aunt's spirit had already flown, that Claude advanced with hushed heart and knelt beside the bed.

The old lady opened her eyes, and bent them upon him.

"It is you Claude. Kiss me, my darling boy."

He did as requested, and as his lips touched the pale and cold face of his aunt, a pang of grief and contrition shot through his heart as he noted the expression of deep tenderness upon the wasted face.

"Come draw up a chair, and sit beside me, Claude. I have my dying wishes to communicate to you."

The young man drew up a chair and seated himself, and then his feelings gave way, and he bent his head to the bedside, and sobbed bitterly. It is thus that grief often takes the most careless heart unaware, and forces it to confess a weakness it did not dream of.

"My darling boy—my Claude!" The words came tenderly from the pale lips, and Claude wondered within himself that he had never before recognized the sweetness of his aunt's voice. "You will grieve a little while for me, Claude; but it will not be long. It is not the will of God that the old should be mourned for deeply. Rest awaiteth them; it is well they should pass away. Yes, it is well. I must soon go. At any time the chill of death may strike to my heart. I have waited too long ere saying what I have to say to you, Claude. Not till this day could I convince myself that my time had really come. But it is not too late. I am weak, but praise be to the Lord who giveth me strength to speak. Listen and mark well what I say, Claude. To you I have been but a foster mother. It was not my wish to manifest too deep tenderness for you. I knew the weak blood that is in your veins, and it has been my purpose to strengthen and prepare you for the responsibility soon to fall upon you. You are the only heir of Rolff House. When I pass away all will be yours. I charge you first that you see that Carl and Margaret have a home here so long as either live. It is my wish that you be my only heir, therefore I have not provided for them in my will. My lawyer has been here to-day. All that is needed to be done has been properly executed to make you my heir. Mr. Saybrook I have appointed executor. He is worthy, and I wish you to seek his counsel after my death and follow it in all things where your own good judgment will not direct you. I have charged him with all that I wish done in a business way. He is wise and prudent, and you will do well to consult freely with him."

The old lady paused a few moments from fatigue, then she began speaking again in a feebler but distinct tone.

"On yonder table, Claude, you will see a box with a key in it. Open it, and bring the sealed roll you will find in it."

Claude proceeded to the table, opened the box, and found in it a roll of paper, heavily sealed He returned with it to his seat at the bedside.

"In that roll," continued his aunt, "is a written memorial I have had drawn up long in anticipation of this solemn moment. It contains that which it is important you should know, but which it is not yet time to communicate to you. For reasons of deep importance, I do not wish you to open the roll except under certain express circumstances. On the first day of January, of each year, I wish you to go to the great vault door, in the south cellar. The key of the vault is in the box from [illegible]

(To be continued.)

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSIA CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.

Signed, JEAN VALCOURT,
Wotton, P.Q. General Merchant

The best way to get even is to forget.

FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

Much talk, many lies.

If you have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary disease have drifted into a consumptive's grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes: "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

It takes money to voice the opinion of a lawyer.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, and disordered stomach.

A long portage makes a heavy canoe.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and na-

All trails are long to the lazy.

THEY DROVE PIMPLES AWAY.—A face covered with pimples is unsightly. It tells of internal irregularities which should long since have been corrected. The liver and the kidneys are not performing their functions in the healthy way they should, and these pimples are to let you know that the blood protests. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will drive them all away, and will leave the skin clear and clean. Try them, and there will be another witness to their excellence.

Coral is a talisman against thunder and evils by flood and field.

HAD LA GRIPPE.—Mr. A. Nickesson, farmer, Dutton, writes: "Last winter I had La Grippe and it left me with a severe pain in the small of my back and hip that used to catch me whenever I tried to climb a fence. This lasted for about two months, when I bought a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and used it both internally and externally, morning and evening, for three days, at the expiration of which time I was completely cured."

The wildcat's teeth are close to its purr.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed 'Perfection.'

The average watch represents but 12 hours of human labor.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly, subdues the pain and disease.

When one gets hopping mad his reason goes on a crutch.

Use the safe, pleasant, and effectual worm killer, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; nothing equals it. Procure a bottle and take it home.

Many a man's self-conceit is due to his ignorance.

Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum of twenty-five cents.

Bank of Montreal
ESTABLISHED 1817.
Capital and Rest, All Paid Up
$23,000,000
(Twenty-three Millions)
Savings Bank Department
Interest on sums of $1.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.
A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch

RAINY WEATHER NEEDS.

What a lot of weather we are having, very hot, then rainy and cold. Whether the weater is clear or whether the weather is cloudy, the fact remains that we have waterproof coats in plenty, guaranteed to keep out the wet.

A Few Specials

We have just received a few specials that should be of interest to you. There are so many very low priced, useless coats on the market that these extra good ones at moderate prices will surely prove fast sellers. Two lines, one dark the other medium, pure rainproof; velvet collar, raglan pocket and cuff, coats made to sell at $7.50. OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY $5.00.

A FEW BETTER

Then we have some extra good ones at $7, $8 and $10, coats that you would have to pay much more for in other stores. If you are thinking of a rainproof coat, come in and take a look around.

OAK HALL

Sole Agents for Sanfords Celebrated Clothing.

A Clean Sweep -Sale-

NOW ON. In Ladies' Patent Kid and Patent Colt Skin Shoes.

The balance of season's goods to be cleared before our Fall arrivals.

25 per cent. off the regular prices.

6 pairs Laced, French Heels, $5.00, now	$3.75
9 pairs Laced Style, $4.00, now	$3.00
11 pairs Laced Style, $3 50 now	$2.60
7 pairs Laced Style, $3.00, now	$2.25
6 pairs Patent Oxfords $3.00, now	$2.25
20 pairs Fine Kid Oxfords, $2.00, now	$1.50

Bell's, McPherson's and "Empress."

See our Display in North Window.

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES at Belleville, Napanee and Trenton

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

The article in another column, setting forth the views of the Medical staff in regard to the management of the Hospital, and also denying Dr. Gibson's alleged autocracy of that institution, should effectually set at rest any vicious and idle rumors which have recently been put in circulation by certain unimportant parties in this city. There is an old saying that "A falsehood will travel ten miles while the truth is getting its boots on." In the present case, the falsehood certainly travelled fast, but the truth has now caught up with it.

• • •

Considering the source from which these insinuations emanated, we must confess to a feeling of surprise that any notice at all was taken of them. The good ladies who look after the interests of the Hospital must surely know that their many years of patient labor and self-sacrifice have given them a place in the hearts of the people of this city which enables them to look with contempt upon any attempts to discredit their management of the Hospital. Honorable men, by the way, will have their opinion of people who, for the sake of a little notoriety, make war upon women who, for no other reason than to follow the Golden Rule, give their time and money to keep upon an institution which has been in the past, and surely will be in the future, a blessing and a benediction to Belleville.

• • •

As to Dr. Gibson, we think, as stated in these columns before, that he took the matter altogether too seriously. Everybody in this city knows how private spite and self-interest dominates the characterless people who, for the sake of a little cheap notoriety, would willingly have besmirched the reputation and impaired the usefulness of the local Hospital. However, the testimonial from the Medical staff, in another column, shows that all is peace and harmony there. It is to be hoped that, in future, the malicious tales of scandal-mongers will not be allowed to disturb that serenity which makes for the best interests of a beneficent institution.

• • •

An eminent statistician estimates that during the course of an ordinary life, the average man will eat seven four-horse wagonloads more food than is good for him.

• • •

Everybody with the interests of Belleville at heart will be gratified to see, by the article in another column, that the affairs of the Belleville Hardware Company, Limited, are in a prosperous condition. The Company now employs between fifty and sixty hands, not bad for an institution which was started without flourish of trumpets, and which never found it necessary to ask aid in any way from the city. The record of the Belleville Hardware Company, and the number of hands it employs, shows what even a small manufacturing establishment does in the way of finding employment for our people. A few more industries of a similar character are what is wanted in Belleville.

• • •

St. Swithin may be all right, of course, but he never will be installed as the patron saint of picnics in this locality.

• • •

A Bloomfield man writes to the Picton Gazette boasting of the big burdocks in that village. He says he plucked a leaf 28 inches wide and 29 inches long, and 10 feet 2 inches in circumference. Must be a bird of a burdock!.

• • •

Kingston Whig: Three Kingston citizens went to Belleville yesterday, and laid plans to capture the town. They found, however, that they would need one more man, and therefore were forced to postpone the seizure.

We did not know the law against tramps was so strictly enforced in this city.

• • •

The King was loyally received in Dublin, in spite of the fulminations of a few soreheads, who evidently were more noisy than influential.

• • •

In Manitoba the standing is now 30 to 7. 'Rah for Roblin! The Grits will hardly get those two sets of fours.

MEETING OF BELLEVILLE HARDWARE CO. LIMITED.

EXCELLENT SHOWING MADE—ALD. McFEE ELECTED VICE-PRESIDENT, VICE REV. DR. GALBRAITH RESIGNED.

A meeting of the directors of the Belleville Hardware Company, Limited, was held in the company's office on Monday last, when a statement of the company's business for the past six months was read, showing a satisfactory state of affairs.

There are now between fifty and sixty hands employed.

The resignation of Dr. Galbraith, as a director and vice-president of the company, he having left the city, was received and accepted. Dr. Coleman was appointed to fill the vacancy as a director, and Ald. McFee was elected vice-president in the place of Dr. Galbraith resigned.

ST. MICHAEL'S.

To-morrow (Thursday) morning at 8 o'clock, a solemn requiem Mass will be sung in St. Michael's Church for the repose of the soul of the late lamented Pope Leo XIIIth. As this Mass has been ordered by His Grace, the most Rev'd. Archbishop, a large number if not the entire congregation is expected to attend. 1t

LATEST NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS

AS FURNISHED TO THE INTELLIGENCER BY H. R. BEATTIE, STOCK BROKER.

New York, July 22.

STOCK	Op'g	H'st	L'st	12 noon
Atchison	64½	65⅛	64¼	65
do. pref ..	88	88⅜	88	88½
St. Paul.. ..	141⅜	142⅛	141¼	142⅛
Mo. P.	95	98⅛	97⅜	98½
Union Pac .	76	77⅛	75	77
C. P. R.	122¼	122¾	122¼	122¼
South Pac. ..	45	46	44⅜	45⅜
R. I.	25	25¾	25	25⅛
Ills. C.	130	131	129½	131
Sou. Ry.....	21⅜	21¾	21¼	21¼
Texas.......	25⅞	26⅛	25⅞	26⅜
B & O.......	83	83¾	82¼	83⅜
N. Y.C.	118	120	118	118¼
Penna	121	122	120¼	121⅞
T. W....	95⅜	95¾	95½	95½
Erie	29⅜	30½	29⅜	30½
do. pref. ...	67	68⅛	66⅞	68⅛
Reading	49	50¼	49	50⅛
C. O.	32¼	33¾	32¼	33¼
O. & W.	22⅞	23¼	22⅞	23⅛
Manhattan ..	131⅛	133⅛	131¼	133¼
W. C.	16¼	17	16¼	17
L. & N	106½	106½	106	106½
A. F.	33½	34½	33½	34½
Nor..........	62½	63⅛	62¼	63⅛
Wab.........	22	22¼	22	22⅛
do pref. ..	37⅜	38⅜	37⅜	38⅜
C. G. W. ..	16½	16⅞	16⅜	16¼
T.C.I.	42⅞	43⅞	42	43¾
U.S. S.I.....	22¼	22¼	22½	23⅞
do pref.....	70½	72⅛	70¼	72
Sugar	113⅜	115	113⅜	115
B. R. T......	47⅛	48½	47⅛	48
Po..........	91	94⅜	93¾	94⅜
A. C. P. ..	45½	46⅞	45⅜	46¾
Met.........	115	117¼	116	117¼
Ah.	17⅜	18	17½	18

Sports and Pastimes

SPORTING NOTE AND COMMENT.

The lacrosse match this afternoon, between the Bellevilles and Athletics of Peterboro, will surely take place, rain or shine. There is shelter for a large crowd in the grand stand, if it should rain, though people look for a dry afternoon. The local team is in fine shape, and the Indians will be in their places. According to the Peterboro papers, the Athletics are right on edge, and will be accompanied by a large crowd of supporters, who hope to cheer them on to victory. They may—but the home team will take a lot of beating. Go up to the Driving Park this afternoon and see the best lacrosse match played here in a month of Sundays. The following team will represent Peterboro: Patterson, Dillon, Morgan, Howell, Ketchum, Mein, Robertson, Best, O'Flynn, Glover, Cavanah, Rickey and Clarke, field captain.

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc: Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mr. E. Best and J. Glover, of Peterboro, are visiting in the city.

Mrs Eva Clapp has returned to Belleville, after a few weeks visit at Trenton.

Mr. E. M. Gladney, of Marmora, is the guest of Mr. S. Burrows, of this city.

Mr. T. C. Lazier, who has been residing in New York, is visiting his family.

Mrs. U. E. Thompson and Miss Thompson leave to-day for Wellington and the Sandbanks.

Miss Lillian Chamberlain and Miss Nellie Laroche, of Montreal, are visiting friends in the city.

Chief Newton and wife left at noon to-day for Montreal and will sail to-morrow for the Old Country.

Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Drumm and Master Cyril, left to-day for Wellington, where they will spend a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Miller, of Grinnell, Iowa, are in the city, the guests of their daughter, Mrs. G. R. Pearce.

Mrs. White and Miss Lila White, James St., leave the city to-night per steamer North King en route for a month's vacation in Watertown and Sackett's Harbor.

Mr. Louis L. Richards, who twenty-three years ago was on the staff of this great family journal, is in the city renewing old acquaintances. Mr. Richards is now telegraph editor of the Detroit Evening News.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. G. Hardy and Miss Nellie McGuinness, of Lonsdale, have returned home after a two weeks' visit with friends at Hastings, Campbellford and Seymour.

A $5.00 WATERPROOF.

You can get a waterproof coat at the Oak Hall for $2, $2.50 and and $3—pretty fair coats, but we wish to call your attention particularly to a line we have just received to sell at $5. This is a real good waterproof, made up of the same as a $10 waterproof, a good looking coat and one that will keep out wet.

MR. DAFOE'S SUDDEN DEATH.

SEIZED WITH A FIT AND DIED WHILE ON HIS WAY HOME.

Mr. Francis M. Dafoe, a resident of the Village of Foxboro, died suddenly last evening. Deceased was a painter by trade, employed by a resident of this city. Yesterday Mr. Dafoe was, as usual, here, and worked all day. Whilst driving home he was taken ill and died shortly after. Death is thought to have resulted from an apoplectic fit. Deceased was 44 years of age and had lived in Foxboro for some time. A wife and family survive.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions ONE CENT A WORD. No local charged as less than twenty-five words.

There was no business for the Police Magistrate to-day.

Mr. David Waters reports to the police that he had a fish pole and landing net stolen last evening.

At the Judge's Court of Revision yesterday a number of cases of appeal were heard and judgment reserved. The Court was in session to-day.

An aged tramp last night sought protection at the police station.

Master Harold Bateman this morning reported to the police that two bantam roosters and a hen had been stolen from a barn on his father's premises.

LOST.

Monday evening, an open faced silver watch, with small gold chain, between Mr. Caldwell's residence, Bridge St., and Front St. Reward. This office. 1t

Goods We Have

at Right Prices

—Hammocks.
—Fishing Tackle.
—Tennis Goods.
—Golf Goods.
—Lacrosse Goods.
—Base Ball Goods.
—Screen Doors and Windows.
—Fruit Jars.
—Fruit Jar Rubbers.
—Wall Paper.
—Crystal Glass Vases.
—Glass Ware.
—Dinner Sets.
—Toilet Sets.
—Ladies' Hose.
—Ladies' Vests.
Everything in smallwares.

AT THE BEE HIVE

Chas. N. Sulman

WAR'S HORRIBLE CARNAGE.

Rebels Slaughtered in Soledad, Venezuela—"Zamora" Stormed and Captured—Jail and Capital Yet Resist.

Soledad, Venezuela, Monday, July 21.—(7 p. m.)—The fight between the Government forces and revolutionists from 1 o'clock this afternoon has been horrible, and at this hour the only places which resist the onslaught of the Goverment troops are the jail and the capital.

Early in the afternoon, the Government troops, numbering 5,200 men, were ordered to make a general attack on all positions still held by the rebels. At 3 o'clock this afternoon, the "Zamora," called the Sebastopol of Ciudad, was stormed and captured. Ninety-four dead rebels were found inside, among them being Gen. Azanza, one of the revolutionary leaders, whose head had been blown off by a shell. It is impossible to give an idea of the carnage which occurred at this point.

At the same time, Gen. Rivas, Gen. Gomez's chief lieutenant, with 2,300 men, succeeded in destroying a barricade erected around the miranda plaza, the key to the capital, where all the survivors of the revolution were concentrated. All the roads and streets running into the capital are guarded by Government troops, and the escape of the revolutionists after the capture of the capital, which is inevitable, seems impossible. They must either surrender or die. At 7 o'clock to-night the customs house was taken after ten hours' fighting.

The revolutionists are without provisions and water, the supply pipe having been cut yesterday. Their situation is considered desperate and hopeless. The shops are being pillaged.

Caracas, Venezuela, July 21.—A messenger who has arrived here by steamer and train from Ciudad Bolivar, reports that the city was captured by the Government troops at 8 o'clock this morning.

H. G. McIntyre Killed.

Winnipeg, July 22.—Mr. H. G. McIntyre, foreman of the Canadian Northern bridge gang at Saskatoon, was accidentally killed last night by the fall of a heavy piece of frame work. He came west from Ailsa Craig.

YOU DON'T MIND THE HEAT

WHEN FOOT ELM COOLS YOUR FEET.

Foot Elm relieves that hot, burning sensation, checks excessive and offensive perspiration of the feet, and prevents blistering, swelling and chafing.

It rests tired feet, soothes sore feet and makes walking pleasant even on hot days. Price 25 cents a box of 18 powders, at druggists or by mail. D. J. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

DEATHS

ROSEVEAR.—At Southampton, on Monday, July 20, Charles Palmer, infant son of Charles L. and Catharine Rosevear, aged four months and four days.

Funeral private.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

CHEAP TRIPS

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay. Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

D. E. THOMPSON, City Agent,
Bridge Street,
T. E. COPPIN, Depot Agent.
J. D. McDONALD,
Dist. Pass Agt., Toronto.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

"Imperial Limited."

Fast tri-weekly Transcontinental service between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. Connection leaves Toronto at 1.45 p.m., Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, making run Toronto to Vancouver in 97 hours.

Upper Lake Steamships

Leave Owen Sound Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 5.30 p.m., on arrival of S.S. Express leaving Toronto at 1.30 p.m. Connections at Fort William and Port Arthur for Winnipeg and Pacific Coast points.

Daily First-Class Service Toronto to Winnipeg, Calgary, Banff and Pacific Coast.

Fully Equipped Through Tourist Cars leave Toronto Tuesday and Saturday for Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Full particulars from your nearest Canadian Pacific Agent or to

A. H. NOTMAN,
Asst. Gen. Pass. Agent, TORONTO.
S. BURROWS, C.P.R. and General Ticket Agent, Front St., Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL & HUDSON RIVER R. R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.		After 1st May
Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)	12.22 p.m.	1.30 a.m
Arr. Kingston "	1.47 p.m.	3.12 a.m
Lv. Kingston (stage)..	2.30 p.m.	5.00 a.m
Arr. CapeVincent (stage)	4 30 p m.	7.00 a.m
Lv. Cape Vincent N.Y.C.	5.05 p.m.	7.25 a.m
Arr. Watertown "	5.55 p.m.	8.25 a.m
Arr. Oswego "	9.05 p.m.	11.55 a.m
Arr. Syracuse "	9.25 p.m.	12.07 p.m
Arr. Rochester "	1.05 a.m.	2.20 a.m
Arr. Utica "	9.45 p.m.	12.35 p.m
Arr. New York "	7.25 a.m.	6.00 p.m

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C. R. R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from F. A. Folger, N.Y.C. Agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent.
New York.
A. H. SMITH, Gen'l Supt.,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

SAVE MONEY By JOINING The MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB OF AMERICA

25 Cents pays for three months' membership. Each member receives the official club organ every month, including 6 pieces of high-class vocal and instrumental new music each month, 18 pieces in all; also a Certificate of Membership which gives the privilege of Club Room in New York City, and of buying literature, music or musical instruments of any description at wholesale prices, saving you from 20% to 60% on your purchases. Don't fail to join at once. You will get much more than your money's worth. MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB, Dept. , 150 Nassau St., N.Y.

Shoes and Slippers

FOR SUMMER WEAR.

Ladies' Fine Low Shoes—ranging in price from 50c to	$3.75
Ladies' Fine Strap Slippers—prices from 75c to	$3.00
See our assortment of Children's Slippers, ranging in price from 25c to	$1.25

We carry a large stock of Trunks and Valises, Dress Suit Cases, Club Bags, Cabin Trunks, etc.

VERMILYEA & SON.

Sole Agents for the famous Queen Quality Shoe.

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY! 2 WEEKS

$5.00 Any Suit In This Great Clothing Store for $5.00

A STUPENDOUS CLOTHING OFFER WITHOUT PRECEDENT OR PARALLEL.

Some Suits $18, some $16, some $15, some $12, others $10. Just think of it! High grade, thoroughly tailored garments for Men, complete suits in fashionable fabrics, for

$5.00

This is just the opening gun in the great Mid-Summer Sale, in connection with this store. In every other department there will be equal sensational reductions. This Clothing Sale begins on July 11th and will end on July 25th. The earlier you come the better your choice as we anticipate a big rush.

The GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE.

Up-to-date Clothiers and Gents' Furnishiers, Look for the Globe Over The Door, 390 Front Street, Belleville.

Wall Paper

At first sight of our Wall Papers you will say there's an attractiveness about them that puts them lengths ahead of other lines.

IN STOCKING

we select only the best, we have no "shelf warmers" all our Papers are quick sellers. If you choose your Papers from us you have best value for the price obtainable anywhere.

Painting, Paperhanging and Decorating done on shortest notice by best workmen in the city.

JOHN CORNELIUS.
3 Doors South of Intelligencer Office.

NEW GOODS
JAPAN TEA

The first of this season's crop, exta quality, regular 50c line, we quote

40c per lb.

Canned Halibut

Fine solid Fish, very tasty,

15c per can.

J. C. Hanley & Co.
GROCERS
Telephone 214

Flowers & Vegetables
Of all kinds in season
. . . AT . . .
J. D. COLLIP'S.
'Phone 205.

Western Beef.

Prime Western Beef together with all kinds of choice meats, supplied by the district, at

C. GREEN'S
267 Front St., 'Phone 109.

Queer Things They Say.

Here are some extracts from a recent competition in Truth relating to queer sayings by children :

"What do you know about the sun ?" "The sun is round and hot, and cats sit in it."

"What is the seat of the woollen trade ?" "The trousers."

"Where is Stirling ?" "Stirling is a town in the south of England noted for its silver."

"What do you know of Walter Scott ?" "Walter Scott was also known as Mr. Waverley, and he took the name of Anderson, and called himself the Wizard of the North, and went about doing conjuring tricks."

Boy's answer to: "What do you know of Nelson ?" "He was a brave sailor, but not a good man. He nailed his collars to a mast. He helped smugglers, and said every man should 'do' his duty."

A geometrical class had been made to understand that a straight line was the shortest distance between two given points. They were afterwards asked to define a circle. The answer given was: "The longest way round between two points."

"Give an account of the South Sea Bubble ?" "The South Sea Bubble was a deep-laid scheme to disturb the peace of Europe. Oliver Cromwell set his face against it from the first, and when it was brought in he stamped thrice and cried out: 'Take away that bubble!' Then the bubble immediately burst."

"Now, boys," said the teacher, "when I call out the name of a country, give me the title of that nation's ruler. England ?"

"A King !" vociferated the whole class.

"Holland ?"

"A Queen !" they yelled.

"Turkey ?"

"A Sultan," some promptly replied.

"Russia ?"

Hesitation.

"Russia," repeated the teacher, and a small boy answered, "Please, sir, he ain't King nor Emperor. They call him a Bazaar !"

His Excuse.

"You can't go inside," said the doorkeeper of the village theater, wherein a certain "Uncle Tom's Cabin" aggregation were holding forth. "You are drunk."

"Zrunk?" echoed the applicant for admission, who was lavishly and luridly lighted up inside. "Coursh I'm—hic—drunk! Why — goodgosh'lmighty!—do you s'pose I'd—hic—wanta see your darned old show if I wasn't—hic—drunk?"—"Smart Set."

Teacher (to pupil, whom he has caught mimicking him)—Tom Jones, if you do not stop acting like a fool, I shall send you from the class.

The Value of A Character.

The captain of a large steamer was once filling up his crew for a long voyage, when a seaman came up and said:

"I want to sail wid you, sir."

"All right, my man," replied the captain. "On what line have you sailed before?"

"P. and O., sir."

"What countryman?"

"An Oirishman," was the reply.

"Well, you must get a character."

The character was obtained, and as the Irishman was presenting it another seaman came up and said he wished to join.

"What line were you on before?" asked the captain.

"Cunard, sir."

"What countryman?"

"English, your honor."

"All right. Go forward."

Shortly afterwards, as the two were swilling the decks in a heavy sea, the Englishman was swept overboard, bucket and all. Unmoved, Paddy finished his job and then went to the captain's cabin.

"Come in," responded the officer to his rap. "What's up now?"

"Do you remember Bill Smith, the Englishman and Cunarder?" queried Pat.

"Certainly, my man."

"You took him without a character?"

"I believe so; what of that?"

"He's gone overboard wid your bucket."

Mainly About People.

A woman with eight young children boarded a street car which was already comfortably filled. The conductor became a trifle impatient because it took the family so long to get aboard, and as the mother finally reached the top step and the car began to move, the conductor asked, with a suspicion of a smile: "Are these all your children, madam, or is it a picnic?" "They are all my children," returned the woman, with a grim smile, "and I tell you it's no picnic."

The other day the London "Pall Mall Gazette" referred to W. S. Gilbert as "the late W. S. Gilbert." This called forth a note of protest from the famous comic opera librettist, in which he said: "There is a line in your issue of yesterday that must have sent a thrill of joy through many a worthy home. I refer to a line in an article headed 'A Naval Battle,' in which I am referred to as 'the late W. S. Gilbert.' I am always sorry to spoil sport, but common candor compels me to admit (reluctantly) that I am still alive. Yours faithfully, W. S. Gilbert."

Frederick III. of Prussia, who delighted in his reputation as the most laconic man in Europe, once met a Hungarian magnate, taking the waters at Carlsbad, who had also acquired fame for abruptness of speech. This tempted the Prussian monarch to meet him and try him in the arts of brevity. The magnate was pointed out to Frederick as he stood in the hall of his hotel. The king went up to him, and the following conversation was the result: Frederick—Bathing? Hungarian—Drinking. Frederick — Officer? Hungarian—Magnate. Frederick—So! Hungarian (taking the initiative)—Detective? Frederick—King! Hungarian—Congratulate!

Beauty-making Foods.

"The best of all beauty-making foods are fresh fruits and fresh vegetables," said Prof. H. W. Wiley, the famous United States Government chemist, who is incidentally a skilled physician. "They contain relatively little nourishment—a woman could hardly live on them exclusively for any length of time—but for reasons which as yet are imperfectly understood, they possess extraordinary value as health-givers. If you want bright eyes and a clear complexion, eat plenty of them."

The fact is that most fresh vegetables and fruits are nearly all water. Spinach is 92 1-2 per cent. water, cabbage is 77 per cent. water, beets are 88 per cent. water, carrots are 91 per cent. water, cauliflower is 91 per cent. water, cucumbers are 96 per cent. water, egg plant is 93 per cent. water, onions are 78 1-2 per cent. water, tomatoes are 96 per cent. water, green corn (cut from the cob) is 81 1-2 per cent. water, and celery is 94 1-2 per cent. water. Fruits are pretty nearly all water, though the banana is relatively rich in starch.

Fruits and vegetables, then, are of no great use in supporting the human body. Their value is mainly medicinal, and as beauty-makers they are the chief among foods. It is almost impossible to eat too much of them in a fresh state, though, of course, the diet must include a reasonable proportion of those substances, such as meat, which furnish blood and muscle tissue.

Have a Laugh.

I know I'm bald, but, after all,
That isn't bad, when all is said;
I do not have to muss my hair
To let the breezes hit my head.
—Baltimore News.

The late discovery in strawberries of salicylic acid, a specific in acute rheumatism, has seemed to confirm the idea that these berries are a desirable article of food for rheumatics. The effect of the fruit cannot be due to the salicylic acid, however, as less than the hundredth of a grain per pound is found.

Words Coined in Boston.

When Boston was three years old, the word "coasting," in the sense of sliding down an inclined plane, was used for the first time by the Court of Assistance. The term "lumber" appeared first in the town records in 1663, being employed to designate the embarrassment caused by the "lumbering" up of the streets at a time when the settlers were doing a great business in forest products. Schooner, sleigh, harness, phaeton, carry-all, barge, currency, tender, sinking-fund, depreciation, appreciation, caucus (1740), labor trust (1741), unconstitutionality, gerrymander, warden, unconstitutional, immigrant, and chromo, are all Yankee words that have been imitated.

Bizzer—Come and go fishing.

Buzzer—How dare you ask me to go fishing on Sunday; besides, I have to play golf.—Ohio State "Journal."

CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY

CAPITAL

10,000 Shares 7 per cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, par value $100 each, $1,000,000
50,000 Shares Common Stock, par value $100, issued and fully paid 5,000,000
TOTAL CAPITALIZATION $6,000,000

Issues of $1,000,000.00 7 p.c. Preferred Stock in 10,000 Shares of $100 each at par.

This stock is preferred both as to Assets and Dividends.

The shares are entitled to cumulative preferred dividends from the net earnings of the Company, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable half yearly on the first days of April and October. They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at $115.00 per share, at any time after 1st January, 1909.

The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000.00, the whole of which is now offered.

Subsriptions for 10,000 Shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent. Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is $100 Share, as follows

per cent on application,
25 " " on allotment,
35 " " 30 days thereafter.
35 " " 60 days thereafter.

One share of Common, par value $100, given with each share of preferred.

The whole of instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of one per cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Novia Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1,000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4000 acres of iron ore deposits, located Natashquan (tidewater) situated on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highet ever discovered, running from 69 per cent to 72 per cent in metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore has been received by the Campany than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

Send for prospectus giving full information as to earnings, reports, etc., etc.

Address all communications and send subscriptions to

COLONIAL SECURITIES CO.,
62 Wall Street, New York City

OR

W. L. MARSTON & COMPANY
110 State Street, Boston

The SAWYER COMPANY.
351 Temple Building, Montreal, Canada.

THE

Intelligencer Bindery

MAKES A SPECIALTY OF

Leders,

Journals,

Cash Books,

And all descriptions of

Blank Account Books

Mailing Tubes

Gold Lettering on Leather Goods, &c.

MAGAZINES,
ART WORKS,
PERIODICALS,
SERIAL NUMBERS

NEATLY BOUND

Map Mounting & Varnishing

☞Estimates cheerfully furnished for every class of work.

ADDRESS—

The Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONT.

ADVERTISING RATES

Measurement Nonpareil—12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.
Subsequent consecutive insertions, 5c.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon usual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriages and deaths, 50c each insertion. Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisement will be found in 1st column of 2nd page.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of the Intelligencer.

Address all communications to the Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House Limited, or to Charles J. Bowell, Managing Director and Treasurer.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s Office, 30 Fleet Street, London, E. C.

CONDENSED ADVERTISEMENTS

SITUATIONS WANTED, HELP WANTED, LOST OR FOUND, FOR SALE OR TO RENT, &c

(Auction Sales not included in this list)

TERMS.—Twenty-five words or less, 25c first insertion; two insertions, 50c; four insertions, 75c; one week $1.00, two weeks, $1.75, three weeks, $2.25; one month, $2.50. Strictly cash in advance.

WANTED.

Strong, smart young man wanted for delivering and general work. Apply at once. CHAS. S. CLAPP, Confectioner. jy22dtf

$6.00 per month buys a $1,000 home. $9.00 per month buys a $1,500 home. $12.00 a month buys a $2,000 home. A postal will bring particulars. The Canadian Home Builders' Association, Manning Chambers, Toronto. j18-6t

160 machinery moulders and coremakers. Steady work. Wages for moulders at least $4.00; coremakers $3.25. Address Post Office Box 511, Toronto. jy9-d10t

Have you spare time? Increase your income by work at night. Others are doing it. Our goods are used everyday everywhere. Write G. Marshall & Co., Teas, London, Ont.

Agents wanted, $2.50 per day. Apply Cooper, London, Ont. s27-1y

Young men ambitious to learn lucrative trades, of which there are eight in connection with the business. Apply The Belleville Hardware Company, Belleville, Ont. a7dtf

The only authorized "Life of Pope Leo XIII." Written with the encouragement, approbation and blessing of His Holiness by Mgr. Bernard O'Reilly, D.D., LL.D., (Laval). This distinguished author was summoned to Rome and appointed by the Pope as his official biographer. The book is endorsed by Donato Sbarretti, Papal delegate for Canada, and is approved and recognized by all church authorities as the only official biography of the Pope. Over 800 pages, magnificently illustrated. Best commission to agents. Sell only the official life by Mgr. O'Reilly. Elegant outfit free. The John C. Winston Company, Toronto, Ont. j20-6td

TO-LET.

That new solid brick house on Yeomans street. Hard and soft water in kitchen. Good cellar, stable and garden. In perfect order. $6.—J. J. B. Flint. jy16dtf

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

Stone house, 11 rooms, coal furnace, stable, barn. Large grounds. Cor. Frank and Moira Sts. north. Terms reasonable. H. Bull, on premises or Fred Bull, 133 Yonge St., Toronto. Terms easy. ap18-dtf

FOR SALE.

A good rebuilt typewriter, guaranteed. Price $50. Apply at this office. j20-6t

Shingles, shingles, dressed lumber, etc. GEO. WALTON & CO. jy14-1md

Dressed and Matched Lumber of all kinds, at ALFORD'S factory, Market Square. j12-tf

Two surreys, two phaetons, two buggies, one horse. Apply to H. L. CURRY, Pinnacle street. jy9-8td&16,23w

Contractors and masons, any any person requiring lime may procure it from E. G. STAPLEY, Canifton Road, Belleville. New lime always on hand. a9-d&w6m

TO RENT

A house on Moira street containing 8 rooms. All modern conveniences. Possession on or before 20th July.—Adam Henry.. dtf

CAMP COMFORTS

Mosquito-Scat for Mosquitos, etc., 15c a bottle.

Witch Hazel Cream for Sunburn, etc, 25c a bottle

Bathing Caps for ladies, 50c.

WATERS'

The Whole Story in a letter:

Pain-Killer

(PERRY DAVIS'.)

From Capt. F. Loye, Police Station No. 5, Montreal:—"We frequently use PERRY DAVIS' PAIN-KILLER for pains in the stomach, rheumatism, stiffness, frost bites, chilblains, cramps, and all afflictions which befall men in our position. I have no hesitation in saying that PAIN-KILLER is the best remedy to have near at hand."

Used Internally and Externally.

Two Sizes, 25c. and 50c. bottles.

FREAKS OF CLOCKS.

THE STRANGE WARNING CHIMED FROM STRASSBURG CATHEDRAL.

Peculiarities of the Timepiece in the British House of Lords—The Madness of Mechlin's Clock—"When Clocks Go Crazy, Things Go Daft."

There is an old saw which declares that "when clocks go crazy, things go daft."

At 2 a. m. on Sept. 27, 1869, the world famous clock in the great cathedral at Strassburg commenced to chime without rhyme or reason. It sounded 1,870 peals, then stopped, and after an interval slowly began to toll as if for a great one dead.

The political atmosphere of Europe at that time was indicative of profound peace. Nothing of danger or disgrace could by any possibility be conceived of as threatening Strassburg or its inhabitants. Yet less than a year afterward the German armies had encircled the city with a ring of steel and fire. The German shells were falling thickly in her streets and squares and exploding even within the precincts of the stately cathedral itself. And precisely at 2 a. m. Sept. 27, 1870, General Uhrich signed the capitulation which was to deliver Strassburg into the hands of the invaders.

In the house of lords is a certain historical timepiece which is said to invariably suffer from temporary aberration whenever a member of the royal family of Britain passes away. The peculiarity was first noticed when William IV. died. Very early in the morning the clock began to emit a series of peculiar gurgling noises, as though gasping for breath, went suddenly slow and finally stopped altogether. All efforts to start it failed, and on the evening of the day of the funeral it restarted of its own accord, nor did it give any further trouble whatever for many years afterward.

It has over and over again been noticed that clocks, especially those situated in the turrets of high buildings having unusually deep foundations, are liable to go wrong in sympathy with seismic disturbances happening in districts sometimes very far away.

On Nov. 1, 1755, for instance, fully half the timepieces in Edinburgh were affected. Many stopped altogether. Others went slow or fast or started striking wrongly. In this the superstitious saw some calamity impending, and it was not until news arrived of the great Lisbon earthquake that the alarm was allayed. It was then discovered, by comparing times and dates, that the first shock must have traveled from Fez in Morocco to Cape Wrath in less than eight seconds.

A curious coincident was then recalled. On the evening of April 7, exactly five years previously, several thousands of persons, particularly those of rank and fortune, had camped out in Hyde park and had thus passed the hours from dusk till daylight.

This was to avoid an earthquake shock which had been predicted for the early morning of the 8th by an alleged "madman." The threatened quake, however, failed to materialize, and the scared ones got heartily laughed at for their pains. Nevertheless, it was noted at the time that several of the public and private clocks of the metropolis stopped at precisely the same moment on the morning in question, and this fact at once took on a new and sinister significance.

"Was it possible," people began to ask, "that the so called 'madman' was not so very 'mad' after all and that London had providentially escaped what might possibly have been a hideous and unparalleled catastrophe?"

The so called "madness" of Mechlin's clock constitutes one of the most mysterious incidents of the Napoleonic wars. It happened in 1806. Two years previously the Corsican usurper had razed a portion of the city to the ground, and the place had also suffered severely in other ways. But the magnificent cathedral had been spared, and then, as now, its massive tower rising four square to a height of more than 300 feet and bearing four dials, each forty-eight feet in diameter, was one of the most striking landmarks for miles and miles around.

Inside the tower was the gigantic clock, the biggest in the world. It had boomed the hours for longer than the oldest burgher could remember and had never gone wrong. When, therefore, in the early dawn of one summer day the great bell began clanging furiously small wonder that not only the city, but the whole countryside, was roused. Mechlin itself was like a disturbed hive, men rushing from their houses half dressed, but all armed, while from every town and village within a radius of twenty miles angry peasants poured cityward.

It was a false alarm, however, after all. No assault followed. No column of dust on the horizon heralded the advance of the enemy, although anxious eyes watched all day. But when toward evening one more curious than his fellows bethought him to examine the interior of the clock tower in order to discover if possible the reason for the clock's strange behavior a grewsome sight met his view.

Entangled in the massive works of the huge timepiece, torn, gashed, every bone broken, was the body of a French officer. He had evidently climbed into the tower unobserved and had been caught by the machinery while engaged in tampering with it. What his object was in so doing none ever knew. That it was something sinister there could be no doubt. Probably he had intended to so arrange the interior mechanism of the clock as to cause it to sound a signal later in the day. At all events, whatever his plan, it miscarried. And he himself fell a victim to his own temerity and want of knowledge.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Store Closed Every Wednesday During July and August at 12 O'Clock Noon.

STOCK CLEANING DAYS

These are days of clearing for us and days of money saving to you if you take advantage of our offerings.

Remnants, oddments, broken assortments, in fact all summer goods are priced at what would clear much less desireable materials.

Its a good time to put the test on our advertising.

If you see what seem to be extravagant statements, come to the store and give us the pleasure of verifying them. We guarantee you perfect satisfaction.

The goods are well displayed on tables. A few minutes spent in each department will be a surprising revelation to you of what purchasing power money has in our store these days.

Many of our best offerings are not mentioned. These go to the ones who follow this with an early visit.

Numbers of ladies have already profited by an inspection. There is something here for you.

Reduced Baby Bonnets

"Nothing is too nice for the baby." The manufacturer who made our Baby Bonnets must have thought so.

But you can get even too much of a goodthing and desireable and all as they are we have priced them as below for Thursday to clear.

—2 doz. Children's fine Organdie Muslin Bonnets, trimmed with Valenciennes lace and narrow satin baby ribbon good quality, regular $1.50 for 75c

—Fine Organdie Baby Bonnet with fine tucks and baby ribbon trimming, full frill, $1 25 for 50c

—5 only Japanese taffeta silk Bonnets with wide silk lace frill and insertion and baby ribbon trimmings, regular $1 75 for 75c

Outing Items

Proper clothing is an important item in the most enjoyable outing.

Wherever you go the white Vest and Trousers will be "correct." Adding much both to the APPEARANCE and COMFORT.

There are in these as in everything, the right and wrong—the right is just as reasonable.

A number of new styles in both just received.

—Fine Duck Trousers plain white or with fine black stripe, deep hem $1.00, $1 25, ... $1.50

—New White Vests, just arrived from London, England, plain and fancy with, high button styles, $1 25, $1 50 .... $.200

Neglige Shirts

The neglige Shirt with soft collar is a much favored style with men who desire something comfortable yet dressy for this warm weather.

For Tennis or yatching nothing is more appropriate.

Our showing this season comprises many new and pretty designs, mostly light grounds with colored silk stripes.

Ask to see them in our men's furnishing department.

—Men's Fine Neglige Shirts with attatcheh collar, silk stripes, fast colors 65c, 75c, ... $1.00

White Waistings

All the leading fashion journals anounce for fall a more wide spread use than ever of the heavier weave fancy Piques and mercerized Vestings for waists.

We have recently received a number of pretty designs in these which will be serviceable on cool evenings and again for later use.

The great demand will cause a scarcity of good patterns. Best get them while the assortment is at its best.

—Fine White Pique and Vesting with mercerized figures, 32" wide, 25c and 30c

Standard Patterns

If you do home dressmaking a good pattern will add much to the appearance of the garments and save from any disastrous mistakes.

You may obtain patterns cheaper but you'll get some as good for more. They are the best, and guaranteed correct in every way.

Our stock is large but it is impossible to keep all. If what you desire is not here we can have it for you in 3 days.

—Get a copy of the designer—it contains, besides much useful information as to styles, good stories, etc. price 10c

Half Price Table

Our Table of Half Price Wash Goods is the mecca for many shoppers.

Here are found a choice lot of this season's Wash Goods in Muslins, Prints, Ginghams, and Sateens.

Some are only short pieces others are longer lengths which have not sold as freely as we have desired. All are going now, quickly at Half Price.

Each day sees some addition to this assortment. If there you do not see what you want to-day you may to-morrow.

Summer Corsets

Our Corset department does not seem to need much publicity.

The crowds of ladies who patronize this counter and tell their friends of the excellence of the lines we sell, make our best advertisement,

Just let you know a new shipment opened places our stock in the complete stage generally found only at the beginning of the season.

If you want a perfect fitting, durable light weight, inexpensive Corset we can meet your needs.

—Ladies' Fine Percale Corset, bias gored, straight front, erect form, Percale Corset, steel filled, lace and ribbon trimmed, regular 75c for .... .50

—Fine Net Corset, steel filled, extra strong over hips, straight front, erect form, lace and ribbon trimmed .... .75

—Fine Percale Corset with 3 bias gores, strong hips erect form, straight front, a very fine Corset, for summer wear 1.00

Agents for Standard Patterns.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

CLOTHING BOUGHT HERE PRESSED FREE OF CHARGE

Quick & Robertson's for Fine Clothes

There's no use of disputing the fact that this store stands pre-eminent in this city as the store for Men's Fine Clothes.

With our large and pleasing varieties, up-to-date styles, and good making, we've won the trade of every man, and especially the trade of those men who are particular about the clothes they wear.

And why shouldn't we? You can't find a store that has, Ready-Made, such exclusive styles in suitings and summer garments as we are showing and everyone of them is from the best British and Canadian Mills.

Then, too, every garment is built to come up to the our high standard—built by the best makers who know how and do give close attention to important parts of tailoring—such as adjusting the collars, shaping the shoulders, proper placing of the sleeves and stays and making of the button holes.

Clothes made this way never lose their shape. And by so doing we have overcome that appearance which markes clothes as being Ready-Made.

The prices for such goodness you'd expect to be high but they are not—are no more than you would pay for ordinary sorts elsewhere.

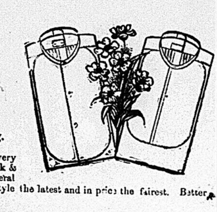
MEN'S SUMMER FURNISHINGS
.... AND ....
STRAW HATS

The Largest Variety assures the Easiest Choosing.

That's just what's bringing more men to this store every day—they are getting into the fact that the selections Quick & Robertson shows in every line are the largest and most liberal in town—right in every way; in quality the highest, in style the latest and in price the fairest. Better choose now while the choosing is good.

QUICK & ROBERTSON

Agents in Belleville for W. R. Johnston & Co.'s Famous Clothing.



In The Good Old Summer Time

You will enjoy doing your cooking and baking if you are wise enough to use a

Auto Valvo Blue Flame Oil Stove

The one stove above all others to make your work easy without heating up the whole house.

The W. W. CHOWN Company, Limited

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

ROBLIN'S MILLS.

Mr. Ralph Orser, of Gananoque, is home on a visit to his parents.

Mrs. Herbert J. File and son, Ronald, of Toronto, are visiting relatives in this vicinity.

Mr. F. French and family, of Melville, were guests of her mother on Sunday.

Mr Byron Frederick, of Rossmore, visited our Sabbath School on Sunday morning last.

Mr. Frank DeLong and wife and Mr. Burton Adams and wife were guests at Valley View Lawn on Sunday.

The members of the A.O.U.W. Lodge held their annual parade to church on Sunday afternoon, where an appropriate sermon was delivered by our pastor, Rev. Mr. Johnson. During the service Mrs. J. B. Lewis sang a solo in her usual pleasing style, which was much appreciated by the large audience. We welcome Mrs. Lewis in our midst as she will prove quite an acquisition to our musical talent.

Mr. F. C. File has a large number of berry pickers in his patch, and reports the crop as not up to last year.

Our Saturday evening concerts given on the gramophone by Mr. Will Carnrite, our popular grocer, are well patronized by our young people who enjoy the promenade.

Our sidewalks are sadly in need of repair. We trust that steps will be taken to improve them as they are very defective.

On Thursday night last, fire destroyed the house owned by Mrs. Webb and occupied by Mr. Will Carnrite as a dwelling house. Friends came to the rescue and succeeded in saving a portion of the furniture, and protected the neighboring buildings. The house and contents were both insured.

Dame rumor reports a wedding soon in our village. Wonder who the happy couple are?

Mr. Ryerson Harvey intends packing apples for Mr. R. J. Graham of Belleville this fall.

Mr. Ferris Wood and wife were the guests of her father, Mr. David Sager, on Sunday.

The social at the parsonage on Monday evening was quite a success, financially, and all report a good time.

CALL OPTIONS.

The following are the quotations on call options for one, two and three months from London, Eng.:—

	To mid Aug.	To mid Sept.	To mid Oct.
Canadian Pacific	2⅝	3½	4
Hudson's Bay	5	7½	8¼
Atchison	2½	3	2½
St. Paul	4	5	6
Erie, common	1¼	2	2¼
Louisville & Nash.	2½	3½	5
Missouri, K. & T.	1	1⅜	1⅞
Norfolk & Western	1¾	2¼	2½
Ontario & Western	1⅜	1⅝	1⅞
Reading, $50 shares	1¼	1½	1⅜
Southern Common	1⅜	2	2⅜
Southern Pacific	3	4	5
U. S. Steel, ordinary	1¼	1⅞	2¼
Union Pacific	2½	3	3½
Wabash, preferred	1⅜	1⅞	2⅛
Baltimore	3	4	5
Denver, common	1¾	2⅛	2½
Southern pref.	2¼	2¾	3¼
U. S. Steel, preferred	1⅝	2⅛	2½
Grand Trunk ordinary	½	¾	1
Grand Trunk firsts	2½	3½	4½
Grand Trunk seconds	2	2½	3
Grand Trunk thirds	1⅜	1⅞	2⅜

We are prepared to deal in options at the above prices. All transactions in options are for cash, expire at 12 noon on contango day of the account in which the call is due. Free booklet on application.

PARKER & CO., 61 Victoria St., Toronto.

Ottawa Ladies' College

Academic, Matriculation. Selective Courses.

GENERAL COURSE—High School Entrance or equivalent will admit to our Senior First Grade. Pupils proceed thence in regular course to Diploma or Matriculation.

SELECTED COURSES arranged as desired.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT, for younger pupils.

For Music, Art, Elocution, Stenography, Domestic Science, etc., see calendar.

Parents seeking a good residential school for their daughters should

Send for Our Calendar.

REV. DR. ARMSTRONG, Director.
MRS. ANNA ROSS, Lady Principal.

HILLIER.

Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Young and daughters, Miss Frankie and Margaret, of Rochester, N.Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Julius Kransneck, visited here at Mrs. Benj. Palmer's one day week before last.

Mrs. Benj. Palmer, who has been ill for a few days, is somewhat better at present.

Mr. Paul Leavens and daughter, Mrs. Geo. Bell, were at Belleville yesterday.

Mr and Miss Little and Miss Breach, of Trenton, visited at Miss Debbie Young's Saturday afternoon and to-day.

Mr. Wm. Wiggins and sisters from the Point, visited at Mr. Wm. Crothers.

Miss Fostina Palmer is seriously ill.

Messrs. Hynch and Palmer have their rye cut.

Mr. Mastin took a load of hay to Picton.

Mr. E. Terry is drawing pea pickers down to Mr. Andrew Vanderwaters near Bloomfield.

VALUABLE ADVICE TO RHEUMATICS.

Eat meat sparingly, and take very little sugar. Avoid damp feet, drink water abundantly, and always rely on Polson's Nerviline as an absolute reliever of rheumatic pains. Being five times stronger than other remedies, its power over pain is simply beyond belief. Buy a large 25 cent bottle to-day, test it, and see if this is not so. Polson's Nerviline always cures rheumatism.

The Belleville Hospital.

DOCUMENT FROM THE MEDICAL STAFF, SHOWING THAT VARIOUS VICIOUS RUMORS HAVE NO FOUNDATION IN FACT.

The following documents explain themselves:

Belleville, Ont., July 21, 1903.

To the President of the Hospital Board:

Dear Madame,—Enclosed is a resolution from the Medical Staff to be used as you may see fit.

The Staff further wish to state that they are prepared to assist and support the Board in the management of the Hospital. I am,

Your obedient servant,
A. E. MacCOLL,
Sec. Hosp. Staff.

The Resolution.

The Medical Staff of the General Hospital, Belleville, wish to state that Dr. Gibson has not in any instance interfered with the authority of the staff in discharging their duties in the Public Wards of the Hospital.

They also wish to say they have furnished no statement to either the Ontario or Intelligencer regarding the management of the Hospital in the resignation of Miss de Pensier.

And the Medical Staff further believe that the Hospital Board has invariably endeavored to conduct and manage the affairs of the Hospital in what they believe has been the best interests of the public and all concerned.

J. F. DOLAN,
W. W. BOYCE,
W. E. SPRAGUE,
GEO. CLINTON,
A. E. MacCOLL.

CANE TO LEAN ON AND HANDSOME PIPE TO SMOKE

PRESENTED TO CHIEF NEWTON BY HIS BRETHREN OF LYDFORD LODGE LAST NIGHT.

Since the organization of Lydford Lodge, Sons of England, in this city, Chief Newton has taken a great interest in its welfare. He has occupied various offices, having been its first President and at present occupies the position of Treasurer. The members last evening took advantage of the opportunity of expressing their appreciation of his work and wishing him bon voyage to his native land.

A number of the members assembled at the City Hotel, and during the course of the evening a presentation was made to the Chief.

Bro W. Vallance, President, occupied the chair, and in a few well-chisen remarks stated the object of the gathering. He called upon Bro. Drowley to read an address, which in complimentary terms, referred to the Chief's active work in the Lodge and expressed the hope that the proposed trip might have the desired effect of completely restoring his health. At the opportune time the President made a presentation, which consisted of a handsome cane, pipe, tobacco case, and a supply of tobacco. Upon the handle of the cane is a silver band, engraved upon which is this inscription:—

"Presented to John Newton by a few of his friends, July 20th, 1903."

In accepting the gifts the Chief made a feeling reply. He said he would value the present highly and they would ever remind him of his associations with the members of Lydford Lodge. He also thanked them for the kind wishes contained in the address.

Short and appropriate addresses were given by Bros. J. L. Tickell, J. Harker, W. Rodbourne and W. Vallance. The pleasing affair was brought to a close by the company singing "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem.

OUT OF THE SHADOW.

The discouragement, the despair of ill-health, out into the noon-tide glory of health, vigor and strength. Are you seeking this way? Are you wishing to replace weakness by strength, despondency by hope and expectation, pale cheeks and lustreless eyes by the rose's bloom and sparkling eyes. If you but use Ferrozone, you will make rich, red blood, your nerves will grow strong. Old-time vigor will return and with it endurance that will enable you to live an active, energetic and successful life. Remember the name, Ferrozone. Sold by all druggists.

BLESSINGTON.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Lucas, of Belleville, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Cole.

Mrs. L. Murphy and son, of Carlyle, are visiting under the parental roof.

Mr. E. Vanderwaters, of Carmel, was in this vicinity on Sunday.

Mr. A. Gibson and Mr. N. Tuskey, of Mount Pleasant, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. Roblin.

The harvest is not progressing very fast, owing to the frequent showers.

WOOL CRASH.

People are asking what it is. Wool crash is a sort of misnomer. It is not crash, but simply a light cool worsted in a crash weave. Hold it up to the light—you can see through it. Yet it's as tough and strong almost as thick beaver, and wiry enough to hold its shape. For a cool summer vacation knockabout suit, wool crash takes the lead. Good enough, too, for business. Come, see! Suit prices, $3.75, $5, $6 and $7.50.—Quick & Robertson, Belleville's Best Clothiers.

SOMETHING OF INTEREST TO SEED GROWERS.

VALUABLE ADVICE IN RELATION TO A BILL NOW BEFORE THE DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Mr. S. E. Bishop, of this city, has received a letter from William Ewing & Co., wholesale seed merchants, of Montreal, which contains some valuable information for the seed growers of this district. We print some extracts:

We beg to advise you that a bill has been introduced in the Dominion Parliament by the Hon. S. Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, to regulate the selling of seeds in the Dominion, and which will render it almost impossible to sell anything but the very best qualities of seeds.

In order to avoid fines or imprisonment of Canadian seed merchants a careful system of grading will have to be adopted by them, and when the bill passes, it will be dangerous indeed to handle anything but perfectly clean seed.

Now, in order to have pure seed, the land must be free from weeds, and in order to prevent farmers saving seed which it will be impossible to sell, we ask you to tell all your customers, that are in habit of making seed, that such an Act has been introduced and will likely become law.

Your representative in the Dominion Parliament can send you a copy of the bill, and when you read it you will readily understand how serious will be the responsibility of any one handling other than clean seed.

Tell every one who intends making seed to be sure and certain his land is entirely free from weeds, for if it is full of weeds the seed he saves will be practically unsaleable.

If the land is not perfectly free from weeds, cut the crop and make hay of it, and this year this will pay well, whereas saving seed from a weedy crop of hay will be a dead loss to the farmer.

This bill is a very serious matter and merits the closest attention of every farmer and every seed merchant in the country, and we ask you, for the sake of all concerned, to put the matter before seed growers, and to urge on them the necessity of the greatest care when saving seed, only to save such as will be free from noxious weeds.

We wish the Government had advertised the matter in seed growing sections, because it would have had more weight than private advice, however, failing that, we take the opportunity of bringing it to your notice.

HAROLD.

Farmers are very busy with their hay and fall grain here.

Master Willie Heath had the misfortune to fall from a swing, breaking his arm.

Mr. Geo. Snarr has purchased a new rubber tire rig.

Mr. John Gay and family, of Stirling, spent Sunday with his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Chambers spent part of last week at Mr. S. Armstrong's.

Messrs. James and George Bailey have improved the looks of their milk houses with a coat of paint.

Miss Clela Heath entertained a number of her young friends one day last week.

Mr. McConald, of the N.W.G., preached here a couple of times which was enjoyed by all present. He gave all, good lessons to remember.

Harold Sunday School intend having their annual lawn social on the 12th of August. Everybody welcome.

Nearly all of Harold celebrated the 12th of July in Marmora.

Rev. Mr. Tonkin's Thanks.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer—

Would you allow me space in your valuable columns to return my sincere thanks to the many friends on the Sidney Circuit for their uniform kindness to me and mine during our pastorate of the last four years, among them, and especially for the kind farewell words and well filled purse with which they bade us good-bye on the evening of the first inst. I would assure the dear people of Sidney that their many kind words and acts shall never be forgotten, and we shall ever pray that the blessing of God that maketh rich and addeth no sorrow may be theirs till we meet again where life is eternal.

E. A. TONKIN,
Pastor.

Greenwood, July 20, 1903.

HERE IS A POINTER. Because you haven't used Catarrhozone is the best reason why you should use it right away. It will cure the catarrh that makes your breath so heavy and your hearing so poor. Catarrhozone is a scientific cure for catarrh, bronchitis and asthma, recommended by doctors and druggists as a certain cure. Mr. Henry A. Taylor, the oldest druggist in Halifax, says: "Catarrhozone gives satisfaction wherever it goes. It is simple and convenient to use, and enjoys fully three times the sale of any other catarrh remedy sold in the city." Catarrhozone is guaranteed to cure, and if it fails you can have your money returned. Price $1.00 for two months' treatment. Small size 25c. Druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

1,000 ISLANDS AND ROCHESTER.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian" leave Belleville for Thousand Islands at 3.25 a.m., daily except Mondays. Fare $1.00. Returning Str. leaves at 11.38 p.m. for Rochester, N.Y. m26d&w3m

Hair Falls Ayer's Hair Vigor is the most economical preparation of its kind on the market. It doesn't take much of it to stop falling of the hair, to make the hair grow, or to restore color to gray hair. $1. All druggists. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

WOLFE ISLAND.

Bishop Mills paid his annual visitation to Wolfe Island on July 17th.

There was a celebration of the Holy Communion at 10.30 a.m., at Christ Church, near the foot of the island. The Bishop dedicated the new oak pulpit. Evensong was said at 7.30 p.m. at Trinity Church, Marysville, Canon Cooke assisting in the service. The Bishop preached at both services. Although the congregations were good, it is a great pity that more were not present to hear the Bishop. The churches were nicely decorated with flowers. Mr. Hiram Calvin's beautiful yacht, Blue Bell, brought the Bishop over to Wolfe Island in the morning.

The Calvin Company's steamer, Frontenac brought over a large number of people from Wolfe Island for the evening service.

Miss Berry at Allen P.O., entertained the Bishop and clergy at dinner.

Mrs. Grace Horne entertained the Bishop and Clergy at tea.

A new road has been built on the west side of the vault. It is a much needed improvement.

The masons are now at work on the outside of Trinity Church. The stone walls will be covered with cement and blocked out.

CHEAP TRIPS.

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay, Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

Pottery and Secrecy.

In the royal manufactory of pottery at Meissen, Saxony, the work was formerly carried on with the utmost secrecy to prevent the processes from becoming known elsewhere. The establishment was a complete fortress, the portcullis of which was not raised day or night, no stranger being permitted to enter for any purpose whatever. Every workman, even the chief inspector, was sworn to silence. This injunction was formally repeated every month to the superior officers employed, while the workmen had constantly before their eyes in large letters the warning motto, "Be Secret Unto Death." It was well known that any person divulging the process would be imprisoned for life in the castle of Koenigstein. Even the king himself when he took strangers of distinction to visit the works was enjoined to secrecy. One of the foremen, however, escaped and assisted in establishing a manufactory in Vienna, from which the secrets spread all over Germany.

Royal Gamblers.

Henry VIII. would gamble away property and money recklessly, taking his defeats with bluff good humor. On one occasion he staked the famous campanile bell of St. Paul's and lost it to his adversary, a Sir Miles Partridge, who insisted on his pound of flesh and removed the bell. Queen Mary sometimes resorted to cards and was seldom more lucky than her father, losing occasionally even her lace caps or coifs, which were worth a good sum. Charles II. loved basset and other round games and would play night after night and even on a Sunday till daylight, while singers entertained the company from a gallery. Even the cold William of Orange was a gambler and liked nothing better than to spend the day racing and the night playing cards.

George III. detested cards and disapproved of playing for money, an aversion and opinion in nowise shared by his son and successor, who is said to have lost more than £800,000 before he attained his majority.

Itching Eczema or Salt Rheum

THE MOST TORTURING OF SKIN DISEASES IS CURED BY DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

The very fact that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a positive cure for eczema and salt rheum is sufficient evidence of its superior value as a means of allaying irritation and healing inflamed itching skin. Dr. Chase's Ointment is a necessity in every home in which it is known; for there has yet to be discovered a preparation which so quickly stops itching and heals sores or wounds. Ask your neighbors about it. Most people know of wonderful cures effected by its use. Sixty cents a box at all dealers. 3

When you want to climb a tree unite the feet with a dampened towel or raveled rope so that their distance apart shall be about two-thirds the diameter of the trunk.

A terrible lot of money is spent on parlor scenery at a wedding that is longed for to buy kitchen scenery later on.—Atchison Globe.

KEEP YOUR EYES OPEN and be sure that when you ask for Perry Davis' Painkiller you get just that and nothing else. Use it promptly to cure cramps, diarrhoea and all other bowel complaints in summer.

London's Bridge Craze.

The bridge craze in London is again agitating society and club circles, and quite a revolt is rising among certain sections against the game. Archdeacon Sinclair waxes very fierce in his indictment of this game. "The present period," he says, "reminds one of the days of the Regency, when women of high position remained indoors throughout the day with the blinds down playing faro. I have recently heard of cases in which young girls started playing bridge on Sundays immediately after breakfast and continued playing all day. No man who is a man should allow his womankind to gamble and become in debt to other men. The consequences of such a state of affairs will not even bear discussion. The only way to check this growing evil is for women of really high position and high principle to form a league against playing bridge by women." A member of the Portland and Turf Clubs—who, although a devotee of bridge, regards with aversion the reckless gambling of fashionable women and would-be smart men—said: "Something must be done to check gambling, at any rate among women. Many men, myself among them, absolutely refuse to play bridge with women. Women have been known to stand up when they have lost three rubbers and hysterically accuse some unfortunate male player of cheating before a roomful of people." Several of the West End clubs have found it necessary to limit bridge gambling. The newly formed Atlantic Club, for example, has decided that not more than $2,500 a week will be booked to a single member. Points will be limited to 50 cents each, with a maximum of $50 on a game. These sums considerably exceed those allowed by other clubs, but the Atlantic's nickname of the "Millionaires' Club" explains why high play is allowed there. The weekly limit at the St. James's Club has been fixed at $1,500, and at the Bachelors' Club at $1,000, while the points of the game are limited to 25 cents at each club. No money changes hands during the games at these clubs. Each player employs a card-room cashier to keep accounts. If a loser does not pay his account by an appointed date he ceases to be a member. A development of the game is that interested persons sit behind a known skilful player and back his skill. A secretary of one of the clubs says that when a member is known to be an exceptionally good player, but is not rich or not rash enough to play heavy points, other members will carry him, that is, pay his points and draw a percentage of his winnings. Many a clever fellow, it is said, is making $5,000 a year in this manner without running any risk.

Takes Issue with the President.

Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Boston's veteran lecturer, took issue the other day in a lecture before the Mothers and Fathers' Club in that city with President Roosevelt on the subject of large families. What is needed, she asserted, is "child culture." "It would not be race suicide if we were to have homes into which only two or three children were born. Quality and character signify more than a horde." Mrs. Livermore took the stand that Americans need to give more attention to the culture of fathers and mothers than to that of the child. "There are men and women who are unfit to be the parents of children," she said; "in many cases it is better to take children away from their natural parents, so that they may have a chance to do better." A writer in "Vogue," who also considers the President's "race-suicide" opinions harmful to the community, says: "So carried away by the President's exceedingly flippant views have been reception committees and individual parents, that the many-childrened have been made a conspicuous feature of the programmes arranged for the Presidential tour. It was left, however, for a New York journal to go to the extreme of showing the President's theories in the fullest possible manifestation, and to this end it insulted its readers by parading the portraits of Mormons, some of whom having espoused as many as six wives, are now the fathers each of thirty-nine immediate descendants. The views of one of these men are given extensive space, and in order to still further honor him, his portrait is published along with those of other Mormons. Naturally, the President's views are heartily seconded by the Mormons, they as well as he having apparently, not the slightest conception of any higher view of the function of the human being, especially of women, than to be a connecting link between generations. If adults are so foolish as to burden themselves with children beyond their ability properly to bear and care for them after birth, small sympathy need be wasted upon them. Their unwise course will, in most instances, bring its own bitter punishment, which it is to be hoped will be properly disciplinary. But it is for the children that one pleads."

Like many Frenchmen, especially those hailing from the south of France, President Loubet is very fond of those national dishes in which garlic forms an important ingredient. Once, in his lawyer days, when he was pleading in court after having partaken of some such dish, his democratic tastes in this respect placed him in a somewhat embarrassing position. The presiding judge happened to be a man of aristocratic origin and breeding, to whom the odor of garlic was absolutely intolerable. M. Loubet rose and began his argument. He had not proceeded very far when the judge was observed to sniff rather uncomfortably and to take out a perfumed handkerchief, reinforcing it a few moments later with a smelling-bottle. These measures, however, proved of no avail as a protection from the pungent and penetrating effluvium which emanated from the future President of the republic. At last, his olfactory sense rising in open rebellion, the indignant judge shouted: "Usher, open the windows; open the doors. For heaven's sake, let out this abominable smell!" Since then M. Loubet, it is said, though he still preserves his simplicity of life, has eliminated garlic from his articles of diet.

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

LACE—CURTAINS

An Odd Lot of

English Nottingham and Brussels Net Lace Curtains

This stock being so varied, it would be impossible to enumerate the different prices.

Come and inspect these goods and their quality and you will readily understand what a money saving investment awaits every one that will take advantage of this sale.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

DIRECT IMPORTERS

Daily Intelligencer.

THE INTELLIGENCER IS SOLD AT J. W. London's and G. Wardhaugh's.

Local Reading Advertisements,

ords 50 cents; 2 cents per word first insertion, per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words; contracts for long periods made at office

Walnut Candy
Almond Candy
Butter Scotch

Fresh made, 20c a lb.

Fresh Sweet Cream just in, 40c a quart.

CHAS. S. CLAPP

Will You Ask Us

In seeking a perfume worthy of our exacting patrons we have found YOLANDE which is positively exquisite.

'Tis not enough for us to believe this—we wish to convince you. No way so easy as for you to ask us about YOLANDE next time you are in our store. It will be a revelation to you for YOLANDE is worth knowing about.

McKeown's DRUG STORE

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL $5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call,

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE, No. 48 Bridge St., Belleville,

J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

Lost chances never leave any trail.

MONITOR

This is another fine Mantle Clock, not quite so expensive as Gadski in last week's advertisement, but fully as serviceable. It is an eight-day hour and half strike on cathedral gong, fancy columns with trimmings and drop handles, in every way a beautiful clock. Our price only $5.50.

T. BLACKBURN.

Eyes examined free of charge. Jeweller & Optician.

Bargains for This Week

1 only 6 piece Glass Tea Set	25c
25c bottle Bland's Pills 2 for	25c
7 Bars Chicago Hardwater Soap	25c
Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills 2 boxes for	25c
12 foot Bamboo Fish Poles	5c
Carters Pills 2 bottles	25c
6 Nickel Plated Tea Spoons	15c
Morses Indian Root Pills, 2 boxes	25c
10c bottle Standard Shoe Dressing	7c
Parmalee's Pills 2 boxes for	25c
1 lb. Tin of our Baking Powder	10c
25c Belladonna Plasters for	12c
7 Bars Brown Windsor Soap, for	5c
$1.00 bottle of Wythe's Beef, Iron and Wine	61c
Talcum Powder, the best, large box	10c
Tucker's Sovereign Balm	20c
Large bottle Sewing Machine Oil	5c
Can openers with corkscrew	10c
25c Package Celery King for	15c
1000 Parlor Matches, best	5c
50c bottle Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy	32c
40 ft. Cotton Clotheslines	10c
7 lb. Package of Best Laundry Starch	45c
$1.00 Bottle Dr. Koenig's Sarsaparilla	49c
Manley's Celery Compound	57c

Crockery Sale still in force.

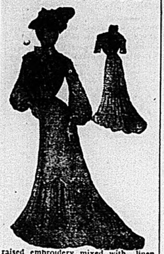
10 Piece Printed Bedroom Set, $2.50,	$1.19.
10 Piece Printed Bedroom Set $2.50,	$1.79.
6 Piece Printed Bedroom Set, $2.25,	$1.79.
Plain White Bedroom Sets	$1.15

Fruit Jars at the lowest prices.
Jar Rings 5c doz.

McINTOSH BROS.

Some Parisian Gowns.

A gown that made a sensation at the Fete des Fleurs in Paris was of a sheer white batiste over a pale pink foundation, and trimmed with flounce after flounce of Irish lace. The gown, in fact, was more than half lace, and there was no other trimming save a very odd arrangement of a sheer pink silk muslin scarf. This was carried about the shoulders, fichu fashion, and crossed over the bust, and then the long, fringed ends were passed under a belt and allowed to fall to the hem of the skirt. Another gown worn on the same occasion was a white linen, trimmed with what seemed to be a raised embroidery mixed with linen passementerie, the whole making an elaborate design. Straps of inch-wide black velvet ribbon passed under this embroidery, connecting the pattern and forming an elaborate ornamentation on the bottom of the skirt and about the top of the bodice. Mixtures, checks and plaids in black and white have been a great success this season, both in silks and thin woollen fabrics. At the Auteuil Steeple Race, the big race that precedes the Grand Prix, there were several costumes of this sort. One was a very coarse voile in great black and white diamonds, topped with a loose paletot of white cloth inset with Cluny. The cloak appeared to have a loose lining or rose-colored taffeta. Another gown was a tailored suit of a fine black and white checked silk, the skirt being made with three box-pleated flounces trimmed with stitched straps of black taffeta, and the box-pleated blouse with a deep pelerine trimmed in the same way. A modish suit of tan-colored cloth and pongee silk had a cloth skirt trimmed with bands and ravelled fringe of the silk, and a little loose jacket of the silk, sun pleated and trimmed with embroidered ecru batiste. The hat of ecru straw was laden with poppies.



Heckling as a Fine Art.

The "heckling" of Parliamentary candidates in England continues to supply election stories. One of the latest is told by Mr. Renshaw, Unionist member for Renfrew. At a Liberal meeting a speaker had said he was in favor of "free fishing." The following evening Mr. Renshaw addressed a meeting in the same place. A similar question was put to him. "No, I am not in favor of free fishing," returned Mr. Renshaw.

"Well," said the heckler, "the Liberal who spoke here last night said he was in favor of it."

Mr. Renshaw's answer was rather unexpected. "That is very likely," he observed. "But you see, I happen to be the owner of all the fishing around here!" John Morley tells with amusement of a heckling of his own. When he went to contest Montrose Burghs in 1895, he found that the electors had been well supplied with his volume on 'Compromise.' At almost his first meeting a dour Scot rose to ask, "Am I to understand that the candidate is the author of a book on 'Compromise'?"

Mr. Morley confessed that the poor thing was his own.

"Then what I want to know," continued his interrogator, "is how you reconcile that book with going up and down the country calling yourself Honest John!"

That situation must have been somewhat embarrassing to the candidate, but extrication from it was simplicity itself compared with the plight of a man of whom Abraham Hayward tells. Falkirk Burghs was the seat contested, and the following is the record of questions and answers:

"Will Mr. Merry vote for alterations of the Decalogue?"

Merry (aside to treacherous friend) —What the deuce is that?

Friend—Flogging in the army?

Merry—I beg to say, if elected, I will vote, and indeed, I will move, for its total and immediate abolition!

The Age of a Horse.

To tell the age of any horse,
Inspect the lower jaw, of course.
The six front teeth the tale will tell,
And every doubt and fear dispel.

The middle "nippers" you behold
Before the colt is two weeks old;
Before eight weeks two more will come;
Eight months, the "corners" cut the gum.

The outside grooves will disappear
From middle two in just one year;
In two years from the second pair;
In three the "corners," too, are bare.

At two, the middle "nippers" drop;
At three, the second pair can't stop;
When four years old, the third pair goes;
At five, a full new set he shows.

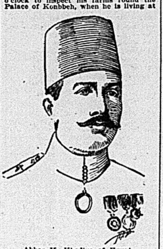
The deep black spots will pass from view,
At six years from the middle two;
The second pair at seven years;
At eight, the spot each "corner" clears.

From middle "nippers" upper jaw,
At nine the black spots will withdraw,
The second pair at ten are white;
Eleven finds the corners light.

As time goes on the horsemen know
The oval teeth three-sided grow;
They longer get, project before
'Til twenty, when we knew no more.

The Khedive of Egypt.

The Khedive Abbas II. of Egypt, who is now on a visit to England, was born on July 16, 1874. On January 8, 1892, he succeeded the Khedive Tewfik on the Khedivial throne. Three years later his Highness married the Princess Ikbal Hanem, for whom he has a real affection. The issue of this union has been the Crown Prince Mohamed Bey Abdel Moneim, Prince Abdel Kadir Bey and four girls, Amina, Athieh, Fethueh and Lontfieh. His Highness generally rises before 6 o'clock, and having dressed and "made his morning prayer," he takes a light repast. He usually goes out at about 7 o'clock to inspect his farms round the Palace of Konbbeh, when he is living at Cairo, and his property near the Palace of Montazzah, his other favorite residence at Alexandria. Two hours later he returns to the palace, receives his courier, and disposes of the correspondence relative to the affairs of personal government and those which refer to his private properties and his agricultural affairs. Abbas II. then receives the notabilities and high functionaries who have asked for a private interview. The Khedive always breakfasts at midday, sometimes with members of his Court, and sometimes with the Khedivial harem. He is very temperate, and is said never to touch alcoholic liquors. At table he drinks only pure Nile water. He has, however, a fondness for sweets and bonbons. After dejeuner the Khedive receives some of the civil or military functionaries of his household or sees visitors, or perhaps visits some of his more distant estates. His Highness is very interested in agriculture, and each year the exhibits from the Daira Khassa take many prizes at the exhibitions. The Khedive also enjoys mechanical work; indeed, he is a very competent engineer. He frequently drives his own train from Montazzah to Cairo, or takes command on board his yacht, the Mahronsah, and sometimes makes motoring expeditions into the desert. At his farm at Konbbeh are shown some pieces of machinery connected with sheep-shearing, cotton-growing and other agricultural work which, if not invented, have at least been greatly improved by the suggestions and advice of the Khedive.



Abbas II. Khedive of Egypt.

During his stay in Cairo and Alexandria his Highness goes two or three times a week to the Palace of Abdine, or Ras el Tin, to preside at meetings of the Cabinet or to give a private audience to members of the diplomatic corps or other functionaries of State desiring to see him. He speaks French, English, Arabic, Turkish and German with equal fluency.

Written in a Hurry.

How "For God and the Czar" came to be written is rather interesting. Mr. Muddock happened to be at Tit-Bits offices, talking to his friend Mr. Galloway Fraser, when Mr. Newnes, as he then was, came in. "Look here, Mr. Muddock," he said abruptly, "can you write us a serial? I've got one running that's not doing us any good." Mr. Muddock replied that he had a story in his mind dealing with the persecution of the Jews in Russia. "That'll do," said Mr. Newnes. "When can I have it?" "Oh, I haven't thought it out yet," answered Mr. Muddock, slightly taken aback at such promptitude. "Say in six months." "Six months!" echoed Mr. Newnes scornfully. "I must have it in a fortnight." As usual, Mr. Newnes got his way, at least to this extent, that Mr. Muddock went away, shut himself up, and delivered the first three instalments in three weeks, keeping them up weekly afterwards. The serial thus quickly commissioned and quickly written was a huge success, and stirred the heart of Jewish communities the world over.

T. M. Healy a Lawyer.

Before long English newspaper readers will be noting that Mr. T. M. Healy, M.P., conducted a brilliant cross-examination in the Law Courts or made an effective appeal to the jury. The ablest and wittiest of all the Irish members of Parliament was a fortnight ago "called" as a member of Gray's Inn, and thus became qualified as a member of the English Bar. It is understood that he will practise chiefly in the English courts. Probably only a small section of the English public is aware that, besides being the cleverest of the Nationalists, Mr. Healy has for some years been one of the shining lights of the Irish Bar. Among lawyers it is thought quite likely that his career at the English Bar may be as remarkable as that of Sir Edward Carson, who leaped into a new fame as soon as he crossed the Irish Channel. While qualifying for the Irish Bar, Mr. Healy "dined" at Gray's Inn in 1880, and some of his speeches as the junior student are still remembered. He was then twenty-five years of age, so that now he is forty-eight. He was consequently the senior "student" of the dozen who were "called" last evening. It is understood that his sponsors were Mr. W. Mattinson, K.C., and Mr. Duke, K.C., M.P. After the ceremony Mr. Healy attended the usual "call night dinner," and in accordance with ancient custom, after the Benchers had withdrawn for dessert, the senior member present, Mr. Lawrence Counsel, who is eighty-one years of age, proposed the health of the newly "called" members, to which Mr. Healy, as the senior of the band, replied. In becoming a member of Gray's Inn Mr. Healy is following the example of Mr. John Redmond, the leader of the Irish party, who was called some years ago.

A youngster stood upon the street
And cried, and cried, and cried,
For basket, dropped upon the pave,
And broken eggs inside.

"Oh, me! oh my!" said Parson Good,
As up he stepped to scan
The tearful face and rumpled head;
"There, now! Come, be a man!"

Then something very like a smile
Revealed two rows of pearl.
"Please, sir, how can I be a man
When I'se a little girl?"
—Philadelphia Ledger.

Talented or Otherwise.

"Billy Bobbs can't be much of a business man."

"Why not?"

"His wife says when anybody gives him a message for her down town he remembers to give it to her when he gets home."—Detroit Free press.

THE MARKETS.

Wheat Corn and Oats Have a Rally at Chicago—Liverpool Wheat Higher —The Latest Quotations.

Tuesday Evening, July 21.

Liverpool wheat futures closed to-day ⅝c lower than yesterday and corn unchanged to ¼c lower.

At Chicago September wheat closed ⅜c higher to-day than yesterday, September corn 1c higher and September oats ⅝c higher.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London—Close—Wheat on passage, nominally unchanged. Parcels, No. 2 red winter, 27s 6d, July. Maize on passage, quiet but steady; spot American mixed, 22s 3d. Flour, spot, Minn., 27s.

Paris—Close—Wheat, tone quiet; July, 24f 95c; Sept. and Feb., 22f 20c. Flour, tone quiet; July, 31f 90c; Sept. and Feb., 29f 85c.

Antwerp—Holiday.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

Following are the closing quotations at important wheat centres to-day:

	Cash.	July.	Sept.	Dec.
New York	....	....	81⅛	81¼
Chicago	....	....	76⅝	78⅝
Toledo	76¼	76	77⅞	78¾
Duluth, No. 1 N.	84	84	76¼	74½

TORONTO ST. LAWRENCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, red, bush	$0 76 to	$0 77
Wheat, white, bush.	0 76	....
Wheat, spring, bush	0 70	0 72
Wheat, goose, bush.	0 71	....
Barley, bush.	0 44½	....
Beans, bush	1 30	1 50
Beans, hand-picked	1 75	....
Peas, bush	0 78½	....
Rye, bush	0 45	....
Oats, per bush.	0 37	0 38

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, July 21.—Closing—Wheat, spot dull; No. 2 red, western winter, 6s 2½d; No. 1 northern spring, 6s 5d; No. 1 Cal., 6s 6½d; futures dull; July, nominal; Sept., 6s 2½d; Dec., 6s 2⅝d. Corn, spot American mixed, easy, 4s 4d; futures steady; July, nominal; Sept., 4s 4¼d.

Hams, short cut, firm, 54s. Bacon, Cumberland cut, firm, 49s; shoulders, square, steady, 38s. Lard, prime western, easy, 37s 6d. Cheese, American finest white, quiet, 46s 6d; do., colored, steady, 48s 6d. Tallow, prime city, steady, 22s 9d. Turpentine spirits, firm, 39s 9d.

Cotton seed oil, Hull refined, spot firm, 22s 10½d.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, July 21.—Butter—Unsettled; receipts, 17,908; creamery extras, per lb., 20c; do., firsts, 18½c to 19½c; seconds, 17c to 18c; do., thirds, 15c to 16c; State dairy, tubs, firsts, 17c to 18c; do., seconds, 15½c to 16½c; do., thirds, 15c; do., fourths, 14c; western imitation creamery, firsts, 17c; do., seconds, 15c to 16c; renovated extras, 17c; do., firsts, 16c to 16½c; do., seconds, 15c to 15½c; do., thirds, 13c to 14c; western factory, firsts, 15c to 15½c; do., seconds, 14½c to 15c; do., thirds, 13½c to 14c; packing stock, No. 1, 14c; do., No. 2, 13c to 13½c; No. 3, 12c to 12½c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Higher—American Markets Steady, With Moderate Receipts.

London, July 21.—Live cattle firm at 12c to 12¾c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 11c to 11½c per lb., refrigerator beef, 9¼c to 9½c per lb. Sheep, 10½c to 12½c.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock were large, 119 carloads, composed of 2300 cattle, 500 hogs, 738 sheep and lambs, with about 70 calves.

Exporters—Best loads exporters are worth $5 to $5.20 per cwt.; medium to good at about $4.75 to $4.90.

Export Bulls—Choice quality bulls sold at $4 to $4.25 per cwt.; good bulls sold at $3.60 to $3.80 per cwt.

Export Cows—Export cows sold at $4.00 per cwt.

Butchers' Cattle—Choice picked lots of butchers, weighing from 1025 to 1100 lbs. each, equal in quality to best exporters, sold at $4.75; loads of good sold at $4.50 to $4.65; fair to good, $4.35 to $4.45; common, $3.75 to $4; rough to inferior, $2.65 to $3.25.

Feeders—Steers of good quality, 800 to 900 lbs. each are worth $3.50 to $4 per cwt.

Short-keep Feeders—Good steers, 1100 to 1200 lbs. each, are worth $4.50 to $4.60 per cwt.

Stockers—One-year to two-year-old steers, 400 to 700 lbs. each, are worth $3 to $3.75 per cwt.; off colors and of poor breeding quality of same weights are worth $2.75 to $3 per cwt.

Milch Cows—Milch cows and springers are worth $30 to $54 each.

Calves—Calves sold at $2 to $10 each, or from $3.50 to $5 per cwt.

Sheep—Prices, $3.65 to $3.75 per cwt. for ewes, and bucks at $2.75 to $3.

Spring Lambs—Prices steady at $2.50 to $4.25 each.

Hogs—Best select bacon hogs, not less than 160 lbs., nor more than 200 lbs. each, off cars, sold at $5.75 per cwt.; lights and fats at $5.50; sows, $4 to $4.25 per cwt., and stags, $2 to $3 per cwt.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, N.Y., July 21.—Cattle—Receipts, 75 head; steady; prime and shipping steers, $4.85 to $5.50; butchers' steers, $4.25 to $4.80; cows and heifers, $2.75 to $4.75; bulls, $3 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4.25; veals slow, $5 to $6.25. Hogs, receipts, 2300 head; active; pigs 10c lower; other grades 5c to 10c higher; heavy, $6 to $6.05; medium, $6 to $6.05; yorkers, $6.15 to $6.20; pigs, $6.40 to $6.50; roughs, $5.10 to $5.25; stags, $4 to $4.50. Sheep and lambs, receipts, 400 head; sheep steady; lambs 50c lower; lambs, $4.50 to $6.50; yearlings, $5.25 to $5.50; wethers, $4.50 to $5; ewes, $3.75 to $4; sheep, mixed, $2 to $4.50.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, July 21.—Beeves—Receipts, 127; dressed beef steady; city dressed native sides, 6½c to 8½c per lb. Reported exports for to-day, 842 beeves, 1019 sheep, 1400 quarters of beef estimated. Calves, receipts, 87; veals sold at $4 to $7 per 100 lbs.; city dressed, general sales, 7c to 10c per lb. Sheep and lambs, receipts, 10,420; sheep scarce and higher; lambs slow; slightly easier; reported sales of sheep were at $3 to $4.35 per 100 lbs., with a few head at $4.50; of lambs at $5 to $6.50; dressed mutton, 6c to 9c per lb.; dressed lambs, general sales, 9½c to 11½c. Hogs, receipts, 835; a deck of mixed western hogs sold at $5.35.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, July 21.—Cattle—Receipts, 3500, including 1500 Texans; market steady; good to prime steers, $5.20 to $5.25; poor to medium, $3.25 to $5.35; stockers and feeders, $2.40 to $2.00; cows and heifers, $1.60 to $5.15; canners, $1.60 to $2.80; bulls, $2.25 to $3.35; calves, $2.50 to $6.40; Texas-fed steers, $3.50 to $5.

Hogs—Receipts, 14,000; to-morrow, 28,000; left over, 3000; market for choice steady and 5c to 10c lower; mixed and butchers, $5.30 to $5.75; good to choice heavy, $5.55 to $5.70; rough heavy, $5.20 to $5.50; light, $5.40 to $5.75; bulk of sales, $5.45 to $5.60.

Sheep—Receipts, 10,000; market steady; good to choice wethers, $3.60 to $4; fair, to choice mixed, $3 to $3.65; native lambs, $4 to $6.35.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Campbellford, Ont., July 21.—Cheese report, 1580 offered. Cook 80, Rolland 150, at 9¼c; balance refused, but all sold after the meeting at 9¼c.

Fork Tines Hurt Him.

Wingham, July 22.—A painful accident happened at Zetland on Saturday last to the 19-year-old son of Mrs. M. J. Macdonald, a widow. While loading clover, two tines of a pitchfork entered his body—one in the abdomen and the other in the thigh—penetrating about an inch.

Severe Fighting Going on.

Constantinople, July 22.—Despatches from Salonica say that a battalion of troops has been sent to Doiran to reinforce the Turkish troops. There are 1,100 troops at Doiran, and severe fighting is reported.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

—FOR—

Stylish and Durable Turnouts.

—Surreys
—Corning Buggies
—Piano Box Buggies
—Rubber Tire Buggies
—Micadoes
—Phaetons
—Bike Buggies
—Democrats
—Grocer Wagons
—Butcher Wagons

Cheese Factory Milk Wagons.
Steel Tubular Axle Lumber Wagons.

Rubber Tires put on your old wheels at reasonable prices.

Mill St, - - Belleville

TWO DAYS SALE.

Muslins, Foulards and Ginghams.

NATHAN JONES.

In order to clear them quickly we will sell for two days all our Colored Muslins and Foulards, worth from 12½c to 35c yard, and Ginghams from 10c to 20c yard

All at 7c yard.

NATHAN JONES.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's. At Wallbridge & Clarke's

Supplies For Camp or Cruise

New York Biscuits

In "In-er Seal" pkgs.

Uneeda "Jinger" Wafers, Butter Gems, Cheese Biscuits, German Zwieback, Pretzelettes, etc., etc.

Christie's Fancy Biscuits

Fresh supplies every week — 40 varities.

Heintz's Pickles

Heintz's Celery Sauce,
Heintz's India Relish.
Heintz's Sweet Midgets.
Heintz's Sweet Pickles.

Spanish Olives

A fine assortment of Olives from 10cts per bottle up.

Campers Supplies

Essence of Coffee, Condensed Milk, Lime Juice, Raspberry Vinegar, Fancy Cheese, New Pack Lobster and Shrimps, French Sardines, Scallops, Deviled Crabs, Concentrated Soups, French Potage, Beef Extracts, etc., etc.

Pickles and Sauces

A complete assortment of English and American Pickles and Sauces, including Pickled Walnuts, Onions, Chow Chow, Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce, Yorkshire Relish, Mushroom Catsup, Harvey's Sauce, Sultana Sauce, Chutney's Capers, Durkee's Salad Dressing, etc., etc.

Delicious Teas

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious English Breakfast Teas in lead packets at 30, 40, 50 and 60cts per lb.

Cann edMeats

New Packs. Finest Quality.

Whole Ox Tongues.
Lunch Tongues.
Lamb's Tongues.
Boned Chicken.
Boned Turkey.
Boned Duck.
Pate de foie.
Potted Ham.
Potted Tongue.
Sliced Dried Beef.
Ham Loaf.
Veal Loaf.
Chicken Tamales.
Lunch Beef.
Lunch Bacon.
Chicken, Ham and Tongue.
Pigs Feet.
Jellied Tenderloins.
Vienna Sausages.
Luncheon Sausages.
Baked Beans—plain or in Tomato or Chili Sauce, etc., etc., etc.

Ale and Stout, Wines, etc.

Carling's, Labatt and Davies' Dominion Ale, Bass' Ale, Dow's Sand Porter, Guinness' Stout, in prime condition.

Gurd's Ginger and Soda Water Appollinaris and Radnor Water.

Barton & Guestier's and Nath. Johnston's Bordeaux Clarets and Sauterne AT POPULAR PRICES.

Rhine Wine and Burgundy Cordials and Liqueurs.

Light Canadian Wines, red or white, at lowest prices.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE

EST'D. 1871.
BRIDGE ST. Tel. 139.

Branch Store
Front St.—Tel. 157.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 37. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JULY 23, 1903 NO. 69

MR. SIFTON AND MR. FISHER

Did Minister of Interior Put Down Minister of Agriculture ?

George Taylor, M.P., Makes the Insinuation, Which Is Met With Indian Silence—The Delay in Bringing Down the Grand Trunk Pacific Scheme—Sir Wilfrid Blames the Opposition For Performing Its Proper Functions.

Ottawa, July 23.—Replying to Mr. Roche of Halifax, the Premier stated in the House yesterday that the Government did not find in 1896 on assuming office that a contract had been signed by the Government or by any Minister on its behalf with the Messrs. Allen for a twenty or twenty-one knot service between Canada and Great Britain. Neither had any Order-in-Council been approved authorizing such a contract. A tender for 225,000 pounds sterling for a mail service had been made by Messrs. Allen, but they placed a construction on the terms and conditions of the tenders inconsistent with the public advertisement.

G.T. Pacific Delay.

Mr. Borden brought up the delay in bringing down the Government policy on the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. He said the Government should state that it was not intended to deal with the question this session or present its policy to Parliament forthwith.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said the delay was due to the tactics of the Opposition in strongly opposing the estimates and minor measures. The Government had supplied the House with business. The Redistribution Bill might be brought down to-morrow (Thursday), and the Grand Trunk resolutions would in all probability be submitted to the House before the end of the week and discussion would take place next week.

The debate was continued by Dr. Sproule, Messrs. A. C. Bell, E. B. Osler, Kemp, Taylor, and E. F. Clarke, when the matter dropped.

Mr. Loy to Be Tried.

Mr. F. D. Monk raised a question of privilege. He accused George Loy, Liberal M. P. for Beauharnois, of violating the act respecting the independence of members of Parliament. Mr. Loy, according to the member for Jacques Cartier, sold for $10,000 two lots in the town of Valleyfield, to be used for postoffice sites, the transaction being managed by R. B. Johnston. Mr. Monk, after a lengthy argument, moved that the matter be referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Mr. Loy read a statement to the effect that he gave an option on the property in question of R. B. Johnston about the end of July, 1902, not knowing that the latter intended to sell it to the Government. The transaction was completed towards the end of November of the same year by Mr. Johnston, when the balance of the purchase money was paid. The price paid, Mr. Loy declared, was about to the market value at the time.

Hon. Mr. Sutherland and Hon. Mr. Tarte exonerated Mr. Roy, but Mr. Monk refused to withdraw the motion, which was carried.

Will Do the Square Thing.

In reply to Mr. Osler, Sir William Mulock said that the Canadian Government had no intention of ultimately refusing compensation to the Anchor Line Company, and the company quite understood this. The defence raised by the Crown was because of some questions between third parties as to insurance and to protect private interests. But it was the intention of the Crown to do what was proper under the circumstances, quite irrespective of the judgment.

The bill to incorporate the Brockville and Sault Ste. Marie Railway was taken up and talked out to the end of the hour.

Met With Indian Silence.

Mr. George Taylor, in discussing the Cabinet difficulties, said that Mr. Sifton blamed Mr. Fisher for not paying the Manitoba enumerators and thus contributing materially to the defeat of Thomas Greenway. It is said Hon. Clifford Sifton took Hon. Sydney Fisher by his collar and sat him down with painful emphasis on the floor of the latter's office.

Mr. Sydney Fisher's face flushed as Mr. Taylor related the story of the encounter, but he said nothing in reply.

The House went into committee of supply and the main estimates of the Minister of Labor were taken up.

Senate Adopts Lougheed's Bill.

Ottawa, July 23.—Senator Lougheed's bill respecting offences in connection with trade and breaches of conduct obtained its third reading in the Senate yesterday afternoon. It is aimed at preventing foreign labor agitators from coming into Canada to promote strife. After some debate, a division was taken and the bill was read a third time

DYING IN TURKISH PRISON.

Professor Tenkejian Is Not Likely to Survive Tortures.

Boston, July 23.—Word was received by the American Board of Foreign Missions yesterday that Prof. Tenkejian of the Euphrates College, immured in a Turkish prison, is not likely to survive the tortures and privations to which he has been subjected. The Turks, it is said, have been trying to starve him into confessing that American missionaries are plotting against the Sultan's life, but he had nothing to confess, and could not satisfy them. He is so stricken by the tortures that he is likely to die before he can be reached by Consul Norton at Harpoot and have a trial. The interference of the State Department has resulted in the admission of American missionaries to the prison, and they have tried to cheer him. The other members of the Euphrates faculty are alarmed for their own safety.

TORNADO KILLS TWO.

Young Lad Has Head Severed From Body by Piece of Shafting.

Paterson, N. J., July 23.—A terrific tornado visited this city yesterday. During the blow, which lasted about three minutes, two persons were killed and at least three score more or less seriously injured. Thomas Hancock, eight years old, was struck by a piece of shafting blown from a wrecked building which completely severed his head from his body. One house was blown down, more than a score of buildings were unroofed, and havoc was done to trees, fences, signs and awnings. At St. Joseph's Hospital the patients were thrown into a panic.

YUKON MEMBER TO RESIGN.

James Ross to Be Lieutenant-Governor of the N.W.T.

Ottawa, July 23.—The resignation of James Ross, member for the Yukon, may be handed in any day. Mr. Ross is tired of his position and is slated for the Lieutenant-Governorship of the Territories. The preparation of the lists in the Yukon for the last general elections cost $150,000 and the Government is not anxious to fight such an expensive battle over again for Mr. Sifton. The chances for Mr. Clarke, who unsuccessfully opposed Mr. Ross at the last election are, therefore, conspicuously bright.

SINCLAIR'S AD SINCLAIR'S AD.

Summer Sale Prices

If you are at all interested in Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Goods, our sale prices for this week should have a special attraction for you. Here are some of them.

34 Ladies' Cloth Skirts from $2.50 to $4 50, all this season's styles, will sell for .... $1.65 ea

15 Ladies' Silk Waists will sell at ⅓ off regular prices.

20 Ladies' Cotton Dresses will sell at Half Price.

Your choice of all our Colored Shirt Waists, both Linen and Cotton, at 25 per cent. off.

All $1.25 and $1.35 Print Wrappers, will sell for $1.00

1 only Ladies' $22.50 Black Taffeta Coat, will sell for $15.00

NEW STYLES IN WHITE WAISTS.

These are some of the very newest creations in Ladies' White Waists, to sell from $1.25 to $3 50 each.

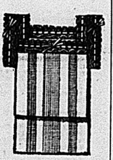
SUMMER WASH GOODS

Cut to fit and properly made in Black and Navy Spots and Stripes, nicely trimmed at $1.35, $1.50 $1.65, and $1.75 each. We also show White Pique and Linen Skirts, from $1.00 to $2 50 each.

Ladies' and Children's Vests.

We are now clearing the balance of our Summer Vests and offer some wonderful values from 5c and 25c each.

If YOU WANT WASH GOODS don't miss our 10c and 15c tables.



D. V. SINCLAIR & CO.

THE IRISH SPIRIT OF HOPE

Rejoices King Edward and He Tells the People So.

His Happiness Would Be Profound, He Said in Replying to Addresses, If His Reign Was Coincident With Social Peace and Industrial and Commercial Progress For Ireland—Cheering Crowds Throng Dublin Streets.

Dublin, July 23.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra, accompanied by the Lord Lieutenant, the Earl of Dudley, and Princess Victoria, their suites and other officials, drove from the vice-regal lodge to the castle early yesterday. Crowds along the route greeted Their Majesties with continuous cheering. The King received in the throne room a large number of deputations prior to the levee, which opened at noon.

King's Interest in Ireland.

Replying to the Dublin Citizens' Committee, the King said there was no part of his dominions in which he took greater interest than in Ireland. The Queen and himself had long been in sympathy with the movements tending to advance the social and material well-being of the community, and they hoped now to become acquainted with the condition under which the people lived and to learn what could be done to brighten the lot of the people.

The Queen after presenting badges to the jubilee nurses drove to Alexandra College. In the meanwhile, King Edward held a levee at the castle, which was attended by a great number of prominent people from all parts of Ireland. After the levee the King returned to the vice-regal lodge, where he was joined by the Queen.

Maud Gonne's Black Flag.

Maude Gonne (Mrs. McBride) hung a black flag outside her residence Tuesday in memory of the Pope, she said. It was pulled down by the police, whereupon Maude Gonne, supported by lady friends, hung out another black flag, and, arming themselves with pokers and boiling water, defied the police, who summoned reinforcements. But they made no further attempt to haul down the flag, which was again displayed yesterday.

King Is Proud of Connection.

Replying to the other addresses, His Majesty said he rejoiced to hear of the awakened spirit of hope and enterprise among his Irish people, which was full of promise for the future. It would be a source of profound happiness to him if his reign was coincident with a new era of social peace and industrial and commercial progress for Ireland. The King visited Trinity College, where he spoke briefly, saying he was proud his name was numbered on the rolls of the college which boasted of Swift, Berkely, Burke and Grattan.

No Protection Needed.

It is understood that when arrangements were being made for the Irish tour King Edward resolutely refused to sanction the proposal of Scotland Yard to send a number of detectives. "I want no such protection," said the King; "all the protection I want I shall receive from the Irish people. On that point I am perfectly satisfied."

BASEBALL WEDNESDAY.

The Eastern League.

R.H.E.
Baltimore.. .....0 2 0 0 1 1 1 0 x—5 14 1
Buffalo ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—1 10 2

Batteries—Wiltse and Ahearn; McGee and Lusky. Umpire—Brown. Attendance—3406.

R.H.E.
Newark ....0 0 1 0 1 0 0 2 1—5 8 2
Providence ......0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 8 4

Batteries—Pardee and Shea; Yerkes and Diggins.

Second game—

R.H.E.
Providence ......0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 4 0
Newark ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 6 0

Batteries—Jones and Diggins; Moriarity and Shea. Umpire—Shannon. Attendance—500.

National League Scores.

At St. Louis—

R.H.E.
St. Louis ....2 0 0 0 3 0 0 0 3—8 12 2
Cincinnati .... ..0 3 0 2 0 0 0 0 2—7 14 1

Batteries—Currie, Brown and O'Neill; Harper and Bergen. Umpire—Moran. Attendance—2300.

At Philadelphia—

R.H.E.
New York .....2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—2 6 3
Philadelphia ...1 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—3 11 2

Batteries—Taylor, McGinnity and Bowerman; Sparks and Roth. Umpire—Emslie. Attendance—1539.

At Boston—

R.H.E.
Boston ....3 1 0 0 0 0 0 1 •—5 9 2
Brooklyn ....0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 1—2 6 1

Batteries—Pittinger and Moran; Schmidt and Ritter. Umpire—Johnstone. Attendance—2117.

At Rochester—Toronto v. Rochester, postponed; wet grounds.

At Jersey City—Worcester v. Jersey City, game postponed; rain.

American League Results.

At Cleveland—

R.H.E.
Cleveland ....0 0 2 0 0 4 1 0 •—7 9 2
St. Louis ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 6 1

Batteries—Moore and Abbott; Evans and Sugden. Umpire—O'Loughlin. Attendance—3218.

At Washington—

R.H.E.
Washington .. ..1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1 7 2
Philadelphia .. ..0 0 1 1 0 0 0 1 0—3 9 6

Batteries—Dunkle and Kittredge; Plank and Powers. Umpires—Schreck and Patten. Attendance—1182.

At New York—Boston v. New York, postponed; rain.

An Open Verdict.

Stratford, July 23.—The inquest into the death of the late James Smith, found dead near his home at Edgecombe Corners, July 15, was held at Newton Tuesday. The jury brought in the following verdict: That James Smith came to his death from the effects of a wound on the head, but we are unable to determine in what manner said wound was received.

LEO'S BODY LIES IN STATE

At Sunrise People Will Be Admitted For Last Farewell.

Removal of the Body From the Throne Room to St. Peter's Was One of the Most Striking of All the Obsequies—Description of the Solemn and Impressive Scene—No Trace of Cancer Revealed by Autopsy.

Rome, July 23.—The body of Pope Leo XIII. lies in state in the Basilica of St. Peter's. Beginning to-day at sunrise, the people of Rome and those of all nations now in the Eternal City will be admitted to pay their last farewell. Opportunity for this solemn tribute will end Saturday.

Until 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the remains of the dead Pope lay in the throne room of the Vatican, where the leaders of the diplomatic, clerical and civil world were allowed to pass the bier. The ceremonial last night when the body was conveyed from the throne room to St. Peter's was one of the most striking of all the obsequies. During the day the congregation of cardinals met and decided to hold the conclave under the regulations which obtained at the conclave which elected Leo.

No Sign of Cancer.

Dr. Lapponi in the course of the day presented to Cardinal Oreglia, a report of the autopsy which was held, which showed that there was no sign of cancer in the Pope's body. Some hours before sundown St. Peter's was cleared of idle crowds. The massive doors were closed and the throng of sightseers was pushed back to the foot of the great flight of circular stone steps.

Half a hundred carpenters hastily constructed a stout fence five feet high to resist the encroachments of the crowds which are expected during to-day and the two following days.

At 8 o'clock last evening all was in readiness to take the body of the Pope from the Vatican to the Basilica of St. Peter's. The mournful procession gathered around the bier, which was gently lifted by the sediari. The dead Pontiff was clad in all the pomp of his holy office. About him had been placed the sacerdotal robes used only when he celebrated a grand mass.

The Procession.

Leading the procession as it passed out of the throne room came the grooms carrying lighted torches. Behind them were the aged mace bearers and other domestics of the Papal household. The picket of the noble guard and all the clergy of the Vatican followed. Immediately in front of the bier the Pontifical silver cross was held aloft. Behind the bier came the three nephews of the late Pope. The air was heavy with incense from the censors swinging constantly beside the body. The Franciscan penitentiaries still kept up the unceasing refrain of intercession. At the Hall of Palafreniere the cortege came to a standstill. There the cardinals who had been waiting in the hall of the consistory, took their places immediately behind the nephews. After the cardinals came the whole diplomatic body accredited to the Vatican and the representatives of the Knights of Malta.

Recited Prayers and Psalms.

The Knights of Malta were followed by various household officials and guards. Led by the cardinals, the prelates and clergy recited prayers and psalms for the dead as they slowly entered the Sistine Chapel, where the chapter and clergy of St. Peter's awaited the procession. The latter formally received the body. From the Sistine Chapel the procession descended the private staircase, still chanting, into the Basilica. The moment the flaring torches which still led the cortege entered St. Peter's, the choir, which was waiting there, commenced to sing in sorrowful cadence, "Libera Me Domine." Monsignor Carcani, the canon of St. Peter's, solemnly sprinkled holy water over Leo's body and pronounced absolution. As it was borne across the threshold the cathedral choir, still singing, took the lead of the now lengthy procession.

In the Chapelle Ardent.

The body was borne down the nave to the chapel of the sacrament. There the candles burned brightly. In the Chapelle Ardente, the body was reverently stretched behind the iron gates and two members of the noble guard took up positions on either side of the bier. The procession then re-formed and returned to the Vatican. The body of the dead Pope lies on the high catafalque with his slippered feet protruding through the gates to be kissed by the faithful when they will be admitted to the chapel to-day and the two following days.

Serious Hitch.

While the remains of the Pope were being carried into St. Peter's last evening the private ceremony of depositing the urn containing his viscera in the church of Saint Vincent and Anastasius took place.

A curious hitch occurred when the solemn procession arrived at the door of the special depository in the crypt. It was stopped, as the key was not to be found. The attendants hunted high and low, and finally were obliged to break down the door. The depository had not been opened sinch 1846.

To be overpolite is to be rude.—Japanese Proverb.

CANADIANS AT BISLEY.

Did Some Good Shooting Wednesday and Some Not So Good.

Bisley, July 23.—The Canadians did some very good shooting yesterday and some that was nothing to boast of. At the 500 yards range the scores of the Canadians were a good average. Vroom, Spearing, Peddie and McGregor each made 34 out of a possible 35, but other competitors made 25 possibles, and 40 thirty-fours, which leaves the Canadians nowhere, so to speak, at the present stage. In the first range there were also 28 possibles and 123 thirty-fours.

Private Gray of the London-Scottish volunteers won the bronze medal with a score of 103.

In the All-Comers' aggregate Russell wins £2, he being 61st; Stuart, seventy-second, also won £2. In the "Range Prizes" competition (King's), the 16th man was Skedden, who accordingly wins £1.

In the "Scurry" (King's at 500 yards), open to all comers, five shots each, J. D. Stuart scored a possible, making five perfect bulls. He was tenth and won £1.

WHISTLER LAID TO REST.

Simple Funeral in the Old Church at Chiswick.

London, July 23.—The body of James McNeill Whistler, the American artist who died July 17, was interred yesterday morning in the family burial plot in the old church at Chiswick. The funeral services were held at Chelsea, in the old church where he often went with his mother when she was alive. There were no services at the house. The coffin, which was covered with a purple pall, was carried to the church, followed by the honorary pall bearers and relatives on foot. The pall bearers were Sir James Guthrie, president of the Royal Scottish Academy; Charles Freer, George W. Vanderbilt, Edwin A. Abbey, John Lavery of the Royal Scottish Academy, and Theodore Duret.

Bishop Clute Dead.

Winnipeg, July 23.—The death is announced from Edmonton of Bishop Clute of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Athabasca at Lesser Slave Lake, two weeks ago. He was 91 years old, and retired from active work some years ago.

The Right Reverend Isidore Clute was born at St. Rambert, Valence, France, on Feb. 2, 1812. Joining the Oblat Order, he came to Canada and was ordained to the priesthood in 1887. He was soon afterwards sent as a missionary to the Mackenzie River district. He was appointed Bishop of Arindel in partibus in 1867, and has since been coadjutor to the late Bishop Farand and the late Bishop Groard.

Richardson Committed For Trial.

Windsor, July 23.—The preliminary hearing in the case of Oliver Richardson of Colchester Township, charged with the murder of Edmund Matthews, colored, was held before Magistrate Bartlet. The courtroom was crowded with a curious throng, who listened to a repetition of the testimony introduced at the coroner's inquest. The only witnesses examined were Dr. McKenzie and Joe Matthews, son of the dead man. Richardson was committed for crial at the High Court in Sandwich in September.

Six Were Drowned.

Eastbourne, Eng., July 23.—The steamer Biddleham Castle, Captain Lloyd, Antwerp for Galveston, Tex., ran down the Swedish brigantine Svithlod early yesterday, thirteen miles southeast of Owners' Lightship. Six of the Svithiod's crew were drowned and three landed here.

How Iron-ox Tablets Completely Cured Jas. Huston of 20 Years' Serious Trouble.

January 27, 1903.

I cannot express in words the praise that is due to Iron-ox Tablets, which I got as a trial package from our druggist, Mr. McDonald, who told me they were just what I wanted. I took them more for fun, but before I had finished one box I got great relief. I was subject to great misery after meals, with bloating, and would rift up bile of the bitterest taste, and always woke up in the morning in the same way for the last twenty years. Had tried all medicines, but now I am completely cured, and it was by taking Iron-ox Tablets. Words cannot express my gratitude to you.

JAS. HUSTON,
Victoria Hotel, Virden,
Manitoba.

Fifty Iron-ox Tablets, in an attractive aluminum pocket case, 25 cents at druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price. The Iron-ox Remedy Co., Limited, Walkerville, Ont.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

When children are weak, sickly, don't eat or sleep well, Angier's Petroleum Emulsion after meals and at bedtime makes them strong, healthy and robust. Made of Petroleum, rendered tasteless and odorless, and combined with glycerine and hypophosphites. Pleasant to take, and agrees with the stomach.

Died in Kingston.

Kingston, July 23.—Prof. Foreshaw Day, R.C.A., died yesterday, aged 71 years. He was the free-hand drawing and painting professor at the Royal Military College for eighteen years. He was a Mason, an Anglican Workman and Forester, and is survived by a widow, a Halifax lady.

Santo Domingo Quiet.

San Domingo, Republic of Santo Domingo, July 23.—Congress has proclaimed the election of Gen. Wos y Gil as President of Santo Domingo, and Gen. Deschamps as Vice-President. The President will take the oath at a near date. The country is quiet and business is improving.

Run Down by a Train.

Ottawa, July 23.—The body of Albert Morgan, a tradesman, was found on the C.P.R. short line near Alfred, Ont., yesterday, badly mutilated. He had evidently been run down by a express. His home was in London, Eng., but he spent considerable time in Ottawa.

Crushed by Timbers.

Saskatoon, N. W. T., July 23.—Hugh McIntyre, foreman of the bridge gang of the Canadian Northern Railway, was accidentally crushed and instantly killed by the falling of some timbers in a scow which he was building. His family live at Ailsa Craig, Ont.

Drowned in Sand Lake.

Elgin, July 23.—At Sand Lake, near here, yesterday, a young man named Cecil Halladay went in bathing and suddenly sank out of sight within a few feet of his father and brother, who were unable to render him any assistance.

Cholera at Amoy.

Washington, July 23. — United States Consul General Johnson, at Amoy, has cabled the State Department that cholera has broken out in that port.

Education Bill Passes.

London, July 23.—The House of Commons yesterday, by 228 to 118 votes, passed the third reading of the London Education Bill.

Typhoid in Clams.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 23.—Mrs. W. H. Kidd, wife of the pastor of the First M. E. Church; Mrs. Robert Lauder, a daughter of the late Dr. Joseph Pullman, and Mrs. Ritch, are seriously ill of typhoid fever as the result of eating uncooked clams. With twelve other women they partook of a shore dinner at a local resort. All ate plentifully of the clams and that night every one of them became ill. Nine contracted typhoid, but, with the exception of the three mentioned, the attack was not severe.

President of Grand Trunk.

Montreal, July 23.—It is expected that Charles M. Hays, now general manager and second vice-president of the Grand Trunk Railway, will become president of the new Grand Trunk Railway Company. Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, the president of the G.T.R., is said to approve of the selection of Mr. Hays, and with the concurrence of the Federal Government and the interested London financiers, it is altogether likely that the gentleman will obtain the coveted honor.

Thousands Go to Hear Campbell.

Toronto, July 23. — Bond street Congregational Church, even in the palmiest days of Dr. Wild, never knew such an eager, pressing mass of people as gathered last night to listen to the great apostle of the English Noncomformists, Rev. R. J. Campbell of the City Temple, London, England. At 6.30 o'clock, a crowd was clamoring at the church doors, and an hour before the service began every seat in the edifice was occupied, and thousands of late comers were turned away.

To Principal Gordon.

Halifax, N.S., July 23.—At the closing session of the Nova Scotia Sunday School Teachers' convention here last night Rev. Dr. Gordon, principal of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., was presented with an address and a handsome gold watch and chain, suitably inscribed. The presentation was made on behalf of the citizens of Halifax.

Cripple Takes His Life.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 23.—Weary of life, Fred Podivin of Gravenhurst, Ont., ended it Tuesday night by swallowing laudanum. Podivin was a cripple, having lost both legs in an accident. He eked out a precarious livelihood here for several weeks selling lead pencils.

Where the Ghost Walks Not.

Constantinople, July 23.—The emptiness of the Turkish treasury is shown by the fact that the Finance Minister has for several weeks been unsuccessfully endeavoring to pay a month's salary to the State officials, who have only received one month's pay since March.

Your money back if Gin Pills do not cure.

Each Pill Contains

all the medicinal qualities of one and one-half ounces of the best Holland Gin. As a positive cure for all kinds of Kidney trouble.

GIN PILLS

stand unrivalled. It is not necessary to wait for days for beneficial results, you know at once that Gin Pills are helping you. Sold by all Druggists at 50 cts. per box, 6 boxes for $2.50 or direct from

THE BOLE DRUG CO., - - WINNIPEG, Man.

30 Retail Stores DAVIES 30 Retail Stores

MEAT PRICES THAT WILL MEET YOUR APPROVAL

EXTRA SPECIALS

—FOR—

SATURDAY

Will appear in this space, Friday and Saturday's papers.

Telephone or mail orders promptly attended to.

Phone. 286, Daily Deliveries.

The WM. DAVIES CO., Limited.

SPECIAL OFFER

MIDSUMMER CLUBBING RATES.

Two Papers to January 1st, 1904

Family Herald & Weekly Star, and the Best Home Paper—The Weekly Intelligencer, BOTH for

65 CENTS

We are making this special offer as we require 1000 new subscriptions to our Weekly.

This offer is good to new subscribers only.

ADDRESS——

The Weekly Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONT.

No agents handle this offer.

SUNSHINE FURNACE
COMMON FURNACE

Sunshine Furnace

extracts all the heat from the fuel and distributes it through the house—only the smoke goes up the chimney.

And it hasn't got that enormous appetite for coal, so common in the ordinary furnace.

Simple to operate, easily cleaned and will last longer than any other Canadian heater.

Burns coal, coke or wood.

Booklet free.

Sold by all enterprising dealers.

McClary's

LONDON, TORONTO, MONTREAL, WINNIPEG, VANCOUVER, ST. JOHN, N. B

The W. W. CHOWN CO., Limited,

SOLE AGENTS.

Bank of Montreal

ESTABLISHED 1817.

Capital and Rest, All Paid Up

$23,000,000

(Twenty-three Millions)

Savings Bank Department

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A. G. PARKER,

Manager Belleville Branch

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines, or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

CAMP COMFORTS

Mosquito-Scat for Mosquitos, etc., 15c a bottle.

Witch Hazel Cream for Sunburn, etc , 25c a bottle

Bathing Caps for ladies, 50c.

WATERS'

Trade intel[illegible] [illegible]igently by keeping informed. [illegible] read our "Guide to Investors" a[illegible] "Daily Market Letter." Both [illegible] avenues to money making m[illegible] mailed free.

HAIGHT & FREESE CO.

Stocks, Bonds, Grain, Cotton.

7 Melinda St., Toronto, Ont.

"Determining the character and financial responsibility of your Broker, is as important as selection of right stocks."

Daily Intelligencer.

"ABUSE OF PUBLIC PATRONAGE!"

Under this heading the "Ontario Reformer," a Liberal journal published in Oshawa, Ontario, falls foul of the "abuse of public patronage," as practised by the present Government, particularly by Sir William Mulock in the Post Office Department. The Reformer, in editorially commenting upon the appointment of a Postmaster for that town, says:

> "Under our system of Government probably there is no more vexing and perplexing subject to deal with than a judicious disposal of the public patronage, and yet there was a time when it was not nearly as much so as it is just now, for the simple reason that men of fitness in mental and moral make-up—of unquestioned probity and steadfast character in the public eye and estimation—were chosen for places of preferment, which merit marked respectability."
>
> "But nowadays these qualities are not in so great demand, nor do they seem to be highly valued. It is often affirmed, and not without a fair share of provocation, that the man who can encounter and accomplish a 'shady' transaction and, for a time be able to avoid detection, is more frequently preferred for party distinction than he should be.
>
> "Now, just so long as this sort of thing is possible it may be expected to continue and increase, and at the cost of public morality, to say nothing of political purity, until we haven't a semblance of either commodity left.
>
> "The Gamey case fairly illustrates our contention, and should afford food for serious reflection and future warning, because, as stated by our confrere, the Pickering News, 'the political corruption of the past few years has raised such a stench that the country would welcome any means that would purify the political atmosphere as we find it to-day.'"

Read this comment, substitute Belleville for Oshawa, and a truer description of Post Office manipulation could not be penned. There are others equally bad, and worse.

TIMELY TOPICS

People who go to picnics in future should take warning by that family whose house was broken into yesterday, and leave a watch on the premises, if possible.

* * *

It must be nice to go on a moonlight excursion, and then be left by the boat about twenty miles from home. The average citizen, too, hates to swim in the dark.

* * *

Congratulations to our friends the Grand Trunkers on their successful picnic. They seem to keep up their reputation for being adepts at that kind of thing.

* * *

But then, as any of them will tell you, a railwayman's life is one continual picnic, so they have experience to burn.

* * *

The story comes from London that Bourke Cockran has been asked to assist the free traders of Great Britain in their fight against Chamberlain's proposals. The story is hard to believe. Surely the Cobdenites can secure more worthy allies than that blatant pro-Boer and Fenian. If not, their cause must be weak, indeed.

* * *

The biggest "frost" Toronto has seen in some time was the much-advertised and poorly attended "Old Boys' Reunion." There may be a lesson in this for other places.

* * *

THE REPORTER KNEW.

(Retail Merchants' Journal.)

"Why?" asks the captious editor of the new reporter, "why do you say is your story of the banquet that the 'table groaned'?"

"Because," explains the new reporter, "because it had to stand for all the after-dinner stories."

* * *

The Retail Merchants' Journal of Canada says: Merchants in small towns are constantly complaining of a lack of opportuntiy, yet it is in just such localities that the greatest opportunities in the world to make "hits" are found. Take a town of five thousand inhabitants, where a little daily newspaper regularly serves the population with the latest local news, and then suppose some enterprising dry goods dealer there should suddenly commence to advertise in metropolitan style, using metropolitan space and metropolitan advertisements. Why, it would create a mild sensation among the citizens of the place. His store would be visited by hundreds who had never before patronized him, and if he persevered, he would have a monopoly on the dry goods trade of that vicinity. The trouble is, however, that if this were suggested to some business men, they would shake their heads and say, "But it would cost too much."

Sour Drops

20c a pound.

Lemon Drops.
Lime Fruit Drops.
Acid Drops.
Orange Drops.
Barley Sugar Drops.
Butter Scotch Drops.

Fresh made to-day.

J. ARTHUR MARSH.

* * *

The authorities of the Victoria Industrial School, Mimico, offer a reward of $10 each for the capture of three boys escaped from there. Doesn't that remind you of "slavery days?"

* * *

Perhaps the Oxford-Cambridge lacrosse tourists will want a game with Belleville when they hear how badly we were beaten yesterday. That ought to be a good thing for next Wednesday.

* * *

It seems that, in the Public Works Committee on Wednesday morning, Mr. Jeremiah Hurley, ex-M.P., was examined by Mr. Northrup concerning the Government appointments he held as census commissioner for East Hastings and as Dominion Fisheries Inspector for Eastern Ontario. Now, wasn't it dreadfully unkind of Mr. Northrup to ask such awkward questions as those? But we think the full report of that examination, which appears in another column, will make interesting reading, just the same.

* * *

There was a so-called touching scene at the Brighton race track on Monday. Just before the first race was called the announcement was made that Pope Leo was read. On receipt of the news the track bandmaster played "Nearer, My God to Thee." It was the first time this air had ever been played on a race track. Then the races went on.

* * *

If the wheat crop in Manitoba only turns out to be as good as the Tory crop the country will be safe.

* * *

Cap. Sullivan and his son Frank now sail in their own private yacht, which is not, though it ought to be, called "The Grafter's Pride."

* * *

Mrs. McBride, formerly Maud Gonne, hung a black flag outside her house when the King was in Dublin, threatening to scald anybody who pulled it down. Maud is a terror, sure!

* * *

PREMATURE BOASTING.

(Brockville Times.)

Our administration of justice in every province and territory is prompt and certain.—Toronto Globe.

What of the thieves, forgers and perjurers of the "machine?" The reverend editor of The Globe ought to give us a rest about "justice" in Ontario. There are too many political crooks out of jail in Ontario for any boasting upon this score.

Ellen Terry's Toe.

When Ellen Terry was a little girl about ten years old she played Puck in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and had to make her appearance through the stage floor on a trapdoor. The trapdoor was shut too soon, and one of the child's feet was caught. She screamed with pain, and Mrs. Charles Kean whispered to her: "Be a brave girl, Nellie. Finish your part, and you shall play Arthur in 'King John.'" The trapdoor by this time was opened, but the child's toe was broken. She, however, pluckily pulled herself together and finished her speech.

Two Sad Men.

First Fisherman—Why do you come to this lonely place to fish?

Second Fisherman (sadly)—Because I like solitude and silence. I am a widower. And you?

First Fisherman—Because I, too, like solitude and silence.

Second Fisherman—Ah, you also are a widower?

First Fisherman (more sadly)—Not yet.

As Rare as Curious.

"My dear," said Mrs. Jorgson, as she closed the book she had been reading, "do you know what is the most curious thing in the world?"

"Of course I do," replied the brutal half of the combination. "The most curious thing in the world is a woman that isn't curious."

Got Rid of Him Quickly.

"Well, I got rid of that life insurance agent in short order," savagely remarked Mr. Higgsworthy.

"You didn't insult him, did you?" asked his wife.

"Insult him? No! I gave him my application for a policy, blame him!"—Chicago Tribune.

She Knew It.

"The longer I live," sighed the sage, "and the more I learn the more firmly am I convinced that I know absolutely nothing!"

"I could have told you that twenty-five years ago," said his wife, "but I knew it would be of no use."—London Answers

HOW HE PADDED OUT HIS ACCOUNT.

Census Commissioner Hurley Made Additions to His Bill After He Got to Ottawa.

He Did This Because He Discovered Other Commissioners Were Doing Same Thing.

While Mr. Hurley Was Commissioner He Was Also Paid for Acting as Fishery Inspector.

Ottawa, July 22.—In the Public Accounts Committee this morning Mr. Monk moved for a summons for the attendance of Mr. Brierly, manager of the Montreal Herald, to be examined in connection with the payments made to that paper in public accounts and to produce the character stock books and transfers of stock.

Jeremiah Hurley, ex-M.P., census commissioner for East Hastings, was examined by Mr. Northrup. He received a salary from the Fisheries Department, in connection with the transfer of various matters from the Dominion to the province, commencing Feb. 1, 1901. He was employed at the same time as census commissioner. It took him three and a half days to give instructions to the enumerators at Smith's Falls. He sent in his detached account for expenses, but afterwards, on coming to Ottawa, made up a further bill, including charges for renting halls, $25. He could not, however, tell Mr. Northrup any hall he had so rented. After practically completing the census work, it was found he was not getting what he expected, and he put in additional charges, which were passed, to increase the bill. He also charged $10 for stationery, as well as $1.50 a day for the use of his horse for ten days, though his original bill of $105 and $37 was supposed to cover all expenses up to the close of the census work. These, he claimed, were afterthoughts. The $105 included frequent charges for horse hire. He had been employed 75 days up to the time he sent in his books, but in his declaration he made it 90 days and claimed he had done extra work to that extent. Enumerators' accounts for $3 expenses for attendance to receive instructions were produced, but, in fact, there was no such attendance, and the charge was put in and passed to increase the enumerators' bills. One enumerator charged three days' attendance for instructions, and then put in another charge for $5 for going to Belleville for instructions, the railway fare being $1.35. He had put in his own supplementary account ("imaginary items," Mr. Northrup called it) on coming to Ottawa and finding that was about the way other census commissioners had been getting extra allowances. His total account was $282.30, and he added $50 or so at Ottawa.

Mr. Northrup pointed out that while witness claimed to have worked 75 days, the items of his accounts showed he was actually at work only 49 days.

Mr. Barker called attention to the fact that during the time witness was employed as census commissioner he received $416 salary and $24.75 expenses as Fisheries Inspector, according to public accounts from January to June.

Mr. McKinnon took the witness and elicited he had been led to expect he would have received $4 a day as census commissioner, and he took the methods above elicited to even himself, and considered the extras only brought up the charges to a fair remuneration.

Worth Living For.

"There is one good thing about this hydrophobia scare."

"What is it?"

"We may yet live to see the dogless woman."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Must Be True.

"She isn't at all vain, although she has some cause to be."

"Huh! Why do you say that?"

"Because she told me so herself."—Philadelphia Press.

To Miss Crœsus.

You can love a suitor some in summer land;
He's convenient when you're longing to be fanned,
And in dreamy summer mating
What's a man's financial rating?
Who's to pause investigating stocks and land?

At golf you'll often lose your heart, methinks,
And raise an amatory sort of jinks,
But the needy swains who woo you
Will regret if they pursue you,
Will regret they ever knew you at the links.

In the city bank accounts are Hymen's bait;
In the city every million seeks its mate.
Love's regard for lucre varies
'Twixt the shore and links and Sherry's;
Love is stranded at the ferries, hapless fate!

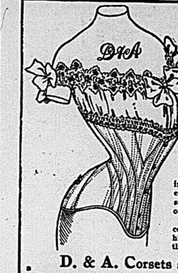
—Earle Hooker Eaton in New York Herald.

You Will Marvel

How you ever drank Japan tea after tasting

"SALADA"

Ceylon Natural Green tea. It has the same kind of flavor as Japan tea, but is much more delicious and is absolutely Pure. It is displacing Japan tea just as "SALADA" Black is displacing all other black teas. Sealed packets only. 25c and 40c per lb. By all grocers.



The New Long Hip Model

D&A

425 Long Hip

A graceful figure may be spoiled by a rigid Corset.

A poor figure may be made graceful by the proper Corset. D. & A. Corsets beautify, aid and correct according to individual needs, developing in each figure that indefinable personal grace that is the keynote of style.

The New Long Hip model comfortably encompasses the entire hip, showing no ridge or line even through an unlined skirt.

D. & A. Corsets are the BEST

WHAT "WHIRLERS" ARE.

And the Incident From Which It Is Said They Got Their Name.

"There was a dealer in haberdashery," said a college professor, "to whom a teamster once came and said, 'I want to get a pair of whirlers, sir.'

"'Whirlers?' said the haberdasher. 'What on earth are whirlers?'

"'Why, stockings with the feet cut out,' the teamster answered.

"'Oh!' said the haberdasher. 'Well, I haven't any whirlers, but I've got some very excellent stockings. Suppose I show you some.'

"'All right,' the teamster said.

"So the haberdasher exhibited the best stockings he had in his shop, and the other selected a fine pair, saying:

"'I suppose you don't mind making whirlers out of them for me?'

"'Not at all,' retorted the other, and with a pair of shears he cut the feet off the stockings.

"'Now,' said the teamster, 'how much are they?'

"'Fifty cents, the same as before, of course.'

"'Fifty cents? Why, I never paid more than 10 cents anywhere,' said the teamster, and he smiled meaningly and made as if to depart.

"'Hold on!' the haberdasher cried. 'Don't leave me in a lurch like this. The price of these stockings is 50 cents.'

"'They're whirlers, not stockings, now,' the other said.

"'Well, take them, then. You've done me. Take your whirlers,' said the haberdasher.

"And since that time," the professor concluded, "whirlers has been the name for stockings without feet."

A Cold Blooded Gambler.

The French court was at one time a hotbed of gambling. Louis XIV. would play for heavy stakes night after night, and many courtiers were ruined at his table. His successor, who lacked his predecessor's geniality and good nature, was an even greater devotee of the card table. The story is told that when this king was playing one evening a gentleman present was seized with apoplexy. "M. de Chauvelin is ill," one of the courtiers ventured to tell Louis. "Ill!" said the king, quite unmoved. "He is dead. Take him away. Spades are trumps, gentlemen."

Instincts That Lead to Death.

Professor Mivart proved that there are "instincts" that lead to death by failing to adapt themselves to a change of circumstances. Migratory quail by thousands perish in the deserts of northern Africa, where their ancestors used to find a comfortable winter resort, abounding with forests and even with grain fields, if we shall credit Pliny's account of the Numidian coast lands. The forests are gone, but myriads of quail still follow in the same route at the risk of starvation.

Piles To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & Co., Toronto.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

CHEAP TRIPS.

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay, Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

THE WEATHER.

To-day's Probs—

To-day and Friday, moderate winds, gradually becoming warmer.

To-day's Temperature

As Registered by The Intelligencer's Guaranteed Thermometer:

8 a.m.	68
12 m.	80
2 p.m.	84
3 p.m.	85

VALUABLE ADVICE TO RHEUMATICS.

Eat meat sparingly, and take very little sugar. Avoid damp feet, drink water abundantly, and always rely on Polson's Nerviline as an absolute reliever of rheumatic pains. Being five times stronger than other remedies, its power over pain is simply beyond belief. Buy a large 25 cent bottle to-day, test it, and see if this is not so. Polson's Nerviline always cures rheumatism.

At no resort can children derive more health and enjoyment than at the MAGI Caledonia Springs.

We Have the Sellers

Ladies' Sterling Silver French-Grey Hat-Pins. In these we show a variety of designs, all new, 35c to 75c.

Ladies' Sterling Silver Enamelled and French-Grey Belt-Pins. These are the very newest on the market and must be seen to be appreciated. Prices 75c to $3 50.

Ladies' Bead Guards These are immensely popular at present in the American cities, and are certainly an improvement to any summer dress. We show some beauties in the Roman-Filled Pearls, in both long guards and short necklaces, In the Corals the long guards are 75c to $1.50 and the short necklaces 50c and $1.00

Angus McFee.

Jeweler & Optician

310 Front St.

The Store with the Big Clock.

Seven hundred British subjects are yearly born at sea.

1,000 ISLANDS AND ROCHESTER.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian" leave Belleville for Thousand Islands at 3.25 a.m., daily except Mondays. Fare $1.00. Returning Str. leaves at 11.38 p.m. for Rochester, N.Y. m26d&w3m

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R.C.S., England.
Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. J. F. MATHER
Has removed his office to Pinnacle St., three doors north of Hotel Quinte.
my29-3mw

DENTAL.

Dr. Clarke has removed to the offices formerly occupied by the late Dr. Ward over Burrows', and opposite Scantlebury's Book Store.
a27dtf

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—2 Campbell Street.

MALCOLM WRIGHT. J. FRANKLIN WILLS.
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for the City of Belleville.
Office—Metropolitan Block, Corner Front and Campbell Streets.

PORTER & CARNEW,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices — Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 87.
E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Office, Bridge Street, Belleville.
Money to Loan — Private Funds. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, Etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent., on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire Insurance.
Guardian . . . Est'd 1821
The North America, Est'd 1792
Quebec, . . . Est'd 1818
City, Town and Village Property insure at lowest rates.
R. W. ADAMS. Agent.
Office opposite Post Office.

THOS. STEWART,
Insurance and Commission Agent.
Agent for the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Scottish Union National Insurance Co.
BRIDGE, ST.

FIRE, LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE
At Lowest Rates The Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Perth Mutual on farm and city property. Also money to loan at 4½ per cent. upwards.
JAMES A. CHISHOLM.
Office Ashley Block, - Front st., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned
can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at lower rate than other stock companies Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance.
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass.
Home Life Association, Toronto.
North British & Mercantile.
Farm and City Property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation, and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan & Investment Society. Money to Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, Office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., opposite Postoffice and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.
'Phone 168.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. G. NORTHROP,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Shire Hall, Belleville, Ont.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the Post Office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St. Appointments made.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

A man is generally at his heaviest in his fortieth year.

Our Mid=Summer Sale

Our entire stock of FANCY GOODS,

Including China (cups and saucers, Vases, Dishes, etc., etc.), Brass Goods, Candles, Silk Shades, Brushes (both hat and hair), Mirrors, Candlebras, Dickens and Art Pottery Ware, all 40 per cent. off regular prices.

Wrist Bags AND Chatelaines

Latest New York designs in walrus, seal and other leathers, from 35c to $7.00 each, all

25 per cent. off regular price.

Framed Pictures

Entire stock of our Art Gallery, comprising Steel Engravings, Platimums, Prints, etc., beautifully framed. Prices from 50c to $25, all

30 per cent. off regular prices

Wall Paper

Special prices on all Wall Papers and free bordering—2 yards with each double roll,

Paper Hanging and Painting—the largest and most efficient staff of workmen.

C. B. Scantlebury

Belleville's Decorator.

Wall Paper Wholesale and Retail.

FAST MAIL SERVICE
Bay of Quinte Route
TO
ROCHESTER N. Y.
Strs. "North King" and "Caspian"
Taking Effect 27th June.
GOING DAILY (EXCEPT MONDAY)
Lv. Belleville .... 11.38 p. m.
Ar. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 6.43 a. m
RETURNING DAILY (Except Sunday)
Lv. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 8.30 p. m.
Ar. Belleville .... 3.25 a. m.
Baggage checked to all points. Connection with all railways.

$1.00 THOUSAND ISLANDS $1.00
AND RETURN.
Commencing 28th June. Steamer leaves Belleville at 3.25 a.m. daily except Monday for 1000 Islands, calling at Bay of Quinte ports, Kingston, Alexandria Bay and Gananoque. Passing through American and Canadian channels.
Right reserved to change time with or without notice.
Full information from
THE RATHBUN CO., U. E. THOMPSON, } Agents.
E. E. HORSEY, G. P. & F. Agent, Kingston.

Str. "Alexandria"
Montreal, Rochester & Quebec Transit Co'y.
Popular Quebec Excursions NOW ON.
Belleville to Quebec and return .. $18 00
Belleville to Montreal and return $12.00
(including meals and berth)
Steamer runs all rapids.
For Rochester, Olcott Beach, Niagara Falls and Buffalo every Saturday at 11 a.m.
Particulars from
A. W. HEPBURN, General Manager, Picton, Ont.
THE RATHBUN CO. Agents, Belleville.

The Deseronto Navigation Co
TIME TABLE
Taking effect April 13, 1903.
Belleville, Trenton, Picton & Napanee
Str. "ELLA ROSS"
Leaves Belleville for Trenton at 10 a. m., daily, Sundays Excepted, returning leaves Trenton at 1 p. m., leaving Belleville at 3 p.m. for Deseronto, Napanee and Picton.
Quick and Superior Service to NEW YORK CITY
Steamers RESOLUTE and RELIANCE will leave Deseronto for Oswego after arrival of Str. Ella Ross connecting at Oswego with the New York, Ontario Western Ry.
Fare to New York, Single, $8.40
Return, $13.25
For further particulars apply to THE RATHBUN CO., Local Agents
I. F. CHAPMAN, Asst. Gen. Frt. Pass. Agt., Deseronto
E. C. Carter, General Manager, Deseronto.

Steamer Armenia Saturday afternoon excursion to Napanee, July 25th, at 2.30 p.m. Will be home at 9.30 p.m. Adults 35c, children 15c. Thos. Stewart, Agent, Bridge St.

Curse —OF— DRINK
CURED BY
COLONIAL REMEDY
No taste. No Odor. Can be given in a glass of water, tea, or coffee, without patient's knowledge.
Colonial Remedy will cure or destroy the diseased appetite for alcoholic stimulants, whether the patient is a confirmed inebriate, "tippler," social drinker or drunkard. Impossible for anyone to have an appetite for alcoholic liquors after using Colonial Remedy.
Indorsed by Members of the W.C.T.U.
Mrs. Moore, Superintendent of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Ventura, Cal., writes: "I have tested Colonial Remedy on very obstinate drunkards, and the cures have been many. In many cases the Remedy was given secretly. I cheerfully recommend and endorse Colonial Remedy. Members of our Union are delighted to find a practical and economical treatment to aid us in our temperance work."
Sold by druggists everywhere and by mail.
Price $1. Trial package free by writing or calling on Mrs. M. A. Cowan (for years member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union), 2204 St. Catherine St., Montreal.
Sold in Belleville by F. Chas. Clarke Front St and D. M. Waters, Bridge St.

The Best of all
FLY Killers is Wilson's Fly Pads
Sold Everywhere.
10 CENTS

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

KEEP YOUR EYES OPEN and be sure that when you ask for Perry Davis' Painkiller you get just that and nothing else. Use it promptly to cure cramps, diarrhoea and all other bowel complaints in summer.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

which you took this roll. If, on the door of the vault, you see marked the sign of a cross in each of the four corners, you can open the roll, and learn the contents. Unless you find this sign, you must not open the roll till five years have elapsed, when all prohibition will cease. You are not to open the vault under any circumstances till you are acquainted with the contents of the roll. When you open the vault, if the inner door is locked, and the key not in it, you will have it broken open. Do you understand all this clearly?"

"I do, aunt; but it seems very strange and mysterious."

"For your full guidance, I have written all I have told you in the unsealed paper that is in the box. If you forget anything, refer to that to refresh your memory. I desire that every instruction I have given you be implicitly followed. I can trust you to do so. All that seems strange will be one day made clear. Soon I hope the mystery and shadow that have rested over Rolff House will be lifted. Wealth and happiness, I trust, will then be yours. One thing more you must promise me, Claude—never to sell or resign your interest in Rolff House. Do you promise!"

The words were uttered in still fainter, but very solemn tones.

The young man readily gave his promise.

"Sit by me yet a little while, my darling boy," she said in scarcely distinguishable tones.

She had closed her eyes. Claude remained seated in the solemn stillness of the room, while minute after minute slipped by. His aunt did not speak to him again. He waited patiently for her to bid him go. Still the moments slipped by, and no word or sign did he receive. At last he grew alarmed. He spoke to his aunt, but she did not answer. He rose up, and took her hand, but it was cold. He looked at her face, and saw it had the hue of death.

He was shocked and alarmed. He hastened from the room. He was free at last, and heir of Rolff House.

CHAPTER VII.

A fortnight had flown by. The days had been busy ones to Claude. He was tasting the first delightful draughts of perfect freedom of purpose and action. He had come into possession of his fortune. There were none to obstruct his plans—unless, indeed, Rosa's gentle warnings and admonitions could be called obstructions. His aunt was laid away in the burying-ground behind the old Dutch church. The first outburst of grief, not unmingled with remorse, was soon over; the sad offices to the dead were performed; and he was face to face with his new position as master of Rolff House. His naturally buoyant spirits soon rose to intoxication as he dwelt upon his plans and hopes for the future.

But soon Claude found that there were obstacles to be met, and unexpected difficulties to be overcome. His first disappointment came when he arrived at a knowledge of his aunt's will, and of the actual condition of her property, and it flashed upon him that he might be compelled to limit his grand expectations.

But Anthony Saybrook proved a ready comforter to him in this emergency. It was at his office that Claude first heard a copy of his aunt's will read and learned that he was not as rich as he had anticipated he would be.

"Ah, my dear young sir," the obsequious lawyer remarked, after Claude's expression of his disappointment, "this is not a matter for much regret. Why, you are heir of the finest property in this section, and, without a single cent in money, your fortune is a large one, and with judicious management can be made to yield you all the ready cash you can need."

"But I anticipated there was a large amount of money," replied Claude, with deep chagrin expressed in his countenance. "I am certain my aunt's revenues were large. She spent very little—in fact, as you know, was almost parsimonious. What can she have done with her money? It is a very strange thing."

"Strange, no doubt, my dear sir, and yet, perhaps, on consideration, we shall be able to see that it is not so surprising as it appears at first. We lawyers know well that heirs are commonly disappointed in the expected amounts of their fortunes. It is so easy to exaggerate any person's supposed wealth. Your aunt no doubt had large revenues. The business of the estate must necessarily have yielded considerable results. Still, business generally requires large outlays to conduct it, and your aunt was disposed to have her own way in managing her affairs, and, if I may be allowed to say so, it is probable that her business was not as well managed as it would have been if she had employed a trusty counsellor. I have lately had your aunt's confidence, as her lawyer and confidential adviser in drawing up her will, and she assured me that her revenues were barely enough to meet absolutely necessary expenses in taking care of all her large estate. This seems very natural to an experienced man of the world. Many of the wealthiest families of our land have nearly everything invested in their property, and it needs nearly all their revenues to keep up their estates."

This seemed reasonable if not very agreeable to Claude; but he thought of his aunt's dying charge to him, of the mysterious roll, and of the great stone vault in the south cellar, and he could not help connecting these things with the strange disappearance of his aunt's money. But of this he determined to say nothing to the lawyer. The latter, however, saw that something was on his mind, and endeavored to draw it out. Assuming his blandest manner, he said:

"The only way in which your aunt could have disposed of any surplus revenue would have been to have concealed it somewhere. In that case, she would naturally have left you some information on the subject. I am fully conversant with all her business, and know that there is no more money invested than is stated in the will. Did she have any communication with you in regard to her money?"

"She told me she had made a will, and that I was her heir," replied Claude, not without design of evading the question.

"If that is all, then it twould seem to settle the question," continued the legal gentleman, with an air that seemed to indicate that he was not entirely satisfied that it was all. "There is nothing left us then but to make the best of things as they are. Now, what are your wishes as to the first steps to be taken, my dear sir?"

"You spoke of my ability to raise money on the property?" queried Claude.

"Yes, certainly," was the reply. "It is a matter that might be managed. Money is always to be had on good real estate. If it is your desire, my dear young friend, to use a portion of your fortune in travel and enjoyment, as it is very natural you should wish to do, why, I may venture to say—in fact, I think I can assure you—that I can put you in a way to procure it. Now, what are your ideas—your plans—your expectations, as it were, as to the amount of money you would like to use?"

Thus incited, Claude went into a lengthy statement of his plans for a long residence in Europe, for the study of art. He found no cold listener in the sympathetic Mr. Saybrook. That golden-hearted individual seemed to catch some of the young man's enthusiasm, and averred that he was delighted that he had such a noble ambition, and gave it his warmest approval. Moreover, he proceeded to show him how, by simply signing certain legal papers, he could procure certain sums of money on the mills, the buildings, the lands and other property of the Rolff estate.

"How soon could I get this money?" asked Claude.

"Why, in a few days, perhaps—that is, I speak on the supposition that you expect my aid in the matter."

"Certainly, certainly," replied the young man. "And not to waste words, I authorize you to proceed to find out at once what amounts of money you can raise on my property, and how soon it can be procured."

"Then you contemplate as speedy a departure as possible to the old world?" blandly inquired the smiling lawyer.

"There is but one thing to detain me a single week," replied the young man, "and that is the matter of—of—money, I was about to say; but I think now of another matter; I don't know—really, I would like to get off as soon as possible, but I am afraid this matter will detain me beyond the time I wish."

"Isn't it something that can be arranged so as to be entrusted to a second party?" inquired the lawyer in a tone that insinuated that almost any matter could be entrusted to a second party—so long as that party was himself."

Claude reflected long and deeply. Finally, he said:

"This matter troubles me. My aunt advised me, if I needed counsel, that I should apply to you. Perhaps if I state the circumstances, you could resolve my doubts. I feel that I can trust you even with so important and mysterious a matter as this."

Mr. Saybrook looked so profoundly sympathetic, wise and trustworthy, that Claude was encouraged, and revealed to him the whole matter in regard to his aunt's dying request, the mysterious roll, and his charge to be at the old vault door in the south cellar on the first day of each new year.

"I think I can throw a little light on this obscure matter," smilingly replied the lawyer. "Your aunt, as you know, had many peculiar views and strange whims. Now I have no doubt that she suspected your natural desire to travel when you came into your fortune. Such a purpose would hardly suit her thrifty views. I can see in this instruction to visit the old cellar once a year a very nicely contrived plan to keep you from wandering far from Rolff House. Whatever else may be in the matter, this, I feel assured, is one object she had in view."

Claude colored. This view of the matter was so ingenious, and, he was fain to confess, so much like his aunt, that for a moment he was angered at what he had considered such a mysterious and important matter turning out to be only a petty trick to control his actions after he supposed himself to be free to fulfill his hopes and ambition. He reflected for some time, and the more he considered the more evident it became to him that this was part at least of the object of his aunt in her mysterious dying request. Finally, he spoke:

"What would you advise, Mr. Saybrook, in this dilemma? It seems a cruel and impossible thing for me to give up my plans of travel and art study. Yet this pledge I have given my aunt practically defeats my hopes for five years at least. I could not cross the ocean twice each year on such a mission as this. It would take half the time I desire to devote to my studies. Can you not afford me some escape from it?"

"Well, let us see—let us ree," replied the lawyer, in tones whose smooth, cool assurance seemed to carry absolute conviction with them. "Your aunt, I am fully assured, was not a proper advisor for a young man in all things. She had arrived at a great age, and her natural mental eccentricities had been increased, till, in some things, she might be considered non compus mentis. I do not allege she was insane; there are degrees of mental alienation; many are practically of unsound mind on some one single point while preserving their general mental balance. This I take to have been your aunt's condition. Her intense interest in you and desire to insure what she considered your happiness no doubt led her to this ingenious but eccentric plan to secure your residence most of the time at Rolff House. Now, in the first place, there is no moral obligation in a promise given under a state of deception or to an incompetent person. Secondly, it does not appear that there is any real necessity for the fulfillment of the promise literally—else, why should there be the possible delay of five years in the denouement? Thirdly, there is scarcely any action of an individual that cannot be legally and sufficiently performed by a duly accredited agent. In view of these points, I think I can properly advise you that it is not necessary for you to personally fulfill your promise to your aunt on her death-bed. Still, to provide against any possible contingency, it would be well for you to appoint some competent person to represent you in the matter, who each new year could go to the vault and fulfill the duty of mere observation you are called upon to perform, and, in case of the appearance of the signs, could speedily inform you of the matter. In this way, you could carry out your fond hopes, as well as practically fulfill your promise to the dead."

Claude might have been able to see the sophistry of this argument if he had not been so intensely bent on his darling objects of ambition. As it was, it seemed to him the perfection of clear reasoning and good advice. He resolved to follow it. He naturally chose the wily Mr. Saybrook to be his agent in the matter, and after further conversation on the subject of raising money, retired with the firm resolve soon to be on his way to the old world.

CHAPTER VIII.

A few more days sufficed to complete Claude's arrangements for his departure for Europe. He was anxious to be away. He had no difficulty in raising sufficient money for his purpose—or, rather, it was provided for him by the helpful Mr. Saybrook, his own part in the matter being the simple work of signing the necessary papers. The shrewd lawyer had managed to win his utmost confidence, and the reckless young man scarcely took the trouble to read the papers he was advised to sign. In only one thing did the lawyer find him firm, and that was in his positive refusal to allow Rolff House and the immediate estate to be in any way subject to mortgage or other incumbrance. In fact, one of his first objects had been to provide for the residence of Carl and Margaret in the old house, and their comfort and maintenance during his absence. All his other business affairs he left unreservedly in the hands of his lawyer.

The hardest task was to come. It was that of breaking to Rosa Bruyn his intention to leave home for a period of years. To be sure she knew that he had cherished such an intention previous to his aunt's death. But Claude was well aware it would be a sad parting both to himself and to the maiden he loved with a passionate fervor. He did not see her as often as usual, for his time was full of business demands, and, in truth, he was loth to break to her the news of his arrangements for departure. But the time came when he was under the necessity of announcing his plans.

Full of a feeling of sadness and doubt which he could not shake off, he started one afternoon for farmer Bruyn's home, distant only about half a mile from Rolff House. It was a lovely October day. On his way, he met Rosa, who had started to visit the village on some household shopping errand.

Near where they met, a by-path led to a noble old wood that extended in the rear of Rolff House, and thence to the village. Claude took the hand of Rosa under his arm, and led her unresistingly down the path toward the old wood. As soon as they had entered the wood, and were out of sight and hearing of any chance passers-by on the road, Claude paused, and seated himself on a moss-grown rock, while Rosa took her place beside him.

She was first to speak.

"I know why you have brought me here, Claude," she said. "I have seen it in your eyes for days past. Besides, although you have not spoken to me, rumor and gossip have. You are going to leave me. I know that nothing I can say will restrain you. I would not restrain you against your will. You will leave me; and I—I—shall be broken hearted."

The words were simply spoken, but they carried a world of silent suffering in their unaffected tones. Claude was deeply moved.

"But it will only be for a little while," he made haste to say. "A year or two or three, at most—why, darling, it will fly on wings of wind, and, almost before you are aware of it, I will be back to claim you as my bride. We are both young and in vigorous health—why should we indulge in despondent views of the future? It is no great matter to cross the ocean to the old world. Hundreds do it yearly, and the danger is not much greater as far as I am concerned than if I remained quietly at home."

"I know all that you would say, Claude," interrupted Rosa, "and perhaps I am as ready as you to indulge in bright anticipations of the future. Yet a weight has come upon my heart—I do not fear much for any danger to either of us—I scarce can say what I fear. A premonition seems to weigh upon me that we shall never meet again, or, if we do, it will be as strangers. You are going out into the great dazzling world from this quiet little village. I trust you, and yet I fear that absence will lessen your affection, while your free and sociable nature will lead you to form new attachments. For my-

(To be continued.)

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSIA CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.

Signed, JEAN VALCOURT,
Wotton, P.Q. General Merchant

The best way to get even is to forget.

FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

Much talk, many lies.

If you have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary disease have drifted into a consumptive's grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes: "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

It takes money to voice the opinion of a lawyer.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, and disordered stomach.

A long portage makes a heavy canoe.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

All trails are long to the lazy.

THEY DROVE PIMPLES AWAY.—A face covered with pimples is unsightly. It tells of internal irregularities which should long since have been corrected. The liver and the kidneys are not performing their functions in the healthy way they should, and these pimples are to let you know that the blood protests. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will drive them all away, and will leave the skin clear and clean. Try them, and there will be another witness to their excellence.

Coral is a talisman against thunder and evils by flood and field.

HAD LA GRIPPE.—Mr. A. Nickelson, farmer, Dutton, writes: "Last winter I had La Grippe and it left me with a severe pain in the small of my back and hip that used to catch me whenever I tried to climb a fence. This lasted for about two months, when I bought a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and used it both internally and externally, morning and evening, for three days, at the expiration of which time I was completely cured."

Many a man's self-conceit is due to his ignorance.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed 'Perfection.'

The average watch represents but 12 hours of human labor.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly subdues the pain and disease.

When one gets hopping mad his reason goes on a crutch.

Use the safe, pleasant, and effectual worm killer, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; nothing equals it. Procure a bottle and take it home.

The wildcat's teeth are close to its purr.

Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum of twenty-five cents.

SAVE MONEY By JOINING The MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB OF AMERICA
25 Cents pays for three months' membership. Each member receives the official club organ every month, including 6 pieces of high-class vocal and instrumental new music each month, 18 pieces in all; also a Certificate of Membership which gives the privilege of Club Room in New York City, and of buying literature, music or musical instruments of any description at wholesale prices, saving you from 20% to 60% on your purchases. Don't fail to join at once. You will get much more than your money's worth. MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB, Dept. , 150 Nassau St., N.Y.

645

RAINY WEATHER NEEDS.

What a lot of weather we are having, very hot, then rainy and cold. Whether the weater is clear or whether the weather is cloudy, the fact remains that we have waterprof coats in plenty, guaranteed to keep out the wet.

A Few Specials

We have just received a few specials that should be of interest to you. There are so many very low priced, useless coats on the market that these extra good ones at moderate prices will surely prove fast sellers. Two lines, one dark the other medium, pure rainproof, velvet collar, raglan pocket and cuffs, coats made to sell at $7.50. OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY $5.00.

A FEW BETTER

Then we have some extra good ones at $7, $8 and $10, coats that you would have to pay much more for in other stores. If you are thinking of a rainproof coat, come in and take a look around.

OAK HALL

Sole Agents for Sanford's Celebrated Clothing.

A Clean Sweep —Sale—

NOW ON. In Ladies' Patent Kid and Patent Colt Skin Shoes.

The balance of season's goods to be cleared before our Fall arrivals.

25 per cent. off the regular prices.

6 pairs Laced, French Heels, $5.00, now	$3.75
9 pairs Laced Style. $4.00, now	$3.00
11 pairs Laced Style, $3 50 now	$2.60
7 pairs Laced Style, $3.00, now	$2.25
6 pairs Patent Oxfords $3.00, now	$2.25
20 pairs Fine Kid Oxfords, $2.00, now	$1.50

Bell's, McPherson's and "Empress."

See our Display in North Window.

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES at Belleville, Napanee and Trenton

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

SECRETS OF THE BODY.

The Progress Science Has Made In Two Hundred Years.

A century ago the work of the modern surgeon would have been denounced by the theologians, who then ruled mankind, as audacious intrusions into the exclusive jurisdiction of God. Two centuries ago, or, at the furthest, three, the man of science who would take out the viscera of a man, cut out their disease and put them back would have been fortunate to escape the stake or the block. But the audacious invader of the secrets of the body, the beneficent healer who, with his vial or his knife, lessens the miseries of humanity, diminishes or destroys pain, prolongs life and smooths its pathway to the grave—this is now the man who appeals most strongly to his fellow beings. For him and his training the captains of industry are pouring out their millions, building him colleges and laboratories, endowing professorships, while the world at large hails him as a man of power and influence at a time when wealth is accumulating and when men are not decaying. More and more, very likely, we shall see the strong men of the college classes choosing medicine, although the time has not yet come for domination over the lawyer, who is now engaged in settling the direction and the form in which the captains of industry shall carry on their development of the world's wealth. The time seems to be coming, however, when the indefinite prolongation of human life and the destruction of the enemies of human health, a work which almost suggests the creative power, will be the task that will call for and will receive the service of the best training of our colleges and universities—that is, when the appeal of medicine and surgery will be addressed inevitably to the best in every college class, just as once the call came from the ministry and then from the bench and bar and senate house.

Rats and Their Food.

The capacity of rats for discovering fresh stores of food is astounding and often leads to those united migratory movements that periodically create alarm and are described as "plagues of rats." These great movements are undoubtedly initiated and "personally conducted" by old and experienced rats, the aldermen of the colony, at once a proof of highly developed intelligence and unselfishness. Rats in large centers of industry, if not present in commercial plague form, do a great deal of good as consumers of garbage that would otherwise become a perilous nuisance. It is also a popular delusion that a rat bite is unusually dangerous from this fact of sewer garbage eating. On the contrary, rats cut as clean as a new lancet.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Hockey seems to be Belleville's best hold.

• • •

Now those Peterboro papers will chuckle and insinuate that last winter's hockey defeats are wiped out.

• • •

However, if we did get licked we didn't find it necessary to throw any chunks of ice at the visitors.

• • •

And it may be remarked that, if people who sit on the fence and make disparaging remarks about the boys when they are losing would hand out a little encouragement and support once in a while there would soon be a different story to tell to that of yesterday.

• • •

It's the old story—Lobsters when they lose, cuckoos when they win, and the average citizen of Belleville will run ten miles if asked to contribute a nickel to the team's support.

HERE IS A POINTER. Because you haven't used Catarrhozone is the best reason why you should use it right away. It will cure the catarrh that makes your breath so heavy and your hearing so poor. Catarrhozone is a scientific cure for catarrh, bronchitis and asthma, recommended by doctors and druggists as a certain cure. Mr. Henry A. Taylor, the oldest druggist in Halifax, says: "Catarrhozone gives satisfaction wherever it goes. It is simple and convenient to use, and enjoys fully three times the sale of any other catarrh remedy sold in the city." Catarrhozone is guaranteed to cure, and if it fails you can have your money returned. Price $1.00 for two months' treatment. Small size 25c. Druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Drowned at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Man., July 23.—Arthur Atkin and Charles Smith met death by drowning here yesterday. Smith was seized with cramps, and Atkin fell from a boat in which he was rowing. Both were about 20 years old.

Death From Sunstroke.

London, July 23.—Malcolm Turnbull, a young farmer living near Delaware, while engaged in drawing hay Tuesday, received a sunstroke, from which he died in a short time. He was 26 years of age and unmarried.

Like Rats in a Trap.

Mahony City, Pa., July 23.—By the bursting through of a large body of water that was impounded in an abandoned section of Ellan Gowan Colliery, of the Reading Company last night, five miners, all foreigners, were drowned like rates in a trap.

Hon. Cassius Clay Dead.

Louisville, Ky., July 23.—A message from Richmond, Ky., says: Hon. Cassius M. Clay, the Sage of Whitehall, former United States Minister to Russia, and a widely known Kentuckian, died at his home at Whitehall last night.

Deserted Infant Found.

Toronto, July 23.—Shortly before midnight a deserted infant, apparently about 6 months old, was found on the doorstep of Mrs. J. Allan, 239 West Richmond street. The police were notified and it was taken to the Children's Shelter.

Rolland Is Dying.

Galt, July 23.—Ralph Rolland, the young man who rode into a tail race here Tuesday when returning from viewing the wreck on the Canadian Pacific tracks, is dying. He received internal injuries besides breaking an arm and a rib.

Liver Complaint and Biliousness

ACCOMPANIED BY STOMACH TROUBLES AND HEADACHE ARE CURED BY DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Pale, sallow, yellow skin tells of a torpid, sluggish liver and impurities in the blood which will be entirely removed by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. By acting directly on the liver and bowels this great medicine brings prompt and lasting cure for all derangements of these organs, cures indigestion and dyspepsia and removes the cause of headaches and biliousness. One pill a dose. Twenty-five cents a box at all dealers. Portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase on every box. 4

Leave to Appeal Granted.

Washington, July 23.—The Department of Justice has received a cablegram from Mr. MacMaster, Canadian counsel for the United States Government in the Greene-Gaynor case, who is now in London, stating that the application to the Privy Council of England, for leave to appeal from the decision of Justice Caron of Quebec, discharging the accused, has been granted.

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

THE MARKETS.

Grain Options at Chicago Are Easier—Cables Quote Higher Prices—Live Stock—The Latest Quotations.

Wednesday Evening, July 22.

Liverpool wheat and corn futures closed ½d higher to-day than yesterday.

At Chicago September wheat closed ¾c lower than yesterday, September corn ⅜c lower and September oats ⅛c higher.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London—Close—Wheat on passage, dull for white, firm for red. Parcels, No. 1 hard Manitoba, Aug., 31s 3d; No. 1 northern Manitoba, July and Aug., 30s 10½d; passage, 30s 9d; No. 2 red winter, passage, 27s 6d, parcel. Maize on passage, very inactive; spot, American mixed, 22s 3d. Flour, spot, Minn., 27s.

Paris—Close—Wheat, tone steady; July, 24f 90c; Sept. and Feb., 22f 15c. Flour, tone steady; July, 32f; Sept. and Feb., 29f 90c.

Antwerp—Wheat, spot steady; No. 2 R. W., 16½f.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

Following are the closing quotations at important wheat centres to-day:

	Cash.	July.	Sept.	Dec.
New York	....	....	80¼	80⅝
Chicago	....	....	75⅜	75⅞
Toledo	75½	75½	76½	77⅞
Duluth, No. 1 N.	84	84	76	74½

TORONTO ST. LAWRENCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, red, bush	$0 76 to	$0 77
Wheat, white, bush.	0 76	....
Wheat, spring, bush	0 70	0 72
Wheat, goose, bush.	0 70	....
Barley, bush, ...	0 44½	....
Beans, bush	1 30	1 50
Beans, hand-picked	1 75	....
Peas, bush	0 78½	....
Rye, bush	0 45	....
Oats, per bush.	0 36½	0 37½

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, July 22.—Close—Wheat, spot No. 1 northern spring, steady, 6s 5½d; No. 2 red, western winter, dull, 6s 2d; No. 1 Cal., dull, 7s 6½d; futures steady; July, nominal; Sept., 6s; Dec., 6s 2⅞d. Corn, spot easy, American mixed, 4s 4d; futures steady; July, nominal; Sept., 4s 4⅝d.

Tallow—Australian in London, dull, 29s 6d.

Hams, short cut, firm, 54s 6d. Bacon, short rib, steady, 53s 6d. Lard, prime western, easy, 37s. Tallow, prime city, steady, 22s 5d.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, July 22.—Butter—Steady; unchanged; receipts, 6555.

Cheese—Quiet; unchanged; receipts, 1905.

Eggs—Steady; unchanged; receipts, 708.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Firm—Small Supply at Montreal and Prices Rule Firm.

London, July 22.—Live cattle firm at 12c to 12¾c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 11c to 11½c per lb., refrigerator beef, 9¼c to 9½c per lb. Sheep, 10½c to 12½c.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, July 22.—There was an unusually small supply of live stock at the East End Abattoir this morning, but some 20 carloads were expected to reach the market before noon. The butchers were out strong, but very little buying was done during the early part of the day, and the prices ruled firm all round. Prime beeves sold at from 5c to 5¼c per lb., medium cattle at from 3½c to 4¾c per lb. and the common stock at from 2½c to 3¼c per lb. Calves sold at from $2 to $7 each, or from 3c to 5c per lb. Sheep sold at from $3 to a little over 3¾c per lb. Several good lots of lambs were sold at from $3.50 to $3.75 per head. Fat hogs sold at about 5¾c per lb., weighed off the cars.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, N.Y., July 22.—Cattle—steady; prime and shipping steers, $4.90 to $5.50; butchers' steers, $4.25 to $4.80; cows and heifers, $2.75 to $4.75; bulls, $3 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4.25. Veals, receipts, 80 head; steady, $5 to $6.25. Hogs, receipts, 1700 head; active; heavy and mixed, $6 to $6.05; yorkers, $6.25 to $6.35; pigs, $6.40 to $6.50; roughs, $5.10 to $5.25; stags, $4.25 to $4.50; dairies, $5.90. Sheep and lambs, receipts, 1200 head; sheep steady; lambs slow; lambs, $4.50 to $6.50; yearlings, $5.25 to $5.75; ewes, $3.75 to $4; sheep mixed, $2 to $4.50; wethers, $4.50 to $5.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, July 22.—Beeves—Receipts, 2400; market active; steers steady; bulls and cows steady to shade higher; steers, $5 to $5.65; tops, $5.75; oxen, $4.25; bulls, $3 to $4.25; export do., $4.40 to $4.60; cows, $1.70 to $4.10. Shipments to-day, 6501 quarters of beef. Calves, receipts, 2716 head; veals 50c to 75c higher; veals, $5 to $7.75; tops, $8; culls, $4 to $4.50; buttermilks, $2.50 to $3.60; western calves, $3.50; dressed calves higher; city dressed veals, 8c to 11c per lb.; country dressed, 6c to 10c. Sheep and lambs, receipts, 7100; sheep strong; lambs firm, closing 10c to 15c higher; about all sold; sheep, $3 to $4.50; lambs, $5 to $7; one car, $7.10. Hogs, receipts, 5069; market firm; heavy and medium hogs, $6 to $6.10; light do., $6.40.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, July 22.—Cattle—Receipts, 22,600, including 1600 Texans; market strong to 10c higher; good to prime steers, $5.20 to $5.60; poor to medium, $4.65 to $5.25; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.40; cows and heifers, $1.60 to $5; canners, $1.60 to $3; bulls, $2.50 to $4.50; calves, $3 to $6.40; Texas steers, $3.50 to $5.10.

Hogs—Receipts to-day, 22,000; estimated for to-morrow, 20,000; left over, 3000; mixed and butchers, $5.40 to $5.75; good to choice heavy, $5.65 to $5.75; rough, $5.25 to $5.60; light, $5.45 to $5.82½; bulk of sales $5.55 to $5.70.

Sheep—Receipts, 18,000; sheep, steady to 10c higher; lambs, opened steady and closed lower; good to choice wethers, $3.75 to $4; fair to choice mixed, $3 to $3.60; native lambs, $3.25 to $6.40.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Woodstock, July 22.—At the Woodstock Cheese Board here to-day 1835 colored and 1818 white cheese were offered; 9¼c to 9⅜c bid; 11 buyers.

Picton, July 22.—At our Cheese Board to-day 11 factories boarded 1150 boxes, all colored; highest bid 9 7-16c; 340 sold; buyer, Bailey.

Britain and Cunards.

Londan, July 23.—It is announced that the Government has completed the agreement with the Cunard Steamship Company, and that it will be shortly submitted to Parliament, and the shareholders. It is understood that the Government will pay considerably over $5,000,000 for the construction of two additional steamers, and that the whole fleet of vessels will be at the Government's disposal as cruisers. The agreement provides for an improved Atlantic mail service.

300 Miles in Open Boat.

London, July 23.—The whaler Vega, in which Nordenskjold accomplished the northeast passage, is reported by Lloyds to have been crushed in the ice and to have foundered in Melville Bay May 31. After a difficult journey of 300 miles in open boats and across the ice, the crew reached the nearest settlement and returned home.

Don Claims Another Victim.

Toronto, July 23.—The Don claimed another victim yesterday when six-year-old Eddie Lafontaine was drowned while playing with a young brother on a small scow just below the Gerrard street bridge. His father is a barber.

Goods We Have at Right Prices

- —Hammocks.
- —Fishing Tackle.
- —Tennis Goods.
- —Golf Goods.
- —Lacrosse Goods.
- —Base Ball Goods.
- —Screen Doors and Windows.
- —Fruit Jars.
- —Fruit Jar Rubbers.
- —Wall Paper.
- —Crystal Glass Vases.
- —Glass Ware.
- —Dinner Sets.
- —Toilet Sets.
- —Ladies' Hose.
- —Ladies' Vests.

Everything in smallwares.

AT THE BEE HIVE

Chas. N. Sulman

Future of Young Lawyers.

"Young lawyers no longer can create their own opportunities," said a supreme court justice. "All a young lawyer had to do a generation ago was to hang out his shingle and hustle and wait. If he was well equipped for the bar he had a good chance to succeed. About all a young man can do now after he is graduated from the law school is to get in the office of a law firm at a small salary and work up, and if he is successful about the highest goal he can expect to reach is the position of managing clerk, though there is a chance of his being taken into the firm after long years of service.

"The big law firms and lawyers that make a specialty of real estate law, marine law, civil law, criminal law, etc., have revolutionized practice. In the days of Webster and Choate a lawyer was prepared to handle any kind of a case that came up, but now practice is specialized.

"On this account a young lawyer starting alone has little chance of winning fame and fortune unless he is unusually well backed."

Arabian Delicacies.

In a recent Egyptian review may be found some curious extracts from Al Djahez, a celebrated scientist of the tenth century. Speaking of the favorite dishes of the Arabians of that epoch, he says that they considered the flesh of young dogs a great delicacy and also ate grasshoppers and scorpions with much relish. Moreover, they esteemed the flesh of black cats highly, since they maintained that any one who ate it could not be injured either by sorcery or by the evil eye.

Al Djahez also says that he was disappointed when he found that the Arabian tribes of Bassorah did not eat grasshoppers, but, on the other hand, was highly delighted to find his friend, the famous poet Roobah, feasting royally on roast rats and lizards. The Arabians, he says in conclusion, also ate serpents and horses, but took the utmost care only to serve at table horses which had been harnessed, as they did not consider it right to eat those which had been ridden.

Mice That Subsist on Scorpions.

Among the queer forms of animal life that inhabit Death valley is a mouse that has acquired such a taste for scorpions that they form its entire bill of fare. The scorpion carries its formidable armament in the end of its slender, elongated abdomen in the shape of an exceedingly venomous hooked sting. When disturbed it elevates this in the air and goes in search of its disturber. But it is comparatively slow in its motions, while mice are proverbial for their quickness the world over. The mouse learned many generations ago where the scorpion carries its weapon, and when he meets it he leaps at the uplifted abdomen, takes off the sting at a single bite and proceeds to make a meal of his helpless prey. It is supposed to be the only animal that relishes scorpions.

Winnipeg, July 23.—The homestead entries made in the Canadian Northwest for the year ending June 30, 1903, number 31,002, as compared with 14,289 for the year ending June 30, 1902.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

CHEAP TRIPS

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay; Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

U. E. THOMPSON, City Agent,
Bridge Street,
T. H. COPPIN, Depot Agent,
J. D. McDONALD,
Dist. Pass Agt., Toronto.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

"Imperial Limited."

Fast tri-weekly Transcontinental service between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. Connection leaves Toronto at 1.45 p.m., Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, making run Toronto to Vancouver in 97 hours.

Upper Lake Steamships

Leave Owen Sound Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 5.30 p.m., on arrival of S.S. Express leaving Toronto at 1.30 p.m. Connections at Fort William and Port Arthur for Winnipeg and Pacific Coast points.

Daily First-Class Service Toronto to Winnipeg, Calgary, Banff and Pacific Coast.

Fully Equipped Through Tourist Cars leave Toronto Tuesday and Saturday for Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Full particulars from your nearest Canadian Pacific Agent or to
A. H. NOTMAN,
Asst. Gen. Pass. Agent, TORONTO.
S. BURROWS, C.P.R. and General Ticket Agent, Front St., Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL & HUDSON RIVER R. R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.			After 1st May
Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)		12.22 p.m.	1.30 a.m
Arr. Kingston	"	1.47 p.m.	3.12 a.m
Lv. Kingston (stage)..		2.30 p.m.	5.00 a.m
Arr. CapeVincent (stage)		4.30 p.m.	7.00 a.m
Lv.Cape Vincent N.Y.C.		5.05 p.m.	7.25 a.m
Arr. Watertown	"	5.55 p.m.	8.25 a.m
Arr. Oswego	"	9.05 p.m.	11.55 a.m
Arr. Syracuse	"	9.25 p.m.	12.07 p.m
Arr. Rochester	"	1.05 a.m.	2.20 a.m
Arr. Utica	"	9.45 p.m.	12.35 p.m
Arr. New York	"	7.25 a.m.	6.00 p.m

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C. R. R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from F. A. Folger, N.Y.C. Agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent,
New York.
A. H. SMITH, Gen'l Supt.,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

Good Healthy Action is easy to have by taking this famous old remedy—To look well and keep well, use

Beecham's Pills.

Sold Everywhere. In boxes, 25 cents.

Shoes and Slippers

FOR SUMMER WEAR.

Ladies' Fine Low Shoes—ranging in price from 50c to	$3.75
Ladies' Fine Strap Slippers—prices from 75c to	$3.00
See our assortment of Children's Slippers, ranging in price from 25c to	$1.25

We carry a large stock of Trunks and Valises, Dress Suit Cases, Club Bags, Cabin Trunks, etc.

VERMILYEA & SON.

Sole Agents for the famous Queen Quality Shoe.

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY! 2 WEEKS

$5.00 Any Suit In This Great Clothing Store for $5.00

A STUPENDOUS CLOTHING OFFER WITHOUT PRECEDENT OR PARALLEL.

Some Suits $18, some $16, some $15, some $12, others $10. Just think of it! High grade, thoroughly tailored garments for Men, complete suits in fashionable fabrics, for

$5.00

This is just the opening gun in the great Mid-Summer Sale, in connection with this store. In every other department there will be equal sensational reductions. This Clothing Sale begins on July 11th and will end on July 25th. The earlier you come the better your choice as we anticipate a big rush.

The GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE.

Up-to-date Clothiers and Gents' Furnishiers, Look for the Globe Over The Door, 390 Front Street, Belleville.

Wall Paper

At first sight of our Wall Papers you will say there's an attractiveness about them that puts them lengths ahead of other lines.

IN STOCKING

we select only the best, we have no "shelf-warmers" all our Papers are quick sellers. If you choose your Papers from us you have best value for the price obtainable anywhere.

Painting, Paperhanging and Decorating done on shortest notice by best workmen in the city.

JOHN CORNELIUS.
3 Doors South of Intelligencer Office.

NEW GOODS

JAPAN TEA

The first of this season's crop, exta quality, regular 50c line, we quote

40c per lb.

Canned Halibut

Fine solid Fish, very tasty,

15c per can.

J. C. Hanley & Co.
GROCERS
Telephone 214

Flowers & Vegetables
Of all kinds in season
. . . AT . . .
J. D. COLLIP'S.
'Phone 205.

Western Beef.

Prime Western Beef together with all kinds of choice meats, supplied by the district, at

C. GREEN'S
267 Front St., 'Phone 109.

Hints on Housekeeping.

It is an unfortunate fact that there are many young ladies who start married life with little or no knowledge of the merest rudiments of housekeeping. As a rule, a young fellow selects his partner for life for any other quality except that of being a good housekeeper. She may be the girl who keeps step with him best in dancing; or she may have yellow hair, or a small foot, or bright blue eyes. It never seems to occur to a fellow in the business rush of courtship that you can't run a house exclusively on a superior complexion. I cannot imagine a more heartless freak of fate than for a poor fellow to suddenly realize that the girl he has brought home to help him through life can't housekeep worth threepence; and I feel, therefore, says the editor of "Pick-Me-Up," that it would be cruel in me to refrain from imparting a little useful information on the subject.

To begin housekeeping with anything like a prospect of success you must have a little money. Some people prefer to run up bills and wait for a county court summons. But it is best to have a little ready cash to start with, anyhow. Get all you can, because then you can spend the balance on bonnets and things. Some housekeepers make it a rule to keep accounts, and put down all the money they spend. But this is very silly, of course; and, besides, it never comes out right. In this matter the difficulty is not to see that two and two make four, but to explain how it is that two plus nothing invariably comes to six or seven. You may start keeping accounts for a day or two and may make up your mind to put down everything you buy, but when you go through your book at the end of the week and find that a pound of sugar, some candles and a packet of hairpins come to three pounds fifteen, you will recognize at once that this account business is a delusion and a snare.

Once a week, perhaps oftener, it will happen to you that your servant girl has a bad headache and can't get up to prepare breakfast. This will give you a chance of showing what you can do. If your husband is in an office, it is very likely that his employers will expect him to turn up punctually in the morning. I have heard of employers who do this.

Well, then, of course, he'll want some breakfast before he starts. Husbands are so very unreasonable. It will save some trouble if you get up and prepare his breakfast with your own fair hands; but, of course, if you are fond of excitement you can just tell him to get something at the railway station and have an early lunch to make up for it. It seems awfully unjust that he should furnish a nice house on purpose for you, and then expect to live there just as if he was in his own home. But they all do.

Once a year you will probably be expected to stage manage what is commonly known as a spring cleaning. Some wives who do their own housekeeping have been known to put on an old dress, tie a duster over their heads, and simply wallow in the work of rejuvenating the premises. But don't you do it. It's ever so much nicer to stand round and watch other people do the work; and it gives you more time to think of something else for them to do. There is nothing like turning the house upside down thoroughly when you once begin. Have a good splash while you've got the chance, so that when your husband comes home there won't be a room in the house he can sit in, and he'll have to take dinner in the hall or on the landing. This will impress him at once with a good opinion of your energy and industry.

If he has a little room of his own, go for it fiercely. Pitch all his books and papers in a corner, and move his pipes and tobacco jar into a safe place and forget where you've put them. They'll turn up after the spring cleaning is over all right; and then everything will be so nice that if he wants to smoke he'll have to do it in the garden or the coal cellar. You can't have that sort of thing in the house just after everything has been put straight. If you find after a while that there are mice in the house, it is a good plan to secure the services of a business-like cat. It's much better than standing on a chair with your skirts bunched up, making wild lunges at the floor with a fire-shovel, and screaming for mother. If you observe these few hints carefully you will become quite a good housekeeper in time. Don't mention it. I'm glad to have been of some service to you.

How Bret Harte Shocked His Proofreader.

In the newly published "Biography of Bret Harte" not the least interesting incident narrated is the revolt of the printer of the "Overland Monthly" against the appalling profanity of the editor in not merely accepting, but in contributing to its second number, this blasphemous story. Bret Harte, as the editor of the new magazine, feeling that it ought to have distinctively Californian features, sent the manuscript of "The Luck of Roaring Camp" to the printer. The printer, little suspecting how monstrous was the birth he was asked to assist, passed it on to his staff, who, mechanically, let us hope, set up the type. The proofreader, a young lady, was, therefore, the first, most unfortunately, to read, or to begin to read, the blasphemous production. When she had got over the first shock, she hurried to the printer, a church member, even a deacon, and complained to him of the outrage to which she had been subjected. He, hardly believing his ears, or even his eyes, hastened to the publisher, and laid before him the proofs he should have sent to the author and editor. Thus it happened that the editor was summoned to account to the printer for his misdeeds—a delightful Gilbertian inversion.

"The printer, instead of returning the proofs to the editor and author, submitted them to the publisher with the emphatic declaration that the matter thereof was so indecent, irreligious and improper that his proofreader—a young lady—had been with difficulty induced to continue its perusal, and that he, as a friend of the publisher and a well-wisher of the magazine, was impelled to present to him personally this shameless evidence of the manner in which the editor was imperilling the future of that enterprise."

But what, you ask, so horrified the young person? Why simply the scene where Kentuck, after reverently fondling the infant, said: "He wrastled with my finger, the d——d little cuss."

When she came to this appalling passage, the proofreader, like Francesca, "read no more that day." Dear old James Payn used to relate that in private letters to the editor of an American magazine to which he contributed, he used to send the current club stories, which were perhaps more shocking even than this extract from "The Luck of Roaring Camp;" it was not, however, till he had supplied regularly for seven years these club delicacies that his correspondent wrote at last to inform him that she was a lady! "I give you my word," added Payn, "I blush even now in bed when I think of her seven years' long-suffering!" But to return to the criticism of the prudish proofreader, who recalls Moliere's satire on "people whose ears are more chaste than all the rest of their bodies." Bret Harte's answer to it in his defence of his habit of holding up to admiration "a man of one virtue and a thousand crimes" is most effective. He wrote:

"The author has been repeatedly cautioned, kindly and unkindly, intelligently and unintelligently, against his alleged tendency to confuse recognized standards of morality by extenuating lives of recklessness, and often criminality, with a single solitary virtue. Of all the various forms in which cant presents itself to suffering humanity, he knows of none so outrageous, so illogical, so undemonstrable, so marvelously absurd as the cant of 'too much mercy.' When it shall be proven to him that communities are degraded and brought to guilt and crime, suffering or destitution, from a predominance of this quality; when he shall see pardoned ticket-of-leave men elbowing men of austere lives out of situation and position, and the repentant Magdalene supplanting the blameless virgin in society, then he will lay aside his pen and extend his hand to the new draconian discipline in fiction. But until then he will, without claiming to be a religious man or a moralist, but simply as an artist, reverently and humbly conform to the rules laid down by a Great Poet, who created the parable of 'The Prodigal Son' and 'The Good Samaritan'—whose works have lasted 1,800 years, and will remain when the present writer and his generation are forgotten."

The caller explained his mission.

"It's a worthy cause," he said.

"It is, indeed," admitted the up-to-date merchant. "You may put our firm down for five hundred dollars."

"Good!" exclaimed the caller. "It's to be done very quietly and unostentatiously, of course. The money will be given in a lump sum from 'a few friends,' without any names whatever."

"No one will know who gives?" asked the merchant.

"No one," answered the caller.

"No list published?"

"None."

"Cross the name of our firm off."—Chicago "Post."

CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY

CAPITAL

10,000 Shares 7 per cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, par value $100 each,	$1,000,000
50,000 Shares Common Stock, par value $100, issued and fully paid	5,000,000
TOTAL CAPITALIZATION	$6,000,000

Issues of $1,000,000.00 7 p.c. Preferred Stock in 10,000 Shares of $100 each at par.

This stock is preferred both as to Assets and Dividends.

The shares are entitled to cumulative preferred dividends from the net earnings of the Company, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable half yearly on the first days of April and October. They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at $115.00 per share, at any time after 1st January, 1909.

The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000.00, the whole of which is now offered.

Subscriptions for 10,000 Shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent. Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is $100 Share, as follows

per cent on application,
25 " " on allotment,
35 " " 30 days thereafter.
35 " " 60 days thereafter.

One share of Common, par value $100, given with each share of preferred.

The whole of instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of one per cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,000 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Novia Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1,000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4000 acres of iron ore deposit, located Natashquan (tidewater) situated on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Sagunay, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highet ever discovered, running from 69 per cent to 72 per cent in metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore has been received by the Company than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

Send for prospectus giving full information as to earnings, reports, etc., etc.

Address all communications and send subscriptions to

COLONIAL SECURITIES CO.,
62 Wall Street, New York City

OR

W. L. MARSTON & COMPANY
110 State Street, Boston

The SAWYER COMPANY.
351 Temple Building, Montreal, Canada.

THE Intelligencer

Bindery

MAKES A SPECIALTY OF

Leders,
Journals,
Cash Books,
And all descriptions of Blank
Account
Books

Mailing Tubes

Gold Lettering on Leather Goods, &c.

MAGAZINES,
ART WORKS,
PERIODICALS,
SERIAL NUMBERS

NEATLY BOUND

Map Mounting & Varnishing

☞Estimates cheerfully furnished for every class of work.

ADDRESS—
The Intelligencer
BELLEVILLE, ONT.

ADVERTISING RATES

Measurement Nonpareil—12 lines to th' inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.
Subsequent consecutive insertions, 5c.

Reading advertisements, 15c per l'ne.

Preferred position, 25 per cent. advance upon o' sual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriages and deaths, 50c each insertion. Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisement will be found in 1st column of 2nd page.

All advertsements are subject to th. approval of the Publisher of the Intelligencer.

Address all communications to the Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House Limited, or to Charles J. Bowell, Managing Director and Treasurer.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s Office, 30 Fleet Street, London, E. C.

CONDENSED ADVERTISEMENTS

SITUATIONS WANTED, HELP WANTED, LOST OR FOUND, FOR SALE OR TO RENT, &c

(Auction Sales not included in this list)

TERMS.—Twenty-five words or less, 25c first insertion; two insertions, 50c; four insertions, 75c; one week $1.00, two weeks, $1.75, three weeks, $2.25; one month, $2.50. Strictly cash in advance.

WANTED.

Strong, smart young man wanted for delivering and general work. Apply at once. CHAS. S. CLAPP, Confectioner. jy22dtf

Teacher wanted with 2nd class professional certificate. Salary $400 per annum. Apply to Dave Wootan, Wellman's Corners, Ont. d2t-w1t

$6.00 per month buys a $1,000 home. $9.00 per month buys a $1,500 home. $12.00 a month buys a $2,000 home. A postal will bring particulars. The Canadian Home Builders' Association, Manning Chambers, Toronto. j18-6t

100 machinery moulders and coremakers. Steady work. Wages for moulders at least $4.00: coremakers $3.25. Address Post Office Box 511, Toronto. jy9-d10t

Be independent. Employ yourself. Establish a business. Our goods are used everyday by everybody. Men make fortunes. Write G. Marshall & Co., London, Ont. 4

Agents wanted, $2.50 per day. Apply Cooper, London, Ont. s27-1y

Young men ambitious to learn lucrative trades, of which there are eight in connection with the business. Apply The Belleville Hardware Company, Belleville, Ont. a7dtf

The only authorized "Life of Pope Leo XIII." Written with the encouragement, approbation and blessing of His Holiness by Mgr. Bernard O'Reilly, D.D., LL.D., (Laval). This distinguished author was summoned to Rome and appointed by the Pope as his official biographer. The book is endorsed by Donato Sbarretti, Papal delegate for Canada, and is approved and recognized by all church authorities as the only official biography of the Pope. Over 800 pages, magnificently illustrated. Best commission to agents. Sell only the official life by Mgr. O'Reilly. Elegant outfit free. The John C. Winston Company, Toronto, Ont. j20-6td

WANTED Reliable Men in every locality throughout Canada to introduce our goods, tacking up show cards on trees, fences, along roads and all conspicuous places, also distributing small advertising matter. Commission or salary $60.00 per month and expenses, not to exceed $2.50 per day. Steady employment to good, honest reliable men. No experience needful. Write for full particulars. THE EMPIRE MEDICINE CO., London, Ont

TO-LET.

House furnished or unfurnished on George street. Apply to Mrs. May, 206 George Street. 4t

That new solid brick house on Yeomans street. Hard and soft water in kitchen. Good cellar, stable and garden. In perfect order. $6.—J. J. B. Flint. jy16dtf

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

Stone house, 11 rooms, coal furnace, stable, barn. Large grounds. Cor. Frank and Moira Sts. north. Terms reasonable. H. Bull, on premises or Fred Bull, 133 Yonge St., Toronto. Terms easy. ap18-dtf

FOR SALE.

A good rebuilt typewriter, guaranteed. Price $50. Apply at this office. j20-6t

Shingles, shingles, dressed lumber, etc. GEO. WALTON & CO. jy14-1md

Dressed and Matched Lumber of all kinds, at ALFORD'S factory, Market Square. j12-tf

Contractors and masons, any any person requiring lime may procure it from E. G. STAPLEY, Canifton Road, Belleville. New lime always on hand. a9-d&w6m

TO RENT

A house on Moira street containing 8 rooms. All modern conveniences. Possession on or before 20th July.—Adam Henry.. dtf

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

When a storm is approaching, glow-worms are far more brilliant than at other times.

Month after Month a cold sticks, and seems to tear holes in your throat. Are you aware that even a stubborn and long-neglected cold is cured with Allen's Lung Balsam? Cough and worry no longer. 4

BRUTES GIVEN TO DRINK.

Many Animals Become Intoxicated on Nature's Beverages.

Although it has often been said when speaking of drunkenness that even the beasts of the field do not get drunk it is nevertheless a fact that a great many animals do get intoxicated. Take the elephant, for instance. He is particularly fond of the fruit of the unganu tree, and although he appears to have some idea that it is not good for him he will go on eating when he has once begun until he is wildly excited and so intoxicated that he will stagger from side to side. Every now and then he will pull himself up, shake his huge head and tear madly through the forest, trumpeting at the top of his voice and terrifying every living creature. It is said that he will even dare and defy his most dreaded enemy, the tiger, when in this condition, but we have no means of verifying this. It is well known, however, that an elephant is in a most dangerous condition when suffering from the effects of eating this beautiful fruit, and all who can take care to keep out of his way as much as possible.

The sloth bear is another animal given to this falling. The natives of India are in the habit of hanging little vessels on the palm trees for the purpose of catching the juice. This juice is so attractive to the sloth bear that, although such a poor climber, he will scramble up and go on drinking the juice until he is so drunk that he can only slip helplessly to the ground and lie there in a drunken stupor until the effects have passed off.

But the sloth bear is not the only animal who is so partial to this juice of the palm tree. The curious fruit (or fox) bats (family pteropodidæ) are particularly fond of it. This peculiar little combination of beast and bird, with its foxlike face, reddish, furry body and black, uncanny looking wings, the delicate membrane of which is always quivering down to the very tips, will fly to these vessels in company with some hundreds of his companions and they will suck the juice until the ground below the tree will be dark with the bodies of these bats, who will lie there too helplessly intoxicated to move or defend themselves no matter what may turn up.

The biggest drunkard of all is perhaps the palm civet. So addicted is this animal to the drinking habit that he has been termed the toddy cat. And a more helpless, foolish looking creature than he is when he is thoroughly intoxicated with the palm juice it would be difficult to find. There are many other animals given to this failing, but all those I have spoken of live in India, and it may be that the heat which induces extreme thirst, a frequent excuse among men, is the direct cause of it.

Max O'Rell's Adder.

During his tour through Australia many years ago death was once close upon Max O'Rell, as it seemed to him at the time. Lying in bed one night in a bush hostelry, worried by mosquitoes and thinking of the snakes against which he had been warned, he became aware of the presence alongside of him of a cold, treacherous snake, probably a death adder, as it was only about three feet long. Death from the bite of this playful adder is rapid and painless, and the Frenchman recorded afterward his reflection that it was better perhaps to die that way than by gout or rheumatism. After an hour of agony, however, he slipped out of bed, struck a light and went about the room searching for the walking stick he had carried especially for defense against reptiles. After a weary and nervous hunt he found it at last among the disordered bedclothes.

Curious Habit In a Dog.

A certain Pomeranian has a most extraordinary habit at mealtimes which appears worth recording. This behavior is the prelude to only one kind of food—i. e., bread and milk. It consists in first wiping the nose smartly to and fro on the flannel on which the dog lies, and this is repeated between each mouthful. To such an extent is this eccentricity carried that she refuses this kind of food altogether if there is no flannel to wipe her nose on. The curious part of the whole episode is that there is none of this wiping with bread sopped in gravy. It seems to be suggested by some irritation peculiar to warm milk.—London Times.

Set Him to Thinking.

They had been talking as they walked. She had remarked pathetically:

"Oh, it must be terrible to a man to be rejected by a woman!"

"Indeed it must," was his response.

Then, after awhile, with sympathetic disingenuousness, she exclaimed:

"It doesn't seem that I could ever have the heart to do it."

And there came a silence between them as he thought it over.

Fatal Error.

Tess—So their engagement is broken off?

Jess—Yes; they quarreled, and she was in the wrong.

Tess—And she wouldn't admit it?

Jess—No; that was the whole trouble. She did admit it, and after that he simply became unbearable.

Where It Wouldn't Work.

His Teacher—Don't you know, Tommy, you should not let your left hand know what your right hand does?

Tommy—Yes'm, but you've just got to take both hands when you want to tie a tin can to a dog's tail.

Gold melts at a temperature of 1240 degrees C. or 2264 degrees F. Lead melts at 626 degrees F. and wax at 149 degrees F.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Store Closed Every Wednesday During July and August at 12 O'Clock Noon.

Men's $3 Hats 98c.

Here is a Hat chance for men which—when value is considered—comes seldom.

As in all departments our Hat trade has surpassed any previous season.

It's after the battle as it were and the assortments left are badly crippled—some have one of ever size others have only one size.

Our reputation demands full sizes—these must be cleared before the fall stock arrives. If price and value count there should not be a Hat left Saturday.

All our well-known makes are represented, Hawes, Wakefields, Christies and Carters in the nobby spring and summer shapes which have sold so freely this season.

Both soft and hard Hats in Pearl Grey, Brown, Slate and Black.

The Quantity is limited, just your size may be among the first to go.

This price makes an early visit neccessary to best choice.

—Remember the days Thursday, Friday and Saturday the balance of our spring and summer Hats, were $2.00, $2.50, and $3 00, for 98c

Reduced Baby Bonnets

"Nothing is too nice for the baby." The manufacturer who made our Baby Bonnets must have thought so.

But you can get even too much of a goodthing and desireable and all as they are we have priced them as below for Thursday to clear.

—2 doz. Children's fine Organdie Muslin Bonnets, trimmed with Valenciennes lace and narrow satin baby ribbon good quality, regular $1.50 for 75c

—Fine Organdie Baby Bonnet with fine tucks and baby ribbon trimming, full frill, $1 25 for 50c

—5 only Japanese taffeta silk Bonnets with wide silk lace frill and insertion and baby ribbon trimmings, regular $1.75 for 75c

Outing Items

Proper clothing is an important item in the most enjoyable outing.

Wherever you go the white Vest and Trousers will be "correct." Adding much both to the APPEARANCE and COMFORT.

There are in these as in everything, the right and wrong—the right is just as reasonable.

A number of new styles in both just received.

—Fine Duck Trousers plain white or with fine black stripe, deep hem $1.00, $1.25, ... $1.50

—New White Vests, just arrived from London, England, plain and fancy with, high button styles, $1 25, $1.50 .... $.200

Neglige Shirts

The neglige Shirt with soft collar is a much favored style with men who desire something comfortable yet dressy for this warm weather.

For Tennis or yatching nothing is more appropriate.

Our showing this season comprises many new and pretty designs, mostly light grounds with colored silk stripes.

Ask to see them in our men's furnishing department.

—Men's Fine Neglige Shirts with attatcheh collar, silk stripes, fast colors 65c, 75c, ... $1.00

White Waistings

All the leading fashion journals anounce for fall a more wide spread use than ever of the heavier weave fancy Piques and mercerized Vestings for waists.

We have recently received a number of pretty designs in these which will be serviceable on cool evenings and again for later use.

The great demand will cause a scarcity of good patterns. Best get them while the assortment is at its best.

—Fine White Pique and Vesting with mercerized figures, 32" wide, 25c and 30c

Standard Patterns

If you do home dressmaking a good pattern will add much to the appearance of the garments and save from any disastrous mistakes.

You may obtain patterns cheaper but you'll get some as good for more. They are the best, and guaranteed correct in every way.

Our stock is large but it is impossible to keep all. If what you desire is not here we can have it for you in 3 days.

—Get a copy of the designer—it contains, besides much useful information as to styles, good stories, etc. price 10c

Half Price Table

Our Table of Half Price Wash Goods is the mecca for many shoppers.

Here are found a choice lot of this season's Wash Goods in Muslins, Prints, Ginghams, and Sateens.

Some are only short pieces others are longer lengths which have not sold as freely as we have desired. All are going now, quickly at Half Price.

Each day sees some addition to this assortment. If there you do not see what you want to-day you may to-morrow.

Summer Corsets

Our Corset department does not seem to need much publicity.

The crowds of ladies who patronize this counter and tell their friends of the excellence of the lines we sell, make our best advertisement,

Just let you know a new shipment opened places our stock in the complete stage generally found only at the beginning of the season.

If you want a perfect fitting, durable light weight, inexpensive Corset we can meet your needs.

—Ladies' Fine Percale Corset, bias gored, straight front, erect form, Percale Corset, steel filled, lace and ribbon trimmed, regular 75c for .... .50

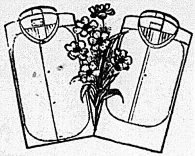
—Fine Net Corset, steel filled, extra strong over hips, straight front, erect form, lace and ribbon trimmed .... .75

—Fine Percale Corset with 3 bias gores, strong hips erect form, straight front, a very fine Corset, for summer wear 1.00

Agents for Standard Patterns.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

CLOTHING BOUGHT HERE PRESSED FREE OF CHARGE



Quick & Robertson's for Fine Clothes

There's no use of disputing the fact that this store stands pre-eminent in this city as the store for Men's Fine Clothes.

With our large and pleasing varieties, up-to-date styles, and good making, we've won the trade of every man, and especially the trade of those men who are particular about the clothes they wear.

And why shouldn't we? You can't find a store that has, Ready-Made, such exclusive styles in suitings and summer garments as we are showing and everyone of them is from the best British and Canadian Mills.

Then, too, every garment is built to come up to the our high standard--built by the best makers who know how and do give close attention to important parts of tailoring—such as adjusting the collars, shaping the shoulders, proper placing of the sleeves and stays and making of the button holes.

Clothes made this way never lose their shape. And by so doing we have overcome that appearance which markes clothes as being Ready-Made.

The prices for such goodness you'd expect to be high but they are not—are no more than you would pay for ordinary sorts elsewhere.

MEN'S SUMMER FURNISHINGS

. . . . AND . . . .

STRAW HATS

The Largest Variety assures the Easiest Choosing.

That's just what's bringing more men to this store every day—they are getting into the fact that the selections Quick & Robertson shows in every line are the largest and most liberal in town—right in every way; in quality the highest, in style the latest and in price the fairest. Better choose now while the choosing is good.

QUICK & ROBERTSON

Agents in Belleville for W. R. Johnston & Co.'s Famous Clothing.

In The Good Old Summer Time

You will enjoy doing your cooking and baking if you are wise enough to use a

Auto Valvo Blue Flame Oil Stove

The one stove above all others to make your work easy without heating up the whole house.

The W. W. CHOWN Company. Limited

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions ONE CENT A WORD. No loca charged as less than twenty-five words.

Mrs Cole, who was getting aboard the Annie Lake yesterday to go to Massassaga, slipped and fell into the water. No damage beyond wet clothes was done.

The Judge's Court of Revision re assessment was still in session today. A number of appeals have been heard and judgment reserved.

To-day's market was fairly well attended.

Christ Church Sunday School excursion yesterday to Twelve o'Clock Point was well attended, as was also the evening trip to Deseronto.

The Epworth League of Holloway Street Church has been very much favored of late by the presence and assistance of returned University students, school teachers and ex-members who are visiting in the city.

A number who went to Deseronto last evening on the excursion were left at the town, having missed the boat when she left.

The police last night captured two drunks who were wandering about the streets.

At a special meeting of the Quarterly Board of Holloway Street Church, held on Tuesday night, the Pastor was granted a month's vacation. Next Sabbath Mr. Real will exchange with Rev. R. H. Leitch, of Picton.

Yesterday was a great day at Massassaga Park. The annual G.T.R. Picnic was a huge success. From early in the morning until late in the afternoon crowds came from the city with their lunch baskets, all filled with sandwiches, cold meats and other good things to eat. A particular fact quite noticeable, was the large number of picnicers who had availed themselves of the saving of cooking, and the expense and inconvenience by buying one or more of Davies' 32 varieties of cooked meats. It

WOOL CRASH.

People are asking what it is. Wool crash is a sort of misnomer. It is not crash, but simply a light cool worsted in a crash weave. Hold it up to the light—you can see through it. Yet it's as tough and strong almost as thick beaver, and wiry enough to hold its shape. For a cool summer vacation knockabout suit, wool crash takes the lead. Good enough, too, for business. Come, see! Suit prices, $3.75, $5, $6 and $7.50.—Quick & Robertson, Belleville's Best Clothiers.

A Requiem Mass.

At St. Michael's Church at 8 o'clock this morning a solemn requiem mass was sung for the repose of the soul of the late lamented Pope Leo XIII. Rev. Father Hanley, who has charge od the parish during Mgr. Farrelly's absence, celebrated the mass and also spoke in an appropriate and feeling manner of the late Pope. A large congregation was present.

ARE YOU HARD TO CONVINCE.

It is hard to convince the man, who has never been in our store, that the Oak Hall is selling clothes superior in quality to other stores. The sale of trash by some clothing dealers is working an irreparable injury to the clothing trade generally, as some men will continue to believe that all ready-made clothing is alike. Come to the Oak Hall when you want your next suit and let us show you the difference between well tailored ready-to-wear clothing and trash.

An Unpleasant Surprise.

During the absence yesterday of the family of Mr. Young, who resides on Pope street, the house was entered, but nothing particular was missed. When the family returned home they were surprised by finding the doors wide open and some of the windows raised up.

OUT OF THE SHADOW.

The discouragement, the despair of ill-health, out into the noon-tide glory of health, vigor and strength. Are you seeking this way? Are you wishing to replace weakness by strength, despondency by hope and expectation, pale cheeks and lustreless eyes by the rose's bloom and sparkling eyes. If you but use Ferrozone, you will make rich, red blood, your nerves will grow strong. Old-time vigor will return and with it endurance that will enable you to live an active, energetic and successful life. Remember the name, Ferrozone. Sold by all druggists.

In the Justice Shop.

Drunks.

Arthur Roland and John Wannamaker were charged with this offence. Both were allowed to go.

Unappreciative Wretch.

"What did your wife say when you came home so late?"

"I really don't know. I can just remember that I woke up three times, and she was still talking."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Sports and Pastimes

LACROSSE.

A Coat of Whitewash for the Locals.

It was a case of "Veni, Vidi, Vici" with the Athletics of Peterboro, who yesterday afternoon met and defeated the local lacrosse boys. Friends of the home team had fondly hoped that, on their own grounds they would reverse the score which went against them in Peterboro, and pull off a victory.

When one got to the grounds, however, and saw the personnel of the local team, he could hardly figure out how they were going to win. Whitty and Winchester were absent from the home, and "Mud" Cook from the defence. However, the boys had the best team they could get. The Athletics, in their pale blue jerseys, looked very neat, and seemed to be trained to the minute. Of the game, it can fairly be said that the best team won, but the locals did not begin to play up to their usual form. Easy chances were missed by those who are generally the surest players on the team while a couple of those who figured in red Jerseys yesterday did no better than would be expected from a Chink laundryman. To say the friends of the team were disappointed is putting it mildly. Some of them were so sore you couldn't touch them with a ten-foot pole, and between ourselves it was enough to make a man fierce to see the hard luck which at times clung to the local boys. They were not badly over-matched. Those who saw their work against Campbellford know what they can do. They simply seemed to have an attack of stage fright, or blind staggers, or something of that kind, yesterday, and probably couldn't have beaten a team picked from the Board of Education. Everybody has an off-day once in a while, and to jump on the boys for their poor showing yesterday would be unjust. It was probably their anxiety to win that made them nervous. With a couple of changes in the team, and with a few practices under a competent coach they could put up a vastly different game to that of yesterday, and that's no midsummer night's dream. However, the lads got trimmed good and proper yesterday, and that fact cannot be gainsaid. It was about 3 o'clock when Mr. Renwick, of Port Hope, the referee, called the players to the centre of the field and gave them their instructions. Nothing worse than assault and battery in the first degree was permissible. The Indians were searched, to see that they had no tomahawks, and the game began, the teams lining up thusly:

Athletics.		Belleville.
	Goal
Clarke		Deer
	Point
Dillon		Hitchon
	Cover Point
Morgan		Leaf
	Defence Field.
Howell		Wallace
Ketchum		Brown
Mein		W. Ford
	Centre
Patterson		E. Ford
	Home Field.
O'Flynn		Kennedy
Robertson		Kirby
Best		McGuire
	Outside Home.
Glover		Burke
	Inside Home.
Cavanagh		Allen

The whistle blew and they were off, and for a few minutes the locals appeared to be about as much in it as our old friend, the fellow who fell out of a balloon. They appeared to have a severe attack of stage fright. Peterboro scored in about five minutes, after having things all their own way, the shot which beat Deer seeming an easy one. The next game was much more stubbornly contested. The bulk of the play was round the Peterboro net, but the local home were not playing in their accustomed style at all, and the visitors' defence easily held them safely. Suddenly the ball went down to the other end, and a nice bit of combination brought another tally. The balance of the first quarter consisted mainly of attacks on Belleville's goal, but the defence was playing well and checking hard. They, at least, had got over their "cold feet." There was no more scoring in the first quarter. When the whistle blew for time it was discovered that Dillon, of Peterboro, had broken three bones in his hand. He was obliged to retire, and Burke went with him.

The second quarter was full of strenuous work. Wallace and W. Ford were sent to the side for checking too vigorously, and Ketchum was given a rest for cheerfully trying to strangle the little Indian, Kirby. The Belleville goal-keeper did some gilt-edged work. The local home had a couple of chances to score, but they didn't. There was no scoring in the second quarter.

When the third quarter began the little Indian, Kirby, came out with a bandage round his head. He had been hit with an axe, or something, but didn't want to stop the game for a little thing like that. Plucky little chap, that. Peterboro scored again by nice combination work, and then for some minutes the play was all round the Peterboro net. Only the hardest kind of luck kept Belleville from scoring. Twice the ball bounded to one side when it should have gone into the net. Fortune was against the locals, for they should surely have had three goals in the third quarter. The Athletics scored their fourth goal, and shortly after this W. Ford, in trying to knock the ball from Glover's stick, hit him a resounding whack on top of the head. Glover went to grass, and when he recovered, went off, Allen keeping him company. W. Ford was penalized for six minutes, though his offence was certainly a pure accident. Peterboro scored again, and the third quarter ended with the score 5—0 against the locals.

The last quarter was simply a repetition of the other three. The home team had the ball fully as much, if not more, than their opponents; there would be an attack on the visitors' stronghold, and then, at the critical moment, there would be a muff or a wild throw; the chance would be lost, and the onlookers would sigh like a December wind going through a forest. It was enough to make a man take a club to his grandfather. Peterboro scored twice more, and the game ended 7—0 in favor of the Athletics, who fairly earned their victory.

Caught in the Goal Net.

Lacrosse isn't much of a game, anyhow. The croquet championship is what we're after.

Some of the Belleville team couldn't catch a cold in an ice house yesterday.

Many of the boys had an off day, sure, and there was a lot of hard luck mixed up with their play.

Somebody ought to have put a sign at the entrance to the Fair Grounds, "Whitewashing done with neatness and despatch."

Well, when all's said and done, the local boys can play a whole lot better than they did yesterday, and we'd like to see them bring that Athletic team down here again. The result would be different a month from now.

If Belleville had put up a game against Campbellford like that of yesterday, the villagers would have beaten them.

Dr. Harry Burdett, of St. Paul, was field captain for the local team.

The Athletics are a fine lot of boys, and took away with them the respect and good wishes of Belleville people.

Results from common soaps: eczema, coarse hands, ragged clothes, shrunken flannels.

SUNLIGHT SOAP REDUCES EXPENSE

Ask for the Octagon Bar

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

Mrs. John Harrison, of Ottawa, is the guest of the Misses Holden, George street.

Miss Mabel Gillespie, of Peterboro, is visiting Mrs. O. C. Elliott, 13 Forin street.

Mr. Wm. Cornelius has returned home after spending some weeks at Muskoka.

Miss Edna Frizzell has returned home to Napanee, after visiting relatives in the city.

Miss Louise Pascoe has returned home after a two weeks visit to friends at Toronto.

Mr. Frank Fitzpatrick, accompanied by his sister, Miss Effie, left today for Manistee, Mich.

Miss Alice McRae, Principal of No. 3 school, has resigned her position, intending to teach at Edmonton, N.W.T., in future.

Miss Lillian and Miss Winnie Dent, sisters of Mrs. (Rev.) Real, are visiting at the Holloway Street Church Parsonage.

Mrs R. Gulliver, with her daughter, Miss Tiny, and little Ida, left this morning for Toronto for a few weeks' visit.

Mrs. S. G. Sills, Mrs. A. Kirsh, Mrs. J. A. Peck and Miss Bowen, leave for the Thousand Islands tomorrow, the latter for a few weeks.

At the annual meeting of the Institute of Chartered Accountants, held this week, Mr. J. W. Johnson, F.C.A., of Ontario Business College, was again elected a member of the Council of the Institute.

Mr C. N. Paterson, clerk in the Canadian Bank of Commerce, this city, has been transferred to a branch of the bank in Sydney, N.S., and leaves on Saturday for his new post. "Charlie" was a prominent member of the Fifteen, and an all-round good fellow, and his departure from Belleville will be sincerely regretted.

At the Quinte:—S. F. Peeney, Yonkers, N.Y.; W. McDonald, Wellington; C. E. Ritchie, Akron, Ohio; W. E. Calkins, Ithica, N.Y.; J. J. Fraser and wife, Oswego; J. E. Halliwell, Stirling; E. Arner, J. D. Ferguson, Hamilton; G. E. Schmar, Berlin; G. F. Cleveland, Danville; A. A. Grasler, Pittsburg; C. Smith, Campbellford; W. S. Floshaml, Chicago; G. A. Granville, New York; A. P. McLean, Penetang; L. C. Dupont, Victoria, B.C.; J. Hudgins, Smith's Falls; W. J. Tow, Berlin; C. E. Hoyner, Buffalo; C. Magee, Ottawa; L. C. Richards, Detroit.

Bronchitis All serious lung troubles begin with a tickling in the throat. You can stop this at first in a single night with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Use it also for hard colds, and for coughs of all kinds. 25c., 50c., $1.00. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Grand Trunkers Had Successful Picnic.

FINE PROGRAMME OF GAMES AND SPORTS PULLED OFF AT MASSASSAGA PARK.

Owing to rain in the early morning, and threatening weather during the day, the annual picnic of the G.T.R. employees to Massassaga Park yesterday was not as largely attended as usual. In spite of the drawback, however, there was a very good attendance, and everything passed off in a pleasing manner. Nothing occurred to mar the proceedings, and the members of the Managing Committee did all in their power to make all feel at home.

An excellent programme of games was arranged and carried out in a satisfactory manner. Every event was pulled off, the prize winners being as follows, in order of precedence:

Boys' Race, 100 yards, 10 years and under—F. Deacon, L. Flagler, O. Pearson.

Girls' Race, 100 yards, 10 years or under—M. Acton, M. Fitzgerald, M. Ormand.

Boys' Race, 150 yards, 16 years and under—W. Ormand, J. Deacon, M. Bedore.

Girls' Race, 100 yards, 16 years and under—M. Mills, A. Cornell, B. Wagner.

100 Yards Dash, open—Leo. Brown, C. Dolan, W. Acton.

100 Yards Smoking Race—B. A. Sanford, J. Bolestoal, C. Dolan.

Potato Race—J. Bolestoal, F. Clapper, E. Calloway.

100 Yards Race, running backwards, men—W. J. Corbett, C. Calloway, R. Demorest.

Sack Race, 50 yards—H. Mitchell, C. S. Hanley, D. Hutchinson.

Married Ladies' Race, 50 yards.—Mrs. Wickett, Mrs. Calting, Mrs. C. Harrison.

Fat Men's Race, 100 yards, 200 lbs., over 40 years old—B. Ivers, B. Hasllp, T. Gorman.

Old Men's Race, 50 yards, 50 years or over—J. Brickman, J. Spratt, E. Taylor.

Boot Race—C. Row, M. Pedore, D. Hutchinson.

Young Ladies' Race, 100 yards, 16 years or over—N. Murray, A. Brown, Ida Valbrack.

Fat Woman's Race, 50 yards.—Mrs. Cornell, Miss T. Badgley, Mrs. Emsley.

Three legged race, boys, 18 years and under.—E. Harrison and W. Acton, L. Brown and A. Harrison.

Three legged race, Men.—F. Corbett and C. Hamly, H. Rose and A. McCaskey.

Waltzing.—Miss Cronan and A. Calcutt, Miss Tallon and W. Lynch.

Little boys' race, 7 years or under, 50 yards.—R. Hoag, G. Gulliver, G. Ivers.

Little girls' race, 7 years or under, 50 yards.—Irene Emsley, Katie Hunter, Agnes Eckles.

Driving nails competition, girls.—A. Miron, B. Wagner, C. Harrison.

Employees' race, 100 yards. — B. Ivers, E. Miron, A. McCaskey.

Ladies' consolation race, 100 yards. —Mrs. Reddick, Mrs. P. Flagler, Mrs. B. Ivers, Mrs. Harrison.

Eating buns, with hands tied behind back.—W. Ormond, J. Russell, R. Burke.

Tub race.—C. Row, H. Wilder, J. Joyce.

Baby Show.

Baby show, best conditioned baby 1 year old or under. The judges, Messrs. W. E. Gillen, B. Ivers and E. Taylor, had a rather difficult task to perform, as there were 14 youngsters to be judged and they were all fine young Canadians. The two prizes were awarded to little Miss Helen Lloyd and Joseph Wickett.

Sailing Races.

Considerable interest was taken in the sailing races, which took place whilst the other sports were in progress.

Yacht race.—This event was for a handsome challenge flag donated by the committee. Last year the Retta won the coveted prize, but yesterday the Yoda finished first, closely followed by the Spray, and the Retta was third.

Skiff race.—The Viva won this race, the Oddfellow being second and the Red Bird third.

Punt race.—This event was well contested by a number of punts. The King of the Waters proved to be king, winning first money; Blue Bird was second and Flirt third.

To the following committee was due to a large extent the success of the day's outing: Messrs. J. R. Donnelly, chairman; T. H. Coppin, Treasurer; J. S. Smith, secretary, and T. Collins, chairman of games.

Band Concert To-night.

Weather permitting, the I.O.O.F. Band, under the leadership of Prof. Denmark, will render the following programme on Queen Victoria Park to-night:

March—"Prima Donna" ...... Sherman
Overture—"Fantastique" ...... Dalbey
Waltz—"Sweet Rosetta" ...... Hall
Andante and Polka—"Emma Louisa" ...... Pettee
Song and Dance—"The Frolic" ...... R. B. Hall
Two Step—"The Popular Swing" ...... Brooke
Medley Overture—"Metamorphoses" ...... Beyer
Waltz—"Don't be Cross" ...... C. Zellar
Selection—"A Gaiety Girl" ...... Tobani
March—"The Richmond Bee" ...... R. B. Hall

MURDER MOST FOUL IN QUIET PICTON.

A Circus Employee Stabbed to Death and His Alleged Murderer Arrested.

Victim a Colored Man, About Thirty Years of Age—Inquest Held.

Excitement in the Town—Detective Rogers Has the Case in Hand.

Picton, Ont., July 23.—A colored man, Wm. Johnson, an employee of the Pan-American Circus, was stabbed near the heart by another colored employee about half past nine last night, and died in about twenty minutes.

Edward Clarke, of Columbus, Ohio, commonly known as "Side Show Shorty," was arrested, charged with the murder.

Four colored men and several other employees of the circus are detained in town as witnesses.

Provincial Detective Rogers, who was here with the circus, has the case in hand.

The murdered man is about thirty years of age. Clark is about the same age.

The coroner's inquest was held at ten o'clock this morning and adjourned to meet in the County buildings on Monday, July 27th.

Considerable excitement prevailed in the town last night, when it became known that a murder had been committed.

LATEST NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS

As Furnished to The Intelligencer by H. R. Beattie, Stock Broker.

New York, July 23.

Stock	Op'g	H'st	L'st	Close
Atchison	64¼	65	63½	63½
do. pref	89	89	87½	87½
St. Paul	141¾	142⅛	140⅛	140⅛
Mo. P.	98½	98⅞	97⅛	97½
Union. Pac	76⅛	76⅛	75¼	75¼
C. P. R.	122¼	122¾	121¾	121¾
South Pac.	45	45¼	43	43
R. I.	25½	25¼	23⅜	23⅜
Ills. C.	130¼	130¼	128¼	129½
Sou. Ry.	21½	21¼	20⅛	20⅞
Texas	26½	26¼	26⅛	26½
B & O.	83¼	83¾	82¼	82¼
N. Y. C.	119	119	117½	117¾
Penna	122⅛	122⅛	120¾	120¾
Soo	53¼	53¼	52½	52½
Erie	30¼	30⅛	29¼	29¼
do. pref.	68	68½	67	67
Reading	50¼	50⅛	48	48½
C. O.	33½	33¾	32	32
O. & W.	22⅞	23	22⅛	22⅞
Manhattan	133¼	134	132½	132¾
W. C.	17½	17¼	16	16
L. & N.	107½	107⅞	105½	106
A. F.	34	34⅜	33	33
Nor.	63⅛	63½	62	62
Wab.	22⅛	22⅛	20⅞	20⅞
do pref.	38½	38¾	36½	37⅛
W.U.	83	....	....	....
C. G. W.	16⅞	17	16	16
T.C.I.	42⅛	42⅞	39¾	40½
U S S.l.	23⅛	23⅞	22⅞	23
do pref.	71¼	72	71⅛	71⅛
Sugar	115¾	115¾	113¾	114
B. R. T.	48	48	46	46⅛
Po	95½	96	94½	94⅞
A. C. P.	45¾	45¾	39¾	40
Met.	117	117½	116	116
Ak.	18¼	18¼	17¼	17⅛

Sept. wheat opened at 75½; closed at 76¼
Sept. corn opened at 50½; closed at 51

Mr W. Denham

Of Denham's Drug Store, Petrolea, Ont., says:

"The O. R. Kidney Cure gives the best satisfaction to our customers of any kidney medicine we handle."

Belleville druggists speak highly of the O. R. Kidney Cure.

It does its work quickly.
It cures Lame Back.
It cures Lumbago.
It cures Bladder Trouble.
It cures Gravel in Bladder.
It cures Rheumatism.
It cures Kidney Troubles.
It will cure you.
Try one bottle.

O. R. KIDNEY CURE is put up in liquid form, contains no poisons, is quickly assimilated and will cure all kidney and urinary troubles.

O. R. Kidney Cure, 50c per bottle.
O. R. Liver Pills, 25c per bottle.
O. R. Dyspepsia Tablets 25c per box.

AT DRUGGISTS, OR WRITE—
THE O. R. MEDICINE CO., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

LACE CURTAINS

An Odd Lot of

English Nottingham and Brussels Net Lace Curtains

This stock being so varied, it would be impossible to enumerate the different prices.

Come and inspect these goods and their quality and you will readily understand what a money saving investment awaits every one that will take advantage of this sale.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson,

DIRECT IMPORTERS

Daily Intelligencer.

THE INTELLIGENCER IS SOLD AT
J. W. London's and G. Wardhaugh's.

Local Reading Advertisements.

ords 50 cents; 2 cents per word first insertion, per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words; contracts for ng periods made at office

Will You Ask Us

In seeking a perfume worthy of our exacting patrons we have found YOLANDE which is positively exquisite.

'Tis not enough for us to believe this—we wish to convince you. No way so easy as for you to ask us about YOLANDE next time you are in our store. It will be a revelation to you for YOLANDE is worth knowing about.

McKeown's DRUG STORE

SULTANA CAKE

Our Sultana Cake at 20c a lb. is excllcent value. Made twice a week. A good rich Cake made of the best materials. Try some.

CHAS. S. CLAPP

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL

$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE, No. 46 Bridge St., Belleville,

J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

Lost chances never leave any trail.

MONITOR

This is another fine Mantle Clock, not quite so expensive as Gadski in last week's advertisement, but fully as serviceable. It is an eight-day hour and half strike on cathedral gong, fancy columns with trimmings and drop handles, in every way a beautiful clock. Our price only $5.50.

T. BLACKBURN.

Eyes examined free of charge. Jeweller & Optician.

Bargains for This Week

1 only 6 piece Glass Tea Set	25c
25c bottle Bland's Pills 2 for	25c
7 Bars Chicago Hardwater Soap	25c
Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills 2 boxes for	25c
12 foot Bamboo Fish Poles	5c
Carters Pills 2 bottles	25c
6 Nickel Plated Tea Spoons	15c
Morses Indian Root Pills, 2 boxes	25c
10c bottle Standard Shoe Dressing	7c
Parmalee's Pills 2 boxes for	25c
1 lb. Tin of our Baking Powder	10c
25c Belladonna Plasters for	12c
7 Bars Brown Windsor Soap, for	5c
$1.00 bottle of Wythe's Beef, Iron and Wine	61c
Talcum Powder, the best, large box	10c
Tucker's Sovereign Balm	20c
Large bottle Sewing Machine Oil	5c
Can openers with corkscrew	10c
25c Package Celery King for	15c
1000 Parlor Matches, best	5c
50c bottle Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy	32c
40 ft. Cotton Clotheslines	10c
7 lb. Package of Best Laundry Starch	45c
$1.00 Bottle Dr. Koenig's Sarsaparilla	49c
Manley's Celery Compound	57c
Crockery Sale still in force.
10 Piece Printed Bedroom Set, $2 50,	$1.99.
10 Piece Printed Bedroom Set $2 25,	$1.79.
6 Piece Printed Bedroom Set, $2 25,	$1.79.
Plain White Bedroom Sets	$1.15
Fruit Jars at the lowest prices.
Jar Rings 5c doz.

McINTOSH BROS.

A Dutiful Daughter.

By Elizabeth Sutton.

MRS. FENTON sat in a rocking-chair by the open window and bent over some sewing. She was a slim, dark little woman, with iron-gray hair brushed back smoothly from a slanting, wrinkled forehead, and deep lines furrowing her face from nose to mouth. She still wore rusty and much patched black for the husband who had not been good to her and was dead fifteen years. Over at the table, Mary Alice, her daughter, hulled strawberries. She also was spare, and little and swart like her mother, but her eyes were softer and kindlier than the woman's, and there were gentler lines about her well-shaped mouth. She was thirty and looked much older.

She suddenly glanced up from the berries.

"Mother, Wednesday night John Mason asked me to marry him," she said, and a touch of warm color flushed into her sallow cheeks. "Can I have him?"

Mrs. Fenton's sewing dropped to her lap. She folded her arms and turned around in her chair so that she might face the speaker.

"Well, I declare. So at last he's hed the gumption to pop; after ten years, too. Well, if that don't beat me. After ten years akeepin' steady comp'ny to up an' ask you now! Wensday night, you say? This's Saturday, Mary Alice Fenton. Is it only now you've thought to tell me, your mother?" She picked up her sewing and began to stitch furiously. "In my day children acted different with their parents. They knowed how to honor an' respect them. Wensday night, an' only now you tell me."

Then she raised her head and looked across at the girl in time to see her abstractedly put a strawberry in her mouth.

"Mary Alice," she snapped, "if you go an' eat all the strawberries there won't be none left for tea."

"I only took one," Mary Alice hastened to explain humbly.

"Don't take none, which will be less," her mother commanded.

"Mother, John wants my answer to-night," Mary Alice persisted. "Can I have him?"

Mrs. Fenton laid down her sewing again.

"Mary Alice," she began, "far be it from me to say anything agin your havin' John Mason. Far be it. But mebbe you'll tell me what'll become of me, your mother, when you'll go off an' git married. I suppose it'll just be the poor-house for me. I'm not ez young ez I used to be, an' I can't go out an' work. I suppose it'll just be the poor-house. Well, well." And she kept nodding her head slowly, saying, "Well, well."

Her daughter's voice shook unsteadily.

"You make me feel very badly, mother, talking that way. Why, you will come to live with us, of course—with John and me."

Mrs. Fenton stiffened up very straight.

"Mary Alice Fenton, I'll never live on any one's floor but my own, please God. If I break up the home—an' of course I'll have to when your pay's gone—I'll go straight to the poor-house. But far be it from me to say one word agin your marriage. Far be it. You go ahead an' marry John Mason, an' your mother, who wuz a good mother to you, Mary Alice Fenton, an' raised you good, ez every one in Boisville knows, ez every neighbor kin testify, will go to the poor-house."

The girl's face grew haggard.

"Mother, I like John Mason very much. All these years I have encouraged him; given him to understand that I would marry him. Can't you see, mother, that I must marry him?"

"Go ahead an' marry him. Who's a-stoppin' you?" Mrs. Fenton said. "I'm not the first that hez went to the poor-house. I'm not the first that hez brung up a bad child."

"Mother, I am not undutiful. It is you who are most unjust with me."

"There, that'll do," Mrs. Fenton cried. "I'll have no child of mine givin' me impudence. It's bad enough, Lord knows, to have an ungrateful daughter, but it's more than one kin stand havin' an impudent one. Go ahead an' marry John Mason without abusin' me over it. I'm not goin' to say one word agin it; no, not a word. You're just like the Fentons. Not a drop of my blood in your body ez I kin see. You don't take a bit after me. You're ez selfish an' unnatural ez you kin be. I could always see that. You take after your pa's people, who wasn't much, God knows. You marry John. You'll never have it to say I did anything to stop you. Have him, an' I'll go to the poor-house. You kin take your choice between John, an' me goin' to the poor-house, so there you are."

The girl leaned forward. "Mother, do you really mean that you will go to the poor-house in preference to living with us?"

"I mean just what I say," answered Mrs. Fenton, decidedly. "I'll go an' become a pauper on the town if you marry John Mason."

The blood hummed in Mary Alice's ears; she arose from her chair, her eyes bright and dark with anger. She was going to say many things. That if her mother was so obstinate and selfish she deserved to become anything she wished, even if it was a pauper; that she had no right to destroy her daughter's happiness; that if she were a natural mother she would never do so.

The girl looked at the gray-haired woman, with the deep lines seaming her face, and the indomitable chin. She would keep her word, she always did, and go to the poor-house. Mary Alice sat down again without saying a word, but her hands were clinched until the knuckles shone white, and the nails sank into the flesh of the palms.

"Very well, mother," she said; "I won't marry John Mason."

"Oh, have him," Mrs. Fenton advised in indifferent tones. She knew she had conquered. "Have him, you're that set on it. In my day girls hed more modesty in them. Now it's all different. I kin see you're fair crazy after him, so take him. You'll never be able to tell how that I did a single thing to prevent it."

Mary Alice swallowed hard. Her dark eyes were filled with tears. "What will everybody say? What will John say when I tell him? After going with him for ten years! Besides, I am thirty. It will be my last chance." She looked wistfully at her mother, but the woman had resumed her sewing, and her mouth was grim. Then the girl bent over the berries again. "There is nothing left for me to do but refuse him. I shall tell him to-night. Oh, dear, what will everybody in Boisville say? What will poor John say?"

"Mother, I shall tell John to-night that I cannot marry him," she said aloud to her mother; and Mrs. Fenton, after sewing a little while silently, then declared, "Well, after all, you do take after me in some things, Mary Alice. That's just what I'd a-done for my mother. You're not altogether like the Fentons. You have some of my ways in you." The woman looked utterly satisfied.

That evening a few minutes after eight Mrs. Fenton called upstairs to Mary Alice, "Mary Alice, John hez came." The girl, who had been ready and waiting half an hour, slipped down to the parlor.

John, a very stout, red-faced young man, was standing at a table looking over the family album. He immediately put down the book upon Mary Alice's entrance, and walked over to the black hair-cloth sofa in one corner and seated himself. Then he patted a place beside him and looked over with a playful smile at the girl. John always went through this performance and Mary Alice, always after a series of shy giggles and blushes, would seat herself beside him gingerly and on the very edge of the sofa. But to-night she stood in the center of the room and twisted and twisted into a hard little ball her handkerchief. Her eyes showed traces of weeping and her poor little face was puckered up with her emotion. "No, John, I can't, not to-night. And I want to tell you something. I want to tell you that—that—I want to tell you that I can't marry you!"

Then she was silent and looked with frightened eyes at her lover.

John slowly pulled out a great red cotton bandanna handkerchief from his pocket and started to wipe carefully away the beads of perspiration that had suddenly started out on his forehead. He looked terribly dazed. "Why, Mary Alice, what has struck you? You are just fooling now, aren't you?"

"No, I am not fooling," Mary Alice answered. "Do you think I could fool on such a subject, John? I just cannot marry you—I cannot, John."

"State reasons, state reasons," John said, in businesslike tones.

"Well—well—oh, John, my mother does not want me to get married, at least not yet," the girl answered, in a trembling voice.

"For God's sake when does she want you to get married?" John burst out. "When you are fifty, eh?" He laughed disagreeably. "I've been coming here long enough for her to say that before this late day. Are you going to do what she says?"

"I shall have to do just as mother wishes," Mary Alice said, in a thin, little voice. "I always do. I'm awfully sorry, John. Indeed, I liked you. I'm awfully sorry."

John stood up, and stuffed his big bandanna handkerchief into his pocket. "Well, all I can say is that you'll be sorry. It is easy enough for a man to get a woman, but not so—easy for a woman to get a man. I guess you are about losing your last chance, Alice. Well, I guess it's not any of my funeral," and John tried to look jauntily indifferent, but failed. He reached the door and stood there with his hand on the knob. "You don't think you might change your mind, eh, Alice?" he asked, and gazed wistfully at her. "You are old enough to do just as you please. Why don't you marry me whether she wants it or not?"

But Mary Alice cried out sharply: "Oh, I could not, John. I must do as my mother wishes."

John opened the door and stepped into the hall. "Well, I guess you'll regret it all right," he said.

Mary Alice leaned toward him and put a hot little hand on his coat sleeve. "John, I shall regret it whilst I live. But I must do it for my mother's sake. Be sure that I shall always regret it."

"Yes, I think you will," John answered. "Well, it's not my funeral," but he looked as if it was; and then he backed out of the front door, turned down the stoop, and walked briskly away.

Mary Alice stood where he had left her, and watched him until he had disappeared from view.

Three weeks later, when Mary Alice reached home one evening from the factory, she was quite astounded to find her mother bustling about the kitchen getting supper ready, attired in her best black gown—one never worn but on Sundays. But the wonder of it all was that Mrs. Fenton had a ribbon of cherry-colored silk twisted about her neck and tied in a huge bow underneath her chin—her mother who had not worn a bit of color for fifteen years. Mrs. Fenton's hair, too, was elaborately frizzed, and stuck into the faded gray knob on the top of her head was a tortoiseshell comb that had belonged to maiden days. Mary Alice was so surprised she did not remove her hat and coat at once, but sat down on the nearest chair, and gazed wide-eyed at the woman.

"Well, what yer lookin' at?" Mrs. Fenton said, but not ungraciously. She felt at the bow underneath her chin, and the comb in her hair. Then she went over to the mirror hanging above the table and took a critical survey of herself, twisting her head about in all directions.

"What yer lookin' at?" she asked again, when she turned around.

"Why, mother, where are you going?" Mary Alice asked.

"I ain't goin' a place," her mother answered.

Then she come up quite close to the girl.

"Mary Alice, guess who's a-comin' to-night to see me. Just guess." She bent over the girl and said slowly, in most impressive tones: "Martin Schwartz, the butcher! He up an' ast me to-day, when he brung the meat, to keep comp'ny with him. Oh, men is sly, I tell yer." Mrs. Fenton chuckled pleasantly. "Who'd a-thought he hed his eye on me all the time? But so he did. Well, Mrs. Schwartz hez been dead goin' on five years, an' my man's been gone fifteen, an' wuzn't good to me, so I guess nobody kin say anything. I always believe in not givin' any one anything to say. Well, he's a good man, an' that's all a woman kin ask or git. I don't think red looks half bad on me, eh, Alice?"

Mary Alice did not answer her. She took off her hat and coat and sat down at the table to supper. But there was a lump in her throat to prevent her eating. Mrs. Fenton talked and talked of Schwartz, the great, fat, vulgar butcher, and was so preoccupied and interested in her own happiness that she failed to notice the distress of the girl. Finally Mary Alice got away from the table, and immediately went upstairs to her own little room in the attic. On a table in one corner was ink, a pen, and some writing paper. Mary Alice took up a sheet of the note paper and, dipping her pen in the ink, started to write:

"Dear John—I was all wrong. I have changed my mind. Please come back to me. I am not going to give up everything for mother. She would not do the same for me. Dear John—"

The light was getting so bad Mary Alice laid down her pen, and, going over to the one small window, threw out the shutters. Two were coming down the village street together. Mary Alice leaned far out over the window-sill to watch them, for both seemed familiar. They came near, and passed. One was John Mason, and leaning upon his arm was the prettiest and silliest girl in the village. Mary Alice pulled in the shutters again, and taking her unfinished letter, she tore it into tiny scraps. Then she threw herself upon the bed, and buried her wet face in the pillow.—"Everybody's Magazine."

Boer Doctor in British Prison.

The London Daily Mail of June 1 says:—Dr. F. E. T. Krause, late public prosecutor and Governor of Johannesburg, who was convicted early last year in connection with the Broeksma-Douglas Forster matter, has now served fourteen and a half months of his sentence—two years' imprisonment without hard labor—and will be liberated from Pentonville Jail on August 23 next. "Infirmary No. 6," as he is officially described in the prison register, has grown much stouter since his incarceration, and, although the yellow prison garb sits strangely upon the dapper young Afrikander, he speaks with enthusiasm and gratitude of his British custodians. Thanks to the prison doctors, of whose system and science he expresses unstinted admiration, his old asthmatic complaint has disappeared, but he is still retained in the hospital of the jail to assist in attending sick prisoners. The doctor's pince-nez, so strangely foreign to his clumsy prison clothes, flashes with the light of a merry smile as he points to his good conduct badge. "I got these three stripes—which are the maximum reward for good behavior—quite a long time ago, and," he added, jokingly, "I have earned ten shillings since I came here. This, with the 19s 7d I had when my career was interrupted, is registered in my favor." His is the "otium" without the "dignitate." "Infirmary No. 6" is not, however, without the wherewithal to commence a new start in life. Though "disbarred," and, therefore, unable to practise as a barrister in the British courts by a decision of his former Inn, Dr. Krause will endeavor to obtain his rehabilitation after his release. He also intends to visit America, and is petitioning the Home Office for a remission of his sentence. Dr. Krause compares British prisons with Boer "tronks" as follows:—"Discipline is more rigorous here than it was there. But though I naturally feel keenly the enforced seclusion, the terrible monotony and the humiliation of my present position, I have, in the circumstances, no cause for complaint about my prison treatment. The medical supervision of the prison, of which I see a great deal, is splendidly carried out."

Anecdotal.

It is related that Sainte-Beuve detested rain. On one occasion, when he had to fight a duel, he appeared with a pistol in one hand and an umbrella in the other. "I am willing to be shot," he exclaimed, "but not to get wet."

George Meredith, the eminent novelist, is as alert and witty in his casual talk as he is in his fiction. Not long ago, in conversation with a friend, Mr. Meredith was asked his opinion of a certain obnoxious person who had lately settled in the neighborhood. "He seems to me," replied the author of "Diana of the Crossways," "to be one of the least of God's mercies."

A characteristic story of the late Sir Hector Macdonald has just reached us. Always a man of few words, when sending his only son to a public school for the first time, he addressed the following brief note to the headmaster: "Herewith boy Hector, to be made a man of"—a sentence worthy of being handed down to posterity as a remarkable example of brevity and sterling common sense.

An Englishman of somewhat questionable reputation, who was criticizing the American way of spelling, once turned to Maurice Barrymore, the actor, and said: "I'll leave it to Mr. Barrymore. Is it right to leave out the 'u' in such words as harbor, neighbor, honor, candor, etc?" "Well, about harbor and neighbor I am not sure," replied Barrymore, "but when it comes to honor and candor I leave you out."

The story is told of a Scotch preacher who gave his people long, strong sermons, and delivered them in a remarkably deliberate manner. One Sunday he asked a friend who was visiting him to occupy his pulpit in the morning. "An' were you satisfied wi' my preaching?" asked his friend, as they walked home from the kirk. "Weel," said his host, slowly, "it was a fair discoorse, Will'm, a fair discoorse; but it pained me at the last to see the folk looking sae fresh and wide awake. I mistrust 'twasna sae long nor sae sound as it should hae been."

When Booker T. Washington was asked by a Southerner recently to prove to a Northern audience that that section was really responsible for the introduction of slavery into the American colonies, Mr. Washington said he was reminded of the story of an old colored man who had a pig, which he sold one morning to a white man for three dollars. The white man drove off with his purchase, but on the road the pig escaped, and found its way back to Uncle Zeke's cabin. A little later, another white man came along, and Uncle Zeke sold him the same pig for another three dollars. On his way home with the pig the second purchaser encountered the first returning in search of the escaped animal. After some wrangling they decided to go back and refer the question to the old darkey. "Uncle Zeke" said number one, "didn't you sell me this pig at nine o'clock this morning?" "Sho' I did, massa." "But, Uncle Zeke," said number two, "didn't I pay you three dollars for this pig at twelve o'clock?" "Sho' you did, massa." "Well, then, who does the pig belong to?" "Sakes alive," said Uncle Zeke, "can't you white folk settle dat question between yo'selves?"

Cholera Infantum

There is no danger whatever from this disease when taken in time and properly treated. All that is necessary is to give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy after each operation of the bowels more than natural and then castor oil to cleanse the system. It is safe and sure. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

Retiring From Business Sale

NATHAN JONES.

20 per cent. discount on children's Hosiery, best grades.

20 per cent. discount on all our Taffeta and Tamaline Silks.

20 per cent. discount on all our Cashmere, Taffeta and Kid Gloves.

33⅓ per cent. discount on all our Ladies' Whitewear.

Remember our sale of Gingbams and Muslins at 7c per yd.

NATHAN JONES.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

FOR

Stylish and Durable Turnouts.

—Surreys
—Corning Buggies
—Piano Box Buggies
—Rubber Tire Buggies
—Micadoes
—Phaetons
—Bike Buggies
—Democrats
—Grocer Wagons
—Butcher Wagons

Cheese Factory Milk Wagons.
Steel Tubular Axle Lumber Wagons.

Rubber Tires put on your old wheels at reasonable prices.

Mill St., - - Belleville

At Wallbridge & Clarke's. At Wallbridge & Clarke's

Supplies For Camp or Cruise

New York Biscuits

In "In-er Seal" pkgs.

Uneeda "Jinger" Wafers, Butter Gems, Cheese Biscuits, German Zwieback, Pretzelettes, etc., etc.

Christie's Fancy Biscuits

Fresh supplies every week — 40 varities.

Heintz's Pickles

Heintz's Celery Sauce,
Heintz's India Relish.
Heintz's Sweet Midgets.
Heintz's Sweet Pickles.

Spanish Olives

A fine assortment of Olives from 10cts per bottle up.

Campers Supplies

Essence of Coffee, Condensed Milk, Lime Juice, Raspberry Vinegar, Fancy Cheese, New Pack Lobster and Shrimps, French Sardines, Scallops, Deviled Crabs, Concentrated Soups, French Potage, Beef Extracts, etc., etc.

Pickles and Sauces

A complete assortment of English and American Pickles and Sauces, including Pickled Walnuts, Onions, Chow Chow, Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce, Yorkshire Relish, Mushroom Catsup, Harvey's Sauce, Sultana Sauce, Chutney's Capers, Durkee's Salad Dressing, etc., etc.

Delicious Teas

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious English Breakfast Teas in lead packets at 30, 40, 50 and 60cts per lb.

Canned Meats

New Packs. Finest Quality.

Whole Ox Tongues.
Lunch Tongues.
Lamb's Tongues.
Boned Chicken.
Boned Turkey.
Boned Duck.
Pate de foie.
Potted Ham.
Potted Tongue.
Sliced Dried Beef.
Ham Loaf.
Veal Loaf.
Chicken Tamales.
Lunch Beef.
Lunch Bacon.
Chicken, Ham and Tongue,
Pigs Feet.
Jellied Tenderloins.
Vienna Sausages.
Luncheon Sausages.
Baked Beans—plain or in Tomato or Chili Sauce, etc., etc., etc.

Ale and Stout, Wines, etc.

Carling's, Labatt and Davies' Dominion Ale, Bass' Ale, Dow's Sand Porter, Guinness' Stout, in prime condition.

Gurd's Ginger and Soda Water Appolinaris and Radnor Water.

Barton & Guestier's and Nath. Johnston's Bordeaux Clarets and Sauterne AT POPULAR PRICES.

Rhine Wine and Burgundy Cordials and Liqueurs.

Light Canadian Wines, red or white, at lowest prices.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
EST'D. 1871.
BRIDGE ST. Tel. 139.
Branch Store
Front St.—Tel. 137.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 37. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, JULY 24, 1903 NO. 70

FROM SUNRISE TO SUNSET

Thousands of People Jammed Basilica of St. Peter's.

To Take a Last Farewell of the Dead Pontiff—Intense Pity, Combined With a Certain Sense of Horror, Was the Prevailing Feeling—Pope's Will Leaves All to the Church—Important Political Factor Introduced.

Rome, July 24.—From sunrise until sunset yesterday thousands passed before the body of Leo XIII. lying in state in the Basilica of St. Peter's. It was originally intended that this opportunity to publicly view the remains should extend through three days, but to-night the Associated Press correspondent learns that the time is likely to be curtained and that the funeral may occur Friday instead of Saturday, owing to the evidences of decomposition. This is due to yesterday's severe heat.

Leaves All to Church.

The will of the dead Pope was opened at yesterday's meeting of the congregation of cardinals. It consists of 36 pages in the handwriting of Leo XIII. and leaves all his property to his successor for the use of the church. To each member of his family he leaves a present, to be chosen from the valuable objects in his apartment. Similar presents are bequeathed to his physicians. The total amount of his property is not yet known.

The prevailing impression of those who yesterday passed before the iron gates of the chapel of the sacrament to view the remains was one of intense pity, combined with a certain sense of horror.

The body was tilt up on the catafalque in order that all might see the terribly shrunken face. An ordinary skull in a frame of gold lying in the midst of a mass of red robes could scarcely have been more typical of death.

Political Factor.

An important political factor was introduced into the ceremony by the entrance into St. Peter's of Italian soldiers, who remained there throughout the day to preserve order. Their presence is important as an indication of better relations between the Government and the Vatican. Another feature which is causing comment along the same lines is that fact that Cardinal Oreglia in receiving a group of the city fathers of Rome, who represent the clerical party, charged them to thank also their liberal colleagues for the manifestations of sympathy which they showed during the illness of the Pope.

Cardinal Merry del Val has been entrusted with the duty of drawing up a document for submission to another meeting of the congregation, relating to the sending of a note to the body accredited to the Holy See, showing the relation of the papacy to the idea of temporal power.

CHINKS' SORRY PLIGHT.

Four Detained at Buffalo and Have No Ticket-of-Leave.

Ottawa, July 24.—Four Chinamen are in custody at Buffalo, and the telegraph wires between Bridgeburg, on the Canadian side, and Ottawa are now hot with messages concerning them. The men claim that they have been living in Canada, three in Toronto and one in Picton, and went to the United States for a trip. They fell into the hands of the customs officers on the other side of the line, and at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon were to be formally handed over to the Canadian officials. The latter, however, will not accept them until they are satisfied as to their identity. Declarations and photographs to confirm the statements of the Chinese are on their way, but will not arrive until this morning. In the meantime, the question is, what to do with the four men, who, if they are re-admitted, will have to pay $100 poll tax to the Canadian revenue for leaving the country without a ticket-of-leave.

NOBODY BLAMED.

Jury Fails to Fix [illegible] For the C.P.R Galt Disaster.

Galt, July 24.—The jury returned a verdict at midnight to the effect that Hugh McMillan came to his death by being killed in a rear-end collision on the Canadian Pacific Railway at Galt, while sleeping in a van on the 21st of July, and added: "We would recommend that the semaphore on the west side of the station be placed further west, and that no cars should be allowed to remain on the bridge." Engineer McConnell of the second train said he saw the red light against him too late to stop his train.

Hon. Fred. Peters Ill.

Victoria, B.C., July 24.—The Hon. Fred Peters is very ill here.

FISCAL CHANGES ARE NEEDED

Duke of Devonshire An Advocate in the House of Lords.

Conservative Leader Stands Up For Mr. Chamberlain—Government's Investigation Has Already Convinced the Premier and His Colleagus That Colonial Secretary's Impeachment of the Fiscal Policy Was Well Founded.

London, July 24.—The educational campaign on the tariff question, which Colonial Secretary Chamberlain has vigorously launched by means of leaflets and circulars issued under his supervision, though not bearing his name, came in for serious criticism in the House of Lord yesterday afternoon.

Earl Spencer, the Liberal leader in that House, complained that Mr. Chamberlain, was practically violating the Government agreement, namely, that the fiscal discussion should be postponed until October. He said the distribution of such literature looked on its face as though the Government had taken up Mr. Chamberlain's views. Earl Spencer added that if Mr. Chamberlain remained in the Cabinet it would be almost impossible to disassociate his views from the policy of the Government as a whole.

The Duke of Devonshire, Lord President of the Council, and Conservative leader in the House, retorted that while he gathered from the remarks that the Premier ought to tell Mr. Chamberlain to resign, he feared this was a rather illogical procedure, since though the Government had by no means yet adopted the views of the Colonial Secretary, the Government's investigation, so far as it had proceeded, had convinced the Premier and his colleagues that Mr. Chamberlain's impeachment of the fiscal policy was well founded, and that changes ought to be effected.

When the House of Commons was in committee yesterday on the Foreign Office vote, Sir Charles Dilke (Advanced Radical) assailed the foreign policy of the Government.

In the course of his reply, the Under Foreign Secretary, Lord Cranborne, denied that Great Britain was getting the worst of it in Manchuria, where, he said, Great Britain recognized the open door policy. Referring to the Canadian tariff question, Lord Cranborne said they must put their own colonies first, and an end must be put at once to the disabilities under which they suffered.

In reply to Joseph Walton, Lord Cranborne said: "Our ally, Japan, is becoming uneasy at the prolongation of the occupation of Manchuria, and we are equally anxious for some kind of a settlement. There are certain elements out of which an agreement ought to be possible, and if Russia is prepared to give due weight to our treaty rights and commercial interests, she will not find us irreconcilable to the compromise."

Addressing the Primrose League at a dinner last night, at the Hotel Cecil, Premier Balfour warmly defended Colonial Secretary Chamberlain against unreasonable attacks, because he had given expression to the views of the colonies on the fiscal questions.

Mr. Balfour reiterated his previous statement, that the Government approached the question with an open mind, and said it was folly to expect the Ministry on a moment's notice to produce a formulated scheme on such a great subject.

First Reading in Lords.

London, July 24.—The Irish land bill passed its first reading in the House of Lords yesterday. The second reading was fixed for August 3.

DIED IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Death of a Daughter of Sir Henri Joly de Lotbiniere.

Peterboro, July 24.—Word was received in town Wednesday morning of the death of Mrs. Greenwood, which occurred at Johannesburg, South Africa, on July 14, of pneumonia. The deceased lady was the daughter of Sir Henry Joly de Lotbiniere, Lieut.-Governor of British Columbia, and she resided in Peterboro for a couple of years, before leaving to join her husband, who had gone to fight the battles of the Empire in South Africa.

Wholesale Car Robbery.

Niagara Falls, July 24.—Warrants were issued last evening for the arrest of twenty more New York Central Railroad clerks as the result of the robbing of freight cars on the Central road early Wednesday morning. Five clerks pleaded guilty and implicated many more.

The Soufriere Agitated.

Kingston, Island of St. Vincent, July 24.—The Soufriere volcano has been agitated since July 19, emitting puffs intermittently. A severe earthquake shock was felt at 1.40 a.m. yesterday.

English Novelist Dead.

London, July 24.—B. L. Farjeon, the novelist, died suddenly at his residence at Hampstead yesterday morning. Mr. Farjeon died from the rupture of a blood vessel.

$2,000 For the Carnival.

Hamilton, July 24.—The Finance Committee last night decided to recommend a grant of $2,000 to the carnival fund.

Earl of Ravensworth Dead.

London, July 23.—Henry George Liddell, second Earl of Ravensworth, is dead. He was born in 1821.

Lord "Bobs" May Come.

London, July 24.—Lord Roberts will visit the United States in the fall if his duties permit.

BASEBALL THURSDAY.

The Eastern League.

Buffalo ....2 1 0 0 0 0 1 0 1—5

Toronto ....1 0 3 0 0 0 0 0 0—4

Runs off each pitcher—Ferry 4, Hooker 0. Innings pitched—Ferry 3, Hooker 6. Hits off each pitcher—Ferry 4, Hooker 4. Earned runs—Buffalo 1, Toronto 0. First base on balls—Off Ferry 4, Hooker 1, Wolfe 3. Struck out—By Ferry 3, by Hooker 2. Three-base hit—McIntyre. Sacrifice hits—Ferry, Shearon, Downey. Stolen bases—Gettman 2, White, Toft, Brodie. Left on bases—Buffalo 8, Toronto 9. Wild pitches—Wolfe, Hooker. Umpire — Swartwood. Time of game—2.05. Attendance—4177.

R.H.E.

Newark ....0 0 0 1 1 3 0 0 *—5 8 1

Montreal ....0 1 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—2 12 3

Batteries—Newenham and Shea; Luyster and McAuley. Umpire—Latham. Attendance—1200.

R.H.E.

Jersey City ... 2 3 0 0 0 1 0 2 0—13 14 3

Providence ... 1 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0— 2 4 4

Batteries—Pfanmiller, Dillon and McManus; Viau and Duggan. Umpire—Shannon. Attendance—500.

Baltimore .... ..1 0 2 0 1 1 0 6 *—11 15 3

Rochester .... ..0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 1—2 6 3

Batteries—Pounds and Robinson; Gettig and Steelman. Umpire—Brown. Attendance—1506.

National League Scores.

At Philadelphia— R.H.E.

New York ....0 1 0 0 1 1 0 0 2—5 9 0

Philadelphia ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—1 5 1

Batteries—Miller and Warner; Mitchel and Dooin. Umpire—Emslie. Attendance—1879.

At Chicago— R.H.E.

Chicago ....0 0 2 2 0 0 0 1 *—5 13 3

Cincinnati ....0 0 0 0 0 1 1 0 0—2 7 3

Batteries—Wicker and Kling; Suthoff and Bergen. Umpire—O'Day. Attendance—3700.

American League Results.

At Washington— R.H.E.

Washington .. ..0 0 0 0 0 0 3 0 0—3 6 3

Philadelphia ....5 0 0 3 0 1 1 1 0—11 17 1

Batteries—Patten and Kittredge; Waddell and Schreck, Umpire—Hassett. Attendance—2374.

At Detroit— R.H.E.

Detroit ....0 0 4 1 0 0 0 0 *—5 8 0

Chicago ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 5 1

Batteries—Donovan and McGuire; Owen, Altrock and Slattery. Umpire—Connolly. Attendance—3474.

At New York (first game)— R.H.T

Boston ....0 0 0 0 0 1 1 0 4—6 12 1

New York .... ..0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0—1 7 0

Batteries—Young and Criger; Chesbro and Connor.

Second game— R.H.E

Boston ....0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—2 3 2

New York ....0 0 0 0 0 1 0 3 *—4 8 2

Batteries—Hughes and Stahl; Deering and Neville. Umpire—Sheridan. Attendance—5063.

At Cleveland— R.H.E.

Cleveland ....0 0 1 1 0 0 0 0 *—2 11 0

St. Louis ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 3 2

Batteries—Joss and Abbott; Sievers and Kahoe. Umpire—O'Loughlin. Attendance—5143.

DROWNING OF MRS. J. J. FOY

In Some Mysterious Manner Fell Overboard Str. Macassa.

Mrs. Foy Left Her Two Nurses to Go to the Stern of the Boat and Shortly After the Cry "Man Overboard" Rang Out—The Unfortunate Lady Was Rescued in Ten Minutes, But Died From Shock Before Reaching Hamilton.

Hamilton, July 24.—Mrs. J. J. Foy, wife of J. J. Foy, K.C., M.P.P., of Toronto, in some mysterious manner fell overboard from the steamer Macassa yesterday afternoon and was drowned before aid could reach her.

An air of mystery was thrown over the sad affair by the nurse who accompanied Mrs. Foy on the boat from Toronto, giving her name as Mrs. Pringle. This was corrected later removing a serious misapprehension. The names of the two nurses who attended her gave their names as Miss Pringle and Miss Clement.

Mrs. Foy, who had been ill for some time was taking a trip to Hamilton intending to return by the 5 o'clock boat. Having expressed a wish to go to the stern of the boat she left her attendants. Shortly after the warning cry of "man overboard" brought the attention of those on deck to Mrs. Foy struggling in the water. The steamer righted about, and in ten minutes after the alarm had been given she was picked up and brought aboard. Life was still manifest, but from the shock of falling from such a height, aided by the large quantity of water she swallowed, all efforts to resuscitate her were unavailing. Mrs. Foy died before reaching Hamilton. The sad affair occurred just after the Macassa had passed Oakville.

Miss Pringle, who at first gave the name of the drowned lady as Mrs. Pringle, explained that she did so on the spur of the moment without any definite reason. On reaching Hamilton Word was at once set to Mr. Foy, who hurried to the side of his dead wife. He returned with the remains on the 8.10 C.P.R. train last night. Coroner White was notified of the accident. He viewed the remains, but did not think it necessary, under the circumstances, to hold an inquest.

CYCLIST LOST A LEG.

Alexander Sims Collides With an Engine and Is Badly Hurt.

Toronto, July 24.—While hurriedly riding a bicycle in from Toronto Junction, Alexander Sims, an employe at the Pulley Works, ran into a passing engine at the Bloor street G. T. R. crossing, which a line of freight cars had hidden from view. He was thrown from his wheel and fell with one leg across the west track and the hind truck of the engine severed the leg a little above his ankle. He was taken to the Emergency Hospital, where the physicians are confident of his recovery, unless there is some internal injury. His home is at 210 Bathurst street.

Rolland Passes Away.

Galt, July 24.—Ralph Rolland, the young blacksmith, who was so seriously injured on the 21st by accidentally falling into the 25-foot rock-faced chasm while coming from the railway wreck on his bicycle, died last evening at Galt Hospital. An operation was performed Wednesday, which showed that he was injured internally, and so severely that death was inevitable. His widowed mother, postmistress at Henfryn, Ont., was with him when he passed away.

Fell From Roof to Death.

Barrie, June 24.—Henry Tuck, a young farmer of Edenval, sixteen miles north of here, was almost instantly killed Tuesday afternoon. While at work upon the roof of a big barn belonging to his brother, Alfred Tuck, he slipped and fell to the ground, receiving injuries from which he died shortly afterwards. He was about 20 years of age and unmarried.

John Hayman Killed.

London, Ont., July 24.—John Hayman, jun., contractor, of Dundas street, fell from a building on Clarence street about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and died from the injuries he received at 7 o'clock at Victoria Hospital. Hayman was one of the firm of John Hayman & Son, contractors.

Child Out of Car Window.

[illegible], July 24.—As the C.P.R. train approached the station yesterday afternoon, a child was seen to fall out of one of the windows. It proved to be the four-year-old daughter of Mrs. Genest of Winnipeg, who was coming to visit friends here. The child was standing near an open window, and when the train rounded a sharp curve the jolt caused her to fall out of the window. She was badly hurt, but less seriously than might have been expected. No serious results are feared.

Car Truck Broke.

Mount Forest, July 24.—The afternoon mixed train on the Grand Trunk going to Durham Wednesday jumped the track between Holstein and Varney. The passengers received a severe shaking up, but no one was injured seriously, although Conductor Lavelle did not feel well enough to go on duty yesterday morning. Eight cars left the track.

Murdered in California.

Victoria, B. C., July 24.—Captain Tom Howard, paymaster of the Red River expedition and first Provincial Treasurer of the Clark Government of Manitoba, has been found murdered in California.

MURDER IN QUEBEC.

Dick Mann, a Farmer, Terribly Pounded With a Stick.

St. John, N.B., July 24.—(Campbell, N.B.)—Word was received last night of a murder committed at Cross Point, Que., opposite this town. The body of Dick Mann, a farmer and lumberman, belonging to Main River, Restigouche County, N. B., was found last evening. He had been terribly pounded with a very heavy piece of wood. There are suspicions as to the perpetrator of the crime.

IN PHŒNIX PARK, DUBLIN.

Twenty Thousand Troops Parade Before the King—Record Muster of Soldiers Witnessed by Enormous Crowd.

Dublin, July 24.—King Edward yesterday reviewed 15,000 troops and 5,000 men of the Naval Brigade in Phoenix Park. When the ground was packed by tens of thousands of spectators it made by far the most brilliant scene of the many witnessed since Their Majesties' arrival in Dublin.

It was the largest muster of troops ever seen at a review in Ireland. The Duke of Connaught was in command.

The King was attended by the Lord Lieutenant, the Earl of Dudley, and a numerous suite. Prior to leaving the vice regal lodge His Majesty presented colors to the Royal Hibernian Military School.

It was after midnight when the day's festivities closed. The King and Queen held court at the castle last night, and in the famous St. Patrick's Hall, which was gorgeously decorated and illuminated for the occasion. Their Majesties entered the hall at 10.30 p.m., with all the accompaniments of state and took their places near the throne, which was the centre of a brilliant group. There they received the most representative body of the Irish nobility, and the Irish people, which has been seen at the castle in years.

CANADIANS AT BISLEY.

Good Shooting Was Very Difficult on Account of Rain.

Bisley, July 24.—Rain all the day yesterday made it very unpleasant for the marksmen and rendered good shooting very difficult. In the Duke of Cambridge the following scores have been made: O'Brien 45, King 32, Spearing 32, Vroom 36.

McGregor, 8th place, wins £4; Stuart, 15th, wins £2; O'Brien, 25th, wins £2; White, 31st, wins £2.

In the St. George's first stage at 600 yards, the following scores have been made: Annand 28, Crowe 28, Drysdale 30, Elliott 29, King 23, Russell 32, Simpson 32, Smith 27, Jones 28, Morris 27, McGregor 28, Hayhurst 25, Spearing 31, Skedden 29, Vroom 29, White 31.

In the "Scurry" St. George's at 500 yards, White took 7th place, winning £1 14s.

In the Range Prizes, King's, at 500 yards, Hayhurst, 19th, wins £1, McGregor, 20th, wins £1.

In the Association Bayles has scored 70.

In the St. George's, 500 yards, the following scores were made: Naughton 30, O'Brien 30, Peddie 26, Spearing 31, Stuart 27.

ONE PRINCE HAS FLED.

Four Assassinations in Prince Ferdinand's Palace Guard.

Vienna, July 24.—The Stampa and other Belgrade papers publish rumors of a revolution in Bulgaria, and that Prince Ferdinand, on the advice of his Government, is about to flee, or has fled to Belgrade. Thus far the rumors have not been officially confirmed. It is said at Belgrade that there have been four assassinations, mostly of soldiers on duty in Prince Ferdinand's palace guard.

When Embargo Is Removed.

Washington, July 24. — United States Secretary of Agriculture Wilson yesterday issued an order removing the prohibition against the exportation of cattle, sheep and other ruminants, and swine from the port of Boston on account of the existence of foot and mouth disease. Shipments will be resumed as soon as the British Government removes the embargo, which it has had in force against New England ports.

French Fisheries Suffer.

St. John's, Nfld., July 24.—The failure of the French fisheries on the Grand Banks this season has been the worst for a decade. Many large vessels returned not a quarter filled, and the average of the fleet was hardly half a catch. Fifteen vessels were lost, two foundering with their entire crews. The outlook at St. Pierre is most distressing.

DURING THE WARM WEATHER.

Even during the warmest weather Angier's Petroleum Emulsion is pleasant to take, and agreeable to the stomach. For this reason it is the ideal remedy for consumption. Made of odorless and tasteless petroleum, glycerine, and hypophosphites, it is better in every way than emulsions made of fish oils or other fats.

NESTLÉ'S FOOD.

NESTLÉ'S FOOD.
A PERFECT NUTRIMENT FOR INFANTS, CHILDREN

The selection of a proper food for the baby is of vital importance It must be nourishing, easily assimilated, readily digested, and must never vary in quality.

Nestlé's Food has all these requisites. It is made from cow's milk—the most nourishing of all substances—and requires only the addition of water to be ready for use.

Samples (sufficient for eight meals) free.

LEEMING MILES & CO. MONTREAL.

PARLIAMENTARY.

Proceedings in the Senate and House of Commons and In Various Important Committees on Thursday.

Ottawa, July 24.—In reply to Mr. R. L. Borden yesterday, Sir Wilfrid Laurier promised to lay on the table of the House at its next sitting a letter he had received from Sir William Van Horne declining the chairmanship of the Railway Commission.

In reply to the charge made in the stock speculation debate the other day that Mr. Henri Bourassa had been put up by the Government to kill time, Mr. Bourassa said he acted in good faith and on his own initiative.

No Hope For Mediation.

Mr. Ralph Smith asked if the Minister of Labor had had representations made to him regarding the moulders' strike in Toronto. He understood the importation of men from the Old Country had aggravated the trouble.

Sir William Mulock replied that he had instructed the Department of Labor to offer its services as mediator to both sides. He was not hopeful about the outcome of mediation.

Date Fixed at July 1, 1904.

Mr. Fisher's bill respecting the inspection of seeds was taken up in committee of the House.

Mr. Fisher, in deference to the strong criticism expressed by several members on his own side of the House, moved an amendment to provide that the bill should not come into effect until July 1, 1904. The bill was then passed through committee.

The Indian estimates were passed and those for the Yukon were taken up. After having passed all the items for the Yukon, the House adjourned at 12.15.

Mr. Tarte Takes Responsibility.

Ottawa, July 24.—The Committee on Privileges and Elections commenced this morning an inquiry into the charges made by Mr. F. D. Monk in the House of Commons Wednesday respecting the purchase of a site for a postoffice at Valleyfield of property owned by the sitting member, Mr. Geo. Loy.

Mr. Tarte testified. While Minister of Public Works, he decided to purchase Mr. Loy's property without that gentleman's knowledge. Accordingly, he instructed Mr. Dandurand, a real estate broker at Valleyfield, to purchase the lot, but to conceal from Mr. Loy the fact that the Government was the purchaser. In order to accomplish this effectually, Mr. Dandurand purchased the property, through a third party named R. B. Johnston, who, Mr. Tarte said, was an entire stranger to him. The price paid, $10,000, was not, he thought, unreasonable, and the Government could make money out of the purchase to-day if the lot was sold. As far as his knowledge went, Mr. Loy had no idea of the identity of the purchaser. In taking this course, Mr. Tarte said he believed that he was in no way rendering Mr. Loy amenable to the provisions of the independence of Parliament act, as he was an innocent party to the transaction.

The committee will meet again this morning, when Mr. Loy will be heard.

The Redistribution Bill.

The Redistribution Committee held a final meeting last night. The proceedings were purely formal. Some minor corrections were made, and the schedules were put in shape for the bill, which will be shortly submitted to the House.

Mr. Borden moved an amendment to the schedule approved by the Liberal majority on the committee for each province. These amendments were declared lost.

SINCLAIR'S AD SINCLAIR'S AD.

Summer Sale Prices

If you are at all interested in Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Goods, our sale prices for this week should have a special attraction for you. Here are some of them.

34 Ladies' Cloth Skirts from $2.50 to $4.50, all this season's styles, will sell for .... $1.65 ea.

15 Ladies' Silk Waists will sell at ⅓ off regular prices.

20 Ladies' Cotton Dresses will sell at Half Price.

Your choice of all our Colored Shirt Waists, both Linen and Cotton, at 25 per cent. off.

All $1.25 and $1.35 Print Wrappers, will sell for $1.00

1 only Ladies' $22.50 Black Taffeta Coat, will sell for $15.00

NEW STYLES IN WHITE WAISTS.

These are some of the very newest creations in Ladies' White Waists, to sell from $1.25 to $3.50 each.

SUMMER WASH GOODS

Cut to fit and properly made in Black and Navy Spots and Stripes, nicely trimmed at $1.35, $1.50, $1.65, and $1.75 each. We also show White Pique and Linen Skirts, from $1.00 to $2.50 each.

Ladies' and Children's Vests.

We are now clearing the balance of our Summer Vests and offer some wonderful values from 5c and 25c each.

If YOU WANT WASH GOODS don't miss our 10c and 15c tables.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO.

30 Retail Stores DAVIES 30 Retail Stores

Saturday Specials

LARGE consignment of Choice Dairy Butter	18c per lb.
FINEST Creamery Butter, fresh made	20c per lb.
DAVIES Pure Leaf Lard, Kettle Rendered	2 for 25c
FRESH full cream Cheese New and Mild	2 for 25c
DAVIES special 40c Tea, selling for	25c per lb.
BEANS, Corn, and Pumpkin, good stock	3 for 25c
SALMON, Choice Quality, fresh packed	3 for 25c
PORK and Beans in Tomato or Chili Sauce	2 for 15c
HAMS Sugared Cured and mild by the whole or half	14c per lb.
BACON Mild Cured, by the whole or half	13c lb.

OUR Choice WESTERN BEEF is giving good satisfaction in Belleville. HAVE you tried a roast yet ?

CHOICE SPRING LAMB of the finest quality.

KINDLY order early, or use the PHONE. 286. DAILY DELIVERIES.

The WM. DAVIES CO., Limited.

SPECIAL OFFER

MIDSUMMER CLUBBING RATES.

Two Papers to January 1st, 1904

Family Herald & Weekly Star, and the Best Home Paper—The Weekly Intelligencer, BOTH for

65 CENTS

We are making this special offer as we require 1000 new subscriptions to our Weekly.

This offer is good to new subscribers only.

ADDRESS—
The Weekly Intelligencer
BELLEVILLE, ONT.

No agents handle this offer.

DOMINION EXHIBITION
1903 - TORONTO - 1903
AUG. 27th to SEPT. 12th

The Agricultural, Manufacturing and Natural resources of Canada will be exhibited on a scale never before attempted.

DAILY PARADES OF LIVE STOCK

E R

In addition, by order of HIS MAJESTY THE KING

THE JUBILEE PRESENTS

of his august mother, the late Queen Victoria, will be exhibited FREE, as well as, by permission of the Dowager Duchess of Dufferin and Ava,

THE DUFFERIN PRESENTS

And by permission of the Countess of Aberdeen treasures

OF IRISH MANUFACTURE

The special features, including an entirely new spectacular production entitled

A CARNIVAL IN VENICE

under the personal direction of Bolossi Kiralfy, will be on a scale never before attempted at an annual fair in any part of the world.

Reduced rates by land and water from everywhere. Consult your station agent.

W. K. McNAUGHT, President. J. O. ORR, Manager and Secretary.

For Torpid Liver, Flatulence, Constipation, Biliousness and Sick Headache, TAKE

BRISTOL'S Pills

Safe. Mild. Quick-acting, Painless, do not weaken, and always give satisfaction.

A reliable Household Medicine, can be taken at any season, by Adults or Children.

All druggists sell "BRISTOL'S."

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

—FOR—

Stylish and Durable Turnouts.

—Surreys	—Phaetons
—Corning Buggies	—Bike Buggies
—Piano Box Buggies	—Democrats
—Rubber Tire Buggies	—Grocer Wagons
—Micadoes	—Butcher Wagons

Cheese Factory Milk Wagons.
Steel Tubular Axle Lumber Wagons.

Rubber Tires put on your old wheels at reasonable prices.

Mill St, - - Belleville

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

THE NEW TRANSCONTINENTAL SCHEME—MILLIONS IN IT.

It is impossible for any one to fathom, at the present moment, the depth to which the Dominion is to be sunk in debt by the adoption of the proposed Government transcontinental scheme, owing to full particulars not yet being before them. Enough, however, has transpired to lead people to the conclusion that a gigantic expenditure of money is in view.

A contemporary, which has given the subject some study, diagnoses the whole scheme in the following terse and concise manner:

There is something very mysterious about the origin of this scheme to build a Government line from Moncton to Winnipeg for the Grand Trunk people. In the first place it is an open secret that the Grand Trunk people do not want it. They say it is being forced upon them for political reasons. Then the people of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, those most directly concerned, evidently do not want it, or Mr. Blair would scarcely take such strong ground against it.

Yet we find the whole scheme cut and dried by the Premier before he mentions it to his nominally responsible colleague, the Minister of Railways.

Manifestly, somebody is tremendously interested in the construction at the expense of the Government of a railway from Moncton to Winnipeg, to be run by the Grand Trunk; and it is not the Grand Trunk; it is not the people on the route; and it is not the Minister of Railways.

There is a good deal of money in building fifteen hundred or two thousand miles of railway when there is a Government ready to pay the bills. Rumor says that there is already forming a syndicate or syndicates to construct the line.

We strongly commend the syndicate scheme as an investment.

There are millions in it and the investor is at no risk and does not have to wait long for his profit.

It does not matter to the construction syndicate whether the Grand Trunk Pacific ever earns a cent of profit or not, there are millions to be made out of the construction contracts and the people of Canada pay!

It does not matter whether the Intercolonial is ruined or not, there are millions to be made out of building the Grand Trunk Pacific road and the people of Canada pay!

There is a good thing in hand and the man who can get in on the ground floor with him in the syndicate, or who can get a sub-contract has the opportunity of a life-time to get rich and to get rich in a few months. There is plenty of room for margin, because the people of Canada pay.

On such a deal as this a rake-off of a million or two for campaign purposes or for the inspiration of the press would be but a trifle.

But how are the members who vote for the deal going to answer the questions their electors are sure to ask? How are they going to justify such an atrocious transaction? They will be asked all kinds of pertinent and impertinent questions on the subject. They will be asked:

Why did you vote to squander fifty or a hundred million dollars of public money on a present for the Grand Trunk Pacific?

Why did you prefer the interests of a syndicate to those of the people of Canada?

Why did you vote for a project which must inevitably ruin the Intercolonial Railway, the most costly asset of the Dominion?

Why did you not rather vote to give this costly public property to the Grand Trunk people on condition of their extending the line to the Pacific?

Or why did you not rather favor the extension of the Intercolonial to the Pacific coast as a Government line?

Can you explain why the Government of Canada having built a railway from Moncton to Winnipeg should give it away?

How much did you make out of the deal?

Pertinent questions; difficult to answer!

TIMELY TOPICS

People who own vacant lots in this city should be compelled to fence them in. Stray children might get lost in the weeds.

* * *

When will Mr. O'Flynn and his noble band start to up-end those broken tombstones in the old d.s.b.g. and make the place presentable? It has taken about four years to get a wire fence round the old place. Perhaps the work may be completed by the end of the present century.

When you find the weather is Too Hot for you to go home
To Eat
then is the time to try our Lunch Room.
J. ARTHUR MARSH.

Toronto people are agitating for the introduction of smokeless fuel. Smokeless cigarettes would be a boon in this city.

* * *

Complaints are made about the poor illumination in the lighthouse down at the mouth of the harbor. People say it is more of a dark house than a lighthouse, but that is probably a warm weather joke. However, if it is to prove useful the windows should be cleaned and the lamps kept trimmed and burning brightly, something which, we are told, is not done at present.

* * *

Picton Times: Grace Methodist Church Sunday School, Belleville, will picnic at the True Blue orphanage on Friday, July 31.

That's a new one on us, though it's to be hoped all Belleville churches have plenty of grace.

* * *

Young Mr. Hammond, of The Globe staff, is writing an Ontario crop report for his paper. In this case, Mr. Hammond will not be asked "Can't you forget something?"

* * *

Ottawa has been nearly destroyed three times by fires which caught in the lumber piles that abound within the city limits. Naturally, the press has very strongly advocated their removal. But the City Council, by a vote of 16 to 6, has just decided that the lumber piles can stay. It is but charitable to suppose that some of the same material which makes up the said piles has been used in forming the heads of two-thirds of the City Council. A man must be a chump, or something worse, who cannot learn from bitter experience.

* * *

The City of Montreal is going to have its assessment rolls published in future, and The Gazette makes some comments on the matter which are worthy the attention of people in other places. It says:

"The printing of the assessment rolls may not do all the good that is expected from the step resolved on by the Finance Committee. It will secure a certain amount of publicity for the result of the assessors' work, and give those who think they have time for the duty an opportunity to compare the valuation of their own property with that of their neighbors. Then, if there is a seeming injustice, and their energy holds out, they may have their grievances remedied. The knowledge that this is possible will tend to make the assessors more careful; and that there is room for some of them exercising more care has been made fairly evident by recent events and the discussion arising thereon."

* * *

A SPLENDID CROP.

(Kingston Whig.)

The home-comers should be marched up Brock street so that they may see the splendid crop of weeds that has been raised upon it.

* * *

Everybody will sympathize with Mr. J. J. Foy, K.C., M.P.P., in the great and irreparable loss that has befallen him in the sad death, by drowning, of his wife. May his grief be lightened by the touch of an Almighty hand.

* * *

King Edward reviewing troops before a crowd of cheering people in historic Phoenix Park shows that things have changed tremendously for the better since "Skin the Goat" and his fellow-assassins murdered poor Lord Cavendish in the same place in 1882. The whirligig of time brings many changes, and "Edward the Peacemaker" may yet reign over a united and contented Ireland. All true men will certainly hope so.

* * *

Fish called "Tuna," seven feet long, are being caught in Cape Breton. Fancy catching a fish bigger than the Fishery Inspector!

* * *

Hot weather in Manitoba is causing the wheat to rust, and may cause a shrinkage in the crop. And the hot wave is travelling this way, worse luck.

* * *

The Soufriere volcano is again reported as becoming agitated. Probably it heard of Mr. J. M. Hurley's examination at Ottawa.

* * *

Premier Balfour has been warmly defending Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, but up to the hour of going to press it had not become apparent that the Hon. Joe was unable to take his own part as well as ever.

* * *

Belleville bicyclists have not quite made up their minds which are the worst—the approaches to the lower bridge or the Front street crossings. Any of 'em are fierce propositions.

* * *

It looks as though, sooner or later, war must come between Japan and Russia. And when it does come the Bear will have his work cut out. That's as true as any remark ever made by the immortal G. Washington.

* * *

HEARD AT THE BAND CONCERT.

"Who's going to act as Chief of Police while Chief Newton is away?"

"Oh, Inspector Arnott, I suppose. He needs another job to occupy his spare time."

"He wanted to say good-night and I told him, plainly, no! Poor fellow, he looked awful bad when he went away."

N.B.—If anybody is found drowned in the near future this will be a tip for the Coroner.

"What have they put the green light in the City Hall tower for?"

"Because the King is in Ireland, I suppose."

"They say Mr. Hurley is having the time of his life at Ottawa."

"Yes, he must feel about as jolly as a cat on hot bricks."

"Who do you think will be Mayor next year?"

"There's nobody in sight but Ald. Panter."

"Mr. Kirkwood would never make a pugilist."

"Why not?"

"He never looks for scrap."

"What's the band playing that dead march for?"

"That's in honor of the Grits in Manitoba."

BOYS' SUITS.

The Oak Hall have for years devoted special attention to the needs of boys, and can offer to parents a larger and more complete stock with lower prices than can be found elsewhere. We have suits particularly designed for school and play ground, made to stand all kinds of hardship. We are sole agents for Sanford's boys' clothing.

A Mother's Experiment In Grammar

Her little niece has been visiting them lately, and the queer ways she has of expressing herself keep the family amused whenever Bessie is about.

One funny little trick of hers is to ask for anything she wants in the plural. This habit is especially noticeable at the table. She will ask for "forks," "chops," "beefsteaks" and the like when it is only one thing she wants.

At dinner the other night her mother said: "Bessie, don't ask for rolls. You want only one at a time. Say 'Please give me a roll.'"

"Yes, mamma," said Bessie dutifully.

But quite soon came the request, "Please, may I have some more biscuits?"

"A biscuit," her mother corrected.

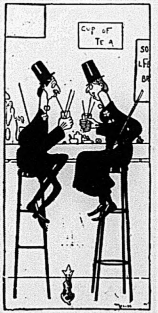
Bessie repeated the word carefully. And after that she got on swimmingly, for she was trying her little best to remember.

When the cheese was passed her eyes brightened. She loves it dearly, but is not often allowed to have it. She hesitated an instant and then leaned anxiously forward to her mother and said, in her soft, coaxing little voice:

"Mamma, will you please give me a chee?"

And she got some.—New York Times.

No Good.



Bertie—Did you hear my rich old uncle was dead?

Gussie—No. What did he leave you?

Bertie—Nothing.

Gussie—Well, what's the good of his being dead?

Now They Don't Speak.

Mrs. Cutting Hintz—Mr. Takem Wright, the photographer, said my baby was the prettiest baby he'd ever seen.

Mrs. Callier Down—That's strange. He said the same thing about mine.

Mrs. Cutting Hintz—Well, I guess he saw your baby before he saw mine.—Boston Globe.

A Payment.

Everbroke—I want to pay you something on account.

Tailor (rubbing his hands)—Ah, I'm glad to see you!

"Yes; I want to pay you a compliment on account of your artistic way of dunning. Sh! Not a word! You deserve it! Good morning!"—Kansas City Journal.

No man or woman will hesitate to speak well of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets after once trying them. They always produce a pleasant movement of the bowels improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. For sale by all druggists.

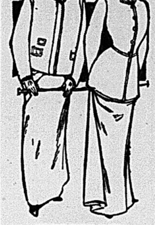
OUTING FASHIONS.

SMART SUMMER WEAR IN RIDING HABITS AND BATHING DRESS.

Park Habits Severely Plain—Much Latitude In Dress For Country Use. Black Straw Sailors the Latest Mode—Bathing Suits.

A good sportswoman lives up to the fitness of dress for every occasion. There are certain traditions the spirit of which still lives, though the material side is subject to the changes of fashion, as in the cut of the coat and the skirt and the model of the hat.

Park riding habits are worn severely plain, with short safety skirts and half long basque coats or the three-quarter length which all tall, long waisted riders prefer. Seasonable tweeds and light weight habit cloths are now made up after the best English models—single breasted, buttoned down the front, with coat finish and revers, showing a high collar and cravat, the coat sleeve and rounding fronts to the basque or coat skirt.



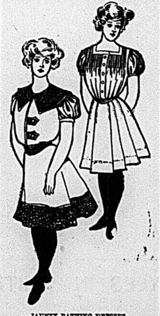
CORRECT RIDING HABITS.

Tan and dust gray cloth mixtures for country riding are in good form, while black and invisible blue cloth are considered fittest for park habits.

Summer habits for country use have a far greater latitude, as individual comfort is then considered, but when riders are at fashionable watering places they still keep up the regulation park dress, the lighter weight of the habit cloth being the only difference, together with the change to a straw sailor hat, black ones being the latest mode.

The first illustration shows a box saddle coat of tan covert cloth with the conventional habit skirt of Oxford gray cheviot. The second model is a single breasted tight fitting coat with skirt pieces and a habit skirt of Cambridge gray whipcord.

Bathing suits, jaunty, but quite practical, appear in the second cut. One is a five gored navy blue mohair sicilienne skirt with deep hem of the same tone of mohair, dotted with white, piped at the top with a blue and white cord, the front tabs, collar and high belt being also of the dotted goods.



JAUNTY BATHING DRESSES.

The black mohair sicilienne suit of the second cut has a five gore plaited skirt and square necked waist finished with black and white silk braid.—Vogue.

Household Brevities.

Wash matting with soft water and salt only.

A little turpentine takes the grease off old furniture previous to repolishing.

To add a dash of black pepper to vanilla ice cream is one of the wrinkles of the cooks.

Cool water with a little borax or ammonia in it is preferable to soap and hot water on white paint.

Clean the clogged sewing machine first with gasoline liberally applied from an ordinary machine oil can, then oil as usual.

Two tablespoonfuls each of alcohol and ammonia to a pint of gasoline is said to be an improvement on the pure gasoline for cleaning dress goods.

The satisfaction of having the washing done early in the day, and well done, belongs to every user of Sunlight Soap. 10B

THE WEATHER.

To-day's Probs—

Light to moderate variable winds, fine and decidedly warm to-day and on Saturday.

To-day's Temperature

As Registered by The Intelligencer's Guaranteed Thermometer:

8 a.m.	71
12 m.	80
2 p.m.	86
3 p.m.	84

At no resort can children derive more health and enjoyment than at the MAGI Caledonia Springs.

We Have the Sellers

Ladies' Sterling Silver French-Grey Hat-Pins. In these we show a variety of designs, all new, 35c to 75c.

Ladies' Sterling Silver Enamelled and French-Grey Belt-Pins. These are the very newest on the market and must be seen to be appreciated. Prices 75c to $3.50.

Ladies' Bead Guards

These are immensely popular at present in the American cities, and are certainly an improvement to any summer dress. We show some beauties in the Roman-Filled Pearls, in both long guards and short necklaces, In the Corals the long guards are 75c to $1.50 and the short necklaces 50c and $1.00

Angus McFee.
Jeweler & Optician
310 Front St.
The Store with the Big Clock.

A Cheese Thief.

Some time during Saturday night Zion cheese factory, in Thurlow, was entered, and the thief, not being able to carry off a whole cheese, cut one in two. An entrance was effected through a window, which was partially opened.

VALUABLE ADVICE TO RHEUMATICS.

Eat meat sparingly, and take very little sugar. Avoid damp feet, drink water abundantly, and always rely on Polson's Nerviline as an absolute reliever of rheumatic pains. Being five times stronger than other remedies, its power over pain is simply beyond belief. Buy a large 25 cent bottle to-day, test it, and see if this is not so. Polson's Nerviline always cures rheumatism.

In the Justice Shop.

Alleged Assault.

Walter Kellar was charged with assaulting Mrs. E. Dingman. The charge was subsequently withdrawn, but Kellar had to pay $2.50 costs.

A Thurlow Case.

Gilbert Clapp was charged with assaulting, using abusive language and refusing to pay one Wm. Whiteman $8.50, alleged due for wages. The plaintiff worked for the defendant and left on Monday last when the alleged trouble took place. The parties reside in Thurlow. Case in progress this afternoon. Mr. McMahon for plaintiff and Mr. W. S. Morden for defendant.

CHEAP TRIPS.

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay. Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

1,000 ISLANDS AND ROCHESTER.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian" leave Belleville for Thousand Islands at 3.25 a.m., daily except Mondays. Fare $1.00. Returning Str. leaves at 11.38 p.m. for Rochester, N.Y. m26d&w3m

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R., C.S., England.
Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. J. F. MATHER
Has removed his office to Pinnacle St., three doors north of Hotel Quinte. my29-6mw

DENTAL.
Dr. Clarke has removed to the offices formerly occupied by the late Dr. Ward, over Burrows', and opposite Scantlebury's Book Store. a27dtf

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—9 Campbell Street.

MALCOLM WRIGHT.
J. FRANKLIN WILLS.
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for the City of Belleville.
Office—Metropolitan Block, Corner Front and Campbell Streets.

PORTER & CARNEW,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices — Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 87.
E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Office, Bridge Street, Belleville.
Money to Loan — Private Funds, Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, Etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent., on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire Insurance.

Guardian	Est'd 1821
The North America,	Est'd 1792
Quebec,	Est'd 1818

City, Town and Village Property insure at lowest rates.
R. W. ADAMS. Agent.
Office opposite Post Office.

THOS. STEWART,
Insurance and Commission Agent.
Agent for the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Scottish Union National Insurance Co.,
BRIDGE, ST.

FIRE, LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE

At Lowest Rates The Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Perth Mutual on farm and city property. Also money to loan at 4½ per cent. upwards.
JAMES A. CHISHOLM.
Office Ashley Block, Front st., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned

can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at lower rate than other stock companies Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance.

Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont,
Lloyd's Plate Glass,
Home Life Association, Toronto,
North British & Mercantile,
Farm and City Property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation, and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan & Investment Society. Money to Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, Office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., opposite Postoffice and Hotel Quinte, Belleville,
'Phone 168.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. G. NORTHRUP,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Shire Hall, Belleville, Ont.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the Post Office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St, Appointments made.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

A man is generally at his heaviest in his fortieth year.

Our Mid= Summer Sale

Our entire stock of FANCY GOODS.

Including China (cups and saucers, Vases, Dishes, etc., etc.), Brass Goods, Candles, Silk Shades, Brushes (both hat and hair), Mirrors, Candlebras, Dickens and Art Pottery Ware, all 40 per cent. off regular prices.

Wrist Bags AND Chatelaines

Latest New York designs in walrus, seal and other leathers, from 35c to $7.00 each, all

25 per cent. off regular price.

Framed Pictures

Entire stock of our Art Gallery, comprising Steel Engravings, Platimums, Prints, etc., beautifully framed. Prices from 50c to $25, all

30 per cent. off regular prices

Wall Paper

Special prices on all Wall Papers and free bordering—2 yards with each double roll,

Paper Hanging and Painting—the largest and most efficient staff of workmen.

C. B. Scantlebury

Belleville's Decorator.

Wall Paper Wholesale and Retail.

FAST MAIL SERVICE

Bay of Quinte Route
TO
ROCHESTER N. Y.
Strs. "North King" and "Caspian"
Taking Effect 27th June.

GOING DAILY (EXCEPT MONDAY)
Lv. Belleville .... 11.38 p. m.
Ar. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 6.43 a. m
RETURNING DAILY (Except Sunday)
Lv. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 8.30 p. m.
Ar. Belleville .... 3.25 a. m.

Baggage checked to all points. Connection with all railways.

$1.00 THOUSAND ISLANDS $1.00
AND RETURN.

Commencing 28th June. Steamer leaves Belleville at 3.25 a.m. daily except Monday for 1000 Islands, calling at Bay of Quinte ports, Kingston, Alexandria Bay and Gananoque. Passing through American and Canadian channels.

Right reserved to change time with or without notice.

Full information from
THE RATHBUN CO., U. E. THOMPSON, } Agents.
E. E. HORSEY, G. P. & F. Agent, Kingston.

Str. "Alexandria"

Montreal, Rochester & Quebec Transit Co'y.

Popular Quebec Excursions NOW ON.

Belleville to Quebec and return.. $18.00
Belleville to Montreal and return $12.00
(including meals and berth)
Steamer runs all rapids.
For Rochester, Olcott Beach, Niagara Falls and Buffalo every Saturday at 11 a.m.
Particulars from
A. W. HEPBURN, General Manager, Picton, Ont.
THE RATHBUN CO. Agents. Belleville.

The Deseronto Navigation Co

TIME TABLE.
Taking effect April 13, 1903,
Belleville, Trenton, Picton & Napanee
Str. "ELLA ROSS"

Leaves Belleville for Trenton at 10 a. m., daily, Sundays Excepted, returning leaves Trenton at 1 p. m., leaving Belleville at 3 p.m. for Deseronto, Napanee and Picton.

Quick and Superior Service to NEW YORK CITY

Steamers RESOLUTE and RELIANCE will leave Deseronto for Oswego after arrival of Str. Ella Ross connecting at Oswego with the New York, Ontario Western Ry.

Fare to New York, Single, $8.40
Return, $13.25

For further particulars apply to THE RATHBUN CO., Local Agents

J. F CHAPMAN, Asst. Gen. Frt. Pass. Agt., Deseronto
R. C Carter, General Manager, Deseronto.

Steamer Armenia Saturday afternoon excursion to Napanee, July 25th, at 2.30 p.m. Will be home at 9.30 p.m. Adults 35c, children 15c. Thos. Stewart, Agent, Bridge St.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

New train 12.45 a.m., daily, except Sunday, for Brockville, Montreal and intermediate stations.
No. 16—Local, for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 2—1.45 a.m., Mail and Express, (Flyer), Daily.
No. 6—11.43 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.22 p.m., International Limited, Daily,
No. 12—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday,

Going West.

No. 5—9 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily except Monday,
No. 3—4.10 a.m., Limited Express, Daily.
No. 9—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday,
No. 11—11.22 a.m., Passenger, Daily except Sunday.
No. 1—1.48 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7—5.12 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

Taking effect 12.01 o'clock, Sunday, June 14, 1903.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	9.10 a.m.	7.30 a.m.
Mixed	5.08 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 402 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

self, I cannot tell what awaits me. I shall remain true to you, but it may be at an expense of trial and suffering you do not dream of. The future may contain happiness for us, but, to me, it seems hidden behind a cloud."

Claude exerted his utmost power to comfort the despondent girl. And he succeeded, in a measure. The nature of Rosa Bruyn was to reflect the moods of others. She possessed great depth of character, and firmness and a resolute spirit were there, but far hidden in the depths, and only to be called forth by some great emergency. On the surface, her sweetness and kindliness seemed naturally to appeal for sympathy and support, and hence it was easy for her to take strong impressions from the moods of others. Claude, in particular, exercised an almost supreme control over her. His bold, confident, aspiring nature was the opposite of her quiet, unaggressive disposition, and in his society she rarely failed to catch and reflect his humor, though not the less did her own sweet individually assert itself in influence upon his somewhat reckless character.

They did not linger long. Rosa had her errand to accomplish, and Ralph accompanied her to the other side of the wood, toward the village, and, after an affectionate parting, and a pledge to see her daily before his departure, he returned to Rolff House.

His mind was full of a weight of care and doubt. Almost unconsciously, he proceeded to his room, and taking down the box that contained the mysterious roll confided to him by his aunt, he examined it long and curiously. Then he read over carefully the paper of instructions that was also contained in the box. There were two keys in the box. From the paper, he learned that the small one was the key to the old south cellar, while a large and massive one, rusty with age and disuse, was the key to the vault of which his aunt had spoken.

Claude had never entered the old cellar. The door had always been kept locked, and his aunt had retained the key. He now resolved to gratify his curiosity in regard to the old cellar and its curious vault—of which he had never heard previous to his aunt's communication, except as a superstitious rumor in the mouths of gossiping people, which he had regarded as silly and false.

With the key in his pocket, he proceeded through the old hall, then down a flight of stairs to the basement, in which there were several rooms, most of them empty and illy lighted. A narrow dark passage led for some distance from the flight of steps by which he had descended toward the south side of the house, and at the end of this passage was a door and another flight of steps that gave access to the south cellar. The massive foundation of Rolff House was divided into several vault-like apartments, separated by heavy stone walls through which there was no communication, and access to each was by a flight of steps from above and a single door.

Claude descended the steps to the old cellar door, and, in the total darkness, searched for the key-hole, and with difficulty inserted the key and turned the rusty wards. Then moving back the door on its creaking hinges, he entered the old cellar.

On entering, he could not distinguish anything for a moment in the dim, uncertain light that came from one small, very narrow window in the heavy foudation wall. Gradually his surroundings became visible, and he found that he was in a quite large, rather oblong and dungeon-like room, surrounded by heavy stone walls on all sides. Above his head the heavy beams of the foundation floor were dark with mold and age, and festooned with the cobwebs of generations. The one window was so narrow that it admitted but a faint light, and Claude had to strain his eyes to note these things. In moving about in this dark, underground place, he was surprised to notice a flight of very narrow stone steps in the foundation wall, leading apparently to the outside. He strained his eyes, but could see nothing in the darkness. He cautiously proceeded up the steps, and discovered that the entrance at the top was apparently closed in by a heavy stone slab. Descending the steps, he proceeded to search for the vault. After a time, he discovered a small but massive stone door, that was set in the inner wall of the cellar. This door was the only indication of a vault or receptacle of any kind, but he noticed that the stones surrounding it were of a peculiarly massive kind. A single key hole was cut in the door, but there was no sign of hinge or knob by which it was held in place or might be opened and closed. The heavy stone slab was fitted so nicely into the masonry surrounding it that there was scarce a chance even for dust to enter.

This, then, must be the mysterious vault. Claude examined it closely and most curiously. Why was it built, and what did it contain? Why were its contents so jealously guarded, and access to it so hedged in by strange conditions? Was here hidden the stored wealth which he felt sure his aunt had saved, as well as the remaining treasures of his grandfather's suspiciously-gotten fortune? Claude asked himself these questions. He could not help but think that the heavy stone door concealed the secret of much that was mysterious in his life and circumstances.

Would he ever learn the secret, and solve the mystery? He almost felt shaken in his plan to leave the country. By waiting, in a month or two, the secret might be his. But, no—his old pride and determination arose. He half murmured and half thought, as he gazed on the impassive stone door, "Be your secret or your treasure what it may, I alone possess the key, and I can wait. I have made my plans, and I will carry them out. The secret here shut up will wait for me."

Claude was as good as his word. Ere a fortnight more had passed, he had taken leave of Rolff House, of his friends, of wearisome business details, of the sober Dutch village, and, lastly, of sweet and tearful Rosa Bruyn, and was on his way across the broad Atlantic.

CHAPTER IX.

It was not many days before Jacobus Bruyn took occasion to call upon Lawyer Saybrook to consult with him in regard to the Rolff property.

As may be imagined, the sudden departure for Europe of the young heir of Rolff House had been the cause of unlimited gossip in the little place. In some mysterious manner, pretty much all of the legal transactions in which Claude had been engaged had leaked out and become the subject of public talk, and, naturally, the truth had been improved upon in various ways as the details passed from mouth to mouth.

The good burghers shook their heads gravely as they commented on the recklessness of the young man, and many were the predictions that he would soon "come to a bad end." And when Lawyer Saybrook's name was mentioned, there were knowing nods and winks, and voices were lowered as comments were freely made on the sharp bargains he had driven with the young man in supplying him with money for his European trip.

These stories had of course come to the ears of Farmer Bruyn. The Rolff property adjoined his lands on its western side. The old wood, mentioned in a previous chapter, extending across into the bounds of the property of the shrewd, acquisitive old farmer, and for years he had had his eyes on it and the adjoining meadow land as a most desirable addition to his farm if it ever became purchasable. But so long as the aged mistress of Rolff House lived, no such result was posible. The old lady would not listen to a proposition to sell a foot of her lands. But now rumor was busily circulating the tale that young Rolff had privately deeded all of the land in question to Lawyer Saybrook as security for certain moneys advanced him, and already the public was beginning to look upon the shrewd lawyer as the coming owner of Rolff House.

Farmer Bruyn credited these tales; and he had no doubt that, if the lawyer became the owner of the property, he would soon be disposed to put it in the market for sale. So he hastened at once to inquire into the matter.

The man of law was delighted to see the old farmer. He shook his hand with cordial warmth, and the keen, self-satisfied twinkle in his eyes indicated that perhaps the visit was not unexpected by him. Nevertheless, he professed surprise that the farmer could have any business with him in regard to the Rolff estate, and handed him a chair and sat down beside him with a well-assumed air of interest and innocence

It was a subject for the pencil of a Hogarth—the pale, smooth, keen-visaged lawyer, leaning back in his chair, with a countenance full of mystification that was belied by the intelligent twinkle of his eye, as the blunt, straightforward farmer stated the object of his visit.

"Why, this is strange, very strange," remarked the lawyer, as the old man concluded; "in fact, I think I may say, it is a complete surprise. Why, really, my dear sir——"

"No need for surprise," interrupted the farmer. "I want the old wood and the meadow land between it and the road. I've had my eyes on that piece of land for years; and I'm ready to pay a good round price for it, money down."

"Of course, of course," replied the lawyer. "You come directly to the point, like a practical man; but, really, my dear sir, I fear you misapprehend the whole matter. I am not responsible for any stories that may be circulating about my transactions with the young heir who is my client. It is strange, very strange, how such stories get started; but I cannot assure you that all you hear is true, or that the property you desire is for sale or likely to be."

"Come, no beating about the bush," said the farmer, bluntly. "I got my story straight enough. The land is as good as yours. I want it. Now, if it is to be sold at any time, I'd like the first chance."

"Well, now, really, really," said the lawyer, straightening up in his chair, "I fear I will be compelled to lose a fine chance for a bargain. We can't believe all we hear, Mr. Bruyn. People will talk, you know. To be sure, I can't tell what may happen, nor can I deny or affirm that the property you mention may or may not be in the market one of these days. But, my dear sir, so far as any legal transactions I may have arranged with my young friend are concerned, I can assure you that public rumor is very much at fault. I may or may not have entered into certain arrangements that give me a prospective lien on various portions of the Rolff estate. There are mortgages, to be sure—and there may be some private contracts; but, sir, these may be intended as a mere matter of security, made with the understanding——"

"No matter for your understanding," interrupted the farmer. "I know you've got some hold on this property, and I know and you know that that young prodigal will never be able to claim it back. I want the land, and you don't. You're a lawyer, and what can you want of land except to drive a sharp bargain? I am willing to pay more than it is worth. Now, if you want to make a bargain——"

"Ah, if I do, my dear sir; but what if I don't? Eh, sir—what if I don't? Let us suppose for a moment—merely suppose for the sake of argument, my dear sir—that I have or may be able to have this property at my disposal. Does it naturally follow that I would wish to sell it? Would it not be more natural to assume that if, after many years of hard professional drudgery, I have managed to acquire a little money, and, in the legitimate course of my profession, have had an opportunity to invest it in a manner looking to the acquisition of certain lands, it may be my object to retire from my profession and settle down as a private country gentleman? Perhaps I am tired of professional life; perhaps I desire to pass the evening of my days as a rural gentleman and amateur agriculturist instead of a harrassed, overworked lawyer. Would anything be more natural, my dear sir? Furthermore, I have an only son, Mr. Bruyn, and although I have afforded him a good education, it does not necessarily follow that I wish him to be a lawyer like myself. I may have a different ambition for him. I may desire to see him become an honest, thriving agriculturist. Ah, Mr. Bruyn, professional life is full of care and the chances of failure are very large, while the tiller of the soil has an almost certain reward. Why should I not desire to see Ralph established ere I die in possession of a snug landed property? It is possible—I do not say probable—that the property we have been talking about may some day come into my hands; in fact, the possibilities in the case may not be limited to the possession of even this choice bit of the Rolff property. It wouldn't be a bad idea for a shrewd and enterprising man to get possession of the whole estate—eh, Mr. Bruyn? Mind, I do not say that there is any such chance at present; but who can tell what opportunities the future may offer? If any such happy fortune should be mine, I am inclined to think, Mr. Bruyn, that nothing would tempt me to dispose of a foot of the land It would rather be my ambition to become your good neighbor; and there would be no probability of your estate and mine ever being joined during my lifetime; none at all, I assure you—unless, indeed—but no matter; the idea is so remote that—"

"No, no—what is it" interrupted the farmer. "I am here to talk about joining these lands, and if there is a chance I want to know it. Come, what were you going to say. Out with it."

"Well, well—if your curiosity must be gratified. The thought flashed across my mind that I have an only son and you an only daughter; and if it should be that we become owners of adjoining estates, why, there might be such a thing as arranging terms for the ultimate union of the estates without any need of barter or sale. A mere suggestion, you will perceive, my dear Mr. Bruyn—quite improbable, in fact. In truth, I have never thought of the matter before, and have never said a word to Ralph on the subject; though, now I come to think of it, I have heard him speak admiringly of your daughter. And, really, my dear sir, you must allow me to congratulate you on the possession of such a lovely child. If I were Ralph, now—but, really, this subject is one that perhaps should not be trenched upon in a discussion based so entirely upon probabilities and the mere chances of fortune, so to speak."

The old farmer remained plunged for some time in a brown study.

"I never thought of this before," he said, at last. "I supposed if you got hold of any of this Rolff property you would want to sell it. But if you don't there's an end of that. To be sure, I have my daughter—and a rare girl she is, if I say it myself; and I don't intend she shall marry any rake or scatterbrains. There's young Rolf has been showing her attentions, and the girl was foolish enough to encourage him—for his looks and manners, I suppose. But I saw only one thing in his favor—he was going to have this property; but I soon made up my mind he'd never know enough to keep it; and I was right. Of course, he'll waste the property, and somebody will get it; and I shall be glad if it falls into no worse hands than your own. If it does, and you ever want to sell it, you can consider me a customer."

"If I ever have an opportunity to sell it, and desire to do so, I shall consider your offer, Mr. Bruyn," replied the lawyer, with an emphasis on the "if."

"And if you don't," continued Mr. Bruyn, "why, I hope we shall be good neighbors. More than that I can't say now."

"It is not necessary to say more, my dear sir," pursued Mr. Saybrook. "What more could I desire than to be your good neighbor? As events now shape, perhaps my ambition is not impossible of accomplishment. Ah, Mr. Bruyn, if my anxiety and efforts for Ralph could be thus rewarded, how happy I should be. No one can tell the interest I have taken in that boy. If I say it myself, he is a young man of rather uncommon parts, and of an intelligence and business turn quite remarkable for his years. I have taken great pains in his bringing up, my dear sir; and I venture to believe that he does me no discredit."

"No doubt of it," replied the farmer. "I have a good opinion of the lad myself. He's steady, and that's the main thing."

"Steady, Mr. Bruyn—why, sir, I feel that his character is founded on a rock, as it were, and cannot be moved. I have never known him to commit an improper or immoral act, or to manifest a single extravagant or wild trait."

The old farmer did not dissent from this eulogism; and, in fact, it was true enough in its way. Ralph had enough of worldly shrewdness to have a keen regard for his reputation, and, as character went in the retired community, he was a most exemplary young man, but one of a kind who was much more respected and liked by his elders than by those of his own age.

Farmer Bruyn soon took his departure, and the lawyer remained cogitating over the interview and its probable effects till Ralph came in.

The young man saw at once, by his father's gratified smile, that some favorable event had happened, and bent on him an enquiring glance.

(To be continued.)

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSI CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.

Signed, JEAN VALCOURT,
Wotton, P.Q. General Merchant

The best way to get even is to forget.

FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

Much talk, many lies.

If you have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary disease have drifted into a consumptive's grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes: "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

It takes money to voice the opinion of a lawyer.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, and disordered stomach.

A long portage makes a heavy canoe.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and na-

All trails are long to the lazy.

THEY DROVE PIMPLES AWAY.—A face covered with pimples is unsightly. It tells of internal irregularities which should long since have been corrected. The liver and the kidneys are not performing their functions in the healthy way they should, and these pimples are to let you know that the blood protests. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will drive them all away, and will leave the skin clear and clean. Try them, and there will be another witness to their excellence.

Coral is a talisman against thunder and evils by flood and field.

HAD LA GRIPPE.—Mr. A. Nickerson, farmer, Dutton, writes: "Last winter I had La Grippe and it left me with a severe pain in the small of my back and hip that used to catch me whenever I tried to climb a fence. This lasted for about two months, when I bought a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and used it both internally and externally, morning and evening, for three days, at the expiration of which time I was completely cured."

Many a man's self-conceit is due to his ignorance.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed 'Perfection.'

The average watch represents but 12 hours of human labor.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly subdues the pain and disease.

When one gets hopping mad his reason goes on a crutch.

Use the safe, pleasant, and effectual worm killer, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; nothing equals it. Procure a bottle and take it home.

The wildcat's teeth are close to its purr.

Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum of twenty-five cents.

Bank of Montreal

ESTABLISHED 1817.
Capital and Rest, All Paid Up
$23,000,000
(Twenty-three Millions)

Savings Bank Department
Interest on sums of $1.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.
A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville

RAINY WEATHER NEEDS.

What a lot of weather we are having, very hot, then rainy and cold. Whether the weater is clear or whether the weather is cloudy, the fact remains that we have waterprof coats in plenty, guaranteed to keep out the wet.

A Few Specials

We have just received a few specials that should be of interest to you. There are so many very low priced, useless coats on the market that these extra good ones at moderate prices will surely prove fast sellers. Two lines, one dark the other medium, pure rainproof, velvet collar, raglan pocket and cuffs, coats made to sell at $7.50. OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY $5.00.

A FEW BETTER

Then we have some extra good ones at $7, $8 and $10, coats that you would have to pay much more for in other stores. If you are thinking of a rainproof coat, come in and take a look around.

OAK HALL

Sole Agents for Sanfords Celebrated Clothing.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

It would appear that it is about time the Government took steps to rid the country of those cheap shows which, in many instances, have left a trail of murder and crime in their wake. At present the neighboring town of Picton has to face an expensive murder trial, with its sensational and morbid features, in which both the victim and his alleged assailant are total strangers to the community, yet the law-abiding people of Prince Edward will have to pay quite a robust bill of costs.

* * *

It is all right to be polite and deferential to the fair sex, of course, but that Galt man who rode his bicycle into a 25-foot chasm to let a couple of women go by rather over-did the thing.

* * *

"A few words from Pope Leo XIII. now," says the Woodstock Express, "would be worth all the papal bulls of history." But a dead Pope speaks no louder than a dead pauper, except by force of example.

* * *

A lot of chorus girls tried to kiss Sir Thomas Lipton, and he broke and ran like a quarter horse. No Hobson honors in his, thankyou!

* * *

A French chemist has discovered a way to protect horses from flies. His invention consists in rubbing the horses, especially the parts most subjected to attack, with a little concentrated oil of laurel. There is not the slightest danger in its use, and the cost is small. Another excellent remedy is asafetida one pound, vinegar half pint, water one pint. If horses are well washed with this, not a fly will settle upon them, as the asafetida will drive them away. This drug has no deleterious qualities as an external application. Take common smartweed and make a strong decoction by boiling in water. When the infusion is cold, apply to the legs, neck and other parts of the body with a brush or sponge. Neither flies nor insects will trouble them for twenty-four hours.

One in Four Has Piles

FOR WHICH DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT IS AN ABSOLUTE AND GUARANTEED CURE.

One person in every four suffers more or less from itching piles, some do not know the nature of their ailment and others have not heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment as the only absolute and guaranteed cure for this distressing disease. If you are a sufferer from piles, pin worms, or any itching skin disease, ask your neighbor about this great preparation. It has grown popular as a result of the news of its merits being passed from friend to friend. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

MACEDONIANS ACTIVE.

Turkish Troops Encounter Difficulties—Diplomatists Apprehensive.

Constantinople, July 24.—The increasing activity of the revolutionists in Macedonia and the difficulties encountered by the Turkish troops are producing an unpleasant effect in official quarters and apprehension in diplomatic circles, where it is believed the existing situation will lead to fresh demands on the part of the powers, including the establishment of efficacious European control. Even the Austrians and Russians now admit that the reform scheme is inadequate.

Weatherman Stays in Toronto.

Ottawa, July 24.—The meteorological station is to remain in Toronto. Yesterday Mayor Urquhart interviewed the Minister of Marine and Fisheries and protested strongly against the removal of the observatory. Mr. Prefontaine replied that he had no desire to deprive the city of the station, and he gave His Worship assurances which mean that the meteorological station will not be removed from the Queen City.

Postoffice Bill Passed.

Ottawa, July 24.—In the Senate yesterday the bill to amend the Postoffice Act and the city of Ottawa bill were read a third time and passed, Serious Riots in Russia.

London, July 24.—Reports are reaching London of serious rioting among the strikers at Baku, Russia, where it was reported yesterday that 40,000 men are out. The reports say that there has been much destruction of property, and several conflicts with troops.

Brought Their Wives.

Halifax, July 24.—The steamer Siberian arrived yesterday morning with 383 Government passengers, consisting of wives and children of the Royal Garrison Regiment and 100 men.

HIGH LIGHTS OF FASHION.

Colors and Fabrics That Now Reign In the World of Dress.

Perpetual favor attends the black and white costume of which a very successful specimen is here shown in fine black voile, with insertion of black chantilly over a white foundation. The skirt and bodice are tucked and gauged. The belt is of pale blue silk, with motifs of black chantilly.

A delicate pistachio green remains one of the fashionable and charming hues of the season and manifests itself in original ways, one being a pretty gown in canvas of that hue over a white silk foundation, with lace applique garniture.

Black louisine, which adapts itself well to the fashionable summer model, makes useful skirts, less costly than crape, that may be worn with dainty bodices or dinner blouses in the house, and when of proper length look well with a little silk sack coat for street wear.

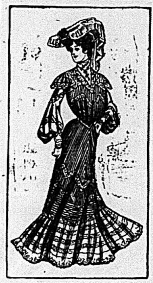
Louisines now come in stripes, checks and brocades, and the softness of the fabric makes it most useful. This suppleness just suits the present style of draping, as does that of voile, which is equally popular.

Canvas is again being readily accepted in its latest phase of a more open weaving, which permits very effective use over colored linings. Some canvases are mottled or marbled with the dominant color intensified by the silk underneath. Others are in closely woven lacelike patterns of fawn or similar delicate tone.

Sack boleros and plaited skirts in all kinds of canvases are popular models for summer wear.

Soft and silky alpacas show a fresh face to the world in brocaded silk flowers and chine surface effects.

Evening cloaks of lace and chiffon again affect the Chinese form, while for a more simple wrap the white taffeta coat, much bedecked, however, with lace, holds the field.



COSTUME IN BLACK AND WHITE.

The lace bertha is a convenient style with low bodices, and latticework of narrow velvet and flowers appears on the hem of some of the evening skirts.

Grace is the keynote of all the fashions. Materials are soft and clinging, and the long folds suggest rather than reveal the lines of the figure beautiful.

Sky blue, white and champagne tints may be considered the fancy of the season in evening tones.

All red gowns, too, with perhaps a red parasol, furnish a brilliant and fashionable color scheme in contrast to the prevailing white.

AMY VARNUM.

Notions With Salt Fish.

For those who live far from the sea or lakes and find it difficult to procure good fish, Table Talk suggests the use of salt cod in several ways: Select good thick pieces from the center of the fish. For a lunch or dinner dish the fish is soaked for a few hours—longer if very salt—then steamed or simmered until tender, the former being the better method. It is then laid in a shallow pan, a tomato or cream sauce poured over it, covered closely and kept at the side of the fire for from twenty to thirty minutes.

Another simple method is to flake the fish, freshen it and simmer in either of the sauces, then serve on toast. As a lunch or tea relish take long strips of the freshened fish, dip into melted butter and broil over a quick fire.

Dandruff Cures.

A Household Ledger writer advises the following for dandruff: Alcohol, two ounces; witch hazel, two ounces; resorcin, fifteen grains. This cleanses the scalp and makes the hair soft and silky. Apply every day until improvement is seen.

Powdered borax, two ounces; boiling water, two quarts; powdered camphor, an ounce. Mix. When cold, bottle for use. Rub into the scalp with the fingers several times a week.

Chocolate Ice Cream.

Grate two squares of chocolate into two quarts of new milk, placing over water to boil. To six eggs add three teacupfuls of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of flour or cornstarch. Beat ten or fifteen minutes and strain through a sieve. Add to the scalding milk and chocolate and carefully stir. When thickened, place in the freezer, adding a pint of milk.

A Recipe For Gems.

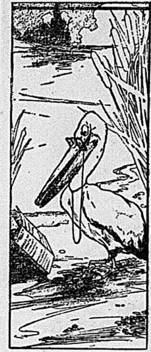
Two cupfuls of sweet milk, two eggs, a pinch of salt, one tablespoonful of melted butter, one teaspoonful of baking powder and two cupfuls of flour. Beat fast and bake quickly.

Goods We Have
at Right Prices

—Hammocks.
—Fishing Tackle.
—Tennis Goods.
—Golf Goods.
—Lacrosse Goods.
—Base Ball Goods.
—Screen Doors and Windows.
—Fruit Jars.
—Fruit Jar Rubbers.
—Wall Paper.
—Crystal Glass Vases.
—Glass Ware.
—Dinner Sets.
—Toilet Sets.
—Ladies' Hose.
—Ladies' Vests.
Everything in smallwares.

AT THE BEE HIVE
Chas. N. Sulman

Absurd Advice.



"Never go into the water after a hearty meal! Such silliness! Why, I always go into the water after one."—Chicago Tribune.

English as She Is Spoke.

"Think of it! For three days and three nights that quartet sat about a table, shuffling, dealing and cashing in jack pots, and when the game was finally broken up every man had exactly the amount he had begun with."

"Humph! Odd, the way they came out even, isn't it?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Sad Discovery.

Lawson—You know young Jenkins and his wife thought before they were married that their life was going to be one grand sweet song.

Dawson—Yes.

Lawson—Well, they can't either of them sing.—Somerville Journal.

At the Dance.

Grace—Mr. Clumsyboy says the floor is delightful tonight.

Maude—I don't see how he knows. He has danced every time with me, and he hasn't stepped off my feet once during that time!—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Retribution.

First Mosquito—The experts are trying to murder us.

Second Mosquito—Don't fear. We'll soon put them behind bars.—Judge.

Kind of a Hopper He Was.

Mary—Is Mr. Hopper a widower?

Sarah—He is a grass widower.

Mary—Oh, I see. A grass Hopper.—Comfort.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM
CHEAP TRIPS

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay, Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

NOTICE.

Tickets are now on sale via North Bay and Sarnia, also via lake and rail, to points on Canadian Northern Railway, Port Frances, Rainy River, Winnipeg and other points west. New fast train service has just been inaugurated on this line.

U. E. THOMPSON, City Agent,
Bridge Street,
T. E. COPPIN, Depot Agent.
J. D. McDONALD,
Dist. Pass Agt., Toronto.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

"Imperial Limited."

Fast tri-weekly Transcontinental service between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. Connection leaves Toronto at 1.45 p.m., Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, making run Toronto to Vancouver in 97 hours.

Upper Lake Steamships

Leave Owen Sound Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 5.30 p.m., on arrival of S.S. Express leaving Toronto at 1.30 p.m. Connections at Fort William and Port Arthur for Winnipeg and aPcific Coast points.

Daily First-Class Service Toronto Winnipeg, Calgary, Banff and Pacific Coast.

Fully Equipped Through Tourist Cars leave Toronto Tuesday and Saturday for Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Full particulars from your nearest Canadian Pacific Agent or to
A. H. NOTMAN,
Asst. Gen. Pass. Agent, TORONTO.
S. BURROWS, O.P.R. and General Ticket Agent, Front St., Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& HUDSON RIVER R. R.
THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.		After 1st May
Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)	12.22 p.m.	1.30 a.m.
Arr. Kingston "	1.47 p.m.	3.12 a.m.
Lv. Kingston (stage)..	2.30 p.m.	5.00 a.m.
Arr. Cape Vincent (stage)	4.30 p.m.	7.00 a.m.
Lv. Cape Vincent N.Y.C.	5.05 p.m.	7.25 a.m.
Arr. Watertown "	5.55 p.m.	8.25 a.m.
Arr. Oswego "	9.05 p.m.	11.55 a.m.
Arr. Syracuse "	9.25 p.m.	12.07 p.m.
Arr. Rochester "	1.05 a.m.	2.20 a.m.
Arr. Utica "	9.45 p.m.	12.35 p.m.
Arr. New York "	7.25 a.m.	6.00 p.m.

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C. R. R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from F. A. Folger, N.Y.C. Agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent.
New York.
A. H. SMITH, Gen'l Supt.,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

Seven hundred British subjects are yearly born at sea.

* * *

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

A Clean Sweep
-Sale-

NOW ON. In Ladies' Patent Kid and Patent Colt Skin Shoes.

The balance of season's goods to be cleared before our Fall arrivals.

25 per cent. off the regular prices.

6 pairs Laced, French Heels, $5.00, now $3.75
9 pairs Laced Style. $4.00, now $3.00
11 pairs Laced Style, $3.50 now $2.60
7 pairs Laced Style, $3.00, now $2.25
6 pairs Patent Oxfords $3.00, now $2.25
20 pairs Fine Kid Oxfords, $2.00, now $1.50

Bell's, McPherson's and "Empress."

See our Display in North Window.

The J. J. Haines
SHOE HOUSES at Belleville, Napanee and Trenton

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

IN PICNIC TIME.

When days are long
And heat grows strong
We catch the picnic fever,
And plans we lay
To spend a day
Where joy is care's reliever.

By train or boat
We rush or float
To some far destination
And feast our eyes
In glad surprise
On miles of vegetation.

The picnic ground
At last is found.
Then with the grub we're trudging
To distant tree
We chanced to see—
A mile, at least, we're judging.

But brief is rest,
For there's request
From bulky maid or matron
Who wants to swing,
And suffering
That means for pushing patron.

When tuckered out
By such a bout
A stroll succeeds the swinging;
A hornets' nest
Wins interest,
And then, gee whiz, such stinging!

When dinner's spread
A cloud o'erhead
Lets loose, and fierce is wetting
That young and old
And meek and bold
With promptness then are getting.

Still other woes
Swoop down on those
Who catch the picnic fever
Till in dismay
They sadly say
That hope's a base deceiver.

—Theodore H. Boice in Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

As They Looked at It.

"It's a fine day, deacon!"

"Yes; but we're all miserable creeturs!"

"Craps lookin' tiptop!"

"Yes; but thar's some big calamity comin' on us!"

"Health never better!"

"Oh, yes; but we'll be sendin' fer the doctor 'fore long!"

"Well, thank God, we're livin', any how!"

"Yes," groaned the deacon as he shuffled off; "but our time's comin'!"—Atlanta Constitution.

An Economist.

"Why don't you play with the little boy next door?"

"Because," answered the youth with many freckles, "he's too easy. I'd win all his marbles. He's one of these children that start right in being good as soon as one circus is over for fear they can't go to the next."—Washington Star.

Time to Leave.

Husband (in an aside to his wife)—If you can't think of some more anecdotes of our children's smartness let's go home right away, for they're getting ready to tell us things about their own. —Baltimore American.

ODD LINES
—OF—
Boots and Shoes
AT LESS THAN COST PRICE.

Men's Canvas Low Shoes, regular price $1.25 & $1.50......75c
Men's Canvas Boots, regular price $1.25 & $1.50 .... $1.00
Men's Working Boots 68c
Men's $4.00 Tan Boots for........ $2.00
Boys' Tan Boots, regular price $1.50 to $2.50........ $1.00
Ladies' Fine Dongola Oxfords, sizes 3, 3½, 4, regular price $1.00 to $2.00 .... 50c
Children's Slippers, regular price 75c & $1.00........ 35c
Girls' Calf Button Boots, sizes 11 to 2........ 60c

VERMILYEA & SON.
Sole Agents for the famous Queen Quality Shoe.

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY! 2 WEEKS

$5.00 Any Suit In This Great Clothing Store for $5.00

A STUPENDOUS CLOTHING OFFER WITHOUT PRECEDENT OR PARALLEL.

Some Suits $18, some $16, some $15, some $12, others $10. Just think of it! High grade, thoroughly tailored garments for Men, complete suits in fashionable fabrics, for

$5.00

This is just the opening gun in the great Mid-Summer Sale, in connection with this store. In every other department there will be equal sensational reductions. This Clothing Sale begins on July 11th and will end on July 25th. The earlier you come the better your choice as we anticipate a big rush.

The GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE.

Up-to-date Clothiers and Gents' Furnishiers, Look for the Globe Over The Door, 390 Front Street, Belleville.

Wall Paper

At first sight of our Wall Papers you will say there's an attractiveness about them that puts them lengths ahead of other lines.

IN STOCKING

we select only the best, we have no "shelf warmers" all our Papers are quick sellers. If you choose your Papers from us you have best value for the price obtainable anywhere.

Painting, Paperhanging and Decorating done on shortest notice by best workmen in the city.

JOHN CORNELIUS.

3 Doors South of Intelligencer Office.

NEW GOODS

JAPAN TEA

The first of this season's crop, exta quality, regular 50c line, we quote

40c Per lb.

Canned Halibut

Fine solid Fish, very tasty,

15c per can.

J. C. Hanley & Co.

GROCERS

Telephone 214

Flowers & Vegetables

Of all kinds in season

. . . AT . . .

J. D. COLLIP'S.

'Phone 205.

Western Beef.

Prime Western Beef together with all kinds of choice meats, supplied by the district, at

C. GREEN'S

267 Front St., 'Phone 109.

Morganatic Marriages in America.

The announcement is made that the United States Government will deal strictly with army officers who have married Filipino girls and abandoned them. Commenting on this information, the Kansas City "Journal" alludes to the similar treatment of Indian girls by white men in the early settlement of the West—a state of affairs that was not confined to Uncle Sam's territory by any means, but applied to the Canadian North-West and British Columbia also, where there are to-day hundreds of halfbreed descendants of white men who made their mark in the commerce and politics of the country. Says the paper referred to:

"There is nothing particularly new in the revelations with respect to 'morganatic' marriages by United States army officers. Before the Civil War it was almost the customary thing for officers stationed in Oregon or Washington Territory to consort with Indian girls. At Tacoma or Seattle the visitor often has pointed out to him halfbreeds who bear the names of some of the most distinguished Civil War generals, and who are known to be the sons or daughters of these officers. It is explained that when these officers were young lieutenants they were stationed in the wilds of the North-West, far from the society of women of their own kind; that they needed housekeepers; that it was the custom of the region for white men to consort with Indian maidens; that, according to Indian standards, there was nothing wrong about it, and that from every standpoint it was advantageous to the girl taken for a temporary wife. At the little town of Puyallup, ten miles from Tacoma, there are two fine-looking men who bear the name of a general who for a long time was at the head of the quartermaster's department of the United States army. These men are the sons of the general. He married their mother, a Puyallup Indian, when he was a lieutenant, and stationed at the Puyallup Indian Agency, long before the Civil War. In later years he married an American woman in the far East, and reared a family. But he did not abandon his family on the Pacific Coast. His sons were taken east and put through one of the leading colleges. He frequently visited them, and openly acknowledged them. On one occasion, at least, he was accompanied by his American wife, who seemed to know the circumstances, and to have accepted them philosophically. His Indian wife lived for some years after he had married his American spouse, though he never visited her. But old-timers about Tacoma will tell the visitor how he made her old age comfortable while caring as a father should for the sons of their marriage."

Character in Names.

In allusion to the theory of an English newspaper writer who holds that a man's character is consciously or unconsciously influenced by his Christian name and whose article to that effect was reproduced in "Saturday Night" last week, London "Punch" printes some bantering comment:

Nothing, it declares, is so unalterable as the character that accompanies a Christian name. Deductions from Christian names are absolutely safe. They have all the finality of the axioms of Christian science. For instance, have you ever known an Oliver who was not interested in lightning conductors, an Alma who was not artistic, or a Sidney who did not oppose the Baconian heresy?

Names ending in zw always denote selfishness. Names ending in tku are to be avoided: their owners are treacherous. Beware of names beginning in Yp. No woman over seven feet high was ever called Birdie. Women named George write novels. A baby named Jabez Elijah Ahasuerus, if always called by its full name, will not grow up. A cat if called Beethoven is sure to indulge in moonlight sonatas.

Joseph is ambitious and shrewd. Hugh is opinionated and talks too much. Winston shares these peculiarities. Lloyd is argumentative. Jesse is bovine, and runs to side-whiskers. Show we a Wilfrid and I will show you a teetotaller. Arthur might be less willowy. Gerald is academic. George is eloquent and epigrammatic. John is sturdy and persistent. Gibson is importunate and impertinent. Tim is vitriolic.

Literary men, who study these things, will bear out what I say. Ask them if they ever knew an Andrew who was not bookish, an Anthony who was not witty, a Mario who was vain? They will tell you that Maurice is romantic, Jerome facetious, MacGregor undersized. Produce a Rudyard, and you will see omniscience. Conan is interested in crime. Algernon composes ballads before breakfast. Theodore is critical. William by itself is capable de tout: allied to Ernest it thunders; allied to Schwenck it jokes; allied to Robertson it resists the payment of rates.

Nicknames are equally consistent in their connotations. A boy called "Trotters" has large feet. No boy with a snub nose was ever called "Hookey." Have you ever seen a brunette known as "Ginger?" Boys and girls who are called "Carrots" have red hair always.

The Aspiring Mule.

A Mule, turned out to graze by the Roadside, looked enviously over the Palings of a Paddock in which a Thoroughbred was kicking up his Heels.

"Ah! It's all the Paddock," said the Mule. "If I were inside those Palings, People would take me also for a Thoroughbred."

Presently, to his no small Delight, he found a small Gap in the Palings. After much Labor, he pushed his Way through and, going up to the Thoroughbred, accosted him familiarly. To his annoyance, however, the Thoroughbred threw his Head in the Air, and went on kicking up his Heels just as though there were no such Thing as a Mule in Existence.

"Come! You need not put on all that Flank," exclaimed the mortified Mule. "Now that I am inside this Paddock I am as good as you."

"Don't talk Snaffles!" retorted the Thoroughbred, scornfully. "This Paddock, indeed, is a very good Paddock, as Paddocks go. But it neither makes me what I am, nor you what you are not. If you were to remain inside these Palings until Knacker's Day, you would still be a mere Mule; while if I were to graze by the Public Roadside for the same Period, I should be none the less a Thoroughbred."

Moral—An Outsider is still an Outsider, even in a Royal Enclosure.—London "Truth."

A Fable For Fathers-in-Law.

MINISTER WU TING-FANG, the ambassador of China to the United States, was one of a number of speakers at the Presentation Day exercises of the Gallaudet College for the Deaf, recently.

Mr. Wu frankly confessed to some degree of embarrassment, this being his first experience in addressing an audience composed largely of deaf persons. He further intimated that the presence of the president of the college by his side, interpreting his remarks, sentence by sentence, to the mutes, was not calculated to lessen his discomposure.

Mr. Wu declared that deafness, though a handicap, is not so serious an affliction as is commonly supposed, and further, that the mysterious law of compensation steps in and bestows other talents and blessings.

Continuing, the minister said: "To most of us a little deafness at times would be a distinct advantage. I can, perhaps, more clearly illustrate this point by relating a Chinese story.

"About twelve hundred years ago a revolution raged in China, and the reigning king retained his throne chiefly through the sagacity and valor of one of his generals. The king deeply felt his obligation to the general, and in token of his gratitude consented that his daughter should wed the general's son.

"The wedding was duly solemnized, and the happy young couple commenced housekeeping in their own home. For a time everything was harmonious; then the course of true love became disturbed, as it sometimes does even at this advanced date in America. The young wife became haughty and referred to her ancestry; she was the king's daughter, while her husband was only the son of a general. The young man, nettled at this, reminded his wife that but for the aid of his father she would be the outcast daughter of a deposed king and that he was therefore as good as she.

"The young wife hurried to the king and poured the sad tale of her woes into his ear, not forgetting to emphasize her husband's allusion to him.

"The youth went to his father and told what he had said about the king.

"The general was instantly overwhelmed with the gravest apprehensions, fearing the vengeance of the king when he should learn of the treasonable utterances of the young man, and he made great haste to call upon his sovereign to forestall punishment.

"The king listened to all the general had to say, and then, in a fatherly way and with a twinkle in his eye, remarked:

"'That's all right, general. We fathers and mothers of young married folk must be deaf and dumb a good deal of the time.'"

CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY

CAPITAL

10,000 Shares 7 per cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, par value $100 each, $1,000,000
50,000 Shares Common Stock, par value $100, issued and fully paid 5,000,000
TOTAL CAPITALIZATION $6,000,000

Issues of $1,000,000 00 7 p.c. Preferred Stock in 10,000 Shares of $100 each at par.

This stock is preferred both as to Assets and Dividends.

The shares are entitled to cumulative preferred dividends from the net earnings of the Company, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable half yearly on the first days of April and October. They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at $115.00 per share, at any time after 1st January, 1909.

The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000.00, the whole of which is now offered.

Subsriptions for 10,000 Shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent. Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is $100 Share, as follows

per cent on application,
25 " " on allotment,
35 " " 30 days thereafter.
35 " " 60 days thereafter.

One share of Common, par value $100, given with each share of preferred.

The whole of instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of one per cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Novia Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1,000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4000 acres of iron ore deposit, located Natashquan (tidewater) situated on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highet ever discovered, running from 69 per cent to 72 per cent in metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore has been received by the Company than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

Send for prospectus giving full information as to earnings, reports, etc., etc.

Address all communications and send subscriptions to

COLONIAL SECURITIES CO.,
62 Wall Street, New York City

OR

W. L. MARSTON & COMPANY
110 State Street, Boston

The SAWYER COMPANY.

351 Temple Building, Montreal, Canada.

THE

Intelligencer Bindery

MAKES A SPECIALTY OF

Leders, Journals, Cash Books,

And all descriptions of

Blank Account Books

Mailing Tubes

Gold Lettering on Leather Goods, &c.

MAGAZINES,
ART WORKS,
PERIODICALS,
SERIAL NUMBERS

NEATLY BOUND

Map Mounting & Varnishing

☞ Estimates cheerfully furnished for every class of work.

ADDRESS—

The Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONT.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Measurement Nonpareil—12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions, 5c.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriages and deaths, 50c each insertion.

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisement will be found in 1st column of 2nd page.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of the Intelligencer.

Address all communications to the Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House Limited, or to Charles J. Bowell, Managing Director and Treasurer.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s Office, 30 Fleet Street, London, E. C.

CONDENSED ADVERTISEMENTS

SITUATIONS WANTED, HELP WANTED, LOST OR FOUND, FOR SALE OR TO RENT, &c

(Auction Sales not included in this list)

TERMS.—Twenty-five words or less, 25c first insertion; two insertions, 50c; four insertions, 75c; one week $1.00, two weeks, $1.75, three weeks, $2.25; one month, $2.50. Strictly cash in advance.

WANTED.

Teacher wanted with 2nd class professional certificate. Salary $400 per annum. Apply to Dave Woottan, Wellman's Corners, Ont. d2t-w1t

$6.00 per month buys a $1,000 home. $9.00 per month buys a $1,500 home. $12.00 a month buys a $2,000 home. A postal will bring particulars. The Canadian Home Builders' Association. Manning Chambers, Toronto. j18-6t

Be independent. Employ yourself. Establish a business. Our goods are used everyday by everybody. Men make fortunes. Write G. Marshall & Co., London, Ont. 4

Agents wanted, $2.50 per day. Apply Cooper, London, Ont. s27-1y

Young men ambitious to learn lucrative trades, of which there are eight in connection with the business. Apply The Belleville Hardware Company, Belleville, Ont. a7dtf

The only authorized "Life of Pope Leo XIII." Written with the encouragement, approbation and blessing of His Holiness by Mgr. Bernard O'Reilly, D.D., LL.D., (Laval). This distinguished author was summoned to Rome and appointed by the Pope as his official biographer. The book is endorsed by Donato Sbarretti, Papal delegate for Canada, and is approved and recognized by all church authorities as the only official biography of the Pope. Over 800 pages, magnificently illustrated. Best commission to agents. Sell only the official life by Mgr. O'Reilly. Elegant outfit free. The John C. Winston Company, Toronto, Ont. j20-6td

TO RENT

House furnished or unfurnished on George street. Apply to Mrs. May, 205 George Street. 4t

A house on Moira street containing 8 rooms. All modern conveniences. Possession on or before 20th July.—Adam Henry.. dtf

TO-LET,

That new solid brick house on Yeomans street. Hard and soft water in kitchen. Good cellar, stable and garden. In perfect order. $6.—J. J. B. Flint. jy16dtf

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

Stone house, 11 rooms, coal furnace, stable, barn. Large grounds. Cor. Frank and Moira Sts. north. Terms reasonable. H. Bull, on premises or Fred Bull, 133 Yonge St., Toronto. Terms easy.

ap18-dtf

FOR SALE.

A good rebuilt typewriter, guaranteed. Price $50. Apply at this office. j20-6t

Shingles, shingles, dressed lumber, etc. GEO. WALTON & CO. jy14-1md

Dressed and Matched Lumber of all kinds, at ALFORD'S factory, Market Square. j12-tf

Contractors and masons, any any person requiring lime may procure it from E. G. STAPLEY, Canifton Road, Belleville. New lime always on hand. a9-d&wfim

CAMP COMFORTS

Mosquito-Scat for Mosquitos, etc., 15c a bottle.

Witch Hazel Cream for Sunburn, etc., 25c a bottle

Bathing Caps for ladies, 50c.

WATERS'

SAVE MONEY
By JOINING The
MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB
OF AMERICA

25 Cents pays for three months' membership. Each member receives the official club organ every month, including 6 pieces of high-class vocal and instrumental new music each month, 18 pieces in all; also a Certificate of Membership which gives the privilege of Club Room in New York City, and of buying literature, music or musical instruments of any description at wholesale prices, saving you from 20% to 60% on your purchases. Don't fail to join at once. You will get much more than your money's worth. MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB, Dept. , 150 Nassau St., N.Y.

THE MARKETS.

Liverpool Wheat Lower — Cereals Are Higher Priced at Chicago—Live Stock Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Thursday Evening, July 23.

Liverpool wheat futures closed ¼d to ⅜d lower to-day than yesterday, and corn futures unchanged.

At Chicago to-day September wheat closed ⅜c higher than yesterday, September corn 1¼c higher and September oats ⅜c higher.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London—Close—Wheat on passage, very inactive. Parcels, No. 2 hard winter, 28s 3d and 28s 4½d; Aug., 28s and 28s 1½d. Maize on passage, quiet but steady; spot, American mixed, 22s 3d. Flour, spot, Minn., 27s.

Paris—Close—Wheat, tone quiet: July, 24f 80c; Sept. and Feb., 22f 15c. Flour, tone quiet; July, 32f 15c; Sept. and Feb., 29f 95c.

Antwerp—Wheat, spot steady; No. 2 R. W., 16½f.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

Following are the closing quotations at important wheat centres to-day:

	Cash.	July.	Sept.	Dec.
New York	....	....	81½	81⅞
Chicago	....	....	76⅜	76⅞
Toledo	76¼	76¼	77⅛	78⅜
Duluth, No. 1 N.	84½	84½	76⅞	74⅞

TORONTO ST. LAWRENCE MARKET.

Grain—
Wheat, red, bush	$0 76 to	$0 77
Wheat, white, bush.	0 76	....
Wheat, spring, bush	0 70	0 72
Wheat, goose, bush.	0 70	....
Barley, bush.	0 44½	....
Beans, bush	1 30	1 50
Beans, hand-picked	1 75	....
Peas, bush	0 78½	....
Rye, bush	0 45	....
Oats, per bush.	0 37	0 38

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, July 23.—Closing—Wheat, spot No. 2 red, western winter, dull, 6s 2d; No. 1 northern spring, steady, 6s 5½d; No. 1 Cal., dull, 6s 6½d; futures steady; July, nominal; Sept., 6s 2⅞d; Dec., 6s 2⅛d.

Corn—Spot, American, easy, 4s 4d; futures steady; July, nominal; Sept., 4s 4⅜d.

Hams—Short cut, firm, 55s. Bacon, short rib, steady, 54s; long clear middles, light, steady, 50s 6d; long clear middles, heavy, steady, 50s; short clear backs, 16 to 20 pounds, quiet, 48s. Lard, American refined, firm, 38s. Cheese, American finest colored, steady, 48s. Turpentine, spirits, firm, 40s. Linseed oil, dull, 23s.

NEW YORK GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

New York, July 23.—Flour—Receipts, 15,788 bbls.; sales, 2900 pkgs. Flour was quiet but steady. Rye flour, steady. Wheat, receipts, 98,875 bushels; sales, 950,000 bushels. There was a scarcity of wheat shorts this morning, due to a big corn advance, and prices exhibited material gains all around. Sept, 80⅝c to 81 1-16c; Dec., 80⅝c to 81⅝c. Rye, steady; State, 58c to 58½c, c.i.f., New York; No 2 western, 52½c, f.o.b., afloat. Corn, receipts, 50,900 bushels; sales, 80,000 bushels. Corn sold much higher on vigorous covering, due to rumors of hot winds in Kansas. Sept., 56⅝c to 56⅞c; Dec., 56⅞c to 56⅝c. Oats, receipts, 78,000 bushels. Oats were fairly active and higher. Sugar, raw, steady; fair refining, 3 3-16c; centrifugal, 96 test, 3 11-16c; molasses sugar, 2 15-16c; refined firm. Coffee, quiet; No. 7 Rio, 5⅜c. Lead, firm, $4.30 to $4.50. Wool, firm. Hops, dull.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New Yrok, July 23.—Butter—Steady; unchanged; receipts, 14,833.

Cheese—Quiet; unchanged; receipts, 5737.

Eggs—Unsettled; receipts, 8051; State, Pennsylvania and near by fancy, selected, white, 20c; do., best mixed, 18c to 19c; western, thirds, 12c to 13½c; do., very inferior, 9c to 11c; dirties, candle, 11c to 12½c; do., average receipts, 9c to 11c; peer culls, 5c to 6c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Chicago and Other American Markets Strong.

London, July 23.—Live cattle firm at 12½c to 12¾c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 11c to 11½c per lb., refrigerator beef, 9¼c to 9½c per lb. Sheep, 10½c to 12½c.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock were large, 120 carloads, consisting of 1708 cattle, 1000 hogs, 2100 sheep and 112 calves.

Exporters—Best loads exporters are worth $5 to $5.15 per cwt.; medium to good at about $4.70 to $4.90.

Export Bulls—Choice quality bulls sold at $4 to $4.25 per cwt.; good bulls sold at $3.60 to $3.80 per cwt.

Export Cows—Export cows sold at $4.00 per cwt.

Butchers' Cattle—Choice picked lots of butchers, weighing from 1025 to 1100 lbs. each, equal in quality to best exporters, sold at $4.65; loads of good sold at $4.40 to $4.50; fair to good, $4.25 to $4.25; common, $3.75 to $4; rough to inferior, $2.65 to $3.25.

Feeders—Steers of good quality, 800 to 900 lbs. each are worth $3.50 to $4 per cwt.

Short-keep Feeders—Good steers, 1100 to 1200 lbs. each, are worth $4.25 to $4.50 per cwt.

Stockers—One-year to two-year-old steers, 400 to 700 lbs. each, are worth $3 to $3.75 per cwt.; off colors and of poor breeding quality of same weights are worth $2.75 to $3 per cwt.

Milch Cows—Milch cows and springers are worth $30 to $50 each.

Calves—Calves sold at $2 to $10 each, or from $3.50 to $5 per cwt.

Sheep—Prices, $3.65 to $3.75 per cwt. for ewes, and bucks at $2.75 to $3.

Spring Lambs—Prices steady at $2.50 to $4 each.

Hogs—Best select bacon hogs, not less than 160 lbs., nor more than 200 lbs. each, off cars, sold at $5.80 per cwt.; lights and fats at $5.60; sows, $4 to $4.25 per cwt., and stags, $2 to $3 per cwt.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, N.Y., July 23.—Cattle—Receipts, 75 head; steady; prime and shipping steers, $4.80 to $5.50; butchers' steers, $4.25 to $4.75; cows and heifers, $2.75 to $4.75; bulls, $3 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4.25. Veals, receipts, 110 head; strong; $5 to $7. Hogs, receipts, 4000 head; active; yorkers, 5c to 10c lower; others steady; heavy, $6 to $6.05; mixed, $6.05 to $6.15; yorkers, $6.20 to $6.25; pigs, $6.40 to $6.50; roughs, $5.10 to $5.25; stags, $4 to $4.50; dairies, $5.80 to $5.90. Sheep and lambs, receipts, 2200 head; steady; lambs, $4.50 to $6.50; yearlings, $5.25 to $5.50; wethers, $4.50 to $5; ewes, $3.75 to $4; mixed sheep, $2 to $4.50.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, July 23.—Beeves—Receipts, 32 head; dressed beef steady; city dressed native sides, 6⅝c to 8½c per lb. Calves, receipts, only 2 head; city dressed veals, 8c to 11c. Sheep and lambs, receipts, 6794; sheep scarce and higher; lambs 15c to 20c stronger, even more in some cases. The pens about cleared; sheep sold at $3 to $4.50 per 100 lbs.; lambs, $6 to $7.20; dressed mutton, 6½c to 9½c per lb.; dressed lambs, 9c to 12c. Hogs, receipts, 1388; market rated firm except for heavy hogs; latter strong. A deck of western mixed sold at $5 per 100 lbs.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, July 23.—Cattle—Receipts, 9000, including 300 Texans; market active and steady; good to prime steers, $5.25 to $5.60; poor to medium, $4.25 to $5.25; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.40; cows and heifers, $1.60 to $4.85; canners, $1.60 to $1.80; bulls, $2.50 to $4.40; calves, $3 to $6.60; Texas steers, $3.50 to $5; western steers, $3.50 to $4.

Hogs—Receipts, 16,000; estimated for tomorrow, 15,000; left over, 15,000; mostly 5c higher; mixed and butchers, $5.45 to $5.85; good to choice heavy, $5.70 to $5.80; rough heavy, $5.30 to $5.65; light, $5.50 to $5.90; bulk of sales, $5.60 to $5.80.

Sheep—Receipts, 10,000; sheep steady; lambs steady to 15c higher; good to choice wethers, $3.75 to $4; fair to choice mixed, $3 to $3.60; western sheep, $3.25 to $4.25; native lambs, $3.25 to $3.65; western lambs, $5.40 to $5.90.

Largest in the World.

London, July 24.—The new battleship King Edward VII., the largest in the world, was successfully launched by the Princess of Wales at Davenport last evening.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Store Closed Every Wednesday During July and August at 12 O'Clock Noon.

Men's $3 Hats 98c.

Here is a Hat chance for men which—when value is considered—comes seldom.

As in all departments our Hat trade has surpassed any previous season.

It's after the battle as it were and the assortments left are badly crippled—some have one of ever size others have only one size.

Our reputation demands full sizes—these must be cleared before the fall stock arrives. If price and value count there should not be a Hat left Saturday.

All our well-known makes are represented, Hawes, Wakefields, Christies and Carters in the nobby spring and summer shapes which have sold so freely this season.

Both soft and hard Hats in Pearl Grey, Brown, Slate and Black.

The Quantity is limited, just your size may be among the first to go.

This price makes an early visit neccessary to best choice.

—Remember the days Thursday, Friday and Saturday the balance of our spring and summer Hats, were $2.00, $2.50, and $3.00, for 98c

Reduced Baby Bonnets

"Nothing is too nice for the baby." The manufacturer who made our Baby Bonnets must have thought so.

But you can get even too much of a goodthing and desireable and all as they are we have priced them as below for Thursday to clear.

—2 doz. Children's fine Organdie Muslin Bonnets, trimmed with Valenciennes lace and narrow satin baby ribbon good quality, regular $1.50 for 75c

—Fine Organdie Baby Bonnet with fine tucks and baby ribbon trimming, full frill, $1.25 for 50c

—5 only Japanese taffeta silk Bonnets with wide silk lace frill and insertion and baby ribbon trimmings, regular $1.75 for 75c

Outing Items

Proper clothing is an important item in the most enjoyable outing.

Wherever you go the white Vest and Trousers will be "correct." Adding much both to the APPEARANCE and COMFORT.

There are in these as in everything, the right and wrong—the right is just as reasonable.

A number of new styles in both just received.

—Fine Duck Trousers plain white or with fine black stripe, deep hem $1.00, $1.25, ... $1.50

—New White Vests, just arrived from London, England, plain and fancy with, high button styles, $1.25, $1.50 .... $.200

Neglige Shirts

The neglige Shirt with soft collar is a much favored style with men who desire something comfortable yet dressy for this warm weather.

For Tennis or yatching nothing is more appropriate.

Our showing this season comprises many new and pretty designs, mostly light grounds with colored silk stripes.

Ask to see them in our men's furnishing department.

—Men's Fine Neglige Shirts with attatcheh collar, silk stripes, fast colors 65c, 75c, ... $1.00

White Waistings

All the leading fashion journals anounce for fall a more wide spread use than ever of the heavier weave fancy Piques and mercerized Vestings for waists.

We have recently received a number of pretty designs in these which will be serviceable on cool evenings and again for later use.

The great demand will cause a scarcity of good patterns. Best get them while the assortment is at its best.

—Fine White Pique and Vesting with mercerized figures, 32" wide, 25c and 30c

Standard Patterns

If you do home dressmaking a good pattern will add much to the appearance of the garments and save from any disastrous mistakes.

You may obtain patterns cheaper but you'll get some as good for more. They are the best, and guaranteed correct in every way.

Our stock is large but it is impossible to keep all. If what you desire is not here we can have it for you in 3 days.

—Get a copy of the designer—it contains, besides much useful information as to styles, good stories, etc. price 10c

Half Price Table

Our Table of Half Price Wash Goods is the mecca for many shoppers.

Here are found a choice lot of this season's Wash Goods in Muslins, Prints, Ginghams, and Sateens.

Some are only short pieces others are longer lengths which have not sold as freely as we have desired. All are going now, quickly at Half Price.

Each day sees some addition to this assortment. If there you do not see what you want to-day you may tomorrow.

Summer Corsets

Our Corset department does not seem to need much publicity.

The crowds of ladies who patronize this counter and tell their friends of the excellence of the lines we sell, make our best advertisement,

Just let you know a new shipment opened places our stock in the complete stage generally found only at the beginning of the season.

If you want a perfect fitting, durable light weight, inexpensive Corset we can meet your needs.

—Ladies' Fine Percale Corset, bias gored, straight front, erect form, Percale Corset, steel filled, lace and ribbon trimmed, regular 75c for .... .50

—Fine Net Corset, steel filled, extra strong over hips, straight front, erect form, lace and ribbon trimmed .... .75

—Fine Percale Corset with 3 bias gores, strong hips erect form, straight front, a very fine Corset, for summer wear 1.00

Agents for Standard Patterns.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

CLOTHING BOUGHT HERE PRESSED FREE OF CHARGE

Quick & Robertson's for Fine Clothes

There's no use of disputing the fact that this store stands pre-eminent in this city as the store for Men's Fine Clothes.

With our large and pleasing varieties, up-to-date styles, and good making, we've won the trade of every man, and especially the trade of those men who are particular about the clothes they wear.

And why shouldn't we? You can't find a store that has, Ready-Made, such exclusive styles in suitings and summer garments as we are showing and everyone of them is from the best British and Canadian Mills.

Then, too, every garment is built to come up to the our high standard—built by the best makers who know how and do give close attention to important parts of tailoring—such as adjusting the collars, shaping the shoulders, proper placing of the sleeves and stays and making of the button holes.

Clothes made this way never lose their shape. And by so doing we have overcome that appearance which markes clothes as being Ready-Made.

The prices for such goodness you'd expect to be high but they are not—are no more than you would pay for ordinary sorts elsewhere.

MEN'S SUMMER FURNISHINGS

....AND....

STRAW HATS

The Largest Variety assures the Easiest Choosing.

That's just what's bringing more men to this store every day—they are getting into the fact that the selections Quick & Robertson shows in every line are the largest and most liberal in town—right in every way; in quality the highest, in style the latest and in price the fairest. ☛ Better choose now while the choosing is good.

QUICK & ROBERTSON

Agents in Belleville for W. R. Johnston & Co.'s Famous Clothing.

You Need

A new range this fall and you might just as well have the best as a poor unsatisfactory range when it does not cost any more.

Our Champion Range

Is an acknowledged leader and it never fails to give the best results.

Be sure you see this range, as the best is none too good for you.

The W. W. CHOWN Company, Limited

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

Rogers and His Gun.

John Rogers, a young married man residing near Madoc, was last evening brought to the city by the High County Constable and placed in jail on a charge of attempting to shoot a woman. It appears that Rogers is in charge of a berry patch, and on the 13th inst. a number of women and children were in the patch picking berries and were ordered to desist. One of the woman, Mrs. Hilda Vollick, it is alleged, refused to go and Rogers fired off a gun to frighten her. The result of the affair is that Rogers is now under arrest, charged with attempting to shoot. He will have his trial next week.

A Bad Boy.

A boy named Thomas Jackson, aged 13 years, whose home is in Hungerford, is an exceedingly bad boy and his parents have been unable to curb him. He was brought to the city yesterday and tried before Magistrate Flint, who sent him to the Reformatory for two years.

Foot Elm Keeps The Feet Fit.

FEET NEVER CAUSE DISCOMFORT WHEN FOOT ELM IS USED.

A man (or woman either) is not fit for work if his feet bother him. Can't give your mind to your duties if your feet are hot, sore, aching, blistered or chafed, or if you have a painful corn or burning bunion distracting you.

The only reliable remedy for all these foot troubles is Foot Elm. It has wonderful soothing, healing, antiseptic properties. It puts your feet in fit shape to bear the burden of the body without causing distress or discomfort, and its daily use keeps them fit.

Price 25 cents a box of 18 powders, at druggists or by mail. B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

WOOL CRASH.

People are asking what it is. Wool crash is a sort of misnomer. It is not crash, but simply a light cool worsted in a crash weave. Hold it up to the light—you can see through it. Yet it's as tough and strong almost as thick beaver, and wiry enough to hold its shape. For a cool summer vacation knockabout suit, wool crash takes the lead. Good enough, too, for business. Come, see! Suit prices, $3.75, $5, $6 and $7.50.—Quick & Robertson, Belleville's Best Clothiers.

Band Concert.

That the band concerts given weekly at the park are popular there can be no doubt. Last night there was an unusually large attendance and all appeared to enjoy themselves. In addition to those on the park the harbor was dotted with row boats, filled with music lovers. The programme presented gave general satisfaction.

HERE IS A POINTER. Because you haven't used Catarrhozone is the best reason why you should use it right away. It will cure the catarrh that makes your breath so heavy and your hearing so poor. Catarrhozone is a scientific cure for catarrh, bronchitis and asthma, recommended by doctors and druggists as a certain cure. Mr. Henry A. Taylor, the oldest druggist in Halifax, says: "Catarrhozone gives satisfaction wherever it goes. It is simple and convenient to use, and enjoys fully three times the sale of any other catarrh remedy sold in the city." Catarrhozone is guaranteed to cure, and if it fails you can have your money returned. Price $1.00 for two months' treatment. Small size 25c. Druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Y. M. C. A. Camp Notes.

Thirty healthy campers send greeting to the folks at home. As one of their number they asked me to extend to all their parents and friends a cordial invitation to visit "Camp Quinte" on Parents' Day, Wednesday, July 29th. A varied and interesting programme of sports is in preparation, comprising several novel events. The Varuna will give visitors four hours stay at the camp.

W. J. W.

The New Elevator.

Work on the new elevator to be erected on Pinnacle street, near the canning factory, is progressing. Excavating for the foundation is about completed, and next week the frame work will be commenced. It is expected that the structure will be completed by the first of September.

OUT OF THE SHADOW.

The discouragement, the despair of ill-health, out into the noon-tide glory of health, vigor and strength. Are you seeking this way? Are you wishing to replace weakness by strength, despondency by hope and expectation, pale cheeks and lustreless eyes by the rose's bloom and sparkling eyes. If you but use Ferrozone, you will make rich, red blood, your nerves will grow strong. Old-time vigor will return and with it endurance that will enable you to live an active, energetic and successful life. Remember the name, Ferrozone. Sold by all druggists.

Sports and Pastimes

SPORTING NOTE AND COMMENT.

The Peterboro papers are naturally jubilant over the victory of their lacrosse team, but give fair reports, as follows:

Review: Although they had some expectation of winning, the Athletic lacrosse team hardly expected to return from yesterday's match with Belleville with such a remarkable score as 7-0 to their credit — yet such is the case.

The Athletics left here yesterday with about fifteen supporters. They state that they were most cordially treated by the Belleville players. A large crowd witnessed the game, and no objection was made to the playing field. The victory now makes the district C.L.A. championship a matter of competition between the Athletics and the T.A.S., and when the final meeting takes place it will be an interesting one. Yesterday's match is said to have been a fast one. Clean lacrosse was played throughout. The defence of the Athletics was like a stone wall and its excellence is undoubtedly responsible in a large measure for the fact that Belleville was entirely shut out. The score indicates also that the Athletic home proved much too strong for the Belleville defence. The home team had a remarkably clever goal-keeper, who stopped shot after shot. "He played the game for them," remarked one of the Athletics to-day. "Had he not been a particularly good man, the score might have been larger." The home had an effective combination yesterday and a number of the goals went through as the result of this kind of play. Every man on the team was apparently at his best.

Examiner: Once again has victory been won by Peterboro colors, and that on an opponent's ground. Yesterday the Belleville lacrosse team was treated to the biggest kind of a surprise party when the Athletics of Peterboro shut them out to the tune of 7-0 on the Belleville grounds.

The local team with about 15 supporters left here yesterday morning, and although no blowing of trumpets was indulged in, the locals felt that the trip would result in a victory and subsequent events proved their opinions well founded.

The boys on their arrival at the lake town registered at the Quinte House, where they received every attention, and as a result have brought home a good opinion of the quality of Belleville hospitality. The members of the home team also exerted themselves to entertain the visitors, and only words of praise are heard for the Belleville lacrosse players.

The game, which was played on the Agricultural Grounds, was witnessed by a good crowd, all of whom, it might be mentioned, paid their admission fee, and they certainly saw a game worth the money. The Bellevilles had on their line-up the three Indians, who were, it was thought, going to bring a victory to the team, and they had on their strongest team with one exception. Whitty, a good man, was not able to play, though a look at the score will reveal the patent fact that even with Whitty on, a defeat could not have been averted.

The game, while it was keenly contested from start to finish, was very clean, although it was characterized by close but legitimate checking, in the course of which some injuries were received, but there was a manifest desire on the part of the players on both teams to play an honest game.

Mr. John Renwick, of Port Hope, refereed the game, and no words of praise can be too strong for the manner in which he performed his duties.

CANOEING.

An Enthusiast Writes of an Enjoyable Trip.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Although there are some twenty-five or thirty canoes in Belleville, very few of the owners are aware of what a delightful holiday can be spent in one of these little craft. A sixteen foot open canoe will comfortably carry two men and a complete camp outfit of tent, blankets, grub and extra clothes, but it is better, if possible, to have a party of four, as they will require very little more outfit and it can then be divided between two canoes thus lightening the load and making the canoes much more seaworthy when crossing open stretches of water.

An open canoe, however, even when light, is too low to stand a very heavy sea for any length of time and the intending cruiser will find it much more satisfactory to choose for his course some of the inland lakes and rivers which abound in this part of Ontario. The Bay of Quinte as far as Glenora is very good, although even there the water is often too rough for comfort. The Kawartha or Rideau Lakes are a canoeist's paradise, but on account of their proximity the Rideau Lakes are probably the more suitable for a party starting from Belleville, as railway transportation is rather expensive, and they can be reached by a sixty-five mile paddle down the bay if one has the good fortune to strike calm weather while crossing the gaps.

Starting at Belleville, the course as far as Glenora is too well known to require description, but, if you have not seen it, do not miss the view from the hill at the Lake on the Mountain. From this point to Kingston is rather uninteresting, as far as scenery is concerned, as farm lands are not usually rated as scenery. At Kingston we enter the Cataraqui River, with the Military College and Fort Henry on our right, and a six mile paddle brings us to Kingston Mills, where we pass up a gorge with massive foliage towering high above us and reaching right down to the water's edge. Four locks necessitate a portage, but if the duffle is properly arranged one trip will see it all over with another trip for the canoe. For short portages, such as are encountered on this trip it is hardly necessary to empty the canoe and carry it on one's back in Indian style. Coats, hats, paddles, &c., can be left in the canoe and two men can carry it quite handily by grasping the deck or hoisting it on their shoulders as they prefer. A tent bag (also holding the cooking utensils), grub box, blanket bag and telescope bag or grip containing clothes are all the duffle required and can be easily carried by two men. The lazy ones can secure a lock pass gratis when the lock-men are compelled to do the carrying, but when out for air and exercise a man might as well have the satisfaction of knowing that he has got all that was coming to him.

Continuing on our way we pass through what are known as the first and second lakes, which are mere ponds formed by the backing up of the river. Twelve miles from Kingston Mills is Washburn, and two miles farther Brewer's Mills, both easy portages.

We now enter Cranberry Lake, the first of the Rideau chain. Rounding the sharp curve we come upon the famous profile of the Duke of Wellington. It is certainly an excellent profile and bears a striking resemblance to the Iron Duke. A very narrow passage brings us into Whitefish Lake, one of the finest of the whole chain. High rocky bluffs almost large enough to be called mountains rise out of the water on every side, sometimes almost bare and in other places covered with dense foliage. The lake itself is dotted with islands and from one end to the other, the only sign of a human habitation is an old log cabin. A channel at the upper end, however, brings us in sight of Jones' Falls, which has been called one of the most beautiful spots in Canada. There is a first-class hotel here and fish in abundance, but this place has also an interest for the engineer who will see in the big dam a piece of engineering skill hardly equalled in Canada. The falls themselves are beautiful, and altogether, one could hardly wish for a more charming spot to spend a week.

After leaving Jones' Falls the channel winds in and out in a most bewildering manner between high banks of foliage till we enter Sand Lake. The water here is much clearer than in most of the other lakes, and the heavily wooded islands disclose here and there some very dainty summer cottages. Four miles from Jones' Falls is Davis' Lock, where we enter Lake Opinacon, the "Gem of the Rideau" and one of the prettiest inland lakes in Ontario. Some of the islands are high, others low, some with dense foliage and some with only a few scattered pines, the whole making a most enchanting panorama. Two miles farther is Chaffey's Locks, where there is a good hotel, and here we enter Indian Lake, a favorite spot for camping. Clear Lake comes next, with its remarkable lack of islands but very pretty shores, ending in the Elbow Channel, where a sharp curve takes us into Newboro Lake, a large expanse of water with beautiful islands and excellent fishing.

After passing Newboro Lock a winding cut opens into Little Rideau Lake, five miles long. A chain of the Laurentian Hills under which nestles the town of Westport, form a beautiful background. There are some fine camp sites on the shores of this lake. At the head of the lake is the Narrows Lock, where we descend into Big Rideau, Little Rideau being the head waters of the chain.

Big Rideau is a magnificent stretch of water fourteen miles long, and in some places five or six wide. The scenery here is almost identical with the Thousand Islands, which is all the description necessary. The salmon fishing here is very good, making it a favorite spot for anglers. At the head of the lake Senator McLaren and a number of others have palatial summer homes, and there is also a hotel here. The seven miles from here to Smith's Falls are principally through drowned lands, although a short distance from the town there is a very pretty cut, where the trees droop over the water till they almost meet.

From Smith's Falls the trip can be continued to Ottawa, but it is all river and rather uninteresting. A good trip may be got by returning as far as Morton on Whitefish Lake and getting into a chain which flows into the St. Lawrence and Gananoque. The writer, however, took train from Smith's Falls to Brockville, and paddled up the river to Gananoque, thus completing a one hundred and seventy mile trip which has few equals. Eight days were spent on the cruise, but two, or even three, weeks would not be too long, and the man who spends his holiday this way will not return to work a worn-out wreck, but a new man, with a good healthy tan and an appetite like a horse. Try it and see.

C.M.P.

FISHING.

Had Good Sport.

A party of four from this city which included Mr. J. Finkle, A. Wardhaugh and Wes. Deshane, went to Hastings for a day's fishing, and are alleged to have caught forty bass and five 'lunge. Pretty good fishing!

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

My Hair

Ayer's Hair Vigor makes the hair grow because it is a hair-food. It feeds the hair and the hair grows, that's all there is to it. It stops falling of the hair, too, and restores color to gray hair.

$1. All druggists. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc. Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mr. A. A. McDonald, of Madoc, was in the city to-day.

Rev. M. W. Maclean left to-day for a short holiday.

Mr. J. H. Starling was in Toronto yesterday on business.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell will arrive in the city this evening.

Miss Louisa Thompson, Dunbar street, is home from Guelph for a visit with friends.

Mrs. J. J. O. Leary and two children are visiting her sister, Mrs. T. Harris, St. Charles St.

Miss Bessie Eustace has returned home from a visit to relatives in Rochester, N.Y.

Mr John Eustace, of Rochester, N.Y., is visiting his brother, Mr. D. Eustace, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Davy, of Durrand, Mich., are visiting Mrs. Davy's parents, Mr. and Mrs G. Sargent, Frank St.

Mrs. J. D. Monaghan and daughter, Miss Lena, and Miss Minnie Fleming have gone to Thousand Island Park.

Mrs. Birse, of Montreal, left for her home on Friday, after spending two months with Mrs. Robert Johnson, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Robinson and two children, of Montreal, spent a few days in this city visiting Mrs. Robt. Johnson on their way to Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Miller, Grinnell, Iowa, quite an old-time Belleville couple, who went to Grinnell thirty-three years ago, are visiting relatives and friends for about a month in Belleville. They arrived over the G.T.R. last Tuesday night.

At the Quinte:—C. D. Mandville, New York; A. McFadden, N. R. Jennings, W. Pink, J. H. Hunter, F. J. Butler, G. F. Woodhouse, F. R. Williamson, A. E. Lang, Mrs. J. E. Eakins, J. D. Hunter, R. Watson, Toronto; Dr. and Mrs. McLennan, Chicago; J. T. Goyne, G. H. Findlay, S. W. Rayan, F. N. Gauthier, W. Turner, F. J. Butler, C. H. Harris, W. D. McRae, Montreal; O. H. Luke and son, Oshawa; L. A. Austen, Ogdensburg; J. P. Morrison, Brantford; G. Brown, Ottawa; J. R. Cook, Winnipeg; A. H. McDonald, Port Qu'Appelle; J. Alexander, Kingston.

RUSSIA AND JAPAN PREPARE FOR WAR.

RUSSIAN OPERATIONS IN MANCHURIA AND COREA MAY LEAD TO TROUBLE.

London, Friday, July 24.—The Tokio correspondent of the Daily Mail confirms the reports of the alarm and resentment in Japan arising from the Russian operations in Manchuria and Corea. He says that the Japanese are accumulating stores and negotiating for the purchase of ships. A Japanese squadron is now off Vladivostock, where Russian vessels have been sent as a precaution, and both fleets are ready for action at any moment.

Siberian newspapers received in Tokio are as aggressive as the Japanese newspapers. The Novi Kraiu says that the Japanese must evacuate Corea if the Russians evacuate Manchuria. The Russians believe that their prestige will be lost if they give way, and that Japan will become predominant in China and Corea.

Marquis Ito's appointment to the Privy Council is favorable to peace, but Russia must retreat or there will be the greatest danger of war.

The Japanese believe that France and England will join in the expected conflict, which diplomatists think might, if begun, continue for years, involving disastrous results to Japanese finances, and the creation of a sort of Balkan difficulty in Corea.

CLEANLINESS.

It has been a common custom when a lady desires to purchase butter that she is allowed to taste from an ordinary knife all the different rolls of butter in stock in the regular grocery store. Such a habit is anything from clean, and a new plan has been adopted by our new store which has opened up in Belleville. Customers are allowed to choose their butter but in a more modern way. By examining our stock of fresh grass butter, our salesman will not only satisfy you as to taste, but also as to quality and price. On Saturday the Wm. Davies' Co., of Toronto, will demonstrate the manner of selling butter in a cleanly way. j24

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

The various civic committees will meet this evening.

Bridge Street's roadway has been completed and it is now one of the best thoroughfares in the city.

The street crossing at the junction of Dundas and Pinnacle streets is in a most deplorable condition, causing much inconvenience to pedestrians.

Tabernacle, University, Holloway Street, Sunday Schools' annual picnic to Twelve o'Clock Point, Wednesday, 29th, steamer Aletha. Three trips, eight, eleven and two o'clock. 24-25-26-27

KEEP IT IN THE HOUSE or take it with you when travelling—A bottle of "Ray's Cholera Cure," we believe it to be the best to be had. It will positively check and cure diarrhoea in one or two doses. It will also cure all forms of dysentery, pain in stomach and bowels, cramps, etc. Will also cure a cold in a few hours. Price 25c a bottle.

LATEST NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS

AS FURNISHED TO THE INTELLIGENCER BY H. R. BEATTIE, STOCK BROKER.

New York, July 24.

STOCK	Op'g	H'st	L'st	Close
Atchison	63½	64¼	62¼	64¼
do. pref	87¼	87¾	86⅞	86⅞
St. Paul	140	140⅛	137⅛	140⅛
M. P.	97¼	98½	95⅞	97⅞
Union Pac	75⅛	75⅞	72½	76⅛
C. P. R.	121	123¼	119¾	123¼
South Pac.	42⅞	43¼	40	41¾
R. I.	23⅛	24⅛	20⅛	22
Ills. C.	129¾	129¾	128	129
Sou. Ry.	20⅝	20¾	20	20⅝
Texas	26¼	26½	24½	25
B & O.	82⅛	82¼	81	82¼
N. Y. C.	117½	118½	116½	117¾
Penna	121¼	122	119¾	121⅛
Soo	51	53	50	52
T. W.	95⅛	95⅞	94¼	95
Frie	29¼	29⅝	27½	28½
do. pref.	66⅞	67¼	65¼	67
Reading	48½	48½	46¾	47⅞
C. O.	32	32¼	31	32¼
O. & W.	22¼	22⅜	21⅛	22
Manhattan	133	133¼	131⅛	132½
W. C.	16	16¾	15	16¾
L. & N.	103¼	102½	102	103½
A. F.	32¼	32¾	29¾	30¾
Nor.	61⅝	62	60½	62
Wab.	20⅞	20⅞	20	20⅝
do pref.	36⅞	36⅞	35⅝	36½
W.U.	83	83¾	83	83⅛
C. G. W.	16⅛	16⅛	14⅝	15
T.C.I.	39	40½	37½	39
U.S. St.	22	23½	21¾	23½
do pref.	70¾	70⅞	68½	69⅞
Sugar	113⅝	114	112¼	114
B. R. T.	45⅛	45⅛	41¼	43¼
Po.	94	93	92	93½
A. C. P.	41	41	35¾	39¾
Met.	116	116	114	114½
Ak.	17	17	16	17

Sept. wheat opened at 76¼; closed at 76⅛

Sept. corn opened at 50⅞; closed at 50¾

Piles

To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & Co., Toronto.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Extremely Cynical.

"Wasn't that a dreadful scandal?"

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne.

"I understand the people concerned are almost heartbroken."

"That's true. It was a dreadful humiliation to them to find they didn't have enough influence to keep it out of the newspapers."—Washington Star.

An Expert's Opinion.

Priscilla—Do you approve of long engagements?

Mayme—Well, that depends. If the fellow has plenty of money and takes you to everything a long engagement is endurable. Otherwise it is better to rush it through and start a fresh one.—Detroit Free Press.

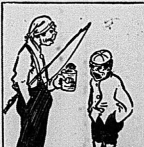
A Woman's Way.

He—She told me it was her first year out.

She—Why, she's been out four seasons.

He—Well, I suppose she counts four seasons to the year.—Boston Herald.

A Bad Plan.



"Say, I got a scheme. I'm going to keep my bait and my fish all in the same can."

"You'd better not, Bill."

"Why?"

"'Cause your bait will eat up your fish."

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

Saturday Night at 7.30

CUSHION —TOPS

150 Cushion Tops of good quality and elegant designs.

3 for the price of 1

10c ea.

RIBBONS

About 13 pieces of fancy Ribbons, 4 to 5 inches in width, selling from 18 to 30c the yard, to clear them in a hurry, all at one price,

10c the yard.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson.

DIRECT IMPORTERS

Daily Intelligencer.

THE INTELLIGENCER IS SOLD AT
J. W. London's and G. Wardhaugh's.

Local Reading Advertisements,

ords 50 cents; 2 cents per word first insertion, per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words; contracts for long periods made at office

Will You Ask Us

In seeking a perfume worthy of our exacting patrons we have found YOLANDE which is positively exquisite.

'Tis not enough for us to believe this—we wish to convince you. No way so easy as for you to ask us about YOLANDE next time you are in our store. It will be a revelation to you for YOLANDE is worth knowing about.

McKeown's DRUG STORE

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE, No. 46 Bridge St., Belleville,

J. P. C. PHILLIPS.
Manager Belleville Branch.

Lost chances never leave any trail.

SULTANA CAKE

Our Sultana Cake at 20c a lb. is excellent value. Made twice a week. A good rich Cake made of the best materials. Try some.

CHAS. S. CLAPP

MONITOR

This is another fine Mantle Clock, not quite so expensive as Gadski in last week's advertisement, but fully as serviceable. It is an eight-day hour and half strike on cathedral gong, fancy columns with trimmings and drop handles, in every way a beautiful clock. Our price only $5.50.

T. BLACKBURN.

Eyes examined free of charge. Jeweller & Optician.

Bargains for This Week

1 only 6 piece Glass Tea Set	25c
25c bottle Bland's Pills 2 for	25c
7 Bars Chicago Hardwater Soap	25c
Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills 2 boxes for	25c
12 foot Bamboo Fish Poles	5c
Carters Pills 2 bottles	25c
6 Nickel Plated Tea Spoons	15c
Morses Indian Root Pills, 2 boxes	25c
10c bottle Standard Shoe Dressing	7c
Parmalee's Pills 2 boxes for	25c
1 lb. Tin of our Baking Powder	10c
25c Belladonna Plasters for	12c
7 Bars Brown Windsor Soap, for	5c
$1.00 bottle of Wythe's Beef, Iron and Wine	61c
Talcum Powder, the best, large box	10c
Tucker's Sovereign Balm	20c

Large bottle Sewing Machine Oil	5c
Can openers with corkscrew	10c
25c Package Celery King for	15c
1000 Parlor Matches, best	5c
50c bottle Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy	32c
40 ft. Cotton Clotheslines	10c
7 lb. Package of Best Laundry Starch	45c
$1.00 Bottle Dr. Koenig's Sarsaparilla	49c
Manley's Celery Compound	57c
Crockery Sale still in force.
10 Piece Printed Bedroom Set, $2 50,	$1.99.
10 Piece Printed Bedroom Set $2 25,	$1.79.
6 Piece Printed Bedroom Set, $2 25,	$1.79.
Plain White Bedroom Sets	$1.15
Fruit Jars at the lowest prices.
Jar Rings 5c doz.

McINTOSH BROS.

Hymen, O Hymenæe.

London "Punch."

"Would you pay ten pounds a year to remain a bachelor?" asked Phyllis, looking up from the paper.

"How do you mean?" I returned.

"Well, they're going to put a tax on bachelors," she observed.

I roused myself and regarded her with astonishment.

"In a place called Kansas," she continued. "I suppose that's in America, isn't it?"

"Read it out," I suggested, and she began:

"'A bill has been introduced into the Kansas State Legislature providing for a tax on bachelors of fifty dollars a year, and on spinsters of twenty-five dollars a year.' It's a funny bill," she commented.

"Very," I admitted.

"But I should think it would be rather a good thing in some ways," she continued. "Suppose there is a bachelor who hasn't got fifty dollars and a spinster who hasn't got twenty-five—if they marry they will save seventy-five."

She was so pleased with her logical conclusion that I only said, "I'm glad I don't live in Kansas."

"Oh, we shall get the law here soon," said Phyllis, nodding her head prophetically, "so you needn't be glad. You are always saying yourself that England is becoming Americanized. And, besides, people want to be made to marry. Nobody marries nowadays till they are about eighty."

"It might be a remunerative tax," I agreed. "I daresay one of the discredited Governments will take it up. I wouldn't pay it myself, though."

"Then you'd have to marry," said Phyllis.

"I wouldn't do that, either," I returned. "I would go to prison like Dr. Clifford."

"Oh," said Phyllis.

"What would you do?" I enquired.

She hesitated.

"I shouldn't like to go to prison, and I shouldn't like to pay the fine, and I shouldn't like to have to marry just anyone. I don't know what I should do. How long would they give us to make up our minds?"

"You'd have to decide at once," I said. "The tax would come into force on the day the bill was passed."

"Would most people pay?" she asked.

"I hope most people would prefer to resist passively," I answered.

"The prisons would be rather full," she suggested. "Why, if all the unmarried people went to prison there would not be room for them. They'd have to build new prisons. What does one do in prison?"

"One picks oakum and makes mail-bags," I answered.

"They would soon pick all the oakum, and there would be too many mail-bags," said Phyllis. "Wouldn't the state find it very expensive?"

I assented.

"Then it would be glad to get rid of them," she went on. "It would try to marry them in the prisons and then let them go."

"How could it do that?" I asked in some curiosity. "You can't marry people by force."

"But people will soon marry each other if they have opportunities of meeting," she declared.

"You don't get many opportunities of meeting in a prison," I objected. "The system doesn't provide for it."

"They'd alter the system, then," said Phyllis. "They'd have to give tea-parties and dances, and private theatricals and things."

"That would alter the system," I agreed. "But I doubt if it could be done."

"Then they'd have to keep all the unmarried people in prison for ever," she said. "I don't think even the state could be so silly as that. No, if the bill is passed it will happen as I say, and prison will become——"

"A kind of matrimonial agency," I suggested, as she paused for a word.

"Yes," she said. "And I shall go there, too; it will be great fun.

Relics of Nelson.

There is just now, says an English paper, a very interesting objection loan in the United Service Institution at Whitehall — the plume of Triumph given by the Sultan to Nelson after the Battle of the Nile. The plume is truly a magnificent thing. Brilliants of great size and beauty are set on silver wires, so fine that the eight or ten erect lines of light quiver and flash with the slightest movement. These converge on a star centered by a rose diamond of purest water; behind this is cunningly hidden clockwork which can cause the star to revolve. One can imagine the effect of this blazing in the tarboosh of the Lord of the East.

To take an ornament from his own person and bestow it upon an underling is considered in Constantinople to be the highest decoration possible to be won; and never had this honor been conferred on an unbeliever before Nelson's day. An English attache was sent to carry the gift to the battered decks of the "Vanguard," and to explain to the young admiral (Nelson was not forty then) its exact significance.

The Battle of the Nile was the height and splendor of Nelson's glory. No clouds had gathered then round the hero who had done and was yet to do so much for his country. It was impossible, Europe thought, to honor him too much. At the United Service Institution, beside the Plume of Triumph, is a gift which is more touching if less magnificent. It is a walking-stick presented to Nelson by the Island of Zante, and round the handle a circlet of diamonds is set. Poor and small they seem beside the Sultan's jewels, but they were "all the diamonds which were possessed in Zante." Every man and woman surrendered what they had to do honor to the man who had "saved the Mediterranean." These relics are lent for a short time by Nelson's family, and are well worth seeing. One is the better for occasional brushing up in the stories of the day before yesterday.

A Good Prescription.

Fastleigh—I'm afraid I'm going wrong, doctor. What would you advise me to do? Family Doctor—Pay your debts, my boy. "Eh, what? What do you mean?" "Why, if you were to pay your debts you couldn't afford to drink so much whiskey, to play so many games of billiards, or to eat such expensive suppers—and so you would soon recover your usual health."—"Ally Sloper."

A Wily Desert Fighter.

The Mad Mullah, who is responsible for the recent British disaster, calls himself a Mahdi; but though in some ways he resembles the great fanatic of the Soudan, he much more resembles the famous Boer leader, De Wet.

He pervades Somaliland with his horde of fanatical followers, just as De Wet and his commando pervaded the Transvaal. He is reported to be in several places at once, and always turns up at some other place.

His happy hunting ground is the desert called the Haud, in the interior of Somaliland. It is a small Soudan, from 120 to 200 miles across, and almost utterly waterless.

He is a man in the prime of life, tall and spare—an ascetic of the desert. He is not beautiful by western standards, but his face, for all its African moulding, is strong, fierce and virile. He wears a straggling "goatee" beard.

He is low-born, and has acquired his influence in much the same manner as a western demagogue raises himself to be a leader of the people—to wit, by talking. Also, he has practised on the superstition inherent in the African by representing himself as semi-divine. His pretensions are doubtless the more convincing because he believes in them himself.

His followers believe in him implicitly. He has worked miracles before their eyes. A British warship was off the Somali coast one night and was playing her searchlight on the land. The Mullah's followers, encamped in a jungle near the sea, beheld this wondrous new star with awe, and appealed to the Mullah to explain it.

The Mullah had seen searchlights at Aden.

"It is the eye of Allah searching for me, the new Mahomet," he said.

And at that very moment the weird beam flooded the camp of the raiders with a supernatural light. The blacks fell on their faces, crying to the Mullah:—

"Thou art truly the Elect, the Chosen, the Master. Our goods, our existence, our souls belong to thee. We place ourselves entirely at the disposal of thy will."

His father was a shepherd of the Ogadens, a turbulent tribe in the south of Somaliland, and his mother came from the Dolbahantes, an equally turbulent tribe in the north of Somaliland.

From his childhood he was educated for a mullah or priest. His name is Haji Muhammed Abdullah. A Haji is one who has made the Haj or pilgrimage to Mecca. Muhammed is, of course, the name of the Prophet, and Abdullah means "servant of God," so that if there is anything in a name the Mullah is a very holy man indeed.

At one time he was friendly to the British. It is said that his fanatical hatred of Christians was first aroused by finding some French missionaries in Somaliland training up the native children as Christians.

He commenced preaching at Aden so eloquently that he attracted a large number of followers, and subsequently the attention of the British Government, who ordered him to "move on," fearing that he and his disciples might get out of hand.

He retired into the Somali desert, proclaimed a Jehad, or holy war, against the Christian dogs, and started a series of raids on the neighboring territories—British, Italian and Abyssinian.

ECZEMA

The World's Greatest Skin Torture

Many Infants are Born with Eczema

It's the Only Thing Some Folks Have Left When They Die

THE ONLY INFALLIBLE CURE IS CUTICURA

It is in the treatment of this most distressing of torturing and disfiguring skin and scalp humours, with loss of hair, that the Cuticura remedies have achieved their greatest success. Original in composition, scientifically compounded, absolutely pure, unchangeable in any climate, always ready, and agreeable to the most delicate, they present to those suffering from Eczema the most successful curative of modern times. We know that this will be considered strong language by those acquainted with the character and obstinacy of the disease under consideration, but it is justified by innumerable successes where all the remedies and methods in vogue have failed to cure, and, in many cases, to relieve, even.

The first step in the treatment of the chronic forms is to remove the scales and crusts and soften the skin, by warm baths with Cuticura Soap. The scalp, ears, elbows, hands, ankles and feet will require frequently a thorough soaking in order to penetrate the thickened skin and crusts with which these parts are often covered. Dry carefully, and apply Cuticura Ointment, lightly at first, and where advisable spread it on pieces of soft cloth and bind in place. Take the Resolvent, pills or liquid, in medium doses. Do not use cold water in bathing, and avoid cold, raw winds.

Cuticura Resolvent, liquid and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.
Send for "How to Cure Eczema."

The Latest Humor.

"We women," she was saying again, "suffer in silence."

"I can readily believe that you do suffer in silence," the man replied. "You take so much pleasure in talk."—Philadelphia Press.

She—Is it really true that the blind can determine color by the sense of touch?

He—Sure. I once knew a blind man who could tell a red hot stove by merely putting his finger on it.—Chicago Daily News.

"Do you know what precautions the proprietor of this hotel has taken against fire?" asked the nervous old lady as the bellboy escorted her to a room on the fifth floor.

"Sure I do," replied the knowing youth. "De boss has got de joint inshoor'd fer two times de wourth uv it. See?"—Chicago News.

Father—You went in swimming after I said you could not. Did you ask your mother?

Johnnie—Yes, sir, and she said no.

Father—Then why did you go?

Johnnie—Because both of you said I could.

Father—We did not!

Johnnie—Father, I am ashamed of you. Just to think of you being a school teacher, and at the same time forgetting that two negatives make an affirmative.—Express Gazette.

A stranger travelling in Norfolk, England, asked a countryman the way to a particluar place, and was told to go along the road till he came to a "parson," and then to turn to the right, going on till he reached a "bishop," when he would be all right.

"But I may walk a long way without meeting either a parson or a bishop."

"I see you don't belong to these parts," the native replied. "Here we call a sign-post a 'parson,' because he points the way others should go, but does not go himself, and a broken-down post a 'bishop,' because he neither points the way nor goes himself."

"I suppose that if you marry my daughter you will expect me to pay your debts?"

"Shouldn't think of putting you to so much trouble," answered Earlie Byrd. "You can give me the money and I'll pay 'em myself."—Washington Star.

Mother—Why are you so naughty, Dorothy?

Dorothy (aged three)—'Cause it's easier, muzzer.—Comfort.

The sagacious wife watches her husband's angry efforts to find the collar button that has rolled beneath the bureau.

"I should think," she says, "that you would have two collar buttons."

"You should!" he snorts, reaching under the bureau for the fiftieth time and rasping his hand along the floor. "It takes a woman to figure out some way to double a man's troubles!"—New York Herald.

Pat—Phat's good fer a toothache, Mike?

Mike—First git a hole in th' tooth an' thin ate some "Fudge."—Judge.

Blobbs—Sillicus is very proud of his lineage, isn't he?

Slobbs—Yes, he would rather have ancestors than make a name for himself.—Philadelphia Record.

A stanza is going the rounds among the public men at Washington, the authorship of which, from the fact that it was first heard among Senators and Cabinet officers, is credited to various statesmen. Secretary Shaw recited it at a Cabinet meeting, and was said to be its author, but he has disclaimed the honor. It is:—

"Go ask papa," the maiden said.
The young man knew papa was dead;
He knew the life papa had led;
He understood when the maiden said,
"Go ask papa."

Traveller—I once met a cannibal just as he had finished picking the bones of a woman captive.

Chorus—Horrible!

Traveller—He had such a happy, satisfied expression on his face, you can't think. He reminded me of one of those old Roman arena fighters.

Chorus—Absurd!

Traveller—Fact. Gladiator, you know.—Batavia Daily News.

Gritty George—Lady, I hear dat yer cuckoo clock is out of order.

The lady—What of that?

Gritty George—Well, I just want to say dat I'll sit around an' do de cuckooin' every hour fer me board and lodgin'. I'm always willin' to work.—Philadelphia Press.

Miss Maison—Excuse my ignorance, but ought I to call you Mr. Bones or Dr. Bones?

The doctor (irascibly)—Oh, call me anything you like. Some of my friends call me an old idiot.

Miss Maison—Ah! but those are only people who know you intimately.—Answers.

Toast Master (to Chairman of public dinner)—Would you like to propose your toast now, my Lord, or should we let 'em enjoy themselves a bit longer?—Punch.

Wiggle—I see the discovery of birds that cannot fly has been made in Ecuador.

Waggle—Why, we've got 'em right here in Yonkers.

"You don't tell me? What do you call them?"

"'Jail birds.'"—Yonkers Herald.

A Scot, who had been a long time in the colonies, paid a visit to his "native glen," and meeting an old schoolfellow, the two sat down to chat about old times and acquaintances. In the course of the conversation the stranger happened to ask about a certain Gordie McKay.

"He's dead long ago," said his friend, "and I'll never cease regrettin' him as long as I live."

"Dear me! Had you such respect for him as that?"

"Na, na! It wasna ony respec' I had for himself; but I married his widow."—Leeds Mercury.

There is an old Chinese proverb,
"That Brain is in the Stomach."
A simpler Anglo-Saxon maxim is,
"A clean stomach makes a clear head."

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

Is a wonderful rectifier of that weary, tired-out feeling that comes to us all in the

Hot Weather

It clears the bowels regularly and without the slightest discomfort. Keeps the stomach clean and sweet, quickens the action of the liver, clears the head and tones up the whole nervous system.

Abbey's Salt is made from the juice of fresh fruits and contains no minerals. It is at once the simplest, most natural and most effective remedy for all the ills and ails of the Hot Summer months.

Sold by Druggists.

Retiring From Business Sale

NATHAN JONES.

20 per cent. discount on children's Hosiery, best grades.

20 per cent. discount on all our Taffcta and Tamaline Silks.

20 per cent. discount on all our Cashmere, Taffeta and Kid Gloves.

33½ per cent. discount on all our Ladies' Whitewear.

Remember our sale of Gingbams and Muslins at 7c per yd.

NATHAN JONES.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's. At Wallbridge & Clarke's

Supplies For Camp or Cruise

New York Biscuits

In "In-er Seal" pkgs.

Uneeda "Jinger" Wafers, Butter Gems, Cheese Biscuits, German Zwieback, Pretzelettes, etc., etc.

Christie's Fancy Biscuits

Fresh supplies every week — 40 varities.

Heintz's Pickles

Heintz's Celery Sauce.
Heintz's India Relish.
Heintz's Sweet Midgets.
Heintz's Sweet Pickles.

Spanish Olives

A fine assortment of Olives from 10cts per bottle up.

Campers Supplies

Essence of Coffee, Condensed Milk, Lime Juice, Raspberry Vinegar, Fancy Cheese, New Pack Lobster and Shrimps, French Sardines, Scallops, Devilled Crabs, Concentrated Soups, French Potage, Beef Extracts, etc., etc.

Pickles and Sauces

A complete assortment of English and American Pickles and Sauces, including Pickled Walnuts, Onions, Chow Chow, Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce, Yorkshire Relish, Mushroom Catsup, Harvey's Sauce, Sultana Sauce, Chutney's Capers, Durkee's Salad Dressing, etc., etc.

Delicious Teas

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious English Breakfast Teas in lead packets at 30, 40, 50 and 60cts per lb.

Canned Meats

New Packs. Finest Quality.
Whole Ox Tongues.
Lunch Tongues.
Lamb's Tongues.
Boned Chicken.
Boned Turkey.
Boned Duck.
Pate de foie.
Potted Ham.
Potted Tongue.
Sliced Dried Beef.
Ham Loaf.
Veal Loaf.
Chicken Tamales.
Lunch Beef.
Lunch Bacon.
Chicken, Ham and Tongue.
Pigs Feet.
Jellied Tenderloins.
Vienna Sausages.
Luncheon Sausages.
Baked Beans—plain or in Tomato or Chili Sauce, etc., etc., etc.

Ale and Stout, Wines, etc.

Carling's, Labatt and Davies' Dominion Ale, Bass' Ale, Dow's Sand Porter, Guinness' Stout, in prime condition.

Gurd's Ginger and Soda Water Appolinaris and Radnor Water.

Barton & Guestier's and Nath. Johnston's Bordeaux Clarets and Sauterne AT POPULAR PRICES.

Rhine Wine and Burgundy Cordials and Liqueurs.

Light Canadian Wines, red or white, at lowest prices.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE

EST'D. 1871.
BRIDGE ST. Tel. 139.

Branch Store
Front St.—Tel. 157.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 37. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, SATURDAY, JULY 25, 1903 NO. 71

PROTECTION THE KEY NOTE

Sharp Debate in Commons on Binder Twine Resolutions.

Conservatives Say That Bounty on Binder Twine Does Not Go Far Enough—Mr. Sifton's Bill to Amend the Grain Act Read a First Time—Compromise Between the Growers and the Shippers—G.T. Pacific Delay.

Ottawa, July 25.—Mr. Sifton introduced a bill in the House yesterday to amend the Manitoba Grain Act of 1900, which he said was a compromise between the grain growers and the shippers.

Deputy Commissioners are to be appointed to assist the grain commissioners, buyers are to take out licenses, a time limit is to be placed on warehouse occupation, and owners of grain in elevators are to have power to order cars for shipment. The bill was read a first time.

The Treadgold Commissioners.

Mr. Borden asked whether the personal of the Treadgold concession commission had been determined upon.

Mr. Sifton replied that the Treadgold Commissioners would be Judge Britton and B. T. A. Bell, secretary of the Canadian Mining Institute.

The Prime Minister laid on the table of the House a letter in which Sir William Van Horne declined to act as chairman of the proposed transportation commission.

The Grand Trunk Pacific.

Mr. Borden again urged Sir Wilfrid to definitely inform the House as to when the transcontinental railway resolutions would be brought down.

Sir Wilfrid replied that he expected to put the motion on the order paper yesterday.

The Redistribution Bill.

The Redistribution Bill in its amended form, with the schedules of the various constituencies as adopted by the special committee, was presented to the House, and will be on the order paper for discussion at the first available opportunity.

Bounty on Binder Twine.

Mr. Fielding presented the resolution authorizing the payment of bounties to Canadian manufacturers of binder twine. He said that for some years binder twine had been on the free list, and on the whole he believed the industry had prospered. Action on the part of the Dominion Parliament became necessary on account of certain legislation passed by the United States placing an export duty on raw material used in the manufacture of binder twine shipped from the Philippines. It was to compensate Canadian manufacturers for the disadvantages under which they are thus placed in competition with American manufacturers that a bounty equal to the export duty was to be paid them. The bounty will be equal to the amount paid as export duty in the Philippines on Manila binder twine in Canada. The bounty is limited to three-eighths of a cent per pound on the Manila fibre used in the manufacture of binder twine. About fifteen million pounds of binder twine were imported from the United States last year, while there were practically no exports.

Mr. Tarte Advocates Protection.

Hon. J. Israel Tarte said that for the past two years the binder twine industry in Canada has lived by favor of the American manufacturers. They were required to limit their production under penalty of having the Canadian market made a slaughter-house by the American rival. "The Minister of Finance has no right to say that the manufacturers of binder twine in this country have been prosperous," said Mr Tarte. "What we want is a protection policy. Canadians should not be called upon to take money from their pockets and pay it over to individuals. As was stated once before this policy is an expedient, not a principle, and it is not calculated to inspire confidence in our manufacturers.

Mr. W. F. Maclean said the country would hear with regret the announcement of the Minister of Finance that the Government would do nothing more along the line of tariff revision than pay bounties on binder twine, lead and steel. The United States, he said, had reached the crest of the wave, and that nation was preparing to make a slaughter house of Canada. Every effort would be made to break down the Canadian tariff and turn the Canadian market over to the American manufacturers. This was an alarming situation, and we should have an out and out protection policy. If the Government had not the courage of its convictions on the tariff issue they would not carry it into effect, although they had been converted to the principle of protection. The bounty system should be extended to other industries, and customs duties should also be employed to prevent the Americans slaughtering the Canadian market.

Fears Reprisals.

Mr. Roche of Halifax urged that it was not desirable to invite reprisals from the United States. Increasing the duty on binder twine, he feared, would lead to that result, and the principle of bounties was, therefore, the one which should be applied.

Mr. Clarke said he would apply a customs duty that would give the farmers of Canada binder twine at ten cents, instead of fourteen cents, which they pay now.

Dr. Sproule said the payment of the bounty would merely put the Canadian manufacturer on the same level as the American manufacturer. It was nothing more than a half way measure. Americans would be still in a position to throw their twine into Canada.

Mr. Galliher of Yale and Cariboo, and Mr. John Charlton seemed to fear retaliation and so expressed themselves.

Dr. Sproule declared that he was sick of hearing that kind of talk. As a country, Canada should do as she wanted to do, regardless of any other nation.

Mr. John Charlton upheld the Government's proposition. He said that he had opposed a revision of the tariff this year for the reason that important negotiations are pending with the United States. Mr. Charlton repudiated the charge that he was pro-American and ready to bow to the dictation of the United States. During the eighteen years he had been in the Dominion Parliament he had consistently advocated the interests of Canada. He had always opposed export duties and always would.

We Have a Small End.

Mr. Maclean described John Charlton's speech as a significant announcement. We were about to enter into negotiations with the United States. We have the small end of the stick. It was not policy, Mr. Maclean declared, to go to the Americans with a low tariff; we should have met the Americans long ago with tariff for tariff. Then we would be in a position to maintain our rights. As it is, Canada is going to Washington with its hands tied to beseech the Americans to enter to a reciprocal arrangement.

Mr. Heyd expressed the opinion that the tariff should not be opened now. He said that he never could understand why binder twine was singled out for the free list. He had tried to induce the Government to maintain the duties and when the time comes for tariff revision Mr. Heyd will renew these efforts on behalf of a suffering industry.

Mr. Schell of Glengarry thought it better that the Government should pay $56,420, than for the farmers of the country to pay $5000,000 in increased prices on binder twine.

Mr. Tarte urged protection of Canadian industries generally, pointing to the fact that the United States, with a protective duty of 40 per cent. was able to undersell Canadians with binder twine in the free Canadian market. Mr. Tarte considered that in giving the lead and steel industries a bounty instead of the straight protection asked for was giving them a stone when they asked for bread.

Mr. Tarte held aloft a formidable bunch of correspondence. "The Government are giving strong hopes to their protectionist friends privately that they will increase the tariff. Here in Parliament they are talking low tariff. I claim, sir, that it is not a right stand to take. For myself, speaking as to this resolution, I accept the bounty because I cannot get the duty."

The resolution was adopted, and the bill giving effect to its provisions was introduced, passed through the committee stage and stands for third reading.

The House adjourned at midnight.

SINCLAIR'S AD SINCLAIR'S AD.

Summer Sale Prices

If you are at all interested in Ladies' Ready-to Wear Goods, our sale prices for this week should have a special attraction for you. Here are some of them.

34 Ladies' Cloth Skirts from $2.50 to $4.50, all this season's styles, will sell for .... $1.65 ea

15 Ladies' Silk Waists will sell at ⅓ off regular prices.

20 Ladies' Cotton Dresses will sell at Half Price.

Your choice of all our Colored Shirt Waists, both Linen and Cotton, at 25 per cent. off.

All $1.25 and $1.35 Print Wrappers, will sell for $1.00

1 only Ladies' $22.50 Black Taffeta Coat, will sell for $15.00

NEW STYLES IN WHITE WAISTS.

These are some of the very newest creations in Ladies' White Waists, to sell from $1.25 to $3 50 each.

SUMMER WASH GOODS

Cut to fit and properly made in Black and Navy Spots and Stripes, nicely trimmed at $1.35, $1.50, $1.65, and $1.75 each. We also show White Pique and Linen Skirts, from $1.00 to $2.50 each.

Ladies' and Children's Vests.

We are now clearing the balance of our Summer Vests and offer some wonderful values from 5c and 25c each.

If YOU WANT WASH GOODS don't miss our 10c and 15c tables.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO

SIX IN KING'S HUNDRED.

Winning Scores Made by the Canadian Marksmen at Bisley.

Bisley, Eng., July 25.—The shooting of the second stage for the King's prize was concluded yesterday afternoon. Private Gray of the London-Scottish volunteers, who won the bronze medal in the first stage of the competition, won the silver medal, after a tie with three others, with a score of 188.

The following Canadians qualified for the King's hundred: Major Spearing, with a score of 180; Corp. McGregor, 179; Pte. McNaughton, 179; Lieut. Vroom, 178; Sergt. Bayles, 177; Capt. Crowe, 177.

J. A. Simpson of Canada won the Corporation of the City of London prize, open to Indian and colonial volunteers.

Simpson secured 28th place in the Grand Aggregate, winning £2, and the N.R.A. bronze cross; Bayles was 46th, winning similar honors; Vroom 86th, Spearing 125th, Start 133rd, and White 143rd, all of whom received £2 and the bronze cross.

In the St. George's vase, first stage, Simpson was 142nd, winning £2; Spearing 183rd, winning £2; Neil Smith 225th, winning £2; Hayhurst 338th, also gets £2.

An Infant Strangled.

Toronto, July 25.—The dead body of a murdered infant was found yesterday morning on the lawn of J. W. Nettleton, 251 Sherbourne street. Evidently strangled and cast aside by its unfeeling mother the dead child had been wrapped in an old skirt and thrown behind the fence. An inquest was held last night at the morgue, where the evidence of Dr. Rowan, who conducted the post-mortem, went to show that the child had died from strangulation shortly after its birth.

Struck the Wrong Note.

London, July 25.—The Committee on Privileges of the House of Lords yesterday decided against the claim of William Turner Thomas Poulett, Viscount Hinton, the former organ grinder in the streets of London, to the Earldom of Poulett and in favor of the late Earl's son by a former marriage.

Little Boy Drowned.

Port Robinson, July 24.—While playing with several other small boys, a lad eight years old, son of S. G. Perry, manager for Phin & Co., contractors, fell off a wharf below one of the railroad bridges here yesterday afternoon, and was drowned. The body was soon after recovered.

Run Over and Killed.

Kingston, July 25.—George Garrson, aged 45 years, of Verona village, while en route to the cheese factory, was seized with a stroke of paralysis and fell off the wagon. The hind wheel passed over his head, killing him instantly. He leaves a widow and large family.

Rural Dean Will Retire.

Kingston, July 25.—It is understood that Rural Dean F. T. Dibb, rector of Bath, will resign from the ministry and retire to private life. He will take up residence in Napanee, having purchased the residence of the late Judge Wilkinson.

An Indian Executed.

Vancouver, B. C., July 25.—Indian Lou was executed yesterday morning for the murder of his wife. A most unique circumstance was that a number of redskins witnessed the execution.

Dr. Morin Dies Suddenly.

Quebec, July 25.—The sudden death is reported at Thedford Mines of Dr. Charles Eugene Morin at the age of 37.

Death Follows Fall.

Parkhill, July 25.—Asa J. Hill, a painter, while engaged in painting on a house, fell from a ladder. the shock caused heart failure and he died in a few minutes.

Died From the Heat.

Ruthven, July 25.—Thomas Dawson, a pioneer of this county, dropped dead yesterday. He was overcome by the heat while hoeing in the fields.

WOMAN GAINS FREEDOM.

Mrs. McKee, Wanted in Ireland For Forgery, Escaped From Sandwich Jail by Aid of Pail Handle.

Windsor, July 25.—Just before going to her evening meal on Thursday night, Matron Sparks of Sandwich jail, opened the door of the women's ward, leading to a narrow court surrounded by a 15-foot stone wall, and bade her prisoner, Mrs. Ellen McKee, who is awaiting transportation back to Ireland on a charge of forgery, to avail herself of the fresh air, then said "good night," and the matron left Mrs. McKee to enjoy her little liberty.

Left to herself in the prison yard, Mrs. McKee saw a pail standing in the yard, and wrenching the wire handle from it, she made a hook at one end and proceeded to climb to the top of the great door which was swung outward against the stone wall. As she reached the top of the door she hooked the wire into the iron netting above the doorway, and in this way pulled herself by sheer force to the top of the wall. How she let herself down on the other side is not known, but it is presumed she leaped to the ground, 15 feet.

Her absence from the jail was discovered at 7 o'clock, and Governor Sparks spent the entire night in searching for a trace of the woman, but without avail.

THE KING'S IRISH TOUR.

Visited Homes For Work People, Entered the Tenements and Talked Freely With the Inhabitants.

Dublin, July 25.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra repeatedly visited a number of public institutions yesterday, His Majesty first visited the dwellings built for working people by Lord Iveagh (Cecil Guinness) and others. He was met there by Lord Iveagh and Lord Ardilaun (Arthur Guinness) and accompanied by them and Irish Secretary Wyndham, entered the tenements and talked freely with the inhabitants. His Majesty expressed pleasure at the excellence of the plans.

The King then went to the famous St. Patrick's Cathedral and received an address from the chapter.

After luncheon at the castle the King and Queen visited the Irish constabulary depot, where a drill exhibition was given in their honor.

$115,000 WITH NO SECURITY.

A. E. Wallace of Atlas Loan Co. So Borrowed From Metropolitan Bank.

Toronto, July 25.—The affairs of the Atlas Loan Company were gone over again yesterday before Thomas Hodgins, Master-in-Ordinary, at Osgoode Hall. The National Trust Company, liquidators under the winding-up order, made an application for leave to enter an action against the Metropolitan Bank to recover certain securities of the value of $91,991, and payments of $25,000 and $5,093, which are alleged to have been handed over to the bank when the company was in an insolvent condition. Some months before the failure, Mr. Wallace, president of the Atlas Loan Company, secured an advance of $115,000 from Manager Bailey of the Metropolitan Bank without giving any security. A short time afterwards one of the bank directors became anxious regarding the loan and a request for security was complied with by the turning over of a number of mortgages, as collateral, which are now the subject of this action. The liquidators hold that the loan company was insolvent at the time the two payments were made, and the securities turned over, and that the bank has no right to rank any higher than an ordinary creditor. President Wallace was examined and swore that the company was insolvent in April when the transactions occurred, but that he was not aware of it at that time. The Master reserved judgment on the application.

PANIC IN STOCK MARKET.

It Followed the Smash of Two Firms in New York.

New York, Sept. 25.—The announcement on the Stock Exchange late yesterday of the suspension of the firms of Talbot J. Taylor & Co. and W. L. Stow & Co. was the sequel to the period of excited selling of stocks and wide cuts in prices which had not been equalled since the present movement to liquidate set in. It was a veritable Black Friday, but stocks rallied a little before the close.

Died From His Injuries.

Goderich, July 25.—Robert J. McLean, eldest son of Robert McLean, who contested West Huron in the Conservative interests against Robert Holmes, M.P., met with a fatal accident a few days ago. He was out driving when his horse shied and he was thrown out, sustaining serious injuries to his head and shoulder. He went to Dr. Whitely and after being bandaged up proceeded with the same horse to drive home, but feeling ill he called for a friend to drive him. Soon after this he became unconscious and died shortly after he reached home.

Blew Open the Safe.

Berlin, July 25.—Early yesterday morning burglars blew open the safe in Jacob Kufman's lumber factory office with nitro-glycerine. The explosion shattered the safe. The burglars were not well repaid for their work, as only about $10 was in the safe.

INTEREST IN THE CONCLAVE

Cardinals Engrossed in Result Which May Be a Surprise.

Gotti's Chances of Election Improves in Comparison With Other Candidates—Body of Leo Still Lies in State, and Thirty Thousand Persons Passed Before the Catafalque on Friday—Remains Will Be Interred To-night.

Rome, July 25.—Again yesterday the body of Leo XIII. lay in state in the Basilica of St. Peter's, and about 30,000 persons passed before the catafalque during the day. This is an increase over the number who viewed the remains Thursday, and the augmentation was due, doubtless, to the widely circulated reports that yesterday would be the last upon which the public would have an opportunity of looking upon the body of the Pontiff. These reports proved to be incorrect, and the body will continue in the Chapel of the Sacrament, at least during the greater part of to-day.

With impressive services the body will be interred this evening in a sarcophagus at St. Peter's, where it will remain until taken to its final resting place, in the Church of St. John Lateran.

Italian soldiers again yesterday preserved order inside St. Peter's. The day was notable for the solemn masses celebrated for the repose of the soul of the late Pope in St. Peter's, which was largely attended, despite the pathetic ceremony which was occurring at the Basilica.

Gotti's Chances Improve.

Interest is now largely engrossed with the coming conclave, and its result. The gossip of the day may be summed up briefly by saying that Cardinal Gotti's chance of election seems to have improved in comparison with those of other cardinals who have been mentioned as likely to succeed Leo XIII., although there still exists a strong feeling that some one, hitherto scarcely talked of, may wear the tiara.

Reception of Diplomats.

The congregation of Cardinals has not yet decided whether the note which the sacred college intends to address to the powers concerning the situation of the papacy at Rome shall be presented to-day when the reception of the diplomatic body occurs. The diplomatists accredited to the Holy See will be presented by M. Martins d'Antas, the Minister from Portugal, who is dean of the corps. Monsignor Merry del Val will reply as acting Secretary of State.

At the meeting of the congregation yesterday Cardinal Satolli asked when the conclave would be opened. Cardinal Oreglia replied that he thought that on the evening of Friday the 31st, all the Cardinals might enter their cells and be ready for the first meeting of the conclave August 1, a week from to-day.

Mgr. Farabulini, the famous Latinist, whom Gladstone often consulted and of whom the German Emperor requested advice concerning Latin, has been requested to write oration brevis, the Latin eulogy, upon the late Pontiff, which will be buried with him.

BASEBALL FRIDAY.

The Eastern League.

Buffalo ....0 0 0 0 0 1 1 1 0— 3
Toronto ....0 0 0 1 0 3 5 2 1—12

Runs off each pitcher—Amole 9, La Roy 3. Innings pitched—Amole 7, La Roy 2. Hits off each pitcher—Amole 8, La Roy 4. Earned runs—Buffalo 2, Toronto 3. First base on balls—Amole 2, La Roy 0, Briggs 2. Struck out—Amole 2, La Roy 1, Briggs 3. Two-base hits—Massey 2. Sacrifice hits, Brodie, Toft. Stolen bases—Brodie 2, Miller, White, Kuhns. Left on bases—Buffalo 8, Toronto 9. Double plays—Amole, Hartman to Grimshaw; Kuhns, Miller to Massey; Downey to Massey. Hit by pitcher—Briggs 1, La Roy 1. Wild pitches—La Roy. Umpire—Ned Swartwood. Time of game—2 hours. Attendance—4130.

R.H.E.
Jersey City ....0 0 1 1 9 2 5 0 x—18 21 3
Providence ....2 1 0 1 0 0 0 1 3— 8 18 7

Batteries—McCann and Dillan; Conn and Duggan. Umpire—Shannon. Attendance—400.

R.H.E.
Baltimore .... 1 1 2 5 1 2 2 1 x—15 23 4
Rochester .... 0 1 0 0 0 1 0 2 0— 4 7 6

Batteries—Burchell and Robinson; Leary and Steelman. Umpire—Brown. Attendance—1204.

R.H.E.
Newark .... 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 2— 3 9 3
Montreal ... 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 1— 2 8 0

Batteries—Burke and Shea; Pappalau and McCauley. Umpire—Kelly. Attendance—800.

National League Scores.

At Boston—

R.H.E.
Brooklyn ....0 0 0 2 0 0 1 0 4—7 8 2
Boston ....0 0 0 0 0 3 0 0 0—3 12 2

OBERT BUNKALL

COULD NOT MOVE HIS ARM.

MUNYON CURED HIM

"I received one vial of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure, and it has been of untold benefit to me. I could not move my arm, it pained me so much; now I can move it freely. I have no more shooting pains, and I believe I am cured. I recommend this wonderful remedy to everybody afflicted with Rheumatism."—Robert Bunkall, 1,109 King street east, Toronto.

If you are sick, if you have indigestion, if you are nervous, if your liver or blood is out of order, if you have any kidney disease, if you have piles, or any ailment, ask your druggist for "Munyon's Guide to Health"; it is free and will tell you how to cure yourself for 25c. Thousands of testimonials. 27B

WEAK AND EXHAUSTED.

"Though weak and exhausted I was often unable to eat. After taking Angier's Petroleum Emulsion for two weeks I was able to eat and enjoy three meals a day, and the nervousness left me entirely."—M. E. Nesbitt, Toronto, Canada.

THE WEATHER.

To-day's Probs—

Moderate to fresh southerly to westerly winds, fine and very warm to-day. Thunderstorms on Sunday.

To-day's Temperature

As Registered by The Intelligencer's Guaranteed Thermometer:

8 a.m.	75
12 m.	83
2 p.m.	88

Batteries—Jones and Ritter; Wilks and Moran. Umpire—Johnstone. Attendance—2080.

At Philadelphia—

R.H.E.
New York ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 5 1
Philadelphia ....0 1 0 0 0 0 0 2 x—3 11 1

Batteries—Matthewson and Warner; Duggleby and Roth. Umpire—Emslie. Attendance—1878.

At Pittsburg—
Pittsburg ....3 1 0 2 0 1 0 0 x—7 14 5
St. Louis.........0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 2—4 9 2

Batteries—Philippi and Smith; M. O'Neil and J. O'Neil. Umpire—Moran. Attendance—2955.

At Chicago—

R.H.E.
Chicago ......4 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0—5 11 0
Cincinnati ...0 0 0 0 2 2 0 1 0 0 5—3 11 1

Batteries—Taylor and Kling; Hahn and Bergen. Umpire—O'Day. Attendance—2800.

American League Results.

At Washington—

R.H.E.
Washington .. ..0 0 0 0 1 3 0 1 *—5 11 1
Philadelphia .....0 0 1 2 0 0 0 0 1—4 9 4

Batteries—Wilson and Kittredge; Bender and Schreck. Umpire—Hassett. Attendance—5013.

At New York—

R.H.E.
Boston ....0 0 0 5 1 1 1 0 0—8 12 1
New York ....1 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—3 7 1

Batteries—Gibson and Criger; Griffin, Howell and Beville. Umpire—Sheridan. Attendance—2329.

At Cleveland—

R.H.E.
St. Louis ....0 0 1 0 0 0 1 0 0—2 12 1
Cleveland .... ..0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 5 1

Batteries—Sudhoff and Kahoe; Bernard, Dorner and Abbott. Umpire—O'Loughlin. Attendance—4600.

Two Senators Ill.

Ottawa, July 25.—The venerable Senator Gowan of Barrie and Senator Forget of Montreal are reported to be on the verge of death, with little chance of recovery in either case.

NOTED CANADIAN DEAD.

Dr. Donald McLean of Detroit Passed Away Friday.

Detroit, July 25.—Dr. Donald McLean, a noted surgeon in this state, died yesterday at his home in this city from gastro entritis. Dr. McLean was born in Seymour Township, Ont., in 1839, graduated from Edinburgh University in 1862. He practised medicine in Kingston, Ont., until 1870, excepting the years 1863-64, when he was a surgeon in the United States army. In 1870 he became professor of surgery at the University of Michigan and held the chair until 1889. He was for a number of years chief surgeon of the Michigan Central and Grand Trunk Railroads and in 1894 was president of the American Medical Association.

Charges Fell Flat.

Hamilton, July 25. — Inspector Lawlor's inquiry into the charges laid by James Wier, Toronto, against W. F. Miller, collector of inland revenue, fell very flat, and the investigation was closed quite abruptly yesterday. The collector is again perched on his official stool, and the inspector has gone to Ottawa to make his report.

Missing Woman Found.

Sarnia, July 25.—Three weeks ago last Tuesday Mrs. Manski mysteriously disappeared from her home at Point Edward through the night clad only in her night clothes. Yesterday the body of a woman was found floating in the river here, and was identified by Mr. Manski as being the remains of his wife.

360,000 Operators Affected.

London, July 25.—Replying to a question in the House of Commons yesterday, Gerald Balfour, president of the Board of Trade, said 700 cotton manufactories in Lancashire were working on short time and 360,000 operatives were affected. This was due to the deficiency in raw cotton.

Given Christian Burial.

Picton, July 25.—The murdered employe of the Pan-American Circus was given a Christian burial here yesterday in the cemetery by the Mayor, Rev. Mr. Shorey officiating. The manager of the circus forwarded funds to the Mayor for the burial.

British Journalists Here.

Quebec, July 25.—Nine British journalists arrived here yesterday on the C.P.R. steamer Manitoba. They will proceed to the far west as the guests of the Government.

Justly Indignant.

The house had been full of aunties come to spend the holidays, and the baby's six-year-old brother was heard one morning confiding his woe to his father:

"Say, papa, do you know, I've had to sleep a whole week in a room just full of women?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Your money back if Gin Pills do not cure.

Rheumatism

When the Kidneys fail to do their work of discharging the uric acid from the system, the result is rheumatism. Until the Kidneys resume this work in a natural healthy way no cure is possible.

Gin Pills

cure rheumatism quickly and for all time because they are the most perfect Kidney Corrective ever discovered. From all Druggists, 50cts. per box, 6 boxes for $2.50 or direct from

THE BOLE DRUG CO., WINNIPEG, MAN.

Diarrhoea

When you want a quick cure without any loss of time, and one that is followed by no bad results, use

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. It is equally valuable for children. It is famous for its cures over a large part of the civilized world.

30 Retail Stores DAVIES 30 Retail Stores

Saturday Specials

LARGE consignment of Choice Dairy Butter	18c per lb.
FINEST Creamery Butter, fresh made	20c per lb.
DAVIES Pure Leaf Lard, Kettle Rendered	2 for 25c
FRESH full cream Cheese New and Mild	2 for 25c
DAVIES special 40c Tea, selling for	25c per lb.
BEANS, Corn, and Pumpkin, good stock	3 for 25c
SALMON, Choice Quality, fresh packed	3 for 25c
PORK and Beans in Tomato or Chili Sauce	2 for 15c
HAMS Sugared Cured and mild by the whole or half	14c per lb.
BACON Mild Cured, by the whole or half	13c lb.

OUR Choice WESTERN BEEF is giving good satisfaction in Belleville. HAVE you tried a roast yet?

CHOICE SPRING LAMB of the finest quality.

KINDLY order early, or use the PHONE. 286. DAILY DELIVERIES.

The WM. DAVIES CO., Limited.

GOLD MEDAL AWARDED, WOMAN'S EXHIBITION, LONDON, 1900.

Neave's Food

For Infants, Invalids, And The Aged.

Nearly 80 Years' Established Reputation.

DR. BARNARDO says:— "We have already used Neave's Food in two of our Homes (Babies' Castle and the Village Home), and I have no hesitation in saying it has proved very satisfactory."—July 27th, 1901.

Manufacturers: JOSIAH R. NEAVE & CO., FORDINGBRIDGE, ENGLAND.

Wholesale Agents:—THE LYMAN BROS. & Co., Ltd., Toronto & Montreal.

SPECIAL OFFER

MIDSUMMER CLUBBING RATES.

Two Papers to January 1st, 1904

Family Herald & Weekly Star, and the Best Home Paper—The Weekly Intelligencer, BOTH for

65 CENTS

We are making this special offer as we require 1000 new subscriptions to our Weekly.

This offer is good to new subscribers only.

ADDRESS—

The Weekly Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONT.

No agents handle this offer.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

—FOR—

Stylish and Durable Turnouts.

- —Surreys
- —Corning Buggies
- —Piano Box Buggies
- —Rubber Tire Buggies
- —Micadoes
- —Phaetons
- —Bike Buggies
- —Democrats
- —Grocer Wagons
- —Butcher Wagons

Cheese Factory Milk Wagons.
Steel Tubular Axle Lumber Wagons.

Rubber Tires put on your old wheels at reasonable prices.

Mill St, - - Belleville

Daily Intelligencer.

HOW GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS FILL THEIR POCKETS.

In Toronto a clerk in the Crown Timber Lands Department manipulates the information he has, and secures for Cap. Sullivan a timber limit for $250, which is sold immediately after for $9,000, the profits being divided between the two boodlers.

In Ottawa things are managed somewhat differently, but the result is the same; the officials and their outside pals fill their pockets. It is done in this way, a "supply company" is formed, composed of Government officials, who use the information they secure in the Departments, and some outsiders. Then the operations go on. Here is an illustration of how it works in one Department:

The Post Office Department during the past year purchased from the concern goods represented by the following values:

1900	$11,600
1901	16,500
1902	15,338
Total	$43,438

The Ottawa Supply Company has no place of business in the capital and the business directory contains no record of it. When information was sought neither Sir William Mulock or his officers were willing to give the personnel of the firm, until the Minister was forced to do so by the Opposition. Then a Government employee named Roman, who is secretary of the Liberal whip, was sent for, and the desired and the following information forced from him. Ronan, it seems, although a public servant, organized the Supply Company, and without public tender secured orders amounting to $43,438. Associated with him was a man named Stratton, who keeps a small grocery store in an unpretentious section of the city. It has not yet transpired who the others are. From this centre the business of the dummy firm was transacted, and supplies of every description and entirely foreign to a grocery establishment were supplied.

Who gets the rake-off?

It is ridiculous to suppose that the uninfluential persons who appear as principals are the real beneficiaries. Public officers at Ottawa are becoming as important as those at Toronto, and each are getting wealthy by these unholy methods.

TIMELY TOPICS

This is the seaon of the year when the harbor bar doesn't do all the moaning. The small boy is going up against the green apple, with the inevitable result.

• • •

Some of the Sons of England, going home from the banquet last night, are alleged to have seen the comet. That's better than seeing the sea serpent, anyway.

• • •

By the way the comet is coming this way at the rate of a few thousand miles a day, and may possibly strike us before the new gravelithic sidewalks are built.

• • •

Rumor says that Cabinet difficulties reached an acute stage in Ottawa lately, when Hon. Clif. Sifton took Hon. Syd. Fisher by the collar and hurled him to the floor afterwards sitting on him. The strenuous life must prevail in the Laurier Cabinet.

• • •

Mr. J. M. Hurley may have done some rather weird charging when he made up his accounts as Census Commissioner, but he has not yet sported a private yacht, like Cap. Sullivan.

• • •

How would you like to draw 90 days' pay when your accounts showed that you had only been actually at work for 49 days? Wouldn't you think your employer was pretty easy? Well, rather.

• • •

And if, while you were "earning" the above money you were at the same time drawing $1200 a year and travelling expenses from the Government, as pay for another job, you'd think you had struck a pretty soft snap, wouldn't you? No doubt Mr. Hurley thought so, too.

• • •

When you find the weather is

Too Hot

for you to go home

To Eat

then is the time to try our Lunch Room.

J. ARTHUR MARSH.

Capt. Haff, who sailed several of the cup defenders, is of the opinion that the cup will be lifted by Shamrock III. He says that she is a better boat than Shamrock II. And we believe that he is more than Haff right.

• • •

Mrs. Jones, a New York woman who fell three hundred feet down a chasm in the Yosemite valley a few days ago, and spent the night upon a shelf two feet wide and overhanging a bottomless pit, said she had to sing all night to keep the lions away. She heard them prowling about her head, and scared them by singing. Mrs. Jones is very frank. But if she has a voice that will frighten off mountain lions she need never apply for a position as choir soloist in a Belleville church.

GOOD NEWS.

Mr. J. H. Morehouse, of the Connell Anthracite Mining Co., of Bernice, Pennsylvania, has been in town for a few days, making arrangements for the sale of their coal in Belleville. Mr. Morehouse has arranged with Mr. D. Gallagher, the wood-dealer, to take the agency, and this gentleman has a full stock now on hand.

After Recreation.

"What we need," he said, "is more of exercise in our summer outings. We don't get much benefit from hotel verandas."

"What would you suggest—a cabin in the woods, with your own work to do?"

"Not exactly that; but I did think of going as far by rail as my money will carry me and then walking back."

"Even then you wouldn't have far to walk, would you?"—Brooklyn Eagle.

Heals Inflamed, Itching Skin

CURES ECZEMA, SALT RHEUM AND TETTER, LEAVING THE SKIN SMOOTH AND NATURAL.

As a means of allaying inflammation, relieving the dreadful itching and healing and curing itching skin diseases, ulcers and eruptions, we believe we can prove by the evidence of the best people in the land that Dr. Chase's Ointment is the most potent preparation that it is possible to obtain, so many extreme cases have been cured, so much intense and continued agony relieved that we challenge anyone to produce like endorsement for any ointment or any preparation which is recommended for such diseases. 60 cents a box at all dealers. 8

AT THE TABLE.

Various Ways of Being an Incubus on the Family Digestion.

Gladstone credited his long, useful and vigorous life to the habit of chewing his food and taking at least one hour to "the pleasant business of dining." To sit down to a well cooked, daintily served repast with loved ones and friends is surely one of the happiest experiences of life.

The dining room should be the most cheerful room in the house, at the entrance to which should be inscribed, "Lay care aside, all ye who enter here." Flowers, music and universal good cheer should grace this retreat of Epicurus. Even the melodies of a little music box exert a happy influence on the digestion.

The table is the place for the light jest, the cheerful story and merry social converse. Even the children may add their happy voices in the family gathering.

The table is not the place for fault finding about food or anything else, to correct children or servants, for gossip or unpleasant news, for discussion of business or household worries.

The man who finds fault with the food in the presence of children is raising a family of malcontents and putting cobblestones in his own stomach. Likewise the silent man absorbed in introspection, business worries or the newspaper, who seems to eat without tasting, is an incubus on the family digestion.

The fretful woman who criticises her husband's carving, the maid's serving or the children, who is on the lookout for the slightest misadventure, creates an unhappy atmosphere in the dining room three times a day. It is the wise mother who, when the paterfamilias begins to view the roast with a critical eye, asks Johnny to tell papa about the football game. Long before Johnny has finished his story papa has forgotten to find fault, if he had any such intention.

All housekeepers may make this note in their cookbook: Simple fare and good cheer are the best aids to digestion.—Table Talk.

OUT OF THE SHADOW.

The discouragement, the despair of ill-health, out into the noon-tide glory of health, vigor and strength. Are you seeking this way? Are you wishing to replace weakness by strength, despondency by hope and expectation, pale cheeks and lustreless eyes by the rose's bloom and sparkling eyes. If you but use Ferrozone, you will make rich, red blood, your nerves will grow strong. Old-time vigor will return and with it endurance that will enable you to live an active, energetic and successful life. Remember the name, Ferrozone. Sold by all druggists.

LYDFORD LODGE HOLDS TENTH ANNUAL BANQUET.

ENJOYABLE OCCASION AT THE CITY HOTEL LAST NIGHT.

The 10th annual banquet of Lydford Lodge, S.O.E., was held at the City Hotel last night, and about thirty sat down to dinner, which was tastefully gotten up and nicely served. Among those present were seven members of the Deseronto lodge, including its president, Mr. Hervid. Mr. Vallance, president of Lydford Lodge, presided, the vice-chair being occupied by Mr. J. B. Harker. The dining-room was nicely decorated, and the evening was thoroughly enjoyed by those present. Following was the toast list:

"The King."—Received with the usual honors.

"Supreme Grand Lodge."—Replied to by Mr. Harker.

"Municipality of Belleville."—Replied to by Rev. A. L. Geen.

"Army and Navy."—Mr. H. F. Ketcheson responded to this toast.

"The Land we Left and the Land we Live in."—In honor of this toast Miss Mary Drowley recited, very nicely, "The Flag," and Mr. Stephen Tufts sang "The Englishman."

"Lydford Lodge" was responded to by Mr. Harker, who showed that, financially and numerically, it was in a flourishing condition.

"Sister Lodges" found champions in Mr. McConnell and Bro. Featherston, of Deseronto lodge.

"The Ladies" was the next toast, Messrs. Williamson, Mallins and Featherston, of Deseronto, responding.

"The Press" was responded to by the representatives present.

"The Host and Hostess" was heartily received, and gracefully responded to by Mine Host Drowley.

During the evening enjoyable songs were rendered by Messrs. Clark, Vickers and Featherston. Mr. T. Soal gave some pleasing selections on his phonograph, and Mr. Nooks, of Deseronto, executed a "Chin Chop solo" which was cleverly done and much enjoyed.

The company broke up at a seasonable hour, after singing the National Anthem.

VALUABLE ADVICE TO RHEUMATICS.

Eat meat sparingly, and take very little sugar. Avoid damp feet, drink water abundantly, and always rely on Polson's Nerviline as an absolute reliever of rheumatic pains. Being five times stronger than other remedies, its power over pain is simply beyond belief. Buy a large 25 cent bottle to-day, test it, and see if this is not so. Polson's Nerviline always cures rheumatism.

AN UNFORTUNATE GIRL.

She's never in a novel,
  Although she isn't rare,
And she can't get into fiction
  For, though her face is fair,
Her cheeks as pink as roses,
  Her teeth as white as pearl,
The authors all ignore her,
  'Cause her hair won't curl.

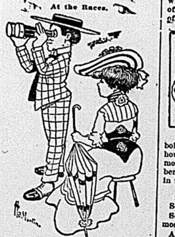
She's very fond of dancing;
  To row is her delight.
She glories in lawn tennis;
  She could golf from morn till night.
But she sits out half the dances
  (Lest her ringlets all unfurl),
And she must not be an athlete,
  'Cause her hair won't curl.

She loves to go in bathing,
  But really doesn't dare;
She knows she's simply hideous
  With lank and straggling hair.
While other maids are splashing
  Their tresses twine and twirl,
She bakes upon the sea beach,
  'Cause her hair won't curl.

Her coiffure is a triumph
  When the days are cool and dry,
But she bids farewell to beauty
  When the mercury is high.
She doesn't crave a million
  Nor pine to wed an earl,
But she prays for an invention
  That will make hair curl.

—Edith K. Commander in Philadelphia Ledger.

At the Races.



"Oh, George! How much do we win?"

"About $6 worth of experience, I guess."—Chicago American.

Still Unsettled.

"Yes, Bliggums has at last settled down. I saw him with a baby carriage awhile ago."

"M'hm! But Bliggums has not settled up. I saw the bill for the baby carriage."—Baltimore News.

Too Risky.

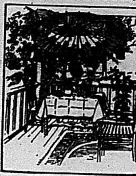
"Have you read my new book?"

"Not yet. My doctor has advised me to be careful!"—Atlanta Constitution.

WARM WEATHER LIFE.

A Corner of the Piazza Fitted For Out of Door Refreshments.

The illustration pictures a table spread in the corner of a piazza for a summer tea. The large Japanese umbrella, which is more for ornament than anything else, as shelter is afforded by the piazza roof, has lanterns hung from the ends of the ribs at intervals, while from the handle is suspended a fancy basket filled with fruit. The idea of breakfasting, lunching or taking tea on the porch in summer time is an excellent one and may be satisfactorily tried by any one who has a back or a side piazza of sufficient width. If the spot is sunny hang up awnings or bamboo screens.—Designer.



FOR A SUMMER TEA.

To Dust and Polish Furniture.

The proper method of dusting furniture has to be learned; it does not come naturally. People rarely begin with a duster in each hand, which is absolutely necessary to success; that in the left hand is needed to prevent leaving finger marks when steadying and lifting the furniture. Each piece should be wiped lightly from the top downward to remove dust, and then be rubbed vigorously to raise the polish.

A stuffed cushion should be brushed and then dusted before the wood is dealt with or the dust will fly out and settle on the wood. The legs and spindles should be rubbed between the two dusters with both hands, as we rub cold hands together to warm them; this is a saving of time and insures all sides being equally bright.

Those who do not admire a bright gloss on furniture will find the desired effect is obtained by rubbing the furniture with a damp chamois leather and polishing with a dry one. When steam or water has turned the varnish of any piece of furniture white, rub the spots with spirits of camphor.

To keep white enameled furniture in condition, sponge occasionally with warm water and white castile soap, dry it and then apply a little whiting with a flannel cloth slightly dampened. When dry wipe off the whiting and polish with a soft cloth or chamois.

Young Folks' Evening Dress.

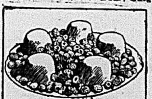
Very diaphanous dresses are worn by the young people, chiffon and tulle and kindred stuffs taking the lead. Many of them are trimmed with narrow ribbons and many spangled with silver; but in nearly every instance the back of the arm or the entire arm, from the shoulder to the elbow, is veiled either with a pendent sleeve or with drapery. The bodices are not so much pouched as they were; indeed, some of them are severely plain and many have deep belts.

Frozen Fruits.

Frozen fruits are prepared by mixing the fruit cut into small pieces with an equal amount of cold water and adding sugar to the taste. Pack and freeze precisely as you would ice cream. When the mixture is half frozen add a pint of whipped cream to every quart of fruit and water. You may use strawberries, raspberries, cherries, peaches, pineapples or apricots. All will be found very nice, and you will have a variation in frozen desserts from ice cream.

A Red Raspberry Dessert.

Mix three tablespoonfuls of farina with half a cupful of milk and a pinch of salt. Heat three-fourths of a pint of milk with a pint of water; when boiling add the farina, cook half an hour, turn into buttered cups, chill, unmold and surround with red raspberries. Strawberries may be served in the same way.—Delineator.



FARINA WITH RASPBERRIES.

Fashions In Jewels and Gold.

Scarabs are standard cuff links.

Square handles mark some of the most select umbrellas.

Antique finish provides something unique in sleeve links.

A large hoop of rubies and diamonds is among fine ring styles.

Handsome diamond slides are provided for velvet throat bands.

Renaissance designs in banquet rings employ a multitude of small diamonds.

Wide collars of many rows of coral beads are enriched with a central plaque and slides of brilliants.

A pretty brooch is a crescent moon of pearls, within which lies a spray of blue enamel forgetmenots with pearl centers.

A long, flat oval seems a favorite shape in men's sleeve links, and an engraved monogram gives the latest touch of style to them.

Ragged clothes quickly—that's what common soaps with "premiums" cost; but

SUNLIGHT SOAP REDUCES EXPENSE

Ask for the Octagon Bar 241

At no resort can children derive more health and enjoyment than at the MAGI Caledonia Springs.

We Have the Sellers

Ladies' Sterling Silver French-Grey Hat-Pins. In these we show a variety of designs, all new, 35c to 75c.

Ladies' Sterling Silver Enamelled and French-Grey Belt-Pins. These are the very newest on the market and must be seen to be appreciated. Prices 75c to $3.50.

Ladies' Bead Guards

These are immensely popular at present in the American cities, and are certainly an improvement to any summer dress. We show some beauties in the Roman-Filled Pearls, in both long guards and short necklaces. In the Corals the long guards are 75c to $1.50 and the short necklaces 50c and $1.00

Angus McFee.
Jeweler & Optician
310 Front St.
The Store with the Big Clock.

CAMP COMFORTS

Mosquito-Scat for Mosquitos, etc., 15c a bottle.

Witch Hazel Cream for Sunburn, etc., 25c a bottle

Bathing Caps for ladies, 50c.

WATERS'

Mr W. Denham

Of Denham's Drug Store, Petrolea, Ont., says:

"The O. R. Kidney Cure gives the best satisfaction to our customers of any kidney medicine we handle."

Belleville druggists speak highly of the O. R. Kidney Cure.

It does its work quickly.
It cures Lame Back.
It cures Lumbago.
It cures Bladder Trouble.
It cures Gravel in Bladder.
It cures Rheumatism.
It cures Kidney Troubles.
It will cure you.
Try one bottle.

O. R. KIDNEY CURE is put up in liquid form, contains no poisons, is quickly assimilated and will cure all kidney and urinary troubles.

O. R. Kidney Cure, 50c per bottle.
O. R. Liver Pills, 25c per bottle.
O. R. Dyspepsia Tablets 25c per box.

AT DRUGGISTS, OR WRITE—

THE O. R. MEDICINE CO.,
Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ST. AGNES' SCHOOL,
Elmpool, Belleville,
OPENS D.V., SEPT. 9th.

A high-class Boarding and Day School for girls. Under the patronage of the Lord Bishop of Ontario.

Boys admitted to primary department only.

MISS F. E. CARROLL,
Lady Principal

Prospectus sent upon application. Address P. O. Box 535, Belleville.

Why not own a copy of our 400 page "Guide to Investors." We mail it free, also send for our "Daily Market Letter." Correspondence solicited.

HAIGHT & FREESE CO.

Stocks, Bonds, Grain, Cotton.
7 Melinda St., Toronto, Ont.

"Determining the character and financial responsibility of your Broker, is as important as selection of right stocks"

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R., C.S., England.

Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George Streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. J. F. MATHER

Has removed his office to Pinnacle St., three doors north of Hotel Quinte. my29-6mw

DENTAL.

Dr. Clarke has removed to the offices formerly occupied by the late Dr. Ward, over Burrows', and opposite Scantlebury's Book Store. a27dtf

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT,

Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.

Office—2 Campbell Street.

MALCOLM WRIGHT. J. FRANKLIN WILLS.

Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,

Barrister, &c.

Solicitor for the City of Belleville, Office—Metropolitan Block, Corner Front and Campbell Streets.

PORTER & CARNEW,

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.

Offices — Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.

'Phone 87.

E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,

Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Office, Bridge Street, Belleville.

Money to Loan — Private Funds, Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,

Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q.C.

Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, Etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent., on easy terms upon good land security.

Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire Insurance.

Guardian . . .	Est'd 1821
The North America,	Est'd 1792
Quebec, ...	Est'd 1818

City, Town and Village Property insure at lowest rates.

R. W. ADAMS. Agent.

Office opposite Post Office.

THOS. STEWART,

Insurance and Commission Agent.

Agent for the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Scottish Union National Insurance Co.

BRIDGE, ST.

FIRE, LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE

At Lowest Rates The Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Perth Mutual on farm and city property. Also mone to loan at 4½ per cent. upwards.

JAMES A. CHISHOLM,

Office Ashley Block, • Front st., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned

can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.

The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.

Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at lower rate than other stock companies. Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.

Office—Bridge St., same entrance Quinte Laundry, Belleville.

H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance.

Liverpool & London & Globe of England.

Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont.

Lloyd's Plate Glass,

Home Life Association, Toronto,

North British & Mercantile,

Farm and City Property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation, and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan & Investment Society. Money to Loan.

W. P. HUDSON, Office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., opposite Postoffice and Hotel Quinte, Belleville.

'Phone 168.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. G. NORTHRUP,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Shire Hall, Belleville, Ont.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses.

Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the Post Office.

Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St. Appointments made.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

A man is generally at his heaviest in his fortieth year.

This Summer Sale

Of ours includes all fancy goods in our store at a reduction of 40 per cent. from lower prices than you can find the same goods elsewhere.

IT MEANS

$1.00 worth for 60c of any of our China, Bisque, Art Pottery, Candle Shades, Brass Tables, etc.

IT MEANS

25 per cent. off all our Wrist Bags and Chatalaines.

IT MEANS

30 per cent. off of all our framed pictures. And while we are speaking of pictures, allow us to mention a large and beautiful line of photogravieurs just placed in stock and on our bargain tables.

We mean to keep this store most interesting for the summer months, interesting in values as well as in new goods, a bright, down-to-date, summer shopping store for citizens and strangers.

In Wall Papers, also, we are offering some exceptional values, a number of clear outs. You can have at half price if they fit your room, and if you wish that we hang these papers you may depend upon us for low prices, prompt work and best workmanship.

Whether Painting, Graining, Kalsomining, Paperhanging or superior Decorating, you better have this firm do it. We are responsible and we will please you in every way.

Our Picture Framing Department is ever on the boon.

We keep a large staff busy all the time in this department and there are good reasons why we do—

Good workmanship.

Good materials.

Promptness and low prices.

These are the abundant reasons.

C. B. Scantlebury

Belleville's Decorator,

Wall Paper Wholesale and Retail.

FAST MAIL SERVICE

Bay of Quinte Route
TO
ROCHESTER N. Y.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian"

Taking Effect 27th June.

GOING DAILY (EXCEPT MONDAY)

Lv. Belleville .... 11.38 p. m.
Ar. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 6.43 a. m

RETURNING DAILY (Except Sunday)

Lv. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 8.30 p. m.
Ar. Belleville .... 3.25 a. m.

Baggage checked to all points. Connection with all railways.

$1.00 THOUSAND ISLANDS $1.00

AND RETURN.

Commencing 28th June, Steamer leaves Belleville at 3 25 a.m. daily except Monday for 1000 Islands, calling at Bay of Quinte ports, Kingston, Alexandria Bay and Gananoque. Passing through American and Canadian channels.

Right reserved to change time with or without notice.

Full information from
THE RATHBUN CO., } Agents.
U. E. THOMPSON, }
E. E. HORSEY, G. P. & F. Agent, Kingston.

Str. "Alexandria"

Montreal, Rochester & Quebec Transit Co'y.

Popular Quebec Excursions NOW ON.

Belleville to Quebec and return.. $18 00
Belleville to Montreal and return $12.00
(including meals and berth)

Steamer runs all rapids.

For Rochester, Olcott Beach, Niagara Falls and Buffalo every Saturday at 11 a.m.

Particulars from

A. W. HEPBURN, General Manager, Picton, Ont.
THE RATHBUN CO. Agents, Belleville.

The Deseronto Navigation Co

TIME TABLE.

Taking effect April 13, 1903.

Belleville, Trenton, Picton & Napanee

Str. "ELLA ROSS"

Leaves Belleville for Trenton at 10 a. m., daily, Sundays Excepted, returning leaves Trenton at 1 p. m., leaving Belleville at 3 p.m. for Deseronto, Napanee and Picton.

Quick and Superior Service to NEW YORK CITY

Steamers RESOLUTE and RELIANCE will leave Deseronto for Oswego after arrival of Str. Ella Ross connecting at Oswego with the New York, Ontario Western Ry.

Fare to New York, Single, $8.40
Return, $13.25

For further particulars apply to THE RATHBUN CO., Local Agents

J. F. CHAPMAN, Asst. Gen. Frt. Pass. Agt., Deseronto

R. C. Carter, General Manager, Deseronto.

Steamer Armenia Saturday afternoon excursion to Napanee, July 25th, at 2.30 p.m. Will be home at 9.30 p.m. Adults 35c, children 15c. Thos. Stewart, Agent, Bridge St.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

New train 12.45 a.m., daily, except Sunday, for Brockville, Montreal and intermediate stations.

No. 16—Local, for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.

No. 2—1.45 a.m., Mail and Express, (Flyer), Daily.

No. 6—11.43 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 4—12.22 p.m., International Limited, Daily.

No. 12—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5—3 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily except Monday.

No. 3—4.10 a.m., Limited Express, Daily.

No. 9—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 11—11.22 a.m., Passenger, Daily except Sunday.

No. 1—1.48 p.m., International Limited, Daily.

No. 7—5.12 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

Taking effect 12,01 o'clock, Sunday, June 14, 1903.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	9.10 a.m.	7.30 a.m.
Mixed	5.08 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

"Old Bruyn has been here," said the father. "He bit on the bait I dropped in the proper quarter regarding my little transactions with Claude. He seems to regard me already as the practical controller of the Rolff property, and was all ready to buy the old wood lot and adjoining meadows, which I happened to know he has had a hankering for this long while. Of course I was chary of coming to any terms, and I fancy managed to advance your claims in a manner that will not be without effect. Everything works all right so far. I think there will be nothing in the way of your beginning your attentions to Miss Rosa at once. Then if young Claude only gets entangled in some way in Europe, or happily dies, or we can keep him there and unsuspicious of our plans till everything is in favorable shape, success will be ours. But I dare not make public the deeds as yet. We must not run the chance of his hearing of anything irregular. In a bold step like this, much depends on the chances. Our only plan is to wait. You see the propriety of that, Ralph?"

"Yes, of course. It wouldn't do for the young cub to know that you had got his signature to papers that deed away all his property, and be none the wiser."

"Yes, Ralph—but speak low. What was that noise?"

"What noise?"

"I thought I heard a sound, as if somebody might be listening."

Mr. Saybrook arose and went to the inner door, and looked around in the hall that divided the office from the living apartments, but he saw nothing, and returned apparently satisfied to his chair.

"It was a bold stroke, Ralph—perhaps a dangerous one—but I felt I could trust the young fool's utter carelessness, and the result was so essential that I determined to risk it. After reading him the papers he supposed he was to sign, I managed to change them, and present others to him for his signature in a way that did not disclose the trick. So here they are in good shape, all properly endorsed and witnessed, and they will be hard to get over when the proper time comes. But we must be cautious. My actions have been sagaciously planned, and all undertaken in view of a possible contingency, which I now consider to be inevitable. I mean the outbreak of war with England. In that case our young gentleman will be safely kept out of our way for a number of years; there is no telling how long, but long enough, I am certain. My only anxiety is lest he should take the alarm and want to return to this country. In my letters I shall take every measure to quiet any apprehensions, and I hope to draw him out on points that will be of future use to us."

"What a general you would make!" exclaimed the admiring son, as this rehearsal of his father's plans was concluded.

"Ah, Ralph," was the reply; "remember, there is strategy in other fields than war, and the best general always wins."

CHAPTER X.

The fall passed into winter, and the new year at last drew near.

Anthony Saybrook had not been unmindful of his engagement with Claude to visit the old south cellar on New Year's day, and note whether the mysterious signs appeared on the door of the vault therein. In fact, he had awaited most anxiously the arrival of the appointed day. Spite of the ease he had had in explaining to Claude the secret of the old lady's mysterious instructions, he was greatly puzzled in his mind as to their nature and meaning. They must mean something important, he argued. The old lady was too practical and sagacious to have given such strange and explicit directions without some very definite object in view. "Can it be possible," mused the lawyer, "that she has carefully saved her earnings and deposited them in the old vault, and that great wealth is there awaiting this young prodigal. It is not improbable. Knowing his reckless and naturally spendthrift disposition, she might have adopted such a plan of keeping the money out of his hands till he should have arrived at years of greater discretion. But who is to judge thereof, and give the mysterious sign that is to unlock the doors of the vault, provided young prodigal reforms within five years? Can it be old Carl — or Margaret? Faith, I shouldn't wonder. Either would be shrewd and trustworthy enough; and, really, the plan wouldn't be so bad for keeping the money safe till Claude got a little experience of the world. But I'll wager the old lady never counted on the possibility of any new proprietor coming into possession of Rolf House before the secret of the vault was revealed. Suppose there is a fortune lying in there snugly locked up! It makes Rolff House the greater prize. Yes, yes—it is a prize worth having; and I must and will have it, unless the devil himself fights against me."

New Year day at last arrived; and, immediately after a hearty dinner, Anthony Saybrook proceeded to the old mansion, and, lifting the great rusty knocker of the heavy oaken door, sent a loud alarm through the vacant halls and rooms, that echoed and re-echoed as if giving warning that a dangerous enemy was at hand.

Old Carl answered the summons.

"Good day, Mr. Crum," said the lawyer, with a pleasant smile."

"Good day," answered the old man. "Come in. I know the object of your visit."

"Ah! — Claude informed you, of course. Very good, indeed—it saves the trouble of explanation. I presume we may as well proceed at once to the old cellar. It is my plan to transact all business as speedily as possible; and, as this is a holiday, and I have invited my friend Mr. Bruyn over to have a social glass and pipe with me at four o'clock. I will adhere to my plan on this occasion."

"Curse your plan!" muttered old Carl under his breath; and then he said aloud, "I'll get a light," and at once started off to procure it, leaving the lawyer standing in the cold, gloomy old hall.

"Scant courtesy," he said to himself, as he gazed after the old man with a peculiar glitter in his eyes; "but it's all the same to me, Mr. Crum; I fancy I shall be able to get even with you one of these days."

Old Carl presently returned, with a candle in a tin lantern, and beckoning to the lawyer, led the way to the staircase, and down into the basement. They traversed the dark passage that led to the cellar stairs, and old Carl descended them and unlocked the door, and held the lantern that the lawyer might safely descend.

In a moment they both stood in the old gloomy cellar, and the old man led the way with his lantern to the vault.

"This is the vault?" queried the lawyer.

"Yes," curtly responded the old man.

Anthony Saybrook examined the door carefully. There was no sign of the mysterious marks that were to be the signal of the breaking of the prohibition against the door being opened. This was all that the lawyer's duty required of him. But his curiosity was increased by the sight of the vault and its massive structure. He examined it closely. He noted how nicely the door fitted, and wondered as to its thickness. He scanned keenly the massive masonry that surrounded it, and mentally concluded that no such solid structure could have been built for a trifling purpose. Why had old Magnus Rolff had it built? This question came up in his mind, and set him to trying to weave a theory to explain it. He concluded that it must have been intended for the deposit of some precious treasure. Public gossip may be more than half right about it, he thought. A smile flitted across his face as he called to mind the superstitious report that no one could enter it or handle its contents except he sold himself to the devil. "Suppose I should be the one to outwit the devil," he exclaimed mentally, and again the smile flitted across his face.

"Rather a queer piece of masonry, this?" he said in an inquiring tone, turning to old Carl, after having finished his inspection of the vault.

"I don't know," responded the old man; "it is according to how you look at it."

"Well, how do you look at it, if I may be so bold as to enquire?" responded the lawyer, in an inquisitive tone.

"As a very simple matter, without a bit of mystery about it," was the reply. "In their better days, the family had many valuable articles, and it was very natural that a great house like this should have a private strong place, where valuable papers or articles could be kept safe from prying eyes and fire."

"So, so—very keen, very sagacious, Mr. Crum," replied the lawyer, who saw at once that old Carl was not disposed to encourage him in any curiosity about the vault. "And now, if it is just as agreeable to you, I should like to be left alone here a few moments, that I may carry out certain instructions of your young master."

Mr. Saybrook had taken a fancy that he would like to closely examine the old cellar, and hence his request to be left alone.

But old Carl had no notion of indulging him in his curiosity.

"It would afford you little pleasure, methinks, to be left alone here in the dark," he answered. "I cannot leave you the lantern, as I am growing old, and it is not safe for me to be wandering around in the dark passages above without a light."

"I will light you up the stairs and through the passage, if that is all," answered the lawyer, "and then return and fulfill my duty here."

Seeing that any attempt to evade the request would prove useless, the old man replied, somewhat bluntly:

"It is not in accordance with my instructions to leave you alone here."

(To be continued.)

BABY'S VITALITY.

The vitality of infants and young children is at its lowest point during the hot weather. More children die in summer than at any other season. This is because the little ones suffer more from bowel troubles, are nervous, weak, sleepless and irritable. Prompt action often saves a valuable little life, and troubles of this kind can be promptly met and cured by giving the little one Baby's Own Tablets, which should be kept in every home ready for emergencies. The Tablets speedily relieve, and promptly cure all stomach, bowel and other hot weather ailments, and give sound refreshing sleep. Mrs. P. Ferguson, 105 Mansfield street, Montreal, says: "My baby was attacked with dysentery and was hot and feverish. I gave him Baby's Own Tablets and they promptly cured him. Before this he had been rather delicate, but since using the Tablets he has been better and stronger in every way."

These Tablets can be given with an absolute certainty that they will do good to all children from a new born babe upwards. They contain no opiate or "soothing stuff." Sold by medicine dealers or sold at 25c a box by writing direct to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

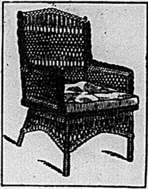
SUMMER FURNISHING

NEWEST FASHIONS, WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO COUNTRY HOMES.

A Paper Scheme In White and Silver. A Notion For Summer Camps and Cabins—Windows and Floors—Light Furniture.

In some homes considerable renovation is necessary at this season. The following suggestions from the Delineator, with particular reference to country houses, will be found interesting along this line:

One of the newest ideas in papering is to use a white paper on the walls of rooms that are not brightened by sunlight. The best effect is gained when the moire paper is adopted, with a five inch flowered border laid around in panel style. White and silver stripes may also be used for the body of the wall in the same way. This is an echo of the whitewashed rooms of the old farmhouse.



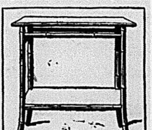
WILLOW CHAIR WITH CUSHIONS.

A cool looking room was recently made at a very slight cost by fastening tea matting against the side walls with brass headed tacks. An oriental green stain was then washed over the surface, making an exceedingly soft and tasteful background. This idea is worth noting for summer camps and log cabins where wall paper cannot be effectively applied.

A general impression of cool cleanliness is obtained through the warm season by the use of muslin curtains. In a house where the windows show conspicuously, as in suburban towns, cities or villages, an attempt should be made to secure uniformity in both shades and curtains. In an isolated house set among trees this point is not so necessary. In the summer the simpler the material the more satisfactory the result. Domestic white muslins in self woven patterns are sold at very cheap prices and give at least two seasons' wear. The imported goods are finer and wear better. The colored patterns woven into white muslins are never entirely sun fast, and, therefore, not especially economical. Silkolines and cheese cloth may be used to bring a touch of color to dark rooms where they do not receive the direct rays of the sun. Pongee silk makes a pretty window hanging where pine or oak woodwork is present, and so also do linen colored dotted swiss and dimity.

The treatment of the floors during the summer months will depend mainly upon the condition of the boards. Small rugs laid over finely polished wood exhibit the acme of coolness; but with uneven boards beyond the help of paint or varnish an entire covering is almost compulsory. The wool filling so well known has a cheaper rival now in a cotton filling. Terra cotta is a pretty color to adopt where a brick chimney is in evidence, and a sage green is dependable for its assimilative nature, looking, perhaps, its best with yellow woodwork.

Furniture of a heavy, ornate type should be replaced by lighter styles during the warm weather. Even a few pieces of the latter kind will assist in giving a pleasant relief in the sultry days. A rattan lounge is useful both upstairs and downstairs, and its light weight enables it to be easily shifted from one part of the house to another. A mattress of hair or cotton felt and plenty of pillows of feather, down and hair should be made.



BAMBOO AND MATTING TABLE.

Willow chairs are made in many fancy styles, some with baskets at the side for sewing work or magazines, others with head rests and bookshelves attached. The first cut shows a standard shape in this material.

A table that can be easily moved is a necessity in the summer, as it is often wanted out of doors. The second cut shows a bamboo and matting table, a combination especially adapted to the country home.

Grass Stains.

Grass stains in the children's garments are among the sure indications of the outing season. Unless such blemishes are removed before going to the laundry it is a difficult matter to eradicate them. A soaking in alcohol and subsequent rubbing with the fingers is a simple cure if promptly applied.

AT DEATH'S DOOR.—DYSPEPSIA CONQUERED.—A GREAT MEDICAL TRIUMPH.—Gentlemen,—My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live when I commenced to use Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 lbs. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the Vegetable Discovery consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over thirty dozen Vegetable Discovery since it cured me, as I am well-known and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life as I never expected to recover when first I commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia.

Signed, JEAN VALCOURT,
Wotton, P.Q. General Merchant

The best way to get even is to forget.

FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES.—Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centres and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

Much talk, many lies.

If you have a cough or cold do not neglect it; many without a trace of that hereditary disease have drifted into a consumptive's grave by neglecting what was only a slight cold. Had they used Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup before it was too late, their lives would have been saved. Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, writes; "I think Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup the best preparation on the market for coughs and severe colds. About six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. I had a physician attending me, but gradually grew worse until I was on the verge of Consumption, and had given up hopes of being cured, when I was induced to try Bickle's Syrup. Before I had taken one bottle I found myself greatly relieved, and by the time I had finished the second bottle I was completely cured. I always recommend it for severe colds and consumption."

It takes money to voice the opinion of a lawyer.

No one knows better than those who have used Carter's Little Liver Pills what relief they have given when taken for dyspepsia, dizziness, pain in the side, constipation, and disordered stomach.

A long portage makes a heavy canoe.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and na-

All trails are long to the lazy.

THEY DROVE PIMPLES AWAY.—A face covered with pimples is unsightly. It tells of internal irregularities which should long since have been corrected. The liver and the kidneys are not performing their functions in the healthy way they should, and these pimples are to let you know that the blood protests. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will drive them all away, and will leave the skin clear and clean. Try them, and there will be another witness to their excellence.

Coral is a talisman against thunder and evils by flood and field.

HAD LA GRIPPE.—Mr. A. Nickerson, farmer, Dutton, writes; "Last winter I had La Grippe and it left me with a severe pain in the small of my back and hip that used to catch me whenever I tried to climb a fence. This lasted for about two months, when I bought a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil and used it both internally and externally, morning and evening, for three days, at the expiration of which time I was completely cured."

Many a man's self-conceit is due to his ignorance.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed 'Perfection.'

The average watch represents but 12 hours of human labor.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial, the medicine that never fails to effect a cure. Those who have used it say it acts promptly, and thoroughly, subdues the pain and disease.

When one gets hopping mad his reason goes on a crutch.

Use the safe, pleasant, and effectual worm killer, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; nothing equals it. Procure a bottle and take it home.

The wildcat's teeth are close to its purr.

Holloway's Corn Cure is the medicine to remove all kinds of corns and warts, and only costs the small sum of twenty-five cents.

None Left To Bother You After Using
Wilson's Fly Pads
Sold Everywhere. 10 cents

RAINY WEATHER NEEDS.

What a lot of weather we are having, very hot, then rainy and cold. Whether the weater is clear or whether the weather is cloudy, the fact remairs that we have waterprof coats in plenty, guaranteed to keep out the wet.

A Few Specials

We have just received a few specials that should be of interest to you. There are so many very low priced, useless coats on the market that these extra good ones at moderate prices will surely prove fast sellers. Two lines, one dark the other medium, pure rainproof, velvet collar, raglan pocket and cuffs, coats made to sell at $7.50. OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY $5.00.

A FEW BETTER

Then we have some extra good ones at $7, $8 and $10, coats that you would have to pay much more for in other stores. If you are thinking of a rainproof coat, come in and take a look around.

OAK HALL

Sole Agents for Sanford's Celebrated Clothing.

A Clean Sweep —Sale—

NOW ON. In Ladies' Patent Kid and Patent Colt Skin Shoes.

The balance of season's goods to be cleared before our Fall arrivals.

25 per cent. off the regular prices.

6 pairs Laced, French Heels, $5.00, now	$3.75
9 pairs Laced Style. $4.00, now	$3.00
11 pairs Laced Style, $3.50 now	$2.60
7 pairs Laced Style, $3.00, now	$2.25
6 pairs Patent Oxfords $3.00, now	$2.25
20 pairs Fine Kid Oxfords, $2.00, now	$1.50

Bell's, McPherson's and "Empress."

See our Display in North Window.

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES at Belleville, Napanee and Trenton

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

The petition to the Government to stop net fishing in the Bay of Quinte has been prepared and is now in circulation. The parties pushing the matter were given to understand by Mr. D. R. Leavens, postmaster, that the petition could be left in the Post Office, where it would be looked after. Now, however, for reasons, presumably political, Mr. Leavens refuses to allow the petition a place in the Post Office. However, CAPT. ALLAN, COAL DEALER, BRIDGE STREET, has kindly consented to allow the petition to lie in his office, and will see that those desirous of doing so have an opportunity to sign it. We would strongly urge everybody who has the welfare of this city and district at heart, to sign the petition and help to bring about a return of the splendid fishing which prevailed in our beautiful bay before it was ruined by the all too free use of nets.

• • •

Who cares about the price of coal these days?

• • •

What do you think of this good old summer time, anyhow?

• • •

Those grave and reverend seigniors, the City Fathers, had considerable important business before them last night, as will be seen by reference to the report in another column. It will be apparent to anyone who peruses the letter from Mr. Kirkwood's solicitor to the local Bank of Montreal that the afore-mentioned gentleman, wherever he goes, always has his nerve with him. The idea expressed by Mr. R. C. Clute, it may be pointed out, is not a new one; it has been promulgated in this city before by people who, in their anxiety to belittle the efforts of the Council, helped to make balls for the enemy to fire. People of that kind, unfortunately, are found everywhere. We incline to the opinion, as expressed by several of the Aldermen, that "there is not much in" Mr. Clute's letter. It looks like a bluff, though it is just possible that, in their haste to close the bargain with Mr. Kirkwood and endeavors to get the mills started, the Council and its legal advisers may have left a loophole. We have no doubt, however, that the committee appointed to look into the matter will be able to give a definite and satisfactory answer on that point before long.

• • •

No one will deny that the ground taken by Ald. Chown and certain of his colleagues in respect to fixing the price of gas before a new franchise is granted to the Gas Company is an eminently wise and practical one, and it is not likely that objection will be made to it. The prices named, $1.75 for illuminating and $1.25 for fuel gas, are quite high enough, and would seem almost exorbitant to the inhabitants of some places. However, they, of course, constitute the maximum rate. There is no reason why, if enterprising people took control of the local gas works, they could not work up a trade which would enable them to make a large reduction in the above figures.

• • •

It will be noted that one of the Alderman last night took exception to a bill from a Toronto firm of printers, the same being for work done for the corporation of this city. The City Treasurer was good enough to explain that the work in question was done for less money than it would have cost in Belleville. Perhaps, when the C. T. has a little time, he might figure out how much that Toronto firm of printers pays towards his salary in the way of taxes. The printing establishments of this city employ many hands and are taxed fairly high. It seems to us that when the Corporation has work to be done it should be given to the people who keep up establishments and pay taxes in this city. The amount involved is small, of course, but the principle is large; larger, perhaps, than even the giant mind of the City Treasurer is able to grasp.

• • •

We quite agree with Ald. Pope that as a general thing, the streets of this city compare favorably with those of any place its size in Ontario. Possibly the same can be said about the sidewalks; we could not swear to that; but some of those old wooden man traps on a few of our back streets are "fierce" and that's no joke. If the Council could replace them with gravel walks they would, in the opinion of many people, be doing a good thing.

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc: Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Miss M. Corham left this morning for Midland, to visit her sister, Mrs. W. J. Ridley.

Mrs. Thompson, of Montreal, is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. J. Barlow, Macdonald Ave.

Miss May McCune has returned home, accompanied by her friend, Miss Storer, after spending three weeks in Lindsay.

The news comes from Deseronto that Mr. E. W. Rathbun's health is such as to cause his friends deep anxiety. Three nurses are now in attendance on him.

"The Good Old Summer Time"

With all its delights has its dangers and its drawbacks as well. Not the least of these is the depressing and enervating effect which the hot weather has on persons with run-down or naturally with weak constitutions. The appetite flags, the digestion weakens and the system becomes an easy prey for the numerous diseases peculiar to the season.

It is therefore of prime importance that the system should be kept up to the mark, and in no other way can this be done so effectively and with such absolute certainty as by taking FERROL (the Iron Oil Food) three times a day, as per instructions. FERROL is a concentrated food scientifically prepared, pleasant to take and easy to digest.

Sample free. 75c at all druggists or from

THE FERROL COMPANY, Limited,
134 King St. West,
TORONTO.

FOUR MEN IN A BOAT.

AND THREE OF THEM ARE ALLEGED TO HAVE "DONE UP" JAMES RAGAN.

On Monday last James Ragan, a resident of Canifton, visited the city and fell in with James Johnston, Dennis Keegan and Wm. Dumesnil, three well known parties living here. They procured a punt and went across the bay, taking with them a keg of beer. As a result of taking too much Ragan fell asleep, and, when he awoke, his pocket book, containing $8, was missing, as was also Keegan. The three men were arrested and Keegan and Johnston was placed on trial, charged with the offence. Dumesnil was not on trial, he being used as a Crown witness. In his evidence he stated that Keegan took the money and offered him and Johnston $1 each. Keegan left the party, remaining at Massassaga all night. The parties were arrested last evening. Mr. Anderson prosecuted and Mr. McMahon defended the accused.

The result of the investigation was the acquittal of Johnston and Dumesnil and Keegan being found guilty. The Magistrate reserved sentence until Monday.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

BRIDGE ST. METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. Dr. Crothers will preach at both services.

Quarterly Love Feast in S.S. Rooms at 9.45 a.m.

Morning service at 11 a.m., subject "The Preciousness of Faith."

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper at close of morning service.

Sunday School and Bible Classes at 2.30 p.m.

Attractive programme.

Evening service 7 p.m., subject, "Lessons From the Life of the Late Pope Leo XIII."

Hymns used will be those written by Roman Catholic authors.

Services during warm weather bright and brief.

College students and strangers gladly shown to seats.

JOHN ST. PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Corner of Victoria Avenue and John Street.

REV. A. H. DRUMM, Pastor.

Sunday services at 11 a.m., and 7 p. m.

Sunday School at 3 p.m.

Pastor's Class for Bible Study—Sunday at 3 p.m.

Young People's Guild—Monday at 8 p.m. Prayer meeting—Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Service at 11 a.m., and 7 p.m.

THE TABERNACLE METHODIST CHURCH.

Church St.

Rev. George Brown, Pastor.

Morning service at 11 o'clock—Subject, "Walking as Christ Walked."

Sabbath School at 2.30 p.m.

Evening service at 7 o'clock—Subject, "Resisting Unto Blood."

Strangers welcome.

VICTORIA AVE BAPTIST CHURCH,

Cor. Victoria Ave. and Pinnacle St

REV. O. C. ELLIOTT, Pastor.

Prayer meeting—10.30 a.m
Services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.
Sunday School at three o'clock.
The Pastor will conduct both services.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend the above services. All seats are free.

HOLLOWAY ST. METH. CHURCH

Rev. J. R. Real, Pastor.

Rev. R. H. Leitch, of Picton, will preach morning and evening.

2.30 Sunday School.

Epworth League on Monday at 8.

Prayer meeting on Wednesday at 7.45.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public.

BELLEVILLE NORTH (BLEECKER AVE) METHODIST CHURCH.

Rev. F. B. Stratton, Pastor.

Bleecker Ave. sermons at 11 and 7 by the Pastor.
2.30 Sunday School.
League Monday 8 p m.
Kingston Road. Sermon 2.30 Rev. F. B. Stratton.
Sabbath School 10 30 a.m.
League and Prayer meeting Thursday at 8 p.m.
Centre Street—Rev. A. Martin 7 p.m.
Sabbath School 2 30 p.m.
League Monday at 8 p.m.
Seats free in all the churches. Come and welcome.

BETHEL HALL, Front St.

11 a.m.—Lord's Supper.
7 p.m.—Gospel meeting.
Subject for evening, "The Kingdom of Heaven and the Coming King."
Tuesday 8 p.m.—Prayer and ministry of the word.
All invited. Seats free.

July 26th, 1903.
Seventh Sunday After Trinity

EMMANUEL REFORMED EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

(Free Church of England).

Victoria Avenue, between Church and Pinnacle Streets.

Rev. William J. Gilliland, Rector.

SUNDAY SERVICES—Morning at 11, Evening at 7.

Sunday School and Bible Classes 10 o'clock a.m.

Young People's Meeting Sunday 8 p m.

Strangers and visitors in the city welcome.

All seats free.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Measurement Nonpareil—12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.
Subsequent consecutive insertions, ne
Reading advertisements, 15c per line.
Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon usual or contract rates.
Minimum space, 10 lines.
Marriages and deaths, 50c each insertion
Births, 25c each insertion.
Rates for Condensed Advertisement will be found in 1st column of 2nd page.
All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of the Intelligencer.
Address all communications to the Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House Limited, or to Charles J. Bowell, Managing Director and Treasurer.
Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s Office, 30 Fleet Street, London, E. C.

CONDENSED ADVERTISEMENTS

TERMS.—Twenty-five words or less, 25c first insertion; two insertions, 50c; four insertions, 75c; one week $1.00, two weeks, $1.75, three weeks, $2.25; one month, $2.50. Strictly cash in advance.

WANTED.

A youth to learn the printing trade, one with slight experience would be accepted. Apply to The Intelligencer Office. 25-2t

Be independent. Employ yourself. Establish a business. Our goods are used everyday by everybody. Men make fortunes. Write G. Marshall & Co., London, Ont. 4

Agents wanted, $2.50 per day. Apply Cooper, London, Ont. s27-1y

Young men ambitious to learn lucrative trades, of which there are eight in connection with the business. Apply The Belleville Hardware Company, Belleville, Ont. a7dtf

The only authorized "Life of Pope Leo XIII." Written with the encouragement, approbation and blessing of His Holiness, by Mgr. Bernard O'Reilly, D.D., LL.D., (Laval). This distinguished author was summoned to Rome and appointed by the Pope as his official biographer. The book is endorsed by Donato Sbarretti, Papal delegate for Canada, and is approved and recognized by all church authorities as the only official biography of the Pope. Over 800 pages, magnificently illustrated. Best commission to agents. Sell only the official life by Mgr. O'Reilly. Elegant outfit free. The John C. Winston Company, Toronto, Ont. j20-6td

WANTED Reliable Men in every locality throughout Canada to introduce our goods, tacking up show cards on trees, fences, along roads and all conspicuous places, also distributing small advertising matter. Commission or salary $60.00 per month and expenses, not to exceed $2.50 per day. Steady employment to good, honest reliable men. No experience needful. Write for full particulars THE EMPIRE MEDICINE CO., London, Ont

TO RENT

House furnished or unfurnished on George street. Apply to Mrs. May, 206 George Street. 4t

A house on Moira street containing 8 rooms. All modern conveniences. Possession on or before 20th July.—Adam Henry.. dtf

TO-LET,

That new solid brick house on Yeomans street. Hard and soft water in kitchen. Good cellar, stable and garden. In perfect order. $6.—J. J. B. Flint. jy16dtf

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

Stone house, 11 rooms, coal furnace, stable, barn. Large grounds. Cor. Frank and Moira Sts. north. Terms reasonable. H. Bull, on premises or Fred Bull, 133 Yonge St., Toronto. Terms easy. ap18-dtf

FOR SALE.

A good rebuilt typewriter, guaranteed. Price $50. Apply at this office. j20-6t

Shingles, shingles, dressed lumber, etc. GEO. WALTON & CO. jy14-1md

Dressed and Matched Lumber of all kinds, at ALFORD'S factory, Market Square. j12-2f

Contractors and masons, any any person requiring lime may procure it from E. G. STAPLEY, Canifton Road, Belleville. New lime always on hand. a9-d&w6m

LOST.

Friday, July 24, a ladies' tapestry pocket book containing calling cards and receipts. Finder leave at the Intelligencer Office. Reward. 25-2td&1tw

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

CHEAP TRIPS

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay. Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

NOTICE.

Tickets are now on sale via North Bay and Sarnia, also via lake and rail, to points on Canadian Northern Railway, Port Frances, Rainy River, Winnipeg and other points west. New fast train service has just been inaugurated on this line.

H. E. THOMPSON, City Agent,
Bridge Street.
T. H. COPPIN, Depot Agent.
J. D. McDONALD,
Dist. Pass Agt., Toronto.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

"Imperial Limited."

Fast tri-weekly Transcontinental service between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. Connection leaves Toronto at 1.45 p.m., Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, making run Toronto to Vancouver in 97 hours.

Upper Lake Steamships

Leave Owen Sound Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 5.30 p.m., on arrival of S.S. Express leaving Toronto at 1.30 p.m. Connections at Fort William and Port Arthur for Winnipeg and Pacific Coast points.

Daily First-Class Service Toronto to Winnipeg, Calgary, Banff and Pacific Coast.

Fully Equipped Through Tourist Cars leave Toronto Tuesday and Saturday for Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Full particulars from your nearest Canadian Pacific Agent or to
A. H. NOTMAN,
Asst. Gen. Pass. Agent, TORONTO.
S. BURROWS, C.P.R. and General Ticket Agent, Front St., Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL & HUDSON RIVER R. R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.		After 1st May
Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)	12.22 p.m.	1.30 a.m
Arr. Kingston "	1.47 p.m.	3.12 a.m
Lv. Kingston (stage)..	2.30 p.m.	5.00 a.m
Arr. Cape Vincent (stage)	4.30 p.m.	7.00 a.m
Lv. Cape Vincent N.Y.C.	5.05 p.m.	7.25 a.m
Arr. Watertown "	5.55 p.m.	8.25 a.m
Arr. Oswego "	9.05 p.m.	11.55 a.m
Arr. Syracuse "	9.25 p.m.	12.07 p.m
Arr. Rochester "	1.05 a.m.	2.20 a.m
Arr. Utica "	9.45 p.m.	12.35 p.m
Arr. New York "	7.25 a.m.	6.00 p.m

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C. R. R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from F. A. Folger, N.Y.C. Agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent.
New York.
A. H. SMITH, Gen'l Supt.,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

Seven hundred British subjects are yearly born at sea.

• • •

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

ODD LINES —OF— Boots and Shoes

AT LESS THAN COST PRICE.

Men's Canvas Low Shoes, regular price $1.25 & $1.50......	75c
Men's Canvas Boots, regular price $1.25 & $1.50	$1.00
Men's Working Boots	68c
Men's $4.00 Tan Boots for..........................	$2.00
Boys' Tan Boots, regular price $1.50 to $2.50......... ..	$1.00
Ladies' Fine Dongola Oxfords, sizes 3, 3½, 4, regular price $1.00 to $2.00	50c
Children's Slippers, regular price 75c & $1.00............	35c
Girls' Calf Button Boots, sizes 11 to 2..................	60c

VERMILYEA & SON.

Sole Agents for the famous Queen Quality Shoe.

FOR TWO WEEKS ONLY! 2 WEEKS

$5.00 Any Suit In This Great Clothing Store for $5.00

A STUPENDOUS CLOTHING OFFER WITHOUT PRECEDENT OR PARALLEL.

Some Suits $18, some $16, some $15, some $12, others $10. Just think of it! High grade, thoroughly tailored garments for Men, complete suits in fashionable fabrics, for

$5.00

This is just the opening gun in the great Mid-Summer Sale, in connection with this store. In every other department there will be equal sensational reductions. This Clothing Sale begins on July 11th and will end on July 25th. The earlier you come the better your choice as we anticipate a big rush.

The GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE.

Up-to-date Clothiers and Gents' Furnishiers, Look for the Globe Over The Door, 390 Front Street, Belleville.

Wall Paper

At first sight of our Wall Papers you will say there's an attractiveness about them that puts them lengths ahead of other lines.

IN STOCKING

we select only the best, we have no "shelf warmers" all our Papers are quick sellers. If you choose your Papers from us you have best value for the price obtainable anywhere.

Painting, Paperhanging and Decorating done on shortest notice by best workmen in the city.

JOHN CORNELIUS.
3 Doors South of Intelligencer Office.

NEW GOODS
JAPAN TEA

The first of this season's crop, exta quality, regular 50c line, we quote

40c per lb.

Canned Halibut

Fine solid Fish, very tasty,

15c per can.

J. C. Hanley & Co.
GROCERS
Telephone 214

Flowers & Vegetables
Of all kinds in season
...AT...
J. D. COLLIP'S.
'Phone 205.

Western Beef.

Prime Western Beef together with all kinds of choice meats, supplied by the district, at

C. GREEN'S
267 Front St., 'Phone 109.

BUY one of our Ball Bearing LAWN MOWERS. They are very light running and beautiful cutters.

GREENLEAF & SON

Relieve these Inflamed Eyes!
Pond's Extract

Reduced one-half with pure soft water, applied frequently with dropper or eye cup, the congestion will be removed and the pain and inflammation instantly relieved.

CAUTION!—Avoid dangerous, irritating Witch Hazel preparations represented to be "the same as" Pond's Extract which easily sour and generally contain "wood alcohol," a deadly poison.

Bank of Montreal
ESTABLISHED 1817.
Capital and Rest, All Paid Up
$23,000,000
(Twenty-three Millions)

Savings Bank Department
Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.
A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch

Never is time more precious than when some member of the family is attacked by colic, dysentery or any bowel trouble. The doctor is distant, but if Perry Davis' Painkiller is near all danger is soon ended. 4

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

LATEST NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS

AS FURNISHED TO THE INTELLIGENCER BY H. R. BEATTIE, STOCK BROKER.

New York, July 25.

STOCK	Op'g	H st	L'st	Close.
Atchison	63⅞	64	62¼	63¼
do. pref	88⅜	88⅜	88	88
St. Paul	140¼	140½	138¾	138¾
Mo. P.	97½	98	97	97⅛
Union Pac	75⅝	75½	74	76⅛
C. P. R.	123	123	120¼	121⅛
South Pac	42	42½	40	41
R. I.	22¼	22⅛	21	21½
Ills. C.	129¼	130¼	129	129
Sou. Ry.	20⅞	21	20¼	20½
Texas	25	25½	25	25¼
B & O.	82¼	82½	81½	81¾
N. Y. C.	118	119	117¾	118¾
Penna	121½	121⅞	120¾	121
Soo	50½	50½	50	50
T. W.	95	95	94¼	94¾
Erie	28⅝	28¾	27¾	28¾
do. pref.	66	67¼	66	66¼
Reading	47½	48⅜	47	48¾
C. O.	32¼	32¼	32	32
O. & W.	22½	22½	22	22⅜
Manhattan	132	132¼	132	132⅜
L. & N.	103	103¾	102¾	102¾
A. F.	32	32	31¼	31¼
Ner.	62¼	62½	60¾	60¾
Wab.	20¼	20¼	20	20
do pref.	36	37	35⅞	36¼
W.U.	83⅛	83¼	83⅛	83¼
C. G. W.	15	15¼	14⅞	14⅞
T.C.I.	38½	39	37½	37⅞
U.S. S:l	23¼	23¾	22⅜	22¾
do pref.	70⅜	70½	69¼	69⅞
Sugar	114	114¾	113½	114
B. R. T.	42½	43	41¾	41½
Po.	93⅜	93¾	92¾	92¾
A. C. P.	40	40	38	38
Met.	115	115¾	113	113
Alc	17¼	17½	17	17

BARGAINS IN LIGHT CLOTHING.

We are giving great bargains in all kinds of light weight clothing at the Oak Hall these hot days. Men's unlined suits, light coats and pants, all go at big reductions. We cannot afford to have any of these goods over till next summer.

SAVE MONEY
By JOINING The
MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB
OF AMERICA

25 Cents pays for three months' membership. Each member receives the official club organ every month, including 6 pieces of high-class vocal and instrumental new music each month, 18 pieces in all; also a Certificate of Membership which gives the privilege of Club Room in New York City, and of buying literature, music or musical instruments of any description at wholesale prices, saving you from 20% to 60% on your purchases. Don't fail to join at once. You will get much more than your money's worth. MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB, Dept. , 150 Nassau St., N.Y.

Month after Month a cold sticks, and seems to tear holes in your throat. Are you aware that even a stubborn and long-neglected cold is cured with Allen's Lung Balsam? Cough and worry no longer. 4

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions ONE CENT A WORD. No local charged as less than twenty-five words.

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

"The Kingdom of Heaven and the Coming King." Bethel Hall, Sunday evening.

Tabernacle, University, Holloway Street, Sunday Schools' annual picnic to Twelve o'Clock Point, Wednesday, 29th, steamer Aletha. Three trips, eight, eleven and two o'clock. 24-25-26-27

John Rogers, who is charged with attempting to shoot Mrs. Vollick, of Madoc, appeared before Mr. Flint yesterday and elected to be tried by the County judge.

Sign the petition to stop net-fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

Wanted.—A youth to learn the printing trade, one with slight experience would be accepted. Apply to The Intelligencer Office. 25-2td

To-day's market was well attended, and prices were fair for all produce offered for sale.

The police at a late hour last night found the front door of a butcher's shop open.

Popular Wednesday Holiday excursion to Twelve o'Clock Point on Wednesday, July 29th, auspices of Emmanuel Church per steamer Ella Ross. Boat leaves Rathbun's dock at 9 a.m., 2 p.m., 8 p.m. Tickets 25c. j25-27

What is nicer for a holiday than a trip on the palace steamers of the Richelieu & Ontario Steamboat Co. Full information and tickets, S. Burrows.

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

Mr. J. K. McCargar, fishery inspector, informs us that he seized this week three sets of hook nets and leaders in Weller's Bay, at the head of Lake Ontario; also one night line in the Trent River. This, Mr. McCargar says, will be a warning to all fishermen in the Bay of Quinte and inland waters of this section, as there are no nets for night lines or set lines allowed in any of these waters until September 16th.

Piles To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & Co., Toronto.
Dr. Chase's Ointment

For the Farmer.

The best way to get a fast walking horse it to train him as a colt to walk as fast as he can without trotting. A colt generally wants to go as fast as he can, but the trouble is when he is allowed to do this at a trot. On the walk he is made to go slow to cool off after a trot. It would be much better to teach him to walk fast, and not allow him to trot until he has learned to walk as fast as he can without trotting.

Stable manure for the fruit trees is like corn meal and timothy for milch cows. It is not a square meal, and does not produce best results for the expense. The contrast is especially striking in the peach orcharding. The manure-fed tree is rank and green, but weak and short-lived. The tree fed on chemicals with not too much nitrogen looks less rank, and the bark and limbs are more like those of an apple tree in appearance, so firm and close is their texture. They last from two to four times longer than the overrank tree.

Sheep Need Salt.

A test of the value of salt for sheep has recently been made in France. Three lots were treated alike as to food and care; one lot was given no salt; one had half an ounce per day, and the third had three-fourths of an ounce per day. Those having the half-ounce per day made a gain of 4½ pounds over those having no salt, and nearly as much over those having three-fourths of an ounce. Those having salt made 134 pounds more wool than those having no salt. There were twelve sheep in each lot.

Co-operative Testing of Dairy Herds Wanted.

Last winter the Dominion Department of Agriculture called attention to the co-operative system of testing dairy herds which prevails in Denmark, and recommended the establishment of a somewhat similar system among Canadian farmers. At the present time dairymen are finding it almost impossible to get milkers, and it seems more necessary than ever before that they should not waste time feeding and milking inferior cows. That the time is opportune for concerted action to improve the standard of our dairy herds can scarcely be doubted. A recent letter from Mr. Dan. Drummond of the Department of Agriculture tells of the feeling in Quebec in regard to this question. He mentions several breeders in the neighborhood of Danville who are very anxious to have a system of records of production established, and kept under reliable supervision. These breeders are giving up the keeping of private records, because, as they say, of the fact that such records are satisfactory only to themselves, and are so easily falsified that buyers put no confidence in them. If any system could be devised under which the records would be recognized as official and reliable, the breeders mentioned would be quite willing to assist in making it a success. Mr. Drummond continues:—"This is a live question all through the Province where I have met breeders. At St. Liboire I met the Secretary of their Farmers' Club, who told me that they had just concluded their competition for the best milch cows; that is, the cows giving the largest amount of milk in twenty-four hours, at home, and under supervision. They had thirteen cows in the competition, the best giving 62 pounds, and the poorest 42 pounds, of milk in the day, a showing very creditable to the French-Canadian farmers of that district."—Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Making Veals on Skim Milk.

One of the important by-products of the dairy farm is the skim milk, if the farmer will but study how to use it in the most economical manner. A large proportion of the calves among creamery patrons are sold when a few days old for a trifling sum. Yet these men have all the means at hand to make a handsome profit out of the skim milk by feeding it to the male valves, and turning them at 5 to 6 weeks of age for veals.

A Massachusetts farmer describes how he does it in a recent communication to The American Cultivator. He says:—

"It does not seem to be generally known that first-class veals can be made on a basis of sweet skim milk. Yet a great many calves reach the market and bring high prices, although never fed a quart of whole milk after the first day or two of their lives. These calves, if properly grown, look as well as any. Butchers say there is not so much internal fat, and the calf is therefore not quite so heavy as the whole milk calf, but he brings the same price, at least in the markets of towns and small cities. The writer last summer sold calves which brought the going price in the local market, 6½ cents live weight, and averaged about $9.50 value at five weeks, but were fed practically nothing but sweet skimmed or separated milk, to which was added a handful of fine wheat flour for each gallon. It was reckoned that the skim milk so used, brought about two cents per quart. The flour cost about thirty cents per calf. Flour, being fine and starchy, is mixed easily with milk and is much better than anything else. Other farmers in the vicinity use extra fine ground corn meal, fine feed, oat meal, etc., but with less satisfaction. The main points are to have the milk sweet and plenty of it at fairly regular hours, and to give the calf nearly, but not quite, all he will drink. One feed a day from the cow during the last week is a help, but is not usually necessary. It is important to have plenty of dry bedding to save warmth, as a skim-fed calf has no fat to waste keeping his body warm. Pails should be rinsed after every feed to avoid disease.

Allen's Lung Balsam
The best Cough Medicine.
ABSOLUTE SAFETY
should be the first thought and must be rigorously insisted upon when buying medicine, for upon its safety depends one's life. ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM contains no opium in any form and is safe, sure, and prompt in cases of Croup, Colds, deep-seated Coughs.
Try it now, and be convinced.

BABY'S DEFENCE
For Soft, White, Fragrant Skin, Use
BABY'S OWN SOAP
No other Soap is just as good. 031
ALBERT TOILET SOAP CO., Mfrs. MONTREAL.

THE MASTER MECHANIC'S PURE TAR SOAP heals and softens the skin, while promptly cleansing it of grease, oil, rust, etc. Invaluable for mechanics, farmers, sportsmen. Free Sample on receipt of 2c for postage. Albert Toilet Soap Co., Mfrs. Montreal.

You May Need
Pain-Killer
For Cuts
Burns
Bruises
Cramps
Diarrhoea
All Bowel Complaints
It is a sure, safe and quick remedy.
There's only one PAIN-KILLER.
PERRY DAVIS'.
Two sizes, 25c. and 50c.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines, or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

Goods We Have
at Right Prices

- —Hammocks.
- —Fishing Tackle.
- —Tennis Goods.
- —Golf Goods.
- —Lacrosse Goods.
- —Base Ball Goods.
- —Screen Doors and Windows.
- —Fruit Jars.
- —Fruit Jar Rubbers.
- —Wall Paper.
- —Crystal Glass Vases.
- —Glass Ware.
- —Dinner Sets.
- —Toilet Sets.
- —Ladies' Hose.
- —Ladies' Vests.

Everything in smallwares.

AT THE BEE HIVE

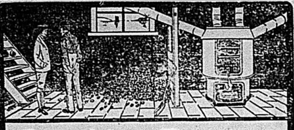
Chas. N. Sulman

SANTAL-MIDY

Standard remedy for Gleet, Gonorrhoea and Runnings IN 48 HOURS. Cures Kidney and Bladder Troubles.

MIDY

Doing good is the only certainly happy action of a man's life.



Sunshine Furnace

PROPRIETOR—"Well Tom, how did that new furnace work this winter—save any coal?"

JANITOR—"Yes, sir! put in two tons less than last winter and have about half a ton left—guess it paid you to throw out that old coal-eater and put in this up-to-date SUNSHINE."

PROPRIETOR—"Yes, I think so; and I noticed the house was comfortable in all kinds of weather. Easy to take care of?"

JANITOR—"Yes, sir! just had to attend it twice a day—never had any trouble with the fire going out, and didn't have to spend half my time sweeping, cleaning, shaking, dumping ashes, and all that sort of thing—wish all my customers had SUNSHINES."

In the end you pay more for fuel than the furnace in which you burn it—a furnace that saves fuel saves it's cost.

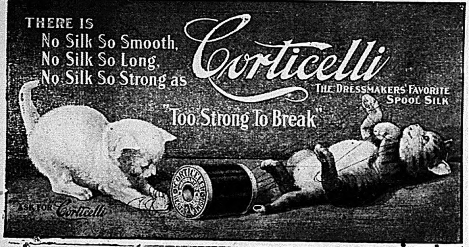
Burns coal, coke or wood. Catalogue free.

McClary's

LONDON, TORONTO, MONTREAL, WINNIPEG, VANCOUVER, ST. JOHN, N.B.

The W. W. CHOWN CO., Limited

SOLE AGENTS.



CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY

CAPITAL

10,000 Shares 7 per cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, par value $100 each,	$1,000,000
50,000 Shares Common Stock, par value $100, issued and fully paid	5,000,000
TOTAL CAPITALIZATION	$6,000,000

Issues of $1,000,000.00 7 p.c. Preferred Stock in 10,000 Shares of $100 each at par.

This stock is preferred both as to Assets and Dividends.

The shares are entitled to cumulative preferred dividends from the net earnings of the Company, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable half yearly on the first days of April and October. They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at $115.00 per share, at any time after 1st January, 1909.

The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000.00, the whole of which is now offered.

Subscriptions for 10,000 Shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent. Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is $100 Share, as follows

per cent on application,
25 " " on allotment,
35 " " 30 days thereafter.
35 " " 60 days thereafter.

One share of Common, par value $100, given with each share of preferred.

The whole of instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of one per cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1,000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4000 acres of iron ore deposit, located Natashquan (tidewater) situated on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highet ever discovered, running from 69 per cent to 72 per cent in metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore has been received by the Campany than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

Send for prospectus giving full information as to earnings, reports, etc., etc.

Address all communications and send subscriptions to

COLONIAL SECURITIES CO.,
62 Wall Street, New York City

OR

W. L. MARSTON & COMPANY
110 State Street, Boston

The SAWYER COMPANY.
351 Temple Building, Montreal, Canada.

RASPBERRY NOVELTIES.

Foam, Float, Puffs, Soup, Cups, Paste and Pudding Sauce.

Raspberry Foam.—Crush a quart of raspberries, breaking every berry. Sprinkle over half a teacupful of sugar and set aside an hour or more. Beat two eggs very light and frothy, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar, stir into the crushed berries and serve immediately. Garnish with especially large berries.

Float.—Crush a pint of very ripe red berries and press through a sieve to remove the seeds. Beat in, a little at a time, powdered sugar and the beaten whites of eggs until two tablespoonfuls of sugar and the whites of four eggs have been used.

Puffs.—Make a batter with two beaten eggs, half a teacupful of milk and half a teacupful of sugar; add half a teaspoonful of salt and enough flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder to make a moderately stiff batter and stir in two teacupfuls of berries. Butter six teacups, fill half full, put in a steamer cover and cook over boiling water an hour. Serve with orange sauce. Into a teacupful of hot water put a teacupful of sugar; add a few pieces of orange peel. When it boils stir in a tablespoonful of cornstarch wet with a little orange juice that has been extracted from two sour oranges. Now add the remainder of the juice, take out the peel and add half a teacupful of butter, stirring well.

Soup.—Cook red or black raspberries in a little water until they part with their juice. Squeeze, strain, add water to make the desired flavor, boil, skim, and to every three pints add a tablespoonful of cornstarch dissolved in a little of the juice when cold and boil a minute. In warm weather serve cold, with a lump of ice in each dish and a tablespoonful of whipped cream. In cold weather serve hot, with crackers crisped in the oven.

Cups.—Sift two teaspoonfuls of baking powder with two teacupfuls of flour, and with a little water make a soft dough. Butter large cups, drop in a little dough, then a few berries; use dough and berries to fill the cups about half full. Set the cups in a dish of hot water, put in the oven, cover closely and cook half an hour. Add boiling water as it evaporates. Serve with milk or thin cream sweetened with maple sugar.

Paste.—Put two quarts of red berries in an earthen jar, set the jar in boiling water over the fire and cook until the juice is extracted, then rub through a fine colander or sieve to remove the seeds. Mix with this an equal weight of sugar and cook to a firm paste, stirring all the time or it may burn. Spread evenly on plates, dry in the oven, cut in small pieces, dip in pulverized sugar and can. For use soak the pieces overnight in cold water and simmer slowly.

Sauce For Puddings.—Cook a pint of raspberries with two-thirds of a teacupful of sugar in a teacupful of water. Strain through a sieve and add a tablespoonful of butter. Thicken with a very little cornstarch.—Country Gentleman.

Fruits That Make Jelly.

A common mistake in jelly making is the adding of too much water with the fruit, with the idea that more jelly will be the result. The more water is put in the more time it will take to cook it out before the jelly will begin to form.

Another mistake is trying to be economical with sugar. There should be measure for measure of fruit juice and sugar, and anything less will not result in as good a jelly and sometimes in no jelly whatever.

There are certain fruits that will jelly easily, while others it is impossible to obtain any good results from unless gelatin is added. Grapes and currants make an especially fine jelly. Raspberries and blackberries need a little more acid to make firm jelly. One lemon to every pint of peach juice will make a most delicious jelly, as it needs the additional tart of the lemon.

Green grapes make a good jelly, but they will require more than the ordinary allowance of sugar. One-third more sugar than juice will give the right proportion.

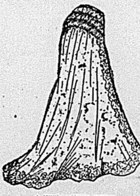
The New White Hats.

New white hats for outing, "going away," "coaching" and various types of warm weather wear include duck, dotted pique, white kid and willow.

A Summer Skirt.

The accompanying model is one of the very pleasing ones of the season. It is suitable for muslin, foulard or any fairly soft material, and is cut so as to produce as little bulk as possible round the hips.

The skirt as shown in the sketch is intended to be trimmed with lace down the front and around the bottom, but of course any other form of trimming can be resorted to if preferred. The fastening should be arranged at the center of the back.



A NEW GAUGED SKIRT.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Store Closed Every Wednesday During July and August at 12 O'Clock Noon.

HALF PRICE MUSLINS

The quantity of Muslins we have sold this year is best evidence of the superior value and excellent designs which our buying conditions enable us to obtain.

Our stock is almost cleared out, what remain being mostly desireable staple patterns—as good next season as this.

We had almost decided to let these remain, but with a bigger and better assortment of fall goods than has every been seen in this city, on the the way to our store, every inch of space will be valuable.

A quick clearing is what we want. To do this we have marked many of them at Half Price.

Their excellent value at regular prices has been acknowledged by all who have seen them.

At half the original they offer a chance in Muslin buying which comes seldom —and does not last long.

—A collection of choice Muslins in assorted pattern, including a number of fine French Organdies prices were 10c, 15c, 20c, 25c, for 5c, 8c, 10c, 12½c

$1.00 Untrimmed Straw Shapes 25c

Excellent value at regular price—doubly so at half price for which we have been offering them, the last few days our stock of untrimmed straw shapes has greatly diminished.

We have decided to make a quick clearing of what remain.

New and seasonable goods—there is not an undesirable one among the lot.

We have sold dozens simiiar at the regular prices.

But its clearing time so out they go.

—A choice collection of newest styles, untrimmed Straw and Chiffon Shapes, regular 50c to $1.00 for 25c

Steel Buttons

Buttons promise to be greatly used for trimming purposes this coming season.

Many of the foremost fashion books having them very much in evidence.

The completness of our assortment make easy choosing at all times.

The latest arrivals at this counter are these newest in cut steel varieties.

These although a little more expensive at the start are in the end the cheapest, being practically indistructable,

—Fine Steel Buttons, all sizes, 28c doz, to ... 25c each.

—Just received a assortment of white silk belts with white buckle 25c

—Ask to see our New York Ribbons at 35

Mantle Room Specials

These are days of unequalled buying possibilities in our mantle room.

All our summer goods are going out at a rate that will leave us in proper shape to receive the fall shipments.

Bargains such as we are offering in seasonable, stylish garments make a small but irrestible pull on the purse strings of those who are at all economically inclined.

We have been looking around again. When you come in on Monday there will be a number of new low priced attractions to demand your attention. Here they are below.

Other Offerings

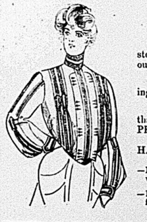
Here are a number of other offerings we still continue and which are worthy of attention from all who have use for the articles mentioned.

They are STYLISH—SEASONABLE—CHEAP.

—The balance of our sale wrappers in fine Prints and Ginghams, assorted patterns, selling at 75c

—Liberal discounts on all our colored and white Dresses, for children.

—Fine White Shirt Waist, regular 75c, 85c, 95c for 50c



Half Price Colored Waists

Many of the most fastidous dressers have this season, instead of making them, chosen their fancy Shirt Waists from our assortments.

The many advantages of this course is each season increasing the demand for such dainty styles as we show.

We have sold a lot—the lateness of the season demands that all should go at once. They do so on Monday, for HALF PRICE.

Here are a couple—our entire range from 39c to $2.00 for HALF PRICE.

—Fine Pink Chambray Waist, tucked front and back, and piped with white, $1.25 for 63c

—Fine Grey Knicker Cloth Waist with fancy white lace stripe, full front, large sleeves, stylish and pretty, regular $1 50 for 75c

New York Ribbon Specials

Constantly on the lookout for dainty neckwear—here is a line of New York goods which we have just received.

Something out of the ordinary. Our cash and quantity buying enables us to offer these at regular ribbon prices.

Fresh from one of the world's fashion centres. An inspection will be pleasing and put you in touch with the newest, even though you do not purchase.

—Fine Soft Taffetta Neck Ribbon, with dainty colored stripes, cream, white and all popular colors, ... 35c

—Striped Satin Duchesse Ribbon, the latest New York Neck Novelty 35c

—An assortment of neat Black and White, White and Black and Grey and White Ribbons, for those who cannot wear colors 35c

—10 yard spools of fine Pure Silk Ribbon in all the leading shades, specially adapted for collars, fancy work, etc., 15c, 2 for 25c

Reduced Shirt Waist Suits

Here is an offering which every lady can appreciate, but few derive the benefit—only four left.

These garments—another forward step in Ready-to-Wear manufacture — have with their pretty style, superior workmanship and correct appearance, appealed so strongly to the ladies that from a full assortment we have only this number left.

Might think these too few to mention but we are sure the ladies who get the advantage of this will be appreciative.

—4 only ladies' Knicker Cloth Shirt Waist Suits, 2 Navy, 2 Linen, simply made, with wide plaits piped with white $7.50, for $6 00

Agents for Standard Patterns.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

CLOTHING BOUGHT HERE PRESSED FREE OF CHARGE

Quick & Robertson's for Fine Clothes

There's no use of disputing the fact that this store stands pre-eminent in this city as the store for Men's Fine Clothes.

With our large and pleasing varieties, up-to-date styles, and good making, we've won the trade of every man, and especially the trade of those men who are particular about the clothes they wear.

And why shouldn't we? You can't find a store that has, Ready-Made, such exclusive styles in suitings and summer garments as we are showing and everyone of them is from the best British and Canadian Mills.

Then, too, every garment is built to come up to the our high standard--built by the best makers who know how and do give close attention to important parts of tailoring—such as adjusting the collars, shaping the shoulders, proper placing of the sleeves and stays and making of the button holes.

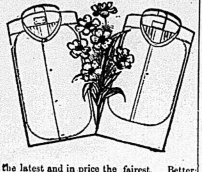
Clothes made this way never lose their shape. And by so doing we have overcome that appearance which markes clothes as being Ready-Made.

The prices for such goodness you'd expect to be high but they are not—are no more than you would pay for ordinary sorts elsewhere.

MEN'S SUMMER FURNISHINGS

. . . . AND . . . .

STRAW HATS



The Largest Variety assures the Easiest Choosing.

That's just what's bringing more men to this store every day—they are getting into the fact that the selections Quick & Robertson shows in every line are the largest and most liberal in town—right in every way; in quality the highest, in style the latest and in price the fairest. Better choose now while the choosing is good.

QUICK & ROBERTSON

Agents in Belleville for W. R. Johnston & Co.'s Famous Clothing.

You Need

A new range this fall and you might just as well have the best as a poor unsatisfactory range when it does not cost any more.

Our Champion Range

Is an acknowledged leader and it never fails to give the best results.

Be sure you see this range, as the best is nono too good for you.

The W. W. CHOWN Company, Limited

Gas Works For Sale.

The Belleville Gas Company, Limited, have decided to offer for sale

BY TENDER,

the whole of their Gas Plant and franchise, including the Gas Building and Factory, street mains and piping and an electric lighting plant. Also a water power privilege on the river Moira at the city limits containing about five acres of land.

The Gas Plant is in good working order and up-to-date, and is the only Gas Plant in the City of Belleville. Inspection solicited. Inventories of stock and plant and also list of present consumers and location of mains can be seen on application at the office of the Belleville Gas Company, Limited.

Tenders will be received up to Twelve o'clock noon of Friday the Thirty-first day of July, 1903.

Tenders to be directed to J. W. Johnson, Esq., President of the Belleville Gas Company, Limited, Belleville, Ont., and marked "Tenders."

Terms and conditions of sale and any further information required can be had on application to Robert Thomson, the company's Secretary, or to Messrs. Bell & Biggar, Barristers, etc., Belleville, or to the undersigned.

Highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Belleville, June 29th, 1903.

Stewart Masson,
Vendors' Solicitor.
Belleville, Ont.

30-4-11-18-25.

McGill University.

MONTREAL.

Session 1903-1904.

Courses in Art, Applied Science (Civil, Mechanical, Electrical and Mining Engineering; Architecture and Practical Chemistry), Law and Medicines.

Matriculation Examinations and Examinations for Exhibitions and Scholarships, will be held on the 9th September, 1903.

Lectures in Law will begin on 15th September, 1903. In all other Faculties Lectures will begin on the 22nd September.

Particulars of examinations and copies of the Calendar containing full information as to entrance, courses of study, scholarship, fees, etc., may be obtained on application to

J. A. NICHOLSON,
Registrar.

LIKE OTHER EVILS cramps and diarrhoea come suddenly. Promptly give a dose of Perry Davis' Painkiller and the pains will go immediately. A bottle at hand will save hours of suffering—be prepared.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

The Mistake About That Rib.

Little James loved to attend Sunday school and was always ready to answer questions. The teacher asked:

"What happened to Adam's rib?"

"He gave it to Eve," quickly spoke James, "'cause he know'd there was a mistake—ladies should always be served first!"—New York Times.

Bought Off.

"Come now, Johnnie, say your speech for the gentleman and I'll give you a penny."

"Really, mother," replied Johnnie, "I should like to oblige you, but—the gentleman has already given me a dollar to keep quiet!"—Atlanta Constitution.

He Scoffed No More.

He (after a tiff)—Going home to your mother, eh?

She—Yes, I am.

He—Huh! What do you suppose she'll say to you?

She—She'll say, "I told you so." (He made up).—New York Weekly.

Fairly Out of It.

"Jinks says that he has been very successful in love."

"I don't see how he makes that out. He has been married to three women."

"But that isn't the way he puts it. He says he's been divorced from three women."—Town Talk.

Bowed Out.

"Hello, old man!" exclaimed Borem as he meandered into Busby's office, "I just dropped in to kill time."

"Sorry," answered Busby, "but I haven't any time I want killed. Good morning."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

CONVINCING EVIDENCE OF CANCER CURES

No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success as the new constitutional treatment for cancers and tumors. The fact that it acts on the principle of destroying the cancer germs and purifying the blood of cancer poisons, has established it the only rational remedy for cancers, tumors and malignant growths. There are dozens of people in Canada who have been completely cured by this new, painless method of treatment, and if you will send two stamps to Messrs. B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., full particulars of these cases will be sent to you.

WOOL CRASH.

People are asking what it is. Wool crash is a sort of misnomer. It is not crash, but simply a light cool worsted in a crash weave. Hold it up to the light—you can see through it. Yet it's as tough and strong almost as thick beaver, and wiry enough to hold its shape. For a cool summer vacation knockabout suit, wool crash takes the lead. Good enough, too, for business. Come, see! Suit prices, $3.75, $5, $6 and $7.50.—Quick & Robertson, Belleville's Best Clothiers.

CIVIC COMMITTEES' REGULAR SESSION.

Mr. Kirkwood's Solicitor Takes High Handed Ground re the Rolling Mills Bonus.

Gas Company Asks for the Renewal of its Franchise, Almost Expired.

The Usual Discussion on Streets and Sidewalk Repairing—Teamsters Get Increase.

At the meeting of the civic committees, held last night, the members present were: Ald. Chown, McFee, Paterson, Sulman, Pope, Panter, Marsh, Cooper and Sinclair.

PUBLIC WORKS.

Ald. Panter, Chairman, presided.

The accounts passed were as follows:

Pay sheet No. 15	$514.45
Tickell & Sons	3.12

The Chairman said that up to the present $3,135 had been this year expended by the Public Works Committee.

Street Repairing.

Ald. Panter stated that there were two streets which ought to be repaired, namely, Coleman street, from the footbridge around to the upper bridge, and also Pinnacle street. These were two main thoroughfares, and were in a bad condition.

Ald. Cooper said that a portion of Moira street west of Coleman street, should be attended to.

Surveyor Hulme, in answer to an enquiry, said that he had enough work laid out to keep him busy for the next two weeks.

On motion the Surveyor was authorized to give an estimate of the cost of repairing Coleman, Pinnacle, Moira and Wickett streets.

The Surveyor called attention to the dilapidated condition of a large number of sidewalks in the city. It was absolutely necessary, that something should be done.

Ald. Pope, in speaking of the condition of the streets in this city, said that they were on the whole in a better condition than in any place of its size in the province.

A communication was read calling the attention of the Council to the dangerous condition of a culvert on Bettes street.—Referred to the Street Surveyor.

A communication was presented asking the Council to clean out the drain in front of the Agricultural Park, and also grade the roadway leading into main gate.—Referred to the Chairman of the Committee and Street Surveyor.

As to Granolithic Sidewalks.

Ald Panter asked what was to be done about the sidewalks. He thought the motion passed in the Council prohibiting the building of cement walks this year was not a wise move. There was a petition for a granolithic walk on Everett street.

Ald. Sinclair spoke in support of granolithic walks being built if the taxpayers desired them.

Some of the Aldermen suggested building gravel walks, but the majority of the committee seemed opposed to building them.

After some further discussion it was decided that the Surveyor should build a gravel walk and the Council could see as to its durability, etc.

Ald. McFee thought that a crossing should be erected on Victoria Ave., near the Baptist Church. He also suggested that an effort be made to procure a corner of the Baptist Church property, so as to make a better turn coming down Victoria Ave. He moved that a granolithic walk be built on Pinnacle street at the junction of Victoria Ave.

The motion prevailed.

Teamsters Get More Pay.

The petition of the city teamsters, asking that their pay be increased to $3 per day, was considered.

Ald. McFee moved that the prayer of the petition be granted.—Carried.

On motion the Surveyor was instructed to procure four oil cups for use on the crusher.

The Street Surveyor was instructed to place some gravel on Grove street.

FIRE.

Ald. McFee, Chairman, presided over this committee. The only account passed was as follows:

J. S. McKeown	$10.22

PARKS

Ald. Pope, Chairman, presided over this committee.

The following accounts were passed:

Pay roll	$28.20
Trenton Electric Company	30.00
Givens & Son	11.15

LIGHT.

Ald. Cooper, Chairman, was in the chair.

The only account passed was from the Trenton Electric Co., amounting to $337.53.

A petition was presented asking for a light on the corner of Purdy and Yeomans streets.

The Chairman was in favor of this light being given, also lights on the west end of Lewis street and on the corner of Jane and Coleman streets.

On motion these lights were directed to be placed in position.

MARKET.

Ald. Sulman presided over this committee. An account from Messrs. Johnson & Austin, for $7.25, was passed.

A communication was read from Messrs. J. A. Vickers and D. Jones, asking that the rental of their stalls in the meat market be reduced from $50 to $40 per annum.—Referred to the Chairman.

Ald. Sulman asked about the lighting of the town clock. Two Auer lights had been placed in and it made an improvement. The extra expense would be $18 a year if some more Auer lights were placed in the clock. The matter was referred for the time being.

Flag at Half-Mast for the Pope.

Ald. Paterson thought the flag on the City Hall should be flown at half-mast out of respect to the late Pope Leo XIII.

A recommendation was made that the flag be displayed at half-mast on the day of the funeral of His Holiness the late Pope.

EXECUTIVE.

Ald. Chown, Chairman, presided over this committee.

The following accounts were passed:

C. B. Scantlebury	$7.50
Victoria Industrial School	13.14
Assessment Department	102.00

Sending Work Out of Town.

An account of $3 from Newsome & Co., of Toronto, caused Ald. Sinclair to ask what it was for.

The Treasurer stated that it was for 2,000 envelopes with a monogram upon them.

Ald. Sinclair asked if this could not be done in the city. If the city had no monogram one could be procured.

The Treasurer said the price for 2,000 envelopes procured in the city would be $5.

The account was passed.

Mr. Diamond's Bond.

Mr. F. D. Diamond, Tax Collector, wrote in reference to his bond which expired on August 1st. As he had only some $10,000 uncollected on his roll he asked that the amount when renewed, be reduced.

On motion it was decided to ask him to furnish a bond to the extent of $1,000.

The Rolling Mills.

Ald. Chown said that there was a communication to hand in reference to the rolling mills bonus. It was from Mr. R. C. Clute, K.C., addressed to the Bank of Montreal, being as follows:

Toronto, July 22.

Bank of Montreal, Belleville.

Dear Sirs,—I am instructed by Mr. T. M. Kirkwood and Mr. D. L. McKinnon, purchasers of the Belleville foundry, to notify you not to pay over the proceeds of bonus debentures now in your hands, being $30,000 and interest, to the City of Belleville, or permit the withdrawal thereof, as my clients are entitled to receive this amount of money according to the terms of their contract with the city, which is in full force and virtue.

A reference to the by-law and agreement will show that my clients have until 1918 to earn the amount of bonuses, and your bank holds the same in trust for my clients under the terms of their contract with the city.

And further take notice that if, in disregard of this notice to you, the bank should pay over the same or any part therof, my clients will hold you responsible for any loss which they may incur thereby.

Yours Truly,
R. C. CLUTE.

Ald. Chown did not think that the letter amounted to a great deal.

The majority of the Alderman were in favor of the solicitor issuing a writ in accordance with the motion passed at the last meeting of the Council in reference to this matter, which provided that the bonus money be withdrawn and used to retire rolling mills debentures.

A committee composed of Ald. Chown, Sinclair, Pope and McFee, was appointed to act with the Solicitor in reference to the matter.

The Gas Works.

A communication was read from Mr. J. W. Johnson, President of the Gas Company, in reference to the proposed sale of the works. The present franchise was about expiring and some parties who were writing in reference to the works had asked about the franchise. The company desired the Council to pass a by-law renewing the franchise to them and if a sale of the works took place it could be transferred to the purchaser or purchasers.

A petition signed by the stockholders was also presented asking that the said by-law be passed.

Ald. Chown said that before such a by-law was passed the city should be protected by a guarantee that the price of gas would not be raised. He wanted gas for lighting purposes at $1.75 per thousand and $1.25 per thousand for fuel gas.

Ald. Pope, Panter, Sinclair and McFee spoke in favor of the city being protected in this matter.

A motion prevailed that the matter be referred to a committee composed of the Mayor, Ald. Chown, and Pope and the Solicitor to look into and report at the Council meeting Monday night.

Alleged Assignment of Salary.

Ald. Sinclair said he had heard it discussed amongst several citizens that a certain city official's salary was assigned in such a manner as to avoid payment of just debt. If such was the fact he did not consider it fair or decent, and something should be done in the matter.

Ald. Pope thought that the official referred to came under the jurisdiction of the Police Commissioners, and the Council could do nothing about it.

Ald. Sinclair said he did not know who it was, but asked, if such was the case, if the Treasurer could not be notified to tell the official to stop it, and then, if it was not done, other action might be taken.

It was decided to allow the matter to go to the Council.

This completed the work and the committees adjourned.

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

My Lungs Perhaps they are sore and weak from constant coughing. How is this? Have you forgotten about the cough medicine your grandmother gave you 50 years ago,—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral?

25c., 50c., $1.00.
J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

PEN PICTURES OF PEOPLE YOU MEET

ON A BELLEVILLE STREET.

W. B. NORTHRUP, K.C., M.P.

Just at present, Mr. William Barton Northrup is seldom seen on a Belleville street except on Saturdays and Sundays, because on the other days of the week he is attending to his sessional duties at Ottawa. Hardly anyone in this section of Hastings County, however, but is well acquainted with the trim figure, mobile features and iron grey hair which belongs to the member for East Hastings. There may be men on the Opposition benches more prominent than Mr. Northrup, but very few brighter men, judged either from the standpoint of a statesman or scholar. We don't know that he lays claim to any of the other characteristics of a prophet, but Mr. Northrup certainly seems to be accorded more attention among strangers than amongst those who, knowing him from boyhood, have not yet, perhaps, awakened to the fact that under his hat there walks a Cabinet probability when the people of this fair Dominion grow tired of being misgoverned by the Grits and place the party led by Mr. Borden in power. Those who have become fairly well acquainted with Mr. Northrup will not need to be told that he is, for a comparatively young man, a man of deep research; perhaps no better student of Canadian history can be found in this Dominion to-day, outside, of course, the halls of the universities. With Canada's political economy he is wonderfully well acquainted, and with facts and figures related to it he is loaded to the muzzle. And he can talk in a finished, scholarly way on almost any subject. A very pretty turn of sarcasm he has, too, but with hardly enough fire for the ordinary listener, who would rather hear positive statements than appeals to his reasoning powers. If Mr. Northrup had a little more of the sledgehammer style about him he would sway his audiences and more easily mould them to his will. But, bless you, dear reader, he would as soon think of turning prize fighter as, in his speeches, appealing to anything but a man's reason. Where'er he goes, whate'er he does, there is an academical air about Mr. Northrup which seems to sit incongruously on a politician in this still rough and ready country, a characteristic, happily, which it is rapidly growing out of. Like many of Canada's foremost politicians, the subject of our sketch is deeply interested in church work, and has for many years been a warden of St. Thomas' Church. Mr. Northrup has always enjoyed the reputation, in this county, of being thoroughly alive to the interests of his constituents, and the stalwart electorate of East Hastings know well that, when the management of Canada once more gets into capable hands, they will want for nothing in the line of Government rights if it is in the power of their hard-working member to secure them. Mr. Northrup is still well on the right side of 50, having been born in this city on October 19, 1856. He was educated at Belleville Grammar School, at Upper Canada College ("Head Boy," 1874) and at the University of Toronto, where he greatly distinguished himself (B. A. 1877; M. A. 1878). Mr. Northrup studied law with the late Sir Oliver Mowat and Hon. (now Sir) Wm. Mulock, K.C., and was called to the Bar in 1878. He has since practised in this city, and was appointed a K.C. by the Laurier Government some two years ago. Mr. Northrup ran for East Hastings in 1891, but was defeated. On the death of the sitting member in 1892 he was returned for that seat, which he held till 1896, when, through causes which are well known, many Conservative members, Mr. Northrup among them, fell by the wayside. In 1900, however, he again was returned as member for East Hastings, and since then has done much, both in the House and out of it, to make his constituents proud of him. Among the rising men of Canada, no one who is at all en rapport with political life will fail to class W. B. Northrup, K.C., M.P.

HERE IS A POINTER. Because you haven't used Catarrhozone is the best reason why you should use it right away. It will cure the catarrh that makes your breath so heavy and your hearing so poor. Catarrhozone is a scientific cure for catarrh, bronchitis and asthma, recommended by doctors and druggists as a certain cure. Mr. Henry A. Taylor, the oldest druggist in Halifax, says: "Catarrhozone gives satisfaction wherever it goes. It is simple and convenient to use, and enjoys fully three times the sale of any other catarrh remedy sold in the city." Catarrhozone is guaranteed to cure, and if it fails you can have your money returned. Price $1.00 for two months' treatment. Small size 25c. Druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

CHEAP TRIPS.

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay. Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

1,000 ISLANDS AND ROCHESTER.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian" leave Belleville for Thousand Islands at 3.25 a.m., daily except Mondays. Fare $1.00. Returning Str. leaves at 11.38 p.m. for Rochester, N.Y.

m26d&w3m

First in Point of Fit.
First in durability.
First in graceful model.
First in genuine comfort.

It fits you, but does not squeeze you. It supports you, but does not burden you. It lends perfect grace to your figure, but does not weary you. You are sure to like it, sure to buy it, sure to enjoy it.

Drab, White, Black.

D & A Corsets

Are the Correct thing.

FOR

Bilious and Nervous Disorders

Sick Headache and Constipation,

TAKE

BEECHAM'S PILLS.

They cure Giddiness, Fullness and Swelling after meals, Dizziness and Drowsiness, Cold Chills, Flushings of Heat, Loss of Appetite, Shortness of Breath, Costiveness, Blotches on the Skin, Disturbed Sleep, Frightful Dreams, and all Nervous and Trembling Sensations, etc. The First Dose will give relief in twenty minutes. This is no fiction. For a Weak Stomach, Disordered Liver and Impaired Digestion they act like "Magic". Every sufferer is earnestly invited to try a Box of these Pills, and they will be acknowledged to be WITHOUT A RIVAL.

BEECHAM'S PILLS taken as directed, will quickly restore females to complete health. They promptly remove any obstruction or irregularity of the system.

Sold by all Druggists in Canada and U. S. America. In boxes, 25 cents.

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

Saturday Night at 7.30

CUSHION — TOPS

150 Cushion Tops of good quality and elegant designs.

3 for the price of 1

10c ea.

RIBBONS

About 13 pieces of fancy Ribbons, 4 to 5 inches in width, selling from 18 to 30c the yard, to clear them in a hurry, all at one price.

10c the yard.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

DIRECT IMPORTERS

Daily Intelligencer.

THE INTELLIGENCER IS SOLD AT
J. W. London's and G. Wardhaugh's.

Local Reading Advertisements,

ords 50 cents; 2 cents per word first insertion, per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words; contracts for ong periods made at office

Will You Ask Us

In seeking a perfume worthy of our exacting patrons we have found YOLANDE which is positively exquisite.

'Tis not enough for us to believe this—we wish to convince you. No way so easy as for you to ask us about YOLANDE next time you are in our store. It will be a revelation to you for YOLANDE is worth knowing about.

McKeown's DRUG STORE

Fresh Salted
No. 1 Spanish Peanuts

30 cents a lb. Selling lots of them every day.

SWEET CREAM—

Nice and rich and fresh, just in this evening.

CHAS. S. CLAPP

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario.

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits, payable on Call,

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE, No. 46 Bridge St., Belleville,

J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch,

Lost chances never leave any trail.

MONITOR

This is another fine Mantle Clock, not quite so expensive as Gadski in last week's advertisement, but fully as serviceable. It is an eight-day hour and half strike on cathedral gong, fancy columns with trimmings and drop handles, in every way a beautiful clock. Our price only $5.50.

T. BLACKBURN.

Eyes examined free of charge. Jeweller & Optician.

Bargains for This Week

1 only 6 piece Glass Tea Set	25c
25c bottle Bland's Pills 2 for	25c
7 Bars Chicago Hardwater Soap	25c
Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills 2 boxes for	25c
12 foot Bamboo Fish Poles	5c
Carters Pills 2 bottles	25c
6 Nickel Plated Tea Spoons	15c
Morses Indian Root Pills, 2 boxes	25c
10c bottle Standard Shoe Dressing	7c
Parmalee's Pills 2 boxes for	25c
1 lb. Tin of our Baking Powder	10c
25c Belladonna Plasters for	12c
7 Bars Brown Windsor Soap, for	5c
$1.00 bottle of Wythe's Beef, Iron and Wine	61c
Talcum Powder, the best, large box	10c
Tucker's Soverəign Balm	20c
Large bottle Sewing Machine Oil	5c
Can openers with corkscrew	10c
25c Package Celery King for	15c
1000 Parlor Matches, best	5c
50c bottle Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy	32c
40 ft. Cotton Clotheslines	10c
7 lb. Package of Best Laundry Starch	45c
$1.00 Bottle Dr. Koenig's Sarsaparilla	49c
Manley's Celery Compound	57c

Crockery Sale still in force.

10 Piece Printed Bedroom Set, $2.50,	$1.99.
10 Piece Printed Bedroom Set $2.25,	$1.79.
6 Piece Printed Bedroom Set, $2.25,	$1.79.
Plain White Bedroom Sets	$1.15

Fruit Jars at the lowest prices.
Jar Rings 5c doz.

McINTOSH BROS.

THE MARKETS.

Grain Prices Are Steady—Cables Lower—Cattle Markets Quoting Higher Prices—The Latest Quotations.

Friday Evening, July 24.

Liverpool futures closed ½d lower to-day than yesterday, and corn futures steady to ⅛d lower.

At Chicago September wheat closed ⅛c lower than yesterday, September corn ¼c lower and September oats ⅛c lower.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London—Close—Wheat on passage, dull for white, firm for red. Parcels, No. 1 hard, Manitoba, Aug., 31s 4½d. Maize on passage, quieter and hardly any demand; spot, American mixed, 22s 3d. Flour, spot, Minn., 27s.

Paris—Close—Wheat, tone steady; July, 24f 05c; Sept. and Feb., 22f 20c. Flour, tone quiet; July, 32f 05c; Sept. and Feb., 29f 00c.

Antwerp—Wheat, spot steady; No. 2 R. W., 16½f.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

Following are the closing quotations at important wheat centres to-day:

	Cash.	July.	Sept.	Dec.
New York	....	....	81⅛	81⅝
Chicago	....	....	76¾	76⅞
Toledo	76¾	76¾	77¼	78¼
Duluth, No. 1 N.	84½	84½	....	....

TORONTO ST. LAWRENCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, red, bush.	$0 77	to $....
Wheat, white, bush.	0 76	....
Wheat, spring, bush	0 70	0 73
Wheat, goose, bush.	0 70	....
Barley, bush.	0 44½	....
Beans, bush	1 30	1 50
Beans, hand-picked	1 75	....
Peas, bush	0 78½	....
Rye, bush	0 45	....
Oats, per bush.	0 37	0 38

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, July 24.—Closing—Wheat, spot No. 1 northern spring, steady, 6s 5d; No. 2 red, western winter, dull, 6s 2d; No. 1 Cal., dull, 6s 3½d; futures dull; July, nominal; Sept., 6s 2⅝d; Dec., 6s 2⅜d. Corn, spot, American mixed, easy, 4s 4d; futures quiet; July, nominal; Sept., 4s 4⅜d.

Hams, short cut, firm, 53s 3d. Bacon, Cumberland cut, firm, 49s 6d; clear bellies, firm, 49s.

Receipts of wheat during the past three days, 500,000 centals, including 115,000 American.

Receipts of American corn during the past three days, 120,000 centals.

Cotton seed oil, Hull refined, spot dull, 22s 9d.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, July 24.—Butter easy; unchanged; receipts, 12,250.

Cheese—Irregular; receipts, 5389; State full cream, large white, fancy, 9⅝c; do., fair to prime, 8½c to 9⅛c; do., light skims, choice, 8c to 8½c.

Eggs—Quiet; unchanged; receipts, 5731.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Quote Higher Prices and All American Markets Are Firm.

London, July 24.—Live cattle firm at 11¾c to 12½c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 11¼c to 11½c per lb., refrigerator beef, 9¼c to 9½c per lb. Sheep, 11½c to 12½c.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock were light, 25 carloads, composed of 231 cattle, 573 hogs, 308 sheep and lambs, with about 30 calves.

Exporters—Best loads exporters are worth $4.75 to $5 per cwt.; medium to good at about $4.50 to $4.60.

Export Bulls—Choice quality bulls sold at $4 to $4.25 per cwt.; good bulls sold at $3.60 to $3.80 per cwt.

Export Cows—Export cows sold at $4.00 per cwt.

Butchers' Cattle—Choice picked lots of butchers, weighing from 1025 to 1100 lbs. each, equal in quality to best exporters, sold at $4.65; loads of good sold at $4.40 to $4.50; fair to good, $4.25 to $4.35; common, $3.75 to $4.00; rough to inferior, $2.65 to $3.25.

Feeders—Steers of good quality, 800 to 900 lbs. each, at worth $3.50 to $4 per cwt.

Short-keep Feeders—Good steers, 1100 to 1200 lbs. each, are worth $4.25 to $4.50 per cwt.

Stockers—One-year to two-year old steers, 400 to 700 lbs. each, are worth $3 to $3.75 per cwt.; off-colors and of poor breeding quality of same weights are worth $2.75 to $3 per cwt.

Milch Cows—Milch cows and springers are worth $30 to $55 each.

Calves—Calves sold at $2 to $10 each, or from $3.50 to $5 per cwt.

Sheep—Prices, $3.65 to $3.75 per cwt. for ewes, and bucks at $2.75 to $3.

Spring Lambs—Prices steady at $2.50 to $4 each.

Hogs—Best select bacon hogs, not less than 160 lbs., nor more than 200 lbs. each, off cars, sold at $5.80 per cwt.; lights and fats at $5.60; sows, $4 to $4.25 per cwt., and stags $2 to $3 per cwt.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, N.Y., July 24.—Cattle—Receipts, 200 head; steady to strong; prime and shipping steers, $4.85 to $5.50; butchers' steers, $4.25 to $4.80; cows and heifers, $2.75 to $4.75; bulls, $3 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4.25. Veals, receipts, 326 head; strong, $5.25 to $7.25. Hogs, receipts, 7700 head; opened steady on pigs, 10c to 15c higher on others, closing easier; heavy, $6.15 to $6.25; medium, $6.20 to $6.30; yorkers, $6.35 to $6.40; pigs, $6.40 to $6.50; roughs, $5 to $5.30; stags, $4 to $4.50; dairies, $5.75 to $6.10. Sheep and lambs, receipts, 3800 head; steady; lambs 10c to 15c lower; lambs, $4 to $6.35; yearlings, $5.25 to $5.50; wethers, $4.50 to $5; ewes, $3.75 to $6; mixed sheep, $2 to $4.50.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, July 24.—Beeves—Receipts, 3787; steers steady to 10c higher; bulls and thin cows steady; good cows strong; steers, $4.90 to $5.55; no choice here; bulls, $3 to $4.10; exports, $4.80; cows, $1.75 to $4.20. Shipments, 2400 quarters of beef. Calves, receipts, 452 head; buttermilks 50c higher; veals, $5 to $8; culls, $4.50; buttermilks, $4; city dressed veals, 9c to 12c per lb.; country dressed, 6c to 10½c. Sheep and lambs, receipts, 5802; sheep strong; lambs opened 10c to 15c higher; closed easy; sheep, $3 to $4.70; lambs, $6 to $7.25; culls, $4.50; yearlings, $5. Hogs, receipts, 1325; market firm.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Perth, July 24.—On the cheese market to-day there were 2370 boxes of white cheese and 400 boxes of colored. All were sold at 9⅛c to 9¼c. The following buyers were present: Bissell, Webster, How and Ferguson.

Madoc, Ont., July 24.—There were 978 boxes of cheese boarded; all sold at 9⅛c. Board meets one week from this afternoon.

Napanee, July 24.—Napanee Cheese Board sales: Part sold at 9⅛c and 9¼c offered for balance, which will likely sell on the curb. Boarded 1285 white and 695 colored.

Ottawa, July 24.—There were 2056 boxes of cheese boarded on the Ottawa Cheese Board to-day, 1622 white and 434 colored. All sold at 9⅛c, 9 5-16c and 9¼c; 900 boarded for Ottawa inspection.

Iroquois, July 24.—Of the 1125 colored and 46 white cheese boarded here to-day by 19 factories, only 60 were sold on the board, to Johnston at 9⅛c, the highest offer on the board. The remainder sold on the board at 9⅛c, salesmen being anxious to close our the month's business to balance their books. Buyers present: Ault, Smith, Johnston and Weir.

Kemptville, July 24.—Offerings to-night of 1391 boxes, 1114 colored and 250 white. Few sales on board, at 9c and 9⅛c for colored, and 9c and 9⅛c for white. Remainder unsold. New buyer appeared in the board, representing Gunn & Langlois of Montreal.

Presentation to Editor Gardiner.

Hamilton, July 25.—Editor H. F. Gardiner of The Hamilton Times was presented with an address and a handsome traveling case last evening by the members of Centenary Methodist Church, where he has been one of the prominent workers for many years. Mrs Gardiner was also honored. A cut glass berry bowl was presented to her by the Ladies' Aid Society.

Indigestion's Slave

IS SALLOW, LANGUID, THIN AND DOWN HEARTED.

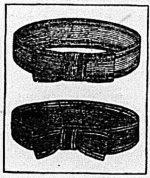
Troubled With Wind, Billousness, Headaches and Sharp Internal Pains.

No one deserves more sympathy than the sufferer from indigestion. A light meal lies like lead upon his chest—a good meal gives him hours of agony. The dyspeptic's slavery can't end until he builds up his system with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They strengthen the stomach, stimulate the liver and sharpen the appetite. There never was a case of indigestion that Dr. Williams' Pink pills could not cure if given a fair trial. Proof of this is given by Mr. Gustave Emond, of St. Jerome, Que., who says:—"I suffered from dyspepsia for five years. The agony I endured at times can only be understood by those who are similarly afflicted. I tried a number of home remedies and advertised medicines but they did not help me. Then I decided to see the family doctor, and I took for a long time the medicine he gave me, but the results were no better; in fact I was getting worse. Some days I could not eat at all, and when I did eat the meal was followed by violent pains and cramps in my stomach that made life almost unendurable. Then I stopped the doctor and again began trying other medicines, but the result was always the same—no cure, and scarcely even temporary relief. And so the trouble went on for years, until last winter I met a friend from St. Scholastique who asked me if I had ever tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had not but after some persuasion consented to do so. This was the beginning of the end of my trouble. Before the first box of pills were finished the pains after eating were less severe. I continued the pills for a couple of months and at the end of that time I was wholly cured. I can eat now as hearty a meal as anyone, and never have the slightest return of the pains and cramps that so long had made life miserable. I have proved that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure this trouble when all other medicines fail, and I would strongly urge other dyspeptics to give them a fair trial."

These pills will cure all troubles due to poor blood, or weakened nerves, such as neuralgia, rheumatism, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, heart weakness, and the ailments that burden the lives of so many women. If you do not find these pills at your dealer's, send direct to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be sent post paid at 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50. Do not let any dealer persuade you to take something else.

A Frill In Man's Head Gear.

According to Vogue, it seems from present indications that black and dark blue silk bands for men's straw hats will be more generally used than those combining two or more colors; but the latter if well selected are permissible, and among college boys will no doubt, as usual, be more or less a fad. Those shown by the illustrations are dark blue with narrow stripes of old gold between narrow stripes of black and dark blue with narrow double stripes of white, respectively. Colored bands may be bought at all the shops, and for a straight brimmed hat it is well to have one or two as a change from the plainer color. Narrow stripes of colored ribbon, which can be fastened around and over the plain band, may also be bought, and in this way one may get different stripe effects by simply slipping the narrow ribbon up or down. Thus, if a plain dark blue band and a narrow strip of dark red ribbon be used one may have the effect of a blue band with a red stripe through the middle, at the upper edge or at the lower edge, according to the placing of the narrow ribbon over the broader one.



COLORED HATBANDS.

The Refrigerator In Warm Weather.

Look the refrigerator over every morning and see that the shelves are wiped off. A bit of meat left on the shelves, a few drops of milk or cream spilled and allowed to sour, will taint every other article of food inclosed within the chest. Twice a week take everything out and wash the racks with warm water that has baking soda dissolved in it. Wash the sides of the walls, take out the strainer and pour soda water down to cleanse the pipe, running a swab, tied to the end of a piece of whalebone, up and down the pipe to free it from slime. Wash the drip pan also very thoroughly, dry the racks in the sun and leave the refrigerator door open to dry and air it inside.

Fashion's Echoes.

The light gray gown is one of the chic things.

A Russian dressing sack is a useful and trim looking garment.

THE WAR JAPAN THREATENS

Not Likely to Crystallize Into Action Against Russia.

War Is the Furthest Thing From the Wishes of the Russian Government, Says a Correspondent—The Bear, However, Is Taking Every Precaution to Strengthen Her Military and Naval Position in the Orient.

London, July 25.—A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from St. Petersburg, dated July 20, says: "The attitude of Japan and the warlike tone of the majority of the Japanese press have attracted much attention in official circles here. It is declared by the best informed people that there is no likelihood of war, certainly not upon Russia's initiative. It is said that Russia has every motive for desiring peace, chiefly for financial reasons, with which are wound up desire for extensive domestic reforms which the Government considers the most efficacious manner of disarming internal discontent and nipping the revolutionary propaganda in the bud.

"It is believed to be impossible from the Russian view point for Japan to embark in a contest with Russia single-handed, and it is not thought she will secure the material support of Great Britain or the United States.

"Nevertheless Russia is taking every precaution to strengthen her military and naval position in the Orient, believing this to be the surest means of discouraging Japanese aggressions.

"M. Lessar's Port Arthur conference is said to have dealt chiefly with these measures, though they are declared to be entirely precautionary, war being the furthest thing from the wishes of the Russian Government."

FERDINAND'S DEPARTURE.

Left Bulgaria Until Present Excitement Subsides.

Berlin, July 25.—Notwithstanding the semi-official denial that Prince Ferdinand's departure from Sofia amounts to a flight, The Vossische Zeitung, which gets well authenticated private information from Bulgaria, says it believes that the rumors of the Prince's flight have some basis, and the paper regards it as probable that he has left the country till the existing excitement subsides. The Vossische Zeitung yesterday prints a special despatch from Sofia saying that it is openly asserted that an attempt against Prince Ferdinand's throne is not impossible, Servia's example having had a profound influence in the Prince's country.

The Answer Was Easy.

The teacher was explaining to her pupils the use of the words senior and junior.

"Now, if John Smith had a son John Smith they would call the son John Smith, Jr. The father would be John Smith, Sr. Now, supposing John Smith, Sr., had a grandson John Smith, can any one tell me what the grandson would be called?"

Promptly up went the hand of a boy on the front seat.

"Well, Eddie?" said the teacher.

"He'd be called John Smith, sophomore, ma'am."—New York Times.

Crafty.

Mrs. Testy—I don't know how it is, Bridget, but it looks as though you took pleasure in breaking dishes that cannot be duplicated.

Bridget—It's not pleasure, mum, but common sense. If a dish can't be duplicated, as you call it, of course you can't expect me to replace it when I have broken it.—Boston Transcript.

A Reproof.

"It strikes me that this is about the slowest railroad in the country," said the impatient tourist.

"I knew you were going to kick," replied the conductor genially, "as soon as you asked for a time table. You are one of these people who believe everything they see in print."—Washington Star.

How Iron-ox Tablets Completely Cured Jas. Huston of 20 Years' Serious Trouble.

January 27, 1903.

I cannot express in words the praise that is due to Iron-ox Tablets, which I got as a trial package from our druggist, Mr. McDonald, who told me they were just what I wanted. I took them more for fun, but before I had finished one box I got great relief. I was subject to great misery after meals, with bloating, and would rift up bile of the bitterest taste, and always woke up in the morning in the same way for the last twenty years. Had tried all medicines, but now I am completely cured, and it was by taking Iron-ox Tablets. Words cannot express my gratitude to you.

JAS. HUSTON,
Victoria Hotel, Virden,
Manitoba.

Fifty Iron-ox Tablets, in an attractive aluminum pocket case, 25 cents at druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price. The Iron-ox Remedy Co., Limited, Walkerville, Ont.

You Will Marvel

How you ever drank Japan tea after tasting

"SALADA"

Ceylon Natural Green tea. It has the same kind of flavor as Japan tea, but is much more delicious and is absolutely Pure. It is displacing Japan tea just as "SALADA" Black is displacing all other black teas. Sealed packets only. 25c and 40c per lb. By all grocers.

For pure blood, a bright eye, a clear complexion, a keen appetite, a good digestion and refreshing sleep, TAKE

BRISTOL'S Sarsaparilla

It arouses the Liver, quickens the circulation, brightens the spirits and generally improves the health.

Sixty-eight years trial have proved it to be, the most reliable BLOOD purifier known.

All druggists sell "BRISTOL'S."

Retiring From Business Sale

NATHAN JONES.

20 per cent. discount on children's Hosiery, best grades.

20 per cent. discount on all our Taffeta and Tamaline Silks.

20 per cent. discount on all our Cashmere, Taffeta and Kid Gloves.

33½ per cent. discount on all our Ladies' Whitewear.

Remember our sale of Gingbams and Muslins at 7c per yd.

NATHAN JONES.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's. At Wallbridge & Clarke's

Supplies For Camp or Cruise

New York Biscuits

In "In-er Seal" pkgs.

Uneeda "Jinger" Wafers, Butter Gems, Cheese Biscuits, German Zwieback, Pretzelettes, etc., etc.

Christie's Fancy Biscuits

Fresh supplies every week — 40 varities.

Heintz's Pickles

Heintz's Celery Sauce,
Heintz's India Relish.
Heintz's Sweet Midgets.
Heintz's Sweet Pickles.

Spanish Olives

A fine assortment of Olives from 10cts per bottle up.

Campers Supplies

Essence of Coffee, Condensed Milk, Lime Juice, Raspberry Vinegar, Fancy Cheese, New Pack Lobster and Shrimps, French Sardines, Scallops, Deviled Crabs, Concentrated Soups, French Potage, Beef Extracts, etc., etc.

Pickles and Sauces

A complete assortment of English and American Pickles and Sauces, including Pickled Walnuts, Onions, Chow Chow, Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce, Yorkshire Relish, Mushroom Catsup, Harvey's Sauce, Sultana Sauce, Chutney's Capers, Durkee's Salad Dressing, etc., etc.

Delicious Teas

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious English Breakfast Teas in lead packets at 30, 40, 50 and 60cts per lb.

Canned Meats

New Packs. Finest Quality.

Whole Ox Tongues,
Lunch Tongues.
Lamb's Tongues.
Boned Chicken.
Boned Turkey,
Boned Duck.
Pate de foie.
Potted Ham.
Potted Tongue.
Sliced Dried Beef.
Ham Loaf.
Veal Loaf.
Chicken Tamales.
Lunch Beef.
Lunch Bacon.
Chicken, Ham and Tongue,
Pigs Feet.
Jellied Tenderloins,
Vienna Sausages.
Luncheon Sausages.
Baked Beans—plain or in Tomato or Chili Sauce, etc., etc., etc.

Ale and Stout, Wines, etc.

Carling's, Labatt and Davies' Dominion Ale, Bass' Ale, Dow's Sand Porter, Guinness' Stout, in prime condition.

Gurd's Ginger and Soda Water Appolinaris and Radnor Water.

Barton & Guestier's and Nath. Johnston's Bordeaux Clarets and Sauterne AT POPULAR PRICES.

Rhine Wine and Burgundy Cordials and Liqueurs.

Light Canadian Wines, red or white, at lowest prices.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
EST'D. 1871.
BRIDGE ST. Tel. 139.
Branch Store
Front St.—Tel. 157.

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 37. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, JULY 27, 1903 NO. 72

DROWNED IN SAUGEEN RIVER

Young Man Took Cramps Saturday Night While Swimming.

Adam Birney, Aged 23, Sank Before His Two Comrades Could Reach Him—Miss Farley Drowned in Lake Rosseau—Boat Upset When a Mile From Shore—Her Companion, Miss Mahon, Was Rescued—Drownings and Fatalities.

Hanover, July 27.—The waters of the old Saugeen River, at this place, claimed another victim Saturday evening, in the person of a young man named Adam Birney. He with two other young men, went in bathing about 7 o'clock. He jumped into the water and swam out about the middle of the stream. It is thought he took cramps, for in a moment he sank beneath the water. His body was recoverd about two hours after, but life was extinct. He was a turner in the Knechtel Furniture Company's factory, and took a lively interest in lacrosse and football circles. He was about 21 years of age, and unmarried. His parents live near Enniskillen, in the County of Bruce.

MISS FARLEY DROWNED.

Chief of Waitresses at Royal Muskoka Loses Her Life.

Royal Muskoka, July 27.— A sad drowning accident occurred here Friday afternoon, in which one life was lost. Miss Agnew Farley of Brooklyn, N.Y., captain of the waitresses here, and another waitress named Miss Annie Mahon, left here Friday afternoon in a rowboat for Rosseau, and were returning about 5 o'clock. When about a mile from Rosseau, the boat was accidentally upset. Miss Mahon clung to the boat, and was rescued, but Miss Farley sank immediately and never came up. The body lies in 100 feet of water, and has not yet been recovered.

Two Men Drowned.

Montreal, July 27.—A fatal boating accident took place on the St. Lawrence, near Nun's Island, yesterday. A boat was upset and two men, Lee Rogers and Thomas Harte, were drowned.

Walked Into Canal.

Port Colborne, July 27.—A young Italian laborer, aged 19, was drowned at Humberstone Saturday evening. He had just arrived in town and did not notice that the swing bridge was open and walked into the canal.

BROKE HIS SPINE.

How Lieut. Whelen of Ottawa Met His Death.

Ottawa, July 27.—The body of Lieut. Hume Whelen, son of Mr. P. Whelen, manager of Shepherd Morse Lumber Company, who was killed at Quebec on Saturday, was brought home yesterday. He was 18 years of age, and had been sent by his father with a raft of square timber to learn that side of the lumber trade at Quebec. Before dawn he heard the whistle of the tug blow for the harbor, and, springing from his bed, he went out, and from what can be learned, saw some small craft in danger of being crushed against the raft. Seizing a pole, he shoved against the boat, and the pole slipping, he fell into the water. Two men ran to the rescue, and in pulling him out of the water the boat crushed in suddenly, catching him in the spine, crushing in his back. Death was instantaneous. He was an officer of the 43rd Regiment, and will be buried with military honors.

Burned to Death.

Winnipeg, July 27.—John Walker, employed as stable hand in H. Griffin's livery, was burned to death Saturday night in a fire which destroyed the stable. Several horses were cremated and several injured.

Died From Blow on Temple.

Toronto, July 27.—Elijah Cowling, aged 53, died at the General Hospital yesterday morning from an injury to his right temple and eye. The death blow was received during an altercation with his sons, and there is a great deal of mystery about the affair. An inquest will be held.

THOUGHT OF COMRADE.

"Attend to the Other Fellow," Said a Dying Youth.

Kingston, July 27.—Southbound train No. 18 on the West Shore Saturday night struck and killed Clarence Sherwood, aged 21, son of the Rev. Mr. Henry Sherwood, and probably fatally injured William J. Turck, jr. They were riding in an automobile at Saugerties road crossing, when the accident occurred. They escaped a northbound freight train, but did not see the approaching southbound passenger. When Sherwood was approached by Dr. Sadler, who was near the scene of the accident, he said. "Attend to the other fellow; I'm too far gone."

Killed by an Engine.

Quebec, July 27.—A well-known citizen of Quebec, Mr. Alberos Daroch, for many years a very prominent and prosperous flour and provision merchant in Quebec, was struck by an engine about 10.30 o'clock yesterday morning on the Louise Embankment, and died twenty minutes after the accident in the ambulance. Deceased was sixty-five years old.

Indian Found Dead.

Jordan, July 27.—The body of an Indian was found dead on the G. T. R. tracks, one mile east of Jordan Station. He is supposed to have been struck by a train. The body is almost unrecognizable. His name is David Laforn of Hagersville. He was about 26 years of age, and unmarried.

Crew Failed to Wait on Siding.

Worcester, Mass., July 27.—One dead and 48 injured are the results of a head-on collision between two cars on the Boston & Worcester Street Railway near Westboro yesterday. The accident, it is said, was due to failure of the crew of one car to wait the order on the siding.

Four Persons Killed.

St. Paul, Minn., July 27.—In a head-on collision between a passenger train and a freight train on the Chicago Great Western Railroad yesterday, four men were killed and about 25 passengers injured.

The dead include: Engineers Merkert and Helman, Fireman Coger and Fred Horton, a passenger.

Horton, it is said, was standing in the vestibule of the front sleeper talking to a friend when the crash came. He was instantly killed, while his friend escaped injury.

Recovering Bodies in Hanna Mine.

Hanna, Wyo., July 27.—The work of recovering the bodies from the Hanna coal mine is progressing uninterruptedly. Twenty-seven bodies have been taken out since Saturday evening, making fifty-seven of the 169 victims that have been recovered since the explosion of June 30.

Collector of Customs Dead.

Napanee, July 27.—Thomas E. Anderson, collector of customs at Napanee, died at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, after an illness of about six months. Deceased was about 48 years of age, and leaves a widow and family.

SINCLAIR'S AD SINCLAIR'S AD.

Odds and Ends Sale

We are fast approaching the end of the summer season, we are already receiving and opening up New Fall Goods This means that we must have room and in order to get room we clear everything of the nature of Summer Goods.

12½ to 20c Wash Goods for 8c.

One of this week's attractions is a table of Wash Goods, including Prints, Ginghams, Drills, Muslins, etc. 12½ to 20c per yard, Thousands of yards to select from and any length you require at

8c per Yard

35c to 50c Ladies' Collars for 25c

There are about 5 Dozen of these Fancy Collars all new styles, from 35 to 50c and we place the lot on sale, your choice for - - - - - 25c

59c Black Sateen Underskirts 59c

These Skirts are made of Mercerized Black Sateen of a good quality, with a 15 inch Frill, accordion plaited, were $1.25 regularly and we have 18 of them to sell at 59c each.

65c FANCY PARASOLS 65c

Parasols

We have about 30 Ladies' Fancy Parasols from $1.25 to $2.50, in a variety of styles, but all Fancies, and we clear the lot this week, your choice 65c

New Idea Patterns for 10c.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO

THE KING'S GREAT BIG WISH

Blessings to Irish Commensurate With Their Warmth of Heart.

Royalty Leaves Dublin—Although Raining the Crowd at Final Review of Children Lined the Streets Six Deep—King Edward Gave $5,000 to Be Distributed to Dublin's Poor—His Majesty's Message of Appreciation to the People.

Dublin, July 27. — King Edward and Queen Alexandra left Dublin at noon Saturday to visit the Marquis and Marchioness of Londonderry at Mount Stewart, Newtownards, County Down. They halted on their way to the railway station to review thousands of children who had assembled in Phoenix Park. Although it was raining at the time Their Majesties passed in open carriage. The streets were lined six deep with spectators. The enthusiasm which has heretofore been displayed was fully maintained.

Before leaving here King Edward gave £1,000, which is to be distributed among the poor of Dublin.

His Majesty's Message.

The following royal message has been issued in the form of a letter from Mr. George Wyndham, Chief Secretary for Ireland, to Earl Dudley, the Lord Lieutenant:

"The King, before leaving, commands me to beg you to convey to all his people in Dublin his deep appreciation of the loyalty and affection with which he and the Queen were surrounded during their stay. Their Majesties forever will cherish the memory of these days, during which every incident but confirmed their belief that the inhabitants of this illustrious city may, under God's providential guidance, confidently look forward to blessings commensurate with the keenness of their intelligence and the warmth of their hearts."

A Rousing Welcome.

The King and Queen had a rousing welcome at Newtownards. Later they took an automobile to Portaferry, where they crossed Strangford Lough aboard the gunboat Hebe and visited Lord De Ros, the oldest peer in the realm. Although the district is strongly Nationalist, the people gave Their Majesties a most hearty reception.

LUMBER YARD FIRE SWEPT.

St. Catharines Firm Sustains Heavy Loss—Origin a Mystery.

St. Catharines, July 27.—George Wilson & Co.'s large lumber yards, situated on the north side of Niagara street, was again visited by fire at an early hour yesterday morning. The fire started in the eastern end and soon spread westward, covering the entire yard, which was heavily stocked with choice lumber. Two large sheds, each 300 feet long, went up like paper. A large amount of stock was manufactured and ready to go out and is a total loss.

The firemen, with the help of a west wind, saved the main mill, box factory and offices. A small house on Page street side caught fire and was completely destroyed. The Warran Else Co.'s plant was in great danger and was saved only by hard work. The firemen worked heroically and saved a number of frame houses situated all around the yard. The origin of the fire is a mystery. F. W. Wilson estimates the loss at between $15,000 and $50,000, partly covered by insurance.

FUNERAL OF JUDGE ARMOUR.

Notable Men in Law and Other Circles Will Attend.

Cobourg, July 27.—The remains of the late Chief Justice Armour arrived in Cobourg by special car Saturday evening at 6.30. The funeral takes place at 11.45 this morning from St. Peter's Church. All places of business will be closed from 11 a. m. until 1 p.m. The flag on the town hall will be at half-mast until after the funeral. The casket will not be opened at Cobourg.

The following will act as pallbearers: Sir Wm. Mulock, Hon. Chief Justice Chas. Moss, Hon. Chief Justice Sir Wm. Meredith, Hon. Chief Justice W. G. Falconbridge, Hon. Mr. Justice Wallace Nesbitt, W. R. Wadsworth, manager Bank of Toronto.

BITTEN BY MOSQUITOES.

Mrs. Ellen McKee Recaptured on Verge of Collapse.

Windsor, July 27.—Mrs. Ellen McKee, the woman who escaped from Sandwich Jail, where she was confined, awaiting extradition on a charge of embezzling $2,500 from the Irish postal authorities, was recaptured by Chief Masters of Sandwich Saturday morning. The poor woman has been wandering at large since 6 o'clock Thursday night. She has been terribly bitten about the face and hands by mosquitoes and is on the verge of collapse.

Race War in Illinois.

Danville, Ill., July 27.—This city is in the throes of a race riot. One negro, J. P. Mayfield of Evansville, Ind., who Saturday night shot and killed Henry Gatterman, white, has already been lynched by a mob of 600 men. The mob later was fired upon by the sheriff and three men were wounded. It was then clamoring for the life of another negro named James Wilson, who has confessed to a brutal assault on Mrs. Thomas Burgess, wife of a farmer. Some negroes are arming themselves and others are preparing for flight. Wilson is still in the hands of the sheriff.

Danville is now under military protection. Four companies of the 7th Illinois Infantry arrived yesterday from Springfield. The jail was placed under military guard on the arrival of the militia, and this guard was doubled last night.

BASEBALL SATURDAY.

The Eastern League.

Buffalo ....0 2 1 2 0 3 4 0 *—12
Toronto ....0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0—1

Earned runs—Buffalo 5, Toronto 1. First base on balls—Off Milligan 2, off Wolfe 3. Struck out—By Milligan 3, by Wolfe 4. Three-base hit—McIntyre. Two-base hits—White, Massey, Hartman, McIntyre. Sacrifice hits—White, Downey, Shearon. Bases on errors—Buffalo 5, Toronto 2. Stolen bases—Gettman, Hartman. Left on bases—Buffalo 7, Toronto 9. Double plays—Miller, Downey to Massey; Atherton (unassisted). Hit by pitcher—By Wolfe 2. Umpire—Swartwood. Time—1.50. Attendance—8523.

At Baltimore— R.H.E.
Rochester .... 0 0 1 2 0 0 0 0 0—3 9 3
Baltimore .... 2 0 1 0 0 0 1 1 0—5 12 1
Batteries—Mills and Steelman; Atkins and Robinson. Umpire—Brown.

At Newark— R.H.E.
Montreal ..... 0 0 2 0 0 1 0 0 0—3 8 2
Newark ..... 4 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—4 4 2
Batteries—Falkenburg and McCauley; Moriarty and Spiesman. Umpire—Kelly.

At Providence— R.H.E.
Jersey City ... 1 0 0 2 0 0 0 3 0—6 7 0
Providence .... 0 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—2 6 1
Batteries—Thielman and Dillon; Yerkes and Diggins. Umpire—Shannon.

National League Scores.

At Boston, first game— R.H.E.
Brooklyn ..... 1 0 1 1 0 0 0 0 0—3 3 3
Boston ...... 0 0 0 1 2 1 0 0 0—4 8 1
Batteries—Garvin and Ritter; Malarkey and Moran. Umpire—Johnstone.

At Chicago, first game— R.H.E.
Cincinnati ... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 3 0—3 4 1
Chicago ..... 1 1 3 0 0 0 0 1 0—6 1 3
Batteries—Poole and Bergen; Weimer, Ledgreen and O'Day. Umpire—O'Day.

At Philadelphia— R.H.E.
New York .... 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 0 1—4 7 1
Philadelphia .. 0 0 0 0 1 1 2 0 1—5 10 1
Batteries—McKinnity and Warner; Fraser and Dooin. Umpire—Emslie.

At Pittsburg— R.H.E.
St. Louis ..... 2 1 5 0 2 1 3 0 3—14 6 3
Pittsburg ..... 0 2 0 0 0 1 2 1 0—6 2 4

At Boston, second game— R.H.E.
Brooklyn ..... 0 1 2 1 1 3 0 2 0—10 13 3
Boston ..... 2 1 0 0 5 5 0 0 0—13 14 3
Batteries—Reidy, Ritter and Dorchester;

American League Results. R.H.E.

At New York—
Boston.........0 0 1 0 1 4 0 1 0—7 12 1
New York ....0 5 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—2 7 1
Batteries—Dineen, Criger and Young; Tannehill, O'Connor and Chesbro. Umpire—Sheridan.

At Washington— R.H.E.
Philadelphia .....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—1 6 0
Washington .....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0—2 6 1
Batteries—Waddell and Schreck; Dunkle and Kittridge. Umpire—Hassett.

At Cleveland— R.H.E.
St. Louis........0 1 1 0 0 2 0 0 0—4 6 0
Cleveland ....3 0 1 0 2 1 0 0 0—7 10 3
Batteries—Powell and Kahoe; Pearson and Abbott. Umpire—O'Laughlin.

At Detroit— R.H.E.
Chicago ....1 1 0 0 0 1 2 0 0—5 12 2
Detroit ....1 0 1 0 0 0 1 1 0—4 12 4
Batteries—White, Flaherty and Slattery; Kitson and Buelow.

Baseball on Sunday.

R.H.E.
Jersey City ... 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 1—3 7 2
Providence .... 1 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0—2 7 0
Batteries—Barnett and Dillon; Vian and Diggins. Umpire—Shannon. Attendance—1700.

Newark ....1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 x—1 7 0
Montreal ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 3 1
Batteries—Hesterfer and Spiesman; Winham and McCauley. Umpire—Kelly. Attendance—3500.

At Chicago, National— R.H.E.
Chicago ...... 2 0 0 1 3 1 2 0 x—9 8 1
St. Louis .... 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—3 7 2
Batteries—Wicker and Kling; Rhoades and O'Neil. Umpire—Moran. Attendance—7800.

At Chicago, American, first game—R.H.E.
Chicago ...... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 6 1
Detroit ...... 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1 5 2
Batteries—Owen and McFarland; Donovan and Buelow.

Second game— R.H.E.
Chicago ...... 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 3 x—4 7 2
Detroit ...... 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 1 0—2 8 2
Batteries—Flaherty and Slattery; Kissinger and McGuire. Umpire—O'Loughlin. Attendance—8260.

At St. Louis— R.H.E.
St. Louis.. ......0 0 1 0 0 8 1 0 x—5 11 1
Cleveland ......0 0 0 0 0 1 0 2 0—3 10 2
Batteries—Sievers and Sugden; Wright and Bemis. Umpire—Connolly. Attendance—5500.

At Cincinnati— R.H.E.
Cincinnati ......0 0 2 0 0 0 0 0 0—2 7 2
Pittsburg ......0 0 0 0 0 2 3 0 0—5 9 1
Batteries—Ewing and Peitz; Doheny and Smith. Umpire—O'Day. Attendance—9400.

AGENTS' CLAIM PRESSED.

Wants Commission For Taking Insurance on Lives of Soldiers.

Montreal, July 27.—H. C. Bellew, insurance agent, through his attorneys, Messrs. Jacobs & Garneau, has entered an action against the Provident Savings Life Insurance Company, to recover $1,622, being the amount of his commission on securing 81 risks on officers and men of the fourth South African contingent. After the risks had been written and the applications delivered to the company, the latter issued the policies, but would not deliver them to the men because the Canadian Department of Militia and Defence refused to recognize the war-extra premium, on the ground that the men reached Africa after the declaration of peace.

Burnt Girls to Death.

Vienna, July 27.—Die Zeit reports one of the most shocking crimes ever known in these parts. According to the paper a number of laborers attacked a number of young women employed on the same farm, and the bailiff had to be called upon. He locked the girls, thirty-three in number, in the barn in order to protect them from the men. This, however, seemed to enrage the laborers and they set fire to the building and all of the girls perished in the flames.

A NOTE COMMON TO HUMANITY

Struck at the Last Sad Honors to Late Pope Leo.

Office For the Dead Same as For the Ordinary Man, and This Fact Emphasized the Noble Life of the Greatest of Modern Popes—Conclave Will Agree in Two Days in the Selection of His Successor.

Rome, July 27.—A note common to humanity was struck at the burial of the Pope Saturday night. The office for the dead heard daily in the churches was repeated as if Leo XIII were neither a visible head of the church nor a sovereign, but an ordinary man, from the "Miserere" to the "In Paradisum" and from the "Ingrediar" to the "Queen Admodum Desiderat," There was a solemn office with a requiem chant and Psalm which might have been heard at the burial of the lowliest Catholic; yet here at last, after a three days' exhibition of a dead Pope in pontificals and gold mitre before throngs of scrambling sightseers, there was something austere and simple, weird and profoundly impressive to touch the imagination — something worthy of the historic basilica and the noble life of the greatest of modern Popes.

The Congregation.

The vast spaces of St. Peter's were dimly lighted when the diplomatic corps, the Papal court and seven hundred invited guests, representing chiefly the old nobility, were admitted. There were two thousand spectators, men in uniform or evening dress and women in black, but they were lost in the shadows of the cathedral. Guards were still watching with halberds and drawn swords beside the dead Pope, and around them was a radiance of yellow candle light. There was also a misty light in the Chapel of the Choir, and ninety-five gilded lamps were burning around the marble balustrade of the confession of St. Peter. In solemn stillness the approach of the long procession from the Hall of Consistory was awaited. It was a mournful file of ecclesiastics and soldiers, tramping slowly into the basilica, but more melancholy than the sombre vestments was the sorrowful, sighing-like "Miserere," echoing far and wide with unearthly and weird pathos.

Miserere Accompaniment.

When the cardinals, in their violet robes, had paid their final tribute of homage and loyal obedience; the coffin was uplifted by the guards, and the procession passed slowly toward the altar, with the Miserere as an accompaniment. It was a mediaeval spectacle, deeply impressive. Several hundred men and boys were seen by the light of the flaring torches. Choirsters, ecclesiastics, canons and students were in violet and black, the Noble Guard in red, the gendarmes in green and the dignitaries of the court in medieval costume.

Lowered For Absolution.

The body was carried across the church to the confession of St. Peter, where the Pope had often prayed at midnight by the traditional tomb Here the coffin was lowered to the ground for absolution, and then was carried back through the church to the Chapel of the Choir, where the burial office was repeated in the presence of the cardinals and the diplomatic corps. Tradition was followed in almost every detail. Purses containing coins and medals were placed in the coffin, with a parchment record of the pontificate. The majordomo drew a silk scarf over the face and hands of the dead, and the coffin was sealed by six great functionaries.

The Last Function.

When the last requiem was sung, and "I Am the Resurrection and the Life" had rang out in Latin, the coffin was raised in a sling and slowly swung into the niche over the sides of the door, the lights disappearing on the altar from stage to stage, untill the last one was extinguish. The last function was performed by the masons, who bricked up the opening and set a marble plate with the name of "Leo XIII" in front of the sarcophagus.

About thirty-two cardinals were present, Cardinal Gibbons not being among them. It was a unique mediaeval ceremonial, in a temple consecrated to traditions and mysteries, but the music was the most impressive feature and saddened the heart of the most joyous spectator.

Leo XIII. Private Will.

The Pope's private will disposes of the story that he left large sums to relatives. It says: "Of gifts received during my Pontificate I claim none. They were given to me as head of the church, and they belong to the church. My nephews and other relatives know my sentiments. They will have to content themselves with my family estate at Carpineto. This they shall divide among themselves.

"It is my wish that my trusted servant, Pio Centra, receive for life a pension of 2,000 lire, which my heirs shall pay him. All my other belongings shall go to the church."

Conclave Likely to Be Short.

The ceremonial of the conclave established by Gregory XV. is to be followed at the coming meeting. The cardinals have decided during the conclave to eat in common in order to facilitate their work.

MODERN MEDICINE.

Cod-liver oil is good. Purified Petroleum is better. Angier's Emulsion is made of odorless and tasteless petroleum, glycerine and hypophosphites. It does all,—and more,—than cod-liver oil and similar preparations. It is pleasant to take, and agreeable to the stomach.

A local paper quotes the response of Cardinal Svampa to a question as to whether he believed the conclave would be of lengthy duration, as follows: "On the contrary, I think it will be very short. I believe that two days will suffice to reach an agreement."

Phil May Dying.

London, July 27.—Phil May, the artist of Punch and Graphic, is seriously ill, and it is not expected he will recover.

WON THE KING'S PRIZE.

Welshman Carries Off Coveted Trophy For the Second Time.

Bisley, England, July 27.—Color-Sergeant Davis of the 3rd Glamorgan Volunteers won the King's Prize at the National Rifle Association meet, which closed Saturday, with a score of 311. This is the second time Davis has won the King's Prize, a feat which has been accomplished only once before in the history of the competition. Pte. McCallum of the 1st Stirling Volunteers was second, with a score of 310, and Sergeant Galloway of the 2nd Ayrshire was third, with 303. The weather was bright, but the wind was very strong and variable.

The following members of the Canadian team were placed in the King's hundred:

Lieut. Vroom, 293, Twenty-fourth.
Major Spearing, 292, Twenty-fifth.
Sergeant Bayles, 283, Sixty-third.
Private McNaughton, 282, Sixty-eighth.
Corp. McGregor, 279, Seventy-third.
Capt. Crowe, 274, Eighty-fourth.

ANOTHER HITCH.

Grand Trunk Pacific Resolutions Still Further Delayed Till Thursday.

Ottawa, July 27.—(Toronto Globe special.) — Consideration of the Grand Trunk Pacific contract occupied the attention of the Cabinet at the sessions held Saturday morning and evening. Most of the details have been agreed upon, but there are one or two features upon which further light is needed. It is not expected that any difficulty will be encountered in adjusting these points, as Mr. Hays has shown a most reasonable disposition throughout the negotiations. The delay involved may prevent the Government from bringing down to-morrow the resolutions affecting the project. It is now said to be almost sure, however, that the Prime Minister will explain the enterprise to Parliament on Thursday next.

BIG MEN LOSE MUCH MONEY.

Rockefeller Family Fortune Has Shrunk $100,000,000 by Recent Slump.

New York, July 27.—The Herald says: By conservative men in Wall street, and by men who most closely follow the trend of affairs financial, the estimate is made that the Rockefeller family fortune has shrunk $100,000,000 in value under the influence of the recent slump in securities.

The apparent loss to the friends of J. Pierpont Morgan has been great. William C. Whitney, and those who are allied with him, have suffered reverses that have hurt. John W. Gates and the other members of the "Chicago crowd" are nursing wounds that will be long in healing. James R. Keene admits a loss of $1,500,000. Some believe Mr. Keene's fortune has shrunk much more.

MORE DEADLY THAN WAR.

Over 400 Members of a Regiment Prostrated by Heat.

Vienna, July 21.—Details received from Budapest regarding the suffering of an infantry regiment from the extraordinary heat during a manoeuvre match from Trebinye to Bilek last Monday, on which about 430 men were prostrated, indicate that bad handling of the regiment was largely responsible for the men being overcome. Before reaching Bilek the men fell out of the ranks by scores. Nine died immediately and 22 were carried off insensibly, six of whom died soon after reaching the hospital and 70 others are in a serious condition. During the march the thermometer registered 125 degrees in the sun.

TRAINS OF RUSSIANS.

Indications Point to How Things Are Shaping in Far East.

London, July 27.—The Standard Saturday morning prints a Tien Tsin despatch, which says that the New Chwang trains are crowded with Russian troops going in the direction of Port Arthur that these trains are taking precedence over normal traffic and that heavy guns and other artillery are also being sent.

$2,500,000 For Relief.

Berlin, July 27.—The Prussian Ministry has decided to devote $2,500,000 to the relief of the sufferers from the Silesian floods. Typhoid fever has resulted from the rotting of grain.

30 ! DAVIES STORES ! 30

PURVEYORS TO THE PUBLIC.

Davies Teas

The best advertisement for our pure Ceylon Tea—the fact that the sales are DOUBLING all the while.

40c quality 25c.

Picnic & Campers Supplies

32 VARIETIES.

Ready-to-Serve Meats, Cooked and Canned, sliced to your taste.

BREAKFAST SPECIALTIES

Davies Mild Cured Bacon. Davies Sugar Cured Hams.
Davies Pork Sausage.

SPECIAL FOR TUESDAY—500 lbs. Pickled Hocks.......... 5c lb.

Phone. 286, Daily Deliveries.

The WM. DAVIES CO., Limited.

SPECIAL OFFER

MIDSUMMER CLUBBING RATES.

Two Papers to January 1st, 1904

Family Herald & Weekly Star, and the Best Home Paper—The Weekly Intelligencer, BOTH for

65 CENTS

We are making this special offer as we require 1000 new subscriptions to our Weekly.

This offer is good to new subscribers only.

ADDRESS—
The Weekly Intelligencer
BELLEVILLE, ONT.

No agents handle this offer.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

—FOR—

Stylish and Durable Turnouts.

—Surreys
—Corning Buggies
—Piano Box Buggies
—Rubber Tire Buggies
—Micadoes
—Phaetons
—Bike Buggies
—Democrats
—Grocer Wagons
—Butcher Wagons

Cheese Factory Milk Wagons.
Steel Tubular Axle Lumber Wagons.

Rubber Tires put on your old wheels at reasonable prices.

Mill St, - - Belleville

Death of a Child.

Warren H. Powell, a young son of Mr. and Mrs. Powell, who, when at home, reside in Syracuse, N.Y., died this morning at the residence of his aunt, Mrs. Benjamin, Bellevue Terrace. The child was but thirteen months old.

CHEAP TRIPS.

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay. Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

Marine Notes.

The yacht Naomi, of Hamilton, was in the harbor over Sunday, having on board a party who are cruising.

The steam yacht Aris, of New York, arrived in the harbor Saturday with a party who are spending a few days in this vicinity.

The steamer North King yesterday took a number on board here for a trip to the Thousand Islands.

1,000 ISLANDS AND ROCHESTER.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian" leave Belleville for Thousand Islands at 3.25 a.m., daily except Mondays. Fare $1.00. Returning Str. leaves at 11.39 p.m. for Rochester, N.Y. m26d&w3m

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

THERE IS
No Silk So Smooth,
No Silk So Long,
No Silk So Strong as
Corticelli
THE DRESSMAKERS' FAVORITE SPOOL SILK
"Too Strong To Break"

Daily Intelligencer.

WHO WOULD HAVE BELIEVED THIS?

MR. JERRY HURLEY'S ACCOUNT.

Our readers have already seen in these columns some reference to the scandal caused by the publication of certain facts brought out in the Public Accounts Committee at Ottawa dealing with the startling methods employed by Mr. Jeremiah Hurley, ex-M.P., to pad out his bill as Census Commissioner.

The Ottawa Citizen of the 23rd, in its report of the proceedings of the committee, gives a synopsis of the statements made in evidence by Mr. Hurley, as to how he made out his account for services rendered as Census Commissioner, while at the same time receiving pay as Fishery Inspector.

The Citizen heads its article "Expert Bill Maker; How Jeremiah Hurley, ex-M.P., Made out his Bill as Census Commissioner," and then gives the facts, as follows, which show how this Census Commissioner made out his account, after reading which people will no longer wonder how it was that the taking of the census in 1901 cost about double the sum paid for the same work in 1891, that is, if all the Commissioners adopted the same mode of getting money that our friend Jerry did.

Here is the report:

"The Public Accounts Committee yesterday, 22nd July, heard the explanations of Mr. Jeremiah Hurley, ex-M.P., in regard to payments made to him as Census Commissioner for East Hastings, at the same time that he was acting as a Fishing Inspector. Mr. Northrup elicited from Mr. Hurley tthat he sent in his detailed account for expenses of $105.37, but afterwards on coming to Ottawa made up a further bill, including charges for renting halls, $25. He could not, however, tell Mr. Northrup any hall he had so rented. After practically completing the census work, Mr. Hurley found he was not getting what he expected, so he put in additional charges, which were passed to increase the bill. The charge for the hall was one of his methods of getting even. He also charged $10 for stationery, as well as $1.50 a day for the use of his horse for ten days, though his original bill of $105.37 was supposed to cover all expenses up to the close of the census work. These, he admitted, were afterthoughts. His total account was $282.30 and he added $50 on this way. Meantime Mr. Hurley received $416 salary and $24.75 expenses as Fishery Inspector."

A Montreal paper gives the following report:

Ottawa, July 23.—In the Public Accounts Committee yesterday, Jeremiah Hurley, ex-M.P. for East Hastings, Fishery Inspector for Eastern Ontario, was called and deposed that he was in receipt of a salary from the Department of Fisheries, and whilst in receipt of such salary was employed as a Census Commissioner. He had presented two bills for expenses in latter capacity, one for $105 and a second one for $35, for rent of halls. He could not tell Mr. Northrup any hall he had rented. After practically completing the census, he found he was not getting what he expected, and he put in an additional bill of charges, which was passed and increased the amount he received. There was also a charge of $10 for stationery: $1.50 per diem for ten days for use of his own horse.

Mr. Northrup pointed out that the bill for $105 included frequent horse hire. "In fact, in your wanderings, whenever you saw a horse you charged for him."

"If I used him I did," said Mr. Hurley. He was employed for 75 days on census work, but charged for 90 days, claiming he had done extra work.

Two affidavits, or what purported to be affidavits, dated the same day, one at Belleville and one at Deseronto, both made before him, caused some discussion.

Finally Mr. Northrup asked: "Did you send these documents out and let the men sign them and return them?"

"Well, that may have been."

"So that when the Government thought they were getting and paying for sworn documents they were doing nothing of the sort."

"Perhaps they were."

One Edwards charged three days' instructions at Deseronto, then he went to Belleville for another instruction and charged $5 railway fare, when the price was $1.35.

Mr. Hurley could not explain this, but said the enumerators had a great deal of expenses.

"Then it comes to this," said Mr. Northrup, "that because you thought these enumerators were not getting money enough out of the Government you allowed him to charge $5 for a ticket from Deseronto to Belleville."

Mr. Northrup pointed out that Mr. Hurley had charged for 90 days, whilst his own bill including every day in which he claimed to do anything, proved that he had only worked on 49 days.

This is "business is business" with a vengeance! Who would have believed it? We forbear comment until the official report is before us. Truly politics, as practised by Grits, is demoralizing.

This weather is plenty

HOT ENOUOH

for a dish of good Ice Cream, and that is just what you get here. Everyone says so, our Ice Cream always has that "more'sh" taste—the more you eat the more you want—and then you know we serve the popular

FOR

ICE CREAM

Sandys. Choice of 15 flavors, at 5c a dish

J. ARTHUR MARSH.

TIMELY TOPICS

It is apparent from what he writes that the Chief is having the time of his life. Good luck to him.

* * *

A Yankee paper publishes a story to the effect that somebody stole the "Fisherman's ring" from the hand of the late Pope after he died. The ring should have been destroyed, and its disappearance, the story says, has caused a tremendous sensation in the Vatican.

* * *

"A Citizen" writes asking if the City Council intends to do anything in the matter of the local gas works, and says: "When the contract for lighting the streets was given to the Trenton Electric Company the Council, in my opinion, deliberately threw away Gas stock worth $25,000. That is all past now, but before the time for the sale of the Gas works expires I think the Mayor should call a public meeting and find out the views of the citizens as to the city's acquiring the works by purchase. Under no circumstances should the works be allowed to fall into the hands of a monopoly." Perhaps our correspondent may receive an answer to his question at the Council meeting to-night.

* * *

It is reported that the sea serpent has been seen in White Lake, about eight miles from Tweed. There's a chance for Mr. Hurley to go out and see it and boost his "travelling expenses."

* * *

A lot of places in Ontario are holding "Old Boys' Reunions" and giving all sorts of inducements to get their former residents to go back and visit them for a few days. Some of the reunions have proved fairly successful, while others have been "frosts." We feel sorry for those places which have to get up carnivals and things to get their boys to come home again. Belleville doesn't. Our old boys come home every summer; in fact, you couldn't keep them away with a shotgun. They know where the prettiest town and the best boating and the nicest girls are to be found. So, while we welcome home the Belleville old boys we extend our sympathies to places like Kingston and Peterboro, which have to get up bun fights and things to get their old boys to go back and suffer for a day or two in their midst.

* * *

King Edward seems to be the kind of a man who should be popular in Ireland, or anywhere else, judging by the following, from the New York Herald's London correspondent: "King Edward yesterday paid Dublin's slums a visit which will long be remembered. Refusing to be bound by the official programme, he went from one tenement to another, talking to humble dwellers and manifesting real interest in their welfare. As he walked through the streets, hat in hand, the enthusiasm of the people knew no bounds. As the King was leaving St. Patrick's Cathedral, an old woman struggled through the crowd, and reaching forth her right hand endeavored to get close to the King. Officials were about to push her away, when His Majesty interposed, saying: "Leave her alone, God bless her." With a fervent "God bless Your Majesty," the old woman saluted the King, who shook her hand warmly. In the course of his round, the King called on a man who had been out of work eight months and gave him a five pound note."

* * *

The Rockefeller family fortune has shrunk $100,000,000 by the recent slump in securities. This will be serious news to users of kerosene oil.

* * *

That Yankee mob, which stamped the life out of a negro, was pretty bad, but what shall we say of the Russian mob, which burned 33 women to death! The Russians and Yanks should get together and preach sermons to each other.

* * *

Mr. Robinette, a Toronto lawyer, and a good one, too, by the way, says that the Ontario License Act is invalid. His contention is: "That under the B. N. A. Act the Province of Ontario could not enact the Ontario Liquor License Act, particularly in so far as it imposes penalties and imprisonment in default for second offences and third offences, because by the provisions of the B. N. A. Act all matters of a criminal nature are reserved for the jurisdiction of the Parliament of Canada. The same point was taken in regard to the Lord's Day Act, recently before the Privy Council, when it was decided that the whole Ontario Act was invalid, being not within the jurisdiction of the province, but within that of the Dominion under the provisions of the B. N. A. Act, which left all matters of a criminal nature to the jurisdiction of the Parliament of Canada."

* * *

It would not be surprising if Mr. Robinette's contention were supported by the courts. Perhaps it may become necessary, says the independent Woodstock Express, to appoint a Royal Commission to ascertain which of the laws of the province are good and which are worthless—worthless, we mean in the legal sense; it would require no Royal Commission to pick out lots of them which are worthless in the ordinary sense.

A VACATION COAT.

Don't go away on your holidays without taking your rain-proof coat. You know they answer the purpose of both a waterproof and light overcoat. You can get just what you need at the Oak Hall, $5 to $15. The weather is very changeable and it would not be wise to go away without just such a coat.

An English Major Stranded.

Toronto, July 27.—With a wife and four children depending upon him for sustenance, Major D. Clark, who held a commission in the British army during the Boer war, is looking eagerly for means of livelihood in Toronto. With his family he arrived in the city last week, and at once tried to secure employment at the immigration office as an agricultural laborer, but his slender physique showed the officer in charge that he was totally unfitted for severe manual labor. Both Major and Mrs. Clark have visited the Board of Trade, the Manufacturer's Association, and other leading organizations in the hope of securing a clerical position which will enable the major to support his family.

A New Treatment For Cancer

A CONSTITUTIONAL REMEDY WHICH HAS SUPERSEDED OPERATIONS.

The old methods of treating cancer by means of the knife or by pastes and plasters, while cruel and painful in the extreme, by no means effected a cure, as they only removed the surface indications of the disease and did not reach the cancer germs in the blood.

The new constitutional treatment does away with the pain and danger of operations, and while pleasant to take and harmless to the most delicate system, it is most prompt and effectual in destroying every cancer germ and clearing away every trace of cancer poison from the system. Send two stamps to B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., for full particulars.

Suspended Sentence for Keegan.

Dennis Keegan, who was convicted of stealing a sum of money from James Ragan, was this morning brought up before the Magistrate for sentence. Considering the fact that he has a wife and a number of small children, a suspended sentence of six months in the Central Prison was imposed. He has also to pay to Ragan $5 and $5 costs, this to be paid within 30 days.

SURE CURE FOR SEA SICKNESS, NAUSEA.

Maladies of this type yield instantly to Polson's Nerviline, and if you suffer periodically from these complaints, just keep Nerviline at hand. A few drops in sweetened water gives instant relief, and in the course of half an hour the cure is complete. A large 25c bottle of Nerviline in the house will save doctor bills and a vast amount of suffering every year.

MOTHER GOOSE JINGLES.

Modernized So as to Meet the Popular Demand.

"The jingles of good old Mother Goose, which have gladdened the hearts of children through many generations, perhaps will live as long as the race endures, in themselves an unalterable if absurd literature," said the untamed poet. "Yet if they must remain unalterable in form why should they not be modified in spirit so far as to meet modern conditions? I contend that they should be, and with this idea in view the following simple substitutes"—

The untamed poet left his sentence unfinished, and, his eye in a fine frenzy rolling, read as follows:

Little Bo Peep had lost her sheep
One day while feeling woozy.
"By their soot I will trace their hiding place,
For they're Pittsburg sheep," said Boozie.

Hey, diddle, diddle, the cat and the fiddle!
The cow jumped over the moon.
"I'm middling high," said she, "but, my,
Just wait till I'm beefsteaks soon!"

Ride a 'mobile to hear people squeal
At fifty miles per hour;
Then swear in a court, for the people's sport,
That the limit was twelve miles power.

Simple Simon met a pieman
Yelling his wares in town.
Said Simple Simon: "You're a guy, man.
Go way back and sit down."
Said the pieman to Simple Simon,
"You are a saucy elf!"
The pieman's hand was heavy, and
Si can't sit down himself.

Mary had a little lamb,
With mint sauce on the side.
They brought the bill to Mary.
"Good Lord!" she said and died.

Rockaby, baby, your cradle is green;
You in the park shall be frequently seen
To roll and to romp with the kids of your class
And hear the policemen yell, "Off of der grass!"

—Alfred J. Waterhouse in New York Times.

All For the Best.

"Yes," said Mr. Cumrox, "my daughter's commencement essay was very fine."

"Did you enjoy it?"

"I should say so. I wish I could write something like it."

"You regret not having applied yourself to literary pursuits?"

"No. If I had I probably couldn't have afforded to give Ethelinda the education which enabled her to produce this masterpiece."—Washington Star.

Accurate to the Letter.

"Understand you had a fight with Jones. How was it?"

"Oh, it wasn't much of a fight. Jones blustered around and threatened to thrash me. I dared the coward to lay a hand on me, and he didn't take the dare. It wasn't much of a scrap."

"Why, two or three persons told me he kicked you into the gutter."

"Well, that wasn't laying a hand on me, was it?"—Kansas City Journal.

Thomas Was Right.

Teacher—Now, Thomas, if I gave you five rabbits and then took back two how many rabbits would you have left?

Thomas—Four, please, teacher.

Teacher—Nonsense! How do you make that out?

Thomas—Please, teacher, 'cos I've got another rabbit at home.—Boston Globe.

All Out.

"I was looking for you and your automobile yesterday on the speedway, but you weren't out, were you?"

"Huh!" I was out three different ways. First I was out in it, then I was out of it, and when it finally struck a tree and blew up I was out on it about $600."—Public Ledger.

More to Come.

"I'm sorry I brought you to the shore at all," exclaimed her mother. "The idea of your being engaged to two young men. It's shameful!"

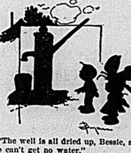
"Oh, I don't know, ma," protested the summer girl. "Give me time; I've only been here three days."—Philadelphia Press.

A Proud Parent.

"How is Josh doing at school?"

"Splendid," answered Farmer Corntossel. "He's been hazed, played football and joined two college societies, and ain't been to the hospital once."—Washington Star.

Easily Pleased.



"The well is all dried up, Bessie, and we can't get no water."

"Never mind, Georgie. I'd just as lief have lemonade."—New York Evening Journal.

Had a Record.

Wigg—That was a pretty old joke Borem cracked at dinner.

Wagg—Borem didn't crack it. That joke has been cracked for years.—Philadelphia Record.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

SUNLIGHT SOAP is made of pure fats and oils and contains no dangerous ingredient. It is pure soap that gives absolute satisfaction. 118

THE WEATHER.

To-day's Probs—

Light to moderate winds, northerly at first, becoming variable, fine and comparatively cool.

To-day's Temperature

As Registered by The Intelligencer's Guaranteed Thermometer:

8 a.m.	62
12 m.	72
2 p.m.	79
3 p.m.	80

As a place where the wearied can rest and recuperate with happiest surroundings the MAGI Caledonia Springs is unique.

We Have the Sellers

Ladies' Sterling Silver French-Grey Hat-Pins. In these we show a variety of designs, all new, 35c to 75c.

Ladies' Sterling Silver Enamelled and French-Grey Belt-Pins. These are the very newest on the market and must be seen to be appreciated. Prices 75c to $3.50.

Ladies' Bead Guards. These are immensely popular at present in the American cities, and are certainly an improvement to any summer dress. We show some beauties in the Roman-Filled Pearls, in both long guards and short necklaces, In the Corals the long guards are 75c to $1.50 and the short necklaces 50c and $1.00

Angus McFee.
Jeweler & Optician
310 Front St.
The Store with the Big Clock.

CAMP COMFORTS

Mosquito-Scat for Mosquitos, etc., 15c a bottle.

Witch Hazel Cream for Sunburn, etc., 25c a bottle

Bathing Caps for ladies, 50c.

WATERS'

Curse —OF— DRINK

CURED BY

COLONIAL REMEDY

No taste. No Odor. Can be given in a glass of water tea, or coffee, without patient's knowledge.

Colonial Remedy will cure or destroy the diseased appetite for alcoholic stimulants, whether the patient is a confirmed inebriate, "tippler," social drinker or drunkard. Impossible for anyone to have an appetite or alcoholic liquors after using Colonial Remedy.

Indorsed by Members of the W.C.T.U.

Mrs. Moore, Superintendent of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Ventura, Cal., writes: "I have tested Colonial Remedy on very obstinate drunkards, and the cures have been many. In many cases the Remedy was given secretly. I cheerfully recommend and endorse Colonial Remedy. Members of our Union are delighted to find a practical and economical treatment to aid us in our temperance work."

Sold by druggists everywhere and by mail.

Price $1. Trial package free by writing or calling on Mrs. M. A. Cowan (for years member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union), 2204 St. Catherine St., Montreal.

Sold in Belleville by F. Chas. Clarke Front St and D. M. Waters, Bridge St

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R., C.S., England.
Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. J. F. MATHER
Has removed his office to Pinnacle St., three doors north of Hotel Quinte.
my29-6mw

DENTAL.

Dr. Clarke has removed to the offices formerly occupied by the late Dr. Ward, over Burrows', and opposite Scantlebury's Book Store.
a27dtf

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—2 Campbell Street.
MALCOLM WRIGHT. J. FRANKLIN WILLS.
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for the City of Belleville.
Office—Metropolitan Block, Corner Front and Campbell Streets.

PORTER & CARNEW,
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices — Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 87.
E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Office, Bridge Street, Belleville.
Money to Loan — Private Funds, Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, Etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 5 per cent., on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire Insurance.

Guardian . .	Est'd 1821
The North America,	Est'd 1792
Quebec, . . .	Est'd 1818

City, Town and Village Property insure at lowest rates.
R. W. ADAMS. Agent.
Office opposite Post Office.

THOS. STEWART,
Insurance and Commission Agent.
Agent for the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Scottish Union National Insurance Co..
BRIDGE, ST.

FIRE, LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE
At Lowest Rates The Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Perth Mutual on farm and city property. Also mone to loan at 4½ per cent. upwards.
JAMES A. CHISHOLM,
Office Ashley Block, - Front st., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned
can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at lower rate than other stock companies Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance.
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont,
Lloyd's Plate Glass,
Home Life Association, Toronto,
North British & Mercantile,
Farm and City Property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation, and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan & Investment Society. Money to Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, Office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., opposite Postoffice and Hotel Quinte, Belleville,
'Phone 162.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. G. NORTHRUP.
Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Shire Hall, Belleville, Ont.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the Post Office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St.
Appointments made.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

A man is generally at his heaviest in his fortieth year.

This Summer Sale

Of ours includes all fancy goods in our store at a reduction of 40 per cent. from lower prices than you can find the same goods elsewhere.

IT MEANS

$1.00 worth for 60c of any of our China, Bisque, Art Pottery, Candle Shades, Brass Tables, etc.

IT MEANS

25 per cent. off all our Wrist Bags and Chatalaines.

IT MEANS

30 per cent. off of all our framed pictures. And while we are speaking of pictures, allow us to mention a large and beautiful line of photogravieurs just placed in stock and on our bargain tables.

We mean to keep this store most interesting for the summer months, interesting in values as well as in new goods, a bright, down-to-date, summer shopping store for citizens and strangers.

In Wall Papers, also, we are offering some exceptional values, a number of clear outs. You can have at half price if they fit your room, and if you wish that wehang these papers you may depend upon us for low prices, prompt work and best workmanship.

Whether Painting, Graining, Kalsomining, Paperhanging or superior Decorating, you better have this firm do it. We are responsible and we will please you in every way.

Our Picture Framing Department is ever on the boom.

We keep a large staff busy all the time in this department and there are good reasons why we do—

Good workmanship.

Good materials.

Promptness and low prices.

These are the abundant reasons.

C. B. Scantlebury

Belleville's Decorator.

Wall Paper Wholesale and Retail.

FAST MAIL SERVICE
Bay of Quinte Route
TO
ROCHESTER N. Y.
Strs. "North King" and "Caspian"
Taking Effect 27th June.

GOING DAILY (EXCEPT MONDAY)
Lv. Belleville .... 11.33 p. m.
Ar. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 6.43 a. m
RETURNING DAILY (Except Sunday)
Lv. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 8.30 p. m.
Ar. Belleville .... 3.25 a. m.
Baggage checked to all points. Connection with all railways.

$1.00 THOUSAND ISLANDS $1.00
AND RETURN.

Commencing 28th June. Steamer leaves Belleville at 3 25 a.m. daily except Monday for 1000 Islands, calling at Bay of Quinte ports, Kingston, Alexandria Bay and Gananoque. Passing through American and Canadian channels.

Right reserved to change time with or without notice.

Full information from
THE RATHBUN CO., } Agents.
U. E. THOMPSON, }
E. E. HORSEY, G. P. & F. Agent, Kingston.

Str. "Alexandria"
Montreal, Rochester & Quebec Transit Co'y.
Popular Quebec Excursions
NOW ON.

Belleville to Quebec and return.. $18 00
Belleville to Montreal and return $12.00
(including meals and berth)
Steamer runs all rapids.

For Rochester, Olcott Beach, Niagara Falls and Buffalo every Saturday at 11 a.m.

Particulars from
A. W. HEPBURN, General Manager, Picton, Ont.
THE RATHBUN CO. Agents, Belleville.

The Deseronto Navigation Co
TIME TABLE.
Taking effect April 13, 1903.
Belleville, Trenton, Picton & Napanee
Str. "ELLA ROSS"

Leaves Belleville for Trenton at 10 a. m., daily, Sundays Excepted, returning leaves Trenton at 1 p. m., leaving Belleville at 3 p.m. for Deseronto, Napanee and Picton.

Quick and Superior Service to NEW YORK CITY

Steamers RESOLUTE and RELIANCE will leave Deseronto for Oswego after arrival of Str. Ella Ross connecting at Oswego with the New York, Ontario Western Ry.

Fare to New York, Single, $8.40
Return, $13.25

For further particulars apply to THE RATHBUN CO., Local Agents
J. F. CHAPMAN, Asst. Gen. Frt. Pass. Agt., Deseronto
R. C. Carter, General Manager, Deseronto.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

New train 12.45 a.m., daily, except Sunday, for Brockville, Montreal and intermediate stations.
No. 16—Local, for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 2—1.45 a.m., Mail and Express, (Flyer), Daily.
No. 6—11.43 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.22 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 12—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5—3 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily except Monday.
No. 3—4.10 a.m., Limited Express, Daily.
No. 9—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 11—11.22 a.m., Passenger, Daily except Sunday.
No. 1—1.48 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7—5.12 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
Taking effect 12.01 o'clock, Sunday, June 14, 1903.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	9.10 a.m.	7.30 a.m.
Mixed	5.08 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines, or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

"Instructions from whom?" demanded the lawyer, sharply.

"That question concerns me and not you," responded the old man, with a suspicion of warmth in his tone. "But to save words, I will say that my instructions were to accompany you down here once each year, on New Year's Day, until I received orders to the contrary; but under no circumstances to allow any one in here alone, or, in fact to allow anybody in here except yourself, at the time and in the manner I have stated."

Anthony Saybrook was too shrewd to pick a quarrel with the old man under the circumstances. He was surprised and annoyed that Claude should have left any such instructions, but a moment's reflection convinced him that it did not necessarily imply any suspicion of himself, but might have been the result of extra care in so instructing old Carl that he would guard well the vault.

"Well, well, Mr. Crum, we will not quarrel over the matter," he made haste to reply. "Please hand me your lantern a moment, and I will more carefully perform my duty of inspection."

The old man handed him the lantern, and he critically examined the vault again, and, in doing it, managed to so throw the light as to allow it to penetrate the recesses of the old cellar. But the furtive glimpses of dark recesses in the heavy stone wall, and of the steps in the outer wall, afforded him only so much satisfaction as to increase his curiosity. In a far corner, he saw what seemed to be several heavy chests piled one upon another. He would have given a good round sum to have stayed and critically examined the old cellar, but Carl's eyes were fixed on him with a steady and observing gaze, so he suppressed his curiosity, and handing back the lantern, followed his guide up to the great hall again. Here he took a prompt leave, and was on his way home again.

"The old watch dog," he muttered, as he strode along, "he was suspicious of me as if he knew my secret resolves. My first step must be to get him out of the house. Ah, if events only favor me, there will be no trouble. I fancy, however, that I can manage the matter. Let me think—let me think."

And so, planning and gloating over his anticipated triumph, Anthony Saybrook soon reached home.

CHAPTER XI.

Old Farmer Bruyn returned home rather late one evening from the village, some ten weeks after Claude's departure for Europe, and entered the family room, with its blueish whitewashed walls and sanded floor, where his wife and daughter Rosa were sitting beside a stand busily sewing and knitting.

A cloud was on his brow. His square-cut, heavy face, with its natural expression of obstinacy and self-will, appeared sterner than was its wont, and his countenance more flushed than usual. Truth to tell, he had spent a portion of the evening in Lawyer Saybrook's office, and that worthy had produced a bottle of old wine, and, on his way home, he had stopped at Ronk's Tavern, and a brimming glass of hot punch had added to the fever in his blood and brain. It was not the custom of the old farmer to indulge very freely in strong drink; but indulgence was the habit of the times, and he had found himself unable to refuse the hospitality of his friend the lawyer. On his way home he had stopped at Ronk's Tavern, which was also the post-office of the little place. A letter was handed him, with a European postmark, and directed to Rosa, in his care. He studied the superscription intently, and a cloud gathered on his brow. After a time he called for a glass of punch, and tossing it off, left the tavern and bent his steps homeward.

Mrs. Bruyn had gazed up mildly through her heavy silver-bowed spectacles as her husband entered. She saw at once that something had disquieted him, and, with womanly tact, bade Rosa at once to bring his slippers, while she opened the door of a little closet, set in the wall almost out of her reach, and produced his tobacco pouch and pipe, and placed them beside him on the table near which he took his seat.

A pleasant, mild-faced woman was Mrs. Bruyn. It was easy to see where Rosa had got her clear complexion, her liquid blue eyes and her soft brown hair. A round, full face, small and regular features, and an expression of patient cheerfulness characterized the countenance of the good dame; and, withal, it was evident that she was a woman of more than usual intelligence and refinement. How, then, could she have ever married the rough, rather coarse, domineering old farmer? Ah, such mysteries are among the commonest of human life, and it is as well to ask why flowers will bloom and vines trail over the roughest and most uncouth rocks.

Farmer Bruyn filled and lit his pipe, and drew his chair up to the blazing log fire, and puffed away without apparently reaching a much more peaceful frame of mind. Rosa, after a time, lighted a candle, kissed her parents good-night, and retired to bed. After she had been gone some few minutes the farmer drew the letter from his pocket, and, turning to his wife, handed it to her.

She took it, studied the outside for a few moments through her spectacles, and then said:

"Why, it must be from Claude."

"Yes," replied the old man, his face growing perceptibly redder, "the villain—to write to her without my consent!—yes, without even ever having so much as spoken to me about her. Huh! he'd carry things with a high hand. He's a bold one—a high-headed one. He'll ruin my daughter, eh?—the spendthrift, the rake, the vagabond! Well, we'll see. He'll find I know how to measure such worthless rogues as he is, aye, and to match them, too."

Mrs. Bruyn did not immediately reply. Her cheerful face grew pale and quiet, and she seemed to be thinking deeply. Finally she said as she handed back the epistle:

"The letter is directed in your care, husband. Surely, there is nothing so wrong in that; he evidently did not intend to evade your knowing of his writing. Besides, you know he has been brought up as a neighbor's son, and he and Rosa played together as children."

"The more reason that he should treat me with the respect due me," answered the farmer, puffing fiercely on his pipe. "I once had a notion for the lad; but—no—what's bred in the bone will come out in the flesh. He's gone to the wrong, and his pride will carry him to the devil all the sooner because he's had a fine property left him to waste. I've heard enough of his recklessness and his boasts of how he would run wild once he got out in the world. But isn't it enough for him to scatter and riot without breaking our innocent girl's heart? No, no—the scamp; I'll match him. Look ye, wife, she must never hear of this letter. I'm afraid that she's only too fond of him now. There must be no more of it. It's gone too far. Now he's away, and scattering his wild oats, let's have an end of it. It's easy now to nip the thing in the bud. There!"

With this exclamation he gave the offending letter a toss among the flames of the great, crackling fire, where it blazed up a moment, then twisted and curled, red and glowing, the superscription standing out with luminous distinctness for a minute, showing Claude's bold and neat chirography, and then it faded, and the fiery folds of the fated epistle grew dark, then white and feathery, and were whirled up the chimney or found a resting place among the chinks of the logs.

"That settles the matter," he muttered. "So I'll treat any more of them, if he has the impudence to send them. 'Tis the best way. The girl will soon forget him, and we must see to it that her next beau is steady and worthy."

Mrs. Bruyn did not reply at once. She sat still and apparently somewhat stupefied by her husband's hasty action. Long habit had accustomed her never to oppose or even criticize his whims; but now, as she slowly took in the situation, her face flushed slightly, and after a moment she said:

"It seems to me that it would be better not to attempt to conceal anything from Rosa, but to treat her as if we had confidence in her and could trust her. I feel certain that she would never be disposed to oppose our wishes in any way; but our deception, if she should ever discover it, might be the means of hardening her feelings towards us. Besides, I am disposed to think that you judge of Claude harshly. He has been unwise, no doubt, but I do not believe he would do anything wicked or criminal. We should not believe every bit of idle gossip we hear about him."

Farmer Bruyn raised his eyebrows slightly, and gazed at his wife a moment with the faintest suspicion of surprise in his countenance. Then he said doggedly:

"My mind is made up. That boy is cut out for a rascal and I know it. In two years from now he will have wasted every cent of his property, and be nothing but an idle, penniless vagabond. But he's just got the face and tongue to impose upon women; and you're no more to be trusted than Rosa to see him as he is. That girl has just got her head turned about him; I can see it plain enough; and if he's allowed to write to her she will soon be beyond cure. No, no; it won't do to play with this matter. Just let us burn the letters, and say nothing about it, and in a year he will have forgot all about her and she about him; and so there'll be an end of it. If he'd stayed at home, taken care of his property, and tried to make a man of himself, 'twould have been different. But I always had a suspicion of him. I knew he was cut out for a scapegrace. Already he's tied up every inch of his land, and, as soon as his money is gone, he's a beggar. I won't have him trifling with Rosa. Let that be the end of it. The least said the soonest mended."

With this wise saw by way of conclusion, Farmer Bruyn placed his pipe back in his mouth, closed his lips over it, and began puffing in a way that said as plainly as words that the discussion was through as far as he was concerned, and that nothing could change his mind.

Mrs. Bruyn saw that further argument would be wasted upon him in his present state of mind, so she remained still, though a gentle sigh told of the unquiet of her breast, and her brows knitted as though she were deeply considering the matter in all its bearings.

CHAPTER XII.

It is not to be supposed that the designing lawyer, into whose hands Claude Rolff had practically placed his fortunes, was at all remiss in keeping his client informed of events from his own point of view. In fact, he conducted an industrious correspondence. The mail service of the time was not very regular or frequent, but it was for that reason all the better adapted to the peculiar game of hazards that the unworthy member of an honorable and useful profession had resolved to play.

The first object Mr. Saybrook had in view from his correspondence was to secure the removal of old Carl Crum from the guardianship of Rolff House. For this purpose, he spent some days in constructing a letter so flattering to the young student of art, and so artfully designed to augment the confidence already posed in him as guardian and adviser, that he had no doubt of its success.

Several weeks elapsed before he received a reply, but when it came he was more than delighted with the result. The letter was as follows:

Venice, Feb. 18, 1

My Dear Mr. Saybrook: Yours of the 3d of last month was duly received. I must express my satisfaction at the promptness with which you have satisfied my curiosity in a matter that necessarily caused me considerable anxiety. I begin to be a thorough convert to your theory of my aunt's last instructions. Perhaps my interests as well as my judgment incline me to the opinion; for I must confess that after a short experience in this pleasant old Italian city, in the pursuit of my chosen art, I would view with particular distaste any developments that would call for my early return to my native country. I trust I am too patriotic to ever think of adjuring or depreciating my native land; yet I must confess that Europe is the only place for the young artist, and I fear that I must either abandon the study of art or else spend several years here.

It gives me great pleasure to know that you so thoroughly approve of my object in coming here. To be sure, not even your opposition could have induced me to abandon my darling ambition; but how much more pleasant is it to me to know that I am acting in full accord with the judgment of the only adviser my aunt recommended to me before her death.

Your statement as to your reception by Carl Crum has caused me considerable anxiety of mind. I must confess that the faithful old fellow was simply following my instructions. But I can easily understand how his very faithfulness to what he deems my interest might have led him to assume an impudent and even overbearing demeanor toward you. I cannot blame him, and yet I feel rather chagrined over the result. However, nothing has been done that cannot be remedied. There is no particular reason that Crum should remain in the house, providing it is displeasing to you. I certainly do not wish you to think that I have any lack of confidence in you. I have written to him, directing him to remove from Rolff House to the tenant house at the ferry, and hereafter to devote his entire attention to the ferry. I authorize you to select some suitable man to take his place in charge of Rolff House—somebody who will be both careful and trustworthy. Of course, I desire old Margaret to remain, and to be treated with all possible kindness and consideration.

I perused your suggestions in regard to my social conduct with considerable amusement if not edification. But I fear I shall not have much time to devote to general society, notwithstanding your opinion as to the advantage it would be to me in advancing me in taste and refinement. Moreover, you should be aware that I have already set my affections on a most "exacting mistress," and that I worship her above and before all else. She is the constant object of my thoughts, my daily companion, my divinity, in the presence of whom all other earthly devotion pales. What! and shall I seek other shrines of devotion, or admit rivals into my affections? No, no; I have sworn a devotion so complete that it is not permitted me even to place myself in the way of temptation of being led astray from the pledged object of my worship. Your advice may be good; but for once I shall risk going contrary to your suggestions, and, instead of becoming a gay Lothario of society, shall rather choose to be an exclusive and romantic Romeo, with no thought save for the one Juliet of my heart.

The fear of war between America and the Mother Country has not troubled me much. In case it breaks out, I fear I shall be but a recreant son of Columbia. Could I be assured of the certainty of hostilities, I would start at once for home, ready to sacrifice my ambition on the altar of my country's service. But it seems to me that the probability of matters coming to such a crisis is too remote to call for any preparation for it. I am glad to know that you consider a war very doubtful. It would be very unfortunate for me to be cut off from all communication with my native land and home. I can only earnestly hope that the cloud will pass away; and I am inclined to think with you that it has so long appeared threatening without breaking into a storm, that the chances are that it will pass quietly over.

At a later date, I may write you more fully concerning personal matters, and my welfare and progress. At present, it is enough to say that I am fully satisfied as to the propriety of the step I have taken, and deeply grateful to you for your needed assistance in the matter. I am already making progress, I trust, and allow no moment to go entirely to waste.

With great respect, yours most sincerely,
CLAUDE ROLFF.

This letter gave Mr. Saybrook the liveliest satisfaction. Yet, with his usual caution, he considered it from every point of view. But he could find in it nothing to awake suspicion. In fact, it seemed to him that Claude had unwittingly played into his hand in a manner that he had had no reason to expect. He was quick to see several points in the letter that might prove of the highest advantage in the furtherance of his plans. The order removing old Carl from Rolff House was particularly pleasing to him. It opened the way for his plans in a most acceptable manner. He was chafing and fretting under the enforced delay in his schemes, but here was a chance offered him for an important step, and he determined to take advantage of it.

CHAPTER XIII.

From his correspondence with Claude, Anthony Saybrook was enabled to draw two conclusions: first, that the young man's confidence in him remained unshaken; and, second, that under no probable circumstances was he likely to contemplate a speedy return to his native land.

This result of his diplomatic letter was very gratifying to him, and cleared the way for the progress of his plans in a manner that was highly encouraging. As usual with him, he flattered himself that it was all due to his own shrewd management, and his confidence in his ability to consummate his elaborate plots was greatly increased.

He foresaw that Claude, in any event, in view of his resolution to remain in Europe, would soon require the raising of new funds, and whether events so favored him or not as to lead to the adoption of his bold and dangerous game to come into possession of Rolff House, he had no doubt that he could so entangle and manage the young man as to assure ultimate success to his schemes even though no war broke out

(To be continued.)

AT DEATH'S DOOR
CONQUERED.—A TRIUMPH.—Gentle adviser and other not possibly to use North able Discovery case was one
For three yea and my weigh 119 lbs. All teen months Vegetable milk. I am have regained eat anything feel like a n over thirty do since it cured and people in low I was, a possibly be c to try this gr tainly saved my pected to recover
menced using it.
ating anything, able to contribu and trust it may vincing others
tain cure for D
Signed
Wotton, P.Q.

The best way get.

FOR INFLA EYES.—Among ties which Parmel possess, besides re
tive organs, is their ing inflammation
It has called forth recommendation from afflicted with this found a cure in the fect the nerve centr is a surprisingly result is almost

Much talk,

If you have a neglect it; many wi that hereditary dis into a consumptive's lecting what was only a
Had they used Bickle's Anti-C tive Syrup before it was t their lives would have bee
Mr. A. W. Levy, Mitchell, w think Bickle's Anti-Consump cup the best preparation on the ket for coughs and severe colds.
out six years ago I caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs, and for three months I had a cough. had a physician attend gradually grew worse
the verge of Consumpt given up hope of bein
I was induced to try Bi
Before I had taken ch found myself greatly relie
the time I had finished bottle I was completely ways recommend it for and consumption."

It takes money to voice of a lawyer.

No one knows better than have used Carter's Little what relief they have give en for dyspepsia, dizziness side, constipation, and di mach.

A long portage
canoe.

Do not despair of headache when you
tain Carter's Little Liver Pil will effect a prompt and per cure. Their action is mild

All trails are long to the

THEY DROVE PIMPLES
A face covered with pimpl sightly. It tells of intern arities which should long been corrected. The liver kidneys are not perfor
functions in the healthy should, and these pimple
you know that the bl
Parmelee's Vegetable them all away, and w clear and clean. T will be another wit
cellence.

Coral is a ta der and evils

HAD LA GI son, farmer, Du winter I had La me with a severe p of my back and hi catch me whenever a fence. This last months, when I bou
Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil
both internally and exter ing and evening, for three the expiration of which tim completely cured."

Many a man's self-conceit
his ignorance.

Their gentle action and goo on the system really make th perfect little pill. They who use them. Carter's Litle
Pills may well be termed 'Perf

The average watch represent 12 hours of human labor.

Very many persons di from cholera and kindred s complaints, who might have be ed if proper remedies had bee
If attacked do not delay in g bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's tery Cordial, the medicine t fails to effect a cure. Th have used it say it acts p and thoroughly, subdues the disease.

When one gets hopping m son goes on a crutch.

Use the safe, pleasant, an tual worm killer, Mother
Worm Exterminator; nothi
it. Procure a bottle and home,

The wildcat's teeth are purr.

Holloway's Corn Cure is cine to remove all kinds of warts, and only costs the of twenty-five cents.

ily
and n to Sar-ver Co.
Mass.

nee) some black, or avy black ds, khaki,
ics in use
breeches,
coats and

Bank of Mon
ESTABLISHE
Capital and Res
$23,000
(Twenty-three M
0,0
000,0
$6,000,000
10,000
Savings Bank Departm
Interest on sums of $1.00 and u allowed at current rate
A. G. PA

OTATIONS
ELLIGENCER BY ROKER.
w York, July 27.

L'st	Close.
62⅛	64⅜
87⅜	89
138⅞	141⅞
96⅛	97¾
73⅜	75⅝
121	123⅜
40¾	43
21	23⅜
128⅜	131⅜
20	21⅜
24¾	26⅜
81	82¾
118	120½
120⅛	122⅜
50	53
94	95
27¼	29¾
66	67⅞
46⅝	49⅜
31	31⅜
21⅞	22⅜
131	133
16⅛	16⅛
102	104
	32¾
	62
	44⅞
	94⅜
	40⅝
	115⅜
	18

NY WEATHER NEEDS.

What a lot of weather we are having, very hot, then rainy and cold. Whether the weater is clear or whether the weather is cloudy, the fact remairs that we have waterprof coats in plenty, guaranteed to keep out the wet.

A Few Specials

We have just received a few specials that should be of interest to you. There are so many very low priced, useless coats on the market that these extra t moderate prices will surely prove fast sellers. Two lines, one dark medium, pure rainproof, velvet collar, raglan pocket and cuffs, coats o sell at $7.50. OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY $5.00.

A FEW BETTER

Then we have some extra good ones at $7, $8 and $10, coats that you would have to pay much for in other stores. If you are thinking of a proof coat, come in and take a look around.

OAK HALL

Sole Agents for Sanfords Celebrated Clothing.

Clean Sweep
—Sale—

In Ladies' Patent Kid
Patent Colt Skin Shoes.

ce of season's goods to be cleared before our rivals.

per cent. off the regular prices.

Laced, French Heels, $5.00, now	$3.75
irs Laced Style. $4.00, now	$3.00
irs Laced Style, $3 50 now	$2.60
irs Laced Style, $3.00, now	$2.25
s Patent Oxfords $3.00, now	$2.25
irs Fine Kid Oxfords, $2.00, now	$1.50

Bell's, McPherson's and "Empress."

ee our Display in North Window.

J. J. Haines

E HOUSES at Belleville, Napanee and Trenton

LLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Giant Mica Crystals.

The peninsula of India is famous for the excellence of its mica deposits. On account of its delicacy mica quickly suffers from the crushing effects of earth movements, and the superiority of the Indian deposits is ascribed to the geologically long and perfect quiescence that the great peninsula has enjoyed. In the Nellore district crystals, or "books," of muscovite mica have been obtained measuring ten feet across the basal planes. Usually they are much smaller, and even in India the stability of the earth has not been sufficiently continuous to prevent the destruction of large quantities of this delicate and valuable mineral.

Bryn Mawr's New Librarian.

Announcement is made of the appointment to the librarianship of Bryn Mawr college of Miss Isadore Gilbert Mudge of Brooklyn. Miss Mudge took the degree of Ph. B. at Cornell university in 1897 and that of B. L. S. from the New York State Library school in 1900. She has since been reference librarian and assistant professor of library economy at the University of Illinois. Miss Mudge succeeds Miss Isabel Ely Lord, for six years librarian of the college, who resigns the post to enter public library work.

"Bismarck's Right Hand."

Robert von Keudell, who recently died, aged nearly eighty, used to be called "Bismarck's right hand," and he was wont to say that he and Bucher were the busiest men in the department of the exterior. He was noted for his musical talent and often played for Bismarck. His memory was so good that he could play the piano for hours without notes. While he was ambassador at Rome his house was the rendezvous of the artistic world.

Goats.

The United States is almost a goatless country compared with others, and the importations of goatskins, young and old, aggregate $35,000,000 a year, which represents the slaughter of 17,000,000 goats and kids. Germany has 3,000,000 head, Spain 5,000,000, Austria 2,000,000 and France, Bulgaria and Italy about 1,500,000 each. In Turkey there are six goats for each person, the goat being the most important source of income.

Iron In Shipbuilding.

It is stated that iron is gradually displacing steel for shipbuilding purposes in England. The prices of iron plates are quoted as $1.22 a ton dearer than steel. Experience has shown that iron is less subject to corrosion from the action of salt water and the atmosphere than steel, and consequently the life of an iron ship is longer than that of a steel ship. Manufacturers are trying to produce lighter iron of greater tensile strength.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Wasn't last Saturday night a fierce one for sleeping? We don't wonder that it scared some people into going to church yesterday morning.

• • •

Rumor has it that Mr. Croker, late boss of Tammany Hall, has written Mr. Jeremiah Hurley, asking for a few instructions in the art of padding out accounts.

• • •

Mr. Hurley, according to the telegraphic reports, charged $35 for hall rent, and then could not specify one hall that he had rented. Dear, dear! What an awfully short memory Mr. Hurley must have!

• • •

It's a good thing in one way that the Belleville steam roller was not in commission when the census was taken here, or Mr. Hurley might have seen it and charged up a couple of hundred dollars to automobile expenses.

• • •

If Richard the Third would offer his kingdom for a horse, how much would he give for a charger like Mr. Hurley.

• • •

The petition to stop net fishing in the Bay of Quinte is being largely signed. If you have not yet signed it do so at once.

• • •

Mr. James McCurdy, City Engineer, is the proud possessor of an autograph letter of thanks from Sir Thomas Lipton. Mr. McCurdy saw the last yacht races, and a couple of weeks ago write Sir Thomas, congratulating him on his pluck in trying again and wishing him success. Hence the reply.

• • •

Mr. C. M. Reid sends us a copy of the London Sunday Chronicle, the first page of which, consisting of "Notes and Notions," is full of particularly bright things. A picture of the British Lion shows that noble animal smiling broadly, while he exclaims: "Well, this is a novelty and no mistake! Everybody seems to love me and nobody is twisting my tail.", And really, the poor old B. Lion must feel decidedly lonesome to think that nobody is a-twisting of his tail. He's so used to it, you know.

• • •

AN EXPLODED IDEA.

(Rocford Register.)

It is not essential to-day that a man must have a pair of calloused, horny fists, hair all over the back of his neck, wear a 3-year-old chip hat, smell like a section of the car barn and wipe his nose on the sleeve of his wamus in order to be a successful farmer.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY.

The uniform size of this remedy has made it the most popular preparation in use for bowel complaints. It is everywhere recognized as the one remedy that can always be depended upon and that is pleasant to take. It is especially valuable for summer diarrhoea in children and is undoubtedly the means of saving the lives of a great many children each year. For sale by all druggst.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Belleville, Ont., July 25.—Thirty-two factories offered 2945 white and 140 colored; sales colored to Cook, 9 5-16c; white, Watkins, 870, Hodgson 775, Alexander 350 Sprague 345, Magrath 300, all at 9¼c; balance cleared off street at 9¼c.

London, July 25.—Twelve factories offered 2472 boxes; sales, 730 at 9¼c.

LIBERAL CANDIDATE LOST.

Labor Man Comes First, But the Unionist Was a Close Second.

London, July 27.—The result of the election Friday in the Bernard Castle Division of Durham County of a successor to Sir Joseph W. Pease, Liberal, resulted as follows:

A. Henderson, Labor, 3,870; W. L. Vane, Unionist, 3,323; Mr. Beaumont, Liberal, 2,809.

The result of the election was a complete surprise, for since 1886 the division had returned a Liberal. It is another of a succession of labor victories in recent bye-elections. Mr. Henderson, until recently was the official Liberal agent in the constituency.

Good Blood, Good Health

THIN, WATERY BLOOD IS MADE RICH BY THE USE OF DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

When the blood is rich and pure there is a healthful glow to the complexion which speaks of the vigor and vitality of the system. There is no more certain way for pale, weak people to attain the glow of health than by the persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great food cure which forms new, rich blood and creates new nerve force. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 6

PANIC IN PANAMA.

Governor's House Surrounded by Soldiers and Certain High Officials Arrested—El Lapiz, Liberal Paper, Seized.

Panama, Colombia, July 27.—Not since the days of the last revolution, when an attack upon the city by the Liberals was feared, has there been such a panic in Panama as occurred Saturday night. Shortly after 9 o'clock the office of El. Lapiz, the organ of the Liberal party of the Isthmus, was visited by some officers of the general staff of the army, who destroyed yesterday's edition of the paper. One of the directors was slightly wounded, but managed to escape.

The next event came like a bombshell. A company of soldiers, apparently under the orders of Gen. Vasquez Cobos, Commander of the National Forces, surrounded the residence of Governor Mutis, but the Governor and his wife, who is an American lady, having been warned a few minutes before the arrival of the troops, succeeded in escaping.

General Heurtas, commander of the battalion of Colombia; Dr. Aristides Arjona, secretary of the Government; Fernando Arango, chief of police, and Efraim Navai, a member of the department; Al Superior, tribunal of justice, it is said were placed under arrest.

Governor Mutis spent Saturday night at the British Consulate.

Governor Mutis is virtually a prisoner. Undoubtedly Gen. Cobos will issue later a proclamation giving the reasons for his action.

THE MARKETS.

Rally in Chicago Grain Markets—Liverpool Wheat Unchanged to Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

Saturday Evening, July 25.

Liverpool wheat futures closed unchanged to ¼d lower to-day than Friday and corn futures ⅛d lower.

At Chicago to-day September wheat closed 1⅛c higher than Friday, September corn 1⅜c higher and September oats ⅜c higher.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London—Close—Wheat on passage, nominally unchanged. Maize — On passage, rather easier.

Paris—Close—Wheat, tone dull: July, 23f 5c; Nov. and Feb., 29f 70c. Flour—Tone dull: July, 31f 55c; Nov. and Feb., 29f 70c.

Antwerp—Wheat—Spot, steady; No. 2 red winter, 16½f.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

Following are the closing quotations at important wheat centres to-day:

	Cash.	July.	Sept.	Dec.
New York	....	....	81½	81¼
Chicago	....	....	77⅛	77⅞
Toledo	77	77	78	79⅜
Duluth, No. 1 N.	85½	85½	77¼	75½

TORONTO ST. LAWRENCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, red, bush.	$0 77 to	$....
Wheat, white, bush.	0 76	....
Wheat, spring, bush. ...	0 70	0 72
Wheat, goose, bush.	0 72½	....
Barley, bush.	0 44½	....
Beans, bush.	1 30	1 50
Beans, hand-picked	1 75	....
Peas, bush.	0 78½	....
Rye, bush.	0 45	....
Oats, bush.	0 37	0 38

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, July 25.—Close—Wheat—Spot No. 2 red winter, dull; 6s 2d; No. 1 Northern spring, steady; 6s 5d; No. 1 California, dull; 6s 6½d; futures, quiet; July, nominal; Sept., 6s 2½d; Dec., 6s 2¼d. Corn—Spot, American mixed, easy; 4s 4d; futures, dull; July, nominal; Sept., 4s 4½d. Peas—Canadian, dull; 5s 6½d. Flour—St. Louis fancy winter, quiet; 8s 3d. Hops at London—Pacific coast, steady; £5 12s to £6. Beef—Dull; extra India mess, 65s. Pork—Quiet; prime mess Western, 78s 6d. Hams—Short cut, firm; 57s. Bacon—Cumberland cut, firm; 50s 6d. Short ribs—Steady; 54s. Long clear middles—Heavy, steady; 50s. Clear bellies—Firm; 50s. Short clear backs—Quiet; 48s. Shoulders—Square, steady; 38s. Lard — Prime Western, easy; 37s; American refined, firm; 38s. Butter—Good United States, steady; 75s. Cheese—American, finest white, quiet; 46s 6d; do., colored, steady; 48s. Tallow—Prime city, steady; 22s 6d; Australian, in London, dull; 29s 6d. Turpentine — Spirits, firm; 40s 6d. Rosin—Common, steady, 5s 3d. Petroleum—Nominal. Linseed oil—Dull; 23s. Cotton seed oil—Hull, refined, spot, firm; 22s 10½d.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, July 25.—Butter—Easier; receipts, 5860; creamery extras, per pound, 19½c; do., firsts, 18c to 19c; seconds, 16½c to 17½c; do., thirds, 15c to 16c. Cheese—Quiet; unchanged; receipts, 2486.

Eggs—Steady to firm; receipts,5915; state and Pennsylvania and nearby fancy selected white, 21c to 22c; do., best mixed, 19c to 20c; do., fair to good 15c to 17c; Western extras, 18c to 19c; do., firsts, 16c to 17c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—New York and Other American Markets Steady.

London, July 25.—Live cattle steady at 11¾c to 12½c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 11¼c to 11½c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 9¼c to 9⅝c per lb. Sheep, 11½c to 12½c.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKETS.

East Buffalo, July 25.—Cattle—Steady; prime and shipping steers, $4.85 to $5.50; butchers' steers, $4.25 to $4.80; cows and heifers, $2.75 to $4.75; bulls, $3 to $4.25; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4.25. Veals—Receipts, 270 head; 25c lower; $5.25 to $7. Hogs—Receipts, 5300 head; slow, 20c to 30c lower; heavy, $5.90 to $6; mixed, $5.95 to $6; yorkers, $6 to $6.10; light yorkers, $6.10 to $6.15; pigs, $6.25 to $6.35; roughs, $4.90 to $5.15; stags, $4 to $4.50; dairies, $5.75 to $6.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 3200 head; sheep, steady; lambs, slow; ewes, 25c higher; lambs, $4 to $6.35, a few at $6.50; yearlings, $5 to $5.50; wethers, $4.50 to $5; ewes, $3.75 to $4.25, a few at $4.40; mixed sheep, $2 to $4.50.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, July 25.—Beeves—Receipts, 18; consigned direct; no sales reported; exports to-day, 1711 beeves, 3500 quarters of beef. Calves—Receipts, 81; no sales; market nominal. Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 5740; sheep, steady; lambs, sold freely, with good inquiry, but average of sales lower; sheep, $3 to $4.50; lambs, $6 to $7.15; one car at $7.25; culls at $5.50. Hogs—Receipts, 1584; none on sale alive.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, July 25.—Cattle—Receipts, 000; market, steady; good to prime steers, $5.2 to $5.60; poor to medium, $4.25 to $5.25; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.40; cows and heifers, $1.50 to $4.75; canners, $1.5 to $2.75; bulls, $2.50 to $4.25; calves, $ to $6.30; Texas steers, $3.50 to $4.90. Hogs—Receipts, 14,000; Monday, 3800; left over, 3500; market, 5c to 10c lower; mixed and butchers', $5.40 to $5.75; good to choice heavy, $5.55 to $5.70; rough heavy, $5.2 to $5.50; light, $5.40 to $5.82½; bulk of sales, $5.50 to $5.60. Sheep—Receipts, 2000; market, steady; good to choice wethers, $3.75 to $4; fair to choice, $3 to $3.60; native lambs, $3.25 to $6.25.

The Sealing Question.

Washington, July 27.—The determination of the question whether seal life shall be protected in the Behring Sea, and to what extent, or whether all the seals on the rookeries shall be destroyed at once, as proposed at the last Congress, is to be referred to the High Joint Committee when it convenes next fall.

SELECTIONS

SHAM MENDICANTS.

Queer Titles by Which They Know Each Other in Big Cities.

Mendicants are criminals, nine-tenths of them with criminal records, is the report of those who have investigated these wretches who are allowed to parade their simulated miseries upon our streets. Those who are in fact legless or armless have lost those undesired and useless organs as tramps in stealing rides on railroad trains, etc., and even the few really blind of the many that pretend to be so were made so purposely or are glad they are so. New York city is ridding itself of these impostors by the simple expedient of showing up their frauds. In the slang of these worthies, "New York is jimmied." By taking the good arms out of splints or the sound legs out of casts, exposing the sham blind and the malingering paralytic, punishing the frauds, etc., the streets are cleared of them. Other cities are yet to learn a lesson. "Chi Slim" made a large income, some $50 a week for years, in an hour or two a day in New York playing the paralytic. "British" was almost as successful. "P. P." is the name given by the fraternity to the plaster of paris bandage men. The "sap" men are the crutch and cripple frauds. The "cane men" are those who go no farther than canes. The "human crab," the "human dog," the "human alligator," are other types. The "crust thrower" is the fellow who slyly drops a moldy crust of bread before the passer by and then seizes it as if with hunger. The "duckets" or "dockets" are those who parade signs, verses, etc., on placards. When "Florida Shine," "Boston Charlie," "Toronto Peg," "The Crane," "Dutch Harris," "St. Louis Joe" or "Chi Slim" gets arrested his companions of "the trust" contribute and hire a lawyer for him or secure means for his escape.—American Medicine.

Lakes Always Frozen.

"There are in the state of Oregon two lakes that are frozen stiff from one year's end to the other," said F. G. Harper of Portland. "They were discovered in Baker county not very long ago by a party on a hunting and fishing trip in the mountains of the Panhandle district. After passing through a particularly wild stretch of country the party discovered the lakes on the north summit of one of the mountains in the neighborhood. The lakes are both small, one of them barely 150 feet across, while the other is less than 1,000 feet in diameter. Both are covered with a heavy coating of ice as clear as crystal and as smooth as glass and of such strength that it held several members of the party who rode across on horseback. It is believed the ice never melts, because the lakes are so situated behind two peaks that the rays of the sun never strike them for sufficient length of time to make any impression."—Washington Star.

The Sapadilla.

"People who have been much in the south are very fond of the sapadilla," said the fashionable fruiterer. "As for looks, it's a toss up between a russet apple and a sweet potato. The pulp is very soft and deliciously sweet. It is tropical and is eatable when it begins to be spotted. The tree in its native haunts is a tall evergreen, and the fruit is called by some the sapadilla plum. As for the spelling of it, there's no limit—sapodilla, sappadillo, sappodilla, zapotilla, sapotillo, zapotila and zapote are a few of the ways. It is the cochitzapotl of Mexico. An American nickname is naseberry. Some who consider it too sweet by itself find it delicious in desserts."—Philadelphia Record.

Wooden Shoes In Chicago.

A Chicago drummer recently undertook to "josh" a man who was wearing a pair of wooden shoes about the streets in Chicago. The Hollander offered to bet the Chicagoan that he could "shinny" up a tree faster than the commercial man, both men to go at it with shoes on, and the Hollander won the bet.

One firm in Holland sells no less than 2,000 pairs of wooden shoes a year here. Some are sold as souvenirs, but the bulk go to the people who learned to wear them in Holland and have taught their children born in this country to wear them.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

CHEAP TRIPS

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay, Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

NOTICE.

Tickets are now on sale via North Bay and Sarnia, also via lake and rail, to points on Canadian Northern Railway, Port Frances, Rainy River, Winnipeg and other points west. New fast train service has just been inaugurated on this line.

U. E. THOMPSON, City Agent,
Bridge Street,
T. H. COPPIN, Depot Agent.
J. D. McDONALD,
Dist. Pass Agt., Toronto.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

"Imperial Limited."

Fast tri-weekly Transcontinental service between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. Connection leaves Toronto at 1.45 p.m., Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, making run Toronto to Vancouver in 97 hours.

Upper Lake Steamships

Leave Owen Sound Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 5.30 p.m., on arrival of S.S. Express leaving Toronto at 1.30 p.m. Connections at Fort William and Port Arthur for Winnipeg and aPcific Coast points.

Daily First-Class Service Toronto Winnipeg, Calgary, Banff and Pacific Coast.

Fully Equipped Through Tourist Cars leave Toronto Tuesday and Saturday for Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Full particulars from your nearest Canadian Pacific Agent or to

A. H. NOTMAN,
Asst. Gen. Pass. Agent, TORONTO.
S. BURROWS, C.P.R. and General Ticket Agent, Front St., Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL

& HUDSON RIVER R. R.

THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.		After 1st May
Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)	12.22 p.m.	1.30 a.m
Arr. Kingston "	1.47 p.m.	3.12 a.m
Lv. Kingston (stage)..	2.30 p.m.	5.00 a.m
Arr. CapeVincent (stage)	4.30 p.m.	7.00 a.m
Lv.Cape Vincent N.Y.C.	5.05 p.m.	7.25 a.m
Arr. Watertown "	5.55 p.m.	8,25 a.m.
Arr. Oswego "	9.05 p.m.	11.55 a.m
Arr. Syracuse "	9.25 p.m.	12.07 p.m
Arr. Rochester "	1.05 a.m.	2.20 a.m
Arr. Utica "	9.45 p.m.	12.35 p.m
Arr. New York "	7.25 a.m.	6.00 p.m

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C. R. R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from F. A. Folger, N.Y.C. Agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent.
New York.
A. H. SMITH, Gen'l Supt.,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

Seven hundred British subjects are yearly born at sea.

• • •

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

ODD LINES
—OF—
Boots and Shoes

AT LESS THAN COST PRICE.

Men's Canvas Low Shoes, regular price $1.25 & $1.50	75c
Men's Canvas Boots, regular price $1.25 & $1.50	$1.00
Men's Working Boots	68c
Men's $4.00 Tan Boots for	$2.00
Boys' Tan Boots, regular price $1.50 to $2.50	$1.00
Ladies' Fine Dongola Oxfords, sizes 3, 3½, 4, regular price $1.00 to $2.00	50c
Children's Slippers, regular price 75c & $1.00	35c
Girls' Calf Button Boots, sizes 11 to 2	60c

VERMILYEA & SON.

Sole Agents for the famous Queen Quality Shoe.

ONE WEEK MORE

This Sale positively ends Saturday, Aug. 1st

$5.00 Any Suit In This Great Clothing Store for $5.0

A STUPENDOUS CLOTHING OFFER WITHOUT PRECEDENT OR PARALLEL.

Some Suits $18, some $16, some $15, some $12, others $10. Just think of it! High grade, thoroughly tailored garments for Men, complete suits in fashionable fabrics, for

$5.00

This sale has been such a large success we have decided to continue it for one week more to clear out the balance of suits still left. I of shapes in stock yet. The earlier you come the better your choice. THIS SALE POSITIVELY ENDS SATURDAY, AUG. 1st.

The GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE.

Up-to-date Clothiers and Gents' Furnishiers, Look for the Globe Over The Door, 390 Front Street, Belleville.

Wall Paper

At first sight of our Wall Papers you will say there's an attractiveness about them that puts them lengths ahead of other lines.

IN STOCKING

we select only the best, we have no "shelf warmers" all our Papers are quick sellers. If you choose your Papers from us you have best value for the price obtainable anywhere.

Painting, Paperhanging and Decorating done on shortest notice by best workmen in the city.

JOHN CORNELIUS.

3 Doors South of Intelligencer Office.

NEW GOODS

JAPAN TEA

The first of this season's crop, exta quality, regular 50c line, we quote

40c per lb.

Canned Halibut

Fine solid Fish, very tasty,

15c per can.

J. C. Hanley & Co.

GROCERS

Telephone 214

Flowers & Vegetables

Of all kinds in season

. . . AT . . .

J. D. COLLIP'S.

'Phone 205.

Western Beef.

Prime Western Beef together with all kinds of choice meats, supplied by the district, at

C. GREEN'S

267 Front St., 'Phone 100.

A Tale of the Quick and the Dead.

AN old friend of Mr. Abell, proprietor of one of the Baltimore papers, asked to have his boy taken into that office and taught the business. He was added to the city staff as a special favor. The city editor sent the youngster out to Druid Hill Cemetery to describe that aristocratic burial place. He was instructed to prepare a list of the distinguished lot owners and to mention all the famous dead who rested under the velvety turf. The reporter was neither experienced nor careful. He went to the office of the cemetery company, and, being allowed access to the books, copied such names as seemed worthy of selection. In writing his notes the young man mixed his lists, gave to the distinguished dead the names of the living lot owners, and made up his list of the distinguished survivors from his catalogue of the dead.

The article was immediately put in type, and appeared the following morning.

When Mr. Abell reached his office that day he found a throng of citizens awaiting him.

"What can I do for you, sir?" he demanded in his brusque manner of the first man in broadcloth who pushed into his private office.

"Do? What haven't you done? I am G. Washington Smith and your paper says that I am buried at Druid Hill. It's shameful, sir; and I demand a correction."

"Does my paper say you are dead?" asked Mr. Abell gravely, looking at his visitor over the top of his glasses.

"It does, and——"

"Well, I want to say to you, Mr. G Washington Smith, that if my paper says you're dead, you are dead. Good morning; this is no place for ghosts!"

Children's Unconscious Witticisms.

"Terra-cotta is stuff squeezed out of a little insect and used to turn puddings red."

"The zebra is like the horse, only striped, and is chiefly used to illustrate the letter Z." (Also "A donkey with a football jersey on.")

"Faith is that quality which enables us to believe what we know to be untrue."

"Parliament is the place where they go up to in London to talk about Birmingham."

"A Limited Monarchy is a government by a monarchy, who in case of bankruptcy would not be responsible for the entire national debt. In private life you have the same thing with a Limited Liability Company."—Quoted by Dr. Macnamara, M.P., in "New Liberal Review."

Equal to Three.

Public vehicles in Paris are allowed to carry only as many passengers as can find seats. After that number has been admitted no one is allowed to enter. The explanation will serve to introduce an incident reported by a correspondent of the Pittsburg "Dispatch."

A crowd of men and women, each with a numbered ticket, showing the order in which they were to enter the next street car, stood at the Place de l'Etoile station when the down-town car arrived.

Surveying the crowd, the conductor cried out: "Only three places in the car! Who has ticket No. 1?"

With that Mrs. Blank of Chicago, the stoutest woman in the American colony, approached, holding up the ticket called for.

"Step aboard, madam," said the conductor, ringing his go-ahead bell.

"Wait! Wait! I've No. 2!" called a little Frenchman.

"You're too late," replied the conductor. "Every place is taken."

The Vital Question.

He—You are truly the first girl I ever loved. She—That isn't the point. Are you sure I will be the last?

An Old Letter.

A WHOLESALE merchant of Philadelphia, in looking over old papers and records, recently came across an interesting document. It was a letter of instruction sent forty years ago by a merchant in St. Louis to his agent in San Francisco. He thus describes it in the Philadelphia "Times:"

"It related to the disposal of a lot of goods which had been shipped by way of Cape Horn, and although it contained over fifteen thousand words and a copy of a good-sized invoice, it was written on just two sheets of paper.

"The paper itself is a sort of tough, opaque tissue, very thin and light, and when folded the letter slips easily into an envelope three inches wide.

"Why it was gotten up in such a peculiar style is explained by the stamp on the corner, which is one of the old 'pony express' series, embellished with a picture of a man on horseback, spurring at a gallop across the plains.

"I knew, of course, that the Pacific mail of that period was carried by relay express riders, but I never before realized what great pains were taken to reduce the weight to the lowest possible point. I am told that the letters were stored in little flat pouches under the flaps of the saddle, and that they were usually written on a specially prepared tissue.

"The one I have described must have occupied an expert clerk several days, for the penmanship, while microscopic, is beautifully executed, and as clear and legible as print.

"The stamp is of the denomination of fifty cents, and, taken altogether, it would be hard to find a more striking reminder of the astonishing progress that has been made in this country in a trifle over one generation.

"Everything about the little brown letter speaks of dangers, difficulties, and rude, primitive conditions. It is difficult to realize that the route it traveled is now the great highway of a thousand rushing trains, bearing the transcontinental commerce of the na-

POLITICAL assassinations were as frequent in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries as in the nineteenth, only the rank of the assassins was different. Philip II. ordered the assassination of the Prince of Orange and of Queen Elizabeth, and advised the Queen-mother of France to have Coligny and the Queen of Navarre "removed." Elizabeth escaped through her great popularity and the vigilance of Walsingham. Henri III. ordered the assassination of the Duke of Guise. The Lords of the League ordered in turn that of Henri, and one may surmise that the governments of Spain and Austria were agreed as to the expediency of murdering Henri IV. The frivolousness of the Duke of Buckingham did not save him from the dagger of a political assassin. The sex of Mary Stuart did not prevent her being the accomplice of Bothwell in the murder of Darnley. Ruthven and other noblemen murdered Mary's favorite, Rizzio, in her presence. Cromwell lived in constant fear of being stabbed or shot. Recently published documents prove that the poisoner was a favorite diplomatic and political instrument of the Venetian Council of Ten. To go back to the time when the bloom of Italian art was finest, the Borgia were always assassinating or employing assassins. Going back still further, assassination was a common political expedient in Rome, both as a republic and as an empire.

The violent passions that used to move rulers in times past and the directness of their methods have descended, like their cast-off clothes, to a much lower social stratum. Orders to take away the lives of monarchs no longer proceed from the Escurial, or the Tulleries, or the Council Chamber of Venice, but from dens where Anarchists meet. The monarchs, on the whole, have been less badly used in our time than the Presidents of North and South American republics. Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley represent the United States in the black list. Between 1872 and 1877 four South American Presidents were murdered. M. Carnot, who fell under Caserio's knife, is the only President of the French Republic who has been assassinated.

Most of the political assassins of the last forty-five years belonged to excitable races. The first on the list was the Spaniard who attempted to murder Queen Isabella at the church of the Atocha. Bresci, Lucchent and Caserio—who murdered the late King of Italy, the Empress of Austria, and Carnot—were Italians. The murderers of Alexander II. were Slavs, with nerves excited to frenzy by poor food and too much cigarette-smoking and tea-drinking. All the murderers of the Spanish-American Presidents were countrymen of theirs. Guiteau, who murdered Garfield, was of French origin. The man who fired at McKinley is a Pole. The northern races murder for the sake of lucre, but very rarely to improve the lot of mankind. The student who fired at Bismarck was a Jew. Sipido, who fired at King Edward when he was Prince of Wales, is of Italian ancestry.

CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPA

CAPITAL

10,000 Shares 7 per cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, par value $100 each, $1,000,
50,000 Shares Common Stock, par value $100, issued and fully paid 5,000,
TOTAL CAPITALIZATION $6,000,00

Issues of $1,000,000 00 7 p.c. Preferred Stock in 10,00 Shares of $100 each at par.

This stock is preferred both as to Assets and Dividends.

The shares are entitled to cumulative preferred dividends from the net earnings of the Company, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable half yearly on the first days of April and October. They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at $115,00 per share, at any time after 1st January, 1909.

The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000,00, the whole of which is now offered.

Subsriptions for 10,000 Shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent. Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is $100 Share, as follows

per cent on application,
25 " " on allotment,
35 " " 30 days thereafter.
35 " " 60 days thereafter.

One share of Common, par value $100, given with each share of preferred.

The whole of instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of one pe cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Novia Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1 000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4000 acres of iron ore deposit, locat Natashquan (tidewater) situated on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, provi Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highet ever discovered, running from 69 per cent to 72 per cent in metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore has been received by the Company than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

Send for prospectus giving full information as to earnings, reports, etc., etc.

Address all communications and send subscriptions to

COLONIAL SECURITIES CO.,
62 Wall Street, New York City

OR

W. L. MARSTON & CO.
110 State Street, B

The SAWYER COMPANY.
351 Temple Building, Montreal, Canada

, are easily weak and begin to 's Sar-
C. Ayer Co.,
Mass.

UOTATIONS

NTELLIGENCER BY
CK BROKER.
New York, July 27.

H'st	L'st	Close.
65	62½	64⅝
89½	87¾	89
142½	138½	141½
98⅜	96⅛	97¾
75⅛	73⅝	75⅜
124	121	123⅜
43⅝	40¾	43½
23½	21	23⅝
[illegible]	128½	131¾
[illegible]	20	21⅜
[illegible]	24¾	26⅝
[illegible]	81	82¾
[illegible]	118	120½
23	120⅛	122⅞
[illegible]	50	53
[illegible]	94	95
[illegible]	27¼	29¾
[illegible]	66	67½
[illegible]	46⅝	49¾
[illegible]	31	31¾
[illegible]	21⅞	22⅜
[illegible]	131	133
[illegible]	16⅛	16⅛
[illegible]	102	104
[illegible]	[illegible]	32¾
[illegible]	[illegible]	115⅝
[illegible]	[illegible]	44¾
[illegible]	[illegible]	94¾
[illegible]	37¾	40½
[illegible]	113⅛	115⅝
[illegible]	17	18

osed at 78⅜
osed at 52¾

S.

of Petti-ee-quar-

riety of motor coats
ply strapped.
st be extreme-

made in these are makes street heel.

nvas, knee) nd come black or avy black

ds, khaki, cs in use
breeches,

Qu

elligencer

Bindery

MAKES A SPECIALTY OF

ders,

urnals,

sh Books,

d all descriptions of ank

Account

Books

Mailing Tubes

Gold Lettering on Leather Goods, &c.

AZINES,
WORKS,
ERIODICALS,
RIAL NUMBERS

NEATLY BOUND

p Mounting & Varnishing

Estimates cheerfully furnished for every class of work.

ADDRESS—

The Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONT.

day—.
Roberts in tow cho

Orders be left prising made though from magaz or reb reasonabl such as books, w made to ranted
LIGENC

ADVERTISING RATES.

Measurement Nonparell—12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.
Subsequent consecutive insertions, ne

Reading adverti-ements, 15c per line.
Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon usual or contract rates.
Minimum space, 10 lines.
Marriages and deaths, 50c each insertion
Births, 25c each insertion.
Rates for Condensed Advertisement will be found in 1st column of 2nd page.
All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of the Intelligencer.
Address all communications to the Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House Limited, or to Charles J. Bowell, Managing Director and Treasurer.
Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s Office, 30 Fleet Street, London, E. C.

CONDENSED ADVERTISEMENTS

SITUATIONS WANTED, HELP WANTED, LOST OR FOUND, FOR SALE OR TO RENT, &c

(Auction Sales not included in this list)

TERMS.—Twenty-five words or less, 25c first insertion; two insertions, 50c; four insertions, 75c; one week $1.00, two weeks, $1.75, three weeks, $2.25; one month, $2.50. Strictly cash in advance.

LOST.

Friday, July 24, a ladies' tapestry pocket book containing calling cards and receipts. Finder leave at the Intelligencer Office. Reward. 25-2td&1tw

WANTED.

A youth to learn the printing trade, one with slight experience would be accepted. Apply to The Intelligencer Office. 25-2t

Be independent. Employ yourself. Establish a business. Our goods are used everyday by everybody. Men make fortunes. Write G. Marshall & Co., London, Ont. 4

Agents wanted, $2.50 per day. Apply Cooper, London, Ont. s27-1y

Young men ambitious to learn lucrative trades, of which there are eight in connection with the business. Apply The Belleville Hardware Company, Belleville, Ont. a7dtf

TO RENT

House furnished or unfurnished on George street. Apply to Mrs. May, 206 George Street. 4t

A house on Moira street containing 8 rooms. All modern conveniences. Possession on or before 20th July.—Adam Henry.. dtf

TO-LET,

That new solid brick house on Yeomans street. Hard and soft water in kitchen. Good cellar, stable and garden. In perfect order. $6.—J. J. B. Flint. jy16dtf

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

Stone house, 11 rooms, coal furnace, stable, barn. Large grounds. Cor. Frank and Moira Sts. north. Terms reasonable. H. Bull, on premises or Fred Bull, 133 Yonge St., Toronto. Terms easy. ap18-dtf

FOR SALE.

A six room house and a good barn 20x30, on Everett street. Apply to R. F. Miller. 5td-1tw

Shingles, shingles, dressed lumber, etc. GEO. WALTON & CO. jy14-1md

Dressed and Matched Lumber of all kinds, at ALFORD'S factory, Market Square. jl2-tf

Contractors and masons, any any person requiring lime may procure it from E. G. STAPLEY, Canifton Road, Belleville. New lime always on hand. a9-d&w6m

Goods We Have
at Right Prices

—Hammocks.
—Fishing Tackle.
—Tennis Goods.
—Golf Goods.
—Lacrosse Goods.
—Base Ball Goods.
—Screen Doors and Windows.
—Fruit Jars.
—Fruit Jar Rubbers.
—Wall Paper.
—Crystal Glass Vases.
—Glass Ware.
—Dinner Sets.
—Toilet Sets.
—Ladies' Hose.
—Ladies' Vests.
Everything in smallwares.

AT THE BEE HIVE
Chas. N. Sulman

SAVE MONEY
By JOINING The
MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB
OF AMERICA

25 Cents pays for three months' membership. Each member receives the official club organ every month, including 6 pieces of high-class vocal and instrumental new music each month, 18 pieces in all; also a Certificate of Membership which gives the privilege of Club Room in New York City, and of buying literature, music or musical instruments of any description at wholesale prices, saving you from 20% to 60% on your purchases. Don't fail to join at once. You will get much more than your money's worth. MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB, Dept. , 150 Nassau St., N.Y.

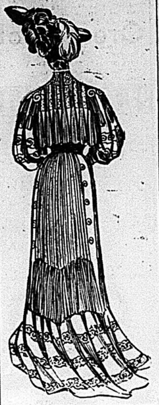
DRESSY AFTERNOON GOWNS

Hand Painted Muslins—Chine Effects Very Smart.

Hand painted muslins and chiffons are the favorite materials for those who can afford them, but good imitations are to be seen in the printed nets and mulls. Many of the latter introduce chine effects, and these soft materials lend themselves admirably to gaugings and tuckings.

Rough hats of yellow straw are very smart trimmed with black ostrich plumes.

A particularly up to date gown seen recently was of white crepe de chine with a deep flounce of openwork black silk fringe decorated with cream lace motifs and studded with emerald and gold and silver sequins. The top of the skirt was gauged slightly over the hips. With this was worn a wide belt of old rose damask silk with a bolero coat of the same knotted fringe studded with lace and sequins and finished with inner folds of rose chiffon. The hat to be worn with this, was a big picture shape in chip trimmed with waving ostrich plumes, the brim being lined with pink roses. Certainly cream or ivory white is one of the best foundations for a smart gown.



GOWN OF GRAY VEILING TRIMMED WITH FRINGE.

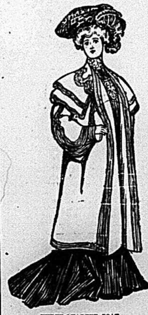
The dainty costume shown is of gray veiling trimmed with fringe and bands of old rose embroidery.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

PETTICOAT STYLES.

Handsome Models In Brocades and Useful Ones In Gingham.

Silks, satins and brocades predominate in fashionable underskirts, though there is something dainty about a white cambric lace befrilled petticoat on a hot day. China silk, too, is used for underskirts as well as colored satins and merveilleux of different shades, often stitched by hand in a contrasting color. Nothing is daintier than an inexpensive white silk petticoat edged with black chantilly and further decorated with black motifs and insertions.



THREE-QUARTER COAT.

Pretty petticoats for useful wear are made of colored gingham trimmed with ecru lace.

Pongee and mohair petticoats are prettily finished with a flounce of buttonhole embroidery.

White cambric petticoats are made with wide flounces headed by a beading, through which is run a colored ribbon. These flounces are inserted with open lace either in straight or bias lines.

Black taffeta petticoats are always smart trimmed with chantilly lace.

The three-quarter coat in the cut is of black peau de sole trimmed with silk braid and lined with white silk.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Store Closed Every Wednesday During July and August at 12 O'Clock Noon.

HALF PRICE MUSLINS

The quantity of Muslins we have sold this year is best evidence of the superior value and excellent designs which our buying conditions enable us to obtain.

Our stock is almost cleared out, what remain being mostly desireable staple patterns—as good next season as this.

We had almost decided to let these remain, but with a bigger and better assortment of fall goods than has every been seen in this city, on the the way to our store, every inch of space will be valuable.

A quick clearing is what we want. To do this we have marked many of them at Half Price.

Their excellent value at regular prices has been acknowledged by all who have seen them.

At half the original they offer a chance in Muslin buying which comes seldom—and does not last long.

—A collection of choice Muslins in assorted pattern, including a number of fine French Organdies prices were 10c, 15c, 20c, 25c, for 5c, 8c, 10c, 12½c

$1.00 Untrimmed Straw Shapes 25c

Excellent value at regular price—doubly so at half price for which we have been offering them, the last few days our stock of untrimmed straw shapes has greatly diminished.

We have decided to make a quick clearing of what remain.

New and seasonable goods—there is not an undesirable one among the lot.

We have sold dozens similar at the regular prices.

But its clearing time so out they go.

—A choice collection of newest styles, untrimmed Straw and Chiffon Shapes, regular 50c to $1.00 for 25c

Steel Buttons

Buttons promise to be greatly used for trimming purposes this coming season.

Many of the foremost fashion books having them very much in evidence.

The completness of our assortment make easy choosing at all times.

The latest arrivals at this counter are these newest in cut steel varieties.

These although a little more expensive at the start are in the end the cheapest, being practically indistructable,

—Fine Steel Buttons, all sizes, 28c doz, to ... 25c each.
—Just received a assortment of white silk belts with white buckle 25c
—Ask to see our New York Ribbons at 35

Mantle Room Specials

These are days of unequalled buying possibilities in our mantle room.

All our summer goods are going out at a rate that will leave us in proper shape to receive the fall shipments.

Bargains such as we are offering in seasonable, stylish garments make a small but irrestible pull on the purse strings of those who are at all economically inclined.

We have been looking around again. When you come in on Monday there will be a number of new low priced attractions to demand your attention. Here they are below.

Other Offerings

Here are a number of other offerings we still continue and which are worthy of attention from all who have use for the articles mentioned.

They are STYLISH—SEASONABLE—CHEAP.

—The balance of our sale wrappers in fine Prints and Ginghams, assorted patterns, selling at 75c
—Liberal discounts on all our colored and white Dresses, for children.
—Fine White Shirt Waist, regular 75c, 85c, 95c for 50c

Half Price Colored Waists

Many of the most fastidous dressers have this season, instead of making them, chosen their fancy Shirt Waists from our assortments.

The many advantages of this course is each season increasing the demand for such dainty styles as we show.

We have sold a lot—the lateness of the season demands that all should go at once. They do so on Monday, for HALF PRICE.

Here are a couple—our entire range from 39c to $2.00 for HALF PRICE.

—Fine Pink Chambray Waist, tucked front and back, and piped with white, $1.25 for 63c
—Fine Grey Knicker Cloth Waist with fancy white lace siripe, full front, large sleeves, stylish and pretty, regular $1 50 for 75c

New York Ribbon Specials

Constantly on the lookout for dainty neckwear—here is a line of New York goods which we have just received.

Something out of the ordinary. Our cash and quantity buying enables us to offer these at regular ribbon prices.

Fresh from one of the world's fashion centres. An inspection will be pleasing and put you in touch with the newest, even though you do not purchase.

—Fine Soft Taffetta Neck Ribbon, with dainty colored stripes, cream, white and all popular colors, ... 35c
—Striped Satin Duchesse Ribbon, the latest New York Neck Novelty 35c
—An assortment of neat Black and White. White and Black and Grey and White Ribbons, for those who cannot wear colors 35c
—10 yard spools of fine Pure Silk Ribbon in all the leading shades, specially adapted for collars, fancy work, etc., 15c, 2 for 25c

Reduced Shirt Waist Suits

Here is an offering which every lady can appreciate, but few derive the benefit—only four left.

These garments—another forward step in Ready-to-Wear manufacture — have with their pretty style, superior workmanship and correct appearance, appealed so strongly to the ladies that from a full assortment we have only this number left.

Might think these too few to mention but we are sure the ladies who get the advantage of this will be appreciative.

—4 only ladies' Knicker Cloth Shirt Waist Suits, 2 Navy, 2 Linen, simply made, with wide plaits piped with white $7.50, for $6 00

Agents for Standard Patterns.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

CLOTHING BOUGHT HERE PRESSED FREE OF CHARGE

Quick & Robertson's for Fine Clothes

There's no use of disputing the fact that this store stands pre-eminent in this city as the store for Men's Fine Clothes.

With our large and pleasing varieties, up-to-date styles, and good making, we've won the trade of every man, and especially the trade of those men who are particular about the clothes they wear.

And why shouldn't we? You can't find a store that has, Ready-Made, such exclusive styles in suitings and summer garments as we are showing and everyone of them is from the best British and Canadian Mills.

Then, too, every garment is built to come up to the our high standard--built by the best makers who know how and do give close attention to important parts of tailoring—such as adjusting the collars, shaping the shoulders, proper placing of the sleeves and stays and making of the button holes.

Clothes made this way never lose their shape. And by so doing we have overcome that appearance which markes clothes as being Ready-Made.

The prices for such goodness you'd expect to be high but they are not—are no more than you would pay for ordinary sorts elsewhere.

MEN'S SUMMER FURNISHINGS

.... AND ....

STRAW HATS

The Largest Variety assures the Easiest Choosing.

That's just what's bringing more men to this store every day—they are getting into the fact that the selections Quick & Robertson shows in every line are the largest and most liberal in town—right in every way; in quality the highest, in style the latest and in price the fairest. [Better choose now while the choosing is good.

QUICK & ROBERTSON

Agents in Belleville for W. R. Johnston & Co.'s Famous Clothing.

3 Cardinal Points of our now celebrated

Auto Valvo Blue Flame Oil Stoves

are

Economical on oil
Quick bakers
Powerful heaters

The W. W. CHOWN Company, Limited

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

NEWS OF THE DISTRICT.

INTERESTING HAPPENINGS IN THIS VICINITY RECENTLY.

R. R. Casement, Madoc, has closed down the electric light plant because it is not paying expenses.

F. F. Stinson, the popular principal of Camden East Public School, has been engaged as principal of Stirling Public School, a four-teacher school.

A thunderstorm passed over Elzevir on Monday. Several cattle were killed by lightning. Ernest Kleinstenber, Dennis Holt, and Jas. Nudo, were amongst the losers.

George Jocelyn, an employee of Pratt & Armstrong's heading mill, Tweed, struck his elbow against a revolving circular saw, which cut into the bone at the joint.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of George Bunnett, near Plainfield, when his niece, Miss Emma F. Doonan, who has resided in Tweed for the past year or so, was united in marriage to George Lafountain.

Thomas Grills, Hungerford, was placed under arrest in Tweed on Saturday evening on a charge of assault, laid by Samuel Bowers, a neighboring farmer. The trouble arose over a small timber deal between the two parties. Grills has been committed for trial.

On Friday morning little Austin Francis, son of George Francis, Tweed, was in the act of crossing the street in front of McGowan's butcher shop, when he was knocked down by one of Johnson's livery rigs driven by James Finley. The lad, who is about ten years of age, sustained a nasty scalp wound.

The Melrose Oil Syndicate has purchased from Mr. Klinger, Bradford, Pa., the drilling machinery in use at the Melrose well for some time. The machinery is heavy enough to drill to a depth of 4,000 feet. Active operations have commenced, an active, responsible man, who has been a successful operator for twenty or thirty years in the oil regions in Pennsylvania, being in charge.

John Kincaid, one of the oldest residents of Hungerford township, passed away on Monday evening at his home in the second concession near Roslin. Deceased had been ailing, but his death, which was due principally to old age, was quite unexpected. He was born in Ireland. Deceased who was seventy-four years of age, is survived by five sons and one daughter. His wife died some twenty years ago.

Piles To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & Co., Toronto.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions ONE CENT A WORD. No locs charged at less than twenty-five words

A regular meeting of the City Council will be held this evening.

A lady who left a leather music portfolio can secure same by calling at the Intelligencer office.

The only occupant of the cells since Saturday night was a tramp.

A rumor was current in the city yesterday that the alleged murderer at Picton had escaped from custody, but the story lacks confirmation.

The police last evening answered a call to a house near the wharf, it being reported that a man was abusing his wife. All was quiet when an officer arrived upon the scene.

Little Rube Cooper, son of Ald. Cooper, was nearly drowned in the river on Saturday. He fell out of a boat, and another boy caught him just as he was going down for the third time.

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

Tabernacle, University, Holloway Street, Sunday Schools' annual picnic to Twelve o'Clock Point, Wednesday, 29th, steamer Aletha. Three trips, eight, eleven and two o'clock. 24-25-26-27

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

Wanted.—A youth to learn the printing trade, one with slight experience would be accepted. Apply to The Intelligencer Office. 25-2td

Popular Wednesday Holiday excursion to Twelve o'Clock Point on Wednesday, July 29th, auspices of Emmanuel Church per steamer Ella Ross. Boat leaves Rathbun's dock at 9 a.m., 2 p.m., 8 p.m. Tickets 25c. j25-27

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

Mr. A. Shearing, Bridge street, providing the sky is clear, will this evening have his telescope out, and says that those interested in such things can have a look at the comet. About 9 o'clock is the best time.

DEATHS

At the residence of his aunt, Mrs. J. M. Benjamin, 4 Bellevue Terrace, on the 27th inst., Warren Hilton, youngest son of Horace Powell, aged 1 year and 7 days.

Funeral private. Ottawa and Chicago papers please copy.

CHURCH CHIMES OF YESTERDAY

NOTES OF SERVICES IN DIFFERENT PLACES OF WORSHIP YESTERDAY.

Bridge Street.

"Lessons from the life of the late Pope Leo XIII" was the subject discussed last evening by the Rev. Dr. Crothers, before a large congregation. The Rev. gentleman took his text from St. John 13th chapter and 35th verse:

> "By this shall all men know that ye are still my disciples, if ye have love one to another."

In the course of his remarks Dr. Crothers said the late Pope was the head of millions of people of the globe. That he was a stateman was evidenced by his encyclical letters which were masterly productions. His influence in the world for good was great. He was also an industrious man, even upon his dying bed exercising religious functions. The reunion of christendom was his desire, and a noble example of his life was the urging upon his clergy the necessity of the study of God's word. He endeavored to carry out the great principle of love to mankind. In his concluding remarks the preacher expressed the desire that all would at last meet in the world above, where there would be no division of church, where all would be one with Christ.

The hymns sang were appropriate, having been written by prelates of the Catholic Church. During the service "Rock of Ages" was sung by a quartette composed of Misses Vermilyea and Price and Messrs. Jessop and Pratt. As the congregation were leaving Prof. Hunt played "The Dead March in Saul."

Christ Church.

Rev. Prof. Howard conducted the services and preached two able discourses. In the evening his text was from St. Matthew, 8th chapter and 2nd verse:

> "And behold, there came a leper and worshipped Him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt thou canst make me clean."

Baptist.

Good congregations were present at the services yesterday, which were conducted by the Pastor, Rev. O. C. Elliott. In the evening the Rev. gentleman's text was from St. Luke, 16th chapter and 26th verse:

> "And besides all this, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed, so that they which would pass from hence to you cannot; neither can they pass to us that would come from thence."

Mrs. (Rev.) W. L. Newton, of Durham, sang a solo at the service, which was beautifully rendered and much appreciated.

St. Andrew's Church.

Rev. Mr. Glover, of Kingston, yesterday occupied the pulpit of this church in the absence of the Pastor. The sermons by the Rev. gentleman were much appreciated. In the evening his text was from St. John, 3rd chapter and 3rd verse:

> "Jesus answered and said unto him, verily, verily, I say unto thee except a man be born again, he cannot see the Kingdom of God."

St. Thomas'.

The Rector Rev. G. R. Beamish, was yesterday assisted at the services by the Rev. C. J. Boulden, M. A., of Brockville, who preached both morning aand evening. His discourse were able efforts. In the morning the Rev. gentleman's text was from Genesis, 2nd chapter and 12th verse, the subject being in reference to God creating light. During the evening service Mr. and Mrs. Chambers rendered a duet entitled, "Glory to Thee My God this night.

St. Michael's

The above church has been draped in mourning for the death of the late Pope Leo XIII, and yesterday morning Rev. Father Hanley, who has charge of the parish in the absence of Rev. Mgr. Farrelly, delivered a feeling discourse in relation to the lessons taught by the passing away of the church's head, whose life had been a benediction and his peaceful death an object lesson to all. The Rev. Father's remarks were reverently listened to by the large congregation.

New Shoes Don't Pinch

IF YOU USE FOOT ELM.

It's a dread with some people getting new shoes. They pinch, draw and hurt the feet for a week or more until they get "broke in." All this suffering may be avoided by shaking a Foot Elm powder in the shoes. It makes them slip on easily, fit perfectly and prevents the drawing of the new leather. Besides this, Foot Elm preserves the leather, prevents it hardening and cracking, and prolongs the life of the shoe. You get double wear out of your shoes, and comfort every day you wear them by using Foot Elm. Price 25 cents a box of 18 powders at druggists or by mail. B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc: Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mr. Alf. Luscombe, of Schribner, is home on a visit.

Mr. Ernest Frye, of Brownville, N. Y., is in the city.

Mr. Ed. F. Coulson, of Toronto spent Sunday in the city.

Mrs. (Rev.) W. L. Newton, of Durham, is visiting in the city.

Miss Jennie Galway, of Rochester, N.Y., is visiting in the city.

The Misses McKenna have returned home from visiting in Toronto.

Miss Nellie Arnott, of Toronto, is spending a few days in the city.

Norman Lyng, of Toronto, spent Sunday in the city with his parents.

Mr. G. D. Wilder, of Milwaukee, Wis., is visiting relatives in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Groves leave this week for a trip to the Old Country.

Mr. W. P. Hudson is in the northern portion of the county on business.

Mr. J. F. Reid, of St. Louis, is visiting his brother, Mr. A. N. Reid.

Mr. R. H. Vandewaters is spending a week with friends at Rochester, N.Y.

Messrs. E. W. Holton and W. Hudson, of Deseronto, spent Sunday in the city.

Miss Trenna Wilkins and Miss Lillie Clazie were visiting friends in Deseronto.

Mr. Will Adams, Mr. Ernest Blaind and Mr. W. Embury spent Saturday in Deseronto.

Mr. Chas. Good, of Toronto, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Good, Cedar street.

Mrs. C. B. Caverley, of Inverary, is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. M. Ketcheson, Octavio street.

Miss Lockett, Kingston, is the guest of Miss Helen Landers, George street.

Miss Jennie Galway, of Rochester, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. H. Ransom, William street.

Mr. and Mrs. Angelo M. Read, of Buffalo, are in the city, the guests of Prof. Hunt, George street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Graham, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, are visiting relatives in the city.

Miss Pearl Montague has returned to her home in Gananoque, after spending some time in the city.

Mr. C. H. Zerhorst, of this city, is spending his holidays at Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo, N.Y.

Mr. John Thompson, of Racine, Wis., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Thompson, Dunbar St.

Mrs Walter Alford, Miss Fanny Alford and Master Harry are enjoying a week at the Thousand islands.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. T. O'Hara, of Ottawa, are spending a few days here with Mrs. O'Hara's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Corby.

Ald. W. W. Chown went to Kingston Saturday to attend the Old Boys re-union being held there today. Mrs. Chown and Harold accompanied him.

'Jack" McKenna, who has been for the past eighteen months a patient in the General Hospital, Toronto, has so far recovered as to be able to return home.

Previous to leaving the city, Mr. C. M. Paterson, of the Bank of Commerce was made the recipient of a handsome gold ring and pipe. The presentation was made on Friday evening by a number of his friends in the city.

Chief Newton writes from on board SS. Lakonia at Father Point on July 24. In a few hours the last pilot would leave. So far he had had a most delightful trip. The captain and crew of the Lakonia were all Scotch, and Mrs. Newton was the only woman aboard, and "she was queen." Mr. Geo. H. Pope met them at Montreal, and was most kind, showing them about the city. The Chief writes that he was feeling well, and sends kindest regards to everybody

The Rev. T. Hambly, an old Belleville boy, now of Worthington, Minn., is visiting in the city. He is accompanied by his wife and son, Arthur Fowler. Mrs. Hambly is a daughter of Rev. A. Martin, of this city. She was a delegate from the Pipestone district to the recent Epworth League Convention, Detroit. They have recently brought to a successful completion a very elaborate institutional church, and are taking a well earned vacation.

The Sand Banks correspondent of the Picton Gazette says: Miss Lillian and Josephine Crossman are easily the best tennis players here. Miss Corby holds first place as driver. Mr. H. Corby treated the party to a champagne dinner after the progressive euchre Monday night. Those registered from Belleville are: Mr. and Mrs. H. Corby, Miss A. M. Corby, Mr. and Mrs. Col. Lazier, Mrs. K. M. Leache, Mrs. C. M. Stork, Miss Gertie Stork, Mr. J. V. Jenkins and family, Sheriff Hope and family, Mrs. L. W. Yeomans, Mr. D. M. Waters and family, Miss Constance Weller, Miss Margaret Webster, Miss Ethel Lingham, Mr. E. Phippen.

Half-Sick If you feel run down, are easily tired, if your nerves are weak and your blood is thin, then begin to take the good old standard family medicine, Ayer's Sarsaparilla. If constipated, use Ayer's Pills. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

County Jail Notes.

In the County Jail at the present time there are confined 15 males and 1 female. Of this number 4 have been sentenced to terms in the Central Prison, one to the Reformatory for boys, one to the Mercer Reformatory and two are awaiting transference to the asylum.

John Rogers, who is charged with threatening to shoot Mrs. Vollick, of Madoc, will be tried to-morrow by Judge Lazier.

An elderly man named Thos. Grills, from Hungerford, is in jail awaiting trial on the charge of threatening to do grievous bodily harm.

DEAF AS A DOOR NAIL. Not an uncommon expression, but quite true of many people whose hearing can be perfectly restored by inhaling Catarrhozone. It quickly relieves and cures all kinds of catarrh, catarrhal deafness, and diseases of the respiratory organs. Don't give up hope till you have tested Catarrhozone. It has restored lost hearing to thousands, and can do the same for you. Catarrhozone is a vegetable antiseptic, pleasant and convenient to use, absolutely certain to quickly benefit and ultimately cure. Two months' treatment $1.00. Small size 25c. At druggists or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Sports and Pastimes

LACROSSE.

Results on Saturday:

Toronto 6, Montreal 4.
Capitals 15, Nationals 0.
Shamrocks 8, Cornwall 1.
Brantford 7, Port Hope 5.
St. Catharines 8, Tecumsehs 1.
Hespeler 2, Galt 1 (Junior C.L.A.)

THE ANAEMIC YOUNG GIRL.

Perhaps she is sixteen. Suddenly she seems to lose strength, her beauty fades because her strength fails, her eyes lose their lustre. How her spirit droops! It alarms you, but all this may be corrected quickly. Get her Ferrozone, it is a nerve tonic, it aids the stomach to do its work. Appetite? She'll eat anything and digest it, too. Ferrozone is an absolute specific for the anaemia of young people. Ask your druggist for it.

WOOL CRASH.

People are asking what it is. Wool crash is a sort of misnomer. It is not crash, but simply a light cool worsted in a crash weave. Hold it up to the light—you can see through it. Yet it's as tough and strong almost as thick beaver, and wiry enough to hold its shape. For a cool summer vacation knockabout suit, wool crash takes the lead. Good enough, too, for business. Come, see! Suit prices, $3.75, $5, $6 and $7.50.—Quick & Robertson, Belleville's Best Clothiers.

Georgetown's Unique Fence.

Georgetown has nothing which better proves her age than the curious old fence rails in front of three houses on the north side of P street, between Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth streets. They are rarely pointed out to the visiotr, but there is a certain amount of interest attached to them.

When the English troops looted the city in 1812 they burned, in addition to the capitol, a great quantity of arms and ammunition at the navy yard. The stocks of the rifles were destroyed by the fire, but the thrifty citizens of Georgetown made use of the barrels. They were sunk into cement, joined together, and a small spike was placed in each muzzle. An ornamental fence was the result.

Indentations on the barrels showing where the sights were removed and where the stocks were fastened may be seen today. The old rifles are defending the property from the footsteps of marauding children, even as they belched flame at the advancing British nine decades ago.—Washington Times.

[illegible] d'If.

The Chateau [illegible] upon the little rock island of [illegible] name, has three titles to fame. [illegible] built, or at least fortified, by Francis [illegible] it was used in 1774 for the imprisonment of Mirabeau, but it is much more renowned for its place in fiction than for its place in history since Alexandre Dumas gave it such eminence in the scenery of his "Count of Monte-Christo." This castle has just been sold by public auction and was knocked down for the price of 5,500 francs to a modest retired sea captain of Marseilles.—Philadelphia Record.

She Knew Aaron Burr.

Mrs. Henry Chadwick of Brooklyn, who is eighty-four years old, tells of seeing Aaron Burr. She is the granddaughter of Benjamin Botts, who defended Burr in his trial for treason at Richmond in 1807. Her father owned a farm near Jamaica, on Long Island, adjoining one owned by Burr. When she saw Colonel Burr he was seventy-seven years old, withered and bent, but his famous eyes were still black and piercing. Burr died in 1836. Mrs. Chadwick also knew Chief Justice Marshall well.

LATEST NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS

As Furnished to The Intelligencer by H. R. Beattie, Stock Broker.

New York, July 27.

Stock	Op'g	H'st	L'st	Close.
Atchison	63	65	62⅛	64⅝
do. pref	87¼	89½	87¼	89
St. Paul	139	142½	138½	141½
Mo. P.	96½	98⅜	96⅜	97¼
Union Pac	74	75⅜	73⅜	75⅜
C. P. R.	121	124	121	123⅜
South Pac.	40¼	43⅜	40¼	43½
R. I.	21⅜	23⅜	21	23⅜
Ills. C.	128½	132¼	128½	131¼
Sou. Ry.	20¼	21⅜	20	21⅜
Texas	25	26½	24¾	26⅜
B & O.	81¼	83	81	82¼
N. Y. C.	118	120½	118	120½
Penna	120½	123	120⅜	122⅜
Soo	50	53	50	53
T. W.	94	95	94	95
Erie	27½	29⅜	27¼	29¼
do. pref.	66¼	67⅜	66	67⅜
Reading	47¼	50	46⅝	49¾
C. O.	31½	32¼	31	31¾
O. & W.	22⅛	22⅜	21⅞	22⅜
Manhattan	131⅜	133	131	133
W. C.	16¼	16¼	16⅛	16⅛
L. & N	102½	104	102	104
A. F.	30	33	30	32¾
Nor.	60⅛	62	60	62
Wab.	20	22½	20	22½
do pref.	35⅜	37¼	35⅜	37
W.U.	82¼	83¼	82½	83¼
C. G. W.	14⅛	15¼	13⅞	14¾
T.C.I.	36½	40	36	39
U.S. Stl.	22⅜	24	22⅜	23⅝
do pref.	70	71⅜	69½	71¾
Sugar	114	115⅜	113	115⅜
B. R. T.	41½	45¼	41½	44¾
Po.	92½	94¾	92½	94¾
A. C. P.	38½	40⅜	37¼	40⅜
Met.	113½	115¾	113⅛	115⅜
A'c	18	18¼	17	18

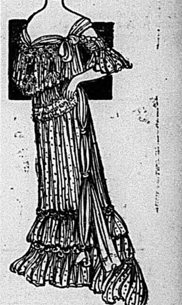
Sept. wheat opened at 77½; closed at 78⅜
Sept. corn opened at 52½; closed at 52¾

FOR WARM DAYS.

Linen Coats—The Question of Petticoats and Shoes.

The linen coat of short or three-quarter length lends itself to a variety of elaborations. Very smart motor coats are made of linen and simply strapped. Needless to say, they must be extremely well cut.

There are some linen coats made in three-quarter effects, and these are very smart and useful for traveling, especially in the iron gray mixtures which come in the better linens this year.



A DANCING FROCK.

Skirts which just escape the ground demand smart shoes, and in Paris fancy footwear is the rule, even red and pale blue kid being worn; but nothing can be smarter than the bronze or patent leather Louis XV. shoe, fastening with a buckle or a bow of grosgrain ribbon.

White cambric petticoats are the thing for muslin frocks, but foulards, plain taffetas and wash silks are to be preferred woolen gowns.

The old fashioned brown holland is being revived, and it is trimmed with torchon lace and embroidery. When this material is well made and worn with right accessories it forms a charming costume.

The evening dress in the cut is of dotted muslin trimmed with bands of shirring and honiton lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

White or tan linen crash makes smart Norfolk suits for small boys.

Silk shirt waist suits figure among useful and elegant modes of the season.

Woman's smart "ties" for street wear show the high military heel. Tennis shoes come in white canvas, tan and black calf.

Women's socks (reaching to the knee) are a warm weather novelty and come in cotton or lisle thread, black or white, with clocks and heavy black silk embroidery.

Cheviots, meltons, whipcords, khaki, crash, linen and silk are fabrics in use for men's saddle coats, riding breeches, topcoats, cross country long coats and automobile suits.

Quick & Robertson's for Fine Clothes

There's no use of disputing the fact that this store stands pre-eminent in this city as the store for Men's Fine Clothes.

With our large and pleasing varieties, up-to-date styles, and good making, we've won the trade of every man, and especially the trade of those men who are particular about the clothes they wear.

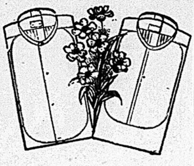
And why shouldn't we? You can't find a store that has, Ready-Made, such exclusive styles in suitings and summer garments as we are showing and everyone of them is from the best British and Canadian Mills.

Then, too, every garment is built to come up to the our high standard--built by the best makers who know how and do give close attention to important parts of tailoring—such as adjusting the collars, shaping the shoulders, proper placing of the sleeves and stays and making of the button holes.

Clothes made this way never lose their shape. And by so doing we have overcome that appearance which markes clothes as being Ready-Made.

The prices for such goodness you'd expect to be high but they are not—are no more than you would pay for ordinary sorts elsewhere.

MEN'S SUMMER FURNISHINGS
.... AND ....
STRAW HATS



The Largest Variety assures the Easiest Choosing.

That's just what's bringing more men to this store every day—they are getting into the fact that the selections Quick & Robertson shows in every line are the largest and most liberal in town—right in every way; in quality the highest, in style the latest and in price the fairest. Better choose now while the choosing is good.

QUICK & ROBERTSON
Agents in Belleville for W. R. Johnston & Co.'s Famous Clothing.

3 Cardinal Points
of our now celebrated
Auto Valvo Blue Flame Oil Stoves
are
Economical on oil
Quick bakers
Powerful heaters
The W. W. CHOWN Company, Limited

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

NEWS OF THE DISTRICT.

INTERESTING HAPPENINGS IN THIS VICINITY RECENTLY.

R. R. Casement, Madoc, has closed down the electric light plant because it is not paying expenses.

F. F. Stinson, the popular principal of Camden East Public School, has been engaged as principal of Stirling Public School, a four-teacher school.

A thunderstorm passed over Elzevir on Monday. Several cattle were killed by lightning. Ernest Kleinstenber, Dennis Holt, and Jas. Nudo, were amongst the losers.

George Jocelyn, an employee of Pratt & Armstrong's heading mill, Tweed, struck his elbow against a revolving circular saw, which cut into the bone at the joint.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of George Bunnett, near Plainfield, when his niece, Miss Emma F. Doonan, who has resided in Tweed for the past year or so, was united in marriage to George Lafountain.

Thomas Grills, Hungerford, was placed under arrest in Tweed on Saturday evening on a charge of assault, laid by Samuel Bowers, a neighboring farmer. The trouble arose over a small timber deal between the two parties. Grills has been committed for trial.

On Friday morning little Austin Francis, son of George Francis, Tweed, was in the act of crossing the street in front of McGowan's butcher shop, when he was knocked down by one of Johnson's livery rigs driven by James Finley. The lad, who is about ten years of age, sustained a nasty scalp wound.

The Melrose Oil Syndicate has purchased from Mr. Klinger, Bradford, Pa., the drilling machinery in use at the Melrose well for some time. The machinery is heavy enough to drill to a depth of 4,000 feet. Active operations have commenced, an active, responsible man, who has been a successful operator for twenty or thirty years in the oil regions in Pennsylvania, being in charge.

John Kincaid, one of the oldest residents of Hungerford township, passed away on Monday evening at his home in the second concession near Roslin. Deceased had been ailing, but his death, which was due principally to old age, was quite unexpected. He was born in Ireland. Deceased who was seventy-four years of age, is survived by five sons and one daughter. His wife died some twenty years ago.

Piles To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & Co., Toronto.
Dr. Chase's Ointment

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions ONE CENT A WORD. No local charged as less than twenty-five words

A regular meeting of the City Council will be held this evening.

A lady who left a leather music portfolio can secure same by calling at the Intelligencer office.

The only occupant of the cells since Saturday night was a tramp.

A rumor was current in the city yesterday that the alleged murderer at Picton had escaped from custody, but the story lacks confirmation.

The police last evening answered a call to a house near the wharf, it being reported that a man was abusing his wife. All was quiet when an officer arrived upon the scene.

Little Rube Cooper, son of Ald. Cooper, was nearly drowned in the river on Saturday. He fell out of a boat, and another boy caught him just as he was going down for the third time.

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

Tabernacle, University, Holloway Street, Sunday Schools' annual picnic to Twelve o'Clock Point, Wednesday, 29th, steamer Aletha. Three trips, eight, eleven and two o'clock. 24-25-26-27

Sign the petition to stop net-fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

Wanted.—A youth to learn the printing trade, one with slight experience would be accepted. Apply to The Intelligencer Office. 25-2td

Popular Wednesday Holiday excursion to Twelve o'Clock Point on Wednesday, July 29th, auspices of Emmanuel Church per steamer Ella Ross. Boat leaves Rathbun's dock at 9 a.m., 2 p.m., 8 p.m. Tickets 25c. j25-27

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

Mr. A. Shearing, Bridge street, providing the sky is clear, will this evening have his telescope out, and says that those interested in such things can have a look at the comet. About 9 o'clock is the best time.

DEATHS

At the residence of his aunt, Mrs. J. M. Benjamin, 4 Bellevue Terrace, on the 27th inst., Warren Hilton, youngest son of Horace Powell, aged 1 year and 7 days.

Funeral private. Ottawa and Chicago papers please copy.

CHURCH CHIMES OF YESTERDAY

NOTES OF SERVICES IN DIFFERENT PLACES OF WORSHIP YESTERDAY.

Bridge Street.

"Lessons from the life of the late Pope Leo XIII" was the subject discussed last evening by the Rev. Dr. Crothers, before a large congregation. The Rev. gentleman took his text from St. John 13th chapter and 35th verse:

> "By this shall all men know that ye are still my disciples, if ye have love one to another."

In the course of his remarks Dr. Crothers said the late Pope was the head of millions of people of the globe. That he was a stateman was evidenced by his encyclical letters which were masterly productions. His influence in the world for good was great. He was also an industrious man, even upon his dying bed exercising religious functions. The reunion of christendom was his desire, and a noble example of his life was the urging upon his clergy the necessity of the study of God's word. He endeavored to carry out the great principle of love to mankind. In his concluding remarks the preacher expressed the desire that all would at last meet in the world above, where there would be no division of church, where all would be one with Christ.

The hymns sang were appropriate, having been written by prelates of the Catholic Church. During the service "Rock of Ages" was sung by a quartette composed of Misses Vermilyea and Price and Messrs. Jessop and Pratt. As the congregation were leaving Prof. Hunt played "The Dead March in Saul."

Christ Church.

Rev. Prof. Howard conducted the services and preached two able discourses. In the evening his text was from St. Matthew, 8th chapter and 2nd verse:

> "And behold, there came a leper and worshipped Him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt thou canst make me clean."

Baptist.

Good congregations were present at the services yesterday, which were conducted by the Pastor, Rev. O. C. Elliott. In the evening the Rev. gentleman's text was from St. Luke, 16th chapter and 26th verse:

> "And besides all this, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed, so that they which would pass from hence to you cannot; neither can they pass to us that would come from thence."

Mrs. (Rev.) W. L. Newton, of Durham, sang a solo at the service, which was beautifully rendered and much appreciated.

St. Andrew's Church.

Rev. Mr. Glover, of Kingston, yesterday occupied the pulpit of this church in the absence of the Pastor. The sermons by the Rev. gentleman were much appreciated. In the evening his text was from St. John, 3rd chapter and 3rd verse:

> "Jesus answered and said unto him, verily, verily, I say unto thee except a man be born again, he cannot see the Kingdom of God."

St. Thomas'.

The Rector Rev. G. R. Beamish, was yesterday assisted at the services by the Rev. C. J. Boulden, M. A., of Brockville, who preached both morning aand evening. His discourse were able efforts. In the morning the Rev. gentleman's text was from Genesis, 2nd chapter and 12th verse, the subject being in reference to God creating light. During the evening service Mr. and Mrs. Chambers rendered a duet entitled, "Glory to Thee My God this night.

St. Michael's

The above church has been draped in mourning for the death of the late Pope Leo XIII, and yesterday morning Rev. Father Hanley, who has charge of the parish in the absence of Rev. Mgr. Farrelly, delivered a feeling discourse in relation to the lessons taught by the passing away of the church's head, whose life had been a benediction and his peaceful death an object lesson to all. The Rev. Father's remarks were reverently listened to by the large congregation.

New Shoes Don't Pinch

IF YOU USE FOOT ELM.

It's a dread with some people getting new shoes. They pinch, draw and hurt the feet for a week or more until they get "broke in." All this suffering may be avoided by shaking a Foot Elm powder in the shoes. It makes them slip on easily, fit perfectly and prevents the drawing of the new leather. Besides this, Foot Elm preserves the leather, prevents it hardening and cracking, and prolongs the life of the shoe. You get double wear out of your shoes, and comfort every day you wear them by using Foot Elm. Price 25 cents a box of 18 powders at druggists or by mail. B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc: Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mr. Alf. Luscombe, of Schribner, is home on a visit.

Mr. Ernest Frye, of Brownville, N.Y., is in the city.

Mr. Ed. F. Coulson, of Toronto spent Sunday in the city.

Mrs. (Rev.) W. L. Newton, of Durham, is visiting in the city.

Miss Jennie Galway, of Rochester, N.Y., is visiting in the city.

The Misses McKenna have returned home from visiting in Toronto.

Miss Nellie Arnott, of Toronto, is spending a few days in the city.

Norman Lyng, of Toronto, spent Sunday in the city with his parents.

Mr. G. D. Wilder, of Milwaukee, Wis., is visiting relatives in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Groves leave this week for a trip to the Old Country.

Mr. W. P. Hudson is in the northern portion of the county on business.

Mr. J. F. Reid, of St. Louis, is visiting his brother, Mr. A. N. Reid.

Mr. R. H. Vandewaters is spending a week with friends at Rochester, N.Y.

Messrs. E. W. Holton and W. Hudson, of Deseronto, spent Sunday in the city.

Miss Trenna Wilkins and Miss Lillie Clazie were visiting friends in Deseronto.

Mr. Will Adams, Mr. Ernest Blaind and Mr. W. Embury spent Saturday in Deseronto.

Mr. Chas. Good, of Toronto, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Good, Cedar street.

Mrs. C. B. Caverley, of Inverary, is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. M. Ketcheson, Octavio street.

Miss Lockett, Kingston, is the guest of Miss Helen Landers, George street.

Miss Jennie Galway, of Rochester, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. H. Ransom, William street.

Mr. and Mrs. Angelo M. Read, of Buffalo, are in the city, the guests of Prof. Hunt, George street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Graham, of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, are visiting relatives in the city.

Miss Pearl Montague has returned to her home in Gananoque, after spending some time in the city.

Mr. C. H. Zerhorst, of this city, is spending his holidays at Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo, N.Y.

Mr. John Thompson, of Racine, Wis., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Thompson, Dunbar St.

Mrs Walter Alford, Miss Fanny Alford and Master Harry are enjoying a week at the Thousand islands.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. T. O'Hara, of Ottawa, are spending a few days here with Mrs. O'Hara's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Corby.

Ald. W. W. Chown went to Kingston Saturday to attend the Old Boys re-union being held there today. Mrs. Chown and Harold accompanied him.

"Jack" McKenna, who has been for the past eighteen months a patient in the General Hospital, Toronto, has so far recovered as to be able to return home.

Previous to leaving the city, Mr. C. M. Paterson, of the Bank of Commerce was made the recipient of a handsome gold ring and pipe. The presentation was made on Friday evening by a number of his friends in the city.

Chief Newton writes from on board SS. Lakonia at Father Point on July 24. In a few hours the last pilot would leave. So far he had had a most delightful trip. The captain and crew of the Lakonia were all Scotch, and Mrs. Newton was the only woman aboard, and "she was queen." Mr. Geo. H. Pope met them at Montreal, and was most kind, showing them about the city. The Chief writes that he was feeling well, and sends kindest regards to everybody.

The Rev. T. Hambly, an old Belleville boy, now of Worthington, Minn., is visiting in the city. He is accompanied by his wife and son, Arthur Fowler. Mrs. Hambly is a daughter of Rev. A. Martin, of this city. She was a delegate from the Pipestone district to the recent Epworth League Convention, Detroit. They have recently brought to a successful completion a very elaborate institutional church, and are taking a well earned vacation.

The Sand Banks correspondent of the Picton Gazette says: Miss Lillian and Josephine Crossman are easily the best tennis players here. Miss Corby holds first place as driver. Mr. H. Corby treated the party to a champagne dinner after the progressive euchre Monday night. Those registered from Belleville are: Mr. and Mrs. H. Corby, Miss A. M. Corby, Mr. and Mrs. Col. Lazier, Mrs. K. M. Leache, Mrs. C. M. Stork, Miss Gertie Stork, Mr. J. V. Jenkins and family, Sheriff Hope and family, Mrs. L. W. Yeomans, Mr. D. M. Waters and family, Miss Constance Weller, Miss Margaret Webster, Miss Ethel Lingham, Mr. E. Phippen.

Half-Sick If you feel run down, are easily tired, if your nerves are weak and your blood is thin, then begin to take the good old standard family medicine, Ayer's Sarsaparilla. If constipated, use Ayer's Pills. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

County Jail Notes.

In the County Jail at the present time there are confined 15 males and 1 female. Of this number 4 have been sentenced to terms in the Central Prison, one to the Reformatory for boys, one to the Mercer Reformatory and two are awaiting transference to the asylum.

John Rogers, who is charged with threatening to shoot Mrs. Vollick, of Madoc, will be tried to-morrow by Judge Lazier.

An elderly man named Thos. Grills, from Hungerford, is in jail awaiting trial on the charge of threatening to do grievous bodily harm.

DEAF AS A DOOR NAIL. Not an uncommon expression, but quite true of many people whose hearing can be perfectly restored by inhaling Catarrhozone. It quickly relieves and cures all kinds of catarrh, catarrhal deafness, and diseases of the respiratory organs. Don't give up hope till you have tested Catarrhozone. It has restored lost hearing to thousands, and can do the same for you. Catarrhozone is a vegetable antiseptic, pleasant and convenient to use, absolutely certain to quickly benefit and ultimately cure. Two months' treatment $1.00. Small size 25c. At druggists or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Sports and Pastimes

LACROSSE.

Results on Saturday:

Toronto 6, Montreal 4.
Capitals 15, Nationals 0.
Shamrocks 8, Cornwall 1.
Brantford 7, Port Hope 5.
St. Catharines 8, Tecumsehs 1.
Hespeler 2, Galt 1 (Junior C.L.A.)

THE ANAEMIC YOUNG GIRL.

Perhaps she is sixteen. Suddenly she seems to lose strength, her beauty fades because her strength fails, her eyes lose their lustre. How her spirit droops! It alarms you, but all this may be corrected quickly. Get her Ferrozone, it is a nerve tonic, it aids the stomach to do its work. Appetite? She'll eat anything and digest it, too. Ferrozone is an absolute specific for the anaemia of young people. Ask your druggist for it.

WOOL CRASH.

People are asking what it is. Wool crash is a sort of misnomer. It is not crash, but simply a light cool worsted in a crash weave. Hold it up to the light—you can see through it. Yet it's as tough and strong almost as thick beaver, and wiry enough to hold its shape. For a cool summer vacation knockabout suit, wool crash takes the lead. Good enough, too, for business. Come, see! Suit prices, $3.75, $5, $6 and $7.50.—Quick & Robertson, Belleville's Best Clothiers.

Georgetown's Unique Fence.

Georgetown has nothing which better proves her age than the curious old fence rails in front of three houses on the north side of P street, between Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth streets. They are rarely pointed out to the visitor, but there is a certain amount of interest attached to them.

When the English troops looted the city in 1812 they burned, in addition to the capitol, a great quantity of arms and ammunition at the navy yard. The stocks of the rifles were destroyed by the fire, but the thrifty citizens of Georgetown made use of the barrels. They were sunk into cement, joined together, and a small spike was placed in each muzzle. An ornamental fence was the result.

Indentations on the barrels showing where the sights were removed and where the stocks were fastened may be seen today. The old rifles are defending the property from the footsteps of marauding children, even as they belched flame at the advancing British nine decades ago.—Washington Times.

The Chateau d'If.

The Chateau d'If, upon the little rock island of the same name, has three titles to fame. It was built, or at least fortified, by Francis I.; it was used in 1774 for the imprisonment of Mirabeau, but it is much more renowned for its place in fiction than for its place in history since Alexandre Dumas gave it such eminence in the scenery of his "Count of Monte-Christo." This castle has just been sold by public auction and was knocked down for the price of 5,500 francs to a modest retired sea captain of Marseilles.—Philadelphia Record.

She Knew Aaron Burr.

Mrs. Henry Chadwick of Brooklyn, who is eighty-four years old, tells of seeing Aaron Burr. She is the granddaughter of Benjamin Botts, who defended Burr in his trial for treason at Richmond in 1807. Her father owned a farm near Jamaica, on Long Island, adjoining one owned by Burr. When she saw Colonel Burr he was seventy-seven years old, withered and bent, but his famous eyes were still black and piercing. Burr died in 1836. Mrs. Chadwick also knew Chief Justice Marshall well.

LATEST NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS

As Furnished to The Intelligencer by H. R. Beattie, Stock Broker.

New York, July 27.

Stock	Op'g	H'st	L'st	Close.
Atchison	63	65	62⅛	64⅝
do. pref	87¾	89½	87¾	89
St. Paul	139	142¼	138¼	141¼
Mo. P.	96½	98⅝	96⅛	97¾
Union Pac	74	75⅝	73¾	75⅝
C. P. R.	121	124	121	123⅝
South Pac	40¼	43⅜	40¼	43⅛
R. I.	21⅛	23⅞	21	23⅝
Ills. C.	128½	132¼	128½	131¼
Sou. Ry.	20¼	21⅛	20	21⅜
Texas	25	26⅛	24¾	26⅜
B & O.	81¼	83	81	82¼
N. Y. C.	118	120½	118	120½
Penna	120½	123	120½	122⅜
Soo	50	53	50	53
T. W.	94	95	94	95
Erie	27½	29¾	27¼	29¼
do. pref.	66¼	67⅞	66	67⅞
Reading	47¾	50	46⅝	49¾
C. O.	31½	32¼	31	31¾
O. & W.	22⅛	22⅞	21⅞	22⅜
Manhattan	131⅞	133	131	133
W. C.	16¼	16¼	16⅛	16⅛
L. & N.	102½	104	102	104
A. F.	30	33	30	32¾
Nor.	60⅛	62	60	62
Wab.	20	22½	20	22½
do pref.	35⅜	37¼	35⅜	37
W.U.	82¼	83¾	82½	83⅜
C. G. W.	14⅛	15¼	13⅞	14¾
T.C.I.	36½	40	36	39
U.S. Stl.	22⅜	24	22⅜	23⅞
do pref.	70	71⅜	69½	71¾
Sugar	114	115⅜	113	115⅜
B. R. T.	41½	45¾	41⅛	44¾
Po.	92½	94¾	92½	94¾
A. C. P.	38½	40⅜	37¾	40⅜
Met.	113⅞	115¾	113⅛	115¾
A'c	18	18¼	17	18

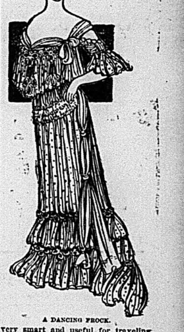
Sept. wheat opened at 77½; closed at 78⅜
Sept. corn opened at 52½; closed at 52¾

FOR WARM DAYS.

Linen Coats—The Question of Petticoats and Shoes.

The linen coat of short or three-quarter length lends itself to a variety of elaborations. Very smart motor coats are made of linen and simply strapped. Needless to say, they must be extremely well cut.

There are some linen coats made in three-quarter effects, and these are very smart and useful for traveling, especially in the iron gray mixtures which come in the better linens this year.



A DANCING FROCK.

Skirts which just escape the ground demand smart shoes, and in Paris fancy footwear is the rule, even red and pale blue kid being worn; but nothing can be smarter than the bronze or patent leather Louis XV. shoe, fastening with a buckle or a bow of grosgrain ribbon.

White cambric petticoats are the thing for muslin frocks, but foulards, plain taffetas and wash silks are to be preferred woolen gowns.

The old fashioned brown holland is being revived, and it is trimmed with torchon lace and embroidery. When this material is well made and worn with right accessories it forms a charming costume.

The evening dress in the cut is of dotted muslin trimmed with bands of shirring and honiton lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

White or tan linen crash makes smart Norfolk suits for small boys.

Silk shirt waist suits figure among useful and elegant modes of the season.

Woman's smart "ties" for street wear show the high military heel. Tennis shoes come in white canvas, tan and black calf.

Women's socks (reaching to the knee) are a warm weather novelty and come in cotton or lisle thread, black or white, with clocks and heavy black silk embroidery.

Cheviots, meltons, whipcords, khaki, crash, linen and silk are fabrics in use for men's saddle coats, riding breeches, topcoats, cross country long coats and automobile coats and suits.

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

Three Days Sale ...OF...

Muslins and Ginghams.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday.

MUSLINS

All our Fancy Muslins from 10 to 15c, sale price........ 8c
All our Fancy Muslins from 20 to 25c, sale price........ 15c
All our Fancy Muslins from 30 to 50c, sale price........ 25c

GINGHAMS AND ZEPHYRS

All our Ginghams and Zephyrs from 10 to 12½c, sale price........ 8c
All our Ginghams and Zephyrs from 15 to 25c, sale price........ 12½c

If you are wanting any of the above lines you will readily understand by inspecting the stock, which contains both quality and pattern what a grand bargain is to be had during this sale.

JUST ARRIVED— New Ties, New Belts, New Collars. The very latest New York styles.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

DIRECT IMPORTERS

Daily Intelligencer.

THE INTELLIGENCER IS SOLD AT J. W. London's and G. Wardhaugh's.

Local Reading Advertisements.

ords 50 cents; 2 cents per word first insertion, per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words; contracts for ong periods made at office.

Fresh Salted No. 1 Spanish Peanuts

30 cents a lb. Selling lots of them every day.

SWEET CREAM—

Nice and rich and fresh, just in this evening.

CHAS. S. CLAPP

Will You Ask Us

In seeking a perfume worthy of our exacting patrons we have found YOLANDE which is positively exquisite.

'Tis not enough for us to believe this—we wish to convince you. No way so easy as for you to ask us about YOLANDE next time you are in our store. It will be a revelation to you for YOLANDE is worth knowing about.

McKeown's DRUG STORE

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario.
AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE, No. 46 Bridge St., Belleville.

J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

Lost chances never leave any trail.

MONITOR

This is another fine Mantle Clock, not quite so expensive as Gadski in last week's advertisement, but fully as serviceable. It is an eight-day hour and half strike on cathedral gong, fancy columns with trimmings and drop handles, in every way a beautiful clock. Our price only $5.50.

T. BLACKBURN.

Eyes examined free of charge. Jeweller & Optician.

Getting Ready.....

Our special bargains for this week.

See to-morrow's paper for particulars.

McINTOSH BROS.

THE MASTER OF ALL

WHOEVER WOULD BECOME CHIEF MUST BE THE SERVER.

SERVICE SUPREME MEASURE.

Usefulness in the World Brings Eminence—Lasting Fame Is Not Won by Riches—Profound Truth Proved by Reason and Experience, and Is Applicable to All Walks in Life.

Entered according to Act of Parliament of Canada, in the year 1903, by William Baily, of Toronto, at the Dep't of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Chicago, July 26.—In these days of social and domestic struggle the problem of family help is rapidly becoming one of the first importance in our great cities. Dr. Talmage's sermon shows that domestic service far from being a vocation to be despised, should rightly be regarded as one of honor and lucrative reward. The text is Matthew xx, 27, "Whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant."

Startling theme! Apparently a contradiction in terms; but really a profound truth proved by reason and experience. The men most honored in the world to-day and the men of the past, whose names history will never forget, are the men who have rendered the world the best service. Eminence and lasting fame are won not by riches or titles, but by doing something that benefits others. That is a sound general principle which applies not only to the highest walks of life, but to the humblest.

The tremendous opportunities of usefulness open to a consecrated domestic is the subject. No position to-day accessible to a woman of ordinary mental and physical capabilities will bring greater returns, financially and spiritually, than that offered to the average servant girl. The humble domestic servant, be she cook in the kitchen, or a guardian in the nursery, or a waitress in the dining room, or simply a chambermaid, may live a life which will carry fragrance wherever it goes.

But this sermonic theme has its dark side as well as its bright. It is shadowed either by avoidance or by slothfulness—by avoidance because in despising it and seeking other occupations inconveniences and social difficulties are entailed on others; by slothfulness because no one can do a duty badly or carelessly without deteriorating in character. The kitchen or the nursery may be a throne room, with a consecrated domestic servant as a queen, or it may be a den of miserable drudgery and the scene of constant bickering and discontent. In olden times there were two classes of servants, both male and female. The one was that consecrated band of workers which clearly realized that true service, no matter how humble, implied honor and usefulness. Thus Joshua, great man that he was, gladly and willingly became the servant of Moses, and Elisha was the servant of the great Elijah, and Eliezer was the servant of Abraham and Samuel of Eli. These men knew that they, in their humble sphere, were working for the advancement of the world as truly as were their masters in their more conspicuous sphere.

The second class of servants was composed of the sullen slaves captured in war. They were, for the most part, disgruntled and rebellious servitors. They felt that the tyranny of fate had placed the captives' manacles upon their wrists, and as soon as possible they would flee when chance of escape offered. So there are women to-day serving in the kitchen and, in the nursery who act as if they believe that they are captured slaves. They are grumbling against their work and meager pay. They are spending one half of their time in finding fault with their mistresses and the other half in trying to find out a way of escape into some other occupation where they can have more liberty and increased emoluments. As we would praise the grand work of the consecrated domestic, so we would denounce the evil behavior of the "wicked and slothful servant." We would try to show that the servant girl who buries her one talent in a napkin and refuses to do her legitimate work is just as reprehensible in God's sight as the king or queen who deliberately squanders a life's capital of ten talents. Divine rewards and punishments are not dependent upon the amount of returns accomplished by God's children, but upon the faithfulness and consecration with which we perform the tasks he has given us to do.

The word "royal" is not restricted to station. It is legitimately applied to any woman whose conduct in her own sphere is noble and faithful—conduct "which is becoming or fitting to a queen." Nor is the financial compensation for her service inadequate. Her remuneration is as large as any other wage earner in proportion to the physical labor and mental training which are required of her. Prove it? I will. Compare to-day the net financial returns of the average servant and that of the unskilled worker in any other departments of life. In our large cities the nurse girl receives at least $3.50 to $4 and $5 per week, the good cook from $4 to $7, even to $10, per week, the waitress $4 per week, the chambermaid $4 per week. That means that each one of the household servants receives, usually, wages running anywhere from $17 to $25 per month. That is more than many of the well-dressed floorwalkers in the large city stores get. That is more than the average typewriter receives, for she has to pay rent and board, which the domestic servant gets free. That is as much as a farm hand or a private soldier in the United States army receives. "Oh, no," some one answers, "that is not true. A floorwalker will get $12 per week. There is many a typewriter receiving $10 per week, or about $10 per month." But, my brother, when you estimate the salary of the down-town clerks you must at the same time estimate their expenses. As I remarked, the servant girl receives a greater net return, not gross, than any other class of labor requiring equal mental and physical equipment. A merchant never considers the gross returns of his business, but the net. He says to himself: "These goods were sold for so much. Now I must find out my expenses—so much for store rent, so much for night watchman, so much for expressage, so much for commercial travelers, so much for advertising, so much for taxes, so much for this and so much for that and the other thing." Then that merchant subtracts the expenses from the gross receipts, and he says, "I make so much net." No financial advantage in being a downtown clerk and receiving $8 or $10 a week if the expenses of room rent and car fare and the lunch counter and board and laundry bill and extra clothes absorb all the salary. And so when you place the net income of an average servant girl against that of an average clerk you find her salary is mostly gain, while his, at the end of the week, after his legitimate expenses have been met, is absolutely nothing or about nothing.

I am talking about the princely net income of an average servant girl. But if you are going to judge the condition of each class of laborer by the standard of money then the servant girl is not only better paid, but she receives steadier service all the year round. She is not laid off like the masons or carpenters or the lake sailors or like the many employes who, though during the busy seasons they receive high wages, are idle during certain months of the year. The royal domestic can have perpetual employment. Thus, from a financial standpoint, I would commend to our sisters and daughters this noble work of the kitchen and the nursery. I commend the occupation to you because the financial returns are princely in comparison with the mental equipment which many of you are able to consecrate to this service.

Another advantage offered by domestic service is that its surroundings are purer. The royal domestic is subjected to less temptations than are her sisters who are earning their livelihood in other walks of life. Queen Victoria in Windsor Castle for over fifty years refused knowingly to give audience to any man or woman of impure and wicked life. A royal servant girl, if she enters a Christian home, can, as a queen, choose her own associates. She can go with good people if she will. The choice rests with her and with her alone.

This statement is not always true in reference to women who have to work for their living outside of the four walls of a home. Without they are often compelled, even against their wills, to inhale the vitiating atmosphere of sin. They are often compelled to see sights which their eyes ought never to behold and to hear sayings which ought never to be heard and to stand shoulder to shoulder with moral lepers, whose sins, if not contagious, by too much association may become fatally infectious. Here, for instance, is a young girl just arrived from the country. She decides to enter a factory and become a day wage earner. That factory has scores of girls she would never dare introduce to her old Christian mother. That young girl within four weeks' service in that factory has seen and heard more wickedness than she has ever known before. Then this young girl goes from her factory to her boarding house. Upon her small salary she cannot afford to pay a very big board bill. The result is that she lives in a boarding house near her daily work. That boarding house in all probability has young girls in it whose lives are not what they ought to be. Seeing sin by day and necessarily seeing and hearing about sin by night has a hardening influence upon the young girl's soul. Of course, the Divine Protector can and will preserve that young country girl true and pure and noble if she keeps clinging to the omnipotent arm, but without that superhuman aid the moral tendency for the female worker in the factory is downward.

The royal domestic should be among the most honored of all women. It largely depends on her readiness to perform her duties and her efficiency in her service whether or no this country is to be a nation of homes. "God setteth the solitary in families," or as you could read it in the Bible margin, "God setteth the solitary in a house." What does that mean? Simply this: Every ideal unit of society should be a home. What is an ideal home? A father and a mother for the heads of the table, children for the nursery servants to help provide for the domestic wants. While the husband is off to business the wife must do her work in the house. But there is a limit to a wife's physical and mental capacities. No average mother can perform her domestic work without help. She cannot be nurse and dressmaker and cook and chambermaid and waitress and marketer all in one. She must have female assistance. She must have a servant or servants to aid her or else she must give up housekeeping. As a strange and unaccountable prejudice has gone abroad against our daughters and sisters going to work as servants in the kitchen, one by one the homes of America are being closed. The husbands and wives, with their children, are going to live in boarding houses and hotels. If you ask the average wife why she gives up housekeeping, she will answer: "I could no longer endure the unreasonableness of servants. The 'servant girl question' simply racked my nerves until I was in torture. One day I would seem to be getting along all right. But if the washing was a little larger than usual, or I complained about my servant being out too late at night, or I had some extra company for dinner, suddenly I would find myself servantless, with all the work to do in the kitchen. I could not stand the strain." When the servant girl goes out of the American home, then the front door of that American home is barred and locked.

The royal domestic is a queen. The kitchen and the nursery are the places where God expects a woman naturally to serve. I have no use for those masculine cynics who would debar women from the different vocations of life. Some men, no matter what the genius of a woman may be, would slam the door of all useful means of earning an honest livelihood in their sisters' faces. They say "a woman should not be a lawyer, a doctor, a minister, a merchant, an artist, a writer or anything else but a wife and a mother." But this is what I do affirm: All things being equal, a woman ought to seek those vocations which are naturally hers and let the men fill those positions which naturally belong to them. It is not natural for a woman to be a soldier, a fireman, a policeman. While, on the other hand, it is natural for her to be a nurse, a dressmaker, a chambermaid, a waitress, a school-teacher and lady's companion, and hundreds of other positions we might easily mention.

Now, when a woman deserts the positions for which God has specially equipped her, what is the inevitable result? Her work is not only left undone, but she becomes a competitor against her father and brothers for theirs. What is again the inevitable result? By the law of supply and demand she not only underbids her brother for his position, but by that bidding the whole system of wages goes down. She is the sufferer. He is the sufferer. The mischief is far reaching. It is the result of her turning aside from her natural employment in which there is pressing need of her service and in which she could find constant occupation at remunerative wages. She leaves a place unfilled and forces her way into a walk of life already overcrowded and in which her competition is injurious to other workers.

"Oh," some one says to me, "that is the old argument of a jealous man. You do not like to feel that your sister is just as smart as you are and perhaps a little smarter and can take away your job, and do it better for less money." No, my friend. I can conscientiously say I have not one jealous hair in my head. The more other people succeed the more I glory in their success, and to me there is no more beautiful sight than to see a young girl whose father and brothers are dead go forth and seek a position which her talent gives her a right to fill and bring money home and throw it in the lap of her widowed mother. But this is the social condition against which I do protest. I protest against our daughters and sisters pushing their fathers and brothers out of work, so that the girls have to support the male members of the family, while the fathers and brothers are idle because their places have been taken by women. I have known scores and hundreds of men over fifty years of age who were physically able to do work, but could not get work merely because their daughters, who at that time should have been at school, were filling the positions which their fathers and brothers ought to have filled.

Now, women of America whom God has called to be consecrated domestics, I plead with you to enter the kitchen and the nursery and the home because that is one of your natural spheres — that is a place where God wants you to work. The Christian domestic should be honored both on earth and in heaven because she is not only able to do her own work, but also to impress her consecrated life indelibly upon others. Did she not do it with the Emperor of all the Russias? When the old nurse of Emperor Alexander died did he not, as well as all his brothers, who were grand dukes, follow that sacred body to the family tomb? They not only followed it afoot, but walked for three long miles through a blinding Russian snowstorm. Did not a humble Christian nurse start forth Lord Shaftesbury upon his great mission of life? When the famous English philanthropist's hair had been silvered by the ravages of many winters he testified in public meeting, "All that I have been able to do for Christ and my fellow men is due to the gospel teachings of my old Christian nurse." As the little Jewish maiden, who was a servant girl, sent the warrior Naaman down to the river Jordan to be cured of leprosy, has there not been in our past lives some consecrated Christian domestic who was able to help send us to the waters of life to be cured of our leprosy of sin? Oh, my sister, never underestimate the opportunities of usefulness of the honorable position of a noble Christian girl serving Christ as a domestic in some humble home.

Thus, in closing, I would speak an earnest word to those women who are about to consecrate their lives to this line of service. God has opened for you mighty possibilities for good. Fit yourself for that work as the Lord Jesus Christ would have you. Make the Bible the chief textbook of your life. Pray and unceasingly pray that the Holy Spirit will inspire you to speak the right word in the right way. Above all, whatsoever your station in life may be, let me urge you to enter the service of Jesus Christ. Not even the subject of your life's occupation can compare in importance with the crucial question whether you are a servant of our Lord. Make that your first, your chief business, that you are accepted of him and that you are obeying his comrades. Look not for your rewards from man, but so live that in the great day of judgment you may hear the best of all encomiums: "Well done! Thou art one of my queens! Thou hast been chief of all women! Thou hast been a faithful servant!"

Must Be Total Abstainers.

The general director of the German railroads is urging the presidents of the various railroad companies to dismiss all employes who are not total abstainers from intoxicants. An accident near Berlin resulted in the death of five persons, and it was caused by the carelessness of a drunken switchman.

DOMINION EXHIBITION
1903 - TORONTO - 1903
AUG. 27th to SEPT. 12th

The Agricultural, Manufacturing and Natural resources of Canada will be exhibited on a scale never before attempted.

DAILY PARADES OF LIVE STOCK

E R

In addition, by order of HIS MAJESTY THE KING

THE JUBILEE PRESENTS

of his august mother, the late Queen Victoria, will be exhibited FREE, as well as by permission of the Dowager Duchess of Dufferin and Ava.

THE DUFFERIN PRESENTS

And by permission of the Countess of Aberdeen treasures

OF IRISH MANUFACTURE

The special features, including an entirely new spectacular production entitled

A CARNIVAL IN VENICE

under the personal direction of Bolossi Kiralfy, will be on a scale never before attempted at an annual fair in any part of the world.

Reduced rates by land and water from everywhere. Consult your station agent.

W. K. McNAUGHT, President. J. O. ORR, Manager and Secretary.

Retiring From Business Sale

NATHAN JONES.

20 per cent. discount on children's Hosiery best grades.

20 per cent. discount on all our Taffeta and Tamaline Silks.

20 per cent. discount on all our Cashmere Taffeta and Kid Gloves.

33⅓ per cent. discount on all our Ladies' Whitewear.

Remember our sale of Ginghams and Muslins at 7c per yd.

NATHAN JONES.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's. At Wallbridge & Clarke's.

Supplies For Camp or Cruise

New York Biscuits

In "In-er Seal" pkgs.

Uneeda "Jinger" Wafers, Butter Gems, Cheese Biscuits, German Zwieback, Pretzelettes, etc., etc.

Christie's Fancy Biscuits

Fresh supplies every week — 40 varities.

Heintz's Pickles

Heintz's Celery Sauce.
Heintz's India Relish.
Heintz's Sweet Midgets.
Heintz's Sweet Pickles.

Spanish Olives

A fine assortment of Olives from 10cts per bottle up.

Campers Supplies

Essence of Coffee, Condensed Milk, Lime Juice, Raspberry Vinegar, Fancy Cheese, New Pack Lobster and Shrimps, French Sardines, Scallops, Deviled Crabs, Concentrated Soups, French Potage, Beef Extracts, etc., etc.

Pickles and Sauces

A complete assortment of English and American Pickles and Sauces, including Pickled Walnuts, Onions, Chow Chow, Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce, Yorkshire Relish, Mushroom Catsup, Harvey's Sauce, Sultana Sauce, Chutney's Capers, Durkee's Salad Dressing, etc., etc.

Delicious Teas

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious English Breakfast Teas in lead packets at 30, 40, 50 and 60cts per lb.

Canned Meats

New Packs. Finest Quality.
Whole Ox Tongues.
Lunch Tongues.
Lamb's Tongues.
Boned Chicken.
Boned Turkey.
Boned Duck.
Pate de foie.
Potted Ham.
Potted Tongue.
Sliced Dried Beef.
Ham Loaf.
Veal Loaf.
Chicken Tamales.
Lunch Beef.
Lunch Bacon.
Chicken, Ham and Tongue.
Pigs Feet.
Jellied Tenderloins.
Vienna Sausages.
Luncheon Sausages.
Baked Beans—plain or in Tomato or Chili Sauce, etc., etc., etc.

Ale and Stout, Wines, etc.

Carling's, Labatt and Davies' Dominion Ale, Bass' Ale, Dow's Sand Porter, Guinness' Stout, in prime condition.

Gurd's Ginger and Soda Water, Appolinaris and Radnor Water.

Barton & Guestier's and Nath. Johnston's Bordeaux Clarets and Sauterne AT POPULAR PRICES.

Rhine Wine and Burgundy, Cordials and Liqueurs.

Light Canadian Wines, red or white, at lowest prices.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
EST'D. 1871.
BRIDGE ST. Tel. 139.
Branch Store
Front St.—Tel. 157.

For pure blood, a bright eye, a clear complexion, a keen appetite, a good digestion and refreshing sleep, TAKE

BRISTOL'S Sarsaparilla

It arouses the Liver, quickens the circulation, brightens the spirits and generally improves the health.

Sixty-eight years trial have proved it to be, the most reliable BLOOD-purifier known.

All druggists sell "BRISTOL'S."

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 37. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, JULY 28, 1903 NO. 73

CONSERVATIVES IN CAUCUS!

Will Decide on Program When G.T.P. Policy Is Announced.

Big Debate on New Transcontinental Line Will Begin on Thursday—The Lawyers Have Signed the Contract—A Five Hours' Discussion on Brockville and Sault Ste. Marie Railway Bill—Will Be No Telephone Exchange of Business

Ottawa, July 28.—On Thursday next the great debate of the session will begin. The contract between the Government and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company has finally passed out of the hands of the lawyers, and the signatures have been attached. Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the House yesterday afternoon said that notice would be given of the resolutions last night or to-day.

Replying to Mr. Borden the Premier stated that within the last half hour he had been informed that the lawyers had finished their work, and the notice of the resolutions would be given forthwith.

An Opposition Caucus.

As soon as the Government's policy is announced the Opposition will hold a caucus to consider the situation.

Amendment Moved.

When the House went into committee on the bill to incorporate the Alliance Bank of Canada Mr. Henderson of Halton moved an amendment making it possible for the Alliance Bank to advance money on American securities only by consent of its shareholders, obtained at a special meeting called for that purpose.

Dr. Sproule and Mr. Lefurgey of East Prince discussed the amendment and the bill, after which Mr. Henderson's amendment was declared lost, and the bill was reported and read a third time.

The bill incorporating the Citizens Bank of Canada was given its third reading. Mr. Henderson moved the same amendment, which he offered in connection with the Alliance Bank, and it met a similar fate.

A Five Hours' Discussion.

After a five hours' discussion of points of order and the merits of the bill to incorporate the Brockville and Sault Ste. Marie Railway, the preamble was passed on a vote of 41 to 35. On motion for the third reading of the bill it was declared carried by 54 to 35.

There Will Be No Interchange.

No objection was offered to the bill incorporating the Canadian Telephone and Telegraph Co. until clause 22 was reached.

Mr. E. F. Clarke moved the amendment of which he gave notice the other day compelling the company to forward the messages of other telephone companies, provided the latter extended similar privileges to the Canadian Telegraph and Telephone Company.

Mr. Birkett, who has charge of the bill, said representatives of the municipalities had been consulted in regard to some of the most important clauses, and they could have no cause whatever for complaint. The proposed amendment, Mr. Birkett argued, would render the charter useless.

Mr. Clarke said the interests of the municipalities imperatively demanded the amendment. It had met with strenuous opposition from the Bell Telephone Co., though neither that company nor any other company in existence to-day was directly affected by it. The amendment providing for an interchange of telephone business on a fair and equitable basis. Mr. Clarke said that the Bell Company had refused connection with smaller companies and was rapidly crowding them out. The small companies could not live if they could not secure an interchange of messages on trunk lines. There should be some improvement in the manner of doing business by telephone companies, and now was the time to break the monopoly.

Mr. Lennox said the amendment would be the means of giving the smaller companies fair play.

Dr. Sproule said that without the amendment all the objectionable features of the Bell Telephone Company would be attached to the Canadian Telegraph and Telephone Company. He referred to the conduct of the Bell Telephone Company in East York, and declared that it was on account of such acts that restrictive measures were required. The amendment was lost in committee on a vote of 35 to 13.

Mr. Clarke brought forward his amendment again when the third reading of the bill was moved. It was lost on a vote of 57 to 9.

Dropped to 16.

Mount Washington, N.H., July 28.—The coldest weather experienced on Mount Washington in July for many years was recorded early yesterday. At 7 a.m., under a 70-mile gale, the thermometer dropped to 16.

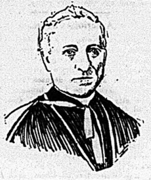
MAY BE COMPROMISE POPE

Cardinal de Pietro Talked of If Other Candidates Fail.

Although He Would Represent the Rampolla-Gotti Faction He Would Be Fairly Acceptable to All—Glowing Tribute to Cardinal Gibbons, But No Hope Held Out For an American Pope—Pitied, If Elected.

Rome, July 28.—Nearly all the cardinals of the conclave have now arrived. Their time yesterday was mainly occupied with a lengthy meeting of the congregation. After the meeting the cardinals received numerous visits at their various residences. In well-informed circles, Cardinal Angelo di Pietro, prodatory of the late Pope, is being talked of as a compromise candidate in the event that Cardinals Oreglia, Gotti, Rampolla or Serafino Vannutelli is unable to secure the necessary votes.

Should di Pietro be elected Pope, he would, it is said, be the representative of the Rampolla-Gotti faction, and yet would be fairly acceptable to all. Cardinal Michael Logue, Archbishop of Armagh, who, with the exception of Cardinal Gibbons, will be the only English speaking cardinal in the conclave, arrived yesterday from Ireland.



CARDINAL DI PIETRO.

Speaking of Cardinal Gibbons, the Irish cardinal paid him a glowing tribute, though, like all the prelates here, he held out no hope that the American cardinal had the remotest chance of election.

"Indeed," said Cardinal Logue, "I think Cardinal Gibbons would be a subject for commisseration if the election should devolve upon him, for no American would care to spend the rest of his life confined within the precincts of the Vatican."

CALL FOR LAKE SUPERIOR.

President Shields Makes an Appeal to Save Clergue Enterprise.

Philadelphia, July 28.— President Shields of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company has made another appeal to the stockholders of the company for financial assistance. In a circular letter sent, he announces that unless the proposed $12,500,000 bond is taken the whole property must pass into the hands of the creditors. The creditors are New York and Philadelphia banks, headed by Speyer & Co. of the former city, who hold all available collateral securities of the company of loans of $5,000,000.

The Lake Superior Company is capitalized at $102,000,000, of which $70,000,000 is held in this city.

STRUCK AN ICEBERG.

The British Steamer Baku Standard "Injured by Ice."

Philadelphia, July 28.—The British steamship Baku Standard, Captain Tucker, from Tyne for this city, passed in the Delaware breakwater at 6 o'clock yesterday morning and signalled "injured by ice." It is thought the steamship had been in collision with an iceberg.

Ammonia Kills Three Men.

New York, July 28.—Three men are dead and five injured as the result of the blowing out of a cylinder of an engine attached to an ammonia pump in the Jacob Rupert Brewing Co.'s ice plant on Alexander avenue early yesterday. One hundred and fifty men were at work at the time, but, although the ammonia flowed from the pump, the fumes spreading to all parts of the building, no one else was injured.

Investigating After 35 Years.

Montreal, July 28.—The Attorney-General's Department is conducting an investigation into the discovery of the remains of Joseph Lee at La Rose, Argenteuil County, where the skeleton was found on Saturday by accident. Lee, who was a trapper and hunter, disappeared mysteriously 35 years ago, and he was believed to have been murdered at the time. Suspects are said to be still alive.

Fatal Boating Accident.

Kamouraska, Que., July 28. — A fatal boat excursion occurred here Sunday afternoon. Louis Bosse, son of Nazaire Bosse, was boating in company with Mr. Thom of Quebec, when their boat was suddenly struck by a squall of wind, which capsized it. Thom succeeded in swimming ashore, but Bosse was drowned. The victim was about 35 years of age. He leaves a wife and four children.

Negress Lynched.

Shreveport, La., July 27.—Information reached Shreveport yesterday that the negress Jennie Steer, who, it is alleged administered posion in a glass of lemonade to Lizzie Dolan, the 16-year-old daughter of John Dolan, from the effects of which she died, was lynched by a mob last night. She denied committing the crime to the last.

FIVE PERSONS DROWNED.

Four Men and a Woman Lose Their Lives in Nazina River.

Seattle, Wash., July 28. — News comes from Valdes on the steamer Excelsior, which arrived here at midnight, of the drowning of Miss Lou Wheeler, August Reoehle and Henry and Paul Weidner, in the Nazina River, and Burt Ford in the Copper, at the mouth of the Chilna, one of its tributaries.

Innocent Negro Lynched.

Savannah, Ga., July 28.—An innocent negro was lynched by the mob which thought it had followed Ed. Clauss through several counties from Darien Junction to the southern part of Dodge County, where the supposed fugitive was captured, tied to a tree and his body riddled with bullets, despite frantic protests of being innocent. Now Clauss, the negro who attacked Miss Johnson, has been found in a small village near Darien Junction, and is in jail.

Linklater's Narrow Escape.

Port Arthur, July 28.—Millwright Linklater of the Pigeon River Lumber Co., met with a very serious accident at the sawmill. He was employed in tightening a pulley on one of the shafts with a chain pipe wrench. The chain in some manner caught in a moving belt and the iron bar went hurling around the belt, pinning Mr. Linklater against a post. It struck him in the side, one rib being broken and a number of wounds inflicted.

Renfrew Asks Relief.

Toronto, July 28.—The Government have received a memorial from the County Council of Renfrew asking that aid be granted to sufferers from the recent tornado. The townships mentioned for relief are: Westmeath, Alice, Stafford, Pembroke and Pittywawa.

AT THE CAPITAL OF ULSTER

Streets Lined by 17,000 Troops, Blue Jackets and Police.

Statue of Queen Victoria Unveiled by the King—Upwards of 50 Addresses Presented at Belfast, Which Was En Fete, and Royally Welcomed the King—Great Enthusiasm Everywhere—Serious Accident to a Peasant Woman.

Belfast, July 28.—The welcome extended to King Edward and Queen Alexandra at the capital of Ulster yesterday was marked by the same enthusiasm which has followed their progress through Ireland. The city was elaborately decorated and thronged with sight-seers, and the streets were lined by 10,000 troops, 2,000 blue jackets and 5,000 police.

The Lord Mayor and corporation awaited their Majesties at the railroad station and presented them with an address. Upwards of fifty other addresses were presented on the same occasion. The King in reply said his highest ambition was to follow in the footsteps of his mother and make the well-being of his people, the prosperity of the realm and the maintenance of the peace of all nations his constant aim. The royal procession was then formed and traversed the streets to the city hall, where the King unveiled a statue erected in honor of Queen Victoria.

After the unveiling Their Majesties lunched with the Lord Mayor and visited the Agricultural Show at Balmoral. Later they went to Bangor, where their reception was most demonstrative. About 1,400 children sang the National Anthem. The channel fleet saluted as Their Majesties, in the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, on which they will proceed to Londonderry. The reception which Their Majesties met with everywhere was most enthusiastic.

A serious accident occurred while Their Majesties were subsequently driving to the Victoria Hospital, which they opened yesterday. A peasant woman succeeded in passing the cordon of troops and rushed towards the royal carriage. She was knocked down and fell beneath the wheels, which passed over her body. The woman, who was badly injured, was taken to the hospital.

BASEBALL MONDAY.

The Eastern League.

Toronto ....3 3 0 0 0 1 0 0 *—7
Buffalo ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 2—2

Three-base hits—Bruce, Downey. Two-base hits—Massey, White, Laporte. Innings pitched—By Magee 2, by LaRoy 6. Bases on balls—Off Magee 6, off LaRoy 2, off Briggs 4. Hit by pitcher—By Briggs 1. Wild pitch—LaRoy. Double plays, Atherton, Toft to Downey. Struck out—By Briggs 9 (Gettman, McIntyre 2, Atherton, Nattress 3, Shaw, Magee), by LaRoy 4 (Bruce, Brodie, Carr 2). Left on bases—Toronto 7, Buffalo 7. Sacrifice hits—Kuhns, Brodie, Toft, Briggs. Bases stolen—White, Massey 2, Toft, Carr. Umpire—Swartwood. Time—2.00. Attendance—2500.

First game— R.H.E.
Jersey City .....0 0 0 0 1 1 0 1 1—4 6 0
Montreal .....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 5—5 11 6

Batteries—Pfanmiller and Dillon; Falkenberg, Mahler and McAuley.

Second game— R.H.E.
Jersey City ....3 0 2 1 2 0 3 0 *—11 13 4
Montreal .... ..0 2 0 0 1 0 0 0 1—4 12 8

Batteries—McCann and Dillon; Falkenberg; Pappalau, Noone, Merritt and McCauley. Umpire—Kelly. Attendance—2500.

Newark .... ..2 0 2 0 0 3 0 1 1 5—14 15 8
Providence ....2 0 1 2 0 0 0 0 4 4—13 7 11

Batteries—Moriarity, Burke, Spiesman and Shelby; Conn and Diggins. Umpire—Latham. Attendance—800.

Baltimore .... ..2 0 3 1 0 2 3 0 *—11 10 4
Rochester .... ..0 0 2 1 0 2 2 0 1—8 16 3

Batteries—McAleese and Hearn; Mills, Ross, Fuller and Steelman. Umpire—Brown. Attendance—1985.

National League Scores.

At Chicago— R.H.E.
Chicago ....1 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 1—3 8 0
St. Louis ....0 0 2 0 0 1 1 0 0—4 10 2

Batteries—Lundgren and Kling; Murphy and Ryan. Umpire—Moran. Attendance—1400.

At Brooklyn— R.H.E.
Philadelphia ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 4 3
Brooklyn ....1 2 1 0 0 0 0 1 *—5 10 0

Batteries—Sparks and Roth; Jones and Jacklitsch. Umpire—Emslie. Attendance—2500.

At New York— R.H.E.
Boston ....2 1 0 0 0 0 8 0 0—11 14 1
New York ......0 1 0 1 0 0 3 0 4—9 16 2

Batteries—Pittinger and Moran; Taylor and Bowerman. Umpire—Johnstone. Attendance—4700.

At Cincinnati— R.H.E.
Cincinnati .....0 1 1 0 1 0 0 0 0—3 6 5
Pittsburg .....0 6 0 0 0 1 0 3 *—10 8 4

Batteries—Suthoff and Peitz; Leever and Smith. Umpire—O'Day. Attendance—2500.

American League Results.

At Philadelphia— R.H.E.
Washington.......0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 5 1
Philadelphia ....2 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 *—3 9 0

Batteries—Orth and Kittredge; Waddell and Schreck. Umpire—Hassett. Attendance—5280.

At Boston— R.H.E.
Boston ....0 0 0 2 0 3 0 0 *—5 8 2
New York ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 5 2

Batteries—Dineen and Criger; Deering and Beville. Umpire—Sheridan. Attendance—5178.

At Chicago— R.H.E.
Chicago ....0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 2—3 8 1
Detroit ....1 0 0 0 0 7 0 0 0—8 8 3

Batteries—Altrock, Patterson and McFarland; Mullin and McGuire. Umpire—O'Loughlin. Attendance—1100.

At St. Louis— R.H.E.
St. Lou's ....5 2 0 0 1 1 0 0 *—9 14 2
Cleveland ....0 0 0 2 0 0 0 3 0—5 11 1

Batteries—Sudhoff and Kahoe; Joss and Abbott. Umpire—Connolly.

Salmon Run a Failure.

Victoria, B. C., July 28.—A despatch from Aberdeen, Skeena River, states that the salmon run has been a failure there. Humpbacks are now coming to the river and the canners will suspend operations in a few days. They will pay off their staff during the coming week.

Enlist British Sympathy.

Sofia, Bulgaria, July 28.—The Bulgarian Government has been informed that Great Britain will consent to the establishment of a Bulgarian diplomatic agency in London, it being hoped that the new agency may enlist British sympathy for the Bulgarian cause.

Thirteen Killed at Glasgow.

London, July 28.—Thirteen persons have been killed and a score injured in a railway accident at Glasgow, where an excursion train from the Isle of Man crashed into the buffers at the station. Two cars were telescoped in the crash.

JUDGE ARMOUR'S FUNERAL.

Interment on Monday at Cobourg—Very Large Attendance.

Cobourg, July 28.—The funeral of the late Mr. Justice Armour took place here at 1 o'clock yesterday from St. Peter's Church. The attendance was very large. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, wreaths from the Dominion Government, the Ontario Government and members of the Law Society, Toronto, being among the floral designs. Hon. J. H. Pope, Under Secretary of State, represented the Dominion Government, and Col. Buchan, A.D.C., the Governor-General. Mayor Flood and the Town Council, also the local members of the Bar, attended in a body. All places of business were closed during the time of the funeral.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Canon Spragge, rector of St. Peter's English Church. Prof. Dickenson of Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, presided at the organ.

The following were the pall-bearers: Sir William Mulock, Hon. Chief Justice Charles Moss, Hon. Chief Justice Sir William Meredith, Hon. Chief Justice W. G. Falconbridge, Hon. Mr. Justice Wallace Nesbitt, Mr. W. R. Wadsworth, Manager Bank of Toronto. The members of the family at present in Cobourg are: Mr. and Mrs. Hayter Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Bristol, Mr. and Mrs. Auguste Bolte, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Drynan, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Armour. Their sons, Eric, Stewart and George, were unable to reach Cobourg in time for the funeral.

The members of the bench and bar of the Counties of Northumberland and Durham passed an appreciative and condolatory resolution in the morning before the funeral.

SYMPATHY FOR MRS. M'KEE.

Her Sufferings in the Swamps Stir Up Windsor People.

Windsor, July 28.—The sympathy of the people of Windsor is stirred up over the sufferings of Mrs. Ellen McKee, the ex-post mistress of Tubbermore, Ireland, who embezzled about $2,000 of Government money.

The suffering and exposure during the two days and one night spent in the marshes, following her desperate attempt to escape from the county jail at Sandwich, has touched the hearts of the Windsor people. A proposed subscription with a view to reimbursing the Government was suggested, but later it was abandoned as a similar offer on the part of the people of Tubbermore was rejected.

Rev. J. C. Tolmie of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and others are now trying to get a largely signed petition, and intend to try for her pardon on the doctor's statement of Mrs. McKee's ill-health.

NO ASIATIC LABOR.

Colonial Secretary Says He Will Not Consent to It.

London, July 28.—During the course of the debate in the House of Commons yesterday, on the second reading of the Transvaal Loan Bill, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, referring to the proposal to introduce Asiatic labor into South Africa, declared that so long as public opinion was hostile to the proposition he would not consent to it. He believed, however, that opinion on the subject was changing and if the majority demanded the importation of Indian coolies, he would not object to it.

In regard to Chinese labor, Mr. Chamberlain said not a suggestion looking to the employment of Chinese in South Africa had ever been officially brought to the notice of the Transvaal Government.

LOST MONEY IN STOCKS.

Civic Accountant Left Montreal Leaving a Shortage of $900.

Montreal, July 28.—It was practically decided at the City Hall yesterday that a warrant should be issued for the arrest of A. Fournier, accountant of the Recorder's Court, who left the city with a shortage in the corporation books of some $900.

An alderman who knew Fournier very well, stated he had been told Fournier's troubles were owing to the fact that he had been investing in stocks. It was the old story of not being able to meet payments, and of using money which ought not to have been touched. Fournier was looked upon as one of the most honest men and steady employes in the civic service, and his flight from the city caused much surprise yesterday at the City Hall.

St. Louis Boodlers Sentenced.

St. Louis, July 28.—Judge Ryan yesterday passed sentence on five members of the House of Delegates, four of whom were convicted of bribery, and one of perjury in connection with municipal franchise deals. Following are those sentenced: John A. Sheridan, bribery, in connection with suburban street railway deal, five years; T. Edward Albright, bribery, suburban deal, five years; Jerry J. Hannigan, bribery, suburban deal, five years; Louis Decker, perjury, suburban deal, four years; Emil Hartman, bribery, city lighting bill, six years. All filed appeal bonds in the sum of $10,000 each.

SNAP AND VIM.

Angier's Petroleum Emulsion makes weak lungs strong and strong lungs stronger. Besides, it rids the system of disease, creates rich, red blood, firm flesh, and develops the snap and vim that denote health and strength. Pleasant to take, agreeable to the stomach.

Father Lyonais Killed.

Ottawa, July 28.—Father Lyonias, parish priest of St. Albert, Ont., who arrived in the city yesterday to attend the annual retreat of the Oblate Fathers, fell down an elevator at the University and died within two hours of injuries received. He mistook the door of the elevator for that of his room and fell twenty-five feet.

Leg Crushed in a Belt.

Rat Portage, July 28. — Frank Ross, the 23-year-old son of J. M. Ross, engine manufacturer at Brampton, Ont., had his leg crushed to a pulp by being caught in the belt of a traction engine which he was taking to the fair in Winnipeg.

TRACED TO THE SPOT.

Martin Ebelt Seen Near Where Wife Was Murdered.

Mount Vernon, July 28. — Martin Ebelt, also known as Schaefer, husband of the young woman whose body was found in a sewer on the outskirts of the city, where it had been thrown after she had been strangled to death, was brought to Mount Vernon yesterday afternoon from White Plains, where he was arrested. Ebelt and his wife lived until last fall with his mother in Sixth street, not far from where the body was found. Friday evening Mrs. Ebelt left home, ostensibly to go to work for a family living about a mile away. Her husband left the house with her, saying that he would accompany her to her destination. Ebelt returned. Mrs. Ebelt never reached her destination and was not seen at her home again. Her husband made no reference to her.

The police say they have succeeded in tracing Ebelt and his wife almost to the spot where the body was found and have evidence that they were lost sight of within three hundred yards of the place.

A brother, Paul Ebelt, a lad of 15, testified that his brother Martin had left the house after supper on Friday with his wife, saying that he had got a place for her as a servant.

The lad followed them out of curiosity, but soon lost sight of them in the woods, near where the body was found. Soon afterwards, he said, his brother Martin came out of the woods and said that he left "Gussie at the house of the lady who had employed her." The boy noticed that Martin was perspiring freely and that he washed his hands and face as soon as he returned to the house.

THIRTEEN PRISONERS ESCAPE.

Attack Guards, Killing One and Fatally Injuring Another.

Sacramento, Cal., July 28.—A despatch from Folsom says: Thirteen desperate prisoners, confined in the Folsom Penitentiary, made a successful break for liberty at the breakfast hour yesterday. After a fierce fight in the captain's office, during which Turnkey Cochrane was fatally stabbed, Guard Cotter was killed and Officer Palmers was cut in the head, they seized his arms and ammunition and using the warden and other officials as shields, escaped. Last night, it is believed, they were making for the Bald Mountain. State troops ordered out by Governor Pardee, have gone to the scene.

According to a report received here, a fight between the escaped convicts from Folsom and a posse has taken place near Pilot Hill, in which Fred Howard was killed and Scabio wounded. Both men are convicts. The convicts are said to have scattered. A company of militia is en route to Pilot Hill.

Before the fight took place the convicts, who had picked up a number of citizens en route and had compelled them to join their party, had plundered a general merchandise store at Pilot Hill.

A TERRIBLE RECORD.

Eight Hundred People Killed in the U.S. in Three Months.

Washington, July 28.—The report of the Inter-State Commerce Commission on Railroad Accidents in the United States for the three months ending March 31, last, shows that during that quarter 300 persons were killed and 2,834 injured in train accidents. Other kinds of accidents, including those sustained by employes at work, and by passengers in getting on and off cars, make the aggregate casualties 827 killed and 11,481 injured. There were 1,650 collisions and 1,181 derailments, causing $2,491,046 damage to cars, engines and roadways.

Thrown on a Dynamo.

Kingston, July 28.—Yesterday Robbert Coleman, aged 52, was killed in the steamer American while tightening a nut. The wrench flew off and threw him upon a dynamo, the fall fracturing his skull.

SINCLAIR'S AD SINCLAIR'S AD.

Odds and Ends Sale

We are fast approaching the end of the summer season, we are already receiving and opening up New Fall Goods This means that we must have room and in order to get room we clear everything of the nature of Summer Goods.

12½ to 20c Wash Goods for 8c.

One of this week's attractions is a table of Wash Goods, including Prints, Ginghams, Drills, Muslins, etc. 12½ to 20c per yard, Thousands of yards to select from and any length you require at

8c per Yard

35c to 50c Ladies' Collars for 25c

There are about 5 Dozen of these Fancy Collars all new styles, from 35 to 50c and we place the lot on sale, your choice for - - - - - - 25c

59c Black Sateen Underskirts 59c

These Skirts are made of Mercerized Black Sateen of a good quality, with a 15 inch Frill, accordion plaited, were $1.25 regularly and we have 18 of them to sell at 59c each.

65c FANCY PARASOLS 65c

Parasols

We have about 30 Ladies' Fancy Parasols from $1.25 to $2 50, in a variety of styles, but all Fancies, and we clear the lot this week, your choice 65c

We sell New Idea Patterns for 10c.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO

A Gin Pill Reason

Many people are veritable human interrogation points. They invariably want to know why?

They ask why. Gin Pills are superior to other Kidney remedies. One reason is that Gin Pills are antiseptic in their action, cleansing, healing, purifying from the start, thereby effecting a speedier and more certain cure. The effect is immediate. All Druggists, 50cts. per box, 6 boxes for $2.50 or direct from

THE BOLE DRUG CO., WINNIPEG, MAN.

YOUR MONEY BACK IF GIN PILLS DO NOT CURE.

Cholera Infantum

There is no danger whatever from this disease when taken in time and properly treated. All that is necessary is to give

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

after each operation of the bowels more than natural and then castor oil to cleanse the system. It is safe and sure. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

30 ! DAVIES STORES ! 30

PURVEYORS TO THE PUBLIC.

Davies Teas

The best advertisement for our pure Ceylon Tea—the fact that the sales are DOUBLING all the while.

40c quality 25c.

Picnic & Campers Supplies

32 VARIETIES.

Ready-to-Serve Meats, Cooked and Canned, sliced to your taste.

BREAKFAST SPECIALTIES

Davies Mild Cured Bacon. Davies Sugar Cured Hams.
Davies Pork Sausage.

Phone. 286, Daily Deliveries.

The WM. DAVIES CO., Limited.

SPECIAL OFFER

MIDSUMMER CLUBBING RATES.

Two Papers to January 1st, 1904

Family Herald & Weekly Star, and the Best Home Paper—The Weekly Intelligencer, BOTH for

65 CENTS

We are making this special offer as we require 1000 new subscriptions to our Weekly.

This offer is good to new subscribers only.

ADDRESS—

The Weekly Intelligencer
BELLEVILLE, ONT.

No agents handle this offer.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's. At Wallbridge & Clarke's

Supplies For Camp or Cruise

New York Biscuits

in "In-er Seal" pkgs.

Uneeda "Jinger" Wafers, Butter Gems, Cheese Biscuits, German Zwieback, Pretzelettes, etc., etc.

Christie's Fancy Biscuits

Fresh supplies every week — 40 varities.

Heintz's Pickles

Heintz's Celery Sauce.
Heintz's India Relish.
Heintz's Sweet Midgets.
Heintz's Sweet Pickles.

Spanish Olives

A fine assortment of Olives from 10cts per bottle up.

Campers Supplies

Essence of Coffee, Condensed Milk, Lime Juice, Raspberry Vinegar, Fancy Cheese, New Pack Lobster and Shrimps, French Sardines, Scallops, Deviled Crabs, Concentrated Soups, French Potage, Beef Extracts, etc., etc.

Pickles and Sauces

A complete assortment of English and American Pickles and Sauces, including Pickled Walnuts, Onions, Chow Chow, Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce, Yorkshire Relish, Mushroom Catsup, Harvey's Sauce, Sultana Sauce, Chutney's Capers, Durkee's Salad Dressing, etc., etc.

Delicious Teas

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious English Breakfast Teas in lead packets at 30, 40, 50 and 60cts per lb.

Canned Meats

New Packs. Finest Quality.

Whole Ox Tongues.
Lunch Tongues.
Lamb's Tongues.
Boned Chicken.
Boned Turkey.
Boned Duck.
Pate de foie.
Potted Ham.
Potted Tongue.
Sliced Dried Beef.
Ham Loaf.
Veal Loaf.
Chicken Tamales.
Lunch Beef.
Lunch Bacon.
Chicken, Ham and Tongue.
Pigs Feet.
Jellied Tenderloins.
Vienna Sausages.
Luncheon Sausages.
Baked Beans—plain or in Tomato or Chili Sauce, etc., etc., etc.

Ale and Stout, Wines, etc.

Carling's, Labatt and Davies' Dominion Ale, Bass' Ale, Dow's Sand Porter, Guinness' Stout, in prime condition.

Gurd's Ginger and Soda Water Appolinaris and Radnor Water.

Barton & Guestier's and Nath. Johnston's Bordeaux Clarets and Sauterne AT POPULAR PRICES.

Rhine Wine and Burgundy Cordials and Liqueurs.

Light Canadian Wines, red or white, at lowest prices.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE

ESTD. 1871.
BRIDGE ST. Tel. 139.

Branch Store
Front St.—Tel. 157.

Daily Intelligencer.

$175,000,000 !

Who will dare to deny the boast of the Grit party, that this is a growing time?

Let Liberal electors, who for years have been crying out for economy in the administration of the affairs of the country, look at the present demand for money by the Laurier Government during the present session of Parliament, and they will find that it totals some $75,000,000, and the end is not yet reached.

If the Laurier Cabinet carries out all the schemes for spending money it now has in view, it will out-herod Herod. It has made a record for itself this session, which, comparatively speaking, places its past years of extravagance on a lofty pedestal of economy. Here are some of the outlays contemplated:

Estimates brought down to date	$64,462,902
Guarantee Montreal Harbor bonds	3,000,000
Guarantee Canadian Northern bonds	9,500,000
To be presented to Grand Trunk Pacific, at least	75,000,000
Total	$151,962,902

In addition to all this the Government has decided to grant bonuses to dry docks; increased bounties on iron and steel, lead and binder twine. It will also take over the indebtedness of the Quebec Bridge Company, which will amount to millions. The payment of bounties is chargeable to capital account, and in guaranteeing bonds the country is made to assume responsibility for their payment.

When these schemes are consummated and the additional supplementary estimates and minor railway subsidies brought down, Canada will have undertaken to pledge her credit for close on, if not over, $175,000,000. Imagine what that means? Can our Liberal friends, whose motto has been "economy," grasp the situation? If so let them tell us how they like it!

TIMELY TOPICS

SAFE IN THIS WORLD.

(Galt Reformer.)

Senator Lougheed's bill amending the criminal code, making it a criminal offence for an American workman to come into Canada to discuss labor matters with his Canadian fellow-workers, has passed the Senate. The Senators haven't to reckon with the labor vote, or any other vote, for that matter, and can rest secure in the thought that they cannot be punished in this world for any legislation they may enact.

• • •

If what we hear is true, a peculiar state of things exists in regard to the agreement entered into between the city and Mr. T. M. Kirkwood. The said agreement was never published, but we are told on good authority that, when it was drawn up, a certain clause, which was inserted in the agreement between the city and the Abbott-Mitchell people, was expunged in that entered into with Mr. Kirkwood, the said clause rendering the agreement inoperative of the mills were not started by a certain date. What the idea was in leaving out a clause of that kind in the new agreement, only the stars can tell.

• • •

However, it is the opinion of those who have studied the case that, in his contention that the time for earning the bonus does not expire till 1918, Mr. Kirkwood has not a leg to stand upon. It is to be sincerely hoped this view is correct. If it is not, then someone has blundered, that's all.

• • •

It is to be regretted in one way that the motion introduced by Ald. Sinclair last night, forbidding assignment of pay by city officials, was not carried. Of course the principle of punishing the innocent for the guilty is altogether wrong, we all know that, at the same time it is not necessary for people to wear a hat which does not fit them. An honest man, the old copy books used to say, is the noblest work of God. There is no reason why fairness should not be practised by people who earn corporation money as well as by those who work for private individuals. We think Ald. Sinclair's motion was right in principle, even though it might, possibly, not work out in practise.

• • •

Once again we are called on to shed tears for the public swimming bath scheme, which last night went down for the 'steenth time. It seems to be all up with the proposed bath, and really, what need is there for one, when, as one of the Aldermen tells us, anybody can learn to swim in a wash tub!

• • •

One of the gentlemen who to-day went on the deputation to Yankeeland complained that he was somewhat handicapped by the fact that he was able to procure very few views of Belleville showing her many advantages. The City Council, he thought, might well employ a photographer to take pictures of the G.T.R. yards, the water front, and other points, which would be useful in advertising this city as a good point for industries to locate in. The idea certainly is worthy the attention of our City Fathers.

• • •

Up to the hour of going to press, Mr. J. M. Hurley was not known to have signed the petition to stop net fishing. He is supposed to be too much worried over those horrid census charges, you know.

• • •

Gen Hutton has clashed with a newspaper man in Australia, and, as usual, got the worst of it. The General will learn something by-and-by.

• • •

Over 15,000 people used the Toronto public baths last week, and the Star says: "Never in the history of Toronto's swimming baths have so many women been learning to swim as this summer." From present appearances there will be many a cold and frosty morning before women get a chance to learn to swim in Belleville.

• • •

What between picnics and excursions to-morrow will be a poor day to take the new census of this beautiful town.

• • •

Did you sign the net fishing petition yet? Everybody else is signing it.

This weather is plenty

HOT ENOUGH

for a dish of good Ice Cream, and that is just what you get here. Everyone says so, our Ice Cream always has that "moreish" taste—the more you eat the more you want—and then you know we serve the popular

FOR

ICE CREAM

Sundys. Choice of 15 flavors, at 5c a dish

J. ARTHUR MARSH.

POLITICAL CRISIS SAID TO BE NEAR.

THE CABINET DIVIDED AND ECHOES FROM THE COUNTRY BRING DEMORALIZATION.

Ottawa, July 27.—There is a Cabinet crisis here, the outcome of which will either mean an election within five weeks or a putting off of the same for over a year.

The news which has been received, and which is now pouring in from every section of the Dominion, is full of threatenings.

Country members are particularly worked up and in a funk. From constituency after constituency now held by Liberals the Government is warned that if it goes on with the Grand Trunk Pacific bill it will be swept from power.

The Cabinet is divided, fully one-half of the ministers are clamoring for dissolution—now—right away, before the Grand Trunk Pacific bill is brought down, as the only chance of winning doubtful seats, though they admit it would be hard work even with such tactics.

A Liberal member, meeting a Minister in the Russell House this morning, said:

"Do you think the country will approve of taking a snap judgment like that? No, sir, the bill must be known. Any attempt to snatch a snap judgment from the people will fail, because the people's suspicions are aroused."

There is every indication that there is a real crisis brewing. The Liberals are assiduously circulating contradictions of the Fisher-Sifton episode. But the facts are worse than heretofore published:— Sifton took the Minister of Agriculture by the throat.

Backache, Kidney Ache

PAINS IN THE SMALL OF THE BACK WARN YOU OF KIDNEY DISEASE.

Hard work, stooping, reaching, twisting the body, exposure to cold and dampness or drafts are among the causes of kidney derangements and the most pronounced symptom is backache. The first touch of backache, weak or lame back, should be sufficient to lead you to immediately begin the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. There is no treatment so prompt to relieve and none which is so far-reaching and thorough in action. One pill a dose 25 cents a box. 7

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

Sports and Pastimes

SPORTING NOTE AND COMMENT.

The next opponents of the local lacrosse boys will be the Millbrook lacrosse team, who will be here next week. A good game should result.

The Reliance has been formally selected to defend the America's Cup against the Shamrock III., and there does not seem to be anything else for the Challenge Committee to do. The Reliance proved herself far and away ahead of either the Columbia or Constitution.

The international races for the America's Cup will begin August 20, and will be continued August 22, 25, 27, 29, and so on, alternate days, Sundays out, until three out of five races shall have been determined. Three weeks from the day after to-morrow will be the day of the first race.

CHEAP NECKWEAR.

You can get two nice neckties at the Oak Hall for 25 cents. Bows with strap and shield or nice four-in-hand goods. We are showing them in our north window for a few days. Suppose you just take a look at them as you pass by. You will be interested.

Lumber Stolen.

Some time during last night 200 feet of timber, some cedar poles and three pieces of scantling were stolen from the ground where the new elevator is in course of erection. The police are making every effort to find out the guilty party.

A Serious Charge.

Michael Kellar, a middle-aged man, was last evening arrested on a charge of committing an indecent assault upon a little girl eleven years of age. The accused was arrested across the bay, brought to the city and placed in the County Jail to await trial.

Surrogate Court Notes.

The following matters have of late been attended to in the Surrogate Court:

Wm. Kelly, late of Sidney, probate of will granted to Margaret Kelly. Estate not given. Mr. F. S. Wallbridge, solicitor.

Robert E. Leslie, late of Thurlow, letters of administration granted to Margaret Leslie. Estate $4,000. Mr. E. J. Butler, solicitor.

Richard Porter, late of Huntingdon, probate of will granted to Warner Coulter and Matilda Porter. Estate $9,670. Mr. C. W. Craig, solicitor.

Matilda Todd, late of Stirling, probate of will granted to Jane Hogle Estate $195. Mr. J. E. Halliwell solicitor.

Hubert O'Rourke, late of Madoc, probate of will granted to John J. Meagher and J. C. Dale. Estate $398. Mr. D. E. K. Stewart, solicitor.

George A. Tweddie, late of Huntingdon, letters of administration granted to Margaret A. Tweddie. Estate $170. Mr. D. E. K. Stewart, solicitor.

Joshua Broad, late of Madoc, probate of will granted to John Blakely and James R. Broad. Estate $4,010. Mr. D. E. K. Stewart, solicitor.

Charles Rainbow, late of Belleville, probate of will granted to Margaret Jane Rainbow. Estate not given. Mr. F. S. Wallbridge, solicitor.

James Maitland, late of Madoc, probate of will granted to Robert T. Gray. Estate $1,700. Mr. Wm. Cross, solicitor.

John Teale, late of Belleville, probate of will granted to George Teale. Estate $2,250. Messrs. Northrup & Roberts, solicitors.

CHEAP TRIPS.

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay. Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

Charged With Threatening.

John Rogers, who is accused of threatening to shoot Mrs. Vollick, of Madoc township, was on trial today before Judge Lazier. The plaintiff was engaged in picking berries in a bush near Madoc and it is alleged that Rogers threatened to shoot her and some other parties, claiming they were trespassing. Case in progress this afternoon. Mr Anderson for Crown and Mr. S. Masson for the accused.

Former Resident Hurt.

Mr. James Casey, at one time an employee in the G.T.R. yards here, on Sunday last met with a painful accident at Newcastle. In some manner he fell from a moving train suffering a broken arm, head badly cut and was also bruised about the body. He is at Newcastle under treatment.

Piles To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & Co., Toronto.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

LATEST NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS

AS FURNISHED TO THE INTELLIGENCER BY H. R. BEATTIE, STOCK BROKER.

New York, July 28.

Stock	Op'g	H'st	L'st	Close.
Atchison	64⅞	64⅞	63⅛	63⅜
do. pref	90	90	89½	89¾
St. Paul	141½	142⅜	141⅛	142⅛
Mo. P.	98⅛	99	97¾	98¾
Union. Pac	75⅜	76¼	74⅞	75
C. P. R.	123¼	123½	122⅛	123
South Pac.	43¼	45	43	43¾
R. I.	24⅜	24⅜	23¾	24½
Ills. C.	131	132⅛	131	132⅛
Sou. Ry.	21	21⅞	20¼	20⅞
Texas	26¼	26⅝	26	26⅝
B & O.	82⅝	83⅜	82⅝	83⅜
N. Y. C.	120¼	122⅜	120	121¼
Penna	123⅛	124⅛	122⅞	123¾
Soo	54	54	53¼	53¼
T. W.	95	96⅝	95	96
Erie	29	30¼	29	29½
do. pref.	67¼	68⅞	67⅛	68⅜
Reading	48⅞	50¼	48⅞	49⅞
C. O.	32¼	33½	32¼	33
O. & W.	23	23½	23	23
Manhattan	133	133	132½	132⅜
W. C.	17¼	18	17	17¼
L. & N.	104	105	103½	105
A. F.	33¼	33¼	33¼	33½
Nor.	62	63⅜	62	63
Wab.	22⅛	22⅛	21¼	21¼
do pref.	37¼	38¼	37¼	37¾
W.U.	83	....	....	....
C. G. W.	15¼	15½	14⅞	15⅜
T.C.I.	39⅛	40¼	39⅛	39½
U.S. Stl	23⅞	24⅞	23¾	24
do pref.	72	73	71⅞	72¼
Sugar	116	117¼	116	116¼
B. R. T.	44	45⅞	44	44½
Po.	94½	95¼	94½	94⅜
A. C. P.	40⅞	43⅜	40⅞	41¾
Met.	116⅛	118¾	116⅛	117¾
Alc.	18¼	19	18¼	19

Sept. wheat opened at 78⅛; closed at 77⅞
Sept. corn opened at 53⅛ ; closed at 52½

The Unconquered Boers.

A party of unconquered Boers has just arrived in Batavia, traveling to a Dutch colony under the auspices of a Boer relief fund committee. The government has assigned an abandoned estate for them to settle upon as small cultivators.

These Boers will be utilized for experimental purposes. There is much distress among the lower class of Europeans and Eurasians in Java. Many of them seek grants of land on easy terms, on which they could start cultivation in a small way. As most of them have no experience in farming, the government hesitates to put them on the land from fear of failure. The Boers, as practical colonists and farmers, are expected to show how to cultivate the land and make money out of it.

Meanwhile the dominant British faction in South Africa talk of filling the mines with Chinese coolies.

A Siberian Horror.

As is well known, political prisoness in Russia and Siberia are treated with a rigor and cruelty unknown in any European country except Turkey. The mental sufferings undergone by prisoners who are sentenced to the latter form of punishment are so terrible that they not infrequently go mad or lay violent hands on themselves. One of the most terrible cases of this kind recently occurred in the prison fortress of Tomsk, in Siberia, where, according to the St. Petersburg Life, one of the political prisoners, finding existence intolerable, killed himself by drenching his clothes with petroleum and then setting himself on fire before the warders could come to his assistance.

EVERYBODY SHOULD TAKE A VACATION.

Whether it be for a few days or a few weeks, the change of occupation, the peaceful quiet rest in the woods, or a trip through the charming lakes and rivers of "the Highlands of Ontario," breathing in the pure air, impregnated with the odor of the balsam and pines, will not only do you and your family good, but will make you of more benefit to your employer. Think of this and call on U. E. Thompson, C. P. & T. A. or T. H. Coppin, station agent, Grand Trunk Railway. j28toa8

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions ONE CENT A WORD. No loss charged as less than twenty-five words.

Tabernacle, University, Holloway Street, Sunday Schools' annual picnic to Twelve o'Clock Point, Wednesday, 29th, steamer Aletha. Three trips, eight, eleven and two o'clock. 24-25-26-27

Wanted.—A youth to learn the printing trade, one with slight experience would be accepted. Apply to The Intelligencer Office. 25-2td

What is nicer for a holiday than a trip on the palace steamers of the Richelieu & Ontario Steamboat Co. Full information and tickets, S. Burrows.

Do your shopping Wednesday mornings during July and August, as stores will close at noon on those days. je25-5tw&etd6t

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

Hello, what's the rush? Getting ready for Rev. Stratton's Island Excursion Saturday, Aug. 1, 8.30 a.m. Going to hear America's great author and preacher, D. Hillis. Come along. Return any Monday. Only $1.00. Well, I will. 21&28

A large number went to Deseronto and Picton on the S.A. excursion this morning.

Ernest Kinch, a young man living on Bridge street west, died this afternoon. He was the only surviving son of his mother, and a member of St. John's Church. Lung disease was the cause of his death.

"Prizes" with common soaps are dearly paid for at the expense of clothes and hands.

SUNLIGHT SOAP REDUCES EXPENSE.

Ask for the Octagon Bar.

THE WEATHER.

To-day's Probs—

Moderate to fresh southeasterly to southwesterly winds, showers and local thunderstorms to-night and on Wednesday, becoming warmer.

To-day's Temperature

As Registered by The Intelligencer's Guaranteed Thermometer:

8 a.m.	61
12 m.	74
2 p.m.	77
3 p.m.	77

As a place where the wearied can rest and recuperate with happiest surroundings the MAGI Caledonia Springs is unique.

We Have the Sellers

Ladies' Sterling Silver French-Grey Hat-Pins. In these we show a variety of designs, all new, 35c to 75c.

Ladies' Sterling Silver Enamelled and French-Grey Belt-Pins. These are the very newest on the market and must be seen to be appreciated. Prices 75c to $3.50.

Ladies' Bead Guards

These are immensely popular at present in the American cities, and are certainly an improvement to any summer dress. We show some beauties in the Roman-Filled Pearls, in both long guards and short neck'aces, In the Corals the long guards are 75c to $1.50 and the shor necklaces 50c and $1.00

Angus McFee.
Jeweler & Optician
310 Front St.
The Store with the Big Clock.

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& HUDSON RIVER R. R.
THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.		After 1st May
Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)	12.22 p.m.	1.30 a.m
Arr. Kingston "	1.47 p.m.	3.12 a.m
Lv. Kingston (stage)	2.30 p.m.	5.00 a.m
Arr. Cape Vincent (stage)	4.30 p.m.	7.00 a.m
Lv. Cape Vincent N.Y.C.	5.05 p.m.	7.25 a.m
Arr. Watertown "	5.55 p.m.	8.25 a.m
Arr. Oswego "	9.05 p.m.	11.55 a.m
Arr. Syracuse "	9.25 p.m.	12.07 p.m
Arr. Rochester "	1.05 a.m.	2.20 a.m
Arr. Utica "	9.45 p.m.	12.35 p.m
Arr. New York "	7.25 a.m.	6.00 p.m

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C. R. R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from F. A. Folger, N.Y.C. Agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent.
New York.
A. H. SMITH, Gen'l Supt.,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

Successful Traders, Keep well informed. To do so, read our 400 page "Guide to Investors" and "Daily Market Letter." Issued Gratis—Mailed free.

HAIGHT & FREESE Co.

Stocks, Bonds, Grain, Cotton.
7 Melinda St., Toronto, Ont.

"Determining the character and financial responsibility of your Broker, is as important as selection of right stocks."

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R.C.S., England.
Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. J. F. MATHER
Has removed his office to Pinnacle St. three doors north of Hotel Quinte.
my29-6mw

DENTAL.

Dr. Clarke has removed to the offices formerly occupied by the late Dr. Ward over Burrows', and opposite Scantlebury's Book Store.
a27dtf

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—2 Campbell Street.
MALCOLM WRIGHT. J. FRANKLIN WILLS.
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for the City of Belleville. Office—Metropolitan Block, Corner Front and Campbell Streets.

PORTER & CARNEW.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices — Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 87.
E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Office, Bridge Street, Belleville.
Money to Loan — Private Funds. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, Etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent., on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire Insurance.

Guardian . . .	Est'd 1821
The North America,	Est'd 1792
Quebec, . . .	Est'd 1818

City, Town and Village Property insure at lowest rates.
R. W. ADAMS. Agent.
Office opposite Post Office.

THOS. STEWART,
Insurance and Commission Agent.
Agent for the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Scottish Union National Insurance Co..
BRIDGE, ST.

FIRE, LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE
At Lowest Rates The Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Perth Mutual on farm and city property. Also mone to loan at 4½ per cent. upwards.
JAMES A. CHISHOLM.
Office Ashley Block, - Front st., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned
can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at lower rate than other stock companies Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON.

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance.
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont.
Lloyd's Plate Glass,
Home Life Association, Toronto,
North British & Mercantile.
Farm and City Property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation, and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan & Investment Society. Money to Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, Office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., opposite Postoffice and Hotel Quinte, Belleville,
'Phone 168.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. G. NORTHRUP,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Shire Hall, Belleville, Ont.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the Post Office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St.
'Appointments made.'

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes: printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

A man is generally at his heaviest in his fortieth year.

This Summer Sale

Of ours includes all fancy goods in our store at a reduction of 40 per cent. from lower prices than you can find the same goods elsewhere.

IT MEANS

$1.00 worth for 69c of any of our China, Bisque, Art Pottery, Candle Shades, Brass Tables, etc.

IT MEANS

25 per cent. off all our Wrist Bags and Chatalaines.

IT MEANS

30 per cent. off of all our framed pictures. And while we are speaking of pictures, allow us to mention a large and beautiful line of photogravieurs just placed in stock and on our bargain tables.

We mean to keep this store most interesting for the summer months, interesting in values as well as in new goods, a bright, down-to-date, summer shopping store for citizens and strangers.

In Wall Papers, also, we are offering some exceptional values, a number of clear outs. You can have at half price if they fit your room, and if you wish that we hang these papers you may depend upon us for low prices, prompt work and best workmanship.

Whether Painting, Graining, Kalsomining, Paperhanging or superior Decorating, you better have this firm do it. We are responsible and we will please you in every way.

Our Picture Framing Department is ever on the boon.

We keep a large staff busy all the time in this department and there are good reasons why we do—

Good workmanship.

Good materials.

Promptness and low prices.

These are the abundant reasons.

C. B. Scantlebury

Belleville's Decorator,

Wall Paper Wholesale and Retail.

Business vs. Biliousness.

The man who is subject to biliousness cannot attend to business—biliousness demands all his attention. Biliousness arises from the retention of waste and foreign matter in the system, natures drainage being clogged.

Abbey's Effervescent Salt

goes to the root of the trouble and eradicates the cause—persuades the stomach and bowels, in a gentle but insistent manner, into healthy action, Abbey's clears the bile from the system in nature's own way, bringing health, a clear head, a clean stomach and energy for work.

It's worth Ten cents to clear your house of flies and will do it.

Wilson's Fly Pads

FAST MAIL SERVICE
Bay of Quinte Route
TO
ROCHESTER N. Y.
Strs. "North King" and "Caspian"
Taking Effect 27th June.

GOING DAILY (EXCEPT MONDAY)
Lv. Belleville .... 11.38 p. m.
Ar. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 6.43 a. m
RETURNING DAILY (Except Sunday)
Lv. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 8.30 p. m.
Ar. Belleville .... 3.25 a. m.

Baggage checked to all points. Connection with all railways.

$1.00 THOUSAND ISLANDS $1.00
AND RETURN.

Commencing 28th June. Steamer leaves Belleville at 3 25 a.m. daily except Monday for 1000 Islands, calling at Bay of Quinte ports, Kingston, Alexandria Bay and Gananoque. Passing through American and Canadian channels.

Right reserved to change time with or without notice.

Full information from
THE RATHBUN CO., } Agents.
U. E. THOMPSON, } Agents.
E. E. HORSEY, G. P. & F. Agent, Kingston.

Str. "Alexandria"
Montreal, Rochester & Quebec Transit Co'y.

Popular Quebec Excursions NOW ON.

Belleville to Quebec and return.. $18 00
Belleville to Montreal and return $12.00
(including meals and berth)
Steamer runs all rapids.
For Rochester, Olcott Beach, Niagara Falls and Buffalo every Saturday at 11 a.m.
Particulars from
A. W. HEPBURN, General Manager, Picton, Ont.
THE RATHBUN CO. Agents. Belleville.

The Deseronto Navigation Co
TIME TABLE.
Taking effect April 13, 1903.
Belleville, Trenton, Picton & Napanee
Str. "ELLA ROSS"
Leaves Belleville for Trenton at 10 a. m., daily, Sundays Excepted, returning leaves Trenton at 1 p. m., leaving Belleville at 3 p.m. for Deseronto, Napanee and Picton.
Quick and Superior Service to NEW YORK CITY
Steamers RESOLUTE and RELIANCE will leave Deseronto for Oswego after arrival of Str. Ella Ross connecting at Oswego with the New York, Ontario Western Ry.
Fare to New York, Single, $8.40
Return, $13.25
For further particulars apply to THE RATHBUN CO., Local Agents
J. F. CHAPMAN, Asst. Gen. Frt. Pass. Agt., Deseronto
R. C. Carter. General Manager, Deseronto.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

to raise a barrier between him and his victim and leave him free to carry out what he considered his "bold stroke."

Ralph, as usual, had the full confidence of his father in all his plans. A perfect understanding existed between the two. The law of hereditary qualities was strikingly illustrated in the essential likeness between the characters of this precious pair. Ralph was less mature and experienced in mere craft, but in cool, calculating, mercenary spirit he was not a whit behind his father. In fact, while the parent retained a certain affectation of virtuous motives even in the presence of those it was not necessary to deceive, and while discussing plans of the most unmitigated villainy—a habit quite common with those who have pursued a progressive course in dishonesty from an original standpoint of hesitancy—with Ralph there was no such pretension of respect for virtue where its use was not required. He had been so early initiated into the arts of trickery and dishonesty that the habit of equivocating with his conscience had never been formed. The only difference between the two men was that Ralph was the honester and more direct rogue of the two.

They understood each other perfectly. The elder Saybrook greatly admired Ralph's nonchalance and directness in any equivocal work, while the latter did not fail to return a full measure of admiration of his father's craftiness and skill. Each worshipped with ardent zeal a certain deformed idol of Respectability, whose chief supports were wealth and position, and each was equally inured to the idea that a certain amount of moral crookedness was necessary and laudable in the pursuit of wealth and power.

Ralph had been away on some business duties in a neighboring village at the time of the arrival of Claude's letter; but, on his return, his father lost no time in communicating to him its welcome contents.

They sat down to discuss the letter in the little law office.

"Everything continues to work favorably," remarked the elder Saybrook. "The result so far shows that I have not made a single miscalculation. I think I have seen my way pretty clear, and, by my knowledge of the young man's character and purposes, I have been enabled so far fairly to discount the future. I suppose I should be satisfied. I know I ought to feel confidence in myself. But I am terribly nervous and anxious. Every day's delay grinds me. Oh, for a chance for my bold stroke! Ah, Ralph, if I could only control political events for a week! But, pshaw! it won't do to be visionary. I have every reason to congratulate myself on securing the removal of that old dog of a Carl Crum. Ha, ha, how nicely my bait took! Mind you, Ralph, I did not show any open enmity or dislike, or make any demand for punishment for his treatment of me. I simply related the circumstances in such a manner as to suggest that, although I had been curtly received, I was rather amused than annoyed at it, and only grieved in any way that I should have failed of hospitality under the roof of such a dear friend. You see how well it worked. Ah, Ralph, delicacy and keenness are the true weapons of a diplomatist. If I had bunglingly shown my hand, and demanded satisfaction for being insulted, I should probably have failed in my purpose. But by suggesting the truth with a cheerful face and artless manner I have gained my point without in the least seeming to deserve it. You see it—eh, Ralph?"

"Yes, yes," answered the young man; "it was a very neat stroke. But who are you to put in old Crum's place?"

"There is a point that puzzles me," replied the elder, corrugating his brows. "It is hard to pick out just such a man as I want. It will be necessary to select somebody we can trust to a considerable extent, and yet he must not be too sharp for us. I have thought over every person at all available, and I don't know but that, on the whole, Leb. Sackett is our man. He is shrewd and serviceable, if we can only trust him far enough. But, really, there is nobody else who will do at all. I rather think we must take him. I fancy I can manage him well enough. What do you think, Ralph?"

"Why, I think he is just the man, if we can only make him available. But I have some doubts on that score. I have heard him talking several times on the subject of the stories they tell about Rolff House, and it struck me that he was rather inclined to be superstitious and give credence to the wildest tales of the popular fancy. In that case, it might be hard to induce him to enter a house that is reported to be haunted.

"Oh, leave that to me," interposed the elder Saybrook. "I fancy Sackett takes a sort of pleasure in encouraging the superstitious notions of people, but he is a world too shrewd to take much capital in the common run of spooks. At least, we can soon judge as to that. Nobody has been hurt yet by spirits at Rolff House, and I don't think Sackett will decline a liberal compensation to do as we want him to."

"You are the best judge," replied Ralph.

"I shall endeavor to see him within a day or two," pursued the father, "and I shall sound him carefully before committing myself to any agreement with him."

With this understanding, the conversation on the subject closed.

True to his word, Anthony Saybrook promptly sent for Leb. Sackett, and the next day that cerulean individual put in an appearance at the law office.

A few words sufficed to introduce the subject of the vacancy to occur in Rolff House.

"It is not necessary to state the reasons why old Carl is to be superseded," pursued the lawyer. "But, as trustee of the estate, it is necessary for me to secure a reliable man to take his place. I have sent for you, Mr. Sackett, believing you would be a good person to consult in regard to the matter. Do you know of anyody who would be likely to meet my idea of a thoroughly reliable man?"

Leb. Sackett half-closed his cold, lustreless eyes, and his vacant countenance became a shade more blank and meaningless—a fact which probably indicated that he was concentrating his mind to a reflective state. After a moment, he said:

"'Taint everyody who would want to live in Rolff House."

"And why not?" queried the lawyer.

"'Why' enough," replied Mr. Sackett. "The place is a regular old ghost trap. Some say the Old Boy himself makes it his headquarters at certain times. Whether all the stories they tell about it are true or not, most people believe them, and there isn't one man in a dozen you could get to go near the old house, much less to live in it."

"But do you believe these stories, Mr. Sackett?"

"Well, I've heard 'em on good authority, and perhaps I've seen some things myself. All I can say is, where there is so much smoke there is pretty sure to be some fire."

"But if the common run of people are so superstitious, Mr. Sackett, as to be afraid of ghosts in Rolff House, surely, a man of your strong mind and keen sense is not."

"If you mean to offer me the place," interposed Mr. Sackett, "I'll say that I ain't to be scared by ghosts or hobgoblins of any kind. I never knew 'em to hurt anybody. If there are ghosts in Rolff House, I won't disturb them and I don't think they will disturb me. Besides, I know a thing or two about such matters. I've studied demonology for some years, and we have some secrets in our family that everybody don't know. Ghosts ain't very pleasant neighbors, perhaps, but I'd rather have them than most men."

"Well said," replied the lawyer, with a pleasant smile. "And to come right down to business, Mr. Sackett, I believe you would perhaps be just the man I want; and your knowledge of ghost matters might be of some use to me."

With the ice thus broken, the two talkers soon arrived at a satisfactory agreement, by which it was arranged that Leb. Sackett was to take the place of old Carl Crum in Rolff House

CHAPTER XIV.

As the weeks slipped by, and it became evident to Rosa Bruyn that her lover had either neglected to write to her, or that some obstacle had intervened to prevent her from receiving his letters, her anxiety and distress became very plainly visible to her watchful mother. Yet the good matron felt debarred from saying anything to her on the subject. If more letters had arrived, she was not aware of the fact; for farmer Bruyn had maintained an imperturbable silence since his first hasty action in destroying Claude's letter. Like most men of strong, wilful natures, he rarely changed his mind when once he had deliberately formed a purpose; and being fully resolved to break up the relations of his daughter with Claude it probably did not occur to him to give himself any further thought about the matter except to vigorously execute his first-formed purposes.

Meantime, Rosa became instinctively aware of some influence on the part of her parents as the cause of Claude's silence. Her faith in him was too strong and trusting to cause her to credit for an instant the idea that he would deliberately desert her. It is true, she had had a premonition that his absence in Europe might lead to the cooling of his affection toward her; but she had considered it possible only as the result of long absence and the slow and almost imperceptible growth of indifference as he formed new associations and ties in a strange land. She could not doubt that he had fulfilled his promise of writing to her. Why had she not received his letter? There was no marked change in the conduct of her parents towards her; yet a slight increase of maternal tenderness and watchfulness, and a studied avoidance of all topics relating to Rolff House or its young heir in her presence, were prophetic to her mind of the real cause of the difficulty. She knew that her father had never really liked Claude, although his objections had never been clearly stated, and while she could not suspect him of any such action as deliberately and secretly destroying his letters, she yet felt a painful conviction that he had taken some means to forbid or prevent Claude from communicating with her.

Girl as she was, and of a tender and almost timid nature, Rosa possessed an unusually clear and sagacious mind, and she was not long in concluding that her father would not have taken any sudden and decided stand against Claude's relations to her without some definite reason for it. All her nature was absorbed in the consideration of the to her all-important question that lay at her heart, and no event or incident was so light but that she considered its relation and bearing to the secret she was seeking to solve. Her father's frequent visits to lawyer Saybrook's, and the reports that reached her ears in regard to that individual's operations in managing Claude's affairs, did not escape her attention, and, with an intuitive preception of the truth, she was led to believe that some scheme of the plotting lawyer was at the bottom of her whole heart trouble.

She was not only confirmed in her suspicions, but a new cause of anxiety was caused her by the growing attentions of Ralph Saybrook toward her. He had managed to meet her several times, manifesting a marked politeness and attention whose import could not be mistaken, and on two or three occasions he had returned home with her father from the village in the evening, and passed a couple of hours in social converse. Such attentions as these could not be misinterpreted, and Rosa's anxiety was increased by the evidence she perceived that not only was there a plot to rob her of her old lover but also to give her a new one.

Her nature was not an aggressive or complaining one. It was her disposition to suffer and endure rather than to oppose and protest. Full of apprehension and dread, she yet resolved to quitely wait events until her fears became more clearly resolved and her duty more apparent. Meantime, she wrote to Claude again, complaining of his silence, and desiring to know the reason of it. She little knew that, by collusion with the postmaster, her own letters had been confiscated by her fathers as well as those of Claude.

The truth was that Anthony Sayrook had succeeded in so thoroughly working on the prejudices of the old farmer as to greatly intensify his antipathy to Claude. Knowing his utter ignorance of art and inability to appreciate Claude's ambition, he frequently read him passages from Claude's letters that were in the somewhat strained and affected style of the literature of the time. The glowing descriptions of art galleries, palaces and temples, the comments on the glitter and luxury of Venitian life, and the lively accounts of carnivals and festivals, all tended to convince the unsophisticated farmer that Claude was leading a life of wildest dissipation and extravagance. And as the shrewd lawyer was not above adding a word or even a phrase here and there to give an equivocal meaning to some innocent or indiscreet phrase, the virtuous indignation of the stern and wrong-headed old man was wrought up to the highest point. He considered that henceforth he would be fully justified in resorting to any and every means to stop communication of his daughter with Claude, and to that end paid a visit to Mr. Ronk, the postmaster, and secured co-operation in suppressing any further correspondence between the young couple. It was a day when despotic powers of parental control were recognized, while the postal laws and regulations were new and crude, so that no one in the community would have perceived anything irregular in a parent confiscating the letters between a daughter and an objectionable suitor.

The reports soon spread around the neighborhood that Claude was leading a most disreputable life in Europe, and the Saybrooks, father and son, by many cunning devices, in many ways added to the popular gossip.

CHAPTER XV.

Obedient to his instructions, old Carl Crum had taken his departure from the venerable roof that had sheltered his head so long, and for which he felt an almost romantic attachment, and domiciled himself in a tenant house on the

(To be continued.)

A Little Coal Goes A Long Way towards heating a house if fed into a Furnace made to heat—one which does not send the fuel up the chimney in smoke.

'Sunshine' Furnaces will extract more heat from a unit of coal than any other good Furnace.

Every square inch from the bottom of fire-pot to top of dome is a direct radiating surface.

The dome is made of heavy steel-plate, which makes it a more effective heater than the cast-iron dome put in common Furnaces.

The "Sunshine" has every improved feature and still is so simple that any person can operate it.

McClary's

London, Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg, Vancouver, St. John, N. B.

THE W. W. CHOWN CO.
LIMITED, AGENTS.

The Flagging Energies Revived.—Constant application to business is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These come from stomachic troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregularities, and the stomach ceases to assimilate food properly. In this condition Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare power, restoring the organs to healthful action, dispelling depression and reviving the flagging energies.

The wildcat's teeth are close to its purr.

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is a speedy cure for dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera, summer complaint, sea sickness and complaints incidental to children teething. It gives immediate relief to those suffering from the effects of indiscretion in eating unripe fruit, cucumbers, etc. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to conquer the disease. No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

When one gets hopping mad his reason goes on a crutch.

Sleeplessness.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be the oblivion for a while and temporary relief. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

The average watch represents but 12 hours of human labor.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried

Many a man's self-conceit is due to his ignorance.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one-half, the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done, it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very billous habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using 3 bottles of the Vegetable Discovery, the billiousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 68 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

Coral is a talisman against thunder and evils by flood and field.

THE PUBLIC should bear in mind that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has nothing in common with the impure, deteriorating class of so-called medicinal oils. It is eminently pure and really efficacious—relieving pain and lameness, stiffness of the joints and muscles, and sores or hurts, besides being an excellent specific for rheumatism, coughs and bronchial complaints,

All trails are long to the lazy.

These two desirable qualifications, pleasant to the taste and at the same time effectual, are to be found in Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, Children like it.

A long portage makes a heavy canoe.

To get relief from indigestion, billousness, constipation or torpid liver without disturbing the stomach or purging the bowels, take a few doses of Carter's Little Liver Pills, they will please you.

It takes money to voice the opinion of a lawyer.

That tired, languid feeling and dull headache is very disagreeable. Take two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring, and you will find relief. They never fail to do good.

Much talk, many lies.

They make one feel as though life was worth living. Take one of Carter's Little Liver Pills after eating; it will relieve dyspepsia, aid digestion, give tone and vigor to the system.

The best way to get even is to forget.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course generally prove the fore-runner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected [illegible] and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state. tural.

A Sweet Stomach

comes only by having a perfect acting liver and good digestion—both can easily be had by using

Beecham's Pills

Sold Everywhere. In boxes, 25 cents.

Coin Pay Envelopes at The Intelligencer Job Office. Cheapest and best in the city.

RAINY WEATHER NEEDS.

What a lot of weather we are having, very hot, then rainy and cold. Whether the weater is clear or whether the weather is cloudy, the fact remains that we have waterprof coats in plenty, guaranteed to keep out the wet.

A Few Specials

We have just received a few specials that should be of interest to you. There are so many very low priced, useless coats on the market that these extra good ones at modorate prices will surely prove fast sellers. Two lines, one dark the other medium, pure rainproof, velvet collar, raglan pocket and cuffs, coats made to sell at $7 50. OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY $5.00.

A FEW BETTER

Then we have some extra good ones at $7, $8 and $10, coats that you would have to pay much more for in other stores. If you are thinking of a rainproof coat, come in and take a look around.

OAK HALL

Sole Agents for Sanford's Celebrated Clothing.

Lowest Prices
Latest Styles
Largest Variety
IN

LADIES' LOW SHOES.

The "Albani"
1 strap, 2 strap, or 4 strap.
Prices 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00.

The "Trilby"
2 Buttoned Low Shoe.
Prices $1.00, $1.25, $1.50.

The "Oxford"
Low Laced Shoe.
Prices 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 up.

Also Misses' and Children's

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES at Belleville, Napanee and Trenton

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

THE PITCHER.

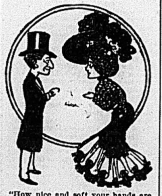
The pitcher takes a telling pose
  And holds the ball on high,
Then turns it with his finger tips,
  His new in-curve to try.
Then swiftly swings his strong right arm;
  The vicious deed is done!
The umpire dodges skillfully
  And hoarsely shouts, "Ba-all one!"

The pitcher takes his pose again,
  Both feet firm on the ground;
Again he holds the ball on high
  And slowly turns it round.
Then once more he uncoils himself,
  The batsman to undo.
The ball smacks in the catcher's glove;
  The umpire shouts, "Ba-all two!"

The pitcher fiercely grinds his heel,
  In desperation grim.
Once more he holds the ball on high;
  All eyes are fixed on him.
Once more he swiftly lets it drive,
  Then fiercely slaps his knee
Because the umpire coldly cries,
  In fog horn tones, "Ba-all three!"

The pitcher's face is firm and set;
  A wild gleam in his eye
Shows his determination as
  He holds the ball on high.
He hurls it in; the bat swings round
  And meets it with a thud!
The ball soars o'er the left field fence!
  The pitcher's name is Mudd!

A Hard Knock.



"How nice and soft your hands are, Mr. Muffy!"

"Yes; I—ah—sleep with my gloves on, don't you know."

"Indeed! And your hat also, I suppose?"

Mighty Cheerful.

Mamma had told her little daughter that she could not go out to play, but the little maiden determined to make one more plea. "Please, mamma; it isn't very wet, and I won't go on the grass."

"No, you cannot, Dorothy," said mamma pleasantly, smiling a little at her daughter's persistency.

Dorothy regarded her mother aggrievedly and then said, "Well, seems to me you're mighty cheerful about it."—New York Times.

A horse has been known to jump 37 feet in a steeplechase.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

It will be noted that The Intelligencer, in its report of the joint meeting of the Board of trade and City Council last night, has omitted the name and location of the industry which it is hoped to secure for Belleville. This was not done inadvertently. With the keen competition which exists to-day it is just as well not to let rivals know exactly what you have up your sleeve. This paper wishes the city no worse luck than that it may secure the industry in question, which would seem to be just what we need in our business.

* * *

With the personnel of the deputation no one can consistently find fault. If ex-Mayor Johnson can infect the promoters with his optimism, Ald. Chown can certainly be relied on to give them a fair idea of business conditions in this city. The deputation may not be successful, but if failure attends their efforts it will not be their fault.

* * *

The assessment people got a little jar in last night's Council meeting. If some of them did not obey orders, why were they not disciplined?

* * *

One of the Aldermen last night asked what the recent legal "opinion" cost, but he didn't get an answer.

* * *

Old Bob Fitzsimmons has married again, which shows that the talk about his giving up the fighting game was all bosh.

One More For Roblin.

Winnipeg, July 28.—Returning officers at Partington gave their decision on the tie between Dr. Grain, Conservative, and M. O'Donohue, Liberal, in the Kildonan and St. Andrew's election tie yesterday. The returning officer's casting vote was in favor of Dr. Grain, who was declared elected by one. A recount has been applied for. Mr. Cotton, Liberal, and Mr. Robinson, Conservative, were renominated yesterday for the Swan River seat in the Legislature.

Four Months in the Central.

Toronto, July 28.—Ellis M. Charters, the Englishman arrested for vagrancy after attempting to get a loan of $100 from the Governor-General, which sum the clerk at the King Edward Hotel refused to hand over to him, was sentenced to four months in the Central Prison by Colonel Denison in the Police Court yesterday morning.

Women For Ministry.

Chicago, July 28.—The Swedish Theological Seminary, affiliated with Northwestern University, has decided to open its classes in theology to women the coming fall term. This probably means their admission to the ministry.

Girls In Turkey.

In a recent book on his native country an intelligent Turk writes: "Formerly girls in Turkey were not allowed to learn the mystery of caligraphy. We have had some excellent poetesses in days gone by, but none of them could write; they dictated their inspirations. The common explanation given of this traditional prohibition—for it is a custom rather than a rule—was that if girls once learned writing they might have indulged in talismanic pastimes and eventually have become witches. As a matter of fact, the real reason was quite different. There was a fear, perhaps not ill founded, that, having once learned to write, they might hasten to make use of the accomplishment by composing love letters to young men with whom they could not otherwise communicate, for the strict seclusion of females cuts off all intercourse between young people of opposite sexes almost as soon as they have ceased to be infants."

CAMP COMFORTS

Mosquito-Scat for Mosquitos, etc., 15c a bottle.

Witch Hazel Cream for Sunburn, etc., 25c a bottle

Bathing Caps for ladies, 50c.

WATERS'

Bank of Montreal
ESTABLISHED 1817
Capital and Rest, All Paid Up
$23,000,000
(Twenty-three Millions)

Savings Bank Department
Interest on sums of $1.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.
A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch

$5,000. Reward for the Arrest and Conviction of-—the parties who originated and circulated, the rumor that "Force" Food contained drugs or other injurious ingredients.

$5,000. additional will be paid to anyone proving that "Force" does, or ever did, contain any drug or other injurious or unhealthful ingredient, being composed solely of Wheat and Barley, with a seasoning of table salt, steam cooked, flaked, and roasted.

Do us the justice, if you question the absolute purity or healthfulness of "Force," to send a package to the Health Department of your city for analysis.

The "FORCE" Food Company. BUFFALO, N. Y.

Massachusetts College of Pharmacy.
BOSTON, June 25, 1903.

The "Force" Food Company, Buffalo, N. Y.:

GENTLEMEN—A rumor having reached me that your product, "FORCE," contained injurious ingredients, I took the occasion to analyze it, in the interest of my own family and of some friends who are liberal users of it.

It may interest you to know that I found it consisted exclusively of Whole Wheat, Barley and Salt, and is absolutely free from any injurious elements whatever.

Permit me to express my sincere regret that such a serious and baseless rumor should gain footing with the public.

You are free to use this letter in any way that will help to do your product justice.

Yours truly,
WILBUR L. SCOVILLE.

Massachusetts College of Pharmacy.
BOSTON, June 30, 1903.

To Whom It May Concern:

At the invitation of The "FORCE" Food Company, of Buffalo, I have visited their Mills and made a careful examination of the materials from which "FORCE" is prepared, and the processes which convert it into its finished condition.

I found that "FORCE" consists exclusively of what my previous analysis indicated, viz.: Whole Wheat and Barley, with a flavoring of Table Salt, flaked, cooked and sterilized by 300 degrees of heat.

A feature of the manufacture which impressed me considerably was the fact that the process is entirely mechanical, the food being prepared, cooked and boxed by machinery, without ever coming in contact with the hands or clothing of the mill operatives.

I was also gratified to note that an experienced Chemist daily supervised the entire output, and that each day's manufacture was also tested by an expert cook.

Signed, WILBUR L. SCOVILLE,
Professor of Theory and Practice of Chemistry.

Chemical Laboratory,
University of Buffalo,
HERBERT M. HILL, PH. D.,
Analytical Chemist and Assayer.

June 26, 1903.

The "Force" Food Company, Buffalo, N. Y.:

GENTLEMEN—In view of the rumors regarding the alleged adulteration of "FORCE," it has been a satisfaction to me to visit your Mills, investigate, and analyze your product.

You are free to publish this statement made over my signature, that I found "FORCE" to be absolutely pure, consisting solely of Whole Wheat and Barley, flavored with table Salt, and free from any injurious substance whatever.

I examined, in detail, the various steps in the manufacture of your product, such as the steam cooking, the flaking and the roasting, as well as the packing, and find all to be remarkably clean and of absolute healthfulness. The final roasting is done at a temperature above 300° F., which, with the steam cooking, completely sterilizes the product, and the entire process, from the first step to the final sealing of the package, is a mechanical one, the product at no time coming in contact with the hands or clothing of the persons handling the machines or packages.

Very respectfully,
HERBERT M. HILL,
Chemist to the City of Buffalo.

See page 148 of "Cereal Breakfast Foods," Bulletin No. 84, of the Maine Experiment Station, a State Institution, which has analyzed "FORCE" with other foods, in the public interests.

Copy will be mailed free on request.

Refer also to Canadian Government Bulletin 84 on similar subject, pages 6 and 29, for analysis showing that "FORCE" consists solely of the most wholesome and nutritious ingredients.

Any inquiries concerning this subject will be cheerfully answered by
THE "FORCE" FOOD COMPANY,
Buffalo, N. Y.

CANADIAN MILL, HAMILTON, ONT.

Wanted to Have It Over.

"Mamma," said Bennie as there came a brief pause in the conversation on the part of the callers, "isn't it time for you to ask me what I learned at the kindergarten today? If you don't do it pretty soon, I'll forget what you told me to say."—Chicago Tribune.

Unsatisfactory.

"I tried the plan of thinking twice before speaking," he said, "but it didn't work."

"No?"

"Well, hardly. Why, by the time I'd thought twice my wife had me roasted to a finish."—Chicago Post.

Close and Costly.

"They are continually quarreling, and yet he persists in saying that she is near and dear to him."

"Correct. He means that she hangs to his coat tails and buys lace dresses and imported bonnets."—Baltimore News.

Hands and Feet.

"Did those people whom you went to civilize welcome you with open hands?"

"No," answered the missionary sadly; "they all jumped on me with both feet."—Washington Star.

Inspiring.

"How perfectly the girl graduates keep step!"

"Yes; the orchestra is playing the wedding music from 'Lohengrin.'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Millionaires of New York.

It is estimated that there are in New York city today 1,320 millionaires as against 294 in 1880 and 25 in 1853. There were no millionaires in New York 100 years ago. The first person to reach that distinction was John Jacob Astor, who became a millionaire about 1820. Six years before that the richest man in the city was Isaac Classon, who swore that he was worth $750,000.

"Young Briefly had only been admitted to the bar a week when he made a fortune. He was caught in a railroad wreck in which forty people were injured."

"And he was one of those who got damages?"

"He was all of them. He got all the victims to retain him."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Advantages to the New Generation.

He—Yes; I suppose it was awfully good of the "governor" to leave me this place, but I don't care for it. He was too practical a man to have really good taste.

She—Still, you ought to be glad to have a place like this to rest in after your father's labors.—Brooklyn Life.

Love's Anæsthetic.

Her Mamma—My dear, I am surprised that you should suffer a man to kiss you!

Her Daughter—But, mamma, I didn't suffer.—Boston Globe.

Always Broke.

Blobbs—Harduppe reminds me of the Ten Commandments.

Slobbs—In what way?

Blobbs—He's always broke.—Philadelphia Record.

Feline Suggestion.

May—I don't like the fit of this gown at all. I wonder how I could improve it?

Fay—Let some other girl wear it, dear.—Life.

ODD LINES
—OF—
Boots and Shoes
AT LESS THAN COST PRICE.

Men's Canvas Low Shoes, regular price $1.25 & $1.50	75c
Men's Canvas Boots, regular price $1.25 & $1.50	$1.00
Men's Working Boots	68c
Men's $4.00 Tan Boots for	$2.00
Boys' Tan Boots, regular price $1.50 to $2.50	$1.00
Ladies' Fine Dongola Oxfords, sizes 3, 3½, 4, regular price $1.00 to $2.00	50c
Children's Slippers, regular price 75c & $1.00	35c
Girls' Calf Button Boots, sizes 11 to 2	60c

VERMILYEA & SON.
Sole Agents for the famous Queen Quality Shoe.

ONE WEEK MORE ✱ This Sale positively ends Saturday, Aug. 1st

$5.00 Any Suit In This Great Clothing Store for $5.00

A STUPENDOUS CLOTHING OFFER WITHOUT PRECEDENT OR PARALLEL.

Some Suits $18, some $16, some $15, some $12, others $10. Just think of it! High grade, thoroughly tailored garments for Men, complete suits in fashionable fabrics, for

$5.00

This sale has been such a large success we have decided to continue it for one week more to clear out the balance of suits still left. Lots of snaps in stock yet. The earlier you come the better your choice. THIS SALE POSITIVELY ENDS SATURDAY, AUG. 1st.

The GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE.

Up-to-date Clothiers and Gents' Furnishiers, Look for the Globe Over The Door, 390 Front Street, Belleville.

Wall Paper

At first sight of our Wall Papers you will say there's an attractiveness about them that puts them lengths ahead of other lines.

IN STOCKING

we select only the best, we have no "shelf warmers" all our Papers are quick sellers. If you choose your Papers from us you have best value for the price obtainable anywhere.

Painting, Paperhanging and Decorating done on shortest notice by best workmen in the city.

JOHN CORNELIUS.

3 Doors South of Intelligencer Office.

NEW GOODS

JAPAN TEA

The first of this season's crop, exta quality, regular 50c line, we quote

40c Per lb.

Canned Halibut

Fine solid Fish, very tasty,

15c per can.

J. C. Hanley & Co.

GROCERS

Telephone 214

Flowers & Vegetables

Of all kinds in season

. . . AT . . .

J. D. COLLIP'S.

'Phone 205.

Western Beef.

Prime Western Beef together with all kinds of choice meats, supplied by the district, at

C. GREEN'S

267 Front St., 'Phone 109.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

CHEAP TRIPS

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay, Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

NOTICE.

Tickets are now on sale via North Bay and Sarnia, also via lake and rail, to points on Canadian Northern Railway, Port Frances, Rainy River, Winnipeg and other points west. New fast train service has just been inaugurated on this line.

D. E. THOMPSON, City Agent,
Bridge Street,
T. E. COPPIN. Depot Agent.
J. D. McDONALD,
Dist. Pass Agt., Toronto.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

"Imperial Limited."

Fast tri-weekly Transcontinental service between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. Connection leaves Toronto at 1.45 p.m., Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, making run Toronto to Vancouver in 97 hours.

Upper Lake Steamships

Leave Owen Sound Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 5.30 p.m., on arrival of S.S. Express leaving Toronto at 1.30 p.m. Connections at Fort William and Port Arthur for Winnipeg and aPcific Coast points.

Daily First-Class Service Toronto to Winnipeg, Calgary, Banff and Pacific Coast.

Fully Equipped Through Tourist Cars leave Toronto Tuesday and Saturday for Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Full particulars from your nearest Canadian Pacific Agent or to

A. H. NOTMAN,
Asst. Gen. Pass. Agent, TORONTO
S. BURROWS, C.P.R. and General Ticket Agent, Front St., Belleville.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

HUMOR

HIS PARTING SHOT.

What the Deacon Thought of His First Turkish Bath.

The two young men had induced the deacon to take his first Turkish bath. They had got him properly attired, or, rather, unattired, and had him conducted into the hot room.

The deacon didn't enjoy it, but he was game. He rolled around nervously on his cot, and every time he moved he seemed to strike a hotter spot. But he stood it like a man until the perspiration made rivulets innumerable in running off him. Then he lifted himself up on his elbow and said plaintively:

"Let's get out of this."

But the young men only laughed and told him to keep quiet; that it was just getting comfortable.

When he finally absolutely refused to stand it any longer they led him into the steam room and sat down to gossip and enjoy his discomfiture as he felt himself slowly boiling away.

And the deacon seemed inclined to lose his temper. It was aggravating to be so extremely uncomfortable when they apparently were enjoying themselves and would offer him no means of escape that would, to say the least, be dignified.

But there was an end of it. He got out, and as he looked "more in sorrow than in anger" from one to the other of them one asked:

"Well, deacon, what do you think of it?"

The deacon replied solemnly and with all due dignity, but rather pointedly:

"It's a good thing, young man; it's a remarkably convenient thing for some people who need to suitably prepare themselves for the hereafter. But for my part I am glad to get on earth again."—Chicago Post.

Unpropitious Start.

"Papa," said the distinguished statesman's petted daughter, "you have never told me anything about the house in which you were born."

"No, my child," he replied, with a groan, "I have not. I could not bear to destroy the fond illusion that your father is a great man. I am not a great man, my dear. I am an impostor. I was not born in a log cabin, but in a three story brick with stone trimmings!"

And he turned away in anguish.—Chicago Tribune.

Sallie and Willie.

"Strange about giddy young girls, isn't it, Sally?"

"How so, Willie?"

"Why, there's a girl in town who used to boast that she was kissed by President Grant when she was a baby, but she now declares it was President Hayes who kissed her. In a few years she will be claiming that President Roosevelt kissed her when she was a mere child."—Roller Monthly.

A Financial Note.

"What's up, old man? I never saw you look so haggard."

"The Steenth bank is up; that's what's up. And my deposit's gone up with it."

"Oh, I wouldn't let a thing like that upset me."

"I'm not upset; merely lost my balance."—Philadelphia Press.

Accidental, Maybe.

Snodgrass—A fool of a fellow shot a man in the leg this morning, and it wasn't reported to the police.

Spruceberry—That so? Who was the man shot?

Snodgrass—Me.

Spruceberry—Who shot him?

Snodgrass—Me.—Toledo Blade.

A Watery Farewell.

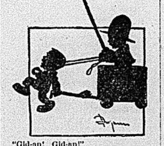
An Irishman and a Frenchman were parting at the steamer. The Irishman, standing on the wharf waving his hand to his friend, shouted, "O reservoir!" The Frenchman, politely saluting, replied, "Tanks!"—Boston Christian Register.

Hard Work and Much of It.

"Is it hard to be a detective?" asked the young woman admiringly.

"Very," answered Old Slookshaw. "It keeps a man studying day and night to behave like the detectives that the story writers describe."—Washington Star.

Confusing.



"Gid-ap! Gid-ap!"

"Say, Bobby, you drive jest like a woman. You hold back on the lines with one hand an' holler 'Gid-ap!' with the other."—New York Evening Journal.

CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY

CAPITAL

10,000 Shares 7 per cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, par value $100 each, $1,000,000
50,000 Shares Common Stock, par value $100, issued and fully paid 5,000,000
TOTAL CAPITALIZATION $6,000,000

Issues of $1,000,000 00 7 p.c. Preferred Stock in 10,000 Shares of $100 each at par.

This stock is preferred both as to Assets and Dividends.

The shares are entitled to cumulative preferred dividends from the net earnings of the Company, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable half yearly on the first days of April and October. They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at $115,00 per share, at any time after 1st January, 1909.

The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000.00, the whole of which is now offered.

Subsriptions for 10,000 Shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent. Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is $100 Share, as follows

per cent on application,
25 " " on allotment,
35 " " 30 days thereafter.
35 " " 60 days thereafter.

One share of Common, par value $100, given with each share of preferred.

The whole of instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of one per cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Novia Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1 000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4000 acres of iron ore deposit, located Natashquan (tidewater) situated on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highet ever discovered, running from 69 per cent to 72 per cent in metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore has been received by the Company than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

Send for prospectus giving full information as to earnings, reports, etc., etc.

Address all communications and send subscriptions to

COLONIAL SECURITIES CO., 62 Wall Street, New York City OR W. L. MARSTON & COMPANY 110 State Street, Boston

The SAWYER COMPANY.
351 Temple Building, Montreal, Canada.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Measurement Nonpareil—12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions, 5c

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon original or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriages and deaths, 50c each insertion

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisement will be found in 1st column of 2nd page.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of the Intelligencer.

Address all communications to the Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House Limited, or to Charles J. Bowell, Managing Director and Treasurer.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s Office, 30 Fleet Street, London, E. C.

CONDENSED ADVERTISEMENTS

SITUATIONS WANTED, HELP WANTED, LOST OR FOUND, FOR SALE OR TO RENT, &c.

(Auction Sales not included in this list)

TERMS.—Twenty-five words or less, 25c first insertion; two insertions, 50c; four insertions, 75c; one week $1.00, two weeks, $1.75, three weeks, $2.25; one month, $2.50. Strictly cash in advance.

LOST.

Friday, July 24, a ladies' tapestry pocket book containing calling cards and receipts. Finder leave at the Intelligencer Office. Reward. 25-2td&1tw

WANTED.

A youth to learn the printing trade, one with slight experience would be accepted. Apply to The Intelligencer Office. 25-2t

Be independent. Employ yourself. Establish a business. Our goods are used everyday by everybody. Men make fortunes. Write G. Marshall & Co., London, Ont. 4

Agents wanted, $2.50 per day. Apply Cooper, London, Ont. s27-1y

Young men ambitious to learn lucrative trades, of which there are eight in connection with the business. Apply The Belleville Hardware Company, Belleville, Ont. a7dtf

WANTED Reliable Men in every locality throughout Canada to introduce our goods, tacking up show cards on trees, fences, along roads and all conspicuous places, also distributing small advertising matter. Commission or salary $60.00 per month and expenses, not to exceed $2.50 per day. Steady employment to good, honest reliable men. No experience needful. Write for full particulars THE EMPIRE MEDICINE CO., London, Ont

TO RENT

House furnished or unfurnished on George street. Apply to Mrs. May, 206 George Street. 4t

TO-LET.

That new solid brick house on Yeomans street. Hard and soft water in kitchen. Good cellar, stable and garden. In perfect order. $6.—J. J. B. Flint. jy16dtf

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

Stone house, 11 rooms, coal furnace, stable, barn. Large grounds. Cor. Frank and Moira Sts. north. Terms reasonable. H. Bull, on premises or Fred Bull, 133 Yonge St., Toronto. Terms easy. ap18-dtf

FOR SALE.

Good sound 5-year-old mare. Apply Wm. Davies' Co., Front St., Belleville. j28-29

A six room frame house and a good barn 20x30, on Everett street. Apply to R. F. Miller. 5td-1tw

Shingles, shingles, dressed lumber, etc. GEO. WALTON & CO. jy14-1md

Dressed and Matched Lumber of all kinds, at ALFORD'S factory, Market Square. j12-tf

Contractors and masons, any any person requiring lime may procure it from E. G. STAPLEY, Canifton Road, Belleville. New lime always on hand. a9-d&w6m

Goods We Have at Right Prices

- —Hammocks.
- —Fishing Tackle.
- —Tennis Goods.
- —Golf Goods.
- —Lacrosse Goods.
- —Base Ball Goods.
- —Screen Doors and Windows.
- —Fruit Jars.
- —Fruit Jar Rubbers.
- —Wall Paper.
- —Crystal Glass Vases.
- —Glass Ware.
- —Dinner Sets.
- —Toilet Sets.
- —Ladies' Hose.
- —Ladies' Vests.

Everything in smallwares.

AT THE BEE HIVE

Chas. N. Sulman

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

Has Won the Golden Opinion

of thousands of Japan tea drinkers.

"SALADA"

CEYLON NATURAL GREEN tea is all pure tea leaves without any adulteration whatever. It's as far ahead of Japan tea as "SALADA" Black is ahead of all other black teas. Sealed lead packets only. 25c and 40c per lb. By all grocers.

A Monopoly.

D&A
CREST 400

We have the Monopoly of this Corset, because it is a patented Corset, and nobody else can make it.

Every woman knows that a "CREST" Corset cannot break at the waist, and is therefore especially adapted to every active woman, and invaluable to those with rather full figures.

Do not fail to try one. If you do you will buy no other style of Corsets.

WEAR 'CREST" CORSETS

MADE IN THREE STYLES

REGULAR SHAPES STRAIGHT FRONT DIP HIP

D

DOMINION EXHIBITION

1903 - TORONTO - 1903

AUG. 27th to SEPT. 12th

The Agricultural, Manufacturing and Natural resources of Canada will be exhibited on a scale never before attempted.

DAILY PARADES OF LIVE STOCK

E R

In addition, by order of HIS MAJESTY [illegible]

THE JUBILEE P[illegible]

of his august mother, the late Queen Victoria, will be exhibited FREE, as well as, by permission of the Dowager Duchess of Dufferin and Ava,

THE DUFFERIN PRESENTS

And by permission of the Countess of Aberdeen treasures

OF IRISH MANUFACTURE

The special features, including an entirely new spectacular production entitled

A CARNIVAL IN VENICE

under the personal direction of Bolossi Kiralfy, will be on a scale never before attempted at an annual fair in any part of the world.

Reduced rates by land and water from everywhere. Consult your station agent.

W. K. McNAUGHT, President.

J. O. ORR, Manager and Secretary.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

—FOR—

Stylish and Durable Turnouts.

- —Surreys
- —Corning Buggies
- —Piano Box Buggies
- —Rubber Tire Buggies
- —Micadoes
- —Phaetons
- —Bike Buggies
- —Democrats
- —Grocer Wagons
- —Butcher Wagons

Cheese Factory Milk Wagons.
Steel Tubular Axle Lumber Wagons.

Rubber Tires put on your old wheels at reasonable prices.

Mill St, - - Belleville

BUY one of our Ball Bearing LAWN MOWERS. They are very light running and beautiful cutters.

GREENLEAF & SON

Mr W. Denham

Of Denham's Drug Store, Petrolea, Ont., says:

"The O. R. Kidney Cure gives the best satisfaction to our customers of any kidney medicine we handle."

Belleville druggists speak highly of the O. R. Kidney Cure.

It does its work quickly.
It cures Lame Back.
It cures Lumbago.
It cures Bladder Trouble.
It cures Gravel in Bladder.
It cures Rheumatism.
It cures Kidney Troubles.
It will cure you.
Try one bottle.

O. R. KIDNEY CURE is put up in liquid form, contains no poisons, is quickly assimilated and will cure all kidney and urinary troubles.

O. R. Kidney Cure, 50c per bottle.
O. R. Liver Pills, 25c per bottle.
O. R. Dyspepsia Tablets 25c per box.

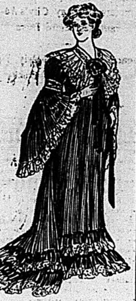
AT DRUGGISTS, OR WRITE—

THE O. R. MEDICINE CO.,
Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FASHION HINTS.

A New Make of Cluny Lace—Linen and Tussore Silk.

There is a new make of cluny lace in silk which is very effective for a trimming of plain voile frocks, and it is not at all expensive. A charming costume recently seen was in rose pink voile with a bolero of this cluny lace finished with a silk fringe. The bolero really formed a cape and collar in one with a pelerine effect and sleeves ending at the elbow. The gown was eminently suited to race meetings, country gatherings and similar occasions, and, although it was smart, it was very simple. The skirt was made with three plaits on each hip and five folds at the bottom of the hem. The blouse bodice under the lace bolero consisted of tiny box plaits on either side worn with a plain fawn leather band. The whole was surmounted by a neat black straw toque.



CHINA SILK NEGLIGEE.

Linen closely resembling hopsacking is soft and does not crease readily. A good many tussores and silks of a similar nature are also used for ordinary wear. The ecru tints of tussore and linen require relieving with embroidery or colored ribbon.

The china silk negligee in the cut is trimmed with ecru lace, and the main portion is accordion plaited.

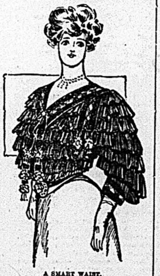
JUDIC CHOLLET.

PRETTY EFFECTS.

Some Costly Frocks With Jeweled Lace—Simple Muslins.

A fichu stole or scarf of lace or embroidered lawn is a useful adjunct to any woman's toilet.

Very beautiful frocks are made of white kilted chiffon veiled with jeweled or spangled lace. These transparencies in evening wear are much in vogue in Paris. They are generally placed over a kilted underskirt of a contrasting shade. Such an idea is very picturesque for a ball frock.



A SMART WAIST.

Inexpensive muslins make very pretty evening gowns if chosen in dainty shades and carefully trimmed with inexpensive yellow insertion.

Very pretty are the new scroll patterns in black and white and red and white. These make up charmingly with the plain spotted muslin or lace fichu. The skirts of such frocks look well cut with five frills around the hem and only long enough to touch the ground. The sleeves should be very full. These dresses are not hard to make at home if one has a good pattern.

The illustration shows a pretty waist of black louisine silk trimmed with red and black embroidered bands.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

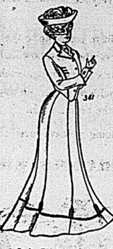
A Body Blow to the Air Ship.

The resistance of the air to moving bodies of various shapes has been tested by M. Canovetti by attaching each form to a carriage sliding down a wire 400 yards long, one of whose ends was seventy-five yards higher than the other. From the time made with and without the load the resistance was calculated. It was shown that more power was necessary for driving an aeroplane through the air than for propelling an automobile of equal weight along a road and that the weight of engine necessary must make this form of air ship impracticable.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Store Closed Every Wednesday During July and August at 12 O'Clock Noon.

SUIT REDUCTIONS.



The Mantle Department again demands attention—with an offering in Misses' and Ladies' Suits.

Not a very great quantity but worthy on account of the saving it makes possible.

We've no complaints to make of this season's suit selling—it's been our best ever.

The pretty styles at moderate prices which we displayed made so favorable an impression that we have only a few left to clear.

It is the height of the wearing season—the finish of the selling. To convert these into cash quickly we have made most liberal reductions.

Only Four Misses' and Three Ladies' suits. It will need an early visit to gain advantage of this offering.

—7 Only Suits—4 Misses, 2 Navy, 2 Light Oxford—3 Ladies sizes, 32-34-36—four prices—

Regular $9 75 for $7.00 Regular $14.75 for $10 Regular $10.00 for $7.50. Regular $18.00 for $12.00.

—1 Only Ladies National Blue Shade Broadcloth Suit with silk lined Russian Blouse. Jacket and fancy vest—one of the season's handsomest styles, $29.75, for............ ..$20.00.

PIQUE SKIRTS UNDERPRICED.

For this Season nothing is so cool, comfortable and serviceable as a Pique Skirt.

Rapid selling has reduced our stock to pretty near the "has been" period.

We desire to clear the remainder—just as good in every way as we have sold all season—so make these reductions.

—Plain White 7 Gore Pique Skirt with deep hem—good heavy quality—carefully made, regularly sells for $1.75, Sale price	$1.00.
—Fine White 7 Gore Pique Skirt with flare, Centre gore trimmed with fine Embroidery Insertion, regular $2.00, Sale price	$1.50.
—Fine White Canvas Cloth or extra quality Pique Skirt, regular $2.50, Sale price	$1.89.
—Fine Pique Skirt with row of fancy embroidery round top of flare regular $2 75, for	$2.13.
—7 Gore Pique Skirt trimmed wide insertion, 1 row around, 2 down front, 3 in front Gore, a very stylish Skirt, regular $3.75, Sale price	$2.89
—White Duck with black or blue dots, self strapping on seams, piped with blue, regular $2.50. Sale price	$1.00.

HALF PRICE MILLINERY.

Many ladies have taken advantage of our offering in Colored Millinery.

There are a few pretty creations left yet which await purchasers.

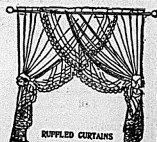
Don't know why they should be the ones left as they are just as pretty as any that have gone. Perhaps they will just suit you. If you have not already made your purchase spend a few minutes in this department.

If you make a selection you'll save as much as you spend—all colored hats are Half Price.

—Remember our Sale of straw shapes, newest styles regular 50c. to $1.50, for............25c.

ONE DOZEN FANCY PICNIC NAPKINS GIVEN WITH EVERY 50c. PURCHASE IN OUR MAIN STORE WEDNESDAY MORNING.

HOME DECORATIONS.



RUFFLED CURTAINS

To make the home attractive a bright cosy appearance is necessary.

Dainty house furnishings will give this. Not always the most expensive make the most pleasing. Often the more moderate priced ones tastefully arranged look best.

At small cost, nothing will make quite as much improvement in the house as some style of our Bobbinet Curtains.

With their neat patterns and pretty frills they mark as high a point in window decorations as has yet been obtained.

—Newest Bonne Femme style with frills on both or one end, 54 inches wide. Orders taken for any size window.	$3 75
—Bobbinet bed sets 4' 6" wide, 14 inch frill on sides and end. Bolsters to match, per set	$5.50 and $6.50
—Bobbinete Curtains assorted patterns 3 yds long	$2.25 to $4 50
—Curtain Bobbinet by the yard with 5 inch frill, 30" wide, per yard	25c
—Dotted Net with frill, 42" wide, per yard	45c
—36 inch coin spot Muslin with 4 inch frill	25c
—52 inch Muslin with fancy designs, 30c, 40c	50c yd
—5 inch frilling for edging muslin	10c yd

RELIABLE CORSETS

The correct, perfect fitting corset of to-day must not only be carefully but scientifically cut.

This cutting requires an artist—one who is able to fit every seam to its proper place so that pressure shall be just where it is required.

Many of the so-called straight front corsets on the market, not only make unsightly figures but are positively injurious.

Ours are the product of men who have made this work a life study and are perfect in every way. They cost nothing more than the inferior grade. The difference is in the corset—not the price.

—Fine Percale or Coutil straight front corset, designed from one of the latest French models, bias cut and fully gored, trimmed with Valenciennes Lace and Ribbon, $1 00. Better quality covering $1.75

—Style B., especially designed for ladies of full figure—two hip and one front gore, made from best Lion Sateen, Lace and Ribbon trimmed, - - - - - - - - $1 00

FRONT STORE NOTES.

The many worthy bargains offered in our Main Store in connection with our Remnant Sale have kept us unusually busy.

The money saving available on worthy goods will appeal to everyone.

We mention a few of the offerings. Some are reductions from our regular stock—others are the outcome of unusual purchases.

—Still a few of our damaged pattern cloths left. If you knew what a bargain these are we are confident you would take advantage of it. Clearing at three prices—$1.00, $1 50, $2 00.

—Fine Black Silk and Velvet Belts with neat slides and buckles, - 25c

Agents for Standard Patterns.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

CLOTHING BOUGHT HERE PRESSED FREE OF CHARGE

Quick & Robertson's for Fine Clothes

There's no use of disputing the fact that this store stands pre-eminent in this city as the store for Men's Fine Clothes.

With our large and pleasing varieties, up-to-date styles, and good making, we've won the trade of every man, and especially the trade of those men who are particular about the clothes they wear.

And why shouldn't we? You can't find a store that has, Ready-Made, such exclusive styles in suitings and summer garments as we are showing and everyone of them is from the best British and Canadian Mills.

Then, too, every garment is built to come up to the our high standard—built by the best makers who know how and do give close attention to important parts of tailoring—such as adjusting the collars, shaping the shoulders, proper placing of the sleeves and stays and making of the button holes.

Clothes made this way never lose their shape. And by so doing we have overcome that appearance which markes clothes as being Ready-Made.

The prices for such goodness you'd expect to be high but they are not—are no more than you would pay for ordinary sorts elsewhere.

MEN'S SUMMER FURNISHINGS

. . . . AND . . . .

STRAW HATS

The Largest Variety assures the Easiest Choosing.

That's just what's bringing more men to this store every day—they are getting into the fact that the selections Quick & Robertson shows in every line are the largest and most liberal in town—right in every way; in quality the highest, in style the latest and in price the fairest. Better choose now while the choosing is good.

QUICK & ROBERTSON

Agents in Belleville for W. R. Johnston & Co.'s Famous Clothing.

3 Cardinal Points

of our now celebrated

Auto Valvo Blue Flame Oil Stoves

are

Economical on oil
Quick bakers
Powerful heaters

The W. W. CHOWN Company, Limited

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

THE CHEESE INDUSTRY.

INSPECTOR PUBLOW WRITES ON MATTERS OF IMPORTANCE TO PATRONS AND FACTORYMEN.

To the Patrons and Factorymen of Eastern Ontario:—

In the course of my visits to the cheese factories, I find that at present and for some time past, the makers are having great difficulty in turning out cheese of fine quality. This I find to be due to a peculiar taint which seems to be in the milk throughout the whole district. This is not a new taint, but it is so prevalent at present that it has become a serious matter, and as such, demands our immediate attention. The reason for this taint being so prevalent at the present time may possibly be due to the nature of the season, which for the last three weeks, has been most favorable for the growth of the bacteria which produce this taint, and which are to be found in large numbers in cow-stables, milking yards and cheese factories, having poor sanitary conditions, and in and around whey tanks that have been allowed to become foul. The cheese made from milk with this taint is invariably open and not clean in flavor, the openness taking the form of small, round or oblong holes, increasing to the size of a pea, and continuing to grow in the cheese in the process of curing. When the cheese contains excessive moisture, the openness is usually in the form of air cells or irregular openings, and in cheese in which high acid has been allowed to develop, the flavor is quite bitter, and openings in both forms still continue to appear.

Therefore I would say to the makers who are having this taint to contend with, not to attempt to overcome it by ripening the milk too low before setting, as the taint seems to develop more rapidly in milk and curd having high acidity. Set the milk sufficiently sweet to insure good body and a bright color in the curd before sufficient acid is developed for the removal of the whey.

Of course to remedy this difficulty we must get at the source of the contamination of the milk, and in our endeavor to find this out we have secured the services of Dr. Connell, bacteriologist, of Kingston, who will take the matter up immediately and if possible find out the source. In the meantime I would recommend that the cheesemakers and factorymen see that everything in and about their factories be thoroughly cleaned, especial attention being given to the whey tanks at the factories where the whey is being returned in the milk cans to the patrons. I would recommend the patrons to see that their milk cans be thoroughly washed and scalded immediately after use and that the place where the milking is done is clean, and that the milk is not allowed to stand in close proximity to cow stables, milking yards, swill barrels, hog pens, hog troughs, or anything that gives an offensive odor, to see that the cows are not allowed to get stagnant or impure water, and that the milk is strained, aerated and cooled, in a clean atmosphere, immediately after milking.

I trust that the patrons sending milk to cheese factories will take enough interest in this matter to see that everything is done that will insure their milk being in a condition to make cheese of fine quality. Unless this is done you are sustaining so much loss and aiding to injure the reputation of the product.

G. G. Publow,
Chief Instructor.

ARE YOU HARD TO CONVINCE.

It is hard to convince the man, who has never been in our store, that the Oak Hall is selling clothes superior in quality to other stores. The sale of trash by some clothing dealers is working an irreparable injury to the clothing trade generally, as some men will continue to believe that all ready-made clothing is alike. Come to the Oak Hall when you want your next suit and let us show you the difference between well tailored ready-to-wear clothing and trash.

Fall Fairs.

Dominion, Toronto	Aug. 27-Sept. 12
Kingston, Kingston	Sept 8-11
Guelph, Guelph	Sept. 15-17
Frankford	Sept. 17-18
Thrasher's Corners	Sept. 18-19
North Hastings	Sept. 22-23
Stirling	Sept. 22-23
Peterboro, Peterboro	Sept. 22-24
Picton	Sept. 23-24
Cobourg	Sept. 24-25
Campbellford	Sept. 24-25
Shannonville	Sept. 26
Marmora	Sept. 29
L'Amable	Sept. 30
Coe Hill	Oct. 1
Ameliasburg	Oct. 2-3
Warkworth	Oct. 6-7
Wooler	Oct. 9

DEAF AS A DOOR NAIL. Not an uncommon expression, but quite true of many people whose hearing can be perfectly restored by inhaling Catarrhozone. It quickly relieves and cures all kinds of catarrh, catarrhal deafness, and diseases of the respiratory organs. Don't give up hope till you have tested Catarrhozone. It has restored lost hearing to thousands, and can do the same for you. Catarrhozone is a vegetable antiseptic, pleasant and convenient to use, absolutely certain to quickly benefit and ultimately cure. Two months' treatment $1.00. Small size 25c. At druggists or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

JOINT MEETING OF COUNCIL & B. OF T.

City May Secure Large Industry With Wage List of $300,000 Per Annum.

Delegates to be Sent to See Promoters and Lay City's Advantages Before Them.

Council Sat Until Nearly Time for Light in City Clock to go Out.

It was considerably after 8 o'clock last night when the City Council opened its proceedings. Besides the City Fathers there were a large number of the members of the Board of Trade in attendance, and it became known that a joint meeting of the Council and Board was to be held. All the Council were present with the exception of Ald. Chown, who came in later, and the following members of the Board of Trade were also in sight: Messrs. C. M. Stork, president; J. P. Thomas, secretary; ex-Mayor Johnson, Col. Ponton, C. J. Bowell, W. B. Deacon, A. E. Fish, S. Retallack, W. J. McCamon, C. Clapp, A. McGie and others.

THE JOINT MEETING.

After the Clerk had read the minutes of half a dozen meetings, more or less, the Mayor announced that before they went on with Council business there was to be a joint meeting of the Council and Board of Trade. He asked Ald. Sinclair to explain why the meeting was called.

Ald. Sinclair said that as Chairman of Industries he had received a letter on Saturday morning last, through the local G.T.R. office. The letter in question had been addressed to the General Manager of the Grand Trunk by a U. S. manufacturing company which desired to establish a branch in Canada. They asked the General Manager to direct them to a desirable place for their purpose, wishing to know what advantages, inducements, etc., any place which applied was prepared to furnish. The works in question would, if started, be run in conjunction with a rolling mill; its wages list would be in the neighborhood of $300,000 per year, and would employ between 200 and 300 men. He had thought this matter of such importance that he had asked the Board of Trade to meet the Council in order to discuss it. If the company which desired to come to Canada needed a rolling mill in its business there was one here which it might utilize, and thus help itself as well as Belleville.

A long discussion took place in regard to the matter, in which the majority of those present took part. All were impressed with the bona fides of the firm which sent the letter, coming as it did through the General Manager of the G.T.R.

Mr. Stork thought a joint committee might be appointed to look into the matter.

Ald. McFee made a motion to that effect.

Ald. Pope pointed out that a copy of the letter had probably been sent to other places as well as Belleville. He thought the matter should be taken up at once, and a deputation consisting of the Chairman of Industries and the Chairman of the Board of Trade should at once proceed to the city where the industry in question is situated and lay before them Belleville's advantages.

Ex-Mayor Johnson thought that, before a deputation went to press Belleville's claims they should have something definite to offer as regards the rolling mills.

A long discussion ensued, and at last it was suggested that the city might secure an option on the rolling mills from Mr. Kirkwood. Then it would be in a better position to deal with the U.S. parties.

At last ex-Mayor Johnson moved in amendment that a telegram be sent to the parties who proposed to locate here, the same to be followed up at once by a comprehensive letter.

Ald. Pope moved in amendment to the amendment that the Chairman of Industries and President of the Board of Trade be a deputation to visit the parties and lay before them Belleville's claims.

A vote was taken, and the Mayor figured it out that neither one of the amendments or the motion were carried.

Then Ald. McFee and ex-Mayor Johnson amalgamated their motions to the effect that a joint-committee be appointed, the committee to send a telegram and letter.

Ald. Pope moved his old amendment to the effect that the Chairman of Industries and a member of the Board of Trade to be selected by that body be sent as a deputation.

The amendment was carried by a vote of 11 to 8.

Mr. Stork being unable to get away from the city at present the Board of Trade met in another part of the City Hall and selected ex-Mayor Johnson as its representative.

Later Ald. Sinclair announced that press of business would compel him to decline to go, so Ald. Chown was selected as the Council's representative. The gentlemen in question left for the scene of their labors at 1.40 this afternoon, and everybody will wish them success.

THE COUNCIL MEETING.

Communications and Petitions.

From Mr. T. S. Carman, complaining of the bad condition of the roadway in front of Lattimer's terrace.

From the Tax Collector, complaining that lots 15 and 16 were assessed twice.

From acting City Clerk Mikel, stating that Ald. Paterson had taken the oath of office in succession to Ald. Galbraith, resigned.

From the same official, asking the privilege of being allowed to use the room next to the City Clerk office for the transaction of legal business.

Several accounts were presented, two of which were laid on the table and the rest referred. Those laid on the table were:

Assessment Account	$102.00
G.N.W.	.50

Reports of Committees.

The special committee which was appointed to deal with the request of the Belleville Gas Company for an extension of their franchise reported recommending that the request be favorably considered, providing the maximum price of illuminating gas was fixed at $1.75 per thousand and fuel gas at $1.25 per thousand.

The special committee re withdrawal of bonus reported, recommending that legal steps be at once taken to withdraw the $30,000 now in the Bank of Montreal, the same to be placed in the general fund of the city.

The special committee appointed to look into the matter of the rails on Front St. reported, recommending that the rails be left where they are for the present, and that legal proceedings be taken to find out the city's rights in regard to them.

The reports of the various standing committees were read, as already published.

Ald. Green, the new Chairman of Market and City Property, presented the following statement of affairs, which was presented, he said, not as a reflection on anybody, but simply to show how matters stood:

Statement of Market account from Jan. 1st to July 15th, 1903:

To disbursements to date	$577.23
By rent of stalls from Jan. 1st to July 15th, cash	128.00
Expenditure to date, July 24th, 1903	577.23
W. E. Vandevoort, April 19th to July 19th	562.50
Paid on this	250.00
Balance due city	$312.50
Balance due city from last year	$350.00
Total owed to city	$662.50

Council went into Committee of the whole on reports, Ald. Paterson in the chair.

The reports of the Executive, Parks, Water and Light Committees were adopted without change or discussion.

When Ald. Green's figures re the market came up,

The Mayor asked Ald. Sulman, former Chairman of the Market, what security had been given by the Market Lessee for his arrears of last year.

Ald. Sulman said the city had been given as security part of the proceeds of an insurance policy, which would fall due in January.

It was pointed out that the Market Lessee, while behind in his payments for last year, was also in arrears for the present year.

Ald. Sulman said he thought that, when the market tolls began to increase, as they would shortly, the Market Lessee would pay up his indebtedness.

Ald. Pope said that, if he did not, it might be necessary for the city to put in a receiver.

Ald. Green said he had introduced the statement with no desire to reflect on anybody, but simply as a matter of justice to himself to let people see how matters stood when he took office.

The report in question was filed, and the matter dropped.

The Teamsters' Pay.

When the Public Works Committee's report was read, the clause recommending that the teamsters receive $3 per day caused some discussion.

The Mayor thought it might be better for all concerned if the teamsters were paid by the trip instead of by the day. He thought if they were paid 40 cents a trip the city would get more gravel drawn and the teamsters get more money.

Ald. Panter said the Surveyor had told them the men were drawing all they possibly could. He asked the Surveyor to make a statement.

The Surveyor said the men were doing all they could. They were covering 22 miles a day, and their loads weighed nearly two tons. The men were complaining that they were treated harshly by him, and there had nearly been a strike. They were offered $3.50 a day and board to go elsewhere, and told him flatly they would not trot their horses for anybody.

The clause carried, as did the remainder of the committee's report.

Mr. Carman's letter was referred to the Chairman of Public Works and the Street Surveyor.

The report of the special committee re Gas Company's franchise was passed.

Mr. Diamond's communication re assessment of lots was referred to the Chairman of the Executive and the City Solicitor.

Mr. Mikel's communication was filed and his request granted.

The report of the special committee re withdrawal of the $30,000 bonus was adopted.

When the report of the special committee re street rails came up,

Ald. Panter objected to the cost of legal proceedings. What had they to gain by taking legal proceedings?

It was pointed out that it was necessary, in order to define the city's rights in the matter.

The Mayor said it was not likely anybody would go before the court and claim the rails. If they did, the city could proceed against them for $10 per day since the street railway had been idle.

The report was adopted.

An Assessment Breeze.

When the assessment account came up, it provoked some discussion.

Some of the Aldermen wanted to know how many more assessment accounts there were to be.

The Mayor said the Assessment Commissioner had informed him this would be the last, but he had made the same statement before. Speaking generally, His Worship said he would not recommend any more assessment commissions for this city.

Ald. Sinclair said he had opposed the idea, and it had not, in his opinion, proved a success.

Ald. Pope said it was hardly fair to talk in that way now. The Council had gone into the matter in good faith. He still believed the new assessment would be a good thing for the city, and it would have been much better if the City Clerk had not been dilatory in his work with regard to the Court of Revision. People should not blame the Council for the faults of individuals.

The Mayor said that if the instructions of the Commission had been carried out things would have been much better. Some of the assessors and valuators did not do what they were told to at all, and had departed from the rule laid down.

The account was passed, as was also the G.N.W. account.

Enquiries.

Ald. Panter asked if the $2,500 forfeit money had been placed in the sinking fund.

The Mayor said the manager of the Bank of Montreal had expressed the opinion that it was perfectly in order for him to turn over the money, but he first wanted to get instructions from the Bank's solicitor, Mr. W. H. Biggar. He had expected an answer last Friday, but it had not yet been received.

Ald. Chown asked what proposition he would be authorized to make to the parties he was going to interview re proposed industry.

The Mayor said the deputation could fairly offer exemption from taxation and a free site.

Ald. Sinclair asked who had received the contract for furnishing soft coal to the city.

The Mayor—"H. K. Wick & Co."

Ald. Panter asked why the waterworks system had not been installed on Harriett St., in accordance with the petition.

The Chairman of Water replied that the necessary conditions had not been carried out by the petitioners. When they were action would be taken.

The Clerk was ordered to notify them to that effect.

Introduction of By-Laws.

Three by-laws were introduced, passed through and numbered 1098, 1099 and 1100. Two were in relation to taxes, and the other authorized the head and Treasurer to borrow $30,000 for current expenses.

Motions.

The rules were suspended to permit of Ald. Sinclair's introducing a motion to the effect that the Council set its disapproval on the practice, alleged to exist, of a certain city employee assigning his pay in order to avoid paying his just debts, and if such practice were continued, the Council would do its best to bring about the dismissal of such employee. As business men themselves, the mover said, he did not think the Council should be a party to anything of that kind.

Ald. Pope, while in sympathy with the spirit of the motion, thought they should know to whom it referred. It might be one over whom the Council had no control. In fact rumor said such was the case. He did not think it was right to thus reflect on other city officials.

Ald. Marsh and Green agreed with Ald. Pope.

Ald. Sinclair said he did not know who the party was, and did not want to know. It was a matter of principle, and the practice was unfair to the business men of the city.

The motion was lost.

Ald. Panter moved that the Chairman of Market and City Property be authorized to take steps to have the City Clerk's office renovated.—Carried.

Bath Again Turned Down.

Ald. Pope brought up his notice of motion in connection with the building of a public bath, making a strong speech in favor of its establishment. He moved that the former recommendation of the special committee be adopted, and that a public bath be built.

Ald. Green objected to the expense, as new sidewalks were needed, and people, if necessary, could bathe in a wash tub.

The motion was lost, the same old three only voting for it, namely, Ald. Pope, Panter and Sinclair.

Ald. Pope folded up his plans with a smile, and the Council adjourned at 11.30.

THE ANAEMIC YOUNG GIRL.

Perhaps she is sixteen. Suddenly she seems to lose strength, her beauty fades because her strength fails, her eyes lose their lustre. How her spirit droops! It alarms you, but all this may be corrected quickly. Get her Ferrozone, it is a nerve tonic, it aids the stomach to do its work. Appetite? She'll eat anything and digest it, too. Ferrozone is an absolute specific for the anaemia of young people. Ask your druggist for it.

No Hair? The trouble is your hair does not have life enough. Save your hair. Feed it with Ayer's Hair Vigor. If the gray hairs are coming, Ayer's Hair Vigor will restore color every time.

$1. All druggists.
J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

THEY EXPECT TO FIGHT.

SAILORS ON LEAVE ARE HURRYING BACK TO THEIR SHIPS IN CHINESE WATERS.

Toronto Telegram: Affairs in China have assumed rather a grave aspect of late. Lieut. J. M. Bailey, who has been on leave and is now on his way to re-join his ship, a gunboat on the Chinese station, said to The Telegram to-day at the King Edward Hotel that the command had been issued from the Admiralty for all officers on leave to rejoin their vessels.

"The command was given some time ago," he remarked, "before it became public that complications existed in Manchuria, and the officers who were on leave are by this time making for their respective stations. The greatest excitement prevails in naval circles over the condition of matters in China. We expect a fight, and we trust we shall not be disappointed.

"Before I left for home there seemed every prospect of trouble arising between Japan and Russia. Japan resented very keenly Russia's predominance in Chinese affairs and particularly Russia's threatened encroachments in Korea. The Japanese did not at all conceal their feelings. They let it be pretty generally known what they would do if Russia persisted in her policy of aggression. Affairs seem to be coming to a head now. Britain appears to be intending to take part in the game."

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc: Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Miss May Howe, of Toronto, is visiting friends in the city.

Miss Violet Keith will spend her holidays on the St. Lawrence.

Mr. F. W. Duckworth, of Toronto, is spending a few days in the city.

Miss Luella Moon, of Toronto, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Moon.

Mrs. G. Teal and daughter, of Bleecker Avenue, are visiting friends in Kingston.

Mr. Richard Naylor, of Rochester, N.Y., is visiting his son, Mr. H. Naylor, South John street.

Mrs. E. W. Reede, of Toronto, is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Fenn, Victoria Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Cottrell and children, of St. Thomas, are visiting Mr. S. Holmes, John street.

Mrs. Muir and daughter, of Toronto, are visiting Mrs. Muir's father, Prof. Rabbitts, George St.

Miss Lottie Warham returned home last evening, after a two weeks visit to Norwood and Stony Lake.

Mrs. William Moxam and daughter, of Battle Creek, Mich., are visiting at J. Moxam's, Bleecker Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Greaves and family, of Ottawa, are spending a few weeks in the city, having rented Mrs. John Lewis's house on Charles street.

Dr. H. Burdett and wife have returned to the city, after a week's visit to Montreal and other places. They will remain a few days here before returning to St. Paul.

At the Quinte:—W. McBarlow, A. Ranklin, W. Greig, C. Cook, Montreal; H. Burdett and wife, St. Paul; W. T. Hopwood and wife, O. M. Clode, J. H. Ewart, J. Mackenzie, Z. L. Turhane, J. McLennan, J. Hamilton, D. R. Whitehead, E. Hurstwell, W. H. Pearson, jr., J. E. Kent, W. A. Verner, A. M. Boyington, R. R. Sanderson, Toronto; W. E. Rose, Napanee; M. H. Newman, Cleveland; G. White, B. Hooey, Trenton; J. McCullough and wife, Deseronto; A. H. Lining, Ottawa; J. E. Halliwell, Stirling; F. J. Robertson, Sherbrooke; G. Brady, Lindsay.

IT IS A PERPLEXING THING.

For the reader of newspaper advertisements to determine what is what. We do not use as large type as some, but we are sure that what we have to say is not the less important to any one who is interested in the subject of clothing at this time. Our summer suits are ready to speak for themselves, if you will but take time to inspect them, and we think you will find no fault with the prices. We are making an immense display of hot weather clothing and furnishings.—Quick & Robertson.

1,000 ISLANDS AND ROCHESTER.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian" leave Belleville for Thousand Islands at 3.25 a.m., daily except Mondays. Fare $1.00. Returning Str. leaves at 11.30 p.m. for Rochester, N.Y.

m26d&w3m

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

Three Days Sale
...OF...
Muslins and Ginghams.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday.

MUSLINS

All our Fancy Muslins from 10 to 15c, sale price 8c
All our Fancy Muslins from 20 to 25c, sale price 15c
All our Fancy Muslins from 30 to 50c, sale price 25c

GINGHAMS AND ZEPHYRS

All our Ginghams and Zephyrs from 10 to 12½c, sale price 8c
All our Ginghams and Zephyrs from 15 to 25c, sale price........ 12½c

If you are wanting any of the above lines you will readily understand by inspecting the stock, which contains both quality and pattern what a grand bargain is to be had during this sale.

JUST ARRIVED—New Ties, New Belts, New Collars. The very latest New York styles

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

DIRECT IMPORTERS

Daily Intelligencer.

THE INTELLIGENCER IS SOLD AT
J. W. London's and G. Wardhaugh's.

Local Reading Advertisements,
...ords 50 cents; 2 cents per word first insertion, ... per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words; contracts for ...ng periods made at office.

Will You Ask Us

In seeking a perfume worthy of our exacting patrons we have found YOLANDE which is positively exquisite.

'Tis not enough for us to believe this—we wish to convince you. No way so easy as for you to ask us about YOLANDE next time you are in our store. It will be a revelation to you for YOLANDE is worth knowing about.

McKeown's DRUG STORE

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario.
AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE, No. 46 Bridge St., Belleville.

J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

Snappy Ginger Snaps
10c a lb.
Lemon Snaps
20c a lb.
Vanilla Wafers and
Royal Fruit Drops, 30c a lb.
All fresh made.

CHAS. S. CLAPP

Lost chances never leave any trail.

MONITOR

This is another fine Mantle Clock, not quite so expensive as Gadski in last week's advertisement, but fully as serviceable. It is an eight-day hour and half strike on cathedral gong, fancy columns with trimmings and drop handles, in every way a beautiful clock. Our price only $5.50.

T. BLACKBURN.

Eyes examined free of charge.
Jeweller & Optician.

SPECIALS FOR THIS WEEK.

Rose Pink Flank, 10c yd	7c
5c Bottle Vaseline, 2 for	5c
5c Package Magnesia, 2 for	5c
10c Package McLarens Jelly Powders, 2 for	15c
25c Belladonna Plasters, 2 for	25c
50c Rose Miracle Pills for Dyspepsia	10c
4 Sheets Tanglefoot Fly Paper for	5c
10c Fly Pads, 2 for	15c
8c Fly Pads, 2 for	5c
Granite Wash Basins,	11c
25c Window Screen,	19c
50c Pillow Sham Holders,	25c
15c Towel Rollers	15c
10c Pair Straw Cuffs, Japanese	5c
40c Pair Bath Towells for	27½c
White and Colored Shelf Oil Cloth Scalloped, 10c yd, for	7c
4-4 Chenille Table Covers,	47c
15c Bottle Sweet Oil,	7c
Skinners Balsam of Ainseed,	15c
Hind's Honey Almond Cream, 50c, for	33c
D. & L. Malt Extract, 35c Bottle	23c
Chases Catarrh Cure, 25c, for	15c
Best Fruit Jar Rings, for	5c
Granite Preserving Kettles, from $1.25 to	20c

See Our 10c Tables This Week.

McINTOSH BROS.

A MARKED CENT.

The Odd Way It Came Back to the Man Who Lost It.

Take an ordinary copper cent piece, stamp it with a private mark, put it into circulation, and what are the chances that you will ever see it again? There is one man who says that he tried the trick and succeeded at it. He is a business man who refuses to allow his name to be used in print about the story, but he tells the tale to many of his friends and he vouches for its truth.

In 1894, he says, he found a cent piece, dated 1893, in the restaurant of the Lafayette hotel. He pocketed it for luck and as a memento of a jolly little dinner scratched his initials on it just over the feathered head, while on the cheek he added those of the hotel. Until 1896 he treasured the coin, then drew it out of his pocket with a handful of other change and before he realised it the cent piece had gone the mysterious way of all money.

A year ago he chanced, being of a curious turn of mind, to fall into conversation one evening with a professional beggar at Broad and Chestnut streets. He upbraided the man for getting so much money for nothing.

"Oh," said the beggar, "I don't get so much. That's all I've got in the last hour." And he held up a cent piece.

At that moment the electric light fell upon the coin, and the business man, to his amazement, caught sight of the letters "H. L." on the cheek of the face. He took the coin and examined it more closely. Sure enough, there were his own initials just above the feathers where he had placed them a half dozen years before.

At once his prejudice against begging vanished.

"I'll give you a dollar for that coin!" he cried.

The beggar grew wary at this eagerness and demanded $5. Needless to say, he got it and also of course the cent piece has never since left the business man's watch chain, which it now adorns.

Singers' High Salaries.

Heinrich Conried, who has had so much difficulty in arranging the salaries of his artists that he declares their engagement to be the most difficult part of the work of putting on grand opera, has an explanation for the origin of the exorbitant prices demanded by foreign singers when America is mentioned to them. A number of years ago he was in Europe engaging artists for his comic opera company. He offered a certain singer $200 a week to come with him to America. The singer had been used to getting about a third of that sum and was on the point of accepting when he was approached by Anton Seidl and asked his price. He at once demanded $300 and finally compromised on $250. When he came to read the contract he found that, after the American fashion, he had been signed for $250 a performance and not for that amount per week. Fearing that Mr. Seidl might change his mind and try to break the contract, he took the first boat for New York and was on the ground two months before the opening of the season.

A Thriller.

Nell—I saw Jack kiss you last night.

Belle—Really? But you didn't see me kiss him, did you?

Nell—No, but I—

Belle—Oh, what a pity! You missed the most thrilling part.—Town Topics.

SKIN-TORTURED BABIES

And Tired, Fretted Mothers

Find Comfort in Cuticura Soap and Ointment

When All Other Remedies and Physicians Fail.

Instant relief and refreshing sleep for skin-tortured babies and rest for tired, worried mothers in warm baths with Cuticura Soap, and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment, purest of emollient skin cures, to be followed in severe cases by mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent. This is the purest, sweetest, most speedy, permanent and economical treatment for torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted and pimply skin and scalp humours, with loss of hair, of infants and children, as well as adults, and is sure to succeed when all other remedies and the best physicians fail.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurement, as in acne and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum,—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures and humour remedies of the civilized world.

Cuticura Resolvent, liquid and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.
☞ Send for "How to Cure Skin Tortures," etc.

If you are "afraid of laxatives" here is one that really will not draw you into the laxative habit. Little medicine tablets that cure Indigestion and Constipation—gently, naturally, permanently.

IRON-OX

Tiny Tonic Tablets

Prevent Hot Weather

Sickness—a tonic that will build you up—keep your blood pure and your nerves quiet. Sure, gentle little "helps-to-health" that will give you energy and vigor to withstand the enervating heat of summer.

Iron-Ox Tiny Tonic Tablets are gentle but unfailingly effective. They will benefit you, your children, everyone, who needs better digestion, purer blood, more energy, more strength.

Your druggist will sell you fifty Iron-Ox Tiny Tonic Tablets, packed in the neatest aluminum box you ever saw, for twenty-five cents.

If you cannot get them at your druggist's, The Iron-ox Remedy Co., Limited, Walkerville, Ont., will send them, prepaid, for 25 cents.

THE MARKETS.

Grain Prices Buoyant—Corn and Wheat Futures Strong—Live Stock Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Monday Evening, July 27.

Liverpool wheat futures closed ⅛d to ½d higher to-day than Saturday, and corn futures unchanged to ⅛d higher.

At Paris wheat and flour futures advanced 10 centimes to-day.

At Chicago Sept. wheat closed ⅜c higher than Saturday; Sept. corn ⅜c higher and Sept. oats ⅛c higher.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London—Close—Wheat, on passage, buyers and sellers apart. Parcels No. 1 hard Manitoba, passage, 31s 4½d. Maize, on passage, firm but not active; spot American, mixed, 22s 9d. Flour, spot Minn., 27s.

Paris—Close—Wheat, tone steady; July, 23f 20c; November and February, 22f 30c. Flour, tone steady; July, 31f 70c; Nov. and Feb., 29f 85c.

Antwerp—Wheat—Spot, steady; No. 2 red winter, 16½f.

THE VISIBLE SUPPLY.

As compared with a week ago, the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States has decreased 117,000 bushels; corn decreased 308,000 bushels; oats increased 738,000 bushels. Following is a comparative statement for the week ending to-day, the preceding week and the corresponding week of last year:

	July 27,'03	July 20,'03	July 26,'02
Wheat, bu	12,950,000	13,067,000	21,501,000
Corn, bu...	7,311,000	7,618,000	7,486,000
Oats, bu ...	5,229,000	4,491,000	894,000

To recapitulate the visible supply of wheat in Canada and the United States, together with that afloat to Europe, is 39,750,000 bushels, against 42,907,000 bushels a week ago, and 48,359,000 bushels a year ago.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

Following are the closing quotations at important wheat centres to-day:

	Cash.	July.	Sept.	Dec.
New York	....	....	82¼	83
Chicago	....	....	78⅛	78¼
Toledo	77⅞	77⅞	78⅜	80¼
Duluth, No. 1 N.	87	87	....	....

TORONTO ST. LAWRENCE MARKET

Grain—

Wheat, red, bush.	$0 77	to $....
Wheat, white, bush.	0 76	....
Wheat, spring, bush. ...	0 70	0 72
Wheat, goose, bush.	0 72½	....
Barley, bush.	0 44½	....
Beans, bush.	1 30	1 50
Beans, hand-picked	1 75	....
Peas, bush.	0 78½	....
Rye, bush.	0 45	....
Oats, bush.	0 37	0 38

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, July 27.—Wheat, spot quiet; No. 2 red western winter, 6s 3d; No. 1 northern spring, 6s 3½d; No. 1 California, 6s 7d; futures, firm; July, nominal; Sept., 6s 3⅜d; Dec., 6s 3d. Corn, spot, American mixed, quiet, 4s 4½d; futures, firm; July, nominal; Sept., 4s 5½d. Bacon, Cumberland cut, firm, 51s; long clear middles, light, firm, 51s; long clear middles, heavy, firm, 50s 6d; short clear backs, quiet, 47s 6d; clear bellies, firm, 51s. Lard, American refined, in pails, steady, 37s 6d. Cheese, American finest colored, steady, 47s 6d. Turpentine spirits, firm, 40s. Cotton seed oil, Hull refined, spot easy, 22s 3d.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, July 27.—Butter, steady; receipts, 13,897; creamery, extras, per lb., 19c; do., firsts, 17½c to 18½c; do., seconds, 16c to 17c; do., thirds, 15c to 15½c; state dairy tubs, extras, firsts, 16½c to 17½c; do., seconds, 15c to 16c; do., thirds, 14½c; do., fourths, 14c; western imitation creamery, firsts, 16c to 17c; do., seconds, 15c to 15½c; renovated extras, 17c; do., firsts, 16c to 16½c; do., seconds, 15c to 17½c; do., thirds, 13c to 14c; western factory, held, firsts, 15c; do., seconds, 14c to 14½c; do., thirds, 13c to 13½c; packing stock, held, No. 1, 14c; do., No. 2, 13c; do., No. 3, 12c to 12½c.

Cheese—Receipts, 5000; state, full cream, fair to prime, 8½c to 10c; do., large colored, fancy, 10c; do., white fancy, 9¾c; do., fair to prime, 8½c to 9½c; do., light skims, choice, 8c to 8¼c; do., part skims, choice, 6c to 6¾c; do., prime, 5c to 7¾c; do., fair to good, 1½c to 5c; do., common, 2½c to 3c; do., full skims, 1½c to 2c.

Eggs—Firm; receipts, 8494; good to fancy grades, slightly in sellers' favor; nearby fancy selected white, 21c to 22c; do., fancy mixed, 19c to 20c; do., seconds, firsts, 15c to 18c; western extras, 19c; do., seconds to firsts, 15c to 18c; do., thirds, 12c to 14c; do., very inferior, 10c to 11c; dirties, 8c to 12½c; checks, 9c; very poor culls, 5c to 6c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Are Unchanged, But Other Markets Are Quoted Lower.

London, July 27.—Live cattle steady at 11¾c to 12½c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 11¼c to 11½c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 9¼c to 9⅜c per lb. Sheep, 11½c to 12½c.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, July 27.—About 800 head of butchers' cattle, 100 calves and 500 sheep and lambs were offered for sale at the East End Abattoir to-day. The butchers were out in large numbers and trade was brisk, with lower prices paid for cattle, but calves were higher than for some time past and lambs were also dearer. Prime beeves sold at from 4¾c to a little over 5c per lb; medium cattle, at from 3½c to 4½c, and the common stock at from 2c to 3¼c per lb. Calves sold at from $2 to $10 each, or from 3c to 5¼c per lb. Sheep sold at from 3c to 3¾c per lb. Lambs sold at from $2.50 to a little over $4 each, or about 4½c per lb. Good lots of fat hogs sold at from 5¾c to 6c per lb.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKETS.

East Buffalo, N.Y., July 27.—Cattle—Receipts, 5500 head; 10c to 15c lower; prime and shipping steers, $4.75 to $5.40; butchers' steers, $4.15 to $4.75; cows and heifers, $2.50 to $4.00; bulls, $3 to $4.15; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4; stock heifers, $2.50 to $3; fresh cows and springers, choice, $2 to $3 lower; others steady; good to choice, $45 to $52; medium to good, $30 to $43; common, $18 to $27. Veals—Receipts, 750 head; steady, $5.25 to $7.

Hogs—Receipts 17,000 head; slow, 20c to 30c lower; heavy, $5.55 to $5.65; mixed medium, $5.70 to $5.75; yorkers, $5.80 to $5.85; pigs, $6 to $6.15; roughs, $4.70 to $4.80; stags, $3.75 to $4.25; dairies, $5.25 to $5.40.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 10,300 head, 10c to 25c lower; lambs, $4 to $6.35; yearlings, $4.75 to $5.25; wethers, $4.50 to $4.85; ewes, $3.50 to $4; sheep, mixed, $1.50 to $4.25.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Lindsay, Ont., July 27.—At the Cheese Board meeting to-day 2100 boxes were boarded, which were cleared at 9 3-16c. Flavelle bought 750, Fitzgerald 600 and Cook 750. Mr. Gillespie was also present, but did not secure any cheese.

The Alaskan Tribunal.

London, July 28.—Since his arrival here, Senator Lodge has made preliminary arrangements for the meeting of the Alaska Boundary Tribunal on Sept. 16. He will see Premier Balfour and Chief Justice Alverstone, and expects Senator Turner to arrive here next week; Former Secretary of State J. F. Foster, with the completed brief, in the middle of August, and Secretary of War Root during the last days of August.

8c Sale of Prints

NATHAN JONES.

This week we offer our large stock of PRINTS, bought from the best Canadian and English makers, ranging in price from 10c to 15c, all to go at 8c yd.

NATHAN JONES.

For pure blood, a bright eye, a clear complexion, a keen appetite, a good digestion and refreshing sleep, TAKE

BRISTOL'S Sarsaparilla

It arouses the Liver, quickens the circulation, brightens the spirits and generally improves the health.

Sixty-eight years trial have proved it to be, the most reliable BLOOD purifier known.

All druggists sell "BRISTOL'S."

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 37. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, JULY 29, 1903 NO. 74

A DARING YOUNG CONVICT

Charged at Calgary With Having Murdered Farmer Belt.

Capital Crime Followed His Escape From the Officers From Window of Fast Moving Train—When Sentenced Created a Scene by Driving From Barracks Wrapped in Mother's Arms Both Weeping Audibly.

Calgary, N.W.T., July 29.—Ernest Cashel, at present under sentence in Stony Mountain, is now charged with the murder of a farmer named Belt, who lived in Tail Creek, some miles east of Sedder. The alleged murder was committed last autumn. Cashel is a young man not yet of age. He came down from Ponoka, and while here passed a worthless cheque upon one of the merchants here. Chief English went north and arrested the young man near his home and brought him down. This side of Red River the young fellow jumped through a window when the train was running at full speed and escaped.

For some weeks there was a merry chase, but he was finally gathered in by the police. He came before the authorities and was sentenced on charges of forgery and horse stealing, and on another charge. After his sentence he created a scene in the city driving to the barracks wrapped in his mother's arms, both weeping audibly.

Shortly after the escape of Cashel the man Belt disappeared. He went suddenly, and there was not the slightest indication of his whereabouts. From the fact that Cashel had been seen in the district and that later he had in his possession a horse and saddle belonging to the missing man, it is believed, that he knew something of his whereabouts. But nothing in the way of a charge could be made until the man or his body was found.

The police then began to make a search. A large reward was offered for the recovery of the body. A very close search was made of Tail Creek from end to end. Until last week there was no trace of the missing man. Then some people near the mouth came upon the dead body of a man.

An inquest was held, and a relative of the missing man positively identified him as the man Belt. A bullet was found in his shoulder. The coroner's jury, which was summoned, listened to some of the evidence which the police had secured, and brought in a verdict of wilful murder. The preliminary investigation will be held in Calgary or Red Deer, probably in Calgary, as soon as the prisoner Cashel can be brought here from the penitentiary. Cashel originally came from Montana.

Coroner's Jury Says Murder.

Picton, July 29.—The adjourned inquest enquiring into the recent circus row here, was held Monday night. Little evidence was submitted and the jury found that Edward Johnston came to his death by a wound in the heart, and was strongly of the opinion that the wound was inflicted by one Edward Clark, otherwise known as "Side Show Shorty."

Fort Erie Boxing Stopped.

Fort Erie, July 29.—Prize fighting received a knock-out at Fort Erie yesterday at the hands of Police Magistrate Cruickshank, when he found John H. Herman guilty of promoting the Jack Root-George Gardiner fight at the International Club House at Fort Erie on the fourth of July.

Sentence was deferred, pending an appeal to the Court of Appeals of Ontario. The penalty facing Herman on the charge under which he was convicted is from $50 to $500 fine, or one year's imprisonment, or both. The decision of the Court of Appeals is not expected until October.

What He Has He Holds.

Toronto, July 29.—The celebrated copyright case over the well-known picture representing a bull-dog seated on a Union Jack, with the inscription beneath, "What we have we'll hold," has been decided in favor of the Toronto publisher, George T. Gorrie. Reproductions of the picture have been sold freely throughout this country, and Henry Graves & Son of London, holders of the British copyright, sought to recover damages and restrain him from making reprints.

Diseased Meat Offered For Sale.

Hespeler, July 29.—W. Renwick and A. Walford were Monday night, after a three day's hearing before Magistrates Schultz and Jardine, found guilty of offering for sale as human food diseased beef, and were each fined $25 and costs. The case has aroused much interest in this section, as both men are widely known as cattle buyers. The steer which was killed was affected with a disease commonly known as lump jaw.

This Bottle Made a Case.

Chatham, July 29.—Frank Martin was assessed $57 for selling liquor without a license. It is reported that the daughter of a county constable and her best young man went over to Martin's and the best young man purchased a bottle of ale. When the young lady returned home she told about the good time, and her father had a case.

Castell Hopkins Wins.

Toronto, July 29.—The action brought by the George N. Morang Company, to recover certain papers, documents and material for the publication of their "Annual Register of Canadian Affairs" from J. Castell Hopkins, was dismissed with costs yesterday by Mr. Justice Teetzel.

Peace Will Be Preserved.

London, July 29. — The Daily Chronicle this morning, on the authority of "a usually well-informed correspondent," hears that peace will certainly be preserved in the Far East throughout the coming winter.

Fell Into Vat of Acid.

Sharon, Pa., July 29.—At the rod mill of the American Steel and Wire Company's works, John Soloman, aged 20, fell into a vat of boiling sulphuric acid yesterday. He was quickly rescued, but there was not a place on his body which had not been parboiled. Death soon ended his agony.

Fatally Struck by a Train.

Rodney, July 29.—Yesterday afternoon Mr. F. Martin, aged 52 years, a highly respected farmer residing close to this place, was struck by a fast freight train while driving across the M. C. R. R. tracks in this village and fatally injured. The wagon was badly wrecked and both horses killed.

Quiet at Panama.

Washington, July 29.—The temporary ebullition on the Isthmus has subsided, according to a cablegram from United States Consul-General Gudger, dated at Panama yesterday. He says that everything is perfectly quiet, and he anticipates no more trouble.

Cyclone Destroys Villages.

St. Petersburg, July 29.—A terrible cyclone has passed through the district of Tchernigof. Three villages were destroyed in a few minutes. Churches and houses were lifted bodily and carried a long distance. The loss of life was great.

SINCLAIR'S AD SINCLAIR'S AD.

Odds and Ends Sale

We are fast approaching the end of the summer season, we are already receiving and opening up New Fall Goods. This means that we must have room and in order to get room we clear everything of the nature of Summer Goods.

12½ to 20c Wash Goods for 8c.

One of this week's attractions is a table of Wash Goods, including Prints, Ginghams, Drills, Muslins, etc. 12½ to 20c per yard, Thousands of yards to select from and any length you require at

8c per Yard

35c to 50c Ladies' Collars for 25c

There are about 5 Dozen of these Fancy Collars all new styles, from 35 to 50c and we place the lot on sale, your choice for

25c

59c Black Sateen Underskirts 59c

These Skirts are made of Mercerized Black Sateen of a good quality, with a 15 inch Frill, accordion plaited, were $1.25 regularly and we have 18 of them to sell at 59c each.

65c FANCY PARASOLS 65c

We have about 30 Ladies' Fancy Parasols from $1.25 to $2 50, in a variety of styles, but all Fancies, and we clear the lot this week, your choice 65c

We sell New Idea Patterns for 10c.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO

THE CANOE PADDLES FOUND

Indications That Three Young Men Have Been Drowned.

Two University Students and a Friend Left Gravenhurst and Are Missing—Sad Double Drowning at Sarnia—A Young Mother Tried to Save Children's Lives and Lost Her Own—The Visiting Child Perished With Her.

Beaumaris, July 29.—Another serious case of a canoe capsizing occurred between here and Gravenhurst Sunday evening. During the afternoon Joseph Hosack, a Princeton University student, whose home is in Carnegie, Pa., accompanied by Walter Mehard of Mercer, Pa., a medical student of Johns Hopkins University, sailed to Gravenhurst in a canoe to meet Hosack's cousin, a young man who was to arrive there Sunday afternoon.

When the boys had not returned on Monday morning, inquiries were made, and it was found the three had left Gravenhurst at 8 o'clock Sunday night.

Searching parties were at once formed, every available launch owned by the various cottagers were sent out, and up to last evening nothing has been found but the paddles, and Mehard's coat. It is feared the three are drowned.

TWO DROWNED IN ST. CLAIR.

Mrs. Gilbert Taylor and Little Gril Lose Their Lives.

Sarnia, July 29.—A sad drowning accident occurred here yesterday afternoon, by which two lives were lost. Mrs. Gilbert Taylor, accompanied by her little daughter and the little daughter of Mr. George Thompson of Port Huron, who was visiting at the Taylor House, went down to the river bank to allow the children to paddle about in the water. The spot selected was the beach below the L. E. & D. R. R. slip.

The two little girls, aged 7 and 10, respectively, were enjoying themselves in the water. All at once the children got beyond their depth and cried for help. Mrs. Taylor became terror-stricken and rushed into the water to save them. Their cries attracted the attention of some of the railway employes, and the men hurried to the scene. The little Taylor child, aged 7 years, was saved, but the Thompson child and Mrs. Taylor both met watery graves. The drowned woman was aged 28 years, and was the wife of Gilbert Taylor, Grand Trunk fireman, and resides on Queen street. Mr. Taylor and family came here from Port Huron and have been residents of Sarnia since April last.

Three Went Down in Skiff.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 29.—Following the formal opening of Dam No. 1, in the Allegheny River last night, Joseph Brown, aged 19; Henry Brown, aged 14; Frederick Bulger, jr., and Edna Shipley, aged 13, were drowned. Two girls were rescued in an unconscious condition.

Stocks, Theft, Suicide.

Montreal, July 29.—Albert Fournier, clerk of the Recorder's Court, who disappeared a few days ago, and was supposed to have left the country owing to shortage in his accounts, was found floating in the St. Lawrence, near Longueil, yesterday, having evidently committed suicide. Fournier is supposed to have lost money in stock speculation. He was at one time a branch manager of the Banque Du Peuple, now defunct.

Galt Woman Suicides.

Galt, July 28.—Mrs. Johnson, aged about 45 years, who came to Galt from Dundas a few months ago to reside with her daughter, Mrs. Deans, on Chapman street, committed suicide about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, by cutting her throat with a razor. Deceased had been complaining of headache and insomnia lately.

An Unaccountable Suicide.

Cypress River, Man., July 29.—Albert Stuart, son of James Stuart, who lives three miles west of this place, hanged himself Monday. He left a letter on the table to his father, mother and sisters, bidding them good-bye, and saying that he was going to the rope he had prepared for himself the day before, at the stair of the granary, about forty rods from the house. He was considered one of the finest young men in the settlement, and no one can account for the act.

20 BUSHELS TO THE ACRE.

Manitoba Wheat Yield Will Not Be as Large as Last Year.

Montreal, July 29.—William Whyte, assistant to the president of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, reached here yesterday from the west, and in speaking of the crops, said:

"In Manitoba the yield, and I am speaking exclusively of grain, will average between 18 and 20 bushels, where, as last year, it was in the vicinity of 26 bushels. There are this year 2,500,000 acres of wheat under crop, or one-twentieth of an increase over last year.

"When you go into the Territories—into Eastern Assiniboia—the crop conditions are very much better, and there are some 750,000 acres of wheat under crop. These latter will go over 20 bushels to the acre.

"The total acreage under wheat in Manitoba and the Territories cannot be less than 3,200,000."

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC BILL

Notice in Meagre Form on Order Paper of the Commons.

Agreement Concluded and Signed by the Government and the Grand Trunk People—Not an Inkling to Be Gained of Its Contents, and There Will Be No Autheratative Announcement Until Sir Wilfrid Speaks on Thursday.

Ottawa, July 29.—An act to provide for the construction of a national transcontinental railway.— Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

In this meagre form the order paper of the Commons to-day announces that the deal between the Government and the Grand Trunk Pacific Company has been arranged, and that the whole scheme will be laid before Parliament by the Prime Minister when he introduces the measure thus entitled. This will be on Thursday.

The agreement was concluded last night, and at 11.20 the signatures of the high contracting parties were affixed to the document. Mr. Fielding, as acting Minister of Railways, signing for the Government, and Messrs. C. M. Hays, general manager; Frank Morse, third vice-president, and W. Wainwright, general assistant and comptroller, affixing their signatures for the Grand Trunk.

There are all sorts of rumors as to the nature of the modifications which are said to have been made in the original draft of the agreement which drove Hon. A. G. Blair out of the Cabinet, but whatever they are the secret of them is carefully guarded. Not an inkling could be gleaned from either part as to the agreement, so that the interest attaching to the Prime Minister's exposition of the scheme on Thursday is not going to be disclosed by any authoritative announcement of policy in advance of that weighty deliverance.

Criminal Amendment Act.

The House went into Committee on Mr. Fitzpatrick's bill to amend the Criminal Code.

Mr. German (Welland) moved an amendment to clause 93, which aims to prevent brutal prize fighting, by adding the words, "with or without gloves." He withdrew it after the Minister had spoken a good word for the contests of skill which took place in our gymnasiums every day and which such amendment would interfere with.

An amendment fixing the amount of damage punishable at $10 for flower thieves was carried, and another was adopted providing for cases of obtaining accommodation at hotels by false pretences. It was made an offence to stamp coin with letters or figures. In the cases of offences against women by tramps it is proposed to apply the lash, said the Minister in explanation. The anti-cigarette clause was held over, as well as that proposing to provide that a man having in his possession any gold quartz or amalgam in the Province of Nova Scotia must prove his innocence of gold stealing.

The House in Committee of Supply passed a number of the supplementary estimates of the Railway Department, including one of $235,000 for the Trent Valley Canal.

The House adjourned.

COAL AT WALLACEBURG.

Three Veins Struck by Government Drills at 270 Feet.

Wallaceburg, July 29.—There was considerable excitement in this town yesterday over the fact that coal has been discovered in the immediate vicinity. For some time past one of the Ontario Government's diamond drills, under the direction of Mr. Roach, has been testing the territory, and a number of holes have been put down. Just what has been discovered in former tests it is impossible to learn, as upon this subject both operators and managers are dumb. Yesterday it leaked out that in the last test held just north of the town in Chatham Township the drill on Friday last pierced three distinct veins of coal at a depth of about 270 feet. Numerous stories as to the thickness of the veins are afloat, but it is impossible to verify any of them. The managers, when approached, being quite willing to discuss anything but coal. The drill has been moved, and a test will be at once made in another section of the field.

Petition For Mrs. McKee.

Windsor, July 29.—A petition has already been started in Windsor asking the British Government to be lenient with the prosecution of Mrs. Ellen McKee, who is now confined in Sandwich jail charged with forgery and embezzlement.

Will Renew Outrages.

Salonica, European Turkey, July July 29.—Despatches received here say that 18 Bulgarian officers have left Sofia for Salonica for the purpose of renewing the dynamite outrages.

Liberal Gets a Seat.

Winnipeg, July 29.—The result of the recount in St. Boniface is the election of Chevrier, Liberal, by three votes, over Bernier, Conservative, who held the seat. The net result to date is 31 Conservatives and 8 Liberals elected, with one election, Swan River, yet to be held.

WILL GOVERN LOAN COS.

Public Regulation of Concerns Issuing Terminating Instalment Shares Commences in Ontario Sept. 10.

Toronto, July 29.—Important regulations respecting terminating shares in loan companies have been issued by Dr. J. Howard Hunter, Registrar of Loan Corporations, under the authority of the amendments passed last session, which gave the Registrar power to direct changes where such bylaws did not appear to him to be just and reasonable. In order to meet the case Dr. Hunter has issued a general bylaw which each company will be compelled to adopt as its own, taking effect September 10, 1903, and affecting all terminating shares issued thereafter. It is provided that this bylaw shall not be repealed, altered or varied by any company except by permission of the Registrar of Loan Corporations, and all bylaws inconsistent therewith shall be thereby repealed.

The Crucial Point.

The crucial point of the new regulation centres on the instalment shares, those on which weekly or monthly payments are made. It was on the treatment of shareholders of this class that the discussion in the Legislature chiefly centred, as some companies had undertaken to cancel the claims of persons who had defaulted in their payments. In this respect, important changes and improvements are made. It is provided that when the stated number of payments have been made the holder shall be subject to no further liability in respect to the share. This is intended to shield him from losses on the company's mortgages. It is also definitely provided that no share shall issue to a person under 15 years of age, a provision which has hitherto not been strictly enforced.

May Recover Money.

No money paid on any instalment share shall be recoverable under three years, and then only on thirty days' notice. When a terminating share has matured it shall be due, and the shareholder may demand payment, or the corporation insist upon paying it, within sixty days. A shareholder having paid the instalments for three years, and is not a borrower, may demand the principal and interest according to a table annexed; and if he is a borrower the amount of his payments shall be placed to his credit in any statement of his loan at any time within the three years. When a shareholder has paid for three years or over, and then defaults, he shall be entitled to the principal and interest for the period in which he is fully paid, and for the principal without interest of the instalments paid during the incomplete half year. If he pays for less than three years and over six months, he will receive at the end of three years ninety per cent. of the principal paid in.

Prepaid Shares.

The other two divisions of terminating shares dealt with are prepaid, on which say forty or fifty per cent. is paid in advance and the balance to be made up of accretions of interest and profits, and fully paid up shares, where the whole amount is paid in advance and the shareholder takes his chance on interest and profits. The monies herein cannot be recovered short of five years, and with thirty days' notice.

BASEBALL TUESDAY.

The Eastern League.

Toronto	0 0 0 1 0 0 0 1 0	—2
Buffalo	2 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0	—3

Two-base hit—Bruce. Three-base hit—Carr. Home run—Atherton. Sacrifice hits—Brodie, McIntyre. Base stolen—White. Hit by pitcher—By Ferry 2 (Bruce, Carr). Bases on balls—Off Ferry 2, off Bruce 2. Struck out—By Bruce 8 (Atherton, Laporte, Milligan 3, Ferry 3); by Ferry 1 (Brennan). Double-plays—Laporte to Atherton; Nattress to Laporte to Atherton; Downey to Massey. Left on bases—Toronto 6. Buffalo 2. Time—1.50. Umpire—Swartwood.

		R.H.E.
Baltimore	0 0 0 0 3 0 1 3 *	—7 11 3
Rochester	0 0 3 0 0 1 2 0 0	—6 13 4

Batteries—Burchell, Pounds and Robinson; Mills and Fuller. Umpire—Latham. Attendance—1403.

		R.H.T.
Newark	0 2 2 0 1 0 1 2 *	—8 13 2
Providence	0 0 0 0 0 1 0 1 0	—2 10 2

Batteries—Pardee and Spiesman; Yerkes and Diggins. Umpire—Brown, Attendance—700.

Jersey City	0 2 5 2 1 0 2 1 *	—13 17 1
Montreal	0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0	—1 6 6

Batteries—Thielman and Dillon; Luyster and McAuley. Umpire—Kelly. Attendance—1000.

National League Scores.

At New York—		R. H.E.
Boston	0 2 0 0 0 1 1 1 0	—5 8 1
New York	2 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0	—3 5 3

Batteries—Willis and Moran; Mathewson and Bowerman. Umpire—Johnstone. Attendance—4400.

At Chicago—		R.H.E.
Chicago	2 4 0 1 2 0 0 0 *	—9 12 3
St. Louis	0 0 1 0 0 0 1 0 0	—2 8 7

Batteries—Taylor, Kling and Raub; M. O'Neil, Brown and J. O'Neil. Umpire—Moran. Attendance—1200.

At Brooklyn—		R.H.E.
Philadelphia ..	0 2 2 0 0 5 0 0 1 5	—15 15 6
Brooklyn	2 0 0 2 1 3 0 0 2 0	—10 15 6

Batteries—Duggleby, Mitchell and Doein; Garvin and Jacklitsch. Umpire—Emslie. Attendance—2250.

At Cincinnati—		R.H.E.
Cincinnati	0 1 1 3 2 1 1 1 *	—10 16 1
Pittsburg	0 0 3 0 0 0 0 0 2	—5 9 2

Batteries—Hahn and Bergen; Phillippi and Smith. Umpire—O'Day. Attendance—2500.

American League Results.

At Philadelphia—		R.H.E.
Washington	0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0	—3 12 2
Philadelphia ...	0 0 0 0 0 3 0 0 0 1	—4 9 2

Batteries—Patten and Kittredge; Henley, Plank and Powers. Umpire—Hassett. Attendance—4283.

At Boston—		R.H.E.
Boston	1 0 1 0 0 0 1 0 *	—3 9 0
New York	0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0	—0 3 0

HAD QUICK CONSUMPTION.

"Three doctors said I had quick consumption. Angier's Petroleum Emulsion was prescribed. In six months I had gained fifty-nine pounds in weight, had no more night sweats or hemorrhages. Am now in perfect health."—B. H. Walton, Medford, Mass.

It Nourishes Infants.

No other baby food is as nourishing, wholesome or so universally used. It is a perfect substitute for mothers' milk.

Nestlé's Food

Sample (sufficient for eight meals) free.

LEEMING, MILES & CO., MONTREAL.

Batteries—Hughes and Criger; Griffith and Beville. Umpire—Sheridan. Attendance—5170.

At Chicago (American)—Detroit v. Chicago; game postponed; wet grounds.

At St. Louis—		R.H.E.
St. Louis	0 0 0 0 1 0 0 1 0	—2 6 5
Cleveland	1 0 2 0 0 0 0 1 6	—10 13 1

Batteries—Powell and Sugden; Moore and Bemis. Umpire—Connolly. Attendance—1500.

DUNDALK BLOCK BURNED.

Most Serious Fire in the History of the Village—Many Business Houses Gutted —The Sufferers.

Dundalk, July 29.—About 9.30 yesterday morning this village was visited by one of the most disastrous fires in the history of Dundalk. The fire started in McFarland & Richard's general store in the Bell block, who lost all their stock, partly covered by insurance.

Besides the above firm the following parties did business in the Bell block: Wm. Lucas & Co., bankers; Peter McGregor, grocery and confectionery store; Bank of Hamilton; The Dundalk Herald; James Lamon, barrister; Miss Hood, dressmaker. All these lost heavily by the fire.

By the heroic efforts of the villagers the fire was prevented from spreading beyond the Bell block, though the McCullough House and other places caught fire several times. The origin of the fire is as yet a mystery. John Gardiner's stock of hardware, and the furniture in the McCullough House was considerably damaged by removal and water.

Fire in Dunnville.

Dunnville, July 29.—Yesterday afternoon fire destroyed Evans' livery stables and Werner Bros'. large building adjoining, which they occupied as a hardware and tin store. George Montague's loss on livery building is $1,500, covered by insurance; J. P. Evans' loss on livery rigs and horses $1,000, covered by insurance; Werner Bros'. loss on building $2,000, in stock $2,000, insured for $3,800; cause of fire unknown.

Engine Spark Burns Barn.

Harrow, July 29.—The large frame barn of Robert Martin, Colchester Township, was totally destroyed by fire. The barn was nearly filled with hay, besides containing a large quantity of wheat, which had just been threshed. A spark from the threshing engine ignited a straw stack close to the barn, and in a very few minutes the whole building was a mass of flames. The loss is estimated at about $1,200; partly covered by insurance.

Galt Wheel Works Burned.

Galt, July 29.—The Victoria Wheel Works suffered a severe loss from fire about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Raw material approximating the value of $10,000 was either destroyed or badly damaged. The fire, however, was confined to the old storehouse and sheds.

THE KING AT DERRY.

First English Sovereign to Pay Londonderry a Visit—Great Reception Accorded the King and Queen.

Londonderry, Ireland, July 29. — King Edward and Queen Alexandra were accorded a great reception on their arrival here yesterday. Large crowds from the surrounding districts assembled to greet the first English sovereign who had ever visited Londonderry. Their Majesties were met at the railroad station by the mayor and corporation. The King expressed his pleasure at the references to the spirit of good feeling and harmony pervading all classes in Ireland, adding that if his visit helped to extend and consolidate this feeling he would be richly rewarded.

Their Majesties lunched at the Guild Hall. An address was presented to the Queen from the women of Londonderry. The King, replying in behalf of Queen Alexandra, expressed the opinion that the "higher education of women is one of the happiest features of our time."

After the King had laid the foundation of Brooke Park, Their Majesties left Londonderry for Buncrana, where they embarked on the royal yacht Victoria and Albert for a cruise along the coast.

Bunting Pulled Down.

London, July 29.—According to telegrams received here from Cork, a special police force has been appointed there to watch night and day in order to prevent the destruction of decorations by those who are opposed to the visit of King Edward and Queen Alexandra to Cork. The decorations along the route to be followed by the royal procession, which were already far advanced, were found in several instances to have been pulled down and otherwise damaged.

If men were relatively as strong as brutes they could juggle with weights of several tons.

30 ! DAVIES STORES ! 30
PURVEYORS TO THE PUBLIC.

Davies Teas

The best advertisement for our pure Ceylon Tea—the fact that the sales are DOUBLING all the while.

40c quality 25c.

Picnic & Campers Supplies

32 VARIETIES.

Ready-to-Serve Meats, Cooked and Canned, sliced to your taste.

BREAKFAST SPECIALTIES
Davies Mild Cured Bacon. Davies Sugar Cured Hams.
Davies Pork Sausage.

Phone. 286, Daily Deliveries.

The WM. DAVIES CO., Limited.

SPECIAL OFFER

MIDSUMMER CLUBBING RATES.

Two Papers to January 1st, 1904

Family Herald & Weekly Star, and the Best Home Paper—The Weekly Intelligencer, BOTH for

65 CENTS

We are making this special offer as we require 1000 new subscriptions to our Weekly.

This offer is good to new subscribers only.

ADDRESS—
The Weekly Intelligencer
BELLEVILLE, ONT.

No agents handle this offer.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

—FOR—

Stylish and Durable Turnouts.

—Surreys
—Corning Buggies
—Piano Box Buggies
—Rubber Tire Buggies
—Micadoes
—Phaetons
—Bike Buggies
—Democrats
—Grocer Wagons
—Butcher Wagons

Cheese Factory Milk Wagons.
Steel Tubular Axle Lumber Wagons.

Rubber Tires put on your old wheels at reasonable prices.

Mill St, - - Belleville

Sprained His Foot.

Mr. Frank Orr, who resides on Moira street, yesterday afternoon was making some repairs to a cariole when he slipped and fell, with the result that his right foot was doubled beneath him causing a severe sprain. He will be laid up for some time.

THE ANAEMIC YOUNG GIRL.

Perhaps she is sixteen. Suddenly she seems to lose strength, her beauty fades because her strength fails, her eyes lose their lustre. How her spirit droops! It alarms you, but all this may be corrected quickly. Get her Ferrozone, it is a nerve tonic, it aids the stomach to do its work. Appetite? She'll eat anything and digest it, too. Ferrozone is an absolute specific for the anaemia of young people. Ask your druggist for it.

Fall Fairs.

Dominion, Toronto	Aug. 27-Sept. 12
Kingston, Kingston	Sept 8-11
Guelph, Guelph	Sept. 15-17
Frankford	Sept. 17-18
Thrasher's Corners	Sept. 18-19
North Hastings	Sept. 22-23
Stirling	Sept. 22-23
Peterboro, Peterboro	Sept. 22-24
Picton	Sept. 23-24
Cobourg	Sept. 24-25
Campbellford	Sept. 24-25
Shannonville	Sept. 26
Marmora	Sept. 29
L'Amable	Sept. 30
Coe Hill	Oct. 1
Ameliasburg	Oct. 2-3
Warkworth	Oct. 6-7
Wooler	Oct. 9

All druggists will refund your money if you are not satisfied after using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is everywhere admitted to be the most successful remedy in use for bowel complaints and the only one that never fails. It is pleasant, safe and reliable.

THERE IS
No Silk So Smooth,
No Silk So Long,
No Silk So Strong as
Corticelli
THE DRESSMAKERS' FAVORITE SPOOL SILK
"Too Strong To Break"
ASK FOR Corticelli

Daily Intelligencer.

APPLE BLIGHT AND ITS REMEDY.

A number of reports from widely separated districts, complaining of the ravages of the apple blight, have been received by the Fruit Division, Ottawa, Mr. Peter Anderson, Hepworth, Ont., thus describes the situation in his locality: "Apples, both early and winter, are suffering from a new disease here. A blight struck the blossoms when in full bloom and withered them as if they had been scorched by fire. It is now withering the small twigs and limbs in the same way. The tops of the trees look as if fire had been applied to about one-half of the smaller branches until the leaves were all crisp and brown, and even the wood, as far as this extends, is evidently dead." Mr. Arch. MacColl, Aldboro, Ont., writes that many orchards in his locality are almost completely ruined by blight, and that many trees will have to be cut out.

It is difficult to explain the origin of this trouble, but it is evidently of a bacterial nature. It appears to live over the winter just in the margin of the affected part, near the healthy wood, and not in other parts of the tree or in the soil. Mr. W. T. Macoun, of the Experimental Farm, agrees with Mr. MacKinnon, Chief of the Fruit Division, that the only remedy is to cut out the blighted branches well below the affected part, say one foot below any appearance of blight. The knife used for this purpose should be thoroughly cleaned and sterilized before being again used on healthy wood. It is fortunate that the disease sometimes dies out of its own accord, especially in the case of the body blight. It is said to be conveyed from tree to tree by bees and insects, which would account for the great increase at blossoming time. The blight appears to develop very rapidly, and the maximum amount of damage is done almost as soon as the attack becomes noticeable. It will probably be found that the fall is the best time to cut out the affected wood, as the damage will not be much, if any, greater than at present, and in the fall one may make sure of getting all the blighted portions.

FISHER'S BUNGLING.

The Laurier Government has declined to grant the same privileges to fruit growers as are extended to other important branches of industry. Mr. Smith, the Conservative member for Wentworth, introduced a bill providing that, in cases where fruit growers had a carload of fruit to ship, they might call upon Government inspectors to brand the fruit and thus remove responsibility for bad packing from the shoulders of the farmers. Mr. Smith was willing to impose on the farmer a fee sufficient to defray the expense. Hon. Sydney Fisher, who originally stole the idea of a fruit marks act from the Opposition, declined to entertain Mr. Smith's proposition. Why he should do so is inexplicable. Inspectors are appointed by the Government to pass on grain, liquors, beer, and a hundred and one other articles, and the Government does not consider the cost excessive. Mr. Fisher, with his narrow gauge ideas, refuses to accord the farmer equally generous assistance in marketing his produce. The objections raised by the Minister of Agriculture are not well founded, and against the farmers' interests.

Hot Peanuts.

Our Hot Peanuts are pleasing our customers.
Try them once and you will like them too.

J. ARTHUR MARSH.

TIMELY TOPICS

The Grit paper opposes the petition "to stop net fishing in the bay, on the ground that a few people in this district at present make a livelihood by it. We doubt very much if anybody makes a livelihood by it. A few people may make a few dollars at a certain season of the year, and in order to do so they slaughter fish indiscriminately. If the same people spent the same length of time at any other occupation, they would, we are told, make easily double the money.

• • •

If net fishing was stopped, and the fish once more allowed to multiply and grow plentiful, many tourists would be attracted who would spend more money in a week than the few lone fishermen in this vicinity now make in a year, and they (the lone fishermen) could pick up many dollars by guiding the tourists to the best fishing grounds and rowing them around. This, it may be remarked, is a very lucrative job in other places.

• • •

Taking everything into consideration, there does not appear to be any need to shed tears for the corporal's guard of people who at present make a precarious living through net fishing. Nowadays the motto which cuts the most ice is "The greatest good to the greatest number." Nobody, we are sure, would wish to work hardship to deserving people, but after many conversations with those who have made a close study of the matter in all its phases, we see no reason to cease urging our readers to sign the petition without delay, believing that the stoppage of net fishing would prove of great and lasting benefit to this Bay of Quinte district.

• • •

Oh, the rain, the beautiful rain,
It gives the picnicers a pain
And makes them sigh again and again.

• • •

A wireless message from Chief Newton says that he has now got his sea legs on and is learning to dance the sailor's hornpipe. Since telling the crew his bear story they have viewed him with tremendous respect, and have presented him with the "freedom of the fo'castle. The message ends with a verse which goes this way:

Rocked in the cradle of the deep
I'm trying hard my grub to keep.
Oh, these are happy, peaceful days,
Remember me to old Pat Hayes.
No care does ever cross my path,
I wonder if you'll get that bath!
And now I think I'll go to sleep Rocked in the cradle
of
the deep!

• • •

Who made old Swithin a saint, anyhow? He must have been a thirsty old sinner.

• • •

Wouldn't it be advisable to have the half-holidays some other day? It seems to rain every Wednesday.

• • •

A gentleman representing Chicago capitalists, who have the neat little sum of two million dollars behind them, was in the city yesterday, and, in company with two of Belleville's Aldermen, made a tour of our principal streets and places of interest. He was, we are informed, favorably impressed with Belleville, and was also favorably impressed with the possibilities of profit in the street railway, were the system extended throughout the city and to neighboring points. The gentleman has returned to Chicago, and took with him, we are informed, an option on the street railway system, which option expires on August 8th. The party in question, when leaving, announced his intention of returning before the date set for the expiration of the option.

• • •

HON. TOM'S REWARD.
(Mail and Empire.)

After twenty-eight years of public life, Mr. Greenway, formerly Premier of Manitoba, has resigned for good. He was promised a knighthood by Sir Wilfrid Laurier for his connection with the Manitoba school trouble. He secures oblivion instead.

• • •

A Louisiana mob lynched a negro woman who was "suspected" of poisoning. Really, it is time civilized nations protested against the dreadful things which happen in the United States.

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

LATEST NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS

As Furnished to The Intelligencer by H. R. Beattie, Stock Broker.

New York, July 29.

Stock	Op'g	H'st	L'st	Close.
Atchison	64	64⅛	62½	62⅞
do. pref	88½	88⅜	88¼	88¼
St. Paul	142½	143	141⅝	142
Mo. P.	98¾	99¼	98	98
Union Pac	75¾	76¾	75¼	75⅝
C. P. R.	123⅜	123⅜	122⅞	123¼
South Pac.	45	45⅜	44¼	44½
R. I.	24½	25½	23¾	24⅜
Ills. C.	132¼	133	132½	132½
Sou. Ry.	21⅛	21¼	20⅞	21
Texas	26¾	27	26¼	26½
B & O.	83⅝	83⅞	83	83¾
N. Y. C.	121½	122½	120	121¾
Penna	124¼	124¼	123⅜	123⅜
Soo	53⅛	53⅝	53	53
T. W.	95¾	....	..	..
Erie	29¾	30⅛	29⅛	29½
do. pref.	68⅞	69½	68⅞	69
Reading	50	50¼	49¾	49⅝
C. O.	33⅛	33⅛	33⅛	33¼
O. & W.	23⅛	23⅛	23⅛	23⅛
Manhattan	133¼	133¼	132½	133
W. C.	17⅛	17½	17⅜	17⅜
L. & N	105¾	105⅛	104¼	105⅝
A. F.	34	34⅛	34	34¼
Nor.	63¼	63¾	63	63
Wab pref.	38	38½	37½	37⅝
C. G. W.	15⅜	15⅜	15½	15⅝
T.C.I.	40⅛	41⅜	40⅛	40¾
U.S. Stl	24½	24⅛	24⅛	24¼
do pref.	72¾	73¼	72½	72⅞
Sugar	116½	117	116	116
B. R. T.	45	46½	45	45¼
Po.	95	95	94⅝	94⅝
A. C. P.	42¾	43¼	41¾	41⅞
Met.	119	119	118½	118¾
Alc	19⅛	19⅛	19	19

Sept. wheat opened at 77⅛; closed at 79⅛
Sept. corn opened at 51⅛; closed at 52¾

Literary Notes

JACK LONDON: AN INTERVIEW.

Fannie K. Hamilton in The Reader For August.

Jack London is a genius unspoiled in the making. And the making is uncommonly stirring history—the story of a young, ardent, highly-sensitive nature going forth with high courage and ideals to meet fate on equal terms. Untrained and inexperienced, far from the great publishing centres, with no one to give him advice, and knowing no one who had ever written anything or tried to publish anything, Jack London sat down and wrote in order to gain an experience of his own. Authorship on its own account made little appeal to him. The attraction lay in the supposed rewards of literature. Mr. London says he developed whatever mental power he had, to meet an economic situation.

"I had many liabilities and no assets, no income, and several mouths to feed. I had tried everywhere for work without finding any—this was after my return from the Klondike. So I buckled on the harness and went up against the magazines, for I had heard they paid ten dollars per thousand words. This seemed a safe and sure income, my sanguine outlook including neither the machine-like regularly of returned manuscripts not the fluctuation of prices."

METHODIST MAGAZINE AND REVIEW.

Special prominence is given in the August number to Paris and its memories. A handsomely illustrated article describes the manifold beauties of the gay capital. Pastor Felix records the tragic history of Chenier, the French poet of the Revolution, and Eugene Lyle recites the extraordinary story of the Humbert Swindle.

Toronto; William Briggs. Montreal: C. W. Coates. Halifax: S. F. Huestis. $2.00 a year; $1.00 for six months.

A NATURE NUMBER.

Birds and Fish are the leading subjects of the August "Canadian Magazine." "Pike, Pickerel and Muskellunge" is the title of one illustrated article; "Birds of the North Woods," by C. W. Nash, is another, and "Photography of Birds' Nests," by O. J. Stevenson, is a third. But these nature articles are not the only attractive features of the issue. James T. Murray deals briefly with the question of Apprentices—a topic of some importance in view of our industrial expansion. "Automobiles in Canada," by A. Grant Brown, with its numerous photographs, indicates the growth of this new sport and its possibilities in this country. Besides all these features there are several short stories, some excellent poems, and the usual brightly filled departments.

Month after Month a cold sticks, and seems to tear holes in your throat. Are you aware that even a stubborn and long-neglected cold is cured with Allen's Lung Balsam! Cough and worry no longer.

The Waiter's Method.

"Naw," said the head waiter, "that man that jest went out ain't worth much."

"How do you know?" inquired the favorite customer.

"Oh, it's easy for us waiters to take a man's measure."

"I suppose you measure him from tip to tip, eh?"—Buffalo Times.

Turned Out.

"Our colleges turn out some pretty good men nowadays," remarked the elderly gentleman.

"Yes," replied his son gloomily; "our college turned out the man who was sure to have won the 100 yard dash for us next year just because he didn't pass any of his examinations."—Syracuse Herald.

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

THE SICK MAN OF TURKEY.

He Has Ordinary Human Weaknesses Regarding Hair Dye.

"And is that the sultan of Turkey? Why, the poor old man!" exclaimed an Englishwoman in the throng watching the display attending the Mohammedan feast of Bairam at the Turkish capital several months ago.

"Yes, madam," said an Englishman of several years' residence in Turkey, "that is the sultan," and he pointed over the heads of soldiers several rows deep lining the thoroughfare on either side to a queer, old fashioned turnout in which sat a little old man bent nearly double and clad all in black.

"That is he just raising his hand," said the informant, and as a cheer that savored of much practice went up from the lines of soldiers the little old man raised a clawlike hand on a level with his hooked nose.

"Why, how old a man is he?" asked the woman.

"Sixty? Why, look at his hair and mustache; jet black!" was her exclamation when the monarch's age was given.

"That's dye, madam, just plain dye," said the Englishman. "It would never do for the Raven (that's what they call him here) to grow old, you know."

"Let me tell you a little about him," the volunteer guide continued. "This is an unusual occasion. The sultan rarely leaves his palace. Just once a year he ventures out under a heavy guard to pay his holy duties at Stamboul, and once each week—every Friday—the ceremony of the Selemlik is observed. Then he goes from the palace down the hill to his private mosque. These are the only times at which he leaves the palace.

"I know he seems a very powerful monarch, and he is, but I wouldn't take the job at any price. Trouble, trouble, every moment of his life—trouble with foreign countries, trouble at home, trouble with his officials, trouble with his harem, assassins and spies about him day and night. Would you be the sultan?"

The woman as she turned away exclaimed "The poor old man!"

Force of Habit.

The force of habit was forcibly illustrated by a recent incident at the pumping station of the waterworks at Enid. A tank stand just outside the building is kept full of water for the accommodation of passers by and the neighborhood stock. A cow accustomed to drink at this tank came for her morning drink. The valley was covered with water and stood within two or three inches of the top of the tank, but the cow went over the waste of waters to the tank. Twice she stuck in the mud and appeared to be in danger of drowning, but by perseverance she finally reached the objective point. After drinking long and copiously she turned about and slowly made her way to land, apparently satisfied that she had done the only available thing to find water.

Noise!

The modern world, having plunged into a civilization which, with its factories and railroads, seems to promise a continual crescendo of noise, has at last discovered a fact which the mediaeval world was fortunately unable to discover. This fact is that piercing and deafening noises prolonged through the twenty-four hours are not only offensive to the ear, but injurious to the health. It becomes necessary therefore for the modern world to combat loud noise just as it combats heavy smoke and noisome odors.—Chicago Tribune.

Great Britain's Trade.

Up to now Britain retains from 20 to 25 per cent of the total trade of the universe. No other nation has yet come within half of this remarkable percentage. Nearest is Germany, with nearly 11 per cent; France claims about 9 per cent; the United States secures rather more than 9 per cent. If we add the output of the colonies the British empire shows a record of about one-third of the trade of the whole world.

Maine's Forest Fires.

A Maine lumberman graphically states the loss through the forest fires to the people of Maine as equal to four years' cut on the Penobscot river and more than a year's cut in the entire state. Ten million eight hundred thousand dollars is the money value of the 300,000 acres of timber burned and the consequent loss to the various industries from stump to saw.

Cleopatra.

Cleopatra, who by her fascination and beauty charmed so many of the men of her time, was short and stout.

Lime In the Eye.

Lime in the eye should be washed out quickly with vinegar and water, squeezing some drops on the eyeball. Then place a soft pad soaked in vinegar over the closed eye and secure it to the head by a bandage.

Ocean Trout.

Trout are believed to be exclusively fresh water fish. It happens, however, occasionally that some are caught with the herring in the German ocean.

Early Astronomical Teaching.

About 406 B. C. Democritus began teaching that the galaxy, or Milky Way, was simply a band of innumerable stars which on account of their great distance appeared very small. Time and improved appliances have proved that Democritus was correct in his surmises.

Silence at Dinner.

Whenever there is a marked silence at a large dinner party it is always, so the superstitious say, twenty minutes of the hour or twenty minutes after.

Sunlight Soap brightens and cleanses everything it washes. Quite as good for cleaning household utensils as washing clothes. 128

THE WEATHER.

To-day's Probs—

Fresh south to west winds; warm, with occasional showers or thunderstorms. Thursday, fresh west to northwest winds, mostly fair and a little cooler.

To-day's Temperature

As Registered by The Intelligencer's Guaranteed Thermometer:

8 a.m.	70
12 m.	74
2 p.m.	82
3 p.m.	83

As a place where the wearied can rest and recuperate with happiest surroundings the MAGI Caledonia Springs is unique.

We Have the Sellers

Ladies' Sterling Silver French-Grey Hat-Pins. In these we show a variety of designs, all new, 35c to 75c.

Ladies' Sterling Silver Enamelled and French-Grey Belt-Pins. These are the very newest on the market and must be seen to be appreciated. Prices 75c to $3.50.

Ladies' Bead Guards. These are immensely popular at present in the American cities, and are certainly an improvement to any summer dress. We show some beauties in the Roman-Filled Pearls, in both long guards and short neck'aces, In the Corals the long guards are 75c to $1.50 and the shor necklaces 50c and $1.00

Angus McFee.
Jeweler & Optician
310 Front St.
The Store with the Big Clock.

Ottawa Ladies' College

Academic, Matriculation. Selective Courses.

GENERAL COURSE—High School Entrance or equivalent will admit to our Senior First Grade. Pupils proceed thence in regular course to Diploma or Matriculation.
SELECTED COURSES arranged as desired.
PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT for younger pupils.
For Music, Art, Elocution, Stenography, Domestic Science, etc., see calendar.
Parents seeking a good residential school for their daughters should

Send for Our Calendar.

Rev. Dr. Armstrong, Director.
Mrs. Anna Ross, Lady Principal.

Rogers Found Guilty.

John Rogers, who was on trial yesterday before Judge Lazier on the charge of threatening to shoot a Mrs. Vollick, who resides in Madoc Township, was convicted of the offence. His honor reserved sentence until Saturday.

HIS LAST HOPE REALIZED.

[From the Sentinel, Gebo, Mont.]

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered much bad water, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by all druggists.

1,000 ISLANDS AND ROCHESTER.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian" leave Belleville for Thousand Islands at 3.25 a.m., daily except Mondays. Fare $1.00. Returning Str. leaves at 11.38 p.m. for Rochester, N.Y. m26d&w3m

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R.C.S., England.

Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. J. F. MATHER

Has removed his office to Pinnacle St. three doors north of Hotel Quinte. my29-6mw

DENTAL.

Dr. Clarke has removed to the offices formerly occupied by the late Dr. Ward, over Burrows', and opposite Scantlebury's Book Store. a27dtf

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT.

Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.

Office—2 Campbell Street.

MALCOLM WRIGHT. J. FRANKLIN WILLS.

Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,

Barrister, &c.

Solicitor for the City of Belleville.

Office—Metropolitan Block, Corner Front and Campbell Streets.

PORTER & CARNEW,

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.

Offices — Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.

'Phone 87.

E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,

Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Office, Bridge Street, Belleville.

Money to Loan — Private Funds, Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,

Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q.C.

Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, Etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 5 per cent., on easy terms upon good land security.

Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire Insurance.

Guardian . . .	Est'd 1821
The North America,	Est'd 1792
Quebec, ...	Est'd 1818

City, Town and Village Property insure at lowest rates.

R. W. ADAMS. Agent.

Office opposite Post Office.

THOS. STEWART,

Insurance and Commission Agent.

Agent for the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Scottish Union National Insurance Co.,

BRIDGE, ST.

FIRE, LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE

At Lowest Rates The Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Perth Mutual on farm and city property. Also mone to loan at 4½ per cent. upwards.

JAMES A. CHISHOLM,

Office Ashley Block, · Front st., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned

can earn you money by saving 't for you in your Fire Insurance.

The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co

The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.

The Equity Fire Ins. Co.

Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at lower rate than other stock companies Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.

Office—Bridge St., same entrance Quinte Laundry, Belleville.

H. FREEMAN KETCHESON.

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance.

Liverpool & London & Globe of England.

Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont,

Lloyd's Plate Glass,

Home Life Association, Toronto,

North British & Mercantile,

Farm and City Property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation, and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan & Investment Society. Money to Loan.

W. P. HUDSON, Office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., opposite Postoffice and Hotel Quinte, Belleville,

'Phone 162.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. G. NORTHROP,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Shire Hall, Belleville, Ont.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses.

Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the Post Office.

Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St, Appointments made.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

A man is generally at his heaviest in his fortieth year.

This Summer Sale

Of ours includes all fancy goods in our store at a reduction of 40 per cent. from lower prices than you can find the same goods elsewhere.

IT MEANS

$1.00 worth for 60c of any of our China, Bisque, Art Pottery, Candle Shades, Brass Tables, etc.

IT MEANS

25 per cent. off all our Wrist Bags and Chatalaines.

IT MEANS

30 per cent. off of all our framed pictures. And while we are speaking of pictures, allow us to mention a large and beautiful line of photogravieurs just placed in stock and on our bargain tables.

We mean to keep this store most interesting for the summer months, interesting in values as well as in new goods, a bright, down-to-date, summer shopping store for citizens and strangers.

In Wall Papers, also, we are offering some exceptional values, a number of clear outs. You can have at half price if they fit your room, and if you wish that wehang these papers you may depend upon us for low prices, prompt work and best workmanship.

Whether Painting, Graining, Kalsomining, Paperhanging or superior Decorating, you better have this firm do it. We are responsible and we will please you in every way.

Our Picture Framing Department is ever on the boon.

We keep a large staff busy all the time in this department and there are good reasons why we do—

Good workmanship.

Good materials.

Promptness and low prices.

These are the abundant reasons.

C. B. Scantlebury

Belleville's Decorator.

Wall Paper Wholesale and Retail.

FAST MAIL SERVICE

Bay of Quinte Route
TO
ROCHESTER N. Y.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian"

Taking Effect 27th June.

GOING DAILY (EXCEPT MONDAY)
Lv. Belleville .... 11.38 p. m.
Ar. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 6.43 a. m
RETURNING DAILY (Except Sunday)
Lv. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 8.30 p. m.
Ar. Belleville .... 3.25 a. m.

Baggage checked to all points. Connection with all railways.

$1.00 THOUSAND ISLANDS $1.00

AND RETURN.

Commencing 28th June. Steamer leaves Belleville at 3 25 a.m. daily except Monday for 1000 Islands, calling at Bay of Quinte ports, Kingston, Alexandria Bay and Gananoque. Passing through American and Canadian channels.

Right reserved to change time with or without notice.

Full information from
THE RATHBUN CO., } Agents.
U. E. THOMPSON,
E. E. HORSEY, G. P. & F. Agent, Kingston.

Str. "Alexandria"

Montreal, Rochester & Quebec Transit Co'y.

Popular Quebec Excursions NOW ON.

Belleville to Quebec and return.. $18 00
Belleville to Montreal and return $12.00
(including meals and berth)

Steamer runs all rapids.

For Rochester, Olcott Beach, Niagara Falls and Buffalo every Saturday at 11 a.m.

Particulars from
A. W. HEPBURN, General Manager, Picton, Ont.
THE RATHBUN CO., Agents. Belleville.

The Deseronto Navigation Co

TIME TABLE.

Taking effect April 13, 1903,

Belleville, Trenton, Picton & Napanee

Str. "ELLA ROSS"

Leaves Belleville for Trenton at 10 a. m., daily, Sundays Excepted, returning leaves Trenton at 1 p. m., leaving Belleville at 3 p.m. for Deseronto, Napanee and Picton.

Quick and Superior Service to NEW YORK CITY

Steamers RESOLUTE and RELIANCE will leave Deseronto for Oswego after arrival of Str. Ella Ross connecting at Oswego with the New York, Ontario Western Ry.

Fare to New York, Single, $8.40
Return, $13.25

For further particulars apply to THE RATHBUN CO., Local Agents

J. F. CHAPMAN,
Asst. Gen. F. Pass. Agt., Deseronto
R. C. Carter. General Manager, Deseronto.

POPULAR

Saturday Afternoon Excursion

Per Steamer

ELLA ROSS

To Glen Island, Glenora and Lake on the Mountain.

Steamer leaves Rathbun's wharf at 2.30 p.m. sharp.

Will be the most enjoyable excursion of the season.

Fare, adults 25c. Children 15c.

THOS. STEWART,
Bridge Street,
Belleville.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

New train 12.45 a.m., daily, except Sunday, for Brockville, Montreal and intermediate stations.

No. 16—Local, for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.

No. 2—1.45 a.m., Mail and Express, (Flyer), Daily.

No. 6—11.43 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 4—12.22 p.m., International Limited, Daily.

No. 12—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5—3 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily except Monday.

No. 3—4.10 a.m., Limited Express, Daily.

No. 9—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

No. 11—11.22 a.m., Passenger, Daily except Sunday.

No. 1—1.48 p.m., International Limited, Daily.

No. 7—5.12 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

Taking effect 12.01 o'clock, Sunday, June 14, 1903.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.	L've	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	9.10 a.m.	7.30 a.m.
Mixed	5.08 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

Rolff place near the ferry that had for so many years been the scene of his labors. What the old fellow thought on the subject of his disgrace from the confidence he had enjoyed in Rolff House for so many years, nobody had an opportunity to know precisely, for he maintained a dignified silence, and went about his duties with his usual taciturn industry.

But if old Carl viewed his displacement by the vagabond Leb. Sackett with seeming indifference, his faithful companion in the service of Rolff House, old Margaret, did not. The advent of Mr. Sackett, which took place the very day of Carl's departure, aroused the spirit of the worthy dame in quite an unlooked-for manner, and led to a volubility of indignant expression of her feelings rather surprising to that individual.

Leb. affected to treat it all with easy indifference, however, and at once made himself at home in his new position.

"It is quite needless for you to rail at me, fair and amiable Margaret," he replied, to one of the old woman's outbursts; "the powers that be have put me here, and here I mean to stay. You will like my company better after you get better acquainted with me"—and his lips parted in a satirical smile that showed his yellow fangs in a not very agreeable manner.

"Like a wolf," snapped old Margaret, her faded blue eyes fairly blazing her hatred and indignation. "A pretty head you are for Rolff House, indeed, you thief and vagabond, as your father and mother were before you. What have you come here to steal? Oh, I'll watch you—I'll watch you."

And watch him she did. Leb. soon found that it would have been impossible to have put a more vigilant and unrelenting detective on his actions than this faithful old domestic. She would steal around the house after him in the most tireless and noiseless way, and the constant fear of being under her observation rather interrupted the pleasure he had promised himself in exploring the nooks and crannies of the strange old mansion. Whenever he betook himself to a new field of investigation, he was pretty sure soon to be greeted with the picture of old Margaret's grey head and wrinkled features framed in the shadow of a doorway or window, with all-observing eyes fixed fearlessly and suspiciously upon him.

But Leb. was not the kind of a man to be easily discouraged. He resolved mentally "to fix the old lady," and, pending his reflections on the matter, he took occasion to report her attitude to his employer.

"It wouldn't be a bad idea to get rid of her in some way," suggested the amiable Mr. Saybrook.

"I might drop her in the old well, or lock her up in one of the old cellars and leave her there," responded Mr. Sackett. "Nobody would ever take the trouble to inquire about her, I reckon."

"No, no; that wouldn't do," answered the lawyer. "You must think of some other plan. I don't want her hurt. It might make trouble."

"Well," continued Leb., "I'll try and fix it in some way. I feel a big interest in having her out of the way, but I have a good deal bigger interest in keeping myself out of trouble. So I ain't likely to do anything very wicked. Hang her, though, I'd enjoy the little job of wringing her weazened old neck, But I suppose I will have to put up with her awhile yet. I'll see what can be done."

No further reference was made to the subject, and two or three weeks slipped by without any change of affairs in Rolff House. Old Margaret, in the meantime, did not become a bit reconciled to the presence of Leb. Sackett, and that worthy found her watchfulness and vigorous enmity to be anything but agreeable to him in his new position.

But gradually rumors began to be whispered about of strange occurrences at Rolff House. Lights had been seen moving about the house by those passing at night. Some one had seen sparks and flames proceeding from the great south chimney at midnight, and it was surmised that the Evil One had been on one of his periodical visits to the old house.

Leb. Sackett was of course interrogated at these occurrences; but he denied any knowledge as to their cause, although he admitted that there were "queer things" going on in the house.

"I'll tell you what," he said to a group of eager listeners in Ronk's Tavern one evening, "that old house is ghost-ridden, and there's no getting around it. Of all queer noises goin' on around nights I never heard the like. Rats? No, it ain't rats, I tell you. Rats don't open and bang doors, raise and let down windows, flash lights about the house, and utter the most awful groans and shrieks. Rats don't carry the furniture about from one room to another during the night, and pull a fellow out of bed all in a heap, as I was the other night. There's old Margaret—it's just the queerest thing how those ghosts persecute her. She's regularly scared, and says it all a judgment because I was put in the house. Well, it's my opinion that this ain't the first time the devil has been to pay in Rolff House, though there's never been anybody there before to own up to the facts of the case. The spooks have been having a rest, I suppose, since the old lady's death, and now they are tryin' to make up for lost time."

"Ain't you afraid, Leb?" asked one of the listeners, whose own teeth fairly chattered at the ghostly details he had heard.

"Afraid? Yes, I am kind o' afraid," replied Leb., in a matter-of-fact way; "but you see I have always had a sort of liking for ghosts, and then I ain't paid for running away from the house. The ghosts havn't hurt me, and I don't think they will. But, I tell you, boys, I keep mighty clear of that old cellar. They say there is something worse than ghosts down there sometimes. I don't want to say much; I can stand the ghosts; but I don't feel exactly safe about that cellar."

Leb. was now the hero of the hour. Every day added to the burden of his ghostly tales, of the doings at Rolff House. There were very few in the little village who were not superstitious enough to put at least some faith in these stories, while the great majority received them with eager credence. Some whose curiosity overcome their fear would watch in the vicinity of the house at nights, and never failed to entertain their cronies on their return with thrilling accounts of what they had witnessed.

Matters went on in this way for two or three weeks. Rolff House was enjoying a reputation it had never before fully borne as an abode of mischevous spirits, when the gossip and interest in the matter were suddenlyy greatly increased by the flight of old Margaret from the house to the abode of a niece, a married woman of middle age, living in the village, where she arrived smitten with moral terror, and at once took to-bed with serious illness in consequence of the nervous excitement she had undergone.

From her confused statements, it was gathered that she had at first put no faith in the reality of the ghostly manifestations, attributing them solely to the wicked pranks of Leb. Sackett; but, as day after day passed by, and each night brought new and more mysterious occurrences, her courage had gradually given way, till at last an event had occurred that had completely terrified her and caused her to flee the house. What this terrifying occurrence was she could not be induced to state, but it had evidently left a most serious impression upon her mind and partially shattered her well-worn faculties.

It was noticed, too, by those most interested, that Leb. Sackett no longer wore his usual jaunty air, but seemed unusually grave and pre-occupied in all his actions. Yet he did not leave the house. He asserted that there were not ghosts enough in Christendom to scare him, and that he would stay in the old house as long as he was wanted there.

One evening, however, he did not put in an appearance at Ronk's tavern. Another evening passed, and he was still absent. Still a third and a fourth found him missing from his accustomed place, and public excitement began to be aroused in regard to his safety. It was believed that he had come to some harm at the hands of the evil spirits that bewitched the old house. None were so bold as to go and investigate the matter, however. And so the mysterious disappearance of Leb. Sackett added to the excitement in regard to the ghostly doings at Rolff House

CHAPTER XVI.

Ralph Saybrook was not a young man to take leave of his characteristic shrewdness even in such a delicate matter as love-making. Having resolved to win Rosa Bruyn, he knew the best plan to lead to ultimate success was to boldly and persistently lay seige to her heart. He was well aware that he would be rebuffed at first, and that it would require great address and persistency for him to achieve ultimate success, and all his plans were laid for conducting a long and difficult suit with as much precision and method as if it were a law case instead of a matrimonial project he had in hand.

It was greatly to Rosa's disadvantage in the matter that her natural goodness of heart and modesty of nature precluded her repulsing his advances until he had gained the advantage of actually declaring his love for her. She took every possible precaution to avoid his society, it was true, but as he was not at all backward in obtruding himself upon her company, and was a frequent welcome guest of her father at his house, it was impossible for her to avoid his company entirely. Thus Ralph was offered his own opportunity to declare himself, and the occasion was well chosen. It was a beautiful early spring day, and Rosa had been to the village on some errand, when, on her way home, she was joined by the young lawyer. He proceeded home with her, exerting himself to be lively and entertaining, and, detaining her at the gate, managed shrewdly to engage her in an animated conversation on the appropriate subject of flora culture, which, being a topic she took a deep interest in, she was unconsciously led out of her usual mood of studied reticence in his company, and even awakened into some life and enthusiasm in expressing her views on a subject in which she took such a deep interest. Ralph was a young man of quite general reading, and, as is sometimes the case with those of the coldest and most selfish nature, had quite a passion for flowers, and wa well informed on their cultivation and capable of displaying enthusiasm and erudition in discussing the subject. So he managed to lead the guileless girl from one point to another, until at last they were holding an animated discourse on the language of flowers, and it was not long ere he had taken advantage of so favorable a turn of the conversation to introduce a subject of love and declare his attachment for her.

"Yes, dear Rosa," he said, in his most beguiling tones, as she stood surprised and confused in consequence of his unexpected declaration, "I love you with my whole heart. You are, to my eye, the chiefest flower in all Nature's parterre of beauty, which, to win and wear on this faithful breast I may well desire to make the ruling ambition of my life."

In reply to this ardent language, Rosa could only stammer:

"Really Mr. Saybrook, I cannot listen to you. You but do wrong to yourself to address me so. It is my error if I have given you the slightest reason to indulge a hope that I could look favorably on your addresses. I most truly cannot. I would wrong you to leave you under the slightest delusion. Believe me, it is impossible."

Ralph was quick to catch the implied admission of the generous-hearted girl that she might have unconsciously led him to hope for her favor.

"But why?" he made haste to urge. "Most truly, I have seen no reason to incline me to believe that your attitude toward me was such as to shut out hope. And even if it were, I could not the less admire and love you, and cherish the fond hope to win you. But I will not, I cannot, indulge so terrible a belief as that you will deliberately decline to listen to my suit, and at least not give yourself time and opportunity to ascertain whether my attentions may not in time become more agreeable to you."

"It is needless, believe me, Mr. Saybrook," she replied. "Do not wrong yourself with such a hope."

"Ah, but, Rosa, I cannot help it. The thought of love may be new to you; but, my dear girl, you are now of an age to excite admiration and attract suitors, and why should I not seek to be among the number of your faithful worshippers? I could not expect to be without rivals, but, knowing my own heart, I can well indulge the hope of being able to surpass all in faithfulness and devotion."

Tears sprang to the eyes of the young girl. The situation was becoming very embarrassing for her, and she determined to cut it short by a candid explanation.

"Let me be frank with you, Mr. Saybrook," she said. "My faith is already pledged to another, and I cannot break it."

"Unwelcome as the news is to me," replied Ralph, showing no sign of discomfiture, "I do not see how it entirely shuts me out from hope. I had reason, perhaps, to suspect such a fact, but I also had reason to believe that it was not an objection that would prove in any way insuperable. Indeed, I did not know but that your relations in that direction had been broken off. Of course, you allude to Claude Rolff. Much as I respect and admire him as a friend, I cannot believe but that he has lacked the sincerity and earnestness of a true manly character in his attentions to you. In fact without breaking confidence, I think I may say that he himself looked upon his departure abroad as a practical sundering of all ties that bound him to his native land, and that he confessed as much, and I have also reason to believe that he has since formed new ties in the place of his present residence which would preclude the idea that he regarded any pledges he might lightly have made to you as binding. No, no; I cannot consider that his claims should shut out mine. Let me assure you, Rosa, kindly but earnestly, that all others save only yourself, perhaps, have regarded his attentions to you as lacking in real sincerity. I know that such is your father's opinion. I did not presume to indulge a hope of becoming your suitor without first declaring my intentions to him, and learning that he did not regard my character and hopes unfavorably; and I was given to understand by him, that not only was your hand free so far as he knew, but that, even if an engagement did exist with Mr. Rolff, it could never receive his consent. He regards, as I assure you others regard, the ambition of that young man as of a kind that will never adapt itself to the circumstances of our quiet little community and peaceful ways, and that his leaving us is a practical sundering of all designs or probability of ever returning here. It would be but cruelty, Rosa, to deny me even the one fond lover's privilege of hope for one who I am assured has already proved false to you."

"I cannot believe it—I will not believe it," replied Rosa hastily, and with a sudden spirit that seemed to indicate that her feelings were much moved. "You all slander him; you all seem conspired together to deceive me. I cannot believe ill of him till I have better evidence than I have yet seen."

"Possibly you are right as regards the evidence," replied Ralph, who shrewdly saw that it would not do to press the point at present. "I confess I can hardly believe so ill of Claude myself as his actions would seem to warrant. It is a point that perhaps a little lapse of time will settle clearly. All I ask, my dear girl, is that you will not forbid me to indulge a hope that your hand will yet be free for me to sue for with all the ardor and deep love that is in my heart."

This request was humble enough; but Rosa was scarce listening. She was deeply agitated, and felt a hasty impulse to break away from the disagreeable interview.

"You must excuse me now, Mr. Saybrook," she said hurriedly, "I cannot listen to you longer. I have duties awaiting me in the house. Good day."

Turning almost abruptly, she proceeded with hasty steps toward the house.

The young man watched her disappear, and then turned to retrace his steps toward the village. He whistled to himself lightly as he walked along, and he evidently was not disappointed at the reception his declaration had received. His only object had been to establish himself as a declared suitor for the maiden's hand, and in that object he had been perfectly successful. He was resolved that not one rebuff, nor a hundred, should discourage him. He meant to win by persistency, address and opportunity, and time and fortune, he well knew, were in his favor.

CHAPTER XVII.

The excitement caused by the disappearance of Leb. Sackett, and the public surmises in regard to the reasons therefor, naturally came to the ears of lawyer Saybrook and his son.

"Leb. seems to have managed that little job of getting old Margaret out of the house very neatly," remarked Ralph as they were discussing the matter.

"Yes," responded the other. "He said he'd try to fix it, and he has succeeded very finely. But I am puzzled to know why he keeps himself so quiet since the old lady left. Perhaps he is only trying to keep up the mystery; but I have my suspicions somewhat aroused. To tell the truth, I haven't any too much confidence in Leb. He's just a trifle too smart to be trustworthy. It is now four days since he has reported. Suppose after dinner we walk over and see what is up."

(To be continued.)

The Flagging Energies Revived.—Constant application to business is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These comes from stomachic troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregularities, and the stomach ceases to assimilate food properly. In this condition Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare powder, restoring the organs to healthful action, dispelling depression, and reviving the flagging energies.

The wildcat's teeth are close to its purr.

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is a speedy cure for dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera, summer complaint, sea sickness and complaints incidental to children teething. It gives immediate relief to those suffering from the effects of indiscretion in eating unripe fruit, cucumbers, etc. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to conquer the disease. No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

When one gets hopping mad his reason goes on a crutch.

Sleeplessness.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be the oblivion for a while and temporary relief. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

The average watch represents but 12 hours of human labor.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried

Many a man's self-conceit is due to his ignorance.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes; "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one-half, the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done, it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using 3 bottles of the Vegetable Discovery, the billiousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 68 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

Coral is a talisman against thunder and evils by flood and field.

THE PUBLIC should bear in mind that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has nothing in common with the impure, deteriorating class of so-called medicinal oils. It is eminently pure and really efficacious—relieving pain and lameness, stiffness of the joints and muscles, and sores or hurts, besides being an excellent specific for rheumatism, coughs and bronchial complaints.

All trails are long to the lazy.

These two desirable qualifications, pleasant to the taste and at the same time effectual, are to be found in Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, Children like it,

A long portage makes a heavy canoe.

To get relief from indigestion, biliousness, constipation or torpid liver without disturbing the stomach or purging the bowels, take a few doses of Carter's Little Liver Pills, they will please you.

It takes money to voice the opinion of a lawyer.

That tired, languid feeling and dull headache is very disagreeable. Take two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring, and you will find relief. They never fail to do good.

Much talk, many lies.

They make one feel as though life was worth living. Take one of Carter's Little Liver Pills after eating; it will relieve dyspepsia, aid digestion, give tone and vigor to the system.

The best way to get even is to forget.

Nothing so certainly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course generally prove the fore-runner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected [illegible] and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state, tural.

Mothers

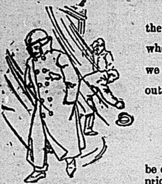
Have a bottle of

Dr. Butler's Blackberry Cordial

Always on hand. Finest medicine for Dysentery and all like diseases in children. The first dose effective. Never fails. Safe and sure. Pleasant to take.

Sold only at

WATERS'



RAINY WEATHER NEEDS.

What a lot of weather we are having, very hot, then rainy and cold. Whether the weater is clear or whether the weather is cloudy, the fact remains that we have waterprof coats in plenty, guaranteed to keep out the wet.

A Few Specials

We have just received a few specials that should be of interest to you. There are so many very low priced, useless coats on the market that these extra good ones at moderate prices will surely prove fast sellers. Two lines, one dark the other medium, pure rainproof, velvet collar, raglan pocket and cuffs, coats made to sell at $7.50. OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY $5.00.

A FEW BETTER

Then we have some extra good ones at $7, $8 and $10, coats that you would have to pay much more for in other stores. If you are thinking of a rainproof coat, come in and take a look around.

OAK HALL

Sole Agents for Sanford's Celebrated Clothing.

Lowest Prices
Latest Styles
Largest Variety
IN LADIES' LOW SHOES.

The "Albani"
1 strap, 2 strap, or 4 strap.
Prices 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $2.00.

The "Trilby"
2 Buttoned Low Shoe.
Prices $1.00, $1.25, $1.50.

The "Oxford"
Low Laced Shoe.
Prices 75c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 up.

Also Misses' and Children's

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES at Belleville, Napanee and Trenton

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

WHAT IS WORN.

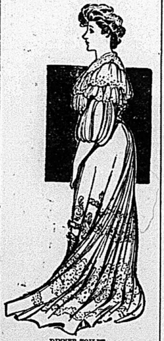
Batiste Frocks—Foulard Utility Gowns—Some New Sunshades.

Young girls wear a good deal of hand embroidered batiste or muslin, and this is very dainty. These little gowns are made simply with openwork lace collars and ribbon belts or sashes.

Spotted and figured foulards make ideal shirt waist costumes. They are designed with the skirts and waists tucked perpendicularly with lines of fagoting or smocking for trimming.

Petticoats of dark blue and white and green and white gingham are smart to wear with blue serge or cheviot tailor made suits.

With a full dress a very full froufrouing petticoat is a necessity. The red underskirt holds its own in a soft dull shade for wear with all black gowns.



DINNER TOILET.

Sunshades are returning to their old shapes and are for the most part unlined. The latest notion is a hand painted handle, the wreath creeping on to the ball top. Flowered chine moire is very artistic. White lace with black leaves in transparent work is also chic. Many of the handles have rosettes of chiffon or soft ribbon.

The pretty dinner dress in the cut is of white veiling trimmed with fine white lace.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

THE DOWNFALL OF JERRY.

(With apologies to the shade of the late Bret Harte.)

Which I rise to remark,
And my language is plain
That for ways that are dark
And tricks that are vain
Our old friend Jerry H. is peculiar,
Which the same I am free to maintain.

Of course you all know
As Inspector of Fish
He draws a cool hundred
A month to his dish,
Which the same it is not to be sneezed at,
Especially for a sinecure posish.

And our friend Jerry H.
Got along very well,
Though the people laughed at him
And called him a sell
He had nothing to do—and he did it—
He did it exceedingly well.

And then came the time
That the census was took
Which the Grits muddled so
(As you'll see if you look)
And 'twas then that our friend Jerry H., sir,
Swelled the sum in his little bank book.

He was given a job
To look after the men
(Who collected the data
And then, alas! then
He boosted his bill in a manner
Which brings tears to the nib of my pen.

But alas one fine day
This whole story came out—
Was drawn out, in fact,
With a rude Tory shout—
By that shrewd fellow, W. B. Northrup.
Who played Jerry H. like a trout.

And now you would think
He would feel some small shame
And hang low his head
Thus to lose his fair fame—
If you think that he does you're mistaken,
That is not the way he plays the game.

The people may wonder
And cry out if they will,
You'll find Jerry H.
At his old place there still
What does he care for the scandal
So long as his friends paid the bill!

There's a lesson in this
For the Grits of to-day—
When you get a soft job
Be content with your pay,
Don't try to take more than is honest,
Rest assured you'll be found out some day.

SIF. CLIFTON.

• • •

This is surely a hard luck summer for picnics.

• • •

The hard boiled eggs are liable to get water-soaked in weather like this morning's.

NEW FISHERMAN'S RING.

Lost Symbol of Papal Authority May Yet Be Found.

Rome, July 29.—The Tribune says that, as the Fisherman's ring, which could not be found after the death of the Pope, may be discovered in some drawer, which was sealed up and cannot be opened until after the election of the new Pope, Cardinal Oreglia has ordered a new one for use in the symbolic ceremony which occurs immediately after the successor to Leo is chosen.

That there is a conviction at the Vatican that the conclave will be of short duration is proved by the fact that all those who are to enter the conclave to minister to the wants of the cardinals have been engaged for only three days.

Safe Blowers at Junction.

Toronto Junction, July 29.—The safe at the mills of Mr. Arch. Campbell, M.P., at Toronto Junction, was blown open between one and three o'clock yesterday morning, and a quantity of silver was stolen. The safe, which cost $600, was completely destroyed, and the part of the office where the safe was is wrecked. The work appears to be that of expert safe crackers.

Promoter Wright Returns.

New York, July 29.—United States Marshal Henkel yesterday received from Acting Secretary of State Adee the original warrant of extradition for Whittaker Wright, the London promoter, who has been confined in Ludlow jail since April last, on charges preferred by the shareholders of the London and Globe Finance Corporation of London. Inspectors Wallie and Phillips of the London city police will arrive on the Oceanic to-day and take Wright to London.

THE MARKETS.

Wheat and Corn Higher at Liverpool, But Lower at Chicago—Live Stock—The Latest Quotations.

Tuesday Evening, July 28.

Liverpool wheat futures closed ¾d higher to-day than yesterday and corn futures ⅝d higher.

At Chicago to-day Sept. wheat closed ¼c lower than yesterday; Sept. corn ½c lower and Sept. oats ½c lower.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London—Close—Wheat on passage, buyers indifferent operators. Parcels 1 hard Manitoba passage, 31s 0d. Maize on passage firm but not active; spot American mixed, 22s 0d. Flour—Spot Minn., 27s.

Paris—Close—Wheat, tone steady; July, 25f 45c; Nov. and Feb., 22f 70c. Flour—Tone steady; July, 32f 10c; Nov. and Feb., 30f 40c.

Antwerp—Wheat—Spot, steady; No. 2 red winter, 16½f.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

Following are the closing quotations at important wheat centres to-day:

	Cash.	July.	Sept.	Dec.
New York	....	....	82⅝	82¾
Chicago	....	....	77⅛	78
Toledo	77⅝	77⅝	78⅝	80
Duluth, 1 Nor.	86⅝	86⅝	78½	76¼

TORONTO ST. LAWRENCE MARKET

Grain—

Wheat, red, bush.	$0 77 to	$....
Wheat, white, bush.	0 76	....
Wheat, spring, bush.	0 70	0 72
Wheat, goose, bush.	0 72½	....
Barley, bush.	0 44½	....
Beans, bush.	1 30	1 50
Beans, hand-picked	1 75	....
Peas, bush.	0 78½	....
Rye, bush.	0 45	....
Oats, bush.	0 36½	0 37½

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, July 28.—Wheat—Spot quiet; No. 2 red western winter, 6s 3d; No. 1 northern shipping, 6s 5d; No. 1 California, 6s 7d; futures steady; July nominal; Sept. 6s 3⅛d; Dec. 6s 3⅜d. Corn—Spot American mixed quiet, 4s 4½d. Futures steady; July nominal, Sept. 4s 5½d. Beef—Extra India mess, 65s. Bacon—Cumberland cut steady at 50s 0d. Lard—Prime western, in tierces, dull at 37s; American refined, in pails, dull, 30s 6d.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, July 28.—Butter—Steady, unchanged; receipts, 17,530. Cheese—Steady to firm, unchanged; receipts, 8011. Eggs—Firm; receipts, 11,508; near-by fancy selected, white, 21c to 2c; do, fancy mixed, 19c to to 20c; do, seconds to firsts, 15c to 18c; western extras, 19c; do. seconds to firsts, 15c to 18c; do. thirds, 12c to 14½c; do. very inferior, 10c to 11c; dirties, 8 to 12½c; checks, 7 to 9c; very poor culls, 5c to 6c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables for Cattle Higher—Other Markets Are Little Changed.

London, July 28.—Live cattle steady at 12c to 12¾c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 11½c to 12c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 9c to 9¼c per lb. Sheep, 11½c to 12½c.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the Toronto cattle market were 45 car loads, composed of 637 cattle, 400 hogs, 536 sheep, 25 calves.

Exporters—Best loads exporters are worth $5 to $5.25 per cwt.; medium to good at about $4.75 to $4.90.

Export Bulls—Choice quality bulls sold at $4 to $4.25 per cwt.; good bulls sold at $3.60 to $3.80 per cwt.

Export Cows—Export cows sold at $4.00 per cwt.

Butchers' Cattle—Choice picked lots of butchers, weighing from 1025 to 1100 lbs. each, equal in quality to best exporters, sold at $4.65; loads of good sold at $4.40 to $4.50; fair to good, $4.25 to $4.35; common, $3.75 to $4.00; rough to inferior, $2.65 to $3.25.

Feeders—Steers of good quality, 800 to 900 lbs. each, at worth $3.50 to $4 per cwt.

Short-keep Feeders—Good steers, 1100 to 1200 lbs. each, are worth $4.25 to $4.50 per cwt.

Stockers—One-year to two-year old steers, 400 to 700 lbs. each, are worth $3 to $3.75 per cwt.; off-colors and of poor breeding quality of same weights are worth $2.75 to $3 per cwt.

Milch Cows—Milch cows and springers are worth $30 to $50 each.

Calves—Calves sold at $2 to $10 each, or from $3.50 to $5 per cwt.

Sheep—Prices, $3.65 to $3.75 per cwt. for ewes, and bucks at $2.75 to $3.

Spring Lambs—Prices steady at $2.50 to $4 each.

Hogs—Best select bacon hogs, not less than 160 lbs., nor more than 200 lbs. each, off cars, sold at $6.25 per cwt.; lights and fats at $6; sows, $4 to $4.25 per cwt.; and stags $2 to $3 per cwt.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, July 28.—Cattle—Receipts, 125 head; steady; prime and shipping steers, $4.90 to $5.40; butchers' steers, $4.13 to $4.75; cows and heifers, $2.50 to $4.00; bulls, $3 to $4.15; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4. Veals—Steady, $5 to $6.75. Hogs—Receipts, 4000 head; heavy 5c to 10c higher, Yorkers 5c higher, others steady; heavy, $5.70; mixed, $5.70 to $5.75; Yorkers, $5.80 to $5.90; pigs, $6 to $6.15; roughs, $4.75 to $5; stags, $3.75 to $4.25. Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 1600 head; slow at steady prices; lambs, $4 to $6.25; yearlings, $4.75 to $5.25; wethers, $4.50 to $4.85; ewes, $3.50 to $4; sheep, mixed, $1.50 to $4.25.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, July 28.—Beeves—Receipts, 223 head, all consigned direct. No sales reported. Exports to-day: beef, estimated, 1230; beeves, 4200 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 246; very quiet; rated steady; the only reported sale one bunch of Indiana calves at $5.55.

Sheep and lambs—Receipts, 7651; sheep slow, ¼c lower; lambs dull, closing heavy with about 28 cars unsold. Sales of lambs 15c to 20c lower than yesterday. Sheep sold at $4.30 per hundred pounds; lambs at $5 to $6.65.

Hogs—Receipts, 3135; light weights firm, others steady; state pigs sold at $6.30; heavy state hogs at $6, Ohio do, at $6.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, July 28.—Cattle—Receipts, 5000; market slow, weak, to 10c lower. Texans, 200; good to prime steers, $5.10 to $5.25; poor to medium, $4 to $5; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.35; cows, $1.50 to $4.50; heifers, $2.50 to $4.75; canners, $1.50 to $2.75; bulls, $2.25 to $4.40; calves, $3 to $6.75; Texas steers, $3.25 to $4.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 14,000; to-morrow, 30,000; left over, 4000; market steady, closed firm; mixed and butchers', $5.15 to $5.65; good to choice, heavy, $5.30 to $5.55; rough, heavy, $4.75 to $5.30; light, $5.30 to $5.75; bulk of sales, $5.25 to $5.45.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 14,000. Sheep opened steady, closed lower; lambs opened steady, closed lower; good to choice wethers, $3.75 to $4; fair to choice, mixed, $3 to $3.50; native lambs, $3.25 to $6.25.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Campbellford, Ont., July 28.—There were 1505 boarded. Magrath 500, Benton 300, Kerr 240, Cook 245, Bird 310, all at 9c.

Will Abolish Some Duties.

London, July 29.—In the course of a statement in the House of Commons yesterday on the remaining business of the session, Premier Balfour informed the House that a customs bill would be introduced, abolishing, among other things, the duty on raw molasses.

Affects 30,000 Miners.

Indianapolis, July 29.—At the headquarters of the United Mine Workers in this city, it is announced that the miners and operators at Pittsburg, Kansas, have reached a wage agreement for one year. The settlement affects thirty thousand miners.

NEW GOODS
JAPAN TEA
The first of this season's crop, exta quality, regular 50c line, we quote
40c Per lb.
Canned Halibut
Fine solid Fish, very tasty,
15c per can.
J. C. Hanley & Co.
GROCERS
Telephone 214

Flowers & Vegetables
Of all kinds in season
... AT ...
J. D. COLLIP'S.
'Phone 205.

Western Beef.
Prime Western Beef together with all kinds of choice meats, supplied by the district, at
C. GREEN'S
267 Front St., 'Phone 109.

RECOMMENDED BY PHYSICIANS.
Pond's Extract
Over fifty years a household remedy for Burns, Sprains, Wounds, Bruises Coughs, Colds and all accidents liable to occur in every home.
CAUTION--There is only one Pond's Extract. Be sure you get the genuine, sold only in sealed bottles in buff wrappers.

Worth it's Weight in Gold
BABY'S OWN SOAP
keeps the most tender skin, soft, smooth, and free from chaps.
No Other is just as Good.
ALBERT TOILET SOAP CO., Mfrs. Montreal.
032

You May Need
Pain-Killer
For Cuts
Burns
Bruises
Cramps
Diarrhoea
All Bowel Complaints
It is a sure, safe and quick remedy.
There's only one PAIN-KILLER
PERRY DAVIS'.
Two sizes, 25c. and 50c.

A horse has been known to jump 37 feet in a steeplechase.

Nearly 500 different kinds of tiny shells go to make up chalk.

When a storm is approaching, glow-worms are far more brilliant than at other times.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM
CHEAP TRIPS

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay. Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

NOTICE.

Tickets are now on sale via North Bay and Sarnia, also via lake and rail, to points on Canadian Northern Railway, Port Frances, Rainy River, Winnipeg and other points west. New fast train service has just been inaugurated on this line.

J. E. THOMPSON, City Agent, Bridge Street,
T. H. COPPIN, Depot Agent.
J. D. McDONALD, Dist. Pass Agt., Toronto.

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& HUDSON RIVER R. R.
THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.
SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.			After 1st May
Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)		12.22 p.m.	1.3 a.m
Arr. Kingston	"	1.47 p.m.	3.12 a.m
Lv. Kingston (stage)..		2.30 p.m.	5.00 a.m
Arr. CapeVincent (stage)		4.30 p.m.	7.00 a.m
Lv.Cape Vincent N.Y.C.		5.05 p.m.	7.25 a.m
Arr. Watertown	"	5.55 p.m.	8.25 a.m
Arr. Oswego	"	9.05 p.m.	11.55 a.m
Arr. Syracuse	"	9.25 p.m.	12.07 p.m
Arr. Rochester	"	1.05 a.m.	2.20 a.m
Arr. Utica	"	9.45 p.m.	12.35 p.m
Arr. New York	"	7.25 a.m.	6.00 p.m

Convenient train service in opposite direction.
Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.
2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C. R. R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from F. A. Folger, N.Y.C. Agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS, Gen'l Pass'r Agent, New York.
A. H. SMITH, Gen'l Supt., New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent, Watertown, N.Y.

Wall Paper

At first sight of our Wall Papers you will say there's an attractiveness about them that puts them lengths ahead of other lines.

IN STOCKING

we select only the best, we have no "shelf warmers" all our Papers are quick sellers. If you choose your Papers from us you have best value for the price obtainable anywhere.

Painting, Paperhanging and Decorating done on shortest notice by best workmen in the city.

JOHN CORNELIUS.
3 Doors South of Intelligencer Office.

SAVE MONEY
By JOINING The
MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB
OF AMERICA

25 Cents pays for three months' membership. Each member receives the official club organ every month, including 6 pieces of high-class vocal and instrumental new music each month, 18 pieces in all; also a Certificate of Membership which gives the privilege of Club Room in New York City, and of buying literature, music or musical instruments of any description at wholesale prices, saving you from 20% to 60% on your purchases. Don't fail to join at once. You will get much more than your money's worth. MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB, Dept. , 150 Nassau St., N.Y.

ODD LINES
—OF—
Boots and Shoes
AT LESS THAN COST PRICE.

Men's Canvas Low Shoes, regular price $1.25 & $1.50	75c
Men's Canvas Boots, regular price $1.25 & $1.50	$1.00
Men's Working Boots	68c
Men's $4.00 Tan Boots for	$2.00
Boys' Tan Boots, regular price $1.50 to $2.50	$1.00
Ladies' Fine Dongola Oxfords, sizes 3, 3½, 4, regular price $1.00 to $2.00	50c
Children's Slippers, regular price 75c & $1.00	35c
Girls' Calf Button Boots, sizes 11 to 2	60c

VERMILYEA & SON.
Sole Agents for the famous Queen Quality Shoe.

ONE WEEK MORE ✳ This Sale positively ends Saturday, Aug. 1st

$5.00 Any Suit In This Great Clothing Store for $5.00

A STUPENDOUS CLOTHING OFFER WITHOUT PRECEDENT OR PARALLEL.

Some Suits $18, some $16, some $15, some $12, others $10. Just think of it! High grade, thoroughly tailored garments for Men, complete suits in fashionable fabrics, for

$5.00

This sale has been such a large success we have decided to continue it for one week more to clear out the balance of suits still left. Lots of snaps in stock yet. The earlier you come the better your choice. THIS SALE POSITIVELY ENDS SATURDAY, AUG. 1st.

The GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE.

Up-to-date Clothiers and Gents' Furnishiers, Look for the Globe Over The Door, 390 Front Street, Belleville.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM Cures Deep-seated Colds Coughs · Croup · Bronchitis - LARGE BOTTLES $1.00 MEDIUM 50c - TRIAL SIZE 25c

Bank of Montreal
ESTABLISHED 1817
Capital and Rest, All Paid Up
$23,000,000
(Twenty-three Millions)
Savings Bank Department
Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.
A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch

Goods We Have at Right Prices
—Hammocks.
—Fishing Tackle.
—Tennis Goods
—Golf Goods.
—Lacrosse Goods.
—Base Ball Goods.
—Screen Doors and Windows.
—Fruit Jars.
—Fruit Jar Rubbers.
—Wall Paper.
—Crystal Glass Vases.
—Glass Ware.
—Dinner Sets.
—Toilet Sets.
—Ladies' Hose.
—Ladies' Vests.
Everything in smallwares.
AT THE BEE HIVE
Chas. N. Sulman

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

Der German Cobbler

Mr. Voglestein Calls and Relates His Adventures.

I VHAS putting some cement patch on a shoe vhen Mr. Voglestein vhalks in und lifts oop der growler to see if it vhas empty. He finds no peer und he vhas mad for fife minutes. Den he says:

"Hans, did you hear how I safed twenty dollar a few days ago?"

"No."

"Vhell, it shows you how smart I vhas. I vhas going along Second street vhen a man runs after me mit a pocketbook in his hand und says:

"'Oxcuse me, but haf you lost your money? I vhas a poor man, but I vhas honest, und so I ran after you to give it back.'

"I neffer carry a pocketbook in all my life, but if somepody finds one und runs after me vhat shall I do? It vhas my peesness to take it, of course. It vhas a fat pocketbook, und I slip it in my pocket und reward dot man mit a fife dollar bill. It don't take me ten minutes to be a mile avhay und hide behind a coal office to count der money. How mooch you belief vhas in dot pocketbook?"

"One t'ousand dollar."

"Humph! Not a cent. It vhas stuffed out mit old paper. It vhas all a trick, you see."

"Und you lost fife dollar?"

"No, sir. I safed twenty. I safed it pecause if dot man had asked for twenty-fife dollars' reward I should haf given it to him right off. Dot's vhat ails you, Hans. You vashn't smart und you don't know how to safe. I don't wonder you vhas only a cobbler after ten years."

Mr. Voglestein pats herself on der back und smiles und laughs, und vhen he lights his pipe he says:

"Maype you don't hear about me und dot undertaker? It vhas sooch a smart tricks dot all my friends would like me to be alderman of my ward.' Dot undertaker vhas Schmidt, und I call into his place und ask how peesness vhas. He says she vhas poor und dot he vhill make me a bargain. If I buy a feefty dollar casket now I shall haf it for feefteen dollars. If it vhas you, Hans, you don't buy, but I vhas a man mit a tricks oop my sleeve. I pay him der cash und take a receipt, und next day my friend Hoopenlaker goes down to Schmidt und says:

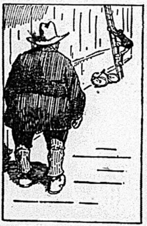
"'It vhas verry sudden, vhasn't it?'

"'How?'

"'Vhy, der vhay Voglestein pegged out last night. Didn't you hear about it?'

"'N-o. Good gracious, how she vhas?'

"'He drops dead of heart failure after supper, und of course his wife vhill want der coffin. It vhas a good bargain you made. How mooch you gif to get out of her?'



"HE GOES OOP LIKE A CAT."

"Dot Schmidt says he vhill gif $10, und by und by Hoopenlaker hands him oafer dot receipt und takes der money, und we make fife dollar apiece. Next day vhen I goes down to see Schmidt he swears for half an hour, but vhen he gets through he says I vhas der smartest man in town. You see, Hans, shoe pegs vhas nottings. It vhas brains dot count. Maype you haf some brains to send out for a quart of beer?"

I don't haf, und after waiting a long time Mr. Voglestein sighs und says:

"I shall wait until I get home und den drink a barrel. Hans, if you vhas me der odder day you lose forty-nine dollar in two minutes."

"How can I do it?" I says.

"Shust like grease. I vhas over on Green street vhen I see a man mit a bike. He can't ride at all. He falls off more ash ten times. Py und py I ask him vhy he don't ride a cow, und he says:

"'Look here, old mans, maype you think I can't ride?'

"'I know you can't.'

"'Maype you like to bet me I can't go oop dot ladder to der roof?'

"'Of course I do.'

"'Vhell I bet you a dollar I go up.'

"We put oop der money und he leaves dot bike on der ground und goes oop like a cat. It vhas some tricks on me, but I don't kick."

"But you vhas a dollar out."

"Cobbler, don't you see dot your head vhas full of sawdust? I shall bet feefty dot man can't go oop dot ladder, but he lets me off mit one. Don't I safe forty-nine?"

Mr. Voglestein beliefs I vhas some fools, und he don't speak to me again for some time. Den he grins und chuckles und says:

"Maype you don't hear about me und dot policemans on Third place? One day last winter vhen I falls down on der ice he says I vhas drunk und takes me to der station house und makes me pay two dollar. He tells der shudge dot if I vhas sober I fall oop instead of down. I like to get eafen mit him for dot, und so vhen I sees him py a fire alarm box der odder day I comes running oop und calls out:

"'Queeck! Queeck! How you open dis box?'

"'Vhas it some fire?' he says.

"'Hurry oop! Don't wait!'

"He opens der box und rings an alarm, und fife engines come out. Eaferypody looks for a fire, but dere vhas none.

"'How vhas it?' says der policemans to me.

"'I like to see if it vhas a letter box,' I says to him.

"He gifs me der collar und runs me to der station house, but der captain says:

"'You vhas a fool, officer. Release dot man. He don't tell you dere vhas a fire, und he don't open der box. It vhas no crime to be curious.'

"So you see I got eafen mit der cop und vhas all right. Last night he finds me py a lamppost und he calls out:

"'Ah, you vhas tight again, eh? Vhell, you must come along mit me.'

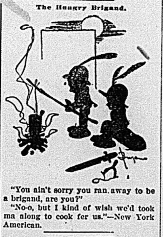
"But my friend Kleinfeldt comes out of his grocery und says:

"'Officer, you look a leetle out. It vhas two vhays. Maype Voglestein vhas holding oop der lamppost und maype der lamppost vhas holding opp Voglestein.'

"Und dot officer whistles py himself und goes on und lets me alone."

M. QUAD.

The Hungry Brigand.



"You ain't sorry you ran away to be a brigand, are you?"

"No-o, but I kind of wish we'd took ma along to cook fer us."—New York American.

To be overpolite is to be rude.—Japanese Proverb.

CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY

CAPITAL

10,000 Shares 7 per cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, par value $100 each,	$1,000,000
50,000 Shares Common Stock, par value $100, issued and fully paid	5,000,000
TOTAL CAPITALIZATION	$6,000,000

Issues of $1,000,000 00 7 p.c. Preferred Stock in 10,000 Shares of $100 each at par.

This stock is preferred both as to Assets and Dividends.

The shares are entitled to cumulative preferred dividends from the net earnings of the Company, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable half yearly on the first days of April and October. They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at $115,00 per share, at any time after 1st January, 1909.

The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000.00, the whole of which is now offered.

Subsriptions for 10,000 Shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent. Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is $100 Share, as follows

per cent on application,
25 " " on allotment,
35 " " 30 days thereafter.
35 " " 60 days thereafter.

One share of Common, par value $100, given with each share of preferred.

The whole of instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of one per cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1,000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4000 acres of iron ore deposit, located Natashquan (tidewater) situated on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highet ever discovered, running from 69 per cent to 72 per cent in metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore has been received by the Campany than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

Send for prospectus giving full information as to earnings, reports, etc., etc.

Address all communications and send subscriptions to

COLONIAL SECURITIES CO.,
62 Wall Street, New York City
OR
W. L. MARSTON & COMPANY
110 State Street, Boston

The SAWYER COMPANY.
351 Temple Building, Montreal, Canada.

STICKS TO OLD CUSTOMS.

Supreme Court of United States Is Wedded to Its Traditions.

The supreme court of the United States does business on an antiquated plan. While it is undoubtedly the most dignified body of men in this country, if not in the world, it has its peculiarities, and they are striking ones. One of the traditions of the court prevents newspaper correspondents from attending the session of the court in their professional capacity. Provision is made for a representative of each of the great press associations, but the correspondents have to push and crowd in behind the rear railing with the hundreds of other spectators. Usually they have to stand up, and if they are seen taking notes an attendant escorts them to the door. The result is that the 200 or more correspondents have to depend on their memory for their reports of proceedings in the supreme court room.

There is another court custom which prevents correspondents from seeing the opinions handed down until they have secured authority from the judges who severally deliver them from the bench. This authority is not always given, the judge exercising his own discretion about it. Not infrequently the correspondent has to go to the home of the judge to get the written authority, and perhaps by the time he gets back to the capitol the office of the clerk of the court is closed.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Piles To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & Co., Toronto.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

ADVERTISING RATES.

Measurement Nonpareil—12 lines to the inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions, ne.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon usual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriages and deaths, 50c each insertion. Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisements will be found in 1st column of 2nd page.

All advertisements are subject to the approval of the Publisher of the Intelligencer.

Address all communications to the Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House Limited, or to Charles J. Bowell, Managing Director and Treasurer.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s Office, 30 Fleet Street, London, E. C.

CONDENSED ADVERTISEMENTS

SITUATIONS WANTED, HELP WANTED, LOST OR FOUND, FOR SALE OR TO RENT, &c

(Auction Sales not included in this list)

TERMS.—Twenty-five words or less. 25c first insertion; two insertions 50c; four insertions, 75c; one week $1.00, two weeks, $1.75, three weeks, $2.25; one month, $2.50. Strictly cash in advance.

LOST.

Friday, July 24, a ladies' tapestry pocket book containing calling cards and receipts. Finder leave at the Intelligencer Office. Reward. 25-2td&1tw

WANTED.

For office work. One capable of keeping books and writing shorthand. Also to act as cashier. Apply at once to McIntosh Bros. 29dtf

A youth to learn the printing trade, one with slight experience would be accepted. Apply to The Intelligencer Office. 25-2t

Be independent. Employ yourself. Establish a business. Our goods are used everyday by everybody. Men make fortunes. Write G. Marshall & Co., London, Ont. 4

Agents wanted, $2.50 per day. Apply Cooper, London, Ont. s27-1y

Young men ambitious to learn lucrative trades, of which there are eight in connection with the business. Apply The Belleville Hardware Company, Belleville, Ont. a7dtf

TO RENT

House furnished or unfurnished on George street. Apply to Mrs. May, 206 George Street. 4t

TO-LET.

That new solid brick house on Yeomans street. Hard and soft water in kitchen. Good cellar, stable and garden. In perfect order. $6.—J. J. B. Flint. jy16dtf

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

Stone house, 11 rooms, coal furnace, stable, barn. Large grounds. Cor. Frank and Moira Sts. north. Terms reasonable. H. Bull, on premises or Fred Bull, 133 Yonge St., Toronto. Terms easy. ap18-dtf

FOR SALE.

Good sound 5-year-old mare. Apply Wm. Davies' Co., Front St., Belleville. j28-29

A six room frame house and a good barn 20x30, on Everett street. Apply to R. F. Miller. 5td-1tw

Shingles, shingles, dressed lumber, etc. GEO. WALTON & CO. jy14-1md

Dressed and Matched Lumber of all kinds, at ALFORD'S factory, Market Square. j12-tf

Contractors and masons, any any person requiring lime may procure it from E. G. STAPLEY, Canifton Road, Belleville. New lime always on hand. a9-d&w6m

Bowser's Escape

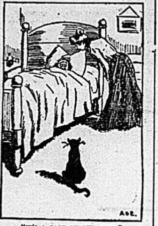
He Has a Severe Attack of the Grip, but His Life Is Spared

[Copyright, 1903, by C. B. Lewis.]

WHEN Mr. Bowser had overslept his usual hour by fifteen minutes the other morning Mrs. Bowser went up to see what was wrong. He was awake, but he had just felt a shiver pass over him and had the quilts drawn up to his chin. He had made fun of the grip a hundred times over and had even asserted that only persons of weak intellect would give up to it, but now he had a feeling that he was in for it himself.

Mrs. Bowser scanned his flushed face and felt of his pulse and quietly said:

"It's a case of the grip, and you'd better stay in bed today. Of course the grip doesn't amount to anything, but you'd better take reasonable precautions."



"IT'S A CASE OF THE GRIP."

"But it does amount to something," he contended as another shiver struck him. "I was reading last night that it had carried off over 400 people in this town alone in the last year. I want a doctor at once."

"But it is a mild attack, and you know you have often said that no person with an ounce of brains"—

"It makes no difference what I have often said. I am all of a shiver one minute and burning up the next, and my mouth is as dry as chips. Telephone the doctor at once and tell him not to be all day getting around here."

That was the beginning of the day. At 9 o'clock Mrs. Bowser brought up some tea and toast, and Mr. Bowser took a few sips of the one and nibbled at the other and said he had a feeling that he was not long for this world. His voice was very plaintive as he said it.

At half past 9 he called Mrs. Bowser up to say that his head ached, his feet were cold and he wanted a quiet funeral in case of death. She assured him that one day in bed would probably effect a cure, but he sighed and shook his head and hoped he would have his senses to the last.

At 10 o'clock the doctor arrived. Having heard Mr. Bowser disparage the grip and the medical profession combined, he felt it his duty to assume a serious look and announce that it was an aggravated case and might terminate in pneumonia.

The patient was to take three kinds of medicine, summon up all his will power and remain in bed for at least two weeks. He also inquired if Mr. Bowser had his life insured and his house in order. In taking his leave he observed that nine out of ten cases of the grip were proving fatal and that fat men were being mowed down like grass.

At 10:30 Mr. Bowser felt hot flashes and cold shivers, and a dog howled dismally in front of the house. He didn't inquire as to the color of the dog, but he felt more shivers as he heard the howls. He acknowledged that he was a crank and a kicker and begged Mrs. Bowser to turn his pillow over and forgive a dying man. He said he didn't want to be buried in Connecticut, but wouldn't raise a fuss about it.

At 11 o'clock there were more shivers, and he had a hot flatiron at his feet and a cup of hot tea; also held Mrs. Bowser's hand and said he was sorry for finding fault with the gas bill.

At 12 o'clock noon the patient complained of numbness in his knees and a buzzing in his ears. Had his pillow turned over and his feet tucked up, and Mrs. Bowser went down and chided the cook for singing, "I Would Not Live Alway."

At 1 o'clock Mr. Bowser seemed to be asleep, but as Mrs. Bowser wiped a tear off his cheek he opened his eyes and said that if he was to live his life over again he'd never buy a fire escape or a new milk cow without her consent. He would like to live on for her sake, but felt that he was called to go. More toast and tea, and he ate heartily for a dying man. Pillow turned over and the cat hustled out of the room.

At 2 o'clock the doctor came again. He looked more serious than before and sounded Mr. Bowser's lungs. Seemed to take a secret satisfaction in thumping him well. Announced that there was no sign of pneumonia yet, but advised the utmost caution against exposure or excitement. Said that most of his patients who died heard a dog howl a few hours before dissolution. It was just possible that he could pull the case through, but—As soon as he had departed Mr. Bowser had four shivers in succession and gave Mrs. Bowser a list of debts to be paid after he had become an angel.

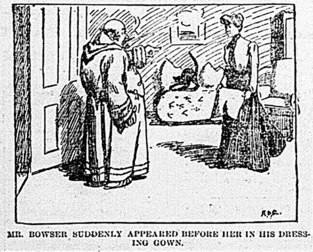
At 3 o'clock the patient tried to sing a hymn, but gave it up in the middle of the first verse and asked Mrs. Bowser if she could possibly forgive him for jawing around when the coal was out. She wiped the tears from his eyes and kissed him, and he whispered that he was sorry for calling his mother-in-law a human hyena.

At 4 o'clock the patient felt a crinkling of his toes, accompanied by a twitching of the ears, and he declared his belief that they were signs of dissolution. He recalled the fact that he had once come home and raised a great row over finding a clothespin in the front yard, and he wanted to die knowing that Mrs. Bowser had forgiven him. Forgiveness was extended, and he was assured that he had many years of life still before him. This cheered him for a moment, but a new buzzing in the ears admonished him that his stay in this cold world might be brief.

At 5 o'clock more toast and tea. While the patient ate and drank he said that he was leaving the best wife in all the world behind him and that he deserved booting for the way he had held her responsible for broken windows and burst water pipes. He spoke of the cat as if she were a human being and wondered if she would miss him; wondered how he could have ever been so foolish as to try to ride a bike.

At 6 o'clock the patient felt that pneumonia had seized him in its deadly clutch and that two hours more would witness the end; held Mrs. Bowser's hand and asked her forgiveness for saying that she had no system about housekeeping; referred to his mother-in-law again and left her several farewell messages.

At 7 o'clock, as Mrs. Bowser sat downstairs and her patient was supposed to be asleep, Mr. Bowser suddenly appeared before her in his dressing gown.



MR. BOWSER SUDDENLY APPEARED BEFORE HER IN HIS DRESSING GOWN.

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed. "But you—you"—

"Exactly, madam," he replied as he looked around for a cigar. "You and the doctor have fondly imagined all day that I was booked for Jericho, but you see me here before you, and now why in thunder are you letting that blamed old cat scratch that cover off the lounge?"

M. QUAD.

His Opinion.

Mrs. Peckem—I wonder if a man ever does get too old to marry.

Peckem—Of course not. Age doesn't always bring wisdom.—Denver News.

The Mercenary.

Go, marigold, poor flower that caught
My lady's fancy for a day,
And ask her if in vain I've sought
To teach her love as she has taught
A score of hearts to own her sway.
Tell her the passion of my thought;
Tell her that for her "Yes!" I pray;
Oh, bring not back unwelcome "Nay!"
Go, marigold.

She flings you by since I have naught
But love wherewith for love to pay!
Ah, lady, if it must be bought,
Your heart so curiously wrought,
With Mammon's coin, I can but say,
"Go, marry gold!"

—L. T. Newcross in Smart Set.

SELECTIONS

MILLIONS A MINUTE.

Greatest Loser on Record Dies In a Garret In a London Slum.

In a grimy garret in a London slum there died the other day the only man who ever succeeded in losing $25,000,000 in five minutes' time.

His name was Henri Thibault. For years prior to his death he had eked out a precarious subsistence as a translator and teacher of languages, yet thirteen years previously he had been the prime mover in the great copper corner, the collapse of which shook to its foundations the French financial world.

Thibault's idea was to secretly buy up the world's available supply of copper and wait for the inevitable rise. And he came near to succeeding.

From his office in Paris he controlled, through his agents, the markets of London, Berlin and Vienna, and in all of them he purchased every pound of copper that was offered.

The result was quickly apparent. On July 1, 1887, "B. C. B.'s" (best Chile bars) were selling at $200 a ton. By June 1 they had risen to $260, and the rise continued steadily until the middle of December, 1888, when the unheard of price of a fraction over $500 a ton was being asked and obtained.

Then came the collapse. Thibault had sunk all his own money in the venture, all he could borrow, all he could beg, and still from all sorts of odd and unexpected corners of the world copper came pouring in.

As soon as he ceased buying he had, of course, to commence selling, and this hastened and accentuated the inevitable end. By March 1 the price had dropped to less than it was when Thibault commenced operations.

Altogether the gigantic gamble cost him $50,000,000, of which sum fully one-half was lost between noon and five minutes past on Feb. 28, 1889, when the bottom dropped out of his corner.

The Kite as an Air Ship.

I have had the feeling that a properly constructed flying machine should be capable of being flown as a kite and, conversely, that a properly constructed kite should be capable of use as a flying machine when driven by its own propellers. I am not so sure, however, of the truth of the former proposition as I am of the latter.

Given a kite so shaped as to be suitable for the body of a flying machine and so efficient that it will fly well in a good breeze (say twenty miles an hour) when loaded with a weight equivalent to that of a man and engine, then it seems to me that this same kite, provided with an actual engine and man in place of the load and driven by its own propellers at the rate of twenty miles an hour, should be sustained in calm air as a flying machine. So far as the pressure of the air is concerned, it is surely immaterial whether the air moves against the kite or the kite against the air.—Alexander Graham Bell in National Geographic Magazine.

As to Laying Rails.

English railway experts seem determined to do everything in the most complicated way, as Americans prefer the simplest. For instance, Yankees lay railroad rails directly upon the sleeper. The English lay bull head rails upon metal chairs which in turn rest upon the sleepers. The result is to multiply the noise, which would be almost intolerable if English engines and cars were not such small and light affairs.

The London Transport, a technical authority, says, "It is generally admitted that the American system of laying flat bottom rails direct on sleepers makes a more elastic road than the English chair and key system, while the smoothness of running adds comfort in traveling and considerably reduces the wear and tear to rolling stock."

The Goat of the Fusileers.

In his recent gift of a goat from the royal herd to the fusileers King Edward followed the example of his royal mother, who at different times gave this famous regiment a goat, the first being presented as far back as 1845.

On that occasion it was one of a magnificent Cashmere breed, then kept in Windsor park, a herd of which was sent to Queen Victoria by the then shah. This goat, as may be expected, was highly prized and marched at the head of the regiment during a campaign in Bulgaria, afterward accompanying the fusileers to the Crimea.

Shortly after the battle of Alma the goat began to show symptoms of illness, and despite every care it finally succumbed to the inclement weather on Dec. 20, 1854, before Sevastopol.

Great Britain's Coal Supply.

Great Britain is likely to be a powerful competitor of the United States in the world's coal market for some time. According to an English expert the supply of coal yet remaining to be mined in the United Kingdom amounts to 80,684,000,000 tons, which, at the present rate of mining, would last 370 years. The same authority gives the total output of the world in 1900 as 767,636,204 tons, of which Great Britain produced 220,000,000 tons, or 30 per cent, and the United States 245,000,000 tons, leaving a balance of about 35 per cent for the rest of the world.

A Curious Accident.

A curious accident is reported from Belleville, Ill. A woman was fishing in the creek which runs through that place, and her hook caught in the clothing of a man who had been missing some days. The woman managed to get the body ashore, then fainted, fell into the creek and was drowned.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Store Closed Every Wednesday During July and August at 12 O'Clock Noon.

SUIT REDUCTIONS.

The Mantle Department again demands attention—with an offering in Misses' and Ladies' Suits.

Not a very great quantity but worthy on account of the saving it makes possible.

We've no complaints to make of this season's suit selling—it's been our best ever.

The pretty styles at moderate prices which we displayed made so favorable an impression that we have only a few left to clear.

It is the height of the wearing season—the finish of the selling. To convert these into cash quickly we have made most liberal reductions.

Only Four Misses' and Three Ladies' suits. It will need an early visit to gain advantage of this offering.

—7 Only Suits—4 Misses, 2 Navy, 2 Light Oxford—3 Ladies sizes, 32-34-36—four prices—

Regular $9 75 for $7.00 Regular $14.75 for $10 Regular $10.00 for $7.50. Regular $18 00 for $12.00.

—1 Only Ladies National Blue Shade Broadcloth Suit with silk lined Russian Blouse. Jacket and fancy vest—one of the season's handsomest styles, $29.75, for.............. $20 00.

PIQUE SKIRTS UNDERPRICED.

For this Season nothing is so cool, comfortable and serviceable as a Pique Skirt.

Rapid selling has reduced our stock to pretty near the "has been" period.

We desire to clear the remainder—just as good in every way as we have sold all season—so make these reductions.

—Plain White 7 Gore Pique Skirt with deep hem—good heavy quality—carefully made, regularly sells for $1.75, Sale price........ $1.00.
—Fine White 7 Gore Pique Skirt with flare, Centre gore trimmed with fine Embroidery Insertion, regular $2.00, Sale price........ $1.50.
—Fine White Canvas Cloth or extra quality Pique Skirt, regular $2.50, Sale price...... $1.89.
—Fine Pique Skirt with row of fancy embroidery round top of flare regular $2 75, for.... $2.13.
—7 Gore Pique Skirt trimmed wide insertion, 1 row around, 2 down front, 3 in front Gore, a very stylish Skirt, regular $3.75. Sale price........ $2.89
—White Duck with black or blue dots, self strapping on seams, piped with blue, regular $2.50. Sale price........ $1.09.

HALF PRICE MILLINERY.

Many ladies have taken advantage of our offering in Colored Millinery.

There are a few pretty creations left yet which await purchasers.

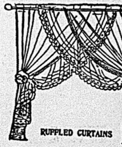
Don't know why they should be the ones left as they are just as pretty as any that have gone. Perhaps they will just suit you. If you have not already made your purchase spend a few minutes in this department.

If you make a selection you'll save as much as you spend—all colored hats are Half Price.

—Remember our Sale of straw shapes, newest styles regular 50c. to $1.50, for............ 25c.

ONE DOZEN FANCY PICNIC NAPKINS GIVEN WITH EVERY 50c. PURCHASE IN OUR MAIN STORE WEDNESDAY MORNING.

HOME DECORATIONS.



To make the home attractive a bright cosy appearance is necessary.

Dainty house furnishings will give this. Not always the most expensive make the most pleasing. Often the more moderate priced ones tastefully arranged look best.

At small cost, nothing will make quite as much improvement in the house as some style of our Bobbinet Curtains.

With their neat patterns and pretty frills they mark as high a point in window decorations as has yet been obtained.

—Newest Bonne Femme style with frills on both or one end, 54 inches wide........ $3.75 Orders taken for any size window.
—Bobbinet bed sets 4' 6" wide, 14 inch frill on sides and end. Bolsters to match, per set........ $5 50 and $6.50
—Bobbinete Curtains assorted patterns 3 yds long........ 2.25 to $4.50
—Curtain Bobbinet by the yard with 5 inch frill, 30" wide, per yard........ 25c
—Dotted Net with frill, 42" wide, per yard........ 45c
—36 inch coin spot Muslin with 4 inch frill........ 25c
—52 inch Muslin with fancy designs, 30c, 40c........ 50c yd
—5 inch frilling for edging muslin........ 10c yd

RELIABLE CORSETS

The correct, perfect fitting corset of to-day must not only be carefully but scientifically cut.

This cutting requires an artist—one who is able to fit every seam to its proper place so that pressure shall be just where it is required.

Many of the so-called straight front corsets on the market not only make unsightly figures but are positively injurious.

Ours are the product of men who have made this work a life study and are perfect in every way. They cost nothing more than the inferior grade. The difference is in the corset—not the price.

—Fine Percale or Coutil straight front corset, designed from one of the latest French models, bias cut and fully gored, trimmed with Valenciennes Lace and Ribbon, $1.00. Better quality covering $1.75
—Style B., especially designed for ladies of full figure—two hip and one front gore, made from best Lion Sateen, Lace and Ribbon trimmed, $1.00

FRONT STORE NOTES.

The many worthy bargains offered in our Main Store in connection with our Remnant Sale have kept us unusually busy.

The money saving available on worthy goods will appeal to everyone.

We mention a few of the offerings. Some are reductions from our regular stock—others are the outcome of unusual purchases.

—Still a few of our damaged pattern cloths left. If you knew what a bargain these are we are confident you would take advantage of it. Clearing at three prices—$1.00, $1 50, $2 00.
—Fine Black Silk and Velvet Belts with neat slides and buckles, 25c

Agents for Standard Patterns.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

CLOTHING BOUGHT HERE PRESSED FREE OF CHARGE

Quick & Robertson's for Fine Clothes

There's no use of disputing the fact that this store stands pre-eminent in this city as the store for Men's Fine Clothes.

With our large and pleasing varieties, up-to-date styles, and good making, we've won the trade of every man, and especially the trade of those men who are particular about the clothes they wear.

And why shouldn't we? You can't find a store that has, Ready-Made, such exclusive styles in suitings and summer garments as we are showing and everyone of them is from the best British and Canadian Mills.

Then, too, every garment is built to come up to the our high standard—built by the best makers who know how and do give close attention to important parts of tailoring—such as adjusting the collars, shaping the shoulders, proper placing of the sleeves and stays and making of the button holes.

Clothes made this way never lose their shape. And by so doing we have overcome that appearance which markes clothes as being Ready-Made.

The prices for such goodness you'd expect to be high but they are not—are no more than you would pay for ordinary sorts elsewhere.

MEN'S SUMMER FURNISHINGS

. . . . AND . . . .

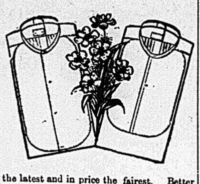
STRAW HATS

The Largest Variety assures the Easiest Choosing.

That's just what's bringing more men to this store every day—they are getting into the fact that the selections Quick & Robertson shows in every line are the largest and most liberal in town—right in every way; in quality the highest, in style the latest and in price the fairest. Better choose now while the choosing is good.

QUICK & ROBERTSON

Agents in Belleville for W. R. Johnston & Co.'s Famous Clothing.



Summer Necessities

Lawn Mowers
Lawn Hose
Lawn Rakes
Screen Doors
Screen Windows
Ice Cream Freezers
Refrigerators

The W. W. CHOWN Company. Limited

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

MODERN MIRACLES.

SOME ALLEGED REMARKABLE CURES AT ST. ANNE DE BEAUPRE.

Quebec, July 27.—A number of miracles took place at St. Anne de Beaupre yesterday. It was the occasion of the feast of the Mother of the Blessed Virgin, and was specially observed with an imposing religious ceremony. Notwithstanding that no organized pilgrimages are allowed on that special day, which is specially reserved for the fathers in charge of the shrine and the resident of the village and surrounding parishes, there were fully 7,000 people present, including the Archbishop of Quebec, Mgr. Begin, and Mgr. Lynch, Bishop of Syracuse, N.Y., together with several hundred priests from all parts of the United States and Canada.

During the morning the cures took place. Among the parties who left their crutches behind them in the church was Mr. Stevens, from North Bay, Ont., who was the victim of an accident 17 years ago, and now can walk perfectly well.

A boy named Daniel Hoey, whose father keeps the Forest Hotel at Conshohocken, Pa., who was badly deformed from the effects of sickness and had to wear an iron brace around his body, was cured and left the brace behind him in the church.

Francois Benoit from Pleasant Point, Me., lame from an accident which happened in April of last year, was also cured and left his crutches behind.

A woman totally blind had her sight partially restored, and a cripple from Halifax named McIntyre was also cured.

Heals Inflamed, Itching Skin

CURES ECZEMA, SALT RHEUM AND TETTER, LEAVING THE SKIN SMOOTH AND NATURAL.

As a means of allaying inflammation, relieving the dreadful itching and healing and curing itching skin diseases, ulcers and eruptions, we believe we can prove by the evidence of the best people in the land that Dr. Chase's Ointment is the most potent preparation that it is possible to obtain, so many extreme cases have been cured, so much intense and continued agony relieved that we challenge anyone to produce like endorsement for any ointment or any preparation which is recommended for such diseases. 60 cents a box at all dealers. 8

STARTLING RECORDS.

RESULTS OF ACCIDENTS UPON AMERICAN RAILROADS FOR 3 MONTHS ENDING MARCH 31.

Washington, July 27.—The report of the interstate commerce commission on railroad accidents in the United States for the three months ending March 31st last, shows that during that quarter 300 persons were killed and 2,834 injured in train accidents. Other kinds of accidents, including those sustained by employes at work and by passengers in getting on and off cars, make the aggregate casualties 827 killed and 11,481 injured. There were 1,650 collisions and 1,181 derailments, causing $2,491,046 damage to cars, engines and roadways.

BUY A WATERPROOF COAT.

You can see by the changeable weather how necessary it is to own a nice rain-proof coat. Take a look at people leaving the city on excursions, and nearly every man carried a waterproof. If you have not got one, the Oak Hall can supply you and at a very moderate price.

John and His Jag.

John Cunningham, of Ameliasburg, visited the city yesterday, and by indulging too freely in intoxicants got himself in trouble. Shortly before 6 o'clock he was driving about the city in a most reckless manner, and was also abusing the horse. He was arrested and the charges preferred against him were drunkenness, reckless driving and cruelty to a horse.

How the Captain Got Even.

Kingston Whig: Some persons tried to play a trick on Capt. Gaskin during the very early hours on Monday morning. They took a green flag off the Ottawa House and ran it up on the Captain's flag pole. After the sun had risen on the glorious civic holiday, Capt. Gaskin looked out of his window and saw the Emerald flag. He came forth, put on his spectacles, looked well at the pole and the waving bit of green, and decided upon a plan which he immediately put into operation. He brought forth his silk Union Jack, hauled it to the mast-head, put the green flag at half-mast, and placed orange lilies at the top of the pole, and in that way the flags flew all day to the amusement of the passersby.

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

Farmer Kicked to Death by His Horse.

SAD DEATH OF JAMES CARSCALLEN, A HUNTINGDON FARMER YESTERDAY MORNING.

Mr. James Carscallen, a yeoman, residing in the 8th concession of Huntingdon, near Ivanhoe, yesterday morning met an untimely death. Between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock he went to a field near the house to catch a horse which was pasturing He evidently caught the animal but in doing so met his death. The animal was seen to kick at him several times and the unfortunate man fell to the ground. When assistance reached Mr. Carscallen he presented a horrible sight. The horse had kicked him in the head, fracturing the skull in two or three places. He was as soon as possible conveyed to the house, but death ensued in a few minutes.

Mr. Carscallen was a well known resident of Huntingdon, where he had resided for some years. He was an industrious man and a kindly neighbor. Deceased was 39 years of age and never married, living with his brother who is also a bachelor. The late Mr. Wm. Carscallen, who resided in this city for some years, was a brother of the deceased. The unfortunate man was a member of the Methodist church. The sad affair has cast a gloom over the neighborhood.

A POST OFFICE STORY.

A CITIZEN COMPLAINS OF THE ALLEGED NON-DELIVERY OF A LETTER.

Mr. D. T. Rutledge alleges that his son, an electrical engineer, desiring a situation in Toronto, wrote to a firm there on July 2. Receiving no reply by the 13th, he left for the States. On the 27th inst. the young man's father got a letter from the local post office, addressed to his son, being from the firm referred to above, which the marks showed had been posted in Toronto on July 4 and received in Belleville on July 6. Enquiries, it is said, had been made at the Post office wicket every day, yet the letter was not handed out till twenty-one days after it was received. The young man may have lost the chance of a good situation through the non-delivery of his letter.

EVERYBODY SHOULD TAKE A VACATION.

Whether it be for a few days or a few weeks, the change of occupation, the peaceful quiet rest in the woods, or a trip through the charming lakes and rivers of "the Highlands of Ontario," breathing in the pure air, impregnated with the odor of the balsam and pines, will not only do you and your family good, but will make you of more benefit to your employer. Think of this and call on U. E. Thompson, C. P. & T. A. or T. H. Coppin, station agent, Grand Trunk Railway. j28toa8

FISHERMAN'S RING.

SOMETHING OF WHAT THE MISSING SEAL MEANS AND IS.

Rome, July 28.—The ring of the fisherman, which is said to have been stolen from the hand of the dead Pope Leo, and which is nowhere to be found in the Vatican, was the official seal used by the Pope in all his personal documents and private letters. The origin of the ring was a custom adopted many centuries ago by the Popes in order to keep alive the memory of the poor fishermen of Galilee. Every one of the Popes since that time has worn and used a signet ring which bore the device of St. Peter seated in a boat and drawing a net from the waves. The authorities as to the date of the origin of the custom are not agreed. Mabillon claims that no evidence exists as to the precise date. Bongratia says it is believed that Peter himself used this ring. The first mention of the ring occurs in a letter of Clement IV., written in 1265. Martin V., who was elected in 1417, left three briefs, all sealed by the ring of the fisherman. Eugene IV., his successor, also left letters sealed with the ring. In 1448 Gaetano Cenni wrote a treatise on the ring and published it in Rome. The custom of destroying the seal of the Pope immediately after his death is of considerable antiquity. Each Pope has had his own ring and seal. It was of plain gold, weighing one and one-half ounces, and had an oval plate, with a very shallow representation of the subject.

SPECIAL BARGAINS IN PAINTS AND OILS, ETC.

We offer for a short time the following special bargains. All the goods are guaranteed to be of the very best quality or money refunded. Pure Ready Mixed Paints, 25 cents a quart; Pure Boiled Linseed Oil, 75 cents a gallon; Genuine Pure White Lead, $5.75 per 100 pounds; Machine Oil, 35 cents a gallon; best Cylinder Oil, regular price $1 per gallon, sale 55 cents. Also special discount on Window Glass.—Alex. Ray. d&w

Sports and Pastimes

YACHTING.

A Protest Against Freaks.

Protest among yachtsmen that the present day racing "freaks" built to defend the America's Cup are a menace to the true sport of yachting has been growing since the Puritan first departed from the type of cruiser and showed the tendency to sacrifice comfort and all things else to mere speed. Successive international victories have quieted, but not killed the feeling which finds expression in a comparative illustrated article in this week's issue of the Scientific American, from which the following facts are taken:

By exaggerated overhang and deep fin keel the Reliance is made to pose as a 90-footer, that measurement being obtained from the water line when she is on an even keel, but when heeling to a breeze the defender is really a 120-footer, and were she and the Shamrock III. to be measured under a new rule adopted by the New York Yacht Club to discourage the "freak" type of boat there is no doubt whatever that the challenger would receive such a time allowance as would make the loss of the cup to America a certainty.

The Puritan carried a total sail area of 7,932 square feet; the Reliance spreads 16,247 square feet, or more than twice as much. These two radical changes have been effected by gradually increasing the overall length of the cup defenders until in the Reliance one sees a ninety-foot water line boat which is one hundred and fifty feet in total length. The stability necessary to carry twice as much sail has been obtained by making the keel, or fin, about twice as deep and the concentrating all the ballast in the bottom of the keel, twenty feet below the water line.

Since the Volunteer's time all the defenders have been built of metal instead of wood. In the Vigilant, built in 1893 by Herreshoff, many experiments were made. Tobin bronze was used instead of steel, for the hull, and hollow spars, high grade steel rope, blocks and other gear of extreme lightness made their appearance. The beom was lengthened to 100 feet and the topmast hoist to 132 feet, increasing the sail area to 11,312 square feet, or 2,000 square feet more than the Volunteer carried.

Although the Vigilant beat the Valkyrie II., in the cup races, she was subsequently, during a season in English waters, beaten eleven times out of eighteen by the deep keel cutter Britannia, a sister to the Valkyrie II., these defeats being due to superior windward work of the English boat. This experience sealed the fate of the centreboard sloop. In the Defender, the Columbia, the Constitution and the Reliance, which have followed in order, deep fin keels have been a large factor in speed qualities, and one now discovers in the Reliance a sailboat which can sail closer to the wind and at the same time faster than probably any other boat propelled by sails in the world.

But the gain in speed has been attained by great sacrifice. The hulls are made of such light material that the plates are sometimes dented in by the waves. The lightening of the rigging and the spars has been carried so far that it has resulted in many a serious accident on all the boats which might have proved fatal.

A Preacher Talks About Foot Elm.

SAYS ITS THE BEST THING FOR SCALDED OR SWEATING FEET.

'Twould be an easy thing to preach a long sermon on the merits of Foot Elm.

What Rev. P. S. Owens, Ayton, Ont., says about it, however, is short and to the point.

"I have used 'Foot Elm' and certify that it is a sure cure for scalded or sweating feet.

We would like to add that not only does Foot Elm cure scalded or sweating feet, but it eases painful, sore, chafed, blistered, aching feet. Cools hot, burning feet and gives such a sense of comfort with the feet that you can "walk and not be weary." Price 25 cents a box of 18 powders, at druggists or by mail. B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions ONE CENT A WORD. No locs charged as less than twenty-five words.

It is stated that a Miss Johnson, of Winnipeg, will be the new soprano soloist of Bridge St. Church.

This great family journal having mentioned the fact that Mr. A. Shearing would place his fine telescope at the disposal of our citizens on Monday evening, to admire that new celestial visitant, the comet, though, Mr. Shearing was quite surprised at the number of visitors whom he had to entertain.

A number of citizens were out after the finny tribe to-day, but the rain no doubt interfered with their sport.

Despite the inclement weather, the Sons of England excursion to Kingston to-day was fairly well attended.

The continuous rain during the day interfered with the various Sunday School excursions which were held at Twelve o'Clock Point.

Owing to the Magistrate's absence from the city, there was no police court to-day.

Wanted.—A youth to learn the printing trade, one with slight experience would be accepted. Apply to The Intelligencer Office. 25-2td

Pills and Sarsaparilla

The best vegetable pills you can buy are Ayer's Pills. And the best Sarsaparilla is Ayer's. Two grand family medicines.

J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc. Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mr. Ernest Ridley, of Owen Sound, is home on a visit.

Miss Myrtle Foster, of Trenton, is visiting friends in the city.

Mr. W. J. Osborne returned to Fredericton, N.B., this morning.

Mrs. C. W. Craig, of Tweed, is spending a couple of weeks in the city.

Mr. William Warham, of Toronto, is spending a few days in the city.

Mr. Chas. Good has returned to Toronto, after a visit with his parents here.

Mr. Gordon Mallory, of Colborne, has been in the city for a couple of days.

Miss L. M. Emerson, of The Intelligencer staff, is holidaying at Clifton Springs, N.Y.

Miss Carscallen, Forin St., was yesterday called to Ivanhoe, owing to the death of her uncle.

Miss Kate McFee entertained a number of the nurses at her home on Foster Avenue last evening.

Miss Berkley, now of Watford, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Berkley, Victoria Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Groves and son, Harold, left to-day for the Old Country, where they will in future reside.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Young, of Montreal, with their three little daughters, are visiting Mrs. Young's brother, Mr. George Ostrom, Sinclair St.

Mrs. D. Grass, William street, has returned home from her cottage on Crow Lake, to meet her uncle, Mr. H. N. Bartlett, accompanied by Miss Kinder, from Carmarthen, S. Wales.

Miss Edith Jones, Lady Superintendent of the Sanitarium at Gravenhurst, is in the city to enjoy, a brief respite from her responsible position.

Profs. V. P. Hunt and Angelo N. Reed, with their families, were entertained at a private picnic by Mr. D. N. Demill. Messrs. Hunt and Reed spent three years together in Germany, in the study of music, which fact makes their present reunion very pleasant.

At the Quinte:—M. Thwaite, Oshawa; R. G. Wright, M. W. Malley, C. M. Clode, C. M. Stinson, J. D. Lowden, P. R. Bullard and wife, J. C. Heaton, G. Thomas, W. Cowan, Toronto; A. T. Hicks, Trenton; E. W. Rathbun, Deseronto; H. B. Sherwood, Napanee; E. J. Holcomb, J. J. Harrison, Ottawa; C. F. DeCue, Hamilton; G. A. Caldwell, Decatur, Ill.; F. L. Farell, New York; A. B. Fisher, C. E. T. Woodley, Montreal.

SURE CURE FOR SEA SICKNESS, NAUSEA.

Maladies of this type yield instantly to Polson's Nerviline, and if you suffer periodically from these complaints, just keep Nerviline at hand. A few drops in sweetened water gives instant relief, and in the course of half an hour the cure is complete. A large 25c bottle of Nerviline in the house will save doctor bills, and a vast amount of suffering every year.

SIDNEY CROSSING.

The farmers are in the midst of their harvest. There is a good yield of grain in this vicinity with the exception of wheat, which is far below the average.

Rev. Mrs. Sexsmith and two sons took in the excursion to the islands on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Vandervoort are visiting friends in Picton.

Miss Bella Yates, of Belleville, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Agnes Lawrence, left this morning for a trip down the St. Lawrence.

Messrs. Dave McGowan and Frank Grills have their new barns nearly completed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Young spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson, of Stirling, Mr. Robinson was seriously injured in the circular saw accident last winter, and now lies in a critical condition.

Miss Maude Zwick, of Rochester, who has been visiting her cousin, Miss Carl Spafford, and other friends, has returned home.

Mr. Richard Carr, of Havelock, has been spending a few days with his brother, Mr. John Carr.

DEAF AS A DOOR NAIL. Not an uncommon expression, but quite true of many people whose hearing can be perfectly restored by inhaling Catarrhozone. It quickly relieves and cures all kinds of catarrh, catarrhal deafness, and diseases of the respiratory organs. Don't give up hope till you have tested Catarrhozone. It has restored lost hearing to thousands, and can do the same for you. Catarrhozone is a vegetable antiseptic, pleasant and convenient to use, absolutely certain to quickly benefit and ultimately cure. Two months' treatment $1.90. Small size 25c. At druggists or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE GRIT GERRYMANDER.

HOW INJUSTICE IS BEING DEALT OUT TO HASTINGS COUNTY.

The Toronto Mail and Empire has an article dealing with the Grit gerrymander of Ontario, in which the following matter, deeply interesting to Hastings County people, appears:

Here are two counties with populations differing somewhat in number, but in such a way as to entitle one to a larger representation than the other:—

Hastings......	59,291
Middlesex	54,726

It would be supposed that if one of these counties was given a larger representation than the other the fortunate county would be Hastings. But the contrary is the case. Hastings, with 59,291 people, is allowed two members. Middlesex, with 4,500 fewer people, is given three members. The reason for this discrimination is made plain by the election returns. Hastings is against Laurier by a majority of 1,567. If cut into three, three Independent members would be elected. But if cut into two, one constituency giving a Conservative majority of about 1,700 can be made, and another giving, or expected to give, a Laurier majority of about a hundred can be created. Middlesex is different. It is cut up into three, although it has a smaller population, in the hope that three Laurier supporters will be returned. In the dividing of Hastings, a suggestive geographical feat is achieved. Had the county been cut across from east to west, each constituency would have been Conservative. To form a probable Laurier constituency it has been found necessary to divide on a north and south basis. The country is thus split into two long, narrow strips. East Hastings, which is carved out for the Government, is ninety miles deep and ten miles wide! But this is not at all the most curious feature of the gerrymander. Compare Hastings with Brant:—

Hastings.........	59,291
Brant (excluding Indians)	34,970

The Indians do not count in Brant because they do not vote. Hastings with 59,291 people is given two members. Brant with 24,000 less has the same representation. Why this disparity? The explanation lies in the fact that Laurier thinks he can get two servitors, sure, from Brant. Brant is divided into two ridings. One has 19,867 people, the other 15,103. Two boroughs have actually been designed. We are carried back to the old borough system that was abolished when the principle of representation by population was adopted. But here we see the guiding policy upon which Laurier has acted—that of small constituencies where he thinks he is in favor, and of large constituencies where he knows that there is a public conscience. The ruling idea is illustrated in the case of Toronto relative to Brant, and some other constituencies of similar size. Toronto is given one member for each 45,000 people. Contrast that with Brant. Brant one member for 15,103; Toronto one member for 45,000. It is only necessary to look at the figures to understand what Laurier means by them.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY.

The uniform size of this remedy has made it the most popular preparation in use for bowel complaints. It is everywhere recognized as the one remedy that can always be depended upon and that is pleasant to take. It is especially valuable for summer diarrhoea in children and is undoubtedly the means of saving the lives of a great many children each year. For sale by all druggsst.

Killed Near Oshawa.

A G.T.R. sectionman named Gibbs was killed near Oshawa last night. How the unfortunate man met his death is not exactly known, as the remains were found lying beside the track and death had ensued some time previous.

No man or woman will hesitate to speak well of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets after once trying them. They always produce a pleasant movement of the bowels, improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion For sale by all druggists.

IT IS A PERPLEXING THING.

For the reader of newspaper advertisements to determine what is what. We do not use as large type as some, but we are sure that what we have to say is not the less important to any one who is interested in the subject of clothing at this time. Our summer suits are ready to speak for themselves, if you will but take time to inspect them, and we think you will find no fault with the prices. We are making an immense display of hot weather clothing and furnishings.—Quick & Robertson.

CHEAP TRIPS.

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay, Return fare for round through Islands from King

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

Three Days Sale
...OF...
Muslins and Ginghams.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday.

MUSLINS

All our Fancy Muslins from 10 to 15c, sale price........ 8c
All our Fancy Muslins from 20 to 25c, sale price........ 15c
All our Fancy Muslins from 30 to 50c, sale price........ 25c

GINGHAMS AND ZEPHYRS

All our Ginghams and Zephyrs from 10 to 12½c, sale price........ 8c
All our Ginghams and Zephyrs from 15 to 25c, sale price........ 12½c

If you are wanting any of the above lines you will readily understand by inspecting the stock, which contains both quality and pattern what a grand bargain is to be had during this sale.

JUST ARRIVED—New Ties, New Belts, New Collars. The very latest New York styles.

Laidlaw & Ketcheson,
DIRECT IMPORTERS

Daily Intelligencer.

THE INTELLIGENCER IS SOLD AT
J. W. London's and G. Wardhaugh's.

Local Reading Advertisements,
ords 50 cents; 2 cents per word first insertion, per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words; contracts for ong periods made at office.

NAMES THAT COUNT IN MEDICINE.

Physicians who are familiar with the stock of drugs and chemicals we carry express their appreciation freely. The names upon the packages of goods indicate to them that this is a store that stands for all that is best in pharmacy. These names might mean little to you as far as their direct significance is concerned, but they are apt to mean much to you whenever you have a prescription to be compounded. In drug store goods we provide the best.

McKeown's DRUG STORE

Snappy Ginger Snaps
10c a lb.
Lemon Snaps
20c a lb.
Vanilla Wafers and
Royal Fruit Drops, 30c a lb.
All fresh made.
CHAS. S. CLAPP

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario.
AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits, payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.
Money to Loan upon favorable terms.
OFFICE, No. 46 Bridge St., Belleville.
J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

Lost chances never leave any trail.

MONITOR

This is another fine Mantle Clock, not quite so expensive as Gadski in last week's advertisement, but fully as serviceable. It is an eight-day hour and half strike on cathedral gong, fancy columns with trimmings and drop handles, in every way a beautiful clock. Our price only $5.50.

T. BLACKBURN.
Eyes examined free of charge. Jeweller & Optician.

SPECIALS FOR THIS WEEK.

Rose Pink Flank, 10c yd	7c	10c Pair Straw Cuffs, Japanese	5c
5c Bottle Vaseline, 2 for............	5c	40c Pair Bath Towells for	27½c
5c Package Magnesia, 2 for............	5c	White and Colored Shelf Oil Cloth Scalloped, 10c yd, for............	7c
10c Package McLarens Jelly Powders, 2 for............	15c	4-4 Chenille Table Covers,............	47c
25c Belladonna Plasters, 2 for............	25c	15c Bottle Sweet Oil,............	7c
50c Rose Miracle Pills for Dyspepsia...	10c	Skinners Balsam of Ainseed,............	15c
4 Sheets Tanglefoot Fly Paper for......	5c	Hind's Honey Almond Cream, 50c, for..	33c
10c Fly Pads, 2 for	15c	D. & L. Malt Extract, 5c Bottle........	23c
8c Fly Pads, 2 for............	5c	Chases Catarrh Cure, 25c, for..........	15c
Granite Wash Basins,............	11c	Best Fruit Jar Rings, for............	5c
25c Window Screen,............	19c	Granite Preserving Kettles, from $1.25 to	20c
50c Pillow Sham Holders,............	25c	See Our 10c Tables This Week.
15c Towel Rollers	15c

McINTOSH BROS.

The Fenris Wolf.

> When of Old Hildebrand
> I asked his daughter's hand,
> Mute did the minstrel stand
> To hear my story.
> —The Skeleton in Armor.

WHEN Thjalfe Svenson pushed back the door at the Yule-tide feast in the great hall of Jarl Thjodolf Thorkelson, and entering, boldly demanded the old pagan's blessing upon his betrothal to Roskva, only daughter of the household, such angry consternation as that which flooded the elder Norseman's soul no words could adequately describe. Directly as the jarl recovered breath sufficient for words, the volley of abuse wherein his refusal was couched would be accounted a curiosity of rhetoric, in these latter degenerate days of restrained passions and tempered speech.

It was not that there could be any reasonable objection to the young viking; all Kongsvold was agreed that he was valorous and untamed enough to realize the ideal of a daughter of even this savage chieftain, known all along the outlying coasts for his past deeds of daring and bloodshed. Nay, it was nothing of the sort. Long years before the jarl met the only defeat his imperious soul had ever known at the hands of Thjalfe Svenson's warrior father. Yet more savage times those were, with petty chief pitted against chief, neighboring jarl against jarl, in wild warfare of rapine and the spear.

It was then that Sven, the elder, carried off by force the betrothed wife of Thjodolf, while the latter was absent on a raid of the country of the Gauls. From that day forward, the native land of the winsome maiden, who became the mother of Thjalfe, knew her no more. Yet the adventurous ravisher ceased never to delight himself with returning occasionally to the scene of his triumph, to taunt with his presence Jarl Thjodolf, now through a severe hip wound incapacitated for further active warfare. But the valkyries claimed him at last, upon some far-off battlefield, and Thjodolf was left to have out his old feudal grudge upon the son of his enemy.

With the devil-may-care daring of his race and calling, young Thjalfe, that night of the feast, lost not a whit of his undaunted self-assurance before the battery of six or eight score of wondering eyes turned upon him, much less the blazing ones of the refuser of his petition. Standing proudly upright, he waited for a brief space till the jarl's outburst had spent itself, his blond head defiantly erect, his broad, hairy chest rising and falling with its deep, steady respirations where the long mantle of fur, thrown back, revealed it, and his muscular right hand grasping the hilt of the Damascus blade at his side, trophy of some victorious raid upon the regions of the Mediterranean.

"What, then, since thou declinest my suit, are thy plans for the marriage of Roskva?" he asked, coolly.

The purple tide of rage crept up over the chieftain's sodden cheeks again.

"I might ask also, hound, what are those plans to thee," he answered insolently; "but since thou desirest to know, I shall betroth her to Olaf, the son of Thorvald, when he returneth from beyond the western mountains."

It was Thjalfe's turn to redden with anger.

"The black hell-skin!" he cried, savagely. "Thjodolf Thorkleson, wouldst thou marry thy daughter to a coward and a braggart? Is it not known in all Kongsvold how Olaf Thorvaldson betrayed ten of his father's followers into the hands of the Gauls, when he was wounded and a prisoner among them? I swear I would never see a daughter of the most hideous hag beyond Gjol betrothed to him! Unsay thy resolve, jarl! It is the design of a madman!"

Despite his anger, the old warrior moved uneasily in his seat. The hot words of the young viking stuck like so many thorns of truth in his consciousness, but he was too stubborn to give a sign. Old Thorvald was a chief of great possessions, and his word law in all the country which lay next the territory where he himself held sway; and since in his age and decrepitude he could never hope to make the petty sovereignty his by conquest, he had planned that it might be possessed by his children after him, if Roskva were wedded to Olaf. Then, too, he still had dreams of power out of all proportion to his present circumstances, and he knew that through Roskva, in whom his own imperious will was of divine right most faithfully reproduced, he could rule, even in his infirmity, the dominion thus acquired.

Yet at that moment a misgiving assailed him. He recalled seeing his daughter touching hands again and again with young Thjalfe, in the dance at their last merry-making, and her fair cheeks flush as his hands toyed with her floating hair—hair as beautifully long and golden as Sif's own. Was it possible that here was the secret of her delayed acceptance of Olaf's suit, in this handsome adventurer's petition? As the dark suspicion grew upon him, he sprang clumsily to his feet.

"Go!" he thundered, shaking his clenched fist in the face of his uninvited guest. "Go! Thinkest thou that I will be swayed by thy jealous slanders to give my daughter to such as thou? Never! I thrust thee from my door as I would thy robber of a father! Go!"

The partakers of the suspended festivities looked on with mouths agape to see young Thjalfe, who was in a way their hero, run the old jarl through on the spot; but they were doomed to disappointment. He waited till the last angry word was spoken, and the savage leader stood dumb; then he answered with composure perhaps not absolutely free from mockery:

"I go as befitteth a son of thine, Jarl Thjodolf, for such thou wilt yet own me. I have sworn by the sacred ring that Roskva shall be mine, as surely as Odin reigns. For this time, farewell."

And before the wrath-choked jarl could find answer, the great door closed again, and he was gone.

Somewhat to old Thjodolf's surprise, he could not readily dismiss the interview from his mind. At the end of the week, however, it was beginning, by the aid of more frequent potations than usual, to consign itself to oblivion, when one wild evening, as he sat before the great fireplace silently communing with horn and tankard, a son of one of his "bondes" pushed open the door and approached him.

"I have a message for thee," he said abruptly.

"Well?" replied the old warrior, without a turn of his head.

"The vala of Gryto sendeth thee this amulet and desireth to see thee at thy earliest opportunity," said the youth. "She hath something of great importance to say to thee," dropping as he spoke the trinket into the jarl's hand.

Old Thjodolf gave a start, and his fingers shook perceptibly as they closed over the familiar piece, a small round bit of silver, its rudely polished surface graven with an image of Thor driving his span of magic goats over the mountain tops. Many a time, sent from the prophetess by the hand of his daughter on her return from a visit to the sea-girt eyrie, or, as now, by that of one of his followers, it had been to him the precursor of great good or evil.

"Where is the vala?" he asked, turning his head.

The messenger shifted from one foot to the other, and his own eyes drooped before the piercing ones bent upon him.

"She is at the hut of Lars, the peasant," he answered.

"Thy father?" questioned Thjodolf.

"Yes," answered the messenger; and though his face still wore its uneasy expression, he went on glibly enough. "She came from her island home but two days since, and yestereven was taken suddenly ill at the home of my father. She could not come herself to warn thee of thy impending danger. She cannot leave her bed."

The jarl rose to his feet with such alacrity as his crippled limb allowed.

"I will go with thee," he said. "Hand me yonder cloak of bearskin—there is no need of our errand being known to all the household—and my skees beside it. Nay, blockhead—there! Now thou hast them. Give them hither."

The young peasant was filling his office of valet with entirely surface composure, and when presently they started out together, he managed to assuage his terror of inopportune questioning by leading the way so swiftly through the gray darkness that the jarl, puffing porpoise-like at his heels, had little breath left for conversation had he desired to use it so. Along rocky hillsides and through snow-filled valleys, over stretches of ice-sprinkled fjelds, their journey lay, with the moaning promise of storm sounding, like the wailing of displeased mountain jotuns, above them; and just as old Thjodolf was gathering breath to swear by all the gods in Asgard that he could go not a step farther, they found themselves at the door of the peasant's grass-thatched hut. Jarl Thjodolf was in ill mood to receive kindly the prophetic counsels of even the vala of Gryto, whose singularly direct forewarnings had been at once the reliance and the terror of his whole savage life. He declined haughtily the welcoming drink set before him by Lars. Yet a chill of something like fear clutched his heart, as, turning, he looked down at the vala, lying half buried in a pile of goatskins near the corner fireplace, her face carefully screened from the dancing light, and swathed in coarse bandages. What if she were about to go hence, and in the mysterious light of immortality breaking upon her inner vision, she had discerned his stubborn purpose against his own flesh and blood!

Jarl Thjodolf stood for several moments freezing inwardly, while his late guide and companion slunk away, with an overwhelming sense of relief, to the farther end of the room, whither his father and mother had respectfully withdrawn, in some embarrassment at their guest's refusal of the drinking-horn.

When the vala spoke, it was in tones so muffled that old Thjodolf, in the act of seating himself near her, must needs bend forward in order to catch her words.

"The gods are in sore distress over thee," she said, mumblingly. "The Fenris wolf hath broken his chain, and he rampeth and rageth, gnashing his teeth in such fury that the very walls of Valhalla shake upon their foundations. Evil tidings fly fast, and it hath come to his ears that thou art doing a monstrous wrong to one of thine own household."

The jarl's head and shoulders drooped suddenly forward from the low stool where he sat; his hands shook, and his eyes stared from their sockets. It was coming—he knew it! But deep in his heart the fountain of his stubborn self-will was yet untroubled. Perhaps the seeress divined as much, for she raised herself eagerly on her elbow, taking care, however, that her face was still in shadow as she clutched at the long hair that hung over it.

"He knoweth thine evil way with thine only child," she cried, "and that thy domineering will alone standeth in the way of her happiness!"

Then she sank back.

"The gods bid me tell thee that they have sought to bind the monster, and they cannot," she went on, mumbling again. "He hath turned this way—his eyes glow like the lights of the far north, and flame and smoke shoot from his nostrils. There is no power that can turn him from his path, and save thy household from destruction, except be changed thy hard-hearted purpose of giving Roskva to the man she hateth. His professed love is like the shifting sands of the sea. His are the lips of the perjurer, and he is a coward as well. The din of the battle hath no music for his ears; the feast halls of Valhalla will never know his presence. Curses shall follow where he goeth. Oh, jarl, give not thy daughter into his treacherous arms! There is another, brave and true, who loveth her, and hath won her love. Wed the twain, and thy house shall prosper and no evil come nigh it."

It was not a wise reference, this last of the vala's, to the young viking. At its utterance, the jarl sprang to his feet with a howl of rage, his fierce eyes flashing defiance; but he instantly checked himself. The vala had commenced muttering again, turning herself from side to side, as if she were weaving for him, like the nornir, some fateful web. Superstitious terror held his wild passions in check, as nothing else could have done. He turned from the vala, however, and began striding savagely, despite his lameness, back and forth across the earthen floor of the hut, his weather-beaten face working, and at intervals a smothered growl escaping him.

Lars and his family squatted like a group of images against the wall opposite, the only sign of their appreciation being an indescribable expression flitting shadow-like, now and then, across the face of the son.

The vala still muttered. Jarl Thjodolf continued to stride wrathfully up and down; but presently he paused beside the vala's couch.

"I will make a great sacrifice to all the gods," he said, with evident effort to speak calmly. "I will offer twenty goats and ten oxen, and at every Yuletide I will give from my own herds the best boar, for the atonement at the temple. I will do whatever the gods desire, save that and that only. I will never give my daughter to be espoused to the knave Thjalfe! Never, never!" his voice rising. "I hate the hound! The hag of Niflheim claim us all, but she shall be the wife of Olaf Thorvaldson, and no other!"

The vala quickly rose upon her elbow again, this time pointing with one shaking finger at the jarl, her eyes glaring wildly through her straggling locks.

"Nay, thou mockest the gods!" she quavered shrilly. "There is no other condition save this! They stoop to warn thee! The Fenris wolf——"

But her cry was cut short. Jarl Thjodolf seized his heavy cloak and skees and strode to the door, with a vigorous curse wherein near all the gods received honorable mention, and made stormy exit without even the formality of a farewell.

The vala pulled herself upright with surprising agility for one so ill, kicking the goatskins right and left in her haste. With a quick movement she plucked the shock of disheveled hair from her head and flung it far from her, revealing the baffled but undismayed face of Thjalfe, the viking. Lars sat shaking with suppressed laughter, but his wife flew to the door.

"Raise thee!" she cried to her son. "Haste thee, boy, and be after him! He is lame, and the winds promise a storm; in sooth, too, he is growing old."

The youth rose with a sullen grunt, and obeyed unwillingly. He came back after a few moments, however, and flung himself down beside the fire.

"He is not over feeble in his present passion," he said with a gruff laugh. "He shook his fist in my face when I came up with him, and threatened to fling me down the rocks if I dared follow him a step further. So I returned."

A fortnight later, Jarl Thjodolf bade his friends to a great feast in celebration of his daughter's betrothal to the man of his choice, for Olaf Thorvaldson had returned from his expedition, with all the vainglorious boasts if not the spoils of victory, and it seemed that Roskva had at last yielded to the commands of her father. There was, however, no lack among the younger men of those who railed savagely at the inconsistencies of young women in general, and derided the absent Thjalfe for a fool that he had not won the maiden whether or no, in spite of them all, instead of leaving the field so tamely; for he had not shown himself in Kongsvold since the feast at which he declared to the jarl his love and his purpose.

It was noteworthy at this second merry-making that the old warrior looked much the worse for wear. His long auburn beard was more unkempt than usual, his garments hung awry, and his eyes had contracted a habit of glancing suddenly askance, in a nervous way entirely foreign to their usual ferocious directness.

On the bench of honor next him the returned hero sat, his gloomy black eyes fixed alternately upon the occupants of the long drinking benches and the huge closed door opposite, beyond which the women of the household were assembled, the shrill clatter of their feminine treble audible, now and then, between the bursts of coarser masculine laughter, wit, and boisterous song. The scowling face of the braggart was held in small favor by the superstitious retainers of the jarl. Yet, for a wonder, to-night he was silent, and the recounting of heroic deeds devolved upon less gifted narrators, of which there were, luckily, no lack.

The feast progressed. Great tankards of ale, roast boars and huge flanks of oxen, cakes of black fladbrod, fish and fowl, and all the strange dishes of that strange land and time, crowned the plenteous board, over which the ruddy faces of the jarl's savage followers bent, and all aglow from the light of the wide, roaring fireplaces; a weird fantastic picture it appeared to the old pagan's vision, as his oft-repeated potations muddled his weakened brain, through which the vala's dreadful warning had rung, day and night, since he received it.

Cowering inwardly in dumb expectation of the fulfilment, he had ceased trying to shake off his foreboding, rather using every means of drowning it, for the present, as best he might.

If Roskva were only beside him! But she had hidden herself in some far nook of the dwelling, guarded by her maids, refusing even to be present at the betrothal, and for three days he had had not a glimpse of her face. He was beginning to long for it with a yearning unspeakable, and with pure human perversity, now that his object was attained, he almost hated the sight of Olaf's dark face. Well, at least they could both go away with Olaf, where, for the present, all danger of the Fenris wolf might be averted.

The Fenris wolf! How the very word filled him with sickening dread! Hark! What was that? A long, low roar, into whose very essence there seemed infused a creeping, stealthy presence, and which grew louder and more threatening every horrible moment, until even the drunken "bondes" one by one hushed their uproarious mirth, their faces becoming ashen as they stared wide-eyed at each other.

Jarl Thjodolf was conscious of Olaf's springing to his feet and rushing wildly out at the door behind them. Himself powerless of motion, and his face distorted with fear as those about his board, he saw the inner door unclose, and Roskva's maidens fly shrieking through the long room, while his frightened guests rose to a man as the mysterious roar still grew, encompassing them all, and rushed, stumbling, howling, from the hall. A moment later he heard, mingled with the din of their outcries, a deafening crash, as the middle wall of the dwelling toppled toward him, overborne by a great shaggy body that shot flame from every ragged outline, and surmounted by a hideous head from whose fierce eyes and wide-open jaws belched choking smoke and a thousand blinding, rolling tongues of fire. Gray ashes dropped like foam from the white-hot fangs, and wisps of the long hair curled redly around the great timbers underneath.

He felt the hot breath of the monster scorching his face as he gazed, unable to turn his eyes from the fascination of the terrible sight. Then, as one blazing paw reached out hungrily toward him, and the wide, grinning jaws stretched themselves closer, he uttered a shrill, delirious scream to the absent Thjalfe to come and take Roskva at his will, and darkness engulfed him.

When Jarl Thjodolf woke to life and reason again, he was lying on a pile of reindeer skins in the hut of one of his peasants. His long auburn hair and beard were singed close to his face, and even the bushy eyebrows that overhung his aforetime fierce eyes were burned away. The muscles of one arm were entirely useless, and it was many a day before he regained his ability to hobble about upon his crippled limb.

Neither before nor after his first sight of the charred and desolate ruins of his rude castle, did he reveal to mortal man the hallucinations of that terrible night of the feast. Yet he firmly believed that his daughter had found a tomb in the fiery maw of the monster, till one day in the long summer, a half-dozen years later, when the viking ship of Thjalfe brought back to the Norseland shores its owner and Roskva and their little Thjodolf, a sturdy, mischievous urchin of four years. In the old man's free forgiveness Thjalfe and Roskva found untold good fortune, it would seem, for they lived to good old age, honored and beloved, and the children of their children still dwell in the valley. As to the Fenris wolf—well, the code of honor in dealing with one's foes, either in love or war, was even more elastic in Thjalfe Svenson's time than it is today.—"Waverley Magazine."

8c Sale of Prints

NATHAN JONES.

This week we offer our large stock of PRINTS, bought from the best Canadian and English makers, ranging in price from 10c to 15c, all to go at 8c yd.

NATHAN JONES.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's. At Wallbridge & Clarke's

Supplies For Camp or Cruise

New York Biscuits

in "In-er Seal" pkgs.
Uneeda "Jinger" Wafers, Butter Gems, Cheese Biscuits, German Zwieback, Pretzelettes, etc., etc.

Christie's Fancy Biscuits

Fresh supplies every week — 40 varities.

Heintz's Pickles

Heintz's Celery Sauce.
Heintz's India Relish.
Heintz's Sweet Midgets.
Heintz's Sweet Pickles.

Spanish Olives

A fine assortment of Olives from 10cts per bottle up.

Campers Supplies

Essence of Coffee, Condensed Milk, Lime Juice, Raspberry Vinegar, Fancy Cheese, New Pack Lobster and Shrimps, French Sardines, Scallops, Devilled Crabs, Concentrated Soups, French Potage, Beef Extracts, etc., etc.

Pickles and Sauces

A complete assortment of English and American Pickles and Sauces, including Pickled Walnuts, Onions, Chow Chow, Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce, Yorkshire Relish, Mushroom Catsup, Harvey's Sauce, Sultana Sauce, Chutney's Capers, Durkee's Salad Dressing, etc., etc.

Delicious Teas

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious English Breakfast Teas in lead packets at 30, 40, 50 and 60cts per lb.

Canned Meats

New Packs. Finest Quality.
Whole Ox Tongues.
Lunch Tongues.
Lamb's Tongues.
Boned Chicken.
Boned Turkey.
Boned Duck.
Pate de foie.
Potted Ham.
Potted Tongue.
Sliced Dried Beef.
Ham Loaf.
Veal Loaf.
Chicken Tamales.
Lunch Beef.
Lunch Bacon.
Chicken, Ham and Tongue.
Pigs Feet.
Jellied Tenderloins.
Vienna Sausages.
Luncheon Sausages.
Baked Beans—plain or in Tomato or Chili Sauce, etc., etc., etc.

Ale and Stout, Wines, etc.

Carling's, Labatt and Davies' Dominion Ale, Bass' Ale, Dow's Sand Porter, Guinness' Stout, in prime condition.
Gurd's Ginger and Soda Water Appollinaris and Radnor Water.
Barton & Guestier's and Nath. Johnston's Bordeaux Clarets and Sauterne AT POPULAR PRICES.
Rhine Wine and Burgundy Cordials and Liqueurs.
Light Canadian Wines, red or white, at lowest prices.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
EST'D. 1871.
BRIDGE ST. Tel. 139.
Branch Store
Front St.—Tel. 157.

For Torpid Liver, Flatulence, Constipation, Biliousness and Sick Headache, TAKE

BRISTOL'S Pills

Safe, Mild, Quick-acting, Painless, do not weaken, and always give satisfaction.

eliable Household Medicine, can be taken at any season, by Adults or Children.

ggists sell "BRISTOL'S."

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 37. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JULY 30, 1903 NO. 75

A FRIGHTFUL CATASTROPHE

Two Powder Magazines Explode With Fearful Force.

More Than Twenty Persons Killed and Fifty Injured—Destruction of Scores of Dwellings at Lowell, Mass., Which Fell Like Structures of Cardboard—Thunder of Explosion Heard More Than Fifty Miles Away.

Lowell, Mass., July 30.— Two small powder magazines in the midst of the houses of fifty mill operatives exploded yesterday with a frightful concussion, and the lives of more than a score of persons were cut off and 30 others were injured. Half a dozen men who were loading kegs of powder from one of the magazines were blown to pieces, four boys 200 yards away were killed by the force of the explosion, and fourteen frame houses within a radius of 400 yards collapsed as though built of cardboards. Seven of these houses immediately caught fire and were completely consumed. At least three persons were caught in the ruins and burned to death, while seven or eight others, who were rescued, died subsequently of their injuries. It is estimated that seventy separate pieces of property, including those already mentioned, were destroyed, while the force of the explosion broke windows within a radius of five or six miles, and its thunder was heard distinctly for more than 50 miles away.

A Scene of Desolation.

The entire catastrophe occurred within five seconds, but in that time the surrounding property was swept as if a small volcano had broken forth in its midst.

Every house within 200 yards collapsed, trees were blown down, the grass within a hundred yards mowed as if by a lawn-mower, while bricks from the two magazines were hurled far across the river and all over the neighborhood.

For several minutes the air was filled with smoke and dust, through which penetrated the glare from already burning houses. Those who survived dragged themselves to what seemed a place of safety, only to be recalled by the shrieks of the less fortunate.

Two hundred yards from the second magazine the firemen came across the bodies of four little boys, who evidently were just about to have a swim when killed. A fifth member of the party was in the river when the explosion occurred and escaped injury.

Apparently when the second magazine let go, its force was expended in two directions, north and south. On the north it completely demolished the house of Wm. Riggs, about fifty yards away, fatally injuring Mrs. Riggs and badly injuring her little son.

On the other side of the magazine was a grove of trees, through which the explosion tore a path 50 feet wide for a distance of nearly 300 yards. The four little boys were caught in the centre of this path. The body of one of them was frightfully mutilated, the head being completely blown off.

Powder Mill Blew Up.

Baltimore, Md., July 30.—A despatch from New Freedom, Md., says the works of the Rockdale Powder Company at Hoffmansville, Baltimore County, blew up last night. It is reported that two persons were killed. Particulars are meagre.

FOUND ON THE TRACK.

Body of Richard Gibbs of the Oshawa Iron Works.

Oshawa, July 30.—The body of Richard Gibbs, employed by the Ontario Malleable Iron Co. here, was found yesterday morning at one o'clock on the Grand Trunk track, about a hundred yards east of Oshawa Junction. It is supposed he was run over by No. 2 passenger train. His body was terribly mangled.

Bodies Not Yet Found.

Sarnia, July 30.—The submarine diver and many men with grappling hooks were engaged all day yesterday in the search for the bodies of Mrs. Gilbert Taylor and the Thompson child, who were drowned Wednesday afternoon in the St. Clair, but no trace has been found of the victims. The search revealed the treacherous nature of the stream where Mrs. Taylor perished, as the bank was found to drop sheer twenty feet within ten or fifteen feet from the beach.

Got Men and Money, Too.

London, July 30.—If Cuba fails to float her proposed loan of $35,000,000 in the United States, she will have no difficulty in doing so here. Several British financiers who have been approached on the subject by the Marquis Demontoro, Cuban Minister to Great Britain, indicated their willingness to subscribe.

CUBAN UPRISING QUELLED.

Quartette of Wild Characters Came to Swift End.

Havana, July 30.—The efforts of a quartette of wild characters to cause an uprising in the vicinity of Bayamo, Province of Santiago, have ended in the capture of their leader and the killing of the other three men.

For weeks the four men had been endeavoring to excite the people to treason and violence on the ground that the revolutionary forces had not been and were not likely to be paid.

This effectually ends the only semblance of an uprising in Cuba.

Hawaii Wants to Be Free.

Honolulu, July 30.—At yesterday's session of the Home Rule Convention, ex-Delegate Wilcox urged that Congress be memorialized to grant Hawaiian independence. He also advocated a Government like that of Cuba. His proposals were indorsed freely, and a petition embodying the views he expressed will undoubtedly be prepared for presentation to Congress by Delegate Kalanianola.

Tossed by a Bull.

Ottawa, July 30.—Tommy Bennett, son of W. Bennett, farmer, of Kars, Carleton County, was seriously injured Wednesday, and may die as a result of being tossed on the horns of an infuriated cow. He was gouged under an eye by the animal's horn and tossed a considerable distance. His skull was fractured.

Died From Injuries.

Rodney, July 30.—Frederick Martin, who was struck by a M.C.R. fast freight here Wednesday, died yesterday morning from his injuries. Mr. Martin moved here some years ago from East Elgin, purchasing a farm near the village. He leaves a widow, four sons and a daughter.

Fatal Earth Cave-in.

Aylmer, July 30.—A very sad and fatal accident happened about noon yesterday to Alfred Moore, of Corinth. While digging with a gang of men in a ditch back of Andrew Murray's place, the earth suddenly caved in on him, killing him instantly.

Carpet Mills Close Down.

Philadelphia, July 30.—The Dobson carpet mills were closed down last night, as a result of the refusal of the loom fixers to return to work. About 900 persons are thrown out of work by the shut down.

HON. MR. BLAIR IN THE HOUSE

Late Minister of Railways Assists Sir William Mulock.

The Railway Commission Bill Considered, But It Will Take Another Day to Finish—Fast Atlantic Service Urged on the Government—Various Estimates Form a Fruitful Topic For Discussion in the Commons.

Ottawa, July 30.—Mr. Blair resumed his old seat for a few minutes in the House last night, while some finishing touches were being applied to the Railway Commission Bill. The bill had been reprinted, but some slight changes and verbal corrections were still necessary.

Sir William Mulock, who was leading the House, had the assistance of Mr. Blair while the changes were being made. The committee rose and reported progress early in the evening. Another day will be devoted to the measure, which will probably be sufficient to finally dispose of the bill.

Fast Atlantic Service.

The estimates of the Department of Trade and Commerce were considered in the House yesterday afternoon. On an appropriation of $150,000 for ocean and mail service between Canada and Britain, Sir Richard Cartwright stated that the service is performed by the Allans. Some of the steamers are subsidized to the extent of £750 per round trip. The Bavarian and Tunisian are paid £750 per round trip in summer and £1,000 in winter. Their average speed is 14 knots.

In reply to Mr. Clarke, Sir Richard said that negotiations are in progress with two or three companies for a fast Atlantic service. The question had not been dropped, but the nature of the negotiations could not be divulged to the House. Sir Richard could promise nothing better than a fourteen-knot for the next six months.

Sir Richard informed Mr. Tarte that the average duration of a trip between Rimouski and Mobile, and Halifax and Mobile is seven and a half days in summer and eight days in winter. The fastest trip was six days and sixteen hours.

Mr. Clarke asked the weight of mails carried by the Allans. He was informed that 7,330 pounds of letters and post cards and 60,759 pounds of other mail matter, a total of about 35 tons, were carried from Canada to Britain last year.

"And you pay $150,000 a year for carrying 35 tons of mail?" said Mr. Kemp.

"Yes," was Sir Richard's curt reply.

Would Attract Americans.

W. F. Maclean said that if the Government would establish a fast service between a Canadian port and Great Britain, American passengers would soon come this way. The United States would then be paying tribute to Canada, instead of Canada paying tribute to the Republic, which was now the case. "It may mean a large expenditure at the outset," said Mr. Maclean, "but it can be financed, and it would do a great deal to build up this country in the sight of Europe."

Merits of St. Lawrence Route.

There was a long discussion on the merits of the St. Lawrence route. Mr. Tarte vigorously defended the route. A large amount of money would have to be spent on it, he said, but the result would be highly advantageous to the country.

Importation of Binder Twine.

Importations of binder twine into Canada from the United States grew from 3,394,475 pounds in 1897 to 14,198,690 pounds in 1903, said the Minister of Customs in reply to a question by Mr. E. F. Clarke. The Minister of Justice said that the average price paid by the Government for manila used in the manufacture of binder twine at Kingston penitentiary grew from $4.38 per pound in 1894 to $8.75 per pound in 1903.

Agricultural Estimates.

When the estimates of the Agricultural Department were taken up there was a long discussion on the item of $720,000 for cold storage, extension of markets, etc.

Later in the day the subjects of cold storage in warehouse, car, and on shipboard were gone into at great length.

Freedom of Workmen Bill.

Ottawa, July 30.—Senator Beique moved an amendment to the bill respecting free labor in the Upper House yesterday afternoon, striking out the word "unlawful," mentioned in several clauses of the act, and changing the name of the bill to "An Act Respecting Freedom of Action of Workmen, or Affecting Free Labor." The amendment carried.

Senator Cloran moved to insert the word "unlawful" before the word "purposes." The amendment was lost.

Manitoba Catholics at Ottawa.

Ottawa, July 30.—A delegation of Winnipeg Separate School supporters is in Ottawa to urge upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier what they claim to be their rights. The delegates have arranged to meet the Prime Minister at noon to-day.

Ran Over 60-Foot Embankment.

Cleveland, O., July 30.—A work train while running at a high rate of speed near Gales Mills on the Cleveland & Eastern Electric Railway early yesterday, ran into an open switch and plunged down a 60-foot embankment, resulting in the motorman and conductor sustaining injuries that will likely prove fatal.

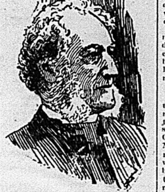
Died From Heart Failure.

Ingersoll, July 30.—Jas. Skeggs died very suddenly before 6 o'clock Wednesday night from heart failure. He was about 70 years of age and had been a resident of Ingersoll for over 35 years.

DEAN INNES DEAD.

Passing of a Model Pastor, Beloved by All Who New Him.

Hamilton, July 30. — The Very Rev. Dean Innes, London, father of John C. Innes, the artist, Toronto, died suddenly at the residence of Adam Brown, postmaster, last evening. The remains will be forwarded to London this morning.



VERY REV. DEAN INNES.

Dean Innes was born in Dorset, England, 76 years ago, and was married twice. He received his education at Mill-Hill College, England, and Sandhurst Military College, and entered the army, being stationed in the West Indies for twelve years. He then came to Canada and studied theology, and was ordained at London in 1862. In 1869 he was appointed canon of the Cathedral and dean of Huron, 1888. He was a model pastor, beloved by all who knew him, an impressive and fearless preacher, whose influence for good extended far beyond the narrow confines of the church.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. P. H. Carling and Mrs. Harkness of London, and one son, J. C. Innes.

PICTURESQUE KILLARNEY.

Bonfires Burn and Demonstrations For the King Everywhere Visible.

Dublin, July 30.—The royal yacht Victoria and Albert, with King Edward and Queen Alexandra aboard, which left Buncrena, on the north coast, Wednesday, arrived at Killarney Bay, on the west coast, yesterday. Their Majesties were accompanied by the Earl of Dudley, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. Despite the inclement weather, they landed on the Mayo side of the bay and afterwards proceeded in a motor car through this picturesque part of Ireland, inspecting many of the laborer's cottages on the way.

Last night the warships in the bay were illuminated and bonfires are burning in the surrounding hills.

Queen Alexandra has given the Earl of Dudley $2,500 for distribution among the poorest people of Dublin and other parts of Ireland.

Hungarian Deputy Bribed.

Budapest, Hungary, July 30.—Deputy Zolman Papp caused a sensation in the Lower House of the Diet yesterday by spreading on the table 10,000 Kronen in cash, which he declared had been tendered him as a bribe to desert his fellow obstructionists and leave Budapest. A parliamentary committee was appointed to investigate the matter. There were stormy scenes in the Diet when the Premier, Count Hedervary, rose to commence the debate on the indemnity bill.

Wholesale Scheme of Fraud.

St. Louis, July 30.—Henry A. Bradford was arrested here yesterday by postoffice inspectors on the charge that he was using the mails to sell fraudulent land title. Postoffice Inspector Dice said the investigation has led to the arrest of 13 other men on similar charges in different parts of the country.

Tied Up Car Lines.

Detroit, Mich., July 30.—All the street car lines in the city were tied up for more than two hours yesterday morning at the time travel is the heaviest, by a strike of 35 firemen at the power house of the Detroit United Railway. The men struck to enforce a demand for an eight-hour day, made some time ago. Outside help was rushed to the power house, and by 8 o'clock the company had a few cars running on most of the lines.

No Trace of Bodies.

Beaumaris, July 30.—There is still no trace of the three young men, Hosack, McLard and McCaughan, of Pittsburg, Pa., who are supposed to have been drowned by the capsizing of a canoe between here and Gravenhurst on Sunday.

ON EVE OF ECONOMIC FIGHT

Mr. Chamberlain Urges That Everybody Should Keep Cool.

Sugar Convention Bill Passes Its Second Reading by 224 to 144—Only When Retaliation Was Suggested by Britain Was the Nation Able to Secure Abandonment of Bounties—South African Labor Problem.

London, July 30.—The House of Commons passed the Sugar Convention Bill to its second reading by a vote of 224 to 144.

In the course of the debate on the bill Colonial Secretary Chamberlain in defending it said: "For twenty years we have been trying to secure the voluntary abandonment of bounties. It is only when we changed our policy and suggested retaliation that we secured the abandonment of bounties. It was the object for which we had struggled so long and so escaped a condition of things under which Germany and Austria would be able to regulate the price of sugar in Great Britain."

Mr. Chamberlain did not touch directly the fiscal question, but incidentally remarked: "We are on the eve of a great economic fight and it behooves everybody to keep cool as long as possible and not turn an economic into a personal fight."

Correspondence Made Public.

London, July 30.—The Parliamentary correspondence on the South African labor question was issued yesterday. Lord Milner, High Commissioner for South Africa, telegraphed Colonial Secretary Chamberlain May 12, 1903, urging the employment of 10,000 Indian coolies for work on the railways, the coolies to be forcibly repatriated at the end of their service. Secretary Chamberlain replied May 23, generally approving of Lord Milner's suggestion, but stipulating for the assent of the whole white population in South Africa.

BASEBALL WEDNESDAY.

The Eastern League.

Toronto ...... 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 1 0 0—2

Buffalo ...... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 4—6

Three-base hits—White 2, Milligan. Sacrifice hits—Brodie, Shaw, Atherton. Passed ball—Toft. Base stolen—Toft. Hit by pitcher—By Gardner 1. Bases on balls—Off Gardner 4, off Milligan 1. Struck out—By Gardner 7 (Gettman, McIntyre, Laporte 2, Hartman, Ferry 2); by Milligan 6 (Kuhns, Downey 2, Carr 2, Gardner). Left on bases—Toronto 8, Buffalo 14. Umpire—Swartwood. Time—2.10.

First game— R.H.E.

Jersey City ..... 0 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—2 5 6

Montreal .... 3 0 1 2 0 0 0 0 0—6 11 2

Batteries—Barnett and Dillon; Winham and McAuley.

Second game— R.H.E.

Jersey City .... 0 1 3 2 3 3 0 0 *—12 19 0

Montreal .... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 0 4

Batteries—McCann and Dillon; Hemming and McAuley. Umpire—Kelly. Attendance—1400.

R.H.E.

Baltimore .... 0 2 0 0 0—2 6 1

Rochester .... 1 0 3 0 0—4 8 0

Batteries—Pounds and Ahearn; Leary and Fuller. Umpire—Latham. Attendance—706.

R.H.E.

Newark .... 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 2 0—3 3 2

Providence .... 1 0 0 1 0 1 0 0 0 1—4 8 2

Batteries—Hesterfer, Moriarity, Spiesman and Thiery; Viau, Jones and Diggins. Umpire—Brown. Attendance—700.

National League Scores.

At Brooklyn— R.H.E.

Philadelphia .. 1 6 0 2 0 0 1 2 0—12 13 0

Brooklyn .... 3 1 0 0 1 2 0 0 0—7 13 3

Batteries—Duggleby, Fraser and Roth; Schmidt and Jacklitsch. Umpire—Emslie. Attendance—2500.

At Chicago— R.H.E.

Chicago .... 0 1 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 1—3 9 2

St. Louis ... 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 1 0—2 7 1

Batteries—Menefee and Kling; Brown and Ryan. Umpire—Moran. Attendance—1200.

At New York— R.H.E.

Boston .... 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 1 0—2 7 5

New York .... 0 1 3 0 0 0 0 1 0—5 9 2

Batteries—Malarkey and Moran; McGinnity and Warner. Umpire—Johnstone. Attendance—2000.

At Cincinnati— R.H.E.

Cincinnati .... 0 0 1 0 2 0 0 0 0—3 7 4

Pittsburg .... 3 0 2 1 0 0 1 0 x—7 11 1

Batteries—Harper and Peitz; Kennedy and Smith. Umpire—O'Day.

American League Results.

At Boston— R.H.E.

Boston .... 1 0 1 2 3 3 0 0 4—14 19 3

New York .... 3 3 0 0 1 3 4 0 1—15 16 8

Batteries—Chesbro, Howell and O'Connor; Young and Criger. Umpire—Sheridan. Attendance—4150.

At Philadelphia— R.H.E.

Washington. 0 0 0 0 1 1 0 2 0 0—4 8 6

Philadelphia. 0 0 4 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—4 9 2

Batteries—Wilson and Kittredge; Henley and Powers. Umpire—Hassett. Attendance—3536. Called on account of darkness.

At Detroit— R.H.E.

St. Louis ..... 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1 10 2

Detroit .... 1 0 3 0 0 0 0 1 x—5 10 1

Batteries—Siever and Sugden; Kitson and McGuire. Umpire—Connolly. Attendance—2261.

Two Men Killed

Pittsburg, Pa., July 30—During an electrical storm yesterday a number of Italians took refuge in a building in Kelly street. The building was struck by lightning and two men were killed instantly. Three others were injured, but will recover.

OPEN PORTS IN MANCHURIA.

Same Privileges to Be Given Britain and Japan by China.

London, July 30.— Following the signature of the Americo-Chinese commercial treaty, China will, it is said, grant the same open port privileges in Manchuria to Great Britain and Japan, both of which expect to establish concessions and appoint consuls at the new ports.

In British official circles confidence is expressed that the maintenance of peace will result from Russian assurances regarding Manchuria, and that there will be no interference with Chinese action in the matter.

THE REASON WHY.

Heals the throat, cures the cough, makes breathing easy,—that's why Angier's Petroleum Emulsion is prescribed by physicians for bronchitis, acute or chronic. It is pleasant to take, agrees with the stomach, and is better than emulsions made from fish oils or other fats.

CONCLAVE IS COMPLETE.

Voting For Pope Takes Place on Saturday—Sixty-Two Cardinals Are Now in Rome—Ballot Rehearsal.

Rome, July 30.—With the arrival here of Cardinal Prisco, Archbishop of Naples, the number of cardinals who will participate in the conclave is complete.

From the estimates made, the cost to the Holy See of the various ceremonies from the death of Pope Leo to the election of his successor, if it takes place within a few days, will be $400,000.

A Large Attendance.

During yesterday's meeting of the Congregation, the forms to be used in voting at the conclave were distributed among the cardinals in order that each might be able to learn how to employ his ballot. Superstitious people here find an omen in the fact that Cardinal Rampolla drew apartment number 58, which in the lottery book stands for Pope.

Should the 62 Cardinals now in Rome enter the conclave it will be the most numerously attended in history. The conclave which elected Leo was attended by 61 cardinals. In the past Popes have been elected by as low as 9.

The ecclesiastics who are to watch the sliding doors, which will be the only means of communication between the conclave and the outside world, have been requested to be present at the Vatican at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon to assume their duties. The sliding doors will only be opened between 9 and half-past 11 o'clock in the morning, and between 5 and 7 in the evening. At all other times they will be locked.

Mass For Pope and King.

Rome, July 30.—Yesterday morning at the Vatican a solemn requiem mass was intoned with all the solemnity the Catholic Church can impose, for the repose of the soul of Leo XIII., the spiritual monarch who claimed Rome as his capital, and another was celebrated in the magnificent Pantheon for the repose of the soul of the late King Humbert, the temporal monarch, the capital of whose kingdom was Rome. King Victor Emmanuel and the Dowager Queen Marguerita came here to attend the annual mass, which is celebrated on the anniversary of the assassination of King Humbert, which occurred three years ago.

A YOUNG GIRL KILLED.

Struck by Lightning While Asleep Wednesday Night.

Bracebridge, July 30—Early yesterday morning, during a heavy thunderstorm, the house of John Keall, farmer, of Macaulay Township, was struck by lightning, and his youngest daughter, Jessie, nine years of age, who was sleeping with her sister in a bedroom downstairs, was struck and instantly killed. The sister escaped unharmed.

Struck by Lightning.

Toronto, July 30.—A building owned by the Conger Coal Company at Queen street and Gladstone avenue was struck by lightning early yesterday morning, and the blaze spread to the stables. The firemen saved half a dozen horses from cremation. The loss amounted to about $1,500. The chimney of Massey Hall was hit and a number of trees also suffered.

Struck by Lightning.

Wiarton, July 30.—During a heavy electric storm here Wednesday night Mr. Thos. Lyne's barn, about a mile out, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed, together with 40 tons of hay, some live stock and all his implements. Loss about $2,500.

Barn Hit, Horse Killed.

Hastings, July 30.—The barn of Mr. James Doherty, a farmer residing in Asphodel township, was struck by lightning Wednesday night and completely destroyed. One horse that was in the barn at the time was instantly killed.

Boys Changing Places.

For years the country boys have been deserting the farms for the village, the town boys have been winning success in the cities, and the city boys have been making their mark in the metropolis. The process, however, threatens to leave the farm without its workmen. As the urban population which must be fed from the farms increases, the tillers of the soil become fewer in number and poorer in quality. Those who remain to care for the crops have one fault which the city dweller is quick to notice. The worker somehow does not put the spirit into his tasks that the eight-hour-day man in town exhibits. The city boy grows up in an atmosphere of hustle. With his ability to make every moment count, the city-bred man may get out of a farm immeasurably more than the average rural resident. Agricultural schools and a business instinct and training are not bad substitutes for farm breeding; and it will not be surprising if the next few years witness an exodus of city-bred workmen, filled with spirit and speed, to the districts which produce the original matter for all the breakfast foods.—Roy E. Downer.

SINCLAIR'S AD SINCLAIR'S AD.

Odds and Ends Sale

We are fast approaching the end of the summer season. we are already receiving and opening up New Fall Goods This means that we must have room and in order to get room we clear everything of the nature of Summer Goods.

12½ to 20c Wash Goods for 8c.

One of this week's attractions is a table of Wash Goods, including Prints, Ginghams, Drills, Muslins, etc. 12½ to 20c per yard, Thousands of yards to select from and any length you require at

8c per Yard

35c to 50c Ladies' Collars for 25c

There are about 5 Dozen of these Fancy Collars all new styles, from 35 to 50c and we place the lot on sale, your choice for 25c

59c Black Sateen Underskirts 59c

These Skirts are made of Mercerized Black Sateen of a good quality, with a 15 inch Frill, accordion plaited, were $1.25 regularly and we have 18 of them to sell at 59c each.

65c FANCY PARASOLS 65c

Parasols

We have about 30 Ladies' Fancy Parasols from $1.25 to $2.50, in a variety of styles, but all Fancies, and we clear the lot this week, your choice 65c

We sell New Idea Patterns for 10c.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO

Your money back if Gin Pills do not cure.

The Weak Spot.

In case of disease or over exertion it is the weak spot that is immediately affected. With the majority of woman the weak spot is the Kidneys. The use of Gin Pills corrects this by strengthening the Kidneys so that they do their work naturally and well.

GIN PILLS

clean, heal, purify—cure or you get your money back.
All Druggists 50 cts. per box; 6 boxes for $2.50 or direct from
THE BOLE DRUG CO. WINNIPEG, MAN.

Diarrhoea

When you want a quick cure without any loss of time, and one that is followed by no bad results, use

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy

It never fails and is pleasant and safe to take. It is equally valuable for children. It is famous for its cures over a large part of the civilized world.

OUR SALE OF MEATS

30 DAVIES STORES 30

Our Sugar Cured Hams and Bacon are far superior to what are generally sold. Fine enough to tempt the appetite of an epicure. When you want something good in the Meat line, remember that we are Headquarters for the finest BEEF, VEAL, MUTTON, and LAMB.

WHY WORRY over a hot fire when you can buy DAVIES COOKED MEATS in any quantity, sliced to your order.

The WM. DAVIES CO., Limited

Daily Deliveries. | Use 'Phone 286.

SPECIAL OFFER

MIDSUMMER CLUBBING RATES.

Two Papers to January 1st, 1904

Family Herald & Weekly Star, and the Best Home Paper—The Weekly Intelligencer, BOTH for

65 CENTS

We are making this special offer as we require 1000 new subscriptions to our Weekly.

This offer is good to new subscribers only.

ADDRESS—
The Weekly Intelligencer
BELLEVILLE, ONT.

No agents handle this offer.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's. At Wallbridge & Clarke's

Supplies For Camp or Cruise

New York Biscuits

in "In-er Seal" pkgs.
Uneeda "Jinger" Wafers, Butter Gems, Cheese Biscuits, German Zwieback, Pretzelettes, etc., etc.

Christie's Fancy Biscuits

Fresh supplies every week — 40 varities.

Heintz's Pickles

Heintz's Celery Sauce,
Heintz's India Relish.
Heintz's Sweet Midgets.
Heintz's Sweet Pickles.

Spanish Olives

A fine assortment of Olives from 10cts per bottle up.

Campers Supplies

Essence of Coffee, Condensed Milk, Lime Juice, Raspberry Vinegar, Fancy Cheese, New Pack Lobster and Shrimps, French Sardines, Scallops, Deviled Crabs, Concentrated Soups, French Potage, Beef Extracts, etc., etc.

Pickles and Sauces

A complete assortment of English and American Pickles and Sauces, including Pickled Walnuts, Onions, Chow Chow, Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce, Yorkshire Relish, Mushroom Catsup, Harvey's Sauce, Sultana Sauce, Chutney's Capers, Durkee's Salad Dressing, etc., etc.

Delicious Teas

Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious English Breakfast Teas in lead packets at 30, 40, 50 and 60cts per lb.

CannedMeats

New Packs. Finest Quality.
Whole Ox Tongues.
Lunch Tongues.
Lamb's Tongues.
Boned Chicken.
Boned Turkey.
Boned Duck.
Pate de foie.
Potted Ham.
Potted Tongue.
Sliced Dried Beef.
Ham Loaf.
Veal Loaf.
Chicken Tamales.
Lunch Beef.
Lunch Bacon.
Chicken, Ham and Tongue.
Pigs Feet.
Jellied Tenderloins.
Vienna Sausages.
Luncheon Sausages.
Baked Beans—plain or in Tomato or Chili Sauce, etc., etc., etc.

Ale and Stout, Wines, etc.

Carling's, Labatt and Davies' Dominion Ale, Bass' Ale, Dow's Sand Porter, Guinness' Stout, in prime condition.

Gurd's Ginger and Soda Water Appolinaris and Radnor Water.

Barton & Guestier's and Nath. Johnston's Bordeaux Clarets and Sauterne AT POPULAR PRICES.

Rhine Wine and Burgundy Cordials and Liqueurs.

Light Canadian Wines, red or white, at lowest prices.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
EST'D. 1871.
BRIDGE ST. Tel. 139.

Branch Store
Front St.—Tel. 157.

Daily Intelligencer.

THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC AND MANITOBA.

One would be quite safe in saying that no province in this Dominion has given so much attention to the transportation problem as Manitoba. Therefore it is of deep interest to all Canadians to see how the people of the Prairie Province view the proposition of the Laurier Government to build a great new line of railway through Manitoba, and to extend it east from Winnipeg, via Quebec, to Moncton. The Government and its newspaper claquers pretend that this is a line of tremendous national importance, offering a great, new and much-needed line of cheap transportation for the grain and other produce of Manitoba and the Northwest to the Atlantic seaboard. But what say the people of Manitoba? Do they hail the project with delight? The following extracts from an article in the Winnipeg Telegram will fairly answer that question:

> "Not the least of the reasons that led Manitoba to record so overwhelming a verdict in the recent elections was the contrast between the position taken on the Grand Trunk Pacific by the Conservatvies and that taken by the Opposition. Premier Roblin and the Conservative party in general declared without reservation against granting to the Grand Trunk Pacific promoters, franchises, capitalization, powers, and state aid for which they ask. They were supported in the position they then took by the action of the Conservative leader in the Dominion Parliament. On the other hand, Mr. Greenway, and at least one or two other Opposition leaders, gave the impression that they supported the policy of the Ottawa Government, while the remainder were silent. And the announcement made by the Ottawa Government a week or two ago of the general outline of the policy it had determined to follow, deepened the gravely unfavorable opinion formed in this province when the terms of the original Grand Trunk Pacific bill were first published."

And in closing its article on the subject The Telegram makes the following comment:

> "The policy announced by the Ottawa Government in connection with the proposed new line north of Lake Superior and the Ottawa River is too plainly disingenuous to deceive for one moment a community whose necessities have compelled it to pay attention to transportation problems and contracts. The Ottawa Government does not propose a Government line; it proposes to build a line and make a present of it for a fifty year term to the Grand Trunk Pacific. It proposes, in fact, to give the new company a cash bonus equal to the cost of the line, and then to get the people to swallow the dose by wrapping it up in transparent claptrap. The talk of securing running powers to other companies is the veriest humbug. If it were not humbug the Grand Trunk Pacific promoters would themselves be satisfied with running powers over the lines. There are further difficulties and dangers, and further absurdities in almost every other feature of the scheme.
>
> "Manitoba supports Mr. Roblin and Mr. Borden in the protests they have made, and regards with grave suspicion the evidences of the complicity of Liberal leaders in an attempt to force through a dangerous bargain, some of which evidences appeared in the attitude taken by Mr. Greenway and other prominent Liberals in Manitoba and the vote on Monday was significant of these protests and this suspicion."

The people of Manitoba appear to look on the G.T.R. scheme as a dangerous humbug, and are not backward in saying so.

Hot Peanuts.

Our Hot Peanuts are pleasing our customers.
Try them once and you will like them too.

J. ARTHUR MARSH.

As a place where the wearied can rest and recuperate with happiest surroundings the MAGI Caledonia Springs is unique.

TIMELY TOPICS

Mr. J. M. Hurley, Fishery Inspector for Eastern Ontario, in a prepared interview in the Grit organ last night, gives his opinion in regard to the petition which asks the Government to prohibit net fishing in the Bay of Quinte. Boiled down, Mr. Hurley's opinion seems to be that net fishing should not be totally prohibited, but should be allowed at no other time than at the fall of the year. To quote his own words:

"There shouldn't be a net allowed from the time the ice goes out in the spring till the middle or last of September."

* * *

It will be gratifying to many people to see that Mr. Hurley is in favor of even partially prohibiting the use of nets, but the question may be asked, Why did Mr. Hurley, who was and is paid by the Government to look after fishing interests, not make known before his opposition to indiscriminate net fishing, and recommend that it be stopped in the spring of the year? He knew our bay was being depleted of fish, yet made no remonstrance or recommendation till forced to do so by the fact that a petition to stop net fishing is now being largely signed in the Bay of Quinte district! By his own admission Mr. Hurley has been sadly remiss in his duty.

* * *

However, while conceding that Mr. Hurley SHOULD know a great deal about the fishing conditions in this district, we have yet to learn that he really does know as much about them as hundreds of other people who dwell within our gates. Nine people out of ten with whom we have talked say that net fishing should be totally prohibited for a space of at least three years. Then, they say, the Bay of Quinte would once more be what it formerly was—an angler's paradise.

* * *

However, if it can be proved to the satisfaction of the powers that be that net fishing in the fall of the year would be more beneficial than prejudicial, we believe that the signers of the petition, being reasonable men, would cheerfully agree to the modification of its terms, their object, of course, being to bring about a state of affairs redounding to the general good. On this point, however, The Intelligencer can only speak for itself.

* * *

With its customary small-mindedness, the Grit organ insinuates that in supporting the petition in question, The Intelligencer is actuated by a feeling of hostility to Mr. Hurley, and, with characteristic meanness, urges its readers to refrain from signing the petition on the ground that there is a soupcon of politics in the matter. Like most other ideas promulgated by our peculiar contemporary, the statement has no truth in it at all. The parties most anxious to have the petition drawn up were Liberals, in fact, the idea was first advanced by a well-known steamboat owner, himself a strong supporter of the present Government, and, in supporting the petition, The Intelligencer had no thought of politics at all. The fact that Mr. Hurley was called to Ottawa to explain why, as Census Commissioner, he had padded out his account in an alleged unwarranted manner, has not, so far as we can see, anything to do with net fishing in the Bay of Quinte. It is safe to say that the herring which the Grit organ tries to draw over the trail was not caught in these waters.

* * *

WHY THE CENSUS COST SO MUCH
(Brantford Courier.)

The last Dominion census cost twice as much as any other enumeration, viz., $1,300,000, and the reason for it has been disclosed in the circumstance that many of the Grit hangers on entrusted with the job were paid for days of work which they did not do.

* * *

The new comet is coming this way at the rate of eight million miles a day, and if it strikes us we won't need to care whether that new industry settles in Belleville or not.

* * *

Cardinal Gotti seems to have a good chance for the papal chair. Up to the hour of going to press, however, he hadn't yet Gottit.

* * *

In retiring Col. Montizambert on a handsome allowance the Government pays a worthy tribute to a gallant officer and gentleman, who has many admirers in this city.

* * *

We gather from the Hamilton papers that the coming summer carnival and old boys' reunion in that town will make the Carnival of Venice and Mount Pelee eruption look like the Shannonville fair.

* * *

The fact that 250,000,000 tons of coal has been discovered in the Peace River district should cause a peaceful feeling in the breasts of Canadians.

* * *

That flag incident at Trenton, while perhaps rather drastic methods were used, should be a lesson to some people in this vicinity that the good old Union Jack, in British waters, takes a back seat for no banner that ever came down the pike. Complaints of that kind of thing have been made before. It should not be necessary, in Trenton, at all events, to make them again.

* * *

Hon. Mr. Chamberlain, on the eve of an economic fight, urges everybody to keep cool. The Hon. Joe evidently is not aware of the kind of weather we are having in this part of His Majesty's dominions.

* * *

Judging by the telegraphic reports, the Royal picnicers in Ireland are not getting much better weather than obtains here on picnic days.

NEW NECKWEAR.

We have just received at the Oak Hall a large shipment of blue and white ties in all the different shapes to sell at 25 cents each. Among these will be found some 50 inch goods usually sold at 50 cents. Black silk and black satin, 50 inch strings, only 25 cents.

LATEST NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS

As Furnished to The Intelligencer by H. R. Beattie, Stock Broker.

New York, July 30.

Stock	Op'g	H'st	L'st	Close.
Atchison	62⅜	63	61¼	62⅛
do. pref ..	88⅞	88¼	88	88
St. Paul.. ..	142¼	142¼	140⅛	141¼
Mo. P.	98⅛	98⅜	97¼	98
Union. Pac .	75½	76	74¼	75
C. P. R.	123	123	122½	122¼
Suth Pac. ..	44½	44¾	43⅜	44⅛
R. I.	24⅜	25⅛	23¼	24⅜
Ills. C.	132⅛	132⅛	131¼	132⅛
Sou. Ry.	21⅛	21¼	20⅛	20¼
Texas	26½	26⅛	25¼	26
B & O.	83⅜	83⅛	82¼	83
N. Y. C.	121¼	121¼	119⅞	121¼
Penna	124	124⅛	123	123¾
Soo	53	53	51⅛	51⅛
Erie	29½	29⅛	28¼	29¼
do. pref. ...	69	69⅛	68⅛	69⅛
Reading	49½	49⅞	48⅜	49⅞
C. O.	33	33	32¼	32¼
O. & W.	23	23⅛	23	23⅛
Manhattan ..	132¼	133	132¼	133
W. C.	17¼	17⅜	17⅜	17⅜
L. & N.	104¼	105	103¾	104
A. F.	33¾	33¾	33	33
Nor.	63½	63⅛	62⅛	62½
Wab.	21¾	....	....	....
do pref. ..	37½	37⅜	36⅞	37⅜
C. G. W. ..	15⅛	15⅜	15⅛	15¼
T.C.I.	40⅛	40⅜	39¼	39⅜
U.S. S.l.	24½	24⅛	23⅛	24
do pref.....	73	73	71⅞	72¼
Sugar	115¼	115¼	114¼	115⅝
B. R. T......	45	45¼	44½	45
Po.	94⅛	94¾	93⅜	93⅜
A. C. P. ..	42⅛	42¼	40	41
Met.........	119	119⅛	117½	117⅛
A'c	18¼	18¼	18	18

Sept. wheat opened at 79⅛; closed at 79⅛
Sept. corn opened at 52⅜ : closed at 52¼

MR. ROBERT ADAMS WAS UNABLE TO DO ANY WORK FOR FOUR YEARS.

Doctors told him that he had Bright's Disease. He suffered great pain in the back, limbs swollen, dizziness, etc. He had almost given up hope of recovery. Through the kindness of a friend he was advised to try the and is now able to follow his occupation of carpenter.

O.R. KIDNEY CURE

Hamilton, Ont., June 13, 1903
The O.R. Medicine Co., Limited,
Toronto, Ont.

Dear Sir:—Through the kindness of a friend supplying me with a bottle of the O.R. Kidney Cure, I am now able to work, the first I have done in four years. I commenced improving before I had taken the first bottle, and before the third was finished I was able to start working. Before taking the O.R. Kidney Cure I tried different preparations without receiving any benefit. I feel much better now, and am sure that I have received a permanent cure.

Wishing you every success, I remain, yours very sincerely,
Robert Adams,
9 Aurora St.

O.R. Kidney Cure is put up in a liquid form, quickly assimilates and gives instant relief. Price 50c a bottle. O.R. Dyspepsia Tablets 25c a box at druggists, or write

THE O. R. MEDICINE CO.,
Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Y.M.C.A.

The steamer Annie Lake will leave Rathbun's wharf Monday, August 3rd at 8.30 a.m., with senior campers for Sandy Point, (Camp Quinte).

30-2td

N. A. SMITH'S BREAD.

We have accepted the agency for the above high class bread.

This bread is made on the most up-to-date and scientific plan and is sure to please.

We received a sample order yesterday and was very much pleased with it. Our first shipment will be on Saturday morning.

They make about ten varieties, but the leader is called Aunt Hannah's; other kinds are Crown, Homemade, Vitoes' Bakers, Wholewheat, Rye Ma Ma. Price 11c per loaf.

We also have a good supply of Weston's bread, as usual.—ED. F. DICKENS.

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

'AMERICAN' DEFENCE

NEW YORK TIMES ADMITS TITLE TO BE NOT STRICTLY ACCURATE.

It Hurts the Modesty of the United Stateser, But the Claim Is Made That It Is Generally Understood to Mean the People of the United States—Canadian a Title of Which We May Be Proud.

A friend of Canadian descent, but educated and naturalized in the United States, complains that we do injustice to his ancestors and their descendants in Canada when we speak of the people of the United States as "Americans," as distinguished from the people of the British colony—or is it colonies?—to the north of us, says the New York Times. He points out that not only are our northern neighbors inhabitants of "America," and therefore "Americans," but that their territory is considerably larger than that of the United States, excluding Alaska, all of which is entirely true, though we do not see the exact pertinency of excluding Alaska in the measurement of territory. If we are to limit the use of the word American to the designation of an inhabitant of the continent of America, the Canadian is as completely an American as a resident of New York. The designation would, of course, be strictly logical and correct. But it would also be extremely obscure and inconvenient. The inhabitants of Central and South America are as much Americans, in that sense, as ourselves or the Canadians. And even if we try to make the term a little more exact by saying "North Americans," we must include the inhabitants of Mexico. Strictly, we must also include the inhabitants of Central America, since the dividing line between the two continents lies on their southern boundary.

The poet Cowper was wont to say that he never respected the good faith of a critic of his poems so much as when the critic re-wrote his lines to show the justice of the criticism. This is an extreme demand to make of critics of verse, but it is not too much to ask of our friend who objects to our use of the word American. What better is there for its purpose? We grant that it is not entirely accurate. We confess that it is not very modest for the people of the United States to claim the sole title to it. But as a matter of fact the word in that sense is perfectly understood. It misleads no one. It corresponds to the impression the world in general has as to this continent and its various peoples. We should be quite willing to drop it if there were any single word that would take its place and convey the same meaning. But is there? Our neighbors may be clearly described as Canadians, or, if on the south, as Mexicans, and each is a title of which its bearers may well be proud. But how, other than as Americans, can the people of the United States be briefly and conveniently described and the description be at once clearly recognized? We cannot call ourselves United Statesers, and we do not wish to call ourselves Yankees, because the term was originally one of contempt and is relatively local at best.

A like miscarriage of exactness exists in the case of the Scotch, or Scots, or Scottish, who object to being called English. The word includes them in the general term, English people or the English. Politically they are subjects of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, to which, for perfect formality, some writers add the Isle of Man. Therefore, it would be more nearly correct to call them British, which term is perhaps gaining in currency. But for the greater part of the world the term "the English people" is the only one readily understood. Indeed, the French language has no word for the British as a people except "les Anglais," and the German language, though it has "Brittische" as a term of geography, offers only "Englander" as the general equivalent of the English, meaning the English people. Thus it will be seen that the selective process of the general mind of the world has given to American and to English an exclusive meaning, which is not historically or geographically accurate, but which has the supreme merit of being easily and everywhere understood. It is, of course, a tax on the naturally retiring disposition of those the world calls Americans to appropriate a name that others may with a good deal of justice lay claim to, but, so far as we can see, there is no help for it.

To Search for Wrecks in Lake Huron.

One of the most thoroughly organized hunts for lost treasures ever attempted on the great lakes is to be made on Lake Huron, where the Milwaukee Wrecking Company is preparing to search for the hulks of vessels. Representatives of the company have chartered the tug Phoenix of Oscoda, and, with another vessel to aid her, will seek wealth among the wrecks dotting the lake bottom six or seven miles off the shore. One of the most valuable cargoes is a large one of copper, lost in the early days of lake navigation. Another is of steel ingots, and still another is a cargo of whiskey, lost in a schooner bound for Mackinaw many years ago. The Milwaukee concern secured the copper cargo of the steamer Pewabic, off Alpena, after it had been in the water nearly forty years.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Explained.

A youth in a country school had very little appreciation of the talents of his teacher. The lesson was on the circulation of the blood.

"If I stand on my head," said the teacher by way of illustration, "the blood all rushes to me head, doesn't it?"

Nobody contradicted him.

"Now," he continued, "when I stand on my feet, why doesn't the blood rush to my feet?"

"Because," replied the daring youth, "your feet ain't empty."

SUNLIGHT SOAP

Unless the soap you use has this brand you are not getting the best

Ask for the Octagon Bar. 845

THE WEATHER.

To-day's Probs—

Fresh to strong winds, shifting to west and north, some scattered showers, but mostly fair and turning cooler. Friday fresh northwest to north winds, fine and cool.

To-day's Temperature

As Registered by The Intelligencer's Guaranteed Thermometer:

8 a.m.	70
12 m.	82
2 p.m.	83
3 p.m.	85

We Have the Sellers

Ladies' Sterling Silver French-Grey Hat-Pins. In these we show a variety of designs, all new, 35c to 75c.

Ladies' Sterling Silver Enamelled and French-Grey Belt-Pins. These are the very newest on the market and must be seen to be appreciated. Prices 75c to $3.50.

Ladies' Bead Guards

These are immensely popular at present in the American cities, and are certainly an improvement to any summer dress. We show some beauties in the Roman-Filled Pearls, in both long guards and short necklaces, In the Corals the long guards are 75c to $1.50 and the short necklaces 50c and $1.00

Angus McFee.
Jeweler & Optician
310 Front St.
The Store with the Big Clock.

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& HUDSON RIVER R. R.
THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.

SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.		After 1st May
Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)	12.22 p.m.	1.30 a.m
Arr. Kingston "	1.47 p.m.	3.12 a.m
Lv. Kingston (stage)..	2.30 p.m.	5.00 a.m
Arr. CapeVincent (stage)	4.30 p.m.	7.00 a.m
Lv. Cape Vincent N.Y.C.	5.05 p.m.	7.25 a.m
Arr. Watertown "	5.55 p.m.	8.25 a.m
Arr. Oswego "	9.05 p.m.	11.55 a.m
Arr. Syracuse "	9.25 p.m.	12.07 p.m
Arr. Rochester "	1.05 a.m.	2.20 a.m
Arr. Utica "	9.45 p.m.	12.35 p.m
Arr. New York "	7.25 a.m.	6.00 p.m

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C. R. R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from F. A. Folger, N.Y.C. Agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent.
New York.
A. H. SMITH, Gen'l Supt.,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

Worth it's Weight in Gold
BABY'S OWN SOAP

BABY'S OWN SOAP
keeps the most tender skin, soft, smooth, and free from chaps.
No Other is just as Good.
ALBERT TOILET SOAP CO., Mfrs. Montreal. 032

1,000 ISLANDS AND ROCHESTER.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian" leave Belleville for Thousand Islands at 3.25 a.m., daily except Mondays. Fare $1.00. Returning Str. leaves at 11.38 p.m. for Rochester, N.Y.

m26d&w3m

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R., C.S., England.
Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. J. F. MATHER
Has removed his office to Pinnacle St., three doors north of Hotel Quinte.
my29-6mw

DENTAL.

Dr. Clarke has removed to the offices formerly occupied by the late Dr. Ward, over Burrows', and opposite Scantlebury's Book Store.
a27dtf

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—2 Campbell Street.
MALCOLM WRIGHT. J. FRANKLIN WILLS.
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.
Solicitor for the City of Belleville.
Office—Metropolitan Block, Corner Front and Campbell Streets.

PORTER & CARNEW.
Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices — Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 87.
E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,
Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Office, Bridge Street, Belleville.
Money to Loan — Private Funds. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE.
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q.C.
Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, Etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent., on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire Insurance.

Guardian . . . Est'd 1821
The North America, Est'd 1792
Quebec, . . . Est'd 1818

City, Town and Village Property insure at lowest rates.
R. W. ADAMS. Agent.
Office opposite Post Office.

THOS. STEWART,
Insurance and Commission Agent.
Agent for the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Scottish Union National Insurance Co.
BRIDGE, ST.

FIRE, LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE
At Lowest Rates The Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Perth Mutual on farm and city property. Also money to loan at 4½ per cent. upwards.
JAMES A. CHISHOLM.
Office Ashley Block, · Front st., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned
can earn you money by saving it for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.
Are all strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at lower rate than other stock companies Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance.
Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont,
Lloyd's Plate Glass,
Home Life Association, Toronto,
North British & Mercantile,
Farm and City Property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation, and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan & Investment Society. Money to Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, Office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., opposite Postoffice and Hotel Quinte, Belleville,
'Phone 168.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. G. NORTHRUP,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Shire Hall, Belleville, Ont.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY,
Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the Post Office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St,
Appointments made.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

A man is generally at his heaviest in his fortieth year.

This Summer Sale

Of ours includes all fancy goods in our store at a reduction of 40 per cent. from lower prices than you can find the same goods elsewhere.

IT MEANS

$1.00 worth for 60c of any of our China, Bisque, Art Pottery, Candle Shades, Brass Tables, etc.

IT MEANS

25 per cent. off all our Wrist Bags and Chatalaines.

IT MEANS

30 per cent. off of all our framed pictures. And while we are speaking of pictures, allow us to mention a large and beautiful line of photogravieurs just placed in stock and on our bargain tables.

We mean to keep this store most interesting for the summer months, interesting in values as well as in new goods, a bright, down-to-date, summer shopping store for citizens and strangers.

In Wall Papers, also, we are offering some exceptional values, a number of clear outs. You can have at half price if they fit your room, and if you wish that we hang these papers you may depend upon us for low prices, prompt work and best workmanship.

Whether Painting, Graining, Kalsomining, Paperhanging or superior Decorating, you better have this firm do it. We are responsible and we will please you in every way.

Our Picture Framing Department is ever on the boon.

We keep a large staff busy all the time in this department and there are good reasons why we do—

Good workmanship.

Good materials.

Promptness and low prices.

These are the abundant reasons.

C. B. Scantlebury

Belleville's Decorator,
Wall Paper Wholesale and Retail.

FAST MAIL SERVICE

Bay of Quinte Route
TO
ROCHESTER N. Y.
Strs. "North King" and "Caspian"
Taking Effect 27th June.

GOING DAILY (EXCEPT MONDAY)
Lv. Belleville .... 11.38 p. m.
Ar. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 6.43 a. m
RETURNING DAILY (Except Sunday)
Lv. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 8.30 p. m.
Ar. Belleville .... 3.25 a. m.

Baggage checked to all points. Connection with all railways.

$1.00 THOUSAND ISLANDS $1.00
AND RETURN.

Commencing 28th June. Steamer leaves Belleville at 3 25 a.m. daily except Monday for 1000 Islands, calling at Bay of Quinte ports, Kingston, Alexandria Bay and Gananoque. Passing through American and Canadian channels.

Right reserved to change time with or without notice.

Full information from
THE RATHBUN CO., } Agents.
U. E. THOMPSON, }
E. E. HORSEY, G. P. & F. Agent, Kingston.

Str. "Alexandria"

Montreal, Rochester & Quebec Transit Co'y.

Popular Quebec Excursions NOW ON.

Belleville to Quebec and return.. $18 00
Belleville to Montreal and return $12.00
(including meals and berth)

Steamer runs all rapids.

For Rochester, Olcott Beach, Niagara Falls and Buffalo every Saturday at 11 a.m.

Particulars from
A. W. HEPBURN, General Manager, Picton, Ont
THE RATHBUN CO. Agents. Belleville.

The Deseronto Navigation Co

TIME TABLE.
Taking effect April 13, 1903.
Belleville, Trenton, Picton & Napanee
Str. "ELLA ROSS"

Leaves Belleville for Trenton at 10 a. m., daily, Sundays Excepted, returning leaves Trenton at 1 p. m., leaving Belleville at 3 p.m. for Deseronto, Napanee and Picton.

Quick and Superior Service to NEW YORK CITY

Steamers RESOLUTE and RELIANCE will leave Deseronto for Oswego after arrival of Str. Ella Ross connecting at Oswego with the New York, Ontario Western Ry.

Fare to New York, Single, $8.40
Return, $13.25

For further particulars apply to THE RATHBUN CO., Local Agents

J. F. CHAPMAN, Asst. Gen. Frt. Pass. Agt., Deseronto
R. C Carter, General Manager, Deseronto.

POPULAR
Saturday Afternoon Excursion
Per Steamer
ELLA ROSS
To Glen Island, Glenora and Lake on the Mountain.

Steamer leaves Rathbun's wharf at 2.30 p.m. sharp.

Will be the most enjoyable excursion of the season.

Fare, adults 25c. Children 15c.
THOS. STEWART, Bridge Street, Belleville.

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

New train 12.45 a.m., daily, except Sunday, for Brockville, Montreal and intermediate stations.
No. 16—Local, for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 2—1.45 a.m., Mail and Express, (Flyer), Daily.
No. 6—11.43 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.22 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 12—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5—3 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily except Monday.
No. 3—4.10 a.m., Limited Express, Daily.
No. 9—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 11—11.22 a.m., Passenger, Daily except Sunday.
No. 1—1.48 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7—5.12 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

Taking effect 12.01 o'clock, Sunday, June 14, 1903.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	9.10 a.m.	7.30 a.m.
Mixed	5.00 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

Ralph assented; and, dinner being over, they proceeded to visit Rolff House.

As they drew near the old place, it looked as silent and deserted as if it had not had an inhabitant in years.

They approached the great front door and the elder Saybrook placed his hand on the heavy iron knocker and sounded an alarm vigorous enough to have waked the soundest sleeper. It was some seconds before the echoes ceased reverberating through the vacant halls and rooms.

They waited; but there was no answer. The summons was repeated. Still no answer. Again and again did Anthony Saybrook repeat the knocking in the loudest possible manner, but no response came save the muffled echoes from within.

"This is strange," he muttered, testily. "What can it mean? Is it possible that Leb. has been up to some knavish prank, and left the place? Dear me! I'm afraid—I'm afraid we've made a grave mistake. There—the door is locked. Luckily I brought a key with me. There were lots of things in the house that were worth the stealing. Why was I such a fool as to trust a man I knew to be a scamp? Oh, dear! will I ever get this door open?"

The lawyer had been fumbling with unsteady hands with the lock of the door, but at last the wards flew back and the door was opened. They hastened into the house. It had flashed across Anthony Saybrook that perhaps Leb. might have taken advantage of the opportunity afforded him to break into the old vault, rob it of any valuables it contained, and make good his escape. Hence his sudden agitation.

They made a hasty search of the rooms off from the old hall, and called loudly for Leb. but there was no responce.

"Let us go down into the cellar," exclaimed the elder Saybrook, who was plainly very much dismayed and discomfited by the mysterious disappearance of Leb. "I'll warrant we'll find his traces there. Yes, yes; I know his game, the d—d rascal. But we must have a light. Where can we get a light?"

"Let us look around," interposed Ralph, who was of a less excitable nature than his father, but equally intent upon solving the mystery of Leb.'s strange actions.

After considerable search, they discovered a tinder box and the same old lantern with which Carl Crum had guided the lawyer down to the lower regions of the house on a previous occasion. The lantern had in it a piece of candle. Managing to light it, they proceeded cautiously through the dark passages and stairways down to the old cellar. The door was open, and a key in it.

They entered, and stood for a moment in a sort of trepidation, vainly casting their eyes about in an effort to pierce the darkness of that subterranean dungeon, which the feeble flame of the candle only made more visible.

Then they advanced slowly and with extreme caution in the direction of the old vault. A sudden chill of dread had struck to their hearts, inspired by the mysterious gloom of the old cellar and the reaction from the eager excitement that had led them to penetrate its depths. As they approached the vault, carefully throwing the light of the lantern ahead of them, a sight was suddenly presented to their eyes that caused them both to start back with an exclamation of horror. The form of a man was lying on the damp cellar-floor, buried beneath the weight of a huge stone that had fallen from above upon him. Summoning courage to investigate more closely, a glance showed that the form was that of Leb. Sackett. He was stone dead, and presented an appearance well calculated to excite horror even if it had been witnessed under less terrifying circumstances. The stone was across his breast, as he lay stretched upon his back; his face was twisted back and turned toward them; his glassy eyes protruded; and blood had flowed from his mouth and nostrils. It was evident that his life had been crushed out at once.

The two men glanced at each other with blank countenances.

"Ralph, this is horrible," said the elder Saybrook, as soon as he could compose himself to speak. "I did not expect any such result as this. Let us look about. Yes, yes, I see; he had been making an attempt to get into the vault. See here where he has been to work trying to break through the door. Yes, and here is where he has drilled, and fired his powder blast, only to loosen the stones above, however, and one has fallen upon him as he approached to see the effect of his operations, and crushed him to death. Strange and fatal reward of his knavery! What a spectacle! It leads one to think of the stories they tell of the Evil One keeping guard over the vault. I'm not superstitious, Ralph; but this thing unmans me. Let us get out of this. We can learn nothing further now. We must touch nothing till we notify the proper legal authorities. It's a strange tragedy. It sickens me. Let us get out."

They turned to go, when the feeble flame of the candle grew suddenly faint and then expired, leaving them in total darkness. The situation was one that might well inspire terror in the hearts of braver men. Already horrified as they were, the sudden quenching of the light threw them into a panic of fear. They scrambled for the cellar door, as though the Evil One himself were ready to seize them, tumbling over each other and falling sprawling on the cellar bottom. Fear added to their confusion, and they were some time in finding the door. But they at last succeeded in doing so, and hastened up the narrow stairs into the dark hall above. Here again they were in trouble, and some moments of fearful suspense were passed ere they discovered the stairway that led to the upper hall. They finally succeeded in gaining the door by which they had entered, and drew easier breaths.

"Whew!" exclaimed Anthony Saybrook, "that is the worst scrape that ever I got into. I wouldn't be down there again for a thousand dollars."

"No, nor for ten thousand," added Ralph. "I never was so scared in my life—I'll own to that. I'm all in a tremble, and it's lucky I did not break my neck. I've got some good bruises as it is."

"And I, too," added the elder, with rueful countenance. "Curse the old house; I'm afraid it is bound to bring us ill luck. I suspect it is the devil's property after all. But let us get home. We must have this matter attended to. Of course, this event will arouse tenfold more gossip in regard to the old place. The superstitious will be more assured than ever that it is haunted by evil spirits. I confess that Leb.'s strange death staggers me for the moment. I must have time to get over my fright before I can think clearly about it."

"One thing is certain," interposed Ralph, who had somewhat recovered his coolness by this time, the gate of the yard being passed. "Leb. has been foiled in his game of robbery, and the old vault is safe. It is good luck, after all."

"Well, perhaps so," responded the other. "But I hate terribly to be taken in by any one in such a manner. Still, as you say, it is good luck that the vault is safe, but what it contains I confess I don't know, though I suspect there is something valuable in it. This affair will make a big talk; but of course it will be seen at once that Leb. was the cause of his own destruction, or if some are superstitious enough to attribute it to supernatural means, as many no doubt will, it can make no difference to us. I suspect we will have difficulty now to get some one to put in Leb.'s place; but even if we have to lock the old house up, this event will inspire such dread that I do not believe any one will be so bold as to molest it hereafter."

Thus discussing the matter, they soon reached home, and, after a short rest and consultation, the proper authorities were notified of the tragic accident that had happened in Rolff House.

The officers of the law and a few assistants soon made ready and proceeded to the scene of the strange occurrence. They were well provided with lights, and, on investigation, the hurried surmises of Anthony Saybrook in regard to the cause of Leb.'s death were fully confirmed. He had evidently made an attempt to break in the old vault, but, failing in his first efforts, had drilled holes in the massive door and attempted to blow it out with a blast of powder. The only result had been to jar the heavy masonry, and loosen a huge stone that rested as a sort of projecting cap above the door of the vault, and, as he had approached and was probably occupied in observing the effects of the blast, the stone had given way from its position and fallen upon him, forcing him backward and crushing him beneath its weight.

The corpse was carried away, an inquest held upon it, resulting in the usual verdict of accidental death. So the would-be robber had been caught in his own trap.

To the general public, however, Leb.'s tragic ending was proof positive that Rolff House was "possessed" by evil spirits, and that the tradition that the old vault was protected by the Evil One was the sober truth. His recklessness in risking himself in such a foolhardy contest with the powers of evil was commented on with many sober shakes of the head, and all the old, well-worn stories in regard to strange occurrences at the old mansion were revived and retailed with impressive earnestness to groups of interested listeners.

As he had surmised, Anthony Saybrook could secure no one to take the place made vacant by the death of Leb. Sackett. He would not have old Carl Crum; so, trusting in the protection which the popular belief that the house was the abode of evil spirits would afford, he had it carefully closed up and left to only such occasional inspection as he and Ralph should together make.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Events drifted along a few weeks without any event to startle the community in regard to Rolff House.

The old place remained locked up and deserted, but it was better protected by the superstitious dread in which it was held than it if had a score of guards. Mr. Saybrook had sent off letters to Claude explaining and smoothing over the late events, and also taking occasion to drop him certain hints that would lead him to infer that old Mr. Bruyn's dislike to him continued and that he had used his influence to prejudice Rosa against him. He did not say this directly; in fact, he was careful not to let Claude suspect that he took any interest whatever in his love affairs; but he deftly managed to weave certain facts and hints in his letter, as if by the merest inadvertance, which the young man could not well help interpreting so as to arouse his suspicions that Rosa's love for him was already becoming cold. The wily lawyer argued that if he could arouse in the young man a feeling that he had been slighted, his naturally high spirit would probably lead him to express his resentment by affecting coolness and reserve himself. He knew that he must be anxious by this time on account of the neglect with which his letters had been treated, and full of fancies as to the reasons for it; and, by skillfully misleading him, he hoped to so arouse his sense of injured pride as to incline him to dismiss all thought of Rosa from his mind. Amid the novelty and excitement of his new life, he inferred that Claude, like most young men, would easily forget past impressions, and that, could his thoughts and feelings be turned into a new channel, his passion for the old farmer's daughter would soon be so far erased from his mind that Ralph would be left a clear field to woo and win her, no matter what turn events might take.

But Anthony Saybrook had no opportunity to learn the effect of his letter upon Claude, or whether, in fact, the young man received it at all. It was a period when the mail service between this country and Europe was particularly irregular and slow. The world was being shaken by the throes of the gigantic contest between England and the France of Napoleon, which had involved nearly all Europe, and the consequences of which were slowly but inevitably dragging the young New World republic into war. The seas were harried by the hostile fleets of the belligerents, and commerce was practically interdicted by the decrees the proud hostile nations hurled at each other, commanding the world to cease from commercial intercourse with their enemies under threat of the capture and confiscation of all ships venturing to do so. The spirit of the aspiring young Western nation illy brooked this arrogant dictation, which was destroying its growing commerce; and it had long been evident to careful observers that the outrages committed against American commerce particularly by British cruisers would sooner or later result in hostilities. In fact, the spirit of the people was already aroused to the highest pitch, and was pushing a peace-loving administration forward to the bold course of recommending the young republic to unsheath its sword as the champion of the rights of commerce.

We have seen that Anthony Saybrook had anticipated the outbreak of war. So certain was he of it, that his plans and schemes for months past had been almost entirely governed by the anticipation of its speedy occurrence. Politically, he belonged to the party that opposed such an extreme course as war, and sneered at its advocates as "French sympathizers." Personally, however, Mr. Saybrook was not a man to let his political prejudices interfere with his interests in any way. With the young heir of Rolff House away in Europe, and himself holding mortgages on portions of the estate, and with fraudulent deeds in his hands covering the most valuable parts of the property, a war would furnish an opportunity to carry out his schemes at his leisure and with the utmost chance of safety. Therefore, though in his public utterances, and in his letters to Claude, the lawyer had deprecated war and affected to doubt its probability, at heart he was eager to have it occur, and strongly convinced that its outbreak was inevitable.

So joy was brought to the household of the Saybrooks, when, with the early days of summer, the tardy mail brought the news of the actual declaration of war against England.

"You see, Ralph," remarked the elder Saybrook, after they had carefully read every word referring to the all-important topic contained in the modest news letter which brought the good news, "that my throw has been a successful one, even if it was risky, and we have won our game. Ah, my dear boy, I never did a finer piece of work in my life. This news clears every obstacle from our path, and the extent to which we shall take advantage of our opportunity rests entirely within our own discretion. The war the administration has plunged into will not be a short one, I opine. There is no doubt that it will be continued till the country is pretty well exhausted and the war spirit of the people has evaporated, and that means three or four years, in my opinion, at the least. Look at our chance. Claude is in Europe, and there is no possible chance of his either getting back to this country or communicating with it in any way while the war lasts. The mortgages are so drawn that they can be closed up at the end of a year; and I have the deeds, you know, covering the homestead and adjoining property, all regularly drawn and signed, and nobody to question their validity while he is absent. What is to prevent our taking advantage of our good fortune, and coming into possession of the Rolff property? Nothing, that I see, unless it is our own timidity. And why should we be timid? It is not likely that Fortune will ever offer us another such a chance. The risk is comparatively small. I am in favor of taking the fullest advantage of our position, and of acting promptly."

"But what if he should come back?" asked Ralph.

"Well," replied the parent, "I don't think he is very likely to come back at all. Still, the question is a fair one, and will bear consideration. Suppose the war ends in a year or two, and he comes back to find us in possession of Rolff House. He can bring suit, of course, but what can he prove? The mortgages will have matured, and we shall be the purchasers. As for the deeds, there is no possible ground to challenge their regularity. His only course would be a suit to dispossess on the ground of fraud; but with what chance of success? Our defence would be that the deeds were given as collateral security for money furnished, and he has absolutely no testimony to offer against us but his own. Don't you see how beautifully all my plans have been arranged? I can see no possible chance for failure. The probabilities all are that Claude will soon be left penniless in Europe, and, by the time he is afforded a chance to return to this country, a thousand things may have happened to take him out of our way. The longer he is away, the better for us, of course; but, in any event, as soon as we are in full possession of the property I am ready to take the chance of our keeping it."

"I quite see the weight of your arguments," replied Ralph, "and, of course, I'm in favor of a bold course. When will you record the deeds?"

"Oh, there is no immediate hurry," was the reply. "It will be well to wait the turn of events for a few weeks. My only object in hastening at all is to advance you in old Bruyn's favor. As soon as you are the recognized heir of Rolff House, you need worry no more over your interests in that direction."

"I don't worry," replied Ralph.

"Well, I am glad of it," was the reply. "Nothing is so sure to win the favor of Fortune as a cool and brave front. You have but to be cautious and persistent, my boy, to win."

"I intend to be," asserted Ralph.

(To be continued.)

The Flagging Energies Revived.—Constant application to business is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These come from stomachic troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregularities, and the stomach ceases to assimilate food properly. In this condition Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare powder, restoring the organs to healthful action, dispelling depression, and reviving the flagging energies.

The wildcat's teeth are close to its purr.

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is a speedy cure for dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera, summer complaint, sea sickness and complaints incidental to children teething. It gives immediate relief to those suffering from the effects of indiscretion in eating unripe fruit, cucumbers, etc. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to conquer the disease. No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

When one gets hopping mad his reason goes on a crutch.

Sleeplessness.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body given up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be the oblivion for a while and temporary relief. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

The average watch represents but 12 hours of human labor.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried.

Many a man's self-conceit is due to his ignorance.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility, I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one-half, the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done, it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using 3 bottles of the Vegetable Discovery, the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 68 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

Coral is a talisman against thunder and evils by flood and field.

THE PUBLIC should bear in mind that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has nothing in common with the impure, deteriorating class of so-called medicinal oils. It is eminently pure and really efficacious—relieving pain and lameness, stiffness of the joints and muscles, and sores or hurts, besides being an excellent specific for rheumatism, coughs and bronchial complaints.

All trails are long to the lazy.

These two desirable qualifications, pleasant to the taste and at the same time effectual, are to be found in Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, Children like it.

A long portage makes a heavy canoe.

To get relief from indigestion, biliousness, constipation or torpid liver without disturbing the stomach or purging the bowels, take a few doses of Carter's Little Liver Pills, they will please you.

The best way to get even is to forget.

That tired, languid feeling and dull headache is very disagreeable. Take two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring, and you will find relief. They never fail to do good.

Much talk, many lies.

They make one feel as though life was worth living. Take one of Carter's Little Liver Pills after eating; it will relieve dyspepsia, aid digestion, give tone and vigor to the system.

It takes money to voice the opinion of a lawyer.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course generally prove the fore-runner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected cold and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state, tural.

Few Flies last year
No Flies this year
If you use
Wilson's Fly Pads

RAINY WEATHER NEEDS.

What a lot of weather we are having, very hot, then rainy and cold. Whether the weater is clear or whether the weather is cloudy, the fact remains that we have waterprof coats in plenty, guaranteed to keep out the wet.

A Few Specials

We have just received a few specials that should be of interest to you. There are so many very low priced, useless coats on the market that these extra good ones at moderate prices will surely prove fast sellers. Two lines, one dark the other medium, pure rainproof, velvet collar, raglan pocket and cuffs, coats made to sell at $7.50. OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY $5.00.

A FEW BETTER

Then we have some extra good ones at $7, $8 and $10, coats that you would have to pay much more for in other stores. If you are thinking of a rainproof coat, come in and take a look around.

OAK HALL

Sole Agents for Sanfords Celebrated Clothing.

Lowest Prices
Latest Styles
Largest Variety

IN

LADIES' LOW SOHES.

The "Albani"

1 strap, 2 strap, or 4 strap.
Prices 75c, $1.00, $1.25. $1.50, $2.00.

The "Trilby"

2 Buttoned Low Shoe.
Prices $1.00, $1.25, $1.50.

The "Oxford"

Low Laced Shoe.
Prices 75c, $1,00, $1.25, $1.50 up.

Also Misses' and Children's

The J. J. Haines

SHOE HOUSES at Belleville, Napanee and Trenton

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

Paw and Maw Discuss The Yacht Race

PAW he said, "Lipton's foolish to try to win the cup."
"Why, paw, what makes you think so?" maw ast him, lookin' up.
"Because, you see," paw answered,
"there ain't no British boat
Can ever beat a Yankee as long as boards 'll float.

"He might build forty Shamrocks to bring across the sea;
The cup would still be ours," paw says to maw and me.
"My money's on the Yankee; he'll never win the prize,
Although he goes on buildin' his Shamrocks till he dies."

"I don't see why," maw answered, "he doesn't give it up.
If he's so rich why can't he just go and buy a cup?"
Then paw he looked disgusted and give a heave to port
And wouldn't even answer. Poor maw, she ain't a sport.
—Chicago Record-Herald.

Tommy's Sharpness.

"Little Tommy Judson is a sharp kid."

"What's he done now?"

"He always carries dice in his pocket so's to impress the other kids that he's a real sporting character. Well, he made the teacher mad the other day, and she called him behind the screen and said she'd have to punish him. She caught him by the collar and shook him so hard that the dice jumped out of his pocket. 'I'll report you,' he yelled. 'What for?' she asked. 'For shaking dice,' said Tommy. Then she let him go."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Considerate Husband.

"Do you really think I have appendicitis?" said Mr. Meekton.

"I must confess that I have fears in that direction."

"Well, there's one comfort anyhow. It 'll be something for my wife to brag about to the neighbors."—Washington Star.

An Unaccommodating Person.

Father—This report you have brought me from school displeases me very much.

Willie—Yes, sir. I told the teacher it would, but she's that mean she wouldn't change it.—Philadelphia Press.

To be overpolite is to be rude.—Japanese Proverb.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

The Stony Lonesome philosopher went fishing yesterday, and caught a cold and three perch about as big as over-fed sardines. To-day he is hunting up his friends, getting them to sign the petition to stop net fishing in the bay.

* * *

Here's a brilliant thought: What do we need with a public bath in Belleville when there is a fine place to swim at Twelve O'Clock Point? There's an argument the opponents of the bath never thought of.

* * *

Did you ever notice that when people send out of town for their printing they generally get what are known as "rank jobs," full of typographical errors? Funny, isn't it? Generally pay more for them, too.

* * *

Those poor M. P.'s down at Ottawa must be turning longing eyes towards the summer resorts these hot days and nights. The hot air season is prolonged this year.

* * *

It is to be hoped that deputation which went across the line won't look cross-eyed at anybody and get lynched over there. Terribly wild place, the U. S., these days.

* * *

A country correspondent writes that a resident of the village has become the proud possessor of a boy and a new wire fence. Perhaps he'll put the fence round the boy, to keep him out of mischief.

* * *

The County of Kent is the great hop-growing section of England. This year the crop is rather late and the fact has led Mr. Punch to perpetrate the following epigram:

Gazing upon the Kentish crops
I learnt this obvious thing—
You should not look for forward hops
After a backward spring.

* * *

The battleship King Edward VII., launched in England last week, is the biggest battleship in the world and the one that has cost the most —$7,500,000, a sum larger, doubtless, than the buildings of any university in the world have cost or are worth. The monster is 425 feet long, has 78 feet beam, a draught of 26 3-4 feet, 18,000 indicated horse-power and 16,350 tons displacement. Her armor belt of Krupp steel is from eight inches to twelve and one-half inches in thickness. Her armament consists of four 12-inch guns, four 9 1-2 inch guns, ten 6-inch guns and twenty-four guns of smaller calibre. She has two torpedo tubes. Her estimated speed is 12.5 knots. She carries 950 tons of coal, and she has a complement of 860 men.

* * *

The new comet, it is said, has two tails. There are evidently no flies on this comet.

* * *

A man who has tried every other method of reducing flesh, without success, has accomplished his purpose by walking up and down twelve flights of steps three times a day, which exercise he considers equal to mountain climbing. For those who cannot find twelve flights handy, any old hill will do.

CROPS IN TERRITORIES.

Total Wheat Yield Is Fifteen Million Bushels, Oats Eleven Millions, Barley One Million.

Winnipeg, Man., July 30. — The wheat crop in the Northwest Territories, and indeed all the other cereals there, is estimated to be in good condition, and to be the largest in the history of the country. The Territorial Department of Agriculture has issued Bulletin No. 8, conditions being brought down to date, July 15. The report covers the sixteen districts into which the agricultural belt is divided by the department.

The total wheat crop is estimated at 15,012,000 bushels. Last year's was 13,956,850, and the next previous 12,808,447. Before that the crop was inconsiderable. The total wheat acreage is 727,998, that of the next previous years being 625,757, and 501,697 respectively. The yield is lighter than last year, but still a good one. The Calgary district is reported as having had perfect conditions all along, and another district is ten days earlier.

The oats acreage is 365,719; the next largest being last year's, 310,367. The crop is estimated at 11,803,000, the best yet; the next largest, that of 1901, being 11,113,066.

The barley figures are: Acreage, 42,445; last year, 36,445. Crop, estimated, 1,116,300; last year, 870,417.

Flax as well is the best yet, and, indeed, shows the best of any of the other territorial crops. The acreage is 27,599, against 17,067 last year. The estimated crop is 284,500 bushels, against 258,185 bushels last year.

$5,000. Reward for the Arrest and Conviction of——the parties who originated and circulated, the rumor that "Force" Food contained drugs or other injurious ingredients.

$5,000. additional will be paid to anyone proving that "Force" does, or ever did, contain any drug or other injurious or unhealthful ingredient, being composed solely of Wheat and Barley, with a seasoning of table salt, steam cooked, flaked, and roasted.

Do us the justice, if you question the absolute purity or healthfulness of "Force," to send a package to the Health Department of your city for analysis.

The "FORCE" Food Company.

BUFFALO, N. Y.

Massachusetts College of Pharmacy.

BOSTON, June 25, 1903.

The "Force" Food Company, Buffalo, N. Y.:

GENTLEMEN—A rumor having reached me that your product, "FORCE," contained injurious ingredients, I took the occasion to analyze it, in the interest of my own family and of some friends who are liberal users of it.

It may interest you to know that I found it consisted exclusively of Whole Wheat, Barley and Salt, and is absolutely free from any injurious elements whatever.

Permit me to express my sincere regret that such a serious and baseless rumor should gain footing with the public.

You are free to use this letter in any way that will help to do your product justice.

Yours truly,
WILBUR L. SCOVILLE.

Massachusetts College of Pharmacy.

BOSTON, June 30, 1903.

To Whom It May Concern:

At the invitation of The "FORCE" Food Company, of Buffalo, I have visited their Mills and made a careful examination of the materials from which "FORCE" is prepared, and the processes which convert it into its finished condition.

I found that "FORCE" consists exclusively of what my previous analysis indicated, viz.: Whole Wheat and Barley, with a flavoring of Table Salt, flaked, cooked and sterilized by 300 degrees of heat.

A feature of the manufacture which impressed me considerably was the fact that the process is entirely mechanical, the food being prepared, cooked and boxed by machinery, without ever coming in contact with the hands or clothing of the mill operatives.

I was also gratified to note that an experienced Chemist daily supervised the entire output, and that each day's manufacture was also tested by an expert cook.

Signed, WILBUR L. SCOVILLE,
Professor of Theory and Practice of Chemistry.

Chemical Laboratory,
University of Buffalo,
HERBERT M. HILL, PH. D.,
Analytical Chemist and Assayer.

June 26, 1903.

The "Force" Food Company, Buffalo, N. Y.:

GENTLEMEN—In view of the rumors regarding the alleged adulteration of "FORCE," it has been a satisfaction to me to visit your Mills, investigate, and analyze your product.

You are free to publish this statement made over my signature, that I found "FORCE" to be absolutely pure, consisting solely of Whole Wheat and Barley, flavored with table Salt, and free from any injurious substance whatever.

I examined, in detail, the various steps in the manufacture of your product, such as the steam cooking, the flaking and the roasting, as well as the packing, and find all to be remarkably clean and of absolute healthfulness. The final roasting is done at a temperature above 300° F., which, with the steam cooking, completely sterilizes the product, and the entire process, from the first step to the final sealing of the package, is a mechanical one, the product at no time coming in contact with the hands or clothing of the persons handling the machines or packages.

Very respectfully,
HERBERT M. HILL,
Chemist to the City of Buffalo.

See page 148 of "Cereal Breakfast Foods," Bulletin No. 84, of the Maine Experiment Station, a State Institution, which has analyzed "FORCE" with other foods, in the public interests.

Copy will be mailed free on request.

Refer also to Canadian Government Bulletin 84 on similar subject, pages 6 and 29, for analysis showing that "FORCE" consists solely of the most wholesome and nutritious ingredients.

Any inquiries concerning this subject will be cheerfully answered by
THE "FORCE" FOOD COMPANY,
Buffalo, N. Y.

CANADIAN MILL, HAMILTON, ONT.

Too Practical.

Bess—Why did you break off your engagement with Jack?

Nell—I asked him to guess my age, and he did.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Lawyer at the Gate.

Up from the land of the red, white, blue
To the gate of heaven a lawyer flew.
Whether awake or in dream I'll not tell,
But truthfully narrate what to him befell.
St. Peter sat in his easy chair
Near to the portal slightly ajar,
And with never a smile, but sort of grin,
Said, "You are here and would like to get in?"
With a doff of his beaver and low salaam
Said he, "St. Peter, you're right, I am,
And would be pleased, if it suits your grace,
To have a seat in this beautiful place."
And the prelate changed to a look so grim
That for a moment it withered him.
"A lawyer, I take it," he replied,
"And ready to take up either side.
But of this take note: I swear by my sword
There 'll be no graft on the funds of the Lord."
"Apostle, soften and listen, I pray,
And give heed to what little I have to say.
I see sitting yonder by the garden wall
A brother lawyer, the good St. Paul."
Such a sorrowful look did the pleader bestow
That the gate had moved an inch or so.
When suddenly—so my story saith—
St. Peter caught a whiff of his breath.
"Keep back!" he said, with eyes aglow.
"And away from this place I want you to go.
Not at Cana's great feast was the wine
so tough
As the fumes I get from this villainous stuff.
The saints have had trouble with your kind of people,
As reports come to me from many a church steeple."
And he slammed the gate shut with this report:
"I'll continue your case till the next term of court."
—Andy Stevenson in Mansfield (O.)
News

Blackheads.

Blackheads are a mass of congested matter and dust. Obviously their cure is in cleanliness and restored circulation of the blood vessels of the face. Nothing but friction and cleanliness will prevent their return.

There Were Others.

He (dejectedly)—Is this final? Is there no hope for me?

She—Oh, there must be some hope. There are lots of other girls who are not so particular.—Philadelphia Press.

She Believed It.

Hobo Charley—Say, loidy, if dat dawg bites me he dies, see?

Lady—I believe you. I don't see how he could recover from it.—Baltimore American.

Time Limited.

Church—Will horses and wagons be allowed in the subway?

Gotham—No; not after it's covered up.—Yonkers Statesman.

Of One Kind.

"You didn't have any luck?" she said inquiringly when he returned from his fishing trip.

"None at all," he admitted.

Then she got a whiff of his breath.

"No wonder," she commented. "You must have taken all the bait yourself."—Chicago Post.

Married Life.

Lovett—You don't believe in divorce then?

Hayter—No, sir; I've got too much sportin' blood.

Lovett—What has that to do with it?

Hayter—I believe in a fight to the finish.—Catholic Standard and Times.

ODD LINES
—OF—
Boots and Shoes
AT LESS THAN COST PRICE.

Men's Canvas Low Shoes, regular price $1.25 & $1.50	75c
Men's Canvas Boots, regular price $1.25 & $1.50	$1.00
Men's Working Boots	68c
Men's $4.00 Tan Boots for	$2.00
Boys' Tan Boots, regular price $1.50 to $2.50	$1.00
Ladies' Fine Dongola Oxfords, sizes 3, 3½, 4, regular price $1.00 to $2 00	50c
Children's Slippers, regular price 75c & $1.00	35c
Girls' Calf Button Boots, sizes 11 to 2	60c

VERMILYEA & SON.

Sole Agents for the famous Queen Quality Shoe.

ONE WEEK MORE

This Sale positively ends Saturday, Aug. 1st

$5.00 Any Suit In This Great Clothing Store for $5.00

A STUPENDOUS CLOTHING OFFER WITHOUT PRECEDENT OR PARALLEL.

Some Suits $18, some $16, some $15, some $12, others $10. Just think of it! High grade, thoroughly tailored garments for Men, complete suits in fashionable fabrics, for

$5.00

This sale has been such a large success we have decided to continue it for one week more to clear out the balance of suits still left. Lots of snaps in stock yet. The earlier you come the better your choice. THIS SALE POSITIVELY ENDS SATURDAY, AUG. 1st.

The GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE.

Up-to-date Clothiers and Gents' Furnishiers, Look for the Globe Over The Door, 390 Front Street, Belleville.

Wall Paper

At first sight of our Wall Papers you will say there's an attractiveness about them that puts them lengths ahead of other lines.

IN STOCKING

we select only the best, we have no "shelf warmers" all our Papers are quick sellers. If you choose your Papers from us you have best value for the price obtainable anywhere.

Painting, Paperhanging and Decorating done on shortest notice by best workmen in the city.

JOHN CORNELIUS.

3 Doors South of Intelligencer Office.

NEW GOODS

JAPAN TEA

The first of this season's crop, exta quality, regular 50c line, we quote

40c per lb.

Canned Halibut

Fine solid Fish, very tasty,

15c per can.

J. C. Hanley & Co.

GROCERS

Telephone 214

Flowers & Vegetables

Of all kinds in season

. . . AT . . .

J. D. COLLIP'S.

'Phone 205.

Western Beef.

Prime Western Beef together with all kinds of choice meats, supplied by the district, at

C. GREEN'S

267 Front St., 'Phone 199.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

CHEAP TRIPS

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay. Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

NOTICE.

Tickets are now on sale via North Bay and Sarnia, also via lake and rail, to points on Canadian Northern Railway, Port Frances, Rainy River, Winnipeg and other points west. New fast train service has just been inaugurated on this line.

D. E. THOMPSON, City Agent, Bridge Street,
T. E. COPPIN, Depot Agent.
J. D. McDONALD, Dist. Pass Agt., Toronto.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

"Imperial Limited."

Fast tri-weekly Transcontinental service between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. Connection leaves Toronto at 1.45 p.m., Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, making run Toronto to Vancouver in 97 hours.

Upper Lake Steamships

Leave Owen Sound Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 5.30 p.m., on arrival of S.S. Express leaving Toronto at 1.30 p.m. Connections at Fort William and Port Arthur for Winnipeg and aPcific Coast points.

Daily First-Class Service Toronto to Winnipeg, Calgary, Banff and Pacific Coast.

Fully Equipped Through Tourist Cars leave Toronto Tuesday and Saturday for Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Full particulars from your nearest Canadian Pacific Agent or to

A. H. NOTMAN,
Asst. Gen. Pass. Agent, TORONTO.
S. BURROWS, C.P.R. and General Ticket Agent, Front St., Belleville.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

SELECTIONS

FOOLING THE SMOKERS.

A Vast Amount of Perique Sold, but Only a Little Raised.

"Speaking of tobacco consumption," said a diligent user of the weed who knows a few things about the business, "if imitation is the sincerest flattery in everything then Louisiana perique tobacco occupies a singularly enviable position in the world of mild narcotic pleasures. The annual production of the famous brand of tobacco is between 40,000 and 50,000 pounds, the total production of the world famous vacheries of St. James parish. Yet it is of record, according to the statement of a drummer who was recently in New Orleans, that his house uses 200,000 pounds of perique tobacco a year as an ingredient of one of the 'perique mixtures' supplied to the smoking public of America. Where the perique comes from the drummer does not know, but he knows that his house last year sold perique mixture in volume sufficient to account for the disposal of four or five times the entire production of the genuine perique crop.

"The term 'perique crop,' however, is a misnomer, for perique tobacco is not a natural product, but manufactured. A particular tobacco is grown and then treated especially, with the result of what is commercially known as perique. The many imitations with which the public are supplied are, it is said by experts, virtually the same in quality and flavor, though not the same as perique in either the original natural leaf nor in process of manipulation into marketable ways, acetic acid being used by some commercial houses, whereas the genuine perique is not subjected to the influence of any foreign matter whatever."

The Balkan Crowns.

Assassination tempered by abdication—such has been the fate of most Balkan rulers. Since the Balkan peoples were emancipated King Otho of Greece, Prince Cuza of Roumania, Prince Alexander of Bulgaria, Prince Alexander Karageorgevitch and King Milan of Servia have been forced to abdicate, while Prince Danilo of Montenegro, Prince Michael, King Alexander and Queen Draga of Servia, as well as Kara George, the Servian liberator, have been murdered.

In addition attempts were made on the lives of the late Queen Amalia and King George of Greece, as well as on the late King Milan of Servia.

Out of the sixteen Balkan rulers who have held sway during the last century four alone—two Montenegrins and Milosh Obrenovitch I. and the short lived Milan Obrenovitch II. of Servia—died peacefully on their thrones, while four are still alive. The remaining eight were all murdered or expelled, and even Milosh Obrenovitch was once compelled to abdicate temporarily.

New Stories About the Kaiser.

An anecdote about the kaiser is reported from Metz. When he was told at the railway station that 2,000 girls in the costume of the country awaited his arrival he asked the official who notified him of this fact if he must kiss them all. To the burgomaster he said, "See that they all become worthy mothers of soldiers." During a ride which the kaiser made in the neighborhood he asked his suit if it were not possible to find a grasshopper anywhere. After some search a grasshopper was found, which was carefully packed in cardboard at the kaiser's request and sent as an imperial present to the regiment of fusileers of the guard stationed at Potsdam. The explanation is that this regiment is popularly known as the Grasshoppers.

Reptiles and Water.

A Viennese naturalist, M. Werner, has been investigating the sense perceptions of reptiles and amphibians and has arrived at some unexpected results. After examination of 186 individual animals he has come to the conclusion that these creatures have some power of finding water not possessed by human beings. They seemed capable of going direct to a body of water of the existence of which they would, it appeared, have no ordinary means of knowing. According to M. Werner, the sight of the reptilia is like that of fish—distinctly limited to near objects—while their sense of hearing is very poor.

Can't Charge Too Much.

In Hungary the prices of veterinary medicines are fixed by the ministry of agriculture.

Hard Sauce For Puddings.

Cream half a cup of butter until light and white, then stir in gradually the same weight of pulverized sugar. Make up in the form of a pyramid and grate nutmeg over it. For rice or cabinet puddings.

Talk.

The normal man, who strikes an average between indifferent silence and meaningless verbosity, will talk probably one hour, all told, each day, which would allow him 2,400 words.

Easter.

Easter is the Sunday which follows that fourteenth day of the calendar moon which falls upon or next after the 21st day of March.

CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY

CAPITAL

10,000 Shares 7 per cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, par value $100 each,	$1,000,000
50,000 Shares Common Stock, par value $100, issued and fully paid	5,000,000
TOTAL CAPITALIZATION	$6,000,000

Issues of $1,000,000.00 7 p.c. Preferred Stock in 10,000 Shares of $100 each at par.

This stock is preferred both as to Assets and Dividends.

The shares are entitled to cumulative preferred dividends from the net earnings of the Company, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable half yearly on the first days of April and October. They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at $115,00 per share, at any time after 1st January, 1909.

The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000.00, the whole of which is now offered.

Subsriptions for 10,000 Shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent. Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is $100 Share, as follows

per cent on application,
25 " " on allotment,
35 " " 30 days thereafter.
35 " " 60 days thereafter.

One share of Common, par value $100, given with each share of preferred.

The whole of instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of one per cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Novia Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1,000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4000 acres of iron ore deposits, located Natashquan (tidewater) situated on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highet ever discovered, running from 69 per cent to 72 per cent in metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore has been received by the Company than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

Send for prospectus giving full information as to earnings, reports, etc., etc.

Address all communications and send subscriptions to

COLONIAL SECURITIES CO.,
62 Wall Street, New York City

OR

W. L. MARSTON & COMPANY
110 State Street, Boston

The SAWYER COMPANY.

351 Temple Building, Montreal, Canada.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Measurement, Nonpareil—12 lines to th inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line. Subsequent consecutive insertions, ne.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advance upon casual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriages and deaths, 50c each insertio

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisement will be found in 1st column of 2nd page

All advertisements are subject to th approval of the Publisher of the Intelligencer.

Address all communications to the Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House Limited, or to Charles J. Bowell, Managing Director and Treasurer.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s Office, 30 Fleet Street, London, E. C.

CONDENSED ADVERTISEMENTS

SITUATIONS WANTED, HELP WANTED, LOST OR FOUND, FOR SALE OR TO RENT, &c.

(Auction Sales not included in this list)

TERMS.—Twenty-five words or less, 25c first insertion; two insertions, 50c; four insertions, 75c; one week $1.00, two weeks, $1.75, three weeks, $2.25; one month, $2.50. Strictly cash in advance.

LOST.

Friday, July 24, a ladies' tapestry pocket book containing calling cards and receipts. Finder leave at the Intelligencer Office. Reward. 25-2td&1tw

WANTED.

For office work. One capable of keeping books and writing shorthand. Also to act as cashier. Apply at once to McIntosh Bros. 29dtf

A youth to learn the printing trade, one with slight experience would be accepted. Apply to The Intelligencer Office. 25-2t

Be independent. Employ yourself. Establish a business. Our goods are used everyday by everybody. Men make fortunes. Write G. Marshall & Co., London, Ont. 4

Agents wanted, $2.50 per day. Apply Cooper, London, Ont. s27-1y

Young men ambitious to learn lucrative trades, of which there are eight in connection with the business. Apply The Belleville Hardware Company, Belleville, Ont. a7dtf

WANTED Reliable Men in every locality throughout Canada to introduce our goods, tacking up show cards on trees, fences, along roads and all conspicuous places, also distributing small advertising matter. Commission or salary $60.00 per month and expenses, not to exceed $2.50 per day. Steady employment to good, honest reliable men. No experience needful. Write for full particulars. THE EMPIRE MEDICINE CO., London, Ont.

TO RENT

House furnished or unfurnished on George street. Apply to Mrs. May, 206 George Street. 4t

TO-LET.

That new solid brick house on Yeomans street. Hard and soft water in kitchen. Good cellar, stable and garden. In perfect order. $6.—J. J. B. Flint. jy16dtf

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

Stone house, 11 rooms, coal furnace, stable, barn. Large grounds. Cor. Frank and Moira Sts. north. Terms reasonable. H. Bull, on premises or Fred Bull, 133 Yonge St., Toronto. Terms easy. ap18-dtf

FOR SALE.

A six room frame house and a good barn 20x30, on Everett street. Apply to R. F. Miller. 5td-1tw

Farm.—Reasonable price, Front road, Sidney, lot 33, 1st concession, 55 acres. Land under good cultivation, well watered. Orchard, farm buildings. No living house, one mile from Belleville. Part of Cornelius Davis' farm. Apply to G. W. BATES, Box 51, Belleville, on premises, or to FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE, Barrister. dj30,a1&3tw

Shingles, shingles, dressed lumber, etc. GEO. WALTON & CO. jy14-1md

Dressed and Matched Lumber of all kinds, at ALFORD'S factory, Market Square. j12-tf

Contractors and masons, any any person requiring lime may procure it from E. G. STAPLEY, Canifton Road, Belleville. New lime always on hand. a9-d&w6m

Mothers

Have a bottle of

Dr. Butler's Blackberry Cordial

Always on hand. Finest medicine for Dysentery and all like diseases in children. The first dose effective. Never fails. Safe and sure. Pleasant to take.

sold only at

WATERS'

SAVE MONEY

By JOINING The

MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB OF AMERICA

25 Cents pays for three months' membership. Each member receives the official club organ every month, including 6 pieces of high-class vocal and instrumental new music each month, 18 pieces in all; also a Certificate of Membership which gives the privilege of Club Room in New York City, and of buying literature, music or musical instruments of any description at wholesale prices, saving you from 20% to 60% on your purchases. Don't fail to join at once. You will get much more than your money's worth. MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB, Dept. , 150 Nassau St., N.Y.

Has Won the Golden Opinion

of thousands of Japan tea drinkers.

"SALADA"

CEYLON NATURAL GREEN tea is all pure tea leaves without any adulteration whatever. It's as far ahead of Japan tea as "SALADA" Black is ahead of all other black teas. Sealed lead packets only. 25c and 40c per lb. By all grocers.

DOMINION E. BITION

1903 - TORONTO - 1903

AUG. 27th to SEPT. 12th

The Agricultural, Manufacturing and Natural resources of Canada will be exhibited on a scale never before attempted.

DAILY PARADES OF LIVE STOCK

E R

In addition, by order of HIS MAJESTY THE KING

THE JUBILEE PRESENTS

of his august mother, the late Queen Victoria, will be exhibited FREE, as well as, by permission of the Dowager Duchess of Dufferin and Ava,

THE DUFFERIN PRESENTS

And by permission of the Countess of Aberdeen treasures

OF IRISH MANUFACTURE

The special features, including an entirely new spectacular production entitled

A CARNIVAL IN VENICE

under the personal direction of Bolossi Kiralfy, will be on a scale never before attempted at an annual fair in any part of the world.

Reduced rates by land and water from everywhere. Consult your station agent.

W. K. McNAUGHT, President.

J. O. ORR, Manager and Secretary.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

—FOR—

Stylish and Durable Turnouts.

—Surreys	—Phaetons
—Corning Buggies	—Bike Buggies
—Piano Box Buggies	—Democrats
—Rubber Tire Buggies	—Grocer Wagons
—Micadoes	—Butcher Wagons

Cheese Factory Milk Wagons.
Steel Tubular Axle Lumber Wagons.

Rubber Tires put on your old wheels at reasonable prices.

Mill St, - - Belleville

This Long Hip Straight Front

Is the very latest Corset.

The extra pieces at the side, cover and fit the hips with perfect smoothness, rounding off the lines into an exquisite curve. In no other makes of Corsets will you find this very latest Paris model.

The new tight skirts demand that you wear it.

These are the numbers and prices:

D&A

310 LONG HIP,	$1.25
425 DIP HIP, -	1.00
110 DIP HIP, -	1.00
208 DIP HIP, -	1.00
CREST - - -	1.25

For sale by all leading Dry Goods Houses.

Bank of Montreal

ESTABLISHED 1817

Capital and Rest, All Paid Up

$23,000,000

(Twenty-three Millions)

Savings Bank Department

Interest on sums of $1.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A G. PARKER,

Manager Belleville Branch

What to buy; when to sell; better determined by readers of our "Guide to Investors and Daily Market Letter." Both yours free—for the asking. Correspondence solicited.

HAIGHT & FREESE CO.

Stocks, Bonds, Grain, Cotton.

7 Melinda St., Toronto, Ont.

"Determining the character and financial responsibility of your Broker, is as important as selection of right stocks"

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

Curse —OF— DRINK

CURED BY

COLONIAL REMEDY

No taste. No Odor. Can be given in a glass of water, tea, or coffee, without patient's knowledge.

Colonial Remedy will cure or destroy the diseased appetite for alcoholic stimulants, whether the patient is a confirmed inebriate, "tippler," social drinker or drunkard. Impossible for anyone to have an appetite for alcoholic liquors after using Colonial Remedy.

Indorsed by Members of the W.C.T.U.

Mrs. Moore, Superintendent of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Ventura, Cal., writes: "I have tested Colonial Remedy on very obstinate drunkards, and the cures have been many. In many cases the Remedy was given secretly. I cheerfully recommend and endorse Colonial Remedy. Members of our Union are delighted to find a practical and economical treatment to aid us in our temperance work."

Sold by druggists everywhere and by mail.

Price $1. Trial package free by writing or calling on Mrs. M. A. Cowan (for years member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union), 2204 St. Catherine St., Montreal.

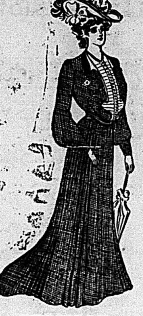
Sold in Belleville by F. Chas. Clarke Front St. and D. M. Waters, Bridge St

WHAT IS WORN.

Deep Collars a Distinguishing Mark of Smart Garments.

The deep collar or pelerine of lace is worn over plain blouses with strapped linen skirts, and these are quite smart and effective in a deep red or dark blue, the millinery repeating the light tone of the collar. The sack bolero accompanies the lawn and linen gown, and this is a most adaptable costume when completed by a thin blouse.

Tussore silk and tussore linen are the most useful fabrics for dust cloaks, but alpaca, when dressed in the soft, limp style, is also admirable, and the colorings most in vogue are the beige tint, a silvery green and a mignonette tint which is less pronounced than the reseda.



CHECKED TAILOR MADE.

Where more decided effects are wished brighter tints are worn, but these must accord with the hat. For instance, an old rose alpaca edged with ruffled black ribbon has a few medallions of black lace and is to be worn with a large black hat over black or white gowns.

The collar has entirely disappeared from coats—that is, the high collar—for the cape effects now reign supreme, and no garment is smart without one of these. A voluminous sack shape is proper to all long garments. Applique trimmings are popular for these.

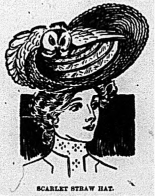
The cut shows a tailor made of checked wool goods.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

NOVELTIES IN DRESS.

An Attractive Green and Black Effect—A Useful Hat.

A very smart gown seen recently was of hand painted muslin, and from the knees to the feet there was a border consisting of trellis work of woven green ribbons and pink roses. This was much beflounced underneath to give the necessary flare. The trellis work also appeared on either side of the bolero bodice, which was cut short at the back over a green spotted muslin blouse finished with a draped waistband of taffeta. The costume was completed by a hat composed entirely of green leaves over a foundation of tucked pink chiffon finished with two black velvet strings and a black rose resting on the hair, while another rose held the strings in place on the bodice. With this was carried a perfectly plain long handled black parasol with a green lizard crawling up the stick.



SCARLET STRAW HAT.

The Breton sailor shape will undoubtedly prove a favorite hat for boating.

A deep blue Breton shape in soft straw may be trimmed with white ribbon and wings and used with cream or navy blue gowns.

Belts are of infinite importance now, and some of the newer models are quite charming. The shaped belt with little tabs or tails is exceedingly modish, and a change of belt and chou often gives quite a different aspect to a black or neutral tinted gown. A gold tinsel belt is most useful, especially if made with tabs or arranged with a crossed front and tail back. It can figure on a blue, brown or black gown and is equally at home on white or pale colors, and no better finish to a plain slip under a coffee coat can be devised, even if a black or white skirt is worn. Even on cloth it is attractive, and a flaked woolen trimmed with strappings of plain cloth should have a tabbed and stitched belt to match the strappings.

The tailor made hat in the cut is of scarlet rough straw trimmed with a white bird.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

Store Closed Every Wednesday During July and August at 12 O'Clock Noon.

CLEARING SUMMER CLOTHING.

MEN'S $7.00 SUITS $3.95.

To the men comes this offering which should make briskness in Friday's selling.

We have reduced our summer clothing.

Our Summer trade has been beyond our expectations. We do not wonder as the neat styles and general excellence of the garments were such as make quick and lasting friends with the men.

Cleaning up time has come. True we have not many left to clear but even these at the prices we have marked them are worthy of special mention.

Being our first season, all that remain from our large assortment are up-to-date and reliable.

One of these suits will be of use to you well into the fall season. Preserving your better clothing and giving much warm weather comfort. Here they are for Friday.

—20 Only Men's 2 piece summer suits in Grey and White, Black and White and Blue and White Stripe, regular $5.50, $6.50, $7.00, for..$3.95

ONE THIRD OFF COATS AND TROUSERS.

With our Suit Sale we also clear the balance of our separate Coats and Trousers.

No need to speak of the style in these and fit perfection—we guarantee them correct.

The prediction is for a warm September. Even did this not prove true you can save money by buying for next season.

Styles as these are always good.

There are not enough for everyone.

Some will be disappointed. They will not be the early visitors.

Come in time.

—Fine Black and White stripe Lustre coat, silk sewn, regular $1.75, for..........$1.17

—Fine all Black Lustre coat—heavy quality extra finish—a Superior garment, $2.25, for $1.50

BOY'S HALF PRICE WASH SUITS.

For the boys the only proper garment during summer is washable Duck or Linen Suit.

The number we have sold show that many mothers appreciate this.

The selling season is about over—the wearing season at it's height.

We make this timely offering to clean up our shelves for fall goods.

ALL WASH SUITS HALF PRICE.

—Boy's Fine Navy Duck Sailor Suit with fancy trimmed collar and cuffs, neat, regular $1.00, for..............................50c

—Boy's Fine Linen Color wash suit with fancy trimmed Sailor collar and tie, vest and pants, 3 pieces, regular $1.50, for 75c,........75c

UNDER PRICED FRENCH ORGANDIES.

38c, 40c, 45c, 48c Organdies 25c. 25c Organdies 15c.

These are cleaning days throughout our entire store, the exceptional values offered in desirable materials, keeping us busy through what to others is dull season.

Friday marks the last day of this month. It's to be Muslin day with us. If values offered increase sales this should be our best day.

Our Fine French Organdies go in making this last effort.

Bought direct, in Paris, they mark the highest point in design and quality obtainable at the prices anywhere.

The beauty of the designs led us to buy of these to freely

We have sold many—what remain go on Friday at these prices below.

The quality and seasonableness of the goods makes this an exceptional bargain.

—All our French Organdie Muslins in a wide range of color and designs, regularly sold at 25c for 15c. 15c 40c 45c 48c for 25c

CHILDREN'S DRESSES HALF PRICE FRIDAY ONLY.

The reductions we made on these dresses shortly ago has cleared many of the styles out completely, many of the sizes from others.

Friday we give to mothers this excellent chance to purchase garments for their children at less than the material would cost.

The dainty styles and trimmings alone should recommed these. Combined with "Half Price" they make a bargain worthy of your inspection. Frday only.

—The balance of our Childrens' Wash Dresses in Print, Duck and Gingham and White Muslin and Lawn were 50c to $2 75, for Half Price.

—The balance of our Sale Wrappers also Half Price, from..........................50c to 75c.

SOFT SHIRTS 75c

A glance in our North Furnishing Window will reveal a secret. The secret why many keep, if not cool comfortable during the hot days.

Cash and Quantity having bought us this line enabling us to save you 25c and while doing so obtain a thoroughly reliable article.

We have one to fit you—come in and see the excellent value.

—Men's Soft Front Shirts in neat stripe and fancy spot designs, cuffs attached or separate 75c

Agents for Standard Patterns.

The Ritchie Co'y. Limited

CLOTHING BOUGHT HERE PRESSED FREE OF CHARG be

Quick & Robertson's for Fine Clothes

There's no use of disputing the fact that this store stands pre-eminent in this city as the store for Men's Fine Clothes.

With our large and pleasing varieties, up-to-date styles, and good making, we've won the trade of every man, and especially the trade of those men who are particular about the clothes they wear.

And why shouldn't we? You can't find a store that has, Ready-Made, such exclusive styles in suitings and summer garments as we are showing and everyone of them is from the best British and Canadian Mills.

Then, too, every garment is built to come up to the our high standard--built by the best makers who know how and do give close attention to important parts of tailoring—such as adjusting the collars, shaping the shoulders, proper placing of the sleeves and stays and making of the button holes.

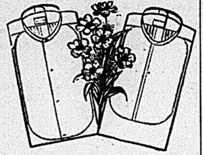
Clothes made this way never lose their shape. And by so doing we have overcome that appearance which markes clothes as being Ready-Made.

The prices for such goodness you'd expect to be high but they are not—are no more than you would pay for ordinary sorts elsewhere.

MEN'S SUMMER FURNISHINGS

. . . . AND . . . .

STRAW HATS



The Largest Variety assures the Easiest Choosing.

That's just what's bringing more men to this store every day—they are getting into the fact that the selections Quick & Robertson shows in every line are the largest and most liberal in town—right in every way; in quality the highest, in style the latest and in price the fairest. Better choose now while the choosing is good.

QUICK & ROBERTSON

Agents in Belleville for W. R. Johnston & Co.'s Famous Clothing.

Summer Necessities

Lawn Mowers
Lawn Hose
Lawn Rakes
Screen Doors
Screen Windows
Ice Cream Freezers
Refrigerators

The W. W. CHOWN Company, Limited

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, agazines or periodicals bound rebound in any style at very su able prices. Blank books, boo journals, ledgers, day madt th any kind of ruling, rantee LIGENder. All work war- class. THE INTEL- lleville.

PREFER WHIST TO CLASS MEETINGS.

POSITION OF METHODISM IN BRITAIN UNSATISFACTORY.

London, July 28.—Rev. Marshall Hartley, president of the Wesleyan Conference, addressing a pastoral session at Camborne, expressed regret that the position of Methodism in England was unsatisfactory. With two thousand preachers, eighteen thousand local preachers, and an army of Sunday School teachers, their increase was only one per cent. He protested against certain distractions that are creeping into the homes of the people. Whist, he said, was in some cases more popular than class meetings, while some seemed to believe that they could dance themselves into the Kingdom of Heaven better than securing access through prayer meetings. He was sure that amusements were killing prayer meetings and spirituality.

IT IS A PERPLEXING THING.

For the reader of newspaper advertisements to determine what is what. We do not use as large type as some, but we are sure that what we have to say is not the less important to any one who is interested in the subject of clothing at this time. Our summer suits are ready to speak for themselves, if you will but take time to inspect them, and we think you will find no fault with the prices. We are making an immense display of hot weather clothing and furnishings.—Quick & Robertson.

Fall Fairs.

Dominion, Toronto	Aug. 27-Sept. 12
Kingston, Kingston	Sept 8-11
Guelph, Guelph	Sept. 15-17
Frankford	Sept. 17-18
Thrasher's Corners	Sept. 18-19
North Hastings	Sept. 22-23
Stirling	Sept. 22-23
Peterboro, Peterboro	Sept. 22-24
Picton	Sept. 23-24
Cobourg	Sept. 24-25
Campbellford	Sept. 24-25
Shannonville	Sept. 26
Marmora	Sept. 29
L'Amable	Sept. 30
Coe Hill	Oct. 1
Ameliasburg	Oct. 2-3
Warkworth	Oct. 6-7
Wooler	Oct. 9

THE ANAEMIC YOUNG GIRL.

Perhaps she is sixteen. Suddenly she seems to lose strength, her beauty fades because her strength fails, her eyes lose their lustre. How her spirit droops! It alarms you, but all this may be corrected quickly. Get her Ferrozone, it is a nerve tonic, it aids the stomach to do its work. Appetite? She'll eat anything and digest it, too. Ferrozone is an absolute specific for the anaemia of young people. Ask your druggist for it.

MONTIZAMBERT RETIRES.

OFFICER COMMANDING FOR KINGSTON DISTRICT RETIRES ON FULL TIME ALLOWANCE.

Kingston, July 29.—Col. Montizambert, D.O.C. for military districts Nos. 3 and 4, retires on July 31st on a handsome allowance, earned by long years of good service, and also three months' leave of absence on full pay, as he has exceeded the age for military service. He has been successful both in Montreal and Kingston, where he filled the district office. Several changes are pending in district locations of officers commanding, and in a few days his successor here will be known.

HOLLOWAY.

The noisy hum of the reapers and mowers can be heard on all sides, and reports state that the yield will be fair, although once it was anticipated that it would be a failure.

Mr B. Copeland, wife and family, are visiting at Mr. Robert McMullen's. Mrs. Copeland is suffering from a cancer.

Mr. and Mrs. York were visiting their daughter, Mrs. George Simpson, on Sunday last.

Raspberries were very plentiful, but they only lasted a very short time.

Early potatoes are an excellent crop.

Mrs. Robert Simpson entertained a number of guests on Sunday last.

Cows are giving a good supply of milk for this time of year, for which the patrons are paid the handsome some of 90 cents a hundred, the frequent rains having renewed the pasture.

Mr. Everard Lloyd wears a smile—its a boy. He also has improved his premises by a new wire fence.

Our school underwent a cleaning lately. It looks lonesome these days.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Simmons passed through here one day lately.

DEAF AS A DOOR NAIL. Not an uncommon expression, but quite true of many people whose hearing can be perfectly restored by inhaling Catarrhozone. It quickly relieves and cures all kinds of catarrh, catarrhal deafness, and diseases of the respiratory organs. Don't give up hope till you have tested Catarrhozone. It has restored lost hearing to thousands, and can do the same for you. Catarrhozone is a vegetable antiseptic, pleasant and convenient to use, absolutely certain to quickly benefit and ultimately cure. Two months' treatment $1.90. Small size 25c. At druggists or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

Sports and Pastimes.

THE SAILING RACES.

Enjoyable Events Were Pulled Off Yesterday Afternoon.

The second of a series of sailing races for the possession of a valuable trophy donated by the citizens took place yesterday afternoon. The course, off the south point of the park, is easily discernible to all who desire to witness this kind of sport, and a large number of interested spectators were upon the park during the afternoon. The course, a triangular one, was about three miles around and the yachts had to sail over it three times. Following were the results:

Yacht Race—There were three entries, namely, the Yoda, Retta, and Spray. This was a handicap race, the Yoda allowing the Spray 10 minutes and the Retta 8 minutes. Notwithstanding this handicap the Yoda proved to be by far the superior craft and won easily. She finished 12 minutes ahead of the Spray, the latter beating the Retta by 35 seconds. It was an interesting race, thoroughly enjoyed by the spectators. At the commencement of the race there was a good breeze, which died down considerably before the event was finished.

Punt Race—This event was well contested by the four punts which entered. True to the name it bears The King of the Waters won, Maple Leaf 2nd, Blue Bird 3rd, and Flirt 4th.

There were no skiff races, owing to the fact that they were contestants for the trophy at the G.T.R. picnic a week ago.

In connection with the yacht races it may be stated that this is the second win for the Yoda, for possession of the cup, and she also secured the handsome challenge flag last week, sailing against the same competitors as yesterday.

SPORTING NOTES.

It is with no want of loyalty to the recollection of the great and wonderful deeds of the old champion, W. G. Grace, that the term, "The Champion," or "Twentieth Century Best," can now be fittingly bestowed on C. B. Fry, of Sussex, says the London Daily Express.

The long-distance swimming championship of England was won Monday by J. A. Jarvis from eleven competitors. The course was from Kew to Putney, a distance of five miles and sixty yards, and was covered by Jarvis in one hour three minutes and 48 1-5 seconds. The time was 28 4-5 seconds under the record, held by Jarvis.

In defeating the champion Pittsburgs in three straight games the Chicago team has accomplished something no other team has been able to do for several years. Not since the present bunch of ball-tossers now representing the Smoky City was transferred from Louisville has any team been able to take their measure three times in succession.

C. B. Fry, who has made six centuries this season, is now going very strong for his two thousand runs for the season. By the end of last week he had made 11,754 runs, and his average was 87.70. He was easily first in the list. This week for Sussex v. Notts he has scored 27 and 32, thus bringing his aggregate up to date to 11,813.—Cricket.

The Late Pope Paragraphed.

He never tolerated gossip.

He countenanced labor unions.

He was an expert chess player.

He called himself "the little old man."

He was a reverential admirer of nature.

He was a diligent reader of newspapers.

Dante and Virgil were his favorite poets.

His favorite relaxation was writing poetry.

He kept his private account with the Bank of England.

He was the owner and landlord of a dwelling in Paris.

His table expenses did not exceed 20 cents a day.

He wrote better Latin than any other living writer in the Church of Rome.

He never recognized the Italian king as anything more than the king of Sardinia.

His private safe was in his own apartment. He carried the key himself.

So regular were his habits that his servants could tell by glancing at the clock what he was doing at that moment.

He never forgot a face and remembered every Catholic who ever did the church a service.

He was a habitual snuff user, the tobacco being prepared in Baltimore especially for him.

In the Vatican he had a fixed rule for the dress of all inmates to be worn at every hour of the day.

He required park laborers and gardeners to be at their posts as early as 4.30 a.m.

His voice, while neither deep nor full, was clear and ringing, with a wonderful carrying power.

Patiently and without apparent prejudice, he examined the doctrines of the socialists.

His handwriting was as beautiful and as legible as print, which it resembled more nearly than script.

He was economical, almost parsimonious, in his personal expenditures, but prodigal in founding schools and missions.

Throughout his career he cordially welcomed every improvement and invention, from the railroad to the automobile.

FLAG INCIDENT IN TOWN OF TRENTON.

COULD NOT SEE THE UNION JACK FLY UNDER THE STARS AND STRIPES.

There was, we are told, considerable excitement in the neighboring town of Trenton on Monday night last, and thereby hangs a tale. It seems that a certain steamer which plies in these waters, had taken an excursion to the Thousand Islands, and, on Monday afternoon last, brought it back again. After landing its Belleville passengers, the boat proceeded to Trenton. It seems that when the steamer reached that town she was flying two flags, one, the Union Jack, at the stern, and the other, the Stars and Stripes, on her main flag staff, which is high up above the wheelhouse, thus placing the U. S. flag much higher than "the blooming old rag" which Britons everywhere hold dear. The position of the two flags, it seems, was noticed by a few of the young men of Trenton, who, with much earnestness, at once interviewed the captain and protested that, in a Canadian port, the positions of those flags should be reversed. They did not object to his flying the Stars and Stripes, if he wanted to, but they did object, and most strenuously, to the Yankee flag flying high in the air above the Union Jack. The captain either could not or would not (at all events he did not) attend to the matter quickly enough to suit the protestants, and the result was that one of the young men made the best of his way to a hardware store, where he obtained a rifle and supply of ammunition. He went back to the wharf, loaded his rifle, took deliberate aim and bang! the first shot knocked a chip off the offending vessel's flagstaff. A few more shots were fired, some of which went through the flag, others grazing the staff, and then "Old Glory" came down in a hurry. The affair naturally created much talk in Trenton.

CHEAP TRIPS.

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay. Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc: Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mr. Wm. Reese, of Toronto, is spending a few days in the city.

Dr. Burdett and wife leave for Toronto to-day, en route to their home at St. Paul.

Mr. Robt. Neilson, of Kansas City, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Geo. Neilson, John street.

Misses Jennie and Belle Simpson, of Brockville, are visiting at Mr. Hitchon's, Alexander street.

Miss Clara Cowie and Miss Agnes McCoy, who have been visiting relatives in this city, returned to their home in Brockville this morning.

At the Quinte.—L. D. Floyd, H. D. Phillips, H. P. Flett, F. C. Armstrong, J. E. Bennett, P. M. Galt, A. W. Challen, F. J. Butler, C. W. Henderson, M. W. Mallory, H. B. Morley, G. Hambly, C. E. Dewey, Toronto; C. J. Britton, G. F. Hansen, Montreal; G. H. Bawden, Newark, N.J.; S. E. Cole, Hamilton; D. C. Stewart, Youngstown, Ohio; L. A. Austin, Ogdensburg; J. Sherley, E. V. Hoes, New York; M. H. Shibley, Napanee; T. C. Miller, J. O. Hutton, Kingston; W. J. Moore, Miss Campbell, Madoc; Mrs. J. W. Hambly, Picton.

EVERYBODY SHOULD TAKE A VACATION.

Whether it be for a few days or a few weeks, the change of occupation, the peaceful quiet rest in the woods, or a trip through the charming lakes and rivers of "the Highlands of Ontario," breathing in the pure air, impregnated with the odor of the balsam and pines, will not only do you and your family good, but will make you of more benefit to your employer. Think of this and call on U. E. Thompson, C. P. & T. A. or T. H. Coppin, station agent, Grand Trunk Railway. j28toa8

Band Concert To-night.

Weather permitting, the I.O.O.F. Band, under the leadership of Prof. Denmark, will render the following programme on Queen Victoria Park to-night:

March—"High Society"	Porter Steele
Overture—"Blaze Away"	M. F. Smith
Waltzes—"The First Violin"	Max Witt
Descriptive Polka—"The Stage Coach"	Geo. Auvray
Medley—"Superba"	Dalbey
Two Step—"Hamlin Rifles"	R. B. Hall
Overture—"Campaign"	F. J. Kellar
Waltzes—"Helena"	Pettee
Fantasia—"Gems of Stephen Foster"	Tobani
Cake Walk—"Dusky Princess"	J. H. Klohr

God Save the King.

Dark Hair We mean all that rich, dark color your hair used to have. If it's gray now, no matter; for Ayer's Hair Vigor always restores color to gray hair. And often it makes the hair grow very heavy. $1. All druggists. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

YESTERDAY'S EXCURSIONS.

FAIRLY WELL ATTENDED, CONSIDERING THE WET AND THREATENING WEATHER.

Yesterday's picnics and excursions, considering the inclement weather, were fairly well attended. The S.O.E. excursion to Kingston and the Thousand Islands, as usual, was well patronized. Many, who had intended going, stayed at at home when they saw that old St. Swithin was evidently living up to his reputation, but about 250 people went, anyway, which number put the Sons on Easy street so far as covering expenses was concerned. Nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of the day, and the afternoon sail through the islands was a pleasant one.

The picnics to Twelve o'Clock Point, one a joint affair under the auspices of the Sunday Schools of Holloway Street and the Tabernacle, via the Aletha, and the other under the auspices of the Sunday School of Emmanuel R. E. Church, via the Ella Ross, were rather lightly attended in the morning, but good crowds went up in the afternoon. There was no rain on the point after the picnicers reached there, and the usual races and games took place, which were much enjoyed by the children.

A good many of our citizens went fishing, Nigger Island being a favorite spot. Some people made fair catches, but the majority had not much more to boast of than the proverbial "fisherman's luck."

In the Justice Shop.

Cost John $10.

John Cunningham, who was charged with reckless driving, cruelty to a horse and being drunk and disorderly was compelled to contribute $10 to the city treasury.

Drunk.

John Murphy, for being drunk, was fined $2.

Alleged Cruelty.

Charles Walsh was summoned to appear on a charge of cruelty to a horse. The case was dismissed without any evidence being taken.

Charges a-Plenty.

Robert Reid, of Thurlow, was charged with assaulting, using abusive language and taking a horse from one Wm. Gilchrist. The latter keeps a pound in Thurlow, and a horse belonging to Bird got in the pound and this was the cause of the trouble. Bird took the animal away without paying costs and against the poundkeeper's protest. The result was that Bird was fined, with costs, which amounted to a considerable sum. Mr. McMahon for the plaintiff and Mr. Wallbridge for the defendant.

Who Owns the Horse?

Sheriff Hardon, of Canton, St. Lawrence Co., N.Y., has written to the local police informing them that he has in his possession a dark bay horse and a top buggy nearly new of Canadian make. The outfit was left there by two men who had committed a burglary, and it is believed that the property was stolen from this vicinity.

Three German Tramps

Three young men, all Germans, were arrested at 6.30 this morning, having been found in a box car of a train which arrived here from the east. They gave their names as Wm. Krauss, W. Flengs and H. Woolf. They were all well dressed and appeared to be rather intelligent. In answer to an inquiry as to where they were bound for they said Buffalo. The Magistrate this morning would have discharged them with a warning, but the G.T.R. authorities charged them with breaking the seal of a car door, and they were remanded.

An Egg Within an Egg.

Mr. G. P. Sills, of Canifton, is the owner of a hen which one day recently laid a rather peculiar egg. The egg was unusually large and when broken another well formed egg surrounded by a shell was found inside it.

Nervous Exhaustion

PROSTRATION AND COLLAPSE ARE PREVENTED AND CURED BY DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

Restless, languid feelings, sleeplessness, indigestion, nervous headache, twitching of the nerves, discouragement and despondency are some of the symptoms of nervous exhaustion and prostration. By forming new, rich blood and creating new nerve force, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food prevents and cures all diseases of the nerves. It is composed of nature's most powerful restoratives and is certain to do you good. You can prove this by noting your increase in weight while using it.

LIGHTNING AT TWEED.

KILLED A HORSE AND DID OTHER DAMAGE YESTERDAY.

(Special to The Intelligencer.)

Tweed, July 29.—A severe electrical storm, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain, passed over this section at an early hour this morning.

A barn on Jamieson street, owned and used by Guy Farrar, grocer, was struck and somewhat shattered but was not ignited. One of his horses was killed and another one rendered useless.

The Ontario Conscience.

Montreal Gazette: The Fort Erie prize-fighting scandal has apparently reached its end. Yesterday the Buffalo saloon-keeper who ran the business was found guilty of violating the law, by a Fort Erie police magistrate. He will be sentenced on Friday. He asserts that he will enter an appeal, and that in the meantime the prize-fights will continue, pending a decision. In this he exhibits his blind faith in the power of graft. It may be admitted that in so far as his Fort Erie experience is concerned he has considerable foundation for his belief in its efficacy. Nevertheless, it displays a lamentable ignorance of that marvellous institution—the Ontario conscience. He has, of course, been flouting that conscience for so long that familiarity has inevitably bred contempt, but this is really no excuse, for had he been a close observer of its workings he would long ago have detected the danger of outraging it, that is drawing public attention to the fact that it was no better than the consciences possessed by other peoples. That he did not appreciate this is amply proven by the press notices he had inserted in the Buffalo and other American papers, which held Ontario up, thanks to the liberal-mindedness of its Government and officials, as one of the few remaining Meccas of the professional pugilist on this continent. It is quite true that he may have been led astray by the editorial approval of his exhibitions expressed some months ago by the Toronto Globe, the head-keeper of the Ontario conscience. A few weeks ago, however, the Globe awoke to the fact that it was mistaken. It recognized that the conscience had been outraged, and it said so. Whereupon, all the little organs, which had hitherto preserved a most discreet silence, said so, too. From Ottawa in the East, to Windsor in the West, there burst forth the voice of protest.

It was a magnificent demonstration of the unity of the party press. The Government simply had to do something for the sake of the conscience. Yesterday's conviction is the result. The conscience, a little tattered and torn, is once more safe. The thanks of the remainder of Canada are due the Globe, and all the little organs.

Buried This Afternoon.

The funeral of the late Ernest Kinch, which took place this afternoon to St. John's Church, was largely attended, services being conducted by the Rev. Rural Dean Bogert. The employees of the W. W. Chown Company attended in a body, and there were numerous floral tributes, showing the esteem in which the deceased young man was held. The bearers were: Walter Symons, Charles Symons, S. Rainbow, Percy Geen, Edward Warham and Walter Symons.

SURE CURE FOR SEA SICKNESS, NAUSEA.

Maladies of this type yield instantly to Polson's Nerviline, and if you suffer periodically from these complaints, just keep Nerviline at hand. A few drops in sweetened water gives instant relief, and in the course of half an hour the cure is complete. A large 25c bottle of Nerviline in the house will save doctor bills, and a vast amount of suffering every year.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

Advertisements under this heading TWO CENTS A WORD; subsequent consecutive insertions ONE CENT A WORD. No item charged as less than twenty-five words.

An excursion from the town of Picton visited the city to-day.

The police last night answered two calls, resulting in an arrest being made.

To-day's market was fairly well attended.

St. Thomas' S. S. Excursion and Picnic to Twelve O'Clock Point, Wednesday next, August 5th. Trips—9.30 a.m., 2 p.m. and 4.30 p.m. Last boat leaves the Point at 7.30 p.m. j30,a1,3,4

Napanee and Deseronto Excursion. Str. Aletha, Saturday, Aug. 1st. Boat leaves 2.15 p.m., giving one-half hour at Napanee, three hours and a half at Deseronto. Fare 25c. Children 15c. j30-2t

Wanted.—A youth to learn the printing trade, one with slight experience would be accepted. Apply to The Intelligencer Office. 25-2td

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

Three Days Sale
...of...
Muslins and Ginghams.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday.]

MUSLINS

All our Fancy Muslins from 10 to 15c, sale price................ 8c
All our Fancy Muslins from 20 to 25c, sale price................ 15c
All our Fancy Muslins from 30 to 50c, sale price................ 25c

GINGHAMS AND ZEPHYRS

All our Ginghams and Zephyrs from 10 to 12½c, sale price 8c
All our Ginghams and Zephyrs from 15 to 25c, sale price........ 12½c

If you are wanting any of the above lines you will readily understand by inspecting the stock, which contains both quality and pattern what a grand bargain is to be had during this sale.

JUST ARRIVED—New Ties, New Belts, New Collars. The very latest New York styles

Laidlaw & Ketcheson

DIRECT IMPORTERS

Daily Intelligencer.

THE INTELLIGENCER IS SOLD AT J. W. London's and G. Wardhaugh's.

Local Reading Advertisements,
words 50 cents; 2 cents per word first insertion, per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words; contracts for long periods made at office.

Rowntree's Coffee Chocolate

A most delicious and nourishing eating chocolate in thin, crisp cakes.

10c a package.

CHAS. S. CLAPP

NAMES THAT COUNT IN MEDICINE

Physicians who are familiar with the stock of drugs and chemicals we carry express their appreciation freely. The names upon the packages of goods indicate to them that this is a store that stands for all that is best in pharmacy. These names might mean little to you as far as their direct significance is concerned, but they are apt to mean much to you whenever you have a prescription to be compounded. In drug store goods we provide the best.

McKeown's DRUG STORE

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario.
AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call,

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.

Money to Loan upon favorable terms.

OFFICE, No. 46 Bridge St., Belleville,

J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

Lost chances never leave any trail.

MONITOR

This is another fine Mantle Clock, not quite so expensive as Gadski in last week's advertisement, but fully as serviceable. It is an eight-day hour and half strike on cathedral gong, fancy columns with trimmings and drop handles, in every way a beautiful clock. Our price only $5.50.

T. BLACKBURN.

Eyes examined free of charge. Jeweller & Optician.

SPECIALS FOR THIS WEEK.

Rose Pink Flank, 10c yd	7c	10c Pair Straw Cuffs, Japanese	5c
5c Bottle Vaseline, 2 for	5c	40c Pair Bath Towells for	27½c
5c Package Magnesia, 2 for	5c	White and Colored Shelf Oil Cloth Scalloped, 10c yd, for	7c
10c Package McLarens Jelly Powders, 2 for	15c	4-4 Chenille Table Covers,	47c
25c Belladonna Plasters, 2 for	25c	15c Bottle Sweet Oil,	7c
50c Rose Miracle Pills for Dyspepsia	10c	Skinners Balsam of Ainseed,	15c
4 Sheets Tanglefoot Fly Paper for	5c	Hind's Honey Almond Cream, 50c. for	33c
10c Fly Pads, 2 for	15c	D. & L. Malt Extract, 5c Bottle	23c
8c Fly Pads, 2 for	5c	Chases Catarrh Cure, 25c, for	15c
Granite Wash Basins,	11c	Best Fruit Jar Rings, for	5c
25c Window Screen,	19c	Granite Preserving Kettles, from $1.25 to	20c
50c Pillow Sham Holders,	25c
15c Towel Rollers	15c	See Our 10c Tables This Week.

McINTOSH BROS.

THE MARKETS.

Grain Markets Firm in Chicago—Liverpool Closes Lower—Live Stock Cables Easier—The Latest Quotations.

Wednesday Evening, July 29.

Liverpool wheat and corn futures closed ⅜d lower to-day than yesterday.

At Chicago Sept. wheat advanced 1⅛c from yesterday's close; Sept. corn ½c and Sept. oats ⅛c.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London—Close—Wheat, on passage, buyers indifferent operators. Parcels No. 1 hard Manitoba, passage, 31s 6d. Maize, on passage, rather easier. Spot American mixed, 22s 7½d. Flour, spot Minn., 27s.

Paris—Close—Wheat, tone quiet; July, 23f 65c; Nov. and Feb., 22f 55c. Flour, tone quiet; July, 32f 0c; Nov. and Feb., 30f 30c.

Antwerp—Wheat—Spot, steady; No. 2 red winter, 16½f.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

Following are the closing quotations at important wheat centres to-day:

	Cash.	July.	Sept.	Dec.
New York	....	....	73⅞	83⅛
Chicago	....	....	79⅛	79⅛
Toledo	78	78	79⅞	81
Duluth, No. 1 N.	87	87	79½	77½

TORONTO ST. LAWRENCE MARKET.

Grain—
Wheat, red, bush.	$0 77	to $....
Wheat, white, bush.	0 76	....
Wheat, spring, bush.	0 70	0 72
Wheat, goose, bush.	0 72½	....
Barley, bush.	0 44½	....
Beans, bush.	1 30	1 50
Beans, hand-picked	1 75	....
Peas, bush.	0 78½	....
Rye, bush.	0 45	....
Oats, bush.	0 36½	0 37½

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, July 29.—Wheat, spot quiet; No. 2 red western winter, 6s 3d; No. 1 northern spring, 6s 5d; No. 1 California, 6s 7½d; futures, quiet; July, nominal; Sept., 6s 3⅜d; Dec., 6s 3d. Corn, spot, American mixed, new, quiet, 4s 5d; futures, quiet; July, nominal; Sept., 4s 5½d. Bacon, clear bellies, firm, 51s 6d. Lard, prime western, quiet, 37s; American refined in pails, quiet, 37s. Cotton seed oil, Hull refined, spot steady, 22s 9d.

NEW YORK GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

New York, July 29.—Flour—Receipts, 18,715 barrels; sales, 2950 packages. Flour ruled quieter, with prices unchanged. Rye flour, dull. Wheat—Receipts, 53,750 bushels; sales, 800,000 bushels. Wheat opened easier in sympathy with corn and lower cables, but rallied on covering; Sept., 82⅛c to 82 9-16c; Dec., 82⅝c to 82⅞c; May, 84c to 84⅛c. Rye, quiet; state, 58c to 59½c, c.i.f., New York; No. 2 western, 58½c, f.o.b., afloat.

Corn—Receipts, 2100 bushels; corn was depressed sharply by the western rains and prospects for lower temperatures.

Oats—Receipts, 33,500 bushels; oats were dull and easy; track, white, 39c to 46c.

Sugar, raw, steady; fair refining, 3 3-16c; centrifugal, 96 test, 3 21-32c; molasses sugar, 2 15-16c; refined, steady. Coffee, quiet; No. 7 Rio, 5⅛c. Lead, quiet, $4.30 to $4.40. Wool, firm. Hops, steady.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, July 29.—Butter, steady, unchanged; receipts, 12,457.

Cheese—Steady, unchanged; receipts, 1810.

Eggs—Firm, unchanged; receipts, 9257.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables a Little Easier — American Markets Quoted Slightly Lower.

London, July 29.—Live cattle steady at 11½c to 12½c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 11¼c to 11⅝c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 9c to 9¼c per lb. Sheep, 11c to 12c.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, July 29.—Cattle—Receipts, 30 head; prime and shipping steers, $3.80 to $5.40; butchers' steers, $4.15 to $4.75; cows and heifers, $2.50 to $4.00; bulls, $3 to $4.15; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4. Veals—Receipts, 90 head; 25c higher, $5.50 to $7.

Hogs—Receipts, 2300 head, active, 5c to 10c higher; heavy, $5.70 to $5.75; mixed, $5.75 to $5.80; yorkers, $5.85 to $6; pigs, $6.10 to $6.15; roughs, $4.80 to $5; stags, $3.75 to $4.25; dairies, $5.40 to $5.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 1300 head; lambs, yearlings and wethers, 15c to 25c lower; others steady; lambs, $4 to $6; yearlings, $4.75 to $5; wethers, $4.50 to $4.75; ewes, $3.65 to $4; sheep, mixed, $1.50 to $4.50.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, July 29.—Beeves—Receipts, 2000; steers, 10c lower; bulls, slow to 10c lower; cows, steady; steers, $4.40 to $5.55; bulls, $2.25 to $4.40; cows, $1.60 to $3.75. Exports, 4200 quarters of beef. Calves—Receipts, 3573; veals opened steady to strong; closed dull and lower; grassers and buttermilks, 50c higher; veals, $5.50 to $8; tops, $8.12½ to $8.25; culls, $4.50 to $5; grassers and buttermilks, $3.50 to $4.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 11,547 head; sheep, 25c lower; lambs, 25c to 35c off; sheep, $3 to $4.25; lambs, $4.62½ to $6.40; two cars at $6.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 7228; heavy hogs, $5.90 to $6; medium to light, $6.15 to $6.30; rough, mixed western, $5.15.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, July 29.—Cattle—Receipts, 23,000. Texans, 200; market steady to 10c lower; good to prime steers, $5 to $5.60; poor to medium, $3.90 to $5; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.25; cows, $1.25 to $4.40; heifers, $2 to $4; canners, $1.25 to $4.00; bulls, $2 to $4.50; calves, $2.50 to $6.25; Texas steers, $3.25 to $4.40.

Hogs—Receipts to-day, 23,000; to-morrow, 25,000; left over, 6000; mixed and butchers, $5.15 to $5.60; good to choice, $4.55 to $5.55; rough heavy, $4.50 to $5.35; light, $5.35 to $5.80; bulk of sales, $5.25 to $5.45.

Sheep—Receipts, 18,000; sheep steady; lambs, 10c to 15c lower; good to choice wethers, $3.75 to $3.95; fair to choice mixed, $2.75 to $3.50; native lambs, $3.25 to $6.25.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Woodstock, July 29.—At the Cheese Board here to-day 2041 colored cheese, 9⅛c to 9 3-16c; 1084 white cheese, 9⅛c to 9 2-16c. One lot sold, 120 white, at 9⅛c; 10 buyers.

Picton, July 29.—At our Cheese Board to-day 12 factories boarded 1330 boxes, all colored. Highest bid 9 3-16c; 1130 sold. Bryers: Bailey, Sprague and Beasm.

Stirling, July 29.—At Stirling Cheese Board to-day 1130 were boarded; sales: Hodgson, 465 at 9c; Kerr, 410 at 9c; Rollins, 255 at 9c.

Incendiary Was Shot.

Idaho Springs, Colo., July 30.—An explosion at the Sun and Moon mine wrecked the transformer-house and set fire to the oil in the transformers. The watchman in the mine fired at two men running away from the transformer building and later a wounded man was found lying nearby. He has been identified as Philip Fire, a member of the Miners' Union.

Col. Montizambert Retires.

Kingston, July 30.—Having exceeded the age for military duty, Col. Montizambert, D.O.C. for military districts No. 3 and 4, retires on July 31, on a handsome allowance, earned by long years of good service, and also three months' leave of absence on full pay.

Bought Another Railway.

Ottawa, July 30.—The sale has been completed of the Middleton and Victoria Beach Railway to Messrs. MacKenzie and Mann, who will make it a part of the Halifax and Southwestern system.

If you are "afraid of laxatives" here is one that really will not draw you into the laxative habit. Little medicine tablets that cure Indigestion and Constipation—gently, naturally, permanently.

IRON-OX

Tiny Tonic Tablets

Prevent Hot Weather

Sickness—a tonic that will build you up—keep your blood pure and your nerves quiet. Sure, gentle little "helps-to-health" that will give you energy and vigor to withstand the enervating heat of summer.

Iron-Ox Tiny Tonic Tablets are gentle but unfailingly effective. They will benefit you, your children, everyone, who needs better digestion, purer blood, more energy, more strength.

Your druggist will sell you fifty Iron-Ox Tiny Tonic Tablets, packed in the neatest aluminum box you ever saw, for twenty-five cents.

If you cannot get them at your druggist's, The Iron-ox Remedy Co., Limited, Walkerville, Ont., will send them, prepaid, for 25 cents.

A Short Tale In Five Little Chapters

CHAPTER I.

Little Elsie—Don't you think my papa is a very nice man?

Little Alice—Yes; he must be. Mamma says she thinks he's the nicest man she ever met.

CHAPTER II.

Little Elsie (at home)—Oh, mamma, Alice told me this morning that her mamma said she thought my papa the nicest man she ever met!

Elsie's Mother—!!!!!

CHAPTER III.

Elsie's mother gets a divorce!

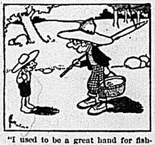
CHAPTER IV.

Alice's father gets a divorce!

CHAPTER V.

Elsie and Alice (in chorus)—Well, well; a pretty mess we've made of it. And all because we couldn't keep our nasty little mouths shut.—Walter Pulitzer in New York Times.

The Fish Story.



"I used to be a great hand for fishing when I was your age, Bobby."

"Well, I s'pose I'll have to take your word for it, but you sure have forgotten a whole lot about fishin' since that time."—New York American.

Cause For Joy.

"My darling, what delights you so? What is it that fills your eyes with the glad light of happiness and"—

"Oh, Theobald, just think! Cook is going to remain with us after all! Mrs. Goodparty, for whom she was going to work, dropped dead last night. Oh, wasn't it just too sweet of her? And, you know, I had always fancied she disliked me!"—Town Topics.

He Would Be Lucky.

Hi Tragedy—Yes, I'm with Bigstar's company now. I get a hundred a week.

Lowe Comedy—Say! You'd be in luck if you only got the difference.

Hi Tragedy—The difference? What do you mean?

Lowe Comedy—The difference between what you get and what you say you get.—Philadelphia Press.

A WONDERFUL MEDICINE.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

For Bilious and Nervous Disorders, such as Wind and Pain in the Stomach, Sick Headache, Giddiness, Fulness and Swelling after meals, Dizziness and Drowsiness, Cold Chills Flushings of Heat, Loss of Appetite, Shortness of Breath, Costiveness, Blotches on the Skin, Disturbed Sleep, Frightful Dreams, and all Nervous and Trembling Sensations, &c. THE FIRST DOSE WILL GIVE RELIEF IN TWENTY MINUTES. This is no fiction. Every sufferer is earnestly invited to try one Box of these Pills, and they will be acknowledged to be WITHOUT A RIVAL.

BEECHAM'S PILLS taken as directed, will quickly restore Females to complete health. They promptly remove any obstruction or irregularity of the system. For a

Weak Stomach, Impaired Digestion, Disordered Liver,

they act like magic—a few doses will work wonders upon the Vital Organs; Strengthening the muscular System, restoring the long-lost Complexion, bringing back the keen edge of appetite, and arousing with the Rosebud of Health the whole physical energy of the human frame. These are "facts" admitted by thousands, in all classes of society, and one of the best guarantees to the Nervous and Debilitated is that BEECHAM'S PILLS have the Largest Sale of any Patent Medicines in the World.

Beecham's Pills have been before the public for half a century, and are the most popular family medicine. No testimonials are published, as Beecham's Pills

RECOMMEND THEMSELVES.

Prepared only by Thomas Beecham, St. Helens, England.

Sold everywhere in Canada and U. S. America. In boxes, 25 cents.

Goods We Have at Right Prices

—Hammocks.
—Fishing Tackle.
—Tennis Goods
—Golf Goods.
—Lacrosse Goods.
—Base Ball Goods,
—Screen Doors and Windows,
—Fruit Jars.
—Fruit Jar Rubbers.
—Wall Paper.
—Crystal Glass Vases.
—Glass Ware.
—Dinner Sets.
—Toilet Sets.
—Ladies' Hose.
—Ladies' Vests.
Everything in smallwares.

AT THE BEE HIVE
Chas. N. Sulman

8c
Sale of Prints

NATHAN JONES.

This week we offer our large stock of PRINTS, bought from the best Canadian and English makers, ranging in price from 10c to 15c, all to go at 8c yd.

NATHAN JONES.

For Torpid Liver, Flatulence, Constipation, Biliousness and Sick Headache, TAKE

BRISTOL'S Pills

Safe, Mild, Quick-acting, Painless, do not weaken, and always give satisfaction.

reliable Household Medicine, can be taken at any season, by Adults or Children.

Druggists sell "BRISTOL'S."

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE

FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

The Daily Intelligencer.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

VOL. 37. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, JULY 31, 1903 NO. 76

DETAILS OF G.T.P. SCHEME

Road Will Be Leased Free of Rent For First Seven Years.

Eastern Division From Moncton to Winnipeg Is to Be Constructed by the Government Through a Commission—The Company Is to Construct Western Division From Winnipeg to the Pacific Coast—Commission to Control Rates.

Ottawa, July 31.—In a speech of two and a half hours' duration, Sir Wilfrid Laurier yesterday communicated to the House the Government's policy towards the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway project. It was a memorable sitting of the House, and in many ways a memorable speech. The first minister, though obviously in frail health, approached his great task with perfect confidence and composure, and concluded a long speech without any visible signs of weakness. It was one of the longest, if not the longest, speech ever delivered by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the House of Commons. Overflowing galleries listened with eager interest to the deliverance. The Government's following wildly applauded Sir Wilfrid as the important features of the contract were unfolded. In the details of the contract which follows are the points elaborated by Sir Wilfrid.

Mr. R. L. Borden made a general reply to the first minister. He did not take any definite position, but he showed that the principle of public ownership is prejudiced by the division which will tie the state-owned road between Winnipeg and Moncton to company operation for fifty years. He also criticised the Premier's estimates of the probable cost and otherwise strongly condemned the scheme.

Details of the Contract.

The road will extend from Moncton to the Pacific Ocean, and will be 3,300 miles long. From Moncton to Winnipeg the distance is estimated at 1,800 miles, and from Winnipeg to Port Simpson on the Pacific Ocean, 1,500 miles.

The eastern section from Moncton to Winnipeg will be built by the Government and leased to the Grand Trunk Pacific for a period of 50 years.

For the first seven years, the company gets the lease free of rent, but will have to meet operating expenses. During the next three years the company will require to give the Government the net earnings, but if these should not be equal to three per cent. upon the cost of the section, the deficit is to be added to capital account.

Must Pay Three Per Cent.

For the next forty years the Grand Trunk Pacific will have to pay three per cent. per annum to the Government upon the capital cost of this section. This portion of the line, that is from Moncton to Winnipeg, will be built according to specifications and standard to be approved by the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Government engineers jointly.

A commission is to be appointed by the Government who will supervise the work. From Winnipeg to the Pacific Ocean the road will be constructed by the Grand Trunk Pacific within seven years. The Government will guarantee 75 per cent. of the cost of construction up to a maximum of $13,000 per mile on the prairie division between Winnipeg and Edmonton and of $30,000 per mile for the mountain division between Edmonton and the Pacific coast. The principal and interest of the bonds are to be guaranteed for fifty years. On the completion of the prairie division, the company will commence paying interest on the guaranteed bonds.

In regard to the mountain division the company will not be called on to pay anything for the first seven years, but for the succeeding three years it will have to pay the net receipts over working expenses, and any deficit will be added to the cost, while for the remaining forty years the company will pay three per cent. per annum.

Will Take Mortgage.

Between Winnipeg and the Pacific the Government will take a first mortgage on the line as security for its guarantee, and the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada will be called on to guarantee the bonds issued by the Grand Trunk Pacific for its proportion of the cost of that section.

The Grand Trunk Pacific agrees to place rolling stock of the value of $20,000,000 on the whole line, or $5,000,000 worth in use on the section between Moncton and Winnipeg. The Government will hold a lien as special security for the operation of this particular section by the company.

This section on leaving the city of Quebec will traverse the back country of that province of Lake Abittibi, and proceed westward to Winnipeg. Until the region has attracted much population and the company will have been able to obtain profits the Government takes a mortgage on the rolling stock in use, lest the company, having built the paying portion of the route, between Winnipeg and the coast, should endeavor to throw the Moncton and Winnipeg section, with its uncertain future, upon the hands of the Government before the 50 years' lease expires.

The Grand Trunk Pacific will have running powers over the Intercolonial Railway, and the Intercolonial and all other railways in Canada will have running privileges over the section of the Grand Trunk Pacific between Moncton and Winnipeg, subject to the right and obligations of the lessees and the payment of proper compensation.

To Control Rates.

The Railway Commission, which is now being created by Parliament, will control the freight rates. The Government will have the right to appoint a director on the board of the Grand Trunk Pacific. Unrouted export trade is to be carried in winter to its destination at St. John or Halifax through Canadian ports at rates no higher than would be charged if it were sent by Portland, the winter port of the Grand Trunk. This is done to overcome the geographical disadvantages of the situation. In summer the route for eastbound traffic from Manitoba by the great lakes to Georgian Bay ports, and thence by rail to the ocean vessels at Montreal. The capital of the Grand Trunk Pacific is not to exceed $45,000,000.

The company is to issue interim bonds as construction progresses on the section between Winnipeg and the Pacific, such bonds to be guaranteed by the Government and to be replaced by permanent Government bonds on the completion of the work. As far as practicable the rolling stock and equipment of the whole line are to be purchased in Canada.

The Right of Way.

The Government is to give the company free of cost such lands as may be required for right of way, station grounds, etc., wherever it owns lands suitable for such purposes. The company shall build the section through the Rocky Mountains to the Pacific coast concurrently with the prairie section between Winnipeg and Edmonton. It must deposit within 60 days $5,000,000 in cash for securities, as a guarantee for the fulfilment of its covenants, under the contract. This money will be released at the final stage of construction between Winnipeg and the Pacific. The cost of the construction and equipment is estimated at $100,000,000.

SINCLAIR'S

Saturday All Day Sale

Here are some of the special lines that will make our store attractive ALL DAY SATURDAY.

Your choice of one table of Muslins, Sateens and other Wash Goods, from 25c to 50c a yd., for... ....12 1-2c

Your choice of one table of Wash Goods, including Prints, Ginghams etc., from 12 1-2c to 20c, for..8c yd

25 p.c. Discount Sale 25 p.c.

All day Saturday we will sell at a discount of 25 per cent all our Ladies Whitewear, including Gowns, Skirts, Corset Covers, Drawers, Chemise, etc., also all Ladies Pink Wrappers, Ladies Duck, Linen and Pique Skirts and all Ladies Colored Shirt Waists. This means 50c articles for 38c, 75c for 56c, $1.00 for 75c, and $2. for $1.50.

These prices are for Saturday All Day.

D. V. SINCLAIR & CO.

DROWNED IN UPPER OTTAWA.

Fatal Accident to One of the Crown Surveying Parties.

Toronto, July 31.—A report has reached the Crown Lands Department from George A. McCribbon of St. Thomas, who has been in charge of a surveying party in the Quebec portion of the North Temiskaming, which tells of an accident on Saturday, by which one man was drowned and two narrowly escaped a similar fate. While preparing to portage two canoes were upset and the occupants thrown into the swiftly running current. Joseph Leclaire of Nottawa went down never to rise again. Mr. Peterson of Haileyburg and Rockcliffe Linton of Aurora were pulled out of the river about a hundred feet above a water fall.

The drowned man leaves a wife and eleven children. With Mr. McCribbons' party were three students of Toronto University: Arch. Gillies and Ardagh Gilbert of St. Thomas, and R. C. Ross, Welland.

Mrs. Capt. Symes Drowned.

Sarnia, July 31.—A sad accident happened here last evening about six o'clock resulting in the death by drowning of Mrs. Symes, wife of Capt. J. B. Symes of the steamer Seguin. Mrs. Symes, while walking on the wharf near Garroch's coal yard, missed her footing and fell into the river. The body was found in the water about 7 o'clock, but life was extinct. Deceased was about 65 years of age.

Crushed Under the Wheels.

Seaforth, July 31.—John Anderson, aged 15, son of Mrs. William Anderson of McKillop Township, near Seaforth, was instantly killed yesterday morning while drawing a load of rails from the barn to an adjoining field. Part of the way being down grade the rails slipped forward on the horses, which became unmanageable, and threw the young lad under the wheels.

Threw Himself From Shed.

London, July 31.—J. W. Brown of Bay City attempted suicide by throwing himself from a shed in rear of the Dominion House yesterday morning. He dislocated his neck, and fractured his skull. He was removed to the hospital in a precarious condition.

UPRISING IN CUBA.

Reports Confirmed by Officials and Guards Have Been Called On.

Havana, July 31.—Government reports received yesterday from the governor and other officials of Santiago Province are to the effect that since the night of Sunday last sixty armed and mounted men have appeared outside villages in the Cauto River district, proclaiming a resolution and demanding the payment of the former members of the revolutionary army. No acts of violence have been reported, but the inhabitants of the Cauto region are excited.

Gen. Rodriguez, commander-in-chief of the rural guard, has ordered the mobilization of all the rural guards in Eastern Cuba, and the Governor of Santiago Province has been instructed to enlist as many volunteers as may be deemed necessary, to co-operate with the mounted troops.

May Fight Extradition.

Windsor, Ont., July 31.—Mrs. Ellen McKee, the defaulting Irish postmistress, now confined in Sandwich jail was arraigned before Magistrate Bartlet Wednesday afternoon. Before making her reply to the question of whether she would return with an officer to Ireland, Mrs. McKee said that she would confer with her brother and Attorney Hanna of Windsor. She may fight extradition.

Fires Still Raging.

Baku, Russia, Transcaucasia, July 31.—The fires in the extensive petroleum works at Balakhemy, are still raging. The military, it is reported, are unable to cope with the strikers. Matters are so threatening in Balakhemy district that foreigners are fleeing to the coast for safety.

Russia Enlisting Chinese.

Tien Tsin, July 31.—The Viceroy of the Province of Chili has held a series of military councils, it is said, to decide upon the policy to be adopted in the event Russia should demand China's assistance against Japan. It is reported that Russian enlistment of Chinese in Manchuria is in progress.

Incendiaries Also Robbers.

Rossland, B. C., July 31.—Robert Arthur, Louis Rumple and Charles Nepp have been arrested, charged with stealing diamonds worth $6,600 from Sid Scott. All are gamblers. The police searched their rooms, finding a watch, razors and suspenders positively identified as goods taken from Bannet's store, gutted by fire Sunday morning. The theory is that the men robbed the store, then fired the premises to hide their crime.

Hon. Thomas Johnson Dead.

Halifax, N. S., July 31.—Hon. Thos. Johnson died at the Victoria General Hospital yesterday morning, aged 83. He came here to attend a meeting of the executive, and feeling ill went to the hospital about a week ago. He represented Shelburne County for many years, and was a member of the Provincial Government without portfolio.

GAMEY MAKES HOT SPEECH

Says Stratton Is Guilty as Hell and Judges' Report a Lie.

Conservatives Honor Member For Manitoulin at Reception and Banquet at Gore Bay—Fourteen Hundred People Were Present, and Besides Mr. Gamey Leading Provincial Members of the Party Spoke—Mr. Gamey's Speech.

Gore Bay, July 31.—Yesterday afternoon in the park in the open air in the teeth of a raw and raging wind, the Conservatives of Gore Bay tendered a reception to Mr. R. R. Gamey as a mark of how they view his action during the last session.

Reception Was Success.

There were present about 1,400 people, many of whom were women and children. Manitowaning and Kagawang, Providence Bay, Silverwater, Barrie Island, Meldrum Bay, Campbell and Gordon, and the Soo were all represented by fair-sized contingents at the afternoon open air reception and banquet at night. This town was a forest of flags and bunting yesterday, a band created enthusiasm and the hospitality of the citizens was a thing to wonder at and remember. What was lacking in numbers was made up in enthusiasm and the local committee, composed of W. H. Price, A. J. Kenny, W. W. Holden, R. J. Armstrong, Sam Greer, Thomas Smith, Harry Hall, I. Porter, W. R. S. Rigby and George Strain declared that the whole affair had been a satisfactory success.

Mr. Whitney's Admiration.

The chairman was Edwin Batty, local Mennonite minister, who condemned the finding of the Royal Commission as unrighteous and lopsided. R. Joynt, M.L.A., of Greenville, 700 miles away, made a good impression when he declared admiration for Mr. Gamey in what he considered his successful effort to defeat the government. Manitoulin should be proud of him.

Dr. Pyne warmed up his audience. He was glad to show respect for Gamey, and read a letter from Mr. Whitney, which the latter had asked him to read, in which Mr. Whitney said: "In my opinion Mr. Gamey has done a great service to the people of Ontario. I am glad his constituents are showing their appreciation of him. I regret my inability to be present and say this for myself."

Dr. Pyne touched many subjects of provincial interest, particularly blaming Mr. Ross for neglecting Manitoulin. In concluding, he said: "I join with you in paying your respects to your representative and hope you may long have as good a representative. He was a man who stood out alone against the government." (Cheers.)

Shot Gun Brigade to Save Gamey.

R. Johnston, M.P., was glad to add to Gamey's honor. He congratulate the people on having such a noble representative. He was able to cope with any of the politicians of Toronto. Amid cheers he declared: "That man has done more to purify the atmosphere of politics in Ontario than anyone else in the past twenty-five years!" He justified Gamey in being charged as an informer by declaring that the gang in Toronto had to be met with their own weapons. Speaking of the members of the House of Commons, he declared: "Gamey has the sympathy of all the oCnservative M.P.'s." (Cheers.) He defended Gamey in a spirited address that was frequently applauded.

T. A. Hand, president of the Conservative Association of Sault Ste. Marie, declared that the people there were in sympathy with Gamey, and had he been arrested when it was said he was about to be, a shotgun brigade would have gone down to Toronto. (Applause.)

Stands Strongly by Gamey.

Dr. Beattie Nesbitt talked straight from the shoulder. In his opinion the gathering did honor to a man whom all Conservatives in Canada honored. "I am standing by amey," said the doctor, "and I propose to stand by him to the end." (Applause.) He was willing to take the estimate of the men of Manitoulin regarding Gamey. They stood by him if he treated them fair and square. "He is good enough for me and good enough for the Province of Ontario in general." Speaking of Gamey's story, he said he was going to believe it till the government could produce something easier to believe. Gamey's story was the easiest to believe told in the House this session. The doctor took considerable time in elaborating his position and declared Manitoulin should be proud of his integrity and ability. He broke new ground when he declared Sir John Boyd had been a commissioner for the government and Mr. Justice Falconbridge only a chaperon. He concluded by declaring he would stand by the man who stood by Manitoulin and himself.

The chairman read a telegram from Dr. Reaume, in which the doctor said: "Gamey is all right."

The Man From Manitoulin.

Gamey was given a rousing reception by the people, who cheered his rising for several minutes. He read a telegram from Peterboro, signed by J. W. Miller. It read: "Thousands of your friends in West Peterboro have confidence in you and send you kindly greetings. Gamey was fierce in his denunciation of the government he was prepared to prove on the platform that the Liberal government in Toronto was absolutely false and corrupt.

Arthur "a Perjured Liar."

With deliberation, expressing a desire to have it published, Gamey referred to Dr. R. A. Arthur of Sudbury as a perjured liar. He asked the Attorney-General to take action and he would prove his charge. Arthur had sworn Gamey and McGregor were in Sudbury in his office in January, but the fact was McGregor was never in Sudbury in his life except in a train. That was the first point Gamey urged to support his charge. Again, Arthur swore he had spoken to Gamey in Toronto on January 14th, but two railway officials could prove that he (Gamey) was several hundred miles away from Toronto; that Arthur had been described by Sir John Boyd as a truthful witness and placed in the honor list, Gamey thought was contemptible meanness.

Stratton "Guilty as Hell."

Of Stratton, Gamey said: "He is guilty—guilty as hell. I defy him to take any action against me. That money came directly from J. R. Stratton.

"In general terms the finding of the Royal Commission was a lie."

He would undertake, if Sir John Boyd would make a declaration that the report was correct, to swear out a warrant charging him with perjury within fifteen minutes. Sir John Boyd signed a lie, declared Gamey.

Bank Manager Interrupted.

Gamey touched a human chord when he said that if he could not stand up and face his fellow-men he could not stay on earth, and a dramatic turn was given to his speech. When he analyzed Stratton's speech in the House, where Stratton said [illegible] Gamey's cash account in the Gore Bay Bank would show where the nine hundred dollars and the fifteen hundred dollars came from, Gamey was saying that these books were in the hands of the counsel for the defence for weeks, but were never utilized, but Manager Hurst of the Gore Bay Bank, who was in the park, interrupted Gamey, declaring that the books never left his possession, tho the defence lawyers examined them under his own eye. This interruption was taken as a victory for Gamey.

Gamey referred to Mr. Whitney as a man who had been a friend during the last session and paid a tribute to the support he had received from Conservatives all over Canada. He predicted that the Conservative party would soon be in power and that then Manitoulin would be fixed up. (Cheers.)

When Gamey sat down he was given an ovation. He had spoken with all the appearance of sincerity and certainly had the hearts of his auditors.

Wave for Good Government.

J. W. St. John, M.L.A., brought the meeting to a close with a vigorous speech. He was glad to assist in the reception to Gamey, and to visit the people of Manitoulin, who had done their part in the serious session just passed. Gamey had dared to beard the lion in his den. Mr. St. John saw signs of a popular wave for clean government in the fact that everyone wanted still to know where did the three thousand dollars come from. He exhorted his hearers to work for purer politics, and then enlarged on the policy Mr. Whitney would put into force when he came to power.

Cheers for the King and Gamey brought the reception to an end.

CAMPED ON THE RAILWAY.

Contractors' Men Armed With Pocket Artillery and Winchesters, and Redcoats, Prevent Running of Road.

Frank, Alb., July 31.—A small detachment of Mounted Policemen are camped between the rails of the Frank and Grassy Mountain Railway, just above the town, to prevent the owners of the railway from running a train over it. Wednesday the contractors and a few men, armed plentifully with pocket artillery, an ugly looking Winchester and a shotgun, tore up two miles of the road and established a camp in the gap. They were reinforced yesterday morning by a half-dozen redcoats under Captain Davidson, and it is rumored more are on the way in from Calgary. The contractors entered suit to recover $21,000 last fall, and though the courts have not as yet reached a decision, the contractors have secured an injunction, hence the blockade.

ROYALTY AT GALWAY.

King Will Remember Hearty Welcome From Irish Subjects.

Galway, Ireland, July 31—King Edward and Queen Alexandra continued by motor yesterday their inspection of some of the wildest and most picturesque regions of Ireland. The start was made at 9 a.m from the little town of Leenane, on the shore of Killarney Bay, where they were presented with an address. The King said he had already inspected some of the cottage industries and that he was pleased with the spirit of industrial activity and warm hearty welcome of the people, which he and the Queen both would long remember.

The motor journey ended at Recess, where the party had luncheon.

Their Majesties then took a train for Galway and arrived here late in the afternoon. They met with an enthusiastic reception.

Guests of Lord Lansdowne.

The King was presented with addresses by the District Council and other bodies, to which he replied briefly. Their Majesties then boarded the Royal yacht, which was lying in Galway Bay. To-day they will take a train for Kenmare, near which place they will be the guests of Lord Lansdowne at his country seat "Derreen," County of Kerry.

Pardoned on the Spot.

At Recess, where Their Majesties stopped for luncheon, an extraordinary incident occurred. A poor old woman approached the Queen with a petition for the remission of the remainder of a sentence of six months passed upon her husband. Inquiries proved that the man's character justified clemency and the Queen, with the King's permission, remitted the sentence on the spot. The surrounding crowd, learning what had occurred, cheered wildly.

THE CONCLAVE.

The Program For the Election of a Successor to Pope Leo.

Rome, July 31.—The Vatican yesterday was the scene of great activity. Within the last preparations were being made for the conclave. In the Sistine chapel work will go on throughout the night. No one candidate stands out prominently as did Count Pecci in the conclave in 1877.

The program for to-day will consist of the mass to the Holy Ghost in the morning, together with an oration. The cardinals will enter the conclave at five o'clock in the afternoon. Each of the cardinals yesterday received a medal struck by the Camerlengo. Cardinals were named to visit the precincts of the conclave for the purpose of making sure that there will be no possibility of communication with the outside world. They are to make their report to the congregation to-day.

Rome.—The last tribute was paid to the late Pope Leo at the third great requiem mass celebrated in the Sistine Chapel of the Vatican, Thursday morning. There were sixty-one cardinals present, a number unprecedented in the case of former masses.

VERY PLEASANT.

Because it makes the digestion of good, nourishing food easy, Angier's Petroleum Emulsion is prescribed by physicians for wasting diseases. It cleanses the blood and system of impurities and creates firm flesh. Pleasant to take, and agreeable to weak stomachs.

Nestlé's FOOD

Under the Nestlé Tree

PROTECTION for an infant in the choice of its food is of the greatest importance. Nestlé's Food is nourishing, strengthening, makes bone and sinew and keeps the baby in perfect health.

A sample of Nestlé's Food sufficient for eight full meals, will be sent free by addressing LEEMING, MILES & CO., Sole Agents, Montreal.

THE MARKETS.

Higher Prices For Grain at Both Liverpool and Chicago—Live Stock Markets—The Latest Quotations.

Thursday Evening, July 30.

Liverpool wheat futures closed ½d to 1d higher to-day than yesterday, and corn futures ½d higher.

At Chicago, Sept. wheat closed ⅝c higher than yesterday; Sept. corn unchanged and Sept. oats ½c higher.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London—Close—Wheat, on passage, less offering. Parcels No. 2 hard winter, Aug. 28s 9d. Maize, on passage, firm, but not active. Spot American mixed, 22s 7½d. Flour, spot, Minn., 27s.

Paris—Close—Wheat, tone firm; July, 26f 10c; Nov. and Feb., 22f 55c. Flour, tone steady; July, 31f 90c; Nov. and Feb., 29f 65c.

Antwerp—Wheat, spot firm; No. 2 R.W., 16⅝f.

LEADING WHEAT MARKETS.

Following are the closing quotations at important wheat centres to-day:

	Cash.	July.	Sept.	Dec.
New York	....	....	84¼	84½
Chicago	....	....	79½	79½
Toledo	78⅛	78⅛	79½	81¼
Duluth, No. 1 N.	87¼	87¼	79⅝	77⅝

TORONTO ST. LAWRENCE MARKET.

Grain—

Wheat, red, bush	$0 76 to	$....
Wheat, white, bush.	0 76	....
Wheat, spring, bush. ...	0 70	0 72
Wheat, goose, bush.	0 72½	....
Barley, bush.	0 44½	....
Beans, bush.	1 30	1 50
Beans, hand-picked	1 75	....
Peas, bush.	0 78½	....
Rye, bush.	0 45	....
Oats, bush	0 37	0 38

LIVERPOOL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Liverpool, July 30.—Wheat, spot quiet; No. 2 red western winter, 6s 3d; No. 1 northern spring, 6s 5d. No. 1 California, 6s 7d; futures, quiet; July, nominal; Sept., 6s 4½d; Dec., 6s 4d. Corn, spot American mixed, steady, 4s 5½d; futures, quiet; July, nominal; Sept., 4s 6½d. Bacon, long clear middles, light, firm, 51s 6d; long clear middles, heavy, firm, 51s; short clear backs, quiet, 47s 6d; clear bellies, steady, 50s 6d. Lard, prime western, in tierces, steady, 38s; American refined, in pails, steady, 38s. Cotton seed oil, Hull refined, spot firm, 23s.

NEW YORK DAIRY MARKET.

New York, July 30.—Butter, firm, unchanged; receipts, 3680.

Cheese firm, unchanged; receipts, 6896.

Eggs—Firm; receipts, 8525; nearby fancy selected white, 22c; do., western extras, thirds, 13c to 14½c; do., very inferior, 10c to 12c; dirties, 10c to 13c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Quoted Unchanged—Rain Depresses Market at Montreal.

London, July 30.—Live cattle steady at 11¾c to 12½c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 11½c to 11¾c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 9c to 9¼c per lb. Sheep, 11c to 12c.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the Western Cattle Market were large, 78 car loads all told, composed of 334 cattle, 1145 hogs, 1600 sheep and lambs, with about 50 calves.

Exporters—Best loads exporters are worth $5 to $5.12½ per cwt.; medium to good at about $4.75 to $4.90.

Export Bulls—Choice quality bulls sold at $4 to $4.25 per cwt.; good bulls sold at $3.60 to $3.80 per cwt.

Export Cows—Export cows sold at $4.00 per cwt.

Butchers' Cattle—Choice picked lots of butchers, weighing from 1025 to 1100 lbs. each, equal in quality to best exporters, sold at $4.65; loads of good sold at $4.40 to $4.50; fair to good, $4.25 to $4.35; common, $3.75 to $4.00; rough to inferior, $2.65 to $3.25.

Feeders—Steers of good quality, 800 to 1000 lbs. each, at $3.40 to $3.75 per cwt.

Short-keep Feeders—Good steers, 1100 to 1200 lbs. each, are worth $4 to $4.25 per cwt.

Milch Cows—Milch cows and springers are worth $30 to $50 each.

Calves—Calves sold at $2 to $10 each, or from $3.50 to $5 per cwt.

Sheep—Prices, $3.65 to $3.75 per cwt. for ewes, and bucks at $2.75 to $3.

Spring Lambs—Prices steady at $2.50 to $4 each.

Hogs—Best select bacon hogs, not less than 160 lbs., nor more than 200 lbs. each, off cars, sold at $6.25 per cwt.; lights and

30 DAVIES STORES 30

We are Always Adding to our lines of Cooked Meats. Besides the 32 VARIETIES always on sale we can now offer you something very superior in the way of Roast Beef, Roast Tenderloin with Dressing,

Roast Pork with Dressing.

SPECIAL SALE SATURDAY OF

NEW MILD CHEESE	2 lb. for 25c
GOOD SALMON	3 cans 25c
PICKLED HOCKS	5c per lb.
Large consignment of GOOD DAIRY BUTTER	20c per lb.

The WM. DAVIES CO., Limited

4 Daily Deliveries. | Use 'Phone 286.

SPECIAL OFFER

MIDSUMMER CLUBBING RATES.

Two Papers to January 1st, 1904

Family Herald & Weekly Star, and the Best Home Paper—The Weekly Intelligencer, BOTH for

65 CENTS

We are making this special offer as we require 1000 new subscriptions to our Weekly.

This offer is good to new subscribers only.

ADDRESS—— The Weekly Intelligencer
BELLEVILLE, ONT.

No agents handle this offer.

The Finnegan Carriage & Wagon Co.

——FOR——

Stylish and Durable Turnouts.

—Surreys
—Corning Buggies
—Piano Box Buggies
—Rubber Tire Buggies
—Micadoes
—Phaetons
—Bike Buggies
—Democrats
—Grocer Wagons
—Butcher Wagons

Cheese Factory Milk Wagons.
Steel Tubular Axle Lumber Wagons.

Rubber Tires put on your old wheels at reasonable prices.

Mill St, - - Belleville

RAILWAY TIME TABLES.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

Time of departure from Belleville Station:

Going East.

No. 8 12.45 a.m., daily except Sunday, for Brockville, Montreal and intermediate stations.
No. 2—1.45 a.m., Mail and Express, (Flyer), Daily.
No. 16—Local, for Brockville, 7 a.m., arrives back from Brockville 8.40 p.m.
No. 6—11.43 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 4—12.22 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 12—5.55 p.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.

Going West.

No. 5—3 a.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Monday.
No. 3—4.10 a.m., Limited Express, Daily.
No. 9—5.50 a.m., Local Passenger, Daily, except Sunday.
No. 11—11.22 a.m., Passenger, Daily except Sunday.
No. 1—1.48 p.m., International Limited, Daily.
No. 7—5.12 p.m., Mail and Express, Daily, except Sunday.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Belleville and Peterboro.

Going West.

	Leave.	Arr. Peterboro
Mail	5.45 a.m.	8.10 a.m.
Mixed	5.55 p.m.	9.05 p.m.

Going East.

	Arr.	L've Peterboro
Mixed	11.20 a.m.	8.25 a.m.
Mail	4.25 p.m.	2.05 p.m.

Belleville and Madoc.

Going North.

	L've	Arr. Madoc
Mixed	12.20 p.m.	1.20 p.m.
Mixed	6.30 p.m.	7.40 p.m.

Going South.

	Arr.	L've Madoc
Mixed	9.10 a.m.	7.30 a.m.
Mixed	5.08 p.m.	3.45 p.m.

None of the above trains run on Sunday.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, July 30.—About 400 head of butchers' cattle, 150 calves and 300 sheep and lambs were offered for sale at the east end abbatoir to-day. The rain helped to depress the market, excepting that there was an active demand by shippers, who bought about 60 head of the best cattle, paying from 4¾c to 5c per lb. for them. Medium cattle sold at from 3¾c to 4½c per lb., and the common stock at from 2¼c to 3c. Calves sold at from $2 to $8 each, or from 2½c to 5c per lb., but some of them were rather lean grassers two or three months old. Sheep sold at from 3c to 3¾c per lb., and lambs at from $2.50 to $4 each. Good lots of fat hogs sold at from 5¾c to 6c per lb., weighed off the cars.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, July 30.—Cattle—Receipts, 125 head, slow; prime and shipping steers, $4.80 to $5.40; butchers' steers, $4.15 to $4.75; cows and heifers, $2.50 to $4.60; bulls, $3 to $4.15; stockers and feeders, $3 to $4. Veals—Receipts, 120 head, steady, $5.50 to $7.

Hogs—Receipts, 4100 head, heavy, 5c to 10c higher; others steady; heavy, $5.75 to $5.85; mixed, $5.80 to $5.85; yorkers, $5.90 to $6; pigs, $6 to $6.15; roughs, $4.75 to $5; stags, $3.75 to $4.25; dairies, $5.60 to $5.75.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 1500 head; ewes, steady; lambs, 10c to 15c lower; sheep, 15c to 25c lower; lambs, $4 to $5.20; yearlings, $4.25 to $4.75; wethers, $4.25 to $4.50; ewes, $3.75 to $4; mixed sheep, $1.50 to $4.25.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, July 30.—Beeves—No receipts; no sales reported. Calves—Receipts 27; veals quoted about steady; veals sold at $5 to $8 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 4206; sheep very dull, ¼c lower; general sales of lambs 10c to 15c higher; same transactions, ½c higher; sheep sold at $3 to $4 per 100 lbs.; a few small bunches at $4.25; culls, at $2 to $2.25; lambs, at $5.50 to $6.60; one car at $6.75; culls at $4.87½.

Hogs—Receipts, 1586; steady, but dull for heavy weight; heavy hogs sold at $6 per cwt.; western hogs, $5.80.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Tweed, July 30.—There were 835 white cheese boarded; 345 sold to Hodgson & Magrath at 9 1-16c, 490 sold at 9¼c to Watkins, balance unsold.

Brockville, July 30.—There were 870 colored, 680 white, total 1550 cheese, offered on our board; 9¼c bid; no sales.

Kingston, July 30.—There were 1691 boxes of cheese on sale at the Frontenac Board to-day. Bidding began at 9c, and at 9¼c some 325 boxes were sold, tho the buyers offered to take nearly all the cheese registered at that figure.

Vankleek Hill, July 30.—There were 1224 white and 150 colored cheese boarded here to-day. Bidding was very slow.

Daily Intelligencer.

A GRIT'S BAD MEMORY.

HOW THE MANITOBA FREE PRESS CHANGED ITS OPINION OF PREMIER ROBLIN.

During the recent election campaign in Manitoba the Winnipeg Free Press pursued Premier Roblin with an unrestrained vigor of vituperation known only in the breezy west. Its denunciations of Roblin were certainly a caution.

But the wicked Conservative paper, the Winnipeg Telegram, has, by way of the retort courteous, republished the following editorial eulogy of Mr. Roblin which the Free Press published on July 15th, 1892,—as the Telegram says, "before that paper had ceased to be a respectable publication."

Thus runs the former eulogy by the Free Press:

"From all parts of the Province comes evidence of the cordiality with which Mr. Roblin is received by the electors. Wherever he appears he makes friends. In a larger degree than we have seen for many years, in this Province, he possesses that personal magnetism which is so much esteemed in a leader of men. Mr. Roblin is young in years and young in experience as a politician, but in both these respects he will improve if we give him time. But what he does not lack is courage, and, better than this, integrity of character, both as a public man and as a private citizen, which can defy the malice of all his enemies. The Greenwayites hate him with a hate too intense for coherent utterance. Another class who hate him are a few in this city who envy the prominence his sterling good qualities have earned for him. They are jealous of his success, and they would like to see him come tumbling down to their own base level.

"By both these classes Mr. Roblin is being pursued with a bitterness and vulgarity that are truly revolting. And all the time by his openness, frankness, and, simple downright honesty, he is making friends right and left with the honest, masses of the people. Mr. Roblin is an honorable man: able, courageous, clear-headed, with his face turned and his voice raised always in the direction of the right according as his judgment teaches him."

LAURIER'S SHAMELESS PROPOSAL.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, when he and his confreres were accused of inspiring a bitter newspaper attack on Hon. Messrs. Blair and Tarte, assured Parliament "on his word of honor," that he was innocent of such a contemptible act. The Premier further thought that his "word of honor" was something that would be appreciated by friend or foe.

The fact remains that Mr. Blair does not consider Sir Wilfrid is a good judge of "honor" as it is understood by most men.

Would a man of "honor," occupying such a high position as Sir Wilfrid, ask Mr. Blair to remain in a Government and support a policy which the ex-Minister of Railways declared to be indefensible? Sir Wilfrid did that.

Would a man of "honor," seek to suppress information which explained Mr. Blair's position, on the ground that it was a Cabinet secret? Yet Sir Wilfrid was guilty of that.

Would a man of "honor," as the head of the Canadian Government, by announcing a policy in Parliament, which should properly come from another Minister, deceive the people whom he is supposed to represent? Such was the course Sir Wilfrid adopted.

Would a man of "honor," in a word, ask another to debase himself, betray his constituents, friends and himself, in order that party capital might be made for Sir Wilfrid and his Government? The Premier of the Dominion proposed this to Mr. Blair.

Where, then, is that "honor" of which Sir Wilfrid boasts? His proposals to Mr. Blair were met with righteous indignation, and it is not to be wondered at that the Premier felt the sting which followed the exposure of his unspeakable suggestions. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has fallen in the estimation of thousands. He is a bitter disappointment, and his crime against public morality will not be forgotten.

We have added one new flavor

Cream Soda

to our long list of flavors for Ice Cream Soda, making now 27 flavors for you to choose from for 5c a glass

J. ARTHUR MARSH.

TIMELY TOPICS

The Kingston Freeman, a home rule paper, speaks thus flippantly of a matter which most respectable people would feel called on to deplore:

"Kingston is going to the dogs," said a well-known would be Christian advocate as he hopped along Princess street on Sunday morning. With bands playing, street cars running in full blast, excursions down the river, bands in the parks, and last but not least, open hotels, Sunday must certainly have shocked the pious thoughts of the Lord's Day Alliance people most terribly. It is "horrid" to relate.

• • •

Last day of the seventh month in 1903. There is no exaggeration in saying that old Time is just scorching along.

• • •

Another Yankee yacht, the Kolutoo, of Manchester, N.H., has come over to try and lift the Seawanhaka cup. Yesterday she lost the first race to the Canadian defender, Thorella. The Yankee boat was a mile behind when she gave up the race. The U.S. may have the best of it in big yachts, but in smaller craft Canadians are unapproachable.

• • •

A Buffalo policeman found a 16-year-old boy stealing flowers, and tried to arrest him. The boy shot the officer dead. Buffalo is rapidly getting to be the toughest place on this continent. Hardly a day passes but what there is a murder or serious crime of some sort.

• • •

Premier Roblin, of Manitoba, now has 31 seats out of 39. Good for our old Bay of Quinte boy!

• • •

Hamilton cigar men are fighting, and selling ten-cent cigars for five cents. A healthy quarrel among the cigar dealers of other places would not be a bad thing occasionally.

• • •

The Methodist Magazine and Review for this month concludes an article on the Hon. Mr. Sifton with the following words: "In a time when political corruption is the talk of the day, it is pleasing to see him described by the press as a man of the highest principle and honor." This is enough to make the weather warm.

• • •

It is said that the new top dressing from Zwick's island, when used on our streets, makes a much harder surface than the former stuff from the old quarry. It will be a good thing when some of that top dressing is put on Front street.

LATEST NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS

As Furnished to The Intelligencer by H. R. Beattie, Stock Broker.

New York, July 31.

Stock	Op'g	H'st	L'st	Close.
Atch'son'	62¼	63¼	61⅛	62⅜
do. pref	88½	89	88⅜	88½
St. Paul	141	141¼	141	141⅜
Mo. P.	98	98⅜	97¼	98¼
Union. Pac	74¼	75⅛	74¼	74⅞
C. P. R.	122½	123	122⅜	122½
South Pac.	44	44⅜	43⅜	44
R. I.	24½	24⅜	23⅜	24¼
Ills. C.	129½	139	129½	130
Sou. Ry.	20½	20¼	20	20¼
Texas	26	26	25¼	25¼
B & O.	82⅞	83½	82⅞	83¼
N. Y.C.	121	121	119¼	120
Penna	123¼	124	123¼	123⅞
T W.	95½	95½	93½	93½
Erie	28¼	29⅛	28⅛	29⅛
do. pref.	66	67¼	66	66⅞
Reading	49	49⅞	49	49
C. O.	32⅜	32⅜	32⅜	32⅜
O. & W.	22¼	22¼	22⅛	22¼
Manhattan	132⅜	134	132⅞	133
W. C.	18	....	....	....
L. & N.	104¼	104½	104	104¼
A. F.	33	33	32½	32½
Nor.	62⅜	62⅞	62⅜	62⅞
Wab.	21¼	....	....	....
do pref.	37	37½	37	37
W.U.	84	....	....	....
C. G. W.	15½	15½	15⅛	15½
T.C.I.	39½	39¼	38⅞	39
U S. Sil.	23¼	23⅞	23½	23¼
do pref.	71⅜	72⅛	71¼	72
Sugar	115½	116	115½	116
B. R. T.	45	46¼	45	46
Po.	93¼	....	....	....
A. C. P.	41	41⅞	40½	41½
Met.	119	121	119	119

Sept. wheat opened at 79¼; closed at 78⅜
Sept. corn opened at 52¼; closed at 52¼

CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY.

The uniform size of this remedy has made it the most popular preparation in use for bowel complaints. It is everywhere recognized as the one remedy that can always be depended upon and that is pleasant to take. It is especially valuable for summer diarrhoea in children and is undoubtedly the means of saving the lives of a great many children each year. For sale by all druggsst.

EXCITING RUNAWAY ON FRONT STREET.

HORSE, FRIGHTENED BY AN AUTOMOBILE, RUNS AWAY, DOING SOME DAMAGE.

An exciting runaway occurred on Front street shortly before noon to-day, but fortunately, no person was injured. A horse attached to a buggy belonging to Mr. John Johnston, School Inspector, was standing in front of Mr. Walker's store, when it became frightened, it is alleged, by escaping steam from an automobile which was coming up Front street. The animal started up our main aisle at a rapid gate, and had proceeded but a short distance when it collided with a vehicle belonging to Mr. T. S. Carman, in which Miss Carman and her sister, Mrs. Wm. Pinkerton, were riding. Fortunately the horse was a quiet animal and did not become unruly. One of the wheels of the rubber tired rig was nearly broken off. Mr Johnston's horse proceeded up Front street, and at the corner of Victoria Avenue the buggy came in collision with a hydrant, checking the horse up suddenly and causing it to fall upon the pavement, where it was caught. The animal was somewhat injured by the fall. The buggy to which it was attached was badly shattered.

HIS LAST HOPE REALIZED.

[From the Sentinel, Gebo, Mont.]

In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his camping upon his claim, he encountered much bad water, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first sound sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by all druggists.

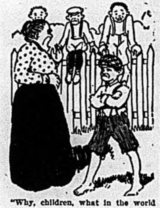
The Reason For It.

"Of course the feminine pronoun should be used in referring to an automobile."

"Why?"

"Because it's more whimsical and uncertain than even a ship."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Playing Millionaire.



"Why, children, what in the world are you perched up on that sharp rail fence for?"

"Because we're playin' millionaire, and Tommie's John Peerpunt Morgan, and he made all the rest of us get off the earth."—Chicago Tribune.

DEAF AS A DOOR NAIL. Not an uncommon expression, but quite true of many people whose hearing can be perfectly restored by inhaling Catarrhozone. It quickly relieves and cures all kinds of catarrh, catarrhal deafness, and diseases of the respiratory organs. Don't give up hope till you have tested Catarrhozone. It has restored lost hearing to thousands, and can do the same for you. Catarrhozone is a vegetable antiseptic, pleasant and convenient to use, absolutely certain to quickly benefit and ultimately cure. Two months' treatment $1.90. Small size 25c. At druggists or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

The long tails of the Shah of Persia's horses are dyed crimson for six inches at their tips — jealously guarded privilege of the ruler and his sons.

All druggists will refund your money if you are not satisfied after using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is everywhere admitted to be the most successful remedy in use for bowel complaints and the only one that never fails. It is pleasant, safe and reliable.

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

His Finish.

"What was that awful shriek I just heard?" asked the author nervously.

"That," explained the stage manager as he hurried toward the door, "was the star in the death scene. The audience has got him."—New Yorker.

Kept Asunder.

Tom—Have Maud and Ethel quarreled? I don't see them together lately.

Dolly—No, they haven't quarreled, but Maud's new gown is lavender and Ethel's new gown is blue.—Somerville (Mass.) Journal.

A Picnic With the College Jesters

"What did you do when Miss Kandid said she thought you were odd?"

"Told her I'd get even."—Cornell Widow.

Soph—That was the cleanest game of ball I ever saw.

Junior—What game?

Soph—Why, the water polo match.—Columbia Jester.

"Another tragedy," said the cynic as shrill shrieks arose from the ruined cistern. "I suppose there is a woman at the bottom of it."—Yale Record.

The Actor—Yes, I am to recite Hamlet's soliloquy—

The Critic—The audience ought to sympathize with you.

Actor—How?

Critic—Why, it'll be such hard lines for both of you.—Harvard Lampoon.

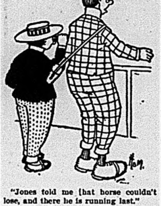
Long Winded Lover—Ah me! And how can I show you all I have within my heart for you?

She (desperately bored)—Cut it out.—Yale Record.

Crusty Old Gent (to tramp)—What! Begging again? Didn't I give you a dime yesterday for a meal?

Tramp (sarcastically)—Yes, I know, gov'nor, but I overate, and I want to get some medicine for it.—Columbia Jester.

Explained.



"Jones told me that horse couldn't lose, and there he is running last."

"I guess Jones was holding the dope sheet upside down when he figured that out."—New York Evening Journal.

The Sea Widow.

"What have you got all that green stuff on your head for?" inquired the first mermaid.

"Why, didn't you know of my husband's death?" replied the other. "These are my widow's seaweeds."—Philadelphia Press.

No Good Effects Noticed.

She—The milliner told me that she had been down to the dentist's to have a nerve killed.

He—Well, from the prices she asks for hats I should say the dentist must have killed the wrong one.—Stray Stories.

His Talent.

"John Henry, I'll thrash you soundly if I ever catch you telling another story that isn't true."

"And yet, ma, I heard you say to the minister that I had great imagination."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Doubtful Consolation.

"I'm afraid," said Willie Wishington, "that I lack self confidence."

"Cheer up," said Miss Cayenne. "Perhaps that fact indicates that you are a good judge of human nature."—Washington Star.

Curative Treatment.

"Your father used to say he couldn't afford the trouble and expense of keeping a pony for you. How did you cure him of that idea?"

"I just kept on nagging him."—Chicago Tribune.

Wouldn't Warm Up.

"It was really chilly on the porch last evening," she said.

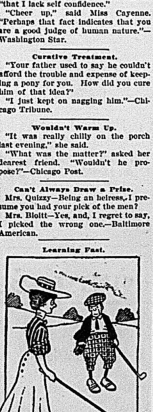
"What was the matter?" asked her dearest friend. "Wouldn't he propose?"—Chicago Post.

Can't Always Draw a Prize.

Mrs. Quizzy—Being an heiress, I presume you had your pick of the men?

Mrs. Bloitt—Yes, and, I regret to say, I picked the wrong one.—Baltimore American.

Learning Fast.



"You foozled that time, Miss Niblick."

"Did I, really? I had no idea I was becoming so expert."—New York American.

There are very few cleansing operations in which Sunlight Soap cannot be used to advantage. It makes the home bright and clean. 18

THE WEATHER.

To-day's Probs—

Moderate to fresh northwest to north winds, fine and cool. Saturday, light to moderate winds, fine and cool.

To-day's Temperature

As Registered by The Intelligencer's Guaranteed Thermometer:

8 a.m.	64
12 m.	74
2 p.m.	77
3 p.m.	78

A BARGAIN IN WRIST BAGS

AT COST

On Saturday, 1st Aug., we shall sell our Leather Wrist Bags at actual wholesale cost price.

This means just what it says, to the letter. We have not sufficient showcase room and must clear them to make room for other lines of goods.

Call and price them anyway,

Angus McFee.
Jeweler & Optician

As a place where the wearied can rest and recuperate with happiest surroundings the MAGI Caledonia Springs is unique.

S. S. Entertainment

A most excellent ice cream and cake social was held on Thursday night on the lawn of Mr. Thomas Ramsay, west College street, in the interests of the Centre Street Sunday School. The lawn was decorated with Chinese lanterns and the house thrown open as well, so that nothing was lacking in that regard to make an enjoyable time. The Pastor, Rev. F. B. Stratton, occupied the chair, and a splendid programme was rendered, consisting of recitations by Miss Addie Chisholm and Miss Hitchon, of Belleville, and Mrs. E. Williamson, of Lindsay, daughter of Rev. Mr. Stratton; instrumental music by Miss Murphy; duetts by Miss Murphy and Mr. Richardson. A short address and recitation by Rev. Thomas Hambly, of Worthington, Minn., closed the programme. Then followed ice cream and cake. The whole was well spiced with numerous selections from Mr. Wickett's gramaphone. The committee deserve great credit, and Mr. C. Elvins, superintendent, must be gratified with the success.

Foot Elm Soothes Aching Feet.

Till you try Foot Elm you won't know how it adds to the joy of living. Your feet will never bother you.

This wonderful powder takes away the itch and ache, the soreness and tiredness. It prevents swelling, blistering and chafing of the feet, does away with offensive perspiration odors and keeps the feet cool and comfortable. Price 25 cents a box at druggists or by mail. B. I. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont.

1,000 ISLANDS AND ROCHESTER.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian" leave Belleville for Thousand Islands at 3.25 a.m., daily except Mondays. Fare $1.00. Returning Str. leaves at 1.38 p.m. for Rochester, N.Y. m26d&w3m

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY

MEDICAL.

JOHN J. FARLEY, M.D., C.M., M.R., C.S., England.

Office and Residence — Corner of Bridge and George streets — three streets East of Post Office.

DR. J. F. MATHER

Has removed his office to Pinnacle St., three doors north of Hotel Quinte.
my29-6mw

DENTAL.

Dr. Clarke has removed to the offices formerly occupied by the late Dr. Ward, over Burrows', and opposite Scantlebury's Book Store.
a27dtf

LEGAL.

WILLS & WRIGHT,

Barristers, Solicitors, Notary Public, &c., Belleville.
Office—9 Campbell Street.

MALCOLM WRIGHT. J. FRANKLIN WILLS.
Money to Loan at Lowest Rates.

W. C. MIKEL, B. C. L.,
Barrister, &c.

Solicitor for the City of Belleville.
Office—Metropolitan Block, Corner Front and Campbell Streets.

PORTER & CARNEW,

Barristers, Solicitors, Notaries Public, etc.
Offices — Robertson Block, East Front St., Belleville, Ont.
'Phone 87.
E. G. PORTER. WM. CARNEW.

WILLIAM N. PONTON,

Barrister-at-law, Solicitor, Notary Public, Conveyancer. Office over Express and Telegraph Office, Bridge Street, Belleville.

Money to Loan — Private Funds. Solicitor Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company of Ontario.

FRANCIS S. WALLBRIDGE,
Successor to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Q.C.

Barrister, Solicitor, Conveyancer, Etc. Office, McAnnany Building, corner Front and Bridge Sts., Belleville, Ont. Private and Company money to loan at 6 per cent., on easy terms upon good land security.
Charges moderate.

INSURANCE.

Fire Insurance.

Guardian . . .	Est'd 1821
The North America,	Est'd 1792
Quebec, . . .	Est'd 1818

City, Town and Village Property insure at lowest rates.

R. W. ADAMS. Agent.

Office opposite Post Office.

THOS. STEWART,
Insurance and Commission Agent.

Agent for the Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Scottish Union National Insurance Co..
BRIDGE, ST.

FIRE, LIFE & ACCIDENT INSURANCE

At Lowest Rates The Norwich Union Fire Insurance Society and Perth Mutual on farm and city property. Also mone to loan at 4½ per cent. upwards.
JAMES A. CHISHOLM,
Office Ashley Block, - Front st., Belleville.

Money Saved is Money Earned

can earn you money by saving 't for you in your Fire Insurance.
The Anglo-American Fire Ins. Co
The Merchants Fire Ins. Co.
The Equity Fire Ins. Co.

Are ill strong Canadian stock companies and insure Farm and City Property at lower rate than other stock companies Call and see me before placing your fire insurance.
Office—Bridge St., same entrance Quinte Laundry, Belleville.
H. FREEMAN KETCHESON

Fire, Life & Plate Glass Insurance.

Liverpool & London & Globe of England.
Waterloo Mutual, of Waterloo, Ont,
Lloyd's Plate Glass,
Home Life Association, Toronto,
North British & Mercantile,
Farm and City Property insured in First-class Reliable Companies and at lowest current rates. Losses promptly settled. Land valuation, and transact general Real Estate business and sale or purchase and renting of property. Appraiser for the Hastings Loan & Investment Society. Money to Loan.
W. P. HUDSON, Office above Rathbun's office, cor. Bridge and Pinnacle Sts., opposite Postoffice and Hotel Quinte, Belleville,
'Phone 162.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A. G. NORTHRUP,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses, Shire Hall, Belleville, Ont.

CHAUNCEY ASHLEY,

Issuer of Marriage Licenses.
Private Office, Bridge St., Belleville, opposite the Post Office.
Residence, first house east of W. W. Chown's Mfg. Co., Station St. Appointments made.

Just received at The Intelligencer Job Office 50,000 new Envelopes for business purposes; printed or plain. Call and examine before buying.

A man is generally at his heaviest in his fortieth year.

This Summer Sale

Of ours includes all fancy goods in our store at a reduction of 40 per cent. from lower prices than you can find the same goods elsewhere.

IT MEANS

$1.00 worth for 60c of any of our China, Bisque, Art Pottery, Candle Shades, Brass Tables, etc.

IT MEANS

25 per cent. off all our Wrist Bags and Chatalaines.

IT MEANS

30 per cent. off of all our framed pictures. And while we are speaking of pictures, allow us to mention a large and beautiful line of photogravieurs just placed in stock and on our bargain tables.

We mean to keep this store most interesting for the summer months, interesting in values as well as in new goods, a bright, down-to-date, summer shopping store for citizens and strangers.

In Wall Papers, also, we are offering some exceptional values, a number of clear outs. You can have at half price if they fit your room, and if you wish that we hang these papers you may depend upon us for low prices, prompt work and best workmanship.

Whether Painting, Graining, Kalsomining, Paperhanging or superior Decorating, you better have this firm do it. We are responsible and we will please you in every way.

Our Picture Framing Department is ever on the boon.

We keep a large staff busy all the time in this department and there are good reasons why we do—

Good workmanship.

Good materials.

Promptness and low prices.

These are the abundant reasons.

C. B. Scantlebury

Belleville's Decorator.

Wall Paper Wholesale and Retail.

FAST MAIL SERVICE

Bay of Quinte Route
TO
ROCHESTER N. Y.

Strs. "North King" and "Caspian"

Taking Effect 27th June.

GOING DAILY (EXCEPT MONDAY)
Lv. Belleville .... 11.38 p. m.
Ar. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 6.43 a. m
RETURNING DAILY (Except Sunday)
Lv. Summerville, N. Y. (Port of Rochester) .... 8.30 p. m.
Ar. Belleville .... 3.25 a. m.

Baggage checked to all points. Connection with all railways.

$1.00 THOUSAND ISLANDS $1.00

AND RETURN.

Commencing 28th June. Steamer leaves Belleville at 3 25 a.m. daily except Monday for 1000 Islands, calling at Bay of Quinte ports, Kingston. Alexandria Bay and Gananoque. Passing through American and Canadian channels.

Right reserved to change time with or without notice.

Full information from
THE RATHBUN CO., } Agents.
U. E. THOMPSON, }
E. E. HORSEY, G. P. & F. Agent, Kingston.

Str. "Alexandria"

Montreal, Rochester & Quebec Transit Co'y.

Popular Quebec Excursions

NOW ON.

Belleville to Quebec and return.. $18 00
Belleville to Montreal and return $12.00
(including meals and berth)

Steamer runs all rapids.

For Rochester, Olcott Beach, Niagara Falls and Buffalo every Saturday at 11 a.m.

Particulars from
A. W. HEPBURN, General Manager, Picton, Ont
THE RATHBUN CO. Agents. Belleville.

The Deseronto Navigation Co

TIME TABLE.

Taking effect April 13, 1903.

Belleville, Trenton, Picton & Napanee

Str. "ELLA ROSS"

Leaves Belleville for Trenton at 10 a. m., daily, Sundays Excepted, returning leaves Trenton at 1 p. m., leaving Belleville at 3 p.m. for Deseronto, Napanee and Picton.

Quick and Superior Service to NEW YORK CITY

Steamers RESOLUTE and RELIANCE will leave Deseronto for Oswego after arrival of Str. Ella Ross connecting at Oswego with the New York, Ontario Western Ry.

Fare to New York, Single, $8.40
Return, $13.25

For further particulars apply to THE RATHBUN CO., Local Agents

J. F. CHAPMAN,
Asst. Gen. Frt. Pass. Agt., Deseronto
R. C. Carter, General Manager, Deseronto.

POPULAR

Saturday Afternoon Excursion

Per Steamer

ELLA ROSS

To Glen Island, Glenora and Lake on the Mountain.

Steamer leaves Rathbun's wharf at 2.30 p.m. sharp.

Will be the most enjoyable excursion of the season.

Fare, adults 25c. Children 15c.

Bus will leave corner of Charles street and Victoria avenue at 2 p.m. for the steamer.

THOS. STEWART,
Bridge Street,
Belleville.

Fall Fairs.

Dominion, Toronto......	Aug. 27-Sept. 12
Kingston, Kingston	Sept 8-11
Guelph, Guelph	Sept. 15-17
Frankford	Sept. 17-18
Thrasher's Corners	Sept. 18-19
North Hastings	Sept. 22-23
Stirling	Sept. 22-23
Peterboro, Peterboro	Sept. 22-24
Picton	Sept. 23-24
Cobourg	Sept. 24-25
Campbellford	Sept. 24-25
Shannonville	Sept. 26
Marmora	Sept. 29
L'Amable	Sept. 30
Coe Hill	Oct. 1
Ameliasburg	Oct. 2-3
Warkworth	Oct. 6-7
Wooler	Oct. 9

Dead Number 19.

Lowell, Mass., July 31.—Last night the number of dead stood at 19. Two of the injured are in a critical condition. The ruins were thoroughly searched yesterday but no additional bodies were found.

Piles To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & Co., Toronto

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines, or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

ROLFF HOUSE

By G. H. BENEDICT.

A Thrilling Story of Love and Adventure.

"No doubt, no doubt," responded the elder; "and the prize is worthy of the highest effort. You must win, Ralph."

"I intend to win," again asserted Ralph.

CHAPTER XIX.

Wearily passed the days to Rosa Bruyn. Drearily the sun rose in the morning and as drearily set behind the western mountains at eve. She performed her accustomed duties with her usual alacrity, and perhaps with more than her usual conscientious care; but the light of happy content had gone from her sweet face and the buoyancy from her step. For days and weeks she had wrestled with the doubts and surmises that had thronged continually upon her, and this mental anxiety and conflict could not but leave its impression. But, through it all, she had not given up her faith in Claude. She was resolved that she would not question his fidelity till she was afforded better evidence than anything that could come to her through the instrumentality of Anthony Saybrook. She was strongly impelled to the belief that the defamation of Claude and the persistent pressing of Ralph Saybrook's suit were parts of the same plot, and a thousand explanations thronged to her mind to excuse Claude's strange letter, which, as she recalled its words, seemed to her too ambiguous and too much like the high-flown expressions of one writing in a merry, mischievous mood, to be an acutal confession of falseness and guilt. She flattered her hopes with the thought that the letter had been drawn out by some subterfuge of the wily lawyer, and was evidence only of Claude's light and gay spirit, which she well understood to be prone to a certain recklessness of expression, easily misunderstood. Yet doubts would at times assail her, and the certainty that there was to be a long and perhaps total separation, and that all chance of explanation was removed from her, caused her troubles to weigh most heavily upon her mind.

Mrs. Bruyn's watchful eye had detected her daughter's quiet, unconfessed grief, and she was the object of her anxious solicitude. Yet even she was unaware of the real nature and depth of her sorrow. The good lady had in an unwilling and half-hearted way admitted what seemed to her the overwhelming evidence of Claude's falsity. The absolute convictions of her husband had gradually broken down her last defense of the young man, and she was fain to admit the guilt she could not explain. This belief created a barrier as it were between her and her daughter, and prevented her offering the consolation which would have been admissable had there been a more direct sympathy in their views of the matter. By her very position, Mrs. Bruyn was forced to stand midway between her husband and daughter; and she deemed it best, under the circumstances, to let Rosa's grief quietly wear itself out. She was little aware, indeed, of the real depth of the wound that had been inflicted, so calm and patient was the brave girl's demeanor, but she could note the altered appearance and demeanor, and her anxiety and sympathy were deeply excited.

Ralph Saybrook continued his calls at farmer Bruyn's, and his attentions to Rosa. So delicate and circumspect was his conduct, however, that he had really made a quite favorable impression upon Mrs. Bruyn, and even Rosa was forced to treat him with a consideration that she would gladly perhaps have accepted the opportunity to withhold. But the fact was, that so well had he ingratiated himself in the old farmer's good opinion, and so careful was he not to allow Rosa any opportunity to take or show offense without doing injustice to her natural goodness of heart, that he had greatly strengthened his position as a suitor for her hand without her being really aware of it. At times the thought of the wrong that had been done to Claude smote her heart, yet she had no ground save her own suspicions to accuse the Saybrooks of a plot to injure her lover, and her nature was too guileless and too generous to take the risk of doing injustice upon mere conjecture.

Thus ever-recuurring grief and doubt lay at the heart of the unhappy girl; and the fact that there seemed no one in whom she could confide, and that everybody appeared drawn into the plot to thwart her wishes, caused her sorrows to weigh more heavily upon her heart than they otherwise would. It seemed to her continually that if there were only some one to whom she could talk about her sorrows, if she only knew some friend of Claude's of whom she could simply inquire his welfare, even though it were to ask in vain, it would be some relief to the intense strain of anxiety and grief.

So it was with a sudden emotion of joy that, one day, as she was watering her cherished flower-bed in the front yard, she saw the familiar form of old Carl Crum descending the road that led toward the house from the village. It seemed strange that she had not thought of him. She knew that Claude had always highly esteemed the faithful old man, and that he was devoted to the Rolff family, and she felt an irresistible desire to talk to him. There was no reason for hesitation, for her father was away from home, and she was familiarly acquainted with the kindly but eccentric old man, who had always petted her when he met her since she was a little girl, and was at all times as approachable by the young and innocent as well could be. So Rosa unhesitatingly set down her watering pot, and hastened to the gate to intercept him.

A pleasant smile lit up the old man's rough, bearded face as he drew near.

"Good day, Mr. Crum," said Rosa, with courtesy.

"Ah, good day, my rosebud," replied old Carl as he took her hand and pressed it in his horny paw. "Let me look at you," he added, as he adjusted his spectacles. "Yes, yes, I see—your face has grown older and thinner; and there is a trace of trouble in it, I fancy. It's the way of the world, and a sad world it is for the good and the pure. It ought to be some years yet before your face should show care, my pretty one."

"I have good reason for trouble," replied Rosa, with a simple frankness that indicated her entire absorption in the object of her quest. "I thought I would speak to you, Mr. Crum, to learn whether you had heard from Claude since he went away."

The old man stroked his head a moment as if in troubled thought.

"I hear from him?" he answered. "Yes, yes, rosebud, to my sorrow. You know I am in disgrace at Rolff House. He wrote me dismissing me from the house—that is all. But you surely have heard from the young master, and I would fain enquire news of him of you."

"Not a word have I heard from him since he left here," replied Rosa, with just a hint in her tones of the anxiety at her heart."

"Indeed, indeed," muttered the old man. "This is strange—strange. But why do I say strange, when the graceless villain, Anthony Saybrook, has had the influencing of master Claude's mind? There seems no evil influence that he is incapable of exerting, and no scheme of villainy so desperate but that he succeeds in it. Ah, I fear that my young master has been caught wholly in his fatal snares, and that there are evil days ahead for Rolff House. They tell me that he has papers that will give him control of the whole property. There's villainy—damnable villainy in it. I suspected it—I knew it all along."

"Why did you not warn Claude?" asked Rosa.

The old man gravely shook his head.

"It was useless then," he made answer. "But I might have written him when I saw the villiany unmasking; and I did not. I thought what right had I to be interfering in the affairs of my betters, and which perhaps I did not understand. And it is now too late. This war cuts off all chance of warning him. The thieves can plunder at their will."

"And there is no way to send him a letter? Think, Mr. Crum. You are wise and shrewd, I know. There must be some way to warn him."

Old Carl stroked his beard thoughtfully for some time, and at intervals muttered indistinctly to himself. At last Rosa could catch his words:

"It might be," he was muttering; "there is just a chance—hardly a chance, indeed; but the Lord might direct it. There is One powerful to strike down the wicked, and circumvent their plans, and it might be—it might be He would aid us." He raised his tones. "I was thinking," he continued, "that there was just one chance opened to us; it's a desperate one—a vain one, perhaps; and yet it may be the opportunity the Lord opens to us to foil a scheme of villainy. An old sailor friend of mine has come here to see me, and say good-bye, before he sails in a privateer now fitting out. He is a trusty fellow, and there is just a chance that if a letter were put in his hands he might some day run into some European port where he could mail it, and that it might safely escape the turmoils of war and reach my young master. It seems an idle thing to hope, but we can send it off with our prayers, and my experience of life is that the Lord is often kinder to us than our weak faith merits. We can put our trust in him and try the plan. It is our only hope."

Rosa caught eagerly at this plan, hopeless as it seemed.

"Yes," she exclaimed, "it is our only hope, and we will try it, and pray the good Lord to direct it safely. I will go in the house now and write my letter; and you, Mr. Crum, must write all you know, and to-morrow I can bring my letter to you."

"No, no," replied the old man, "'tis too long a walk for you to come down to the ferry; and I must needs be up to the village during the morning; and if you will walk down toward Rolff House at nine o'clock you will find me there. It is some sort of pleasure for me to linger round the old house, though I may not enter it."

In truth, old Carl did not allow a day to pass in which every means of entrance to Rolff House was not carefully scrutinised by him. It caused him great anxiety to see the house lonely and unguarded, and he took every means in his power to guard it as vigilantly as he could.

Rosa wrote a long letter to Claude detailing her troubles and anxiety, the rumors that prevailed in regard to Anthony Saybrook's treachery, and her suspicions in regard to the plot that had been put in motion to separate them, and next day, at the hour appointed, she wandered down toward Rolff House, where, at the gate, she found old Carl, who took her letter, and, telling her that he must hasten back, as his friend was to leave at once for the city, on a sloop that would sail that very day, turned and left her with a cheery word to be of good heart. And then, kneeling down on the soft greensward, in the shadow of the tall stone gateway, the fair girl prayed fervently that her letter might reach its destination, and the clouds of sorrow that surrounded her be dispersed.

CHAPTER XX.

It was not without some trepidation that Anthony Saybrook finally resolved on the bold step of recording the deeds which would make him pratical master of Rolff House and a considerable portion of the estate connected therewith. His wary nature did not allow him to proceed in his villany without many thoughts and misgivings. He fully believed that the chances were all in favor of his never being seriously troubled by Claude; yet he could not but foresee the possibility that the war might suddenly end, and the young man come to a knowledge of his treachery before he had obtained that advantage of long occupation of the place which he considered quite essential to the full success of his plans in case it became necessary for him to defend his title before the law.

Nevertheless, he could not hesitate. Having resolved on his course, the sooner he made himself master of Rolff House the better. So the fraudulent deeds were recorded, and the little community was soon afforded full confirmation of all its suspicions of the operations of the shrewd, unscrupulous lawyer. Anthony Saybrook took occasion to explain publicly how it was that he came to be the owner of Rolff House. His explanation was to the effect that Claude had wanted money on any terms and at any price; he had furnished it, and, of course had taken the best security he could get, which was securing of the deeds in question; and he shrewdly explained that he had not designed to use the deeds so soon, but as war had broken out, and all hope of the young heir returning to redeem his premises had been thwarted, he had hastened his possession of the house because it was without an occupant, he being unable to get any one to live in it, and the place was going to decay and needed supervision and repair.

This explanation proved satisfactory to most people. They saw only that the lawyer had been afforded a rare chance to enrich himself at the expense of the foolish young heir, and they did not question the means now that it was evident he had the property safely enough in his possession and would be the richest and most powerful man in the section.

On no one did this transaction make a deeper impression than on old Jacobus Bruyn. To him it was evidence not only of the truth of his prediction in regard to the recklessness and worthlessness of Claude Rolff, but it placed the lawyer in the position of being the only man in the world who owned that which he coveted, or whose good or bad opinion could affect his peace of mind. The old farmer was himself of the most rugged honesty in all money matters, and at the bottom of his heart he despised the means by which Claude had been cheated out of his inheritance; but he was of too worldy-wise and money-loving a nature to trouble himself much about the moral aspect of the matter. He could see plainly that from the turn events had taken, young Ralph Saybrook would be the richest young man in the neighborhood, and the heir of lands that he prized far more than their money value, and, as he had really taken a fancy to him, he became decidedly interested in seeing his suit with Rosa prosper.

It had not prospered so far, spite of all the persistence, subservience and arts of the young man. He had gained every advantage of position to urge his suit, but he could see only too plainly that he had not made the least progress in displacing Claude Rolff in the affections of the young lady. To the young man this did not cause any great amount of disappointment, as his heart was not so much engaged as to suffer many pangs, and he felt reasonably certain of success in the end if Claude did not return, which he was not likely to do while the war lasted. But the elder Saybrook was not so philosophical over the matter. He felt the gravity of the step he had taken in using the fraudulent deeds, and wished to fortify his position in every possible way against all contingencies of the future. He saw that it would be a good stroke of fortune for Ralph to secure the only daughter of the rich old farmer, and he was anxious to expedite matters so as to prevent any possible risk of failure from any unwished-for developments, as well as to make sure of strengthening his position against any future legal troubles by the alliance with his rich neighbor.

So Anthony Saybrook took every occasion to interest the old farmer in Ralph's behalf, artfully seeking to excite his cupidity by frequent references to the old woods and the adjoining meadow lands which he knew in the eyes of the old man were one of the most tempting of prizes.

These efforts had their effect on farmer Bruyn. He became more and more interested in the project of the match between Ralph and his daughter, and his interest was not the less because he could see that Rosa was secretly sorrowing over her separation from Claude. This latter fact especially worried the old gentleman. To be sure, their seemed no probability of Claude ever returning to make trouble, but it angered him to think that his daughter's affections should be wasted at all on such a graceless scamp. So he took frequent occasion to commend and praise Ralph Saybrook in her hearing, and to let her know by what he no doubt considered delicate hints that it would be pleasing to him to see her encourage the young man's suit.

Rosa received all these indications of her father's wishes in silence. This encouraged him to believe that she would speedily yield.

Still, the days passed on, and Rosa grew more quiet and sad, and Ralph's suit failed to make progress. The old farmer began to be troubled.

"What ails you, child?" he said to her one day, as he entered the house and found her sitting sad and with tears stealing down her face by a window—so absorbed in her mood as not to have noticed his entrance. "Dunder and dounds, you're no longer my merry little girl. Crying for that scamp of a Claude Rolff, eh! For shame! He's no fellow for a girl to cry her eyes out about—the rascal. Be a brave little frow, now. Cast him off as he has cast you off; and let there be an end of this. There's another lover waiting your favor, girl; a better one, or I'm no judge. He'll have the guilders, and konw how to care for 'em, too—which is more than I can say for your other lover. I've held you for a wise, obedient little girl, Rosa; now show your spirit, cheer up, and we'll have a wedding and infair one of these days that will do my old heart good."

"No, no, father," replied the unhappy girl, gazing up with a pleading look in her soft grey eyes, "I do not wish to marry. I do not care ever to leave you. I will be content and happy here. Let me always stay with you."

"Stay—of course you shall stay," replied the old man. "Dunder and blitzer, did you think I'd ever let any fellow carry you away? No, no—the man that marries you must stay here.

(To be continued.)

The Flagging Energies Revived.—Constant application to business is a tax upon the energies, and if there be not relaxation, lassitude and depression are sure to intervene. These come from stomachic troubles. The want of exercise brings on nervous irregularities, and the stomach ceases to assimilate food properly. In this condition Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will be found a recuperative of rare power, restoring the organs to healthful action, dispelling depression, and reviving the flagging energies.

The wildcat's teeth are close to its purr.

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is a speedy cure for dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera, summer complaint, sea sickness and complaints incidental to children teething. It gives immediate relief to those suffering from the effects of indiscretion in eating unripe fruit, cucumbers, etc. It acts with wonderful rapidity and never fails to conquer the disease. No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

When one gets hopping mad his reason goes on a crutch.

Sleeplessness.—When the nerves are unstrung and the whole body gives up to wretchedness, when the mind is filled with gloom and dismal forebodings, the result of derangement of the digestive organs, sleeplessness comes to add to the distress. If only the subject could sleep, there would be the oblivion for a while and temporary relief. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills will not only induce sleep, but will act so beneficially that the subject will wake refreshed and restored to happiness.

The average watch represents but 12 hours of human labor.

Have you tried Holloway's Corn Cure? It has no equal for removing these troublesome excrescences, as many have testified who have tried.

Many a man's self-conceit is due to his ignorance.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrup & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one-half, the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done, it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very billious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using 3 bottles of the Vegetable Discovery, the billiousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 68 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

Coral is a talisman against thunder and evils by flood and field.

THE PUBLIC should bear in mind that Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has nothing in common with the impure, deteriorating class of so-called medicinal oils. It is eminently pure and really efficacious—relieving pain and lameness, stiffness of the joints and muscles, and sores or hurts, besides being an excellent specific for rheumatism, coughs and bronchial complaints.

All trails are long to the lazy.

These two desirable qualifications, pleasant to the taste and at the same time effectual, are to be found in Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator. Children like it.

A long portage makes a heavy canoe.

To get relief from indigestion, biliousness, constipation or torpid liver without disturbing the stomach or purging the bowels, take a few doses of Carter's Little Liver Pills, they will please you.

The best way to get even is to forget.

That tired, languid feeling and dull headache is very disagreeable. Take two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring, and you will find relief. They never fail to do good.

Much talk, many lies.

They make one feel as though life was worth living. Take one of Carter's Little Liver Pills after eating; it will relieve dyspepsia, aid digestion, give tone and vigor to the system.

It takes money to voice the opinion of a lawyer.

Nothing so suddenly obstructs the perspiration as sudden transitions from heat to cold. Heat rarifies the blood, quickens the circulation and increases the perspiration, but when these are suddenly checked the consequences must be bad. The most common cause of disease is obstructed perspiration, or what commonly goes by the name of catching cold. Coughs, colds, sore throat, etc., if attended to in time are easily subdued, but if allowed to run their own course generally prove the fore-runner of more dangerous diseases. Nine-tenths of the consumptives date their afflictions from a neglected [illegible] and the diseases that are caused by wet feet, damp clothes, or exposure are more numerous than are generally supposed. One of the most efficacious medicines for all diseases of the throat and lungs is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which frees the lungs from viscid phlegm by changing the secretions from a diseased to a healthy state, tural.

Bank of Montreal

ESTABLISHED 1817

Capital and Rest, All Paid Up
$23,000,000
(Twenty-three Millions)

Savings Bank Department

Interest on sums of $4.00 and upwards allowed at current rates.

A. G. PARKER,
Manager Belleville Branch

RAINY WEATHER NEEDS.

What a lot of weather we are having, very hot, then rainy and cold. Whether the weater is clear or whether the weather is cloudy, the fact remains that we have waterprof coats in plenty, guaranteed to keep out the wet.

A Few Specials

We have just received a few specials that should be of interest to you. There are so many very low priced, useless coats on the market that these extra good ones at moderate prices will surely prove fast sellers. Two lines, one dark the other medium, pure rainproof, velvet collar, raglan pocket and cuff, coats made to sell at $7.50. OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY $5.00.

A FEW BETTER

Then we have some extra good ones at $7, $8 and $10, coats that you would have to pay much more for in other stores. If you are thinking of a rainproof coat, come in and take a look around.

OAK HALL

Sole Agents for Sanford's Celebrated Clothing.

Lowest Prices
Latest Styles
Largest Variety
IN LADIES' LOW SHOES.

The "Albani"
1 strap, 2 strap, or 4 strap.
Prices 75c, $1.00, $1.25. $1.50, $2.00.

The "Trilby"
2 Buttoned Low Shoe.
Prices $1.00, $1.25, $1.50.

The "Oxford"
Low Laced Shoe.
Prices 75c, $1,00, $1.25, $1.50 up.

Also Misses' and Children's

The J. J. Haines
SHOE HOUSES at Belleville, Napanee and Trenton

INTELLIGENCER JOB OFFICE
FOR CHEAP AND ARTISTIC WORK.

HOW CANADA GROWS.

Immigration for the Year Ended 30th June Beyond All Precedent.

Mr. Smart, Canadian Deputy Minister of the Interior, has compiled a statement of the arrivals of immigrants for the fiscal year ending June 30th, which places the total for the year at 124,658. He thinks that this number will probably be added to slightly when the returns are completed. The showing is certainly a marvellous one, both in regard to the number who have landed in Canada to become actual residents and those who have taken up lands in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories.

The arrivals for the month of June are given as follows: United States, 7,939; British Isles, 6,439; continent, 6,154. Total for June, 1903, 20,532.

The statement for the twelve months ending June is as follows: United States, 44,980; British Isles, 41,787; continent, 37,891. Total, 124,658.

The returns for 1899 gave the arrivals as follows: United States, 11,945; British Isles, 10,660; continent, 21,938. Making a total of 44,543.

In 1901 these arrivals were recorded: United States, 17,987; British Isles, 11,810; continent, 19,352. Total, 49,149.

In 1902 these arrived from the United States, 26,388; British Isles, 17,259; continent, 23,732. Total, 67,379.

The total increase for 1903 over 1902 is 57,279. The increase from the United States is 70 per cent.; from the British Isles 140 per cent.; and from the continent 60 per cent. The homestead entries show even a greater average increase than the total arrivals, the number for the fiscal year ending June 30th running up to 31,343. In 1896 the entries numbered 1,857, in 1897 2,384, in 1898 4,848, in 1899, 6,689, in 1900 7,426, in 1901 8,167, and in 1902 14,633. The increase in 1903 over 1902 was 16,710.

Neither.

Sergeant of Police (to captain)—This fellow is charged wid killin', sor-r.

Captain (entering the charge)—Well, whom did he kill? Man or woman?

Sergeant—Nayther, sor-r. It wuz a faymale impersonator.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

In Company.

Husband (in an aside to his wife)—If you can't think of some more anecdotes of our children's smartness let's go home right away, for they're getting ready to tell us things about their own.—Baltimore American.

A Bitter Pill.

Gwendolin—So Ethel is to marry that young Bob Halstey! Why, he has been jilted by half a dozen girls!

Evelyn—Case of being well shaken before taken, I suppose.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Daily Intelligencer.

TIMELY TOPICS.

It is only natural, of course, that the few people who catch fish in nets should object strongly to the proposal to prohibit net fishing in the bay. But the same arguments that they use could be used in other places where net fishing is prohibited. As an evidence of what is thought of the net fishing practice in other places we have the letter of Mr. J. R. Christie, of Trenton, who under date of July 18, 1903, wrote as follows: To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

Dear Sir,—I notice in your issue of to-day a petition is being circulated re net fishing in the bay. If one is sent here for signatures I will look after it, and everybody would sign it. It's what we want. In my opinion they should be sent to all points from Picton up, and it would be signed by thousands. If net fishing was stopped, the bay would soon be what it was years ago, the finest fishing waters for sportsmen in Ontario. Hoping the effort may prove successful,

I remain yours,
An Old Fisherman,
J. R. CHRISTIE,
P.M.

• • •

It is not, we are sure, the desire of anybody that injustice or hardships should be worked to those who claim, at certain seasons of the year, to make money through net fishing. The sole desire, we take it, of those who signed the petition is that a chance may be given the fish to once more become plentiful in our bay. People who should know say that cannot be done unless net fishing is totally prohibited for a considerable length of time. Others, again, think, with Mr. Hurley, that if net fishing were prohibited in the spring it would have the desired effect. Not being an expert in things piscatorial, The Intelligencer does not venture an opinion one way or the other. This paper, in advocating the petition was not actuated by any desire to work injury to anyone. It has always believed, and still believes, in the wisdom of the axiom, "The greatest good to the greatest number." The petition may not be granted, though it has been largely signed. But we shall always believe, judging by the way it is being opposed tooth and nail by certain mercenary and unscrupulous people, that it must have very considerable merit.

• • •

The principal idea in this matter is, of course, to so improve the fishing that visitors may be attracted here again, as they used to be in the past. A party just returned from Stoney Lake tells us that over a dozen U.S. visitors are fishing there. They put up in the best style and pay men $2 per day to row them around. New arrivals are coming all the time. About a dozen people of that kind to spend the summer in Belleville would be a good thing for many of our people. And we could soon get them if the fishing could be improved. In the face of these facts it is a pity to see people, who should have the interests of Belleville at heart, opposing the petition and inventing stories to defeat it.

Healthful Action of The Bowels

IS ABSOLUTELY ESSENTIAL TO GOOD HEALTH — DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

By increasing and invigorating the action of the liver and thus securing a good flow of bile—nature's own cathartic—Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills ensure regular and healthful action of the bowels. This is the only means by which constipation can be actually cured and a host of serious derangements prevented. Disease can find no lodgement when the kidneys, liver and bowels are kept regularly active by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. 10

Got a Divorce.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 31.—A divorce has been granted in the Superior Court to Sarah Holman from Albert Holman by Judge Allen. Both parties belonged to Toronto, Ont.

No man or woman will hesitate to speak well of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets after once trying them. They always produce a pleasant movement of the bowels, improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. For sale by all druggists.

CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

Mrs. Adams, Toronto, Lodged in Cells After Jury's Verdict.

Two Women, Sisters, Burned to Death at Old Orchard, Me.—Jury in Shearer Baby Case, Toronto, Says the Infant Died of Neglect—C.P.R. Steamer, Lake Manitoba, Aground, and Seven Tugs Fail to Release Her.

London, July 31.—Despatches received here from Odessa say that the strike is spreading to other factories.

London.—The Great Central Railway's dock and shed at Grimsby have been gutted by fire. The damage amounts to $500,000.

Copenhagen.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Gliddens of Lowell, Mass., left here Thursday afternoon in their automobile in an attempt to cross the Arctic circle.

Toronto.—The jury in the inquest into the death of the Shearer baby, returned a verdict of death resulting from insufficient care and nourishment. A warrant will likely be issued against Mrs. Hynes.

Ottawa.—Mr. Charlton's bill to amend the election law to prevent bribery will be recommended to the House by a special committee who have been considering the measure with certain amendments.

St. Petersburg.—Ten striking workmen were killed and 18 were wounded as the result of a volley fired by troops at Mikhailovo on the Tiflis-Batoum Railway, July 28. The strikers attempted to stop trains.

Old Orchard, Me.—Mrs. Helen L. Martin and Mrs. E. A. Stevens, sisters, of East Grafton, N. H., were suffocated and their bodies burned to a crisp early Thursday in a fire which destroyed the Sea View House.

Meadville, Pa.—A. B. Youngson, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, died Thursday morning. He succeeded to the office on P. M. Arthur's death, July 17, and named M. H. Shay as his successor.

Hamilton.—At the Asylum for the Insane Thursday morning Thomas an inmate, hammered another inmate, Peter McKerman, over the head with a hoe while they were cutting weeds on the mountainside so badly that the latter will die. His skull was fractured in several places.

Toronto.—Upon a charge of manslaughter sworn out after a coroner's jury had come to the conclusion that she had criminally neglected the care of an infant left in her care Mrs. Adams of 117 University street passed the night in the cells of No. 1 Police Station Thursday night, and the police have now a case on their hands as interesting as the baby farming.

Montreal.—The C. P. R. steamer Lake Manitoba, outward bound, ran hard aground on a mud bottom in Longeuil pond about a mile from her berth here Thursday morning about 7 o'clock. Seven tugs worked at her in the afternoon in an endeavor to get her off, but the mud caused great suction. The efforts will be continued Friday. The passengers are being accommodated aboard. The officials say that the pilot lost his bearings.

BASEBALL THURSDAY.

The Eastern League.

Toronto .. ..0 0 0 1 1 0 0 0 0— 2
Baltimore .. ..2 1 1 0 1 0 0 4 2—11

Two-base hits—Jones. Three-base hits—Castro, Kelly 2. Wild pitches—Wiltse 2. Bases stolen—Hayden, Griffin, Carr. Bases on balls—Off Wolfe, 5. Struck out—By Wiltse, 12 (Kuhns, [illegible], Massey 2, Bruce, Downey, [illegible], Carr 2, Wolfe 3); by Wolfe, 4 (Hayden, Castro, Jones, Kelly, Robinson, Wiltse). Double plays—Jones (unassisted), Griffin to Jennings. Left on bases—Toronto 4, Baltimore 14. Time—2.05. Umpire—Swartwood.

R.H.E.
Buffalo .... 3 0 0 2 0 2 0 0 x— 7 7 6
Rochester .... 1 1 0 0 0 0 0 2 1— 5 12 1

Batteries—McGee and Shaw; Becker and Fuller. Umpire—Brown. Attendance—2411.

R.H.E.
Jersey City .... 5 0 0 0 0 0— 5 6 1
Providence .... 1 1 2 2 0 0— 6 9 3

Batteries—Pfanmiller, Thielman and Dillon; Viau and Diggins. Umpire—Kelly. Attendance—4330.

R.H.E.
Newark .... 1 0 1 1 2 x— 5 9 0
Montreal .... 0 0 2 0 0 0— 2 7 1

Batteries—Hesterfer and Spiesman; Whaller and Kellackey. Umpire—Latham. Attendance—800.

National League Scores.

At St. Louis— R.H.E.
St. Louis ..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 4 0 0— 4 10 4
Pittsburg ..... 0 2 1 0 0 0 4 0 3—10 9 1

Batteries—Curry and J. O'Neill; Leever and Smith. Umpire—O'Day. Attendance—2300.

At Brooklyn— R.H.E.
Brooklyn .... 0 3 3 0 0 0— 6 8 0
New York .... 0 1 0 3 0 0— 4 6 2

Batteries—Jones and Ritter; Mills, Cronin and Warner. Umpire—Johnstone. Attendance—4500. Called, rain.

American League Results.

At Philadelphia, first game— R.H.E.
Washington .. 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1— 1 7 2
Philadelphia .. 0 0 5 4 1 0 0 2 x—12 12 1

Batteries—Dunlee, Townsend and Kittredge; Plank and Powers.

Second game— R.H.E.
Washington .. 1 1 1 0 0 2 0 0 0— 5 9 1
Philadelphia .. 0 0 3 0 0 0 1 2 x— 6 9 0

Batteries—Orth, Drill and Kittredge; Waddell, McGeehan and Schreck. Umpire—Hassett. Attendance—9330.

At Boston— R.H.E.
New York .... 0 6 0 0 0 0 5 1 0—12 13 2
Boston .... 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0— 1 6 3

Batteries—Deering and Beville; Gibson, Winter and Criger and J. Stahl. Umpire—Sheridan. Attendance—4611.

At Detroit— R.H.E.
Detroit ..... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0— 0 4 0
St Louis .... 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0— 1 3 0

Batteries—Donovan and Buelow; Sudhoff and Kahoe. Umpire—Connolly. Attendance—2693.

At Chicago— R.H.E.
Chicago ...... 2 1 3 0 0 0 0 2 x— 7 8 0
Cleveland .... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0— 0 5 3

Batteries—White and Slattery; Wright, Pearson and Abbott. Umpire—O'Loughlin. Attendance—1920.

At Cincinnati— R.H.E.
Cincinnati .... 1 2 0 0 0 8 0 4 x—15 19 2
Chicago ...... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0— 0 7 6

Batteries—Poole, Bergen and Peitz; Weimer and Kling. Umpire—Moran. Attendance—12,800.

Sir Thomas Lipton in Canada.

Toronto, July 31. — Sir Thomas Lipton, the distinguished yachtsman, will spend Sunday at the Queen's Royal Niagara-on-the-Lake. Sir Thomas will be accompanied by the officers of the Shamrock III.

Alexander and Draga.

There are always two sides to a story, and that the murdered King Alexander and Queen Draga may not have been so bad as they were painted appears from the remarks of London "Truth" on the butchery at Belgrade:

"Alexander's whole appearance betokened race degeneration. The son of a 'jcuisseur,' he had an ill-conditioned mind and body. The undeveloped countenance struck one as odd. If not a baby face, it might have been the face of a boy of six who had suddenly become an adult of twenty. The mind had no grasp, and the memory could retain no lesson. His father and mother used to quarrel about him in his childhood, Milan reproaching her with inflicting such a weakling on Servia, and she saying that Alexander had only to thank his father for being so much below the average. The poor boy heard their wrangles. He longed for tenderness, but never knew what it was until he fell under the spell of Draga. She was at once a loving 'amie,' gentle counsellor, directress and adopted a maternal manner. I do not blame Alexander for marrying Queen Draga. She was not pretty, but agreeable, and if she was older than he was, that was his concern alone. The stories of her having led a disreputable life are not correct. After the death of her husband she became a lady of honor of Queen Natalie, who is herself a lady beyond reproach. Alexander was a lad, and he fell in love with his mother's lady-in-waiting. Natalie objected and turned off her lady-in-waiting. On this Alexander announced that he intended to marry her, and carried out his intention, having in the meantime provided her with the means to live, as she had nothing. According to the probabilities in such cases, had she succumbed to him before marriage, the marriage would never have taken place. Queen Draga was a clever woman and a very ambitious one. As she was not likely to have a child, she thought that her brother might as well be the heir to the crown as anyone else. There was no particular reason why he should not have been. Alexander was the great-grandson of a swineherd, and the Karageorgevitch Pretender to the throne was the grandson of a Servian peasant. The Servians however, did not look at things in this light. The Obrenovitches and the Karageorgevitches have each their partizans. Since the time that Servia became an independent principality there have been kings from one family and from the other Alexander was the sole remaining member of the Obrenovitch family, and, consequently, if he were killed, together with his wife and her family, the head of the Karageorgevitches remained the sole pretender to the throne. The gruesome extinction of the Obrenovitch dynasty has no redeeming feature. I dare say that nearly every officer and soldier who joined in the nocturnal invasion of the Konak had at some time or another been engaged in herding and sticking swine. Anyone who has seen the execution of a pig must know how brutalizing it is to the executioner, unless done a la mechanique, automatically, as in Chicago. The pig is shrewd, sagacious, epicurean enjoys life, and, seeming to know what designs the butcher harbors and what death means, makes a hard struggle for existence, and noisily protests against dying for the good of human beings. One finds in the whole of the palace tragedy circumstances reminding one of the porcine execution. Draga's end reminds one of Athalie's dream of Jezebel's death. The dogs that devoured that seductive Semitic queen were not more ferocious than the Servian officers, who are now said to have torn Draga's flesh from her bones."

Some Interesting Essays.

Perhaps nothing is more difficult than to say exactly what we mean. A teacher of composition in a private school who realized this, has lately been trying the experiment of making her pupils write anything they like about a given subject in a given time, generally about five minutes; and some of the results have been most enlightening. One of the subjects was "Wind," for example, and here is one of the answers: "There are four winds, north, east, south and west; but sometimes two of these blow at the same time, and then we get a S.W. or N.E. wind." Another was at least topical: "Wind is an abominal element. It blows off people's hats and uproots trees. But it is very useful for yacht races."

The subject "Jam" was equally inspiring, judging by the remarks written on it. "Jam is to be found in nearly every house," wrote someone; "and some people eat it at every meal. Some jams are sticky." We should rather like to hear of the jam that is not sticky. Another subject that provoked the same simple directness was "Ireland." More eloquent than the eloquence of a whole Gaelic league was the delightful sentence: "The Irish were conquered by the English in days of old, and have been annoyed about it ever since." We cannot help recalling after this a charming passage in a forgotten lesson book—"The Child's Guide to Knowledge"—relating to a thunderstorm. This is what it enjoined: "Pull down the blinds, draw your bed to the middle of the room, lie down and commit yourself to God."

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY SYSTEM

CHEAP TRIPS

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay. Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

NOTICE.

Tickets are now on sale via North Bay and Sarnia, also via lake and rail, to points on Canadian Northern Railway, Port Frances, Rainy River, Winnipeg and other points west. New fast train service has just been inaugurated on this line.

U. E. THOMPSON, City Agent,
Bridge Street,
T. H. COPPIN, Depot Agent,
J. D. McDONALD,
Dist. Pass Agt., Toronto.

CANADIAN PACIFIC RY.

"Imperial Limited."

Fast tri-weekly Transcontinental service between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. Connection leaves Toronto at 1.45 p.m., Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, making run Toronto to Vancouver in 97 hours.

Upper Lake Steamships

Leave Owen Sound Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 5.30 p.m., on arrival of S.S. Express leaving Toronto at 1.30 p.m. Connections at Fort William and Port Arthur for Winnipeg and Pacific Coast points.

Daily First-Class Service Toronto to Winnipeg, Calgary, Banff and Pacific Coast.

Fully Equipped Through Tourist Cars leave Toronto Tuesday and Saturday for Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Full particulars from your nearest Canadian Pacific Agent or to
A. H. NOTMAN,
Asst. Gen. Pass. Agent, TORONTO.
S. BURROWS, C.P.R. and General Ticket Agent, Front St., Belleville.

NEW YORK CENTRAL
& HUDSON RIVER R. R.
THE FOUR-TRACK TRUNK LINE.
SHORTEST Route to the United States via Cape Vincent, N.Y.

GOING EAST AND WEST.			After 1st May
Lv. Belleville (G.T.R.)		12.22 p.m.	1.30 a.m
Arr. Kingston	"	1.47 p.m.	3.12 a.m
Lv. Kingston (stage)..		2.30 p.m.	5.00 a.m
Arr. Cape Vincent (stage)		4.30 p.m.	7.00 a.m
Lv. Cape Vincent N.Y.C.		5.05 p.m.	7.25 a.m
Arr. Watertown	"	5.55 p.m.	8.25 a.m
Arr. Oswego	"	9.05 p.m.	11.55 a.m
Arr. Syracuse	"	9.25 p.m.	12.07 p.m
Arr. Rochester	"	1.05 a.m.	2.20 a.m
Arr. Utica	"	9.45 p.m.	12.35 p.m
Arr. New York	"	7.25 a.m.	6.00 p.m

Convenient train service in opposite direction.

Pullman Sleeping and Parlor Cars.

2c a Mile.

Books for 500 miles of travel on New York Central and leased lines within State of New York, cost only $10 while books for 1000 miles over New York Central, Boston & Albany, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, Philadelphia & Reading and C. R. R. of New Jersey cost $20. Secure further information and purchase tickets from F. A. Folger, N.Y.C. Agent, Kingston, Ont.

GEORGE H. DANIELS,
Gen'l Pass'r Agent,
New York.
A. H. SMITH, Gen'l Supt.,
New York.
G. C. GRIDLEY, Gen'l Agent,
Watertown, N.Y.

THE INTELLIGENCER is printed and published for The Intelligencer Printing and Publishing House (Limited) by CHARLES JAMES BOWELL, of the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, Province of Ontario, at their Office, No. 403 Front Street, Belleville, Ont.

ODD LINES
—OF—
Boots and Shoes
AT LESS THAN COST PRICE.

Men's Canvas Low Shoes, regular price $1.25 & $1.50	75c
Men's Canvas Boots, regular price $1.25 & $1.50	$1.00
Men's Working Boots	68c
Men's $4.00 Tan Boots for	$2.00
Boys' Tan Boots, regular price $1.50 to $2.50	$1.00
Ladies' Fine Dongola Oxfords, sizes 3, 3½, 4, regular price $1.00 to $2 00	50c
Children's Slippers, regular price 75c & $1.00	35c
Girls' Calf Button Boots, sizes 11 to 2	60c

VERMILYEA & SON.
Sole Agents for the famous Queen Quality Shoe.

ONE WEEK MORE ✱ This Sale positively ends Saturday, Aug. 1st

$5.00 Any Suit In This Great Clothing Store for $5.00

A STUPENDOUS CLOTHING OFFER WITHOUT PRECEDENT OR PARALLEL.

Some Suits $18, some $16, some $15, some $12, others $10. Just think of it! High grade, thoroughly tailored garments for Men, complete suits in fashionable fabrics, for

$5.00

This sale has been such a large success we have decided to continue it for one week more to clear out the balance of suits still left. Lots of snaps in stock yet. The earlier you come the better your choice. THIS SALE POSITIVELY ENDS SATURDAY, AUG. 1st.

The GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE.

Up-to-date Clothiers and Gents' Furnishiers, Look for the Globe Over The Door, 390 Front Street, Belleville.

Wall Paper

At first sight of our Wall Papers you will say there's an attractiveness about them that puts them lengths ahead of other lines.

IN STOCKING

we select only the best, we have no "shelf warmers" all our Papers are quick sellers. If you choose your Papers from us you have best value for the price obtainable anywhere.

Painting, Paperhanging and Decorating done on shortest notice by best workmen in the city.

JOHN CORNELIUS.

3 Doors South of Intelligencer Office.

NEW GOODS

JAPAN TEA

The first of this season's crop, exta quality, regular 50c line, we quote

40c per lb.

Canned Halibut

Fine solid Fish, very tasty,

15c per can.

J. C. Hanley & Co.

GROCERS

Telephone 214

Flowers & Vegetables

Of all kinds in season

. . . AT . . .

J. D. COLLIP'S.

'Phone 205.

Western Beef.

Prime Western Beef together with all kinds of choice meats, supplied by the district, at

C. GREEN'S

267 Front St., 'Phone 109.

Authors Make Easy Livings.

I have read with interest an essay by Dr. W. Robertson Nicoll, written over one of his pen names "Claudius Clear," some time ago on "The Stress and Strain of Literary Life." There are few subjects upon which Dr. Nicoll can write with more intimate knowledge. He is one of the most indefatigable workers in his line in England. Even in America he would be called a "hustler." By the literary life Dr. Nicoll refers to the life of journalists and novelists. He has heard writers—journalists and others—declare that there was no strain in the literary life, but this he denies, and he takes his stand upon the fact that by holding one editorial chair for seventeen years he has had a longer tenure than almost any other editor in London, and ought to know what he is talking about. During these seventeen years the editorship has been changed in almost all of the London morning and evening papers as well as the weekly reviews and religious papers. This he mentions to prove the extreme precariousness of the journalist's position, but it does not need Dr. Nicoll or anyone else to prove this to a journalist. It is the most precarious position in the world. You are here to-day and gone to-morrow. You may be with a newspaper twenty-five years and you may not be with it for twenty-five hours. This knowledge is of itself a strain. When he asks the question what is the remedy for the stress and strain of literary life he can give no answer, but he thinks that many of its worst tragedies could be averted if there were better means of keeping the inefficient out of the profession.

While I hesitate to take issue with so well informed a writer as Dr. Nicoll, I cannot think that there is a great deal of stress and strain in the literary life unless those who follow it are unsuccessful. It seems to me there is nothing more ideal than the life of a successful author. Take our successful novelists, for instance. If they do not try to do too much they must have a fairly easy time. They have their ills, but I do not think they are brought on by their work. Mr. Winston Churchill has been in the doctor's hands quite recently, and Mr. Booth Tarkington has been very low with typhoid fever, but I do not think the illness of either of these authors has come from the strain of writing books. Neither Mr. Churchill nor Mr. Tarkington writes too much. They leave plenty of time between their books, and their lives are full of variety, which, after all, is a great factor in keeping one in good working condition.

The late Frank R. Stockton, who was a man of delicate physique, did his day's allowance of writing in two hours. He happened to tell this to a friend who followed a more strenuous profession, and the latter joked him for his laziness. He could not see that two hours of mental strain was equal to eight hours of another sort of work. It is not only when his pen is in his hand that an author is working. On the whole, an author whose books make him a good living has nothing to complain of.—From the July "Critic."

The Gloating.

Bonney—Come, now, be frank! What is there at the beach that is so delightful?

Feldby—Oh, there's nothing there that's delightful. The delight comes when you run up to town and tell the can't-get-aways what splendid times you're having down by the sea.—Boston Transcript.

Unconsciousness.

"But is there such a thing as an unconsciously pretty girl?"

"Certainly. When a pretty girl knows everybody knows she's pretty, of course she's unconscious. Why shouldn't she be, pray?"—Detroit Free Press.

Not Popular.

Miss Prim—No, I never dance. When a man asks a girl to waltz with him it's just the same as if he were to ask her, "May I hug you?"

Miss Pert—Oh, yes! And so they never ask you to dance.—Philadelphia Press.

Not That Way.

"They say," he remarked, "that grip can be caught by kissing."

"That can't be the only way, though," she answered. "Mother had it last week, and now father's down with it."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Coverless Carts.

Dubbs—Chubbs turned prematurely gray the other morning.

Tubbs—Why, how did it happen?

Dubbs—They were collecting ashes in his block.—New York Herald.

Sure Thing.

Hobo Charley — Say, loidy, if dat dawg bites me he dies. See?

Lady—I believe you. I don't see how he could ever recover from it.—Baltimore American.

Self Interest.

"So you want to see the government owning everything?"

"I do," answered Mr. Sirius Barker. "I'm tired of paying taxes."—Washington Star.

Kept His Word.

She—You promised to stop smoking when we were married.

He—Well, they won't allow you to smoke in church.—Brooklyn Life.

Fluent.

"Bixby's wife can converse in five languages."

"Yes, and can't keep still in any one of them."—Judge.

Disqualified.

"Why, what's the matter, Bridget?"

"Your husband says, ma'am, my cooking reminds him too much of yours."—Life.

The Land of Promise.

Rev. Canon Welch, of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, speaking at the triennial Foreign Missions Festival in London, Eng., on July 2, thus spoke of Canada:

Here, he said, is a virgin land of vast extent, awaiting the settler; millions and millions of at present unbroken prairie will in time rustle with golden grain. Though the population is as yet scarce, the movement has set in, and will continue until it has peopled the broad plains. It is 'the modern land of promise, and, comparing it with Canaan of old, he quoted: "A land wherein thou shalt eat bread without scarceness, thou shalt not lack anything in it; a land whose stones are iron and out of whose hills thou mayest dig brass." Yes, a land of promise, indeed, and in it lay the great opportunity of the Church, such an apportunity as had never been and as would never recur. Twenty-five thousand immigrants were pouring in each month—English, Scotch, Americans and foreigners—were these to be left to themselves, or was it not the plain duty of the Anglican Church in Canada to gather them into her fold? "And now," he concluded, "I am not asking for financial help. It is men that we want; Englishmen, not to preach to Canadians, but to minister to the English settlers of this generation until they and their children shall become absorbed in the Canadian nationality. It is these people, leaving English shores, who will make Canada the granary of the Empire; let us not be backward in tendering them the bread of life."

The Homecomer's Memory.

As the home-comer goes through the crowded streets, with their busy marts of trade, he does not see what others see. The mass of people and the intruding buildings are hustled away to nowhere. In their places are set up the scenes of ten, twenty, or thirty years ago. Such an abundance of scenery as the home-comer brings along with him. No train could carry it. Ravines that have been filled up, hills that have been leveled down, streams that have ceased to flow, are all restored. The hand on the dial of time is turned back to the happy days that gave a glorious tinge to everything. When a picnic was a whole lifetime of joy. When a summer was an eternity. When there was not a care in all the world. Memory, indeed, is very kind to the past. It covers up the ugly places; it forgets the pains and troubles. So the home-comer brings along with him a whole world of pleasure. He is a true philosopher, for he discerns the realities of life. The real things are those that are remembered. The little home, its pure and wholesome influences, its atmosphere of rest and affection, needs not to be sung into our memories. It is enshrined in the holy of holies.

CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY

CAPITAL

10,000 Shares 7 per cent Cumulative Preferred Stock, par value $100 each, $1,000,000
50,000 Shares Common Stock, par value $100, issued and fully paid 5,000,000
TOTAL CAPITALIZATION $6,000,000

Issues of $1,000,000 00 7 p.c. Preferred Stock in 10,000 Shares of $100 each at par.

This stock is preferred both as to Assets and Dividends.

The shares are entitled to cumulative preferred dividends from the net earnings of the Company, at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, payable half yearly on the first days of April and October. They may, at the option of the holder, be exchanged for common shares. They are subject to be called in, in whole or in part, by the Company, at $115,00 per share, at any time after 1st January, 1909.

The total issue of Preferred Stock is only $1,000,000.00, the whole of which is now offered.

Subsriptions for 10,000 Shares of $100 each of the 7 per cent. Preferred Stock of the CANADIAN STEEL & COAL COMPANY will now be received at par, that is $100 Share, as follows

per cent on application,
25 " " on allotment,
35 " " 30 days thereafter.
35 " " 60 days thereafter.

One share of Common, par value $100, given with each share of preferred.

The whole of instalments remaining unpaid at any time may be prepaid in full. A discount of one per cent will be allowed upon the par of each share if prepaid at time of allotment

Notice of allotment will be sent promptly by ordinary letter.

COAL

PROPERTY IN FULL OPERATION

Company owns 9,600 acres of coal property known throughout the coal trade as the New Campbellton Colliery, located on Bras D'Or Bay, County of Victoria, Cape Breton, Novia Scotia. Mine is fully equipped, producing and marketing tons of coal a day at a net profit of $1.00 a ton. Improvements are now being made that will increase the output to over 1,000 tons a day. On present output, figuring 300 working days in year, the net result will more than pay interest on entire issue of preferred, with output of 1,000 tons a day net result will be $300,000 per annum.

IRON

RICHEST ORE IN THE WORLD

Company owns in fee simple, free and clear of all incumbrances, 4000 acres of iron ore deposit, located Natashquan (tidewater) situated on North shore of Gulf of St. Lawrence, in the County of Saguenay, province of Quebec.

Deposits contain 20,000,000 tons of ore ABOVE SEA LEVEL ALONE.

Quality of ore is highet ever discovered, running from 69 per cent to 72 per cent in metallic iron.

More orders for the sale of this ore has been received by the Company than can possibly be accepted, and at a price netting the Company a profit of $2 a ton F. O. B. vessels at Company's docks.

Send for prospectus giving full information as to earnings, reports, etc., etc.

Address all communications and send subscriptions to

COLONIAL SECURITIES CO., 62 Wall Street, New York City OR W. L. MARSTON & COMPANY 110 State Street, Boston

The SAWYER COMPANY.

351 Temple Building, Montreal Canada.

THE

Intelligencer Bindery

MAKES A SPECIALTY OF

Leders, Journals, Cash Books,

And all descriptions of

Blank Account Books

Mailing Tubes

Gold Lettering on Leather Goods, &c.

MAGAZINES,
ART WORKS,
PERIODICALS,
SERIAL NUMBERS

NEATLY BOUND

Map Mounting & Varnishing

☞Estimates cheerfully furnished for every class of work.

ADDRESS—

The Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONT.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Measurement Nonpareil—12 lines to th inch.

Display advertisements, 10c per line.

Subsequent consecutive insertions, 5c.

Reading advertisements, 15c per line.

Preferred position, 20 per cent. advanc upon usual or contract rates.

Minimum space, 10 lines.

Marriages and deaths, 50c each insertio

Births, 25c each insertion.

Rates for Condensed Advertisement will be found in 1st column of 2nd page

All advertisements are subject to th approval of the Publisher of the Intelligencer.

Address all communications to the Intelligencer Printing & Publishing House Limited, or to Charles J. Bowell, Managing Director and Treasurer.

Canadians in London will find The Intelligencer on file at E. & J. Hardy & Co.'s Office, 30 Fleet Street, London, E. C.

CONDENSED ADVERTISEMENTS

SITUATIONS WANTED, HELP WANTED, LOST OR FOUND, FOR SALE OR TO RENT, &c

(Auction Sales not included in this list)

TERMS.—Twenty-five words or less. 25c first insertion; two insertions, 50c; four insertions, 75c; one week $1.00, two weeks, $1.75, three weeks, $2.25; one month, $2.50. Strictly cash in advance.

WANTED.

For office work. One capable of keeping books and writing shorthand. Also to act as cashier. Apply at once to McIntosh Bros. 29dtf

A youth to learn the printing trade, one with slight experience would be accepted. Apply to The Intelligencer Office. 25-2t

Be independent. Employ yourself. Establish a business. Our goods are used everyday by everybody. Men make fortunes. Write G. Marshall & Co., London, Ont. 4

Agents wanted, $2.50 per day. Apply Cooper, London, Ont. s27-1y

Young men ambitious to learn lucrative trades, of which there are eight in connection with the business. Apply The Belleville Hardware Company, Belleville, Ont. a7dtf

FOR SALE OR TO-LET.

Stone house, 11 rooms, coal furnace, stable, barn. Large grounds. Cor. Frank and Moira Sts. north. Terms reasonable. H. Bull, on premises or Fred Bull, 133 Yonge St., Toronto. Terms easy. ap18-dtf

FOR SALE.

A six room frame house and a good barn 20x30, on Everett street. Apply to R. F. Miller. 5td-1tw

Shingles, shingles, dressed lumber, etc. GEO. WALTON & CO. jy14-1md

Dressed and Matched Lumber of all kinds, at ALFORD'S factory, Market Square. j12-tf

Contractors and masons, any any person requiring lime may procure it from E. G. STAPLEY, Canifton Road, Belleville. New lime always on hand. a9-d&w6m

Mothers

Have a bottle of

Dr. Butler's
Blackberry Cordial

Always on hand. Finest medicine for Dysentery and all like diseases in children. The first dose effective. Never fails. Safe and sure. Pleasant to take.

sold only at

WATERS'

Goods We Have

at Right Prices

—Hammocks.
—Fishing Tackle.
—Tennis Goods
—Golf Goods.
—Lacrosse Goods.
—Base Ball Goods.
—Screen Doors and Windows.
—Fruit Jars.
—Fruit Jar Rubbers.
—Wall Paper.
—Crystal Glass Vases.
—Glass Ware.
—Dinner Sets.
—Toilet Sets.
—Ladies' Hose.
—Ladies' Vests.
Everything in smallwares.

AT THE BEE HIVE

Chas. N. Sulman

SAVE MONEY
By JOINING The
MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB
OF AMERICA

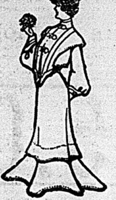
25 Cents pays for three months' membership. Each member receives the official club organ every month, including 6 pieces of high-class vocal and instrumental new music each month, 18 pieces in all; also a Certificate of Membership which gives the privilege of Club Room in New York City, and of buying literature, music or musical instruments of any description at wholesale prices, saving you from 20% to 60% on your purchases. Don't fail to join at once. You will get much more than your money's worth. MUTUAL LITERARY-MUSIC CLUB, Dept. , 150 Nassau St., N.Y.

Some Fashion Notes. . .

The summer girl's outfit must necessary be chosen with a view to her plans for the summer, but this summer there is an embarrassment of riches in materials and models for all climates, all occasions, all modes of life. To be unattractively dressed this season is more than a misdemeanor, says The New York Sun. It should rank as a crime, unless the absence of a dress allowance may be offered as excuse. Where warm weather permits the wearing of filmy, floating frocks and crisp lawns, muslins and linens, the woman of taste may now achieve charming modishness at comparatively light expense, though, on the other hand, it is possible to put extravagant sums into the innocent appearing summer frocks daintily hand wrought. At the resorts where genuinely cool weather forbids great indulgence in sheer and airy attire for out-of-door wear, the dress problem is rather more difficult, and the aid of a good tailor is needed more.

As for the travelling outfit—that is always a vexed question, and one that should receive careful consideration. The European tourist is the typical summer traveller, and the one most in need of wise advice.

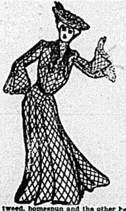
Under ordinary circumstances it is quite possible, by the exercise of good judgment, to compromise and avoid mistakes. If a traveller has the right things she need not have many, and, by careful selection and planning, one may make a very few costumes meet a vast number of wants.



The travelling frock is of necessity the most important wardrobe item of the woman who intends turning her face Europeward. She will wear it more than all her other frocks put together. More persons will see her in it, the impression she makes upon strangers will depend more upon it, it will, in a great degree, affect the civility and consideration she will receive.

There are women, many of them, who harbor the theory that anything comfortable and serviceable will do for a travelling frock, and ruthlessly sacrifice the becoming to the practical, but the sensible woman will make no such mistake. Her travelling costume will be severe, appropriate, but eminently chic and becoming. She will have it well made if the thing is within the possibilities, and if she can have but one expensive frock, will go to a good tailor for her travelling frock, and trust the others to an inferior maker and the fates.

The coat and skirt suit is, of course, the ideal travelling costume, although the shirt waist costume is being much used for the purpose just now. The three-piece suit of etamine, canvas, mohair or other lightweight material suitable for tailoring is another favorite with the traveller, the skirt, bodice and coat being of one material, so that when the coat is removed the costume is still complete, and separate blouses are not a necessity. In tweed, homespun and the other heavier materials liked for travelling wear, this three-piece idea is, of course, not feasible, and while a canvas or mohair tailor frock is a joy upon warm days, one of the rougher and warmer woollen stuffs is a wiser choice for all-round wear.



The short walking skirt, now adopted even by Parisian women, is a boon to the traveller, and every smart travelling frock clears the ground, but it is an excellent plan to have two skirts with the one coat. The additional cost is not excessive, and there are still many occasions when a tailor frock is appropriate, but when a short skirt seems out of place.

A four-piece suit, coat, simple bodice and two skirts, seems a complicated matter, but it is an excellent investment, and for the traveller will meet more emergencies gracefully than three or four ordinary gowns.

The long skirt of the tailor frock is hardly worthy of the adjective, save as it is compared with the walking skirt proper. It does not trail as it did in former seasons, but is cut almost round, touches the floor in front, is a trifle longer at the sides and lies upon the floor not more than three or four inches at the back.

Travelling frocks in silk—taffeta, pongee, louisine, tussore—are numerous but hardly serviceable for the European tour unless the wardrobe is supplied with other travelling costumes. The shirt waist suit in shot taffeta, plain color taffeta or louisine, and in shepherd's plaid of blue and white, black and white, or brown and white, is adopted by many women for travelling.

Had Lost His Baggage.

On one occasion Lindsay, who succeeded Carlisle as a Senator from Kentucky, was coming east with Blackburn, says The Saturday Evening Post. It was morning; the train was swaying and rocking through the Alleghany hills; precisely the hour, the motion and the place to remind a gentleman of Blue Grass genesis that he needed a stomachic. Lindsay, returning from the smoking-room, was concerned to note that his colleague's countenance, usually so bland, wore a look of troubled gloom.

"What's wrong?" asked Lindsay anxiously.

"The worst thing in the world," returned Blackburn. "I've lost the better part of my baggage."

"Was it stolen, or did you leave it behind?"

"Neither; the cork came out."

The Ritchie Coy. Limited

Store Closed Every Wednesday During July and August at 12 O'Clock Noon.

CLEARING SUMMER CLOTHING.

MEN'S $7.00 SUITS $3.95.

To the men comes this offering which should make briskness in Friday's selling.

We have reduced our summer clothing.

Our Summer trade has been beyond our expectations. We do not wonder as the neat styles and general excellence of the garments were such as make quick and lasting friends with the men.

Cleaning up time has come. True we have not many left to clear but even these at the prices we have marked them are worthy of special mention.

Being our first season, all that remain from our large assortment are up-to-date and reliable.

One of these suits will be of use to you well into the fall season. Preserving your better clothing and giving much warm weather comfort. Here they are for Friday.

—20 Only Men's 2 piece summer suits in Grey and White, Black and White and Blue and White Stripe, regular $5.50, $6 50, $7.00, for.......................................$3.95

ONE THIRD OFF COATS AND TROUSERS.

With our Suit Sale we also clear the balance of our separate Coats and Trousers.

No need to speak of the style in these and fit perfection—we guarantee them correct.

The prediction is for a warm September. Even did this not prove true you can save money by buying for next season.

Styles as these are always good.

There are not enough for everyone.

Some will be disappointed. They will not be the early visitors.

Come in time.

—Fine Black and White stripe Lustre coat, silk sewn, regular $1.75, for..........$1.17

—Fine all Black Lustre coat—heavy quality extra finish—a Superior garment, $2.25, for $1.50

BOY'S HALF PRICE WASH SUITS.

For the boys the only proper garment during summer is washable Duck or Linen Suit.

The number we have sold show that many mothers appreciate this.

The selling season is about over—the wearing season at it's height.

We make this timely offering to clean up our shelves for fall goods.

ALL WASH SUITS HALF PRICE.

—Boy's Fine Navy Duck Sailor Suit with fancy trimmed collar and cuffs, neat, regular $1.00, for..............................50c

—Boy's Fine Linen Color wash suit with fancy trimmed Sailor collar and tie, vest and pants, 3 pieces, regular $1.50, for 75c,........75c

UNDER PRICED FRENCH ORGANDIES.

38c, 40c, 45c, 48c Organdies 25c. 25c Organdies 15c.

These are cleaning days throughout our entire store, the exceptional values offered in desirable materials, keeping us busy through what to others is dull season.

Friday marks the last day of this month. It's to be Muslin day with us. If values offered increase sales this should be our best day.

Our Fine French Organdies go in making this last effort.

Bought direct, in Paris, they mark the highest point in design and quality obtainable at the prices anywhere.

The beauty of the designs led us to buy of these to freely

We have sold many—what remain go on Friday at these prices below.

The quality and seasonableness of the goods makes this an exceptional bargain.

—All our French Organdie Muslins in a wide range of color and designs, regularly sold at 25c for 15c. 15c 40c 45c 48c for 25c

CHILDREN'S DRESSES HALF PRICE

FRIDAY ONLY.

The reductions we made on these dresses shortly ago has cleared many of the styles out completely, many of the sizes from others.

Friday we give to mothers this excellent chance to purchase garments for their children at less than the material would cost.

The dainty styles and trimmings alone should recommed these. Combined with "Half Price" they make a bargain worthy of your inspection. Frday only.

—The balance of our Childrens' Wash Dresses in Print, Duck and Gingham and White Muslin and Lawn were 50c to $2.75, for Half Price.

—The balance of our Sale Wrappers also Half Price, from...... ....50c to 75c.

SOFT SHIRTS 75c

A glance in our North Furnishing Window will reveal a secret. The secret why many keep, if not cool comfortable during the hot days.

Cash and Quantity having bought us this line enabling us to save you 25c and while doing so obtain a thoroughly reliable article.

We have one to fit you—come in and see the excellent value.

—Men's Soft Front Shirts in neat stripe and fancy spot designs, cuffs attached or separate 75c

Agents for Standard Patterns.

The Ritchie Coy. Limited

CLOTHING BOUGHT HERE PRESSED FREE OF CHARGE

Quick & Robertson's for Fine Clothes

There's no use of disputing the fact that this store stands pre-eminent in this city as the store for Men's Fine Clothes.

With our large and pleasing varieties, up-to-date styles, and good making, we've won the trade of every man, and especially the trade of those men who are particular about the clothes they wear.

And why shouldn't we? You can't find a store that has, Ready-Made, such exclusive styles in suitings and summer garments as we are showing and everyone of them is from the best British and Canadian Mills.

Then, too, every garment is built to come up to the our high standard—built by the best makers who know how and do give close attention to important parts of tailoring—such as adjusting the collars, shaping the shoulders, proper placing of the sleeves and stays and making of the button holes.

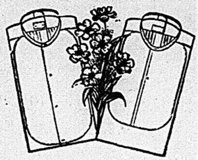
Clothes made this way never lose their shape. And by so doing we have overcome that appearance which markes clothes as being Ready-Made.

The prices for such goodness you'd expect to be high but they are not—are no more than you would pay for ordinary sorts elsewhere.

MEN'S SUMMER FURNISHINGS

. . . . AND . . .

STRAW HATS



The Largest Variety assures the Easiest Choosing.

That's just what's bringing more men to this store every day—they are getting into the fact that the selections Quick & Robertson shows in every line are the largest and most liberal in town—right in every way; in quality the highest, in style the latest and in price the fairest. Better choose now while the choosing is good.

QUICK & ROBERTSON

Agents in Belleville for W. R. Johnston & Co.'s Famous Clothing.

2 Refrigerators Left

After a busy season we find ourselves with two refrigerators on hand and we are determined not to carry them over until next year, so we will sacrifice them in price so that buying will be irresistable.

The W. W. CHOWN Company, Limited

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books, with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first-class. THE INTELLIGENCER, Belleville.

NEW MENUS FOR AUGUST.

From Table Talk, Philadelphia

SATURDAY, AUGUST 1.

BREAKFAST

Fruit
Grape Nuts Sugar and Cream
Creamed Eggs
Lyonnaise Potatoes
Muffins Coffee

LUNCH

Vegetable Salad Brown Bread
Peach Short Cake Cocoa

DINNER

Cucumber and Onion Soup
Beef Cannelon Brown Gravy
Mashed Potatoes Spinach
Lettuce French Dressing
Wafers Cheese
Fruit Cake
Coffee

A Crime.

This is a story told by a physician: A young man of worth and character and of fair intellectuality let cigarettes get the upper hand of him. When he realized that he could not break the habit without aid he went to a sanitarium, where a specialty was made of a cigarette cure. There all cigarettes were denied to him. When the craving for them had reached the breaking point he was sustained by morphine. And in time he was discharged as cured. But he soon found he had a worse habit fastened upon him than that of cigarette smoking. So he went to another sanitarium where they cured victims of morphine. There he underwent the same experience that he had in the first place, and when he could stand it no longer without morphine they gave him cocaine. And by and by he was discharged as cured. But he was now a victim of cocaine, as much worse than cigarettes. Fortunately, he at last found his way into a place where he was treated honestly and skilfully and came out with a mind and body so strengthened that he may possibly, entirely recover from his awful experiences.

And yet there is no punishment for those doctors who pushed him knowingly from one horrible condition in to another.

SURE CURE FOR SEA SICKNESS, NAUSEA.

Maladies of this type yield instantly to Polson's Nerviline, and if you suffer periodically from these complaints, just keep Nerviline at hand. A few drops in sweetened water gives instant relief, and in the course of half an hour the cure is complete. A large 25c bottle of Nerviline in the house will save doctor bills, and a vast amount of suffering every year.

PLEASANT ASSEMBLY AT MASSASSAGA PARK

WHICH WAS SOMEWHAT MARRED BY AN ACCIDENT TO THE BOAT WHICH CONVEYED A PORTION OF THE PARTY.

A number of the young bachelors of this city gave an assembly at Massassaga Park last night, which proved to be most enjoyable. The steamer Annie Lake conveyed the party to the Point, but in returning to the city on the second trip an accident occurred to the machinery and the craft drifted out into Big Bay before assistance came, and it was necessary to tow the Annie to the city and have repairs made. In consequence of the delay a number who intended to participate in the assembly were compelled to remain at home. The dining room at the hotel was used for dancing, which was kept up until an early hour this morning. Music was furnished by the Chalaupka orchestra. At midnight supper was partaken of, which was all that could have been desired.

A Quiet Wedding.

A quiet wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the residence of the Rev. F. B. Stratton, who officiated. The groom was Mr. Charles A. Heagle and the bride Miss Florence A. Smith, both of Trenton.

Band Concert.

Despite the fact that the evening was cool and a strong wind prevalled, there were a large number at the park last evening to listen to the band concert. The programme presented seemed to be enjoyable to those who heard it.

EVERYBODY SHOULD TAKE A VACATION.

Whether it be for a few days or a few weeks, the change of occupation, the peaceful quiet rest in the woods, or a trip through the charming lakes and rivers of "the Highlands of Ontario," breathing in the pure air, impregnated with the odor of the balsam and pines, will not only do you and your family good, but will make you of more benefit to your employer. Think of this and call on U. E. Thompson, C. P. & T. A. or T. H. Coppin, station agent, Grand Trunk Railway. j28toa8

Sign the petition to stop net fishing in the Bay. Copies can be found at Capt. Allan's.

HOW THE FARMERS MAKE THEIR MONEY.

STOCK RAISING, DAIRY PRODUCE, POULTRY AND EGGS, ARE NOW THE YEOMEN'S MAINSTAYS.

A correspondent of the Toronto Globe writing in regard to the farmers of the Midland district, makes reference to the falling off of the lumbering industry and later of the gradual decline of wheat growing, and continues as follows:

"Then came stock farming, and today the north country people are reputed to have more ready cash than even those of the south. They do not perhaps earn more, but they spend less on living and on luxuries. The ranch has come into existence, and owners of large plots from 200 to 2,000 acres turn loose sometimes hundreds of young cattle, leasing the pasture for others than their own at $2 to $2.75 per head for the season. They do not pretend to provide winter stabling for the animals, and when fall comes the strange cattle are returned to their owners, and the younger ones sold as stockers or feeders to the southern counties. Side by side with the cattle is the hog industry, which flourishes exceedingly, particularly in the sections which produce coarse grain for feed. The result of the growth of the stock industry is that many places, before nearly unknown, are now prosperous centres, doing a good commercial business with the farmers, and are on a more firm foundation than ever. Cheese factories have replaced sawmills, and the revenue from this perpetual source is enjoyed by hundreds who had thought there was no future in agriculture in this region.

High prices and heavy pasture have stimulated the cheese production to a record-breaking point The farmers of the midlands are making more cheese than ever this season. The price has ranged from the extrordinary figure of 12 1-2 cents down to 9 1-2 cents, which latter figure is equal to about 19 cents for creamery butter. The number of cheese factories has not materially changed, but two new butter factories have been started. The butter market has been dull, and the price a little off. In the northern townships especially, cream separators have become the fashion, and instead of all the milk being collected and teamed to the factory only the cream is taken. This lessens the labor of hauling, and enables the farmer to retain sweet milk instead of sour whey for his hogs and calves. The gain through the use of a cream separator instead of skimming is said to be sufficient to pay for a separator in a short time. The Grand Trunk have risen to the needs of the dairy business by sending through these sections large white freight cars with cool chambers for cheese.

The city householder probably wonders why eggs are so dear this year. One reason is that they are not quite so plentiful. Another reason given by Mr. William Flavelle, the well-known Lindsay exporter, is the competition between the exporting buyers, who have organized the territory so well that it has prevented the large consuming centres like Toronto and Montreal from being glutted, as they formerly were. This latter is helped by the practice of paying agents a commission on what they buy. Thus does the export trade inure to the benefit of the farmer. Mr. Flavelle says the present prices of 12 to 13 cents for July eggs is too high for exporters to pay and the buyers have eased off, so that a drop may shortly be expected. The prices of July eggs for four years back were as follows: July, 1902, 12 1-2 to 13 cents; July, 1901, 9 1-2 to 10 cents; July, 1900, 10 to 10 1-2 cents; July, 1899, 11 to 11 1-2 cents.

The women of the midlands have developed a great taste for poultry as a source of pin money. Turkeys still have the lead, but chickens are gaining in favor. Last year the poultry business was a tremendous failure, owing to the wet weather, which destroyed the young birds. That has not discouraged the farmers, however, for they are going into the business with greater zest than ever, buying incubators, and using modern coops and other appliances. In these improvements they are liberally advised and aided by the large buyers. Turkey poults are delicate, and often lose their lives when they take to the tall, wet grass, but after a couple of months they are exceedingly hardy. For export they bring 6 1-2 to 7 cents a pound, live weight, in ordinary years, but last year they went as high as 9 and 10 cents. The weather has been favorable this year, and a large export business is expected. The farmers bring the birds to town alive, and they are killed and plucked uniformly by the exporter.

In the ordinary farm crops the midlands will have a yield which puts aside all danger of complaint. Hay is the shortest crop, but as so many farmers ship their cattle in fall, or feed on coarse grains in the winter, this will not mean any severe hardship. The hay suffered from the drouth in May, when the grass turned brown on the high lands. With the rains, however, the new meadows revived largely. Oats are the largest grain crop, and they, as well as the wheat and peas, give an abundant promise. Pastures are good, and the wild berry crops, of importance to many of the poorer settlers are heavy. The potatoes never looked better, and the apple trees are heavily loaded.

CHEAP TRIPS.

The Grand Trunk Railway is running an excursion from Belleville to Kingston every Wednesday. Fare for the round trip, Belleville to Kingston and return, $1.35. Tickets are good going on date of issue only and parties must go on 7 a.m. train. Connect at Kingston with boat for trip through Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay, Return fare for round trip through Islands from Kingston 50c.

Civic Deputation Returned Last Night

NOT MUCH TO SAY ON THE SUBJECT, BUT THINK PROSPECTS ARE FAVORABLE.

The civic deputation which left the city on Tuesday last, in order to lay Belleville's advantages before the U. S. firm which proposes to establish a branch in Canada, returned to the city last night. It will be remembered that Ald. Chown was sent as a representative of the City Council, and ex-Mayor Johnson represented the Board of Trade.

This morning an Intelligencer representative went to see Ald. Chown, and was told that he was at Mayor Graham's office. Thither the scribe wended his way, and there His Worship and the Chairman of the Executive were found deep in conversation.

"Good morning, gentlemen," said the newspaper man; "anything for publication about the big industry we are going to get?"

Ald. Chown smiled genially, and said there was not much to tell. The deputation had had a pleasant journey, and had been cordially received and well treated. It would not be advisable, he thought, to make public very much connected with the matter. In the course of conversation it came out that the people at the head of the industry were very favorably impressed by the energy displayed by Belleville in sending a deputation. "It looks," said the U. S. gentlemen, "as though your people were very much in earnest over the matter." They had, he said, been in correspondence with other places in regard to a Canadian location, but none of them had shown the enterprise displayed by Belleville.

"Is it a large establishment?" asked the scribe.

"Fairly large," said Ald. Chown, "though we understand it was not running full force at present. Their reason, however, for desiring a branch in Canada is explained by the fact that the duty on their principal product is $1 per dozen and 25 per cent. ad valorem. There are only two firms in Canada making the same goods."

"Did you come to any arrangements with them?" was the next question.

"They will write us shortly," said the Alderman, giving the idea that a proposition of some sort might be expected.

"And do you really think?" said the inquisitive scribe, "that Belleville stands a good chance of getting the industry?"

"Taking everything into consideration," said Ald. Chown, "I think our chances are good."

"Then you consider that the sending of the deputation was a good move?" said the writer.

"The fact of our being first on the ground counted for something?" said the Chairman of the Executive, "And I have reason to believe that some of the things we saw and heard will prove of much benefit hereafter."

The newspaper man asked the Mayor if there was to be any special meeting of the Council called to consider the deputation's report, but His Worship said no.

"There may be a special meeting some day next week," said Ald. Chown.

In a later conversation with Ald. Chown The Intelligencer learned that the U.S. gentlemen knew all about Belleville's rolling mills, which, however, were not the kind needed in their business. The rolling mills they would establish would roll sheet steel; they had no use for bar iron.

"Did you see Mr. Kirkwood on your travels?" Ald. Chown was asked.

"We saw him when we were coming back," was the reply, "but I do not think I would care to state anything that took place."

The U. S. people whom the deputation went to see, Ald. Chown said, had been in correspondence with Mr. Kirkwood.

Situated in the same town as the industry our deputation went to see is a large steel plant, employing 5000 men. They were shown through the works, and found the sight an extremely interesting one.

It is impossible, of course, to forecast what the result of the deputation's visit will be, but Ald. Chown thinks that, so far as location and transportation facilities are concerned, Belleville has as good a chance as any place in Canada to secure the industry. Something more definite may be expected when the U. S. firm's letter arrives. In the meantime we must possess our souls in patience.

TAKE YOUR OVERCOAT.

When you go away on your holiday trip, be sure and take a light overcoat or rainproof coat. You see how changeable the weather is, first warm and then cold. If you have not got a proper coat, the Oak Hall can supply you.

Over one-third of the land in Great Britain is owned by members of the House of Lords.

IT IS A PERPLEXING THING.

For the reader of newspaper advertisements to determine what is what. We do not use as large type as some, but we are sure that what we have to say is not the less important to any one who is interested in the subject of clothing at this time. Our summer suits are ready to speak for themselves, if you will but take time to inspect them, and we think you will find no fault with the prices. We are making an immense display of hot weather clothing and furnishings.—Quick & Robertson.

Bad Coughs Neglected colds always lead to something serious. They run into chronic bronchitis, pneumonia, asthma, or consumption. Don't wait. Take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and stop your cough. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

MARRIED IN MANISTEE, MICH

YOUNG LADY OF THIS CITY BECOMES THE BRIDE OF A MICHIGAN GENTLEMAN.

The Manistee, Mich., Daily Advocate, of Tuesday, July 28, gives the following particulars of the marriage of a popular young lady of this city:

A pretty, though quiet, wedding occurred this morning in the Church of the Guardian Angels, when Father Steffes joined in the holy bonds Miss Effie Fitzpatrick, of Belleville, Canada, and Mr. Fred Durand, of this city. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock. Decorations of flowers and potted plants were profuse throughout the church.

As the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march resounded through the church, played by Miss Carrie Roussin, the happy party approached through the center aisle to the altar, the bride upon the arm of John McDonald, who gave her away. The bride was attended by Miss Agnes Smith, as maid of honor, and Miss Belle Sullivan, as bridesmaid, while Frank Fitzpatrick, a brother of the bride, was best man, and Charles Lehr acted as groomsman.

The bride was dressed in gray etamine, trimmed with white silk and point lace. Miss Smith wore a gown of cream mull, and Miss Sullivan was becomingly attired in a dress of white mull. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John White, 124 Ford street, at which nearly fifty guests were served by the Misses Nellie White and Mabel Peterson.

Among the out-of-town guests present were Frank Fitzpatrick, of Belleville, Canada, and Mrs. Buelah and son Frank, of Chicago. The happy couple were the recipients of numerous and beautiful presents of cut glass, linen, silverware and furniture. For the present Mr. and Mrs. Durand will board with Mr. Durand's sister, Mrs. John White, and will begin house-keeping in the fall. They have the well wishes of hosts of friends.

Y.M.C.A.

The steamer Annie Lake will leave Rathbun's wharf Monday, August 3rd at 8.30 a.m., with senior campers for Sandy Point, (Camp Quinte). 30-2td

PREMIER ROBLIN'S THANKS.

TENDERED TO HIS BAY OF QUINTE FRIENDS FOR THEIR CONGRATULATIONS ON HIS RECENT VICTORY.

The following letter, which explains itself, will be read with pleasure by all lovers of good government in this city.

Winnipeg, 24th July, 1903.

W. C. Mikel, Esq., President Liberal-Conservative Association, Belleville, Ont.

My Dear Mr. Mikel,—I thank you and through you the other officers and members of your association for the message of congratulations over the sweeping victory of Monday last. The province is practically ours. The Opposition were annihilated, all of the lieutenants going down, only Mr. Greenway himself being saved out of the wreck. Am pleased that my Bay of Quinte friends rejoice in the success that we achieved on Monday and I can assure them that I shall bend my best efforts to a further discharge of public duties that will maintain the traditions of the great party to which we belong.

With assurances of my personal regards to yourself and with my best wishes to all members of your association, I am,

Yours faithfully,
R. P. ROBLIN.

CITY AND DISTRICT.

The steamer Varuna last evening brought an excursion from Trenton to the city.

The final sitting of the Judge's Court of Revision re assessment was held to-day.

Complaint is being made of boys going in swimming in the river near Lott's dam.

Judgment in the celebrated McDonald deed case was given yesterday in Toronto by Judge Britton, who dismissed the action without costs. The full text of the report will appear to-morrow.

Mrs. Thorne, who resides on Moira street, reports to the police that a portion of a set of harness was stolen from her barn last night.

Some twenty citizens were summoned before the Magistrate today, charged with non-registration of dogs. All the parties but one took out the necessary license.

Napanee and Deseronto Excursion. Str. Aletha, Saturday, Aug. 1st. Boat leaves 2.15 p.m., giving one and a half hours at Napanee, three hours and a half at Deseronto. Fare 25c. Children 15c. j30-2t

Wanted.—A youth to learn the printing trade, one with slight experience would be accepted. Apply to The Intelligencer Office. 25-2td

PERSONAL ...AND... SOCIAL.

The Intelligencer invites all its readers to contribute to this column all items of a personal nature, such as the arrival or departure of guests, and the movements of business men, etc: Send a post card to or telephone The Intelligencer.

Mr. W. B. Riggs is spending a few days at Hastings.

Messrs. Chas. Dolan and V. Brennan are rusticating near Stirling.

Dr. George Mathison, of Winnipeg, is spending his vacation here.

Mr. James Neilson, of Chicago, arrived in the city yesterday evening.

Mrs. Pattullo, of Woodstock, is in the city, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Casey.

Mrs. May, George street, has gone to Wellington, where she will remain for a few weeks.

Miss Marguerite Gash, of Brockville, is the guest of Miss Katie Dolan, Cedar street.

Mr. Michaud, of Winnipeg, is visiting Principal Mathison, at the Institution.

Mrs. G. S. Lazier has returned to the city after a couple of months spent in the eastern states.

Misses Hattie and Agnes Reid, of Enterprise, are visiting at their brother's, W. O. Reid, Dundas St.

Mrs. Armstrong, of Ohio, daughter of Rev. F. B. Stratton, is a guest of her father in this city.

Mrs. Walter Alford and daughter, Miss Fannie, are spending a few days at the Thousand Islands.

Mr. Wm. McKeown has returned to the city after two weeks spent on the old homestead at Croydon.

Miss Bessie Dolan of this city, recently obtained first-class honors in music at the Loretto Convent, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Williamson, of Lindsay, are the guests of the Rev. F. B Stratton, Mrs. Williamson's father.

Mr. J. A. Laidlaw has returned to the city much improved in health after a two weeks sojourn at the seaside.

Kingston Whig: Rev. M. W. Maclean, Belleville, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Craig, West street.

Mr. H. A. Ackerman was called to his home near Picton yesterday, owing to the serious illness of his father.

Mrs. (Rev.) J. E. Connor and daughter, of Lexington, Ill., are visiting Mrs. Connor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Ackerman, Harriett St.

Mrs. D. Grass, William street, has returned to her cottage on Crow Lake, accompanied by her uncle, Mr. H. U. Bartlett, and Miss Kinder.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Sargent, Frank St., entertained a number of friends last evening in honor of their daughter, Mrs. Davy, who is visiting them prior to her departure for home next Monday.

Miss T. Harry, daughter of Capt. A. J. Harry, and Miss E. C. Schille, daughter of the artist, H. Schille, of Brooklyn, N.Y., are spending their vacation at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lutton, George St.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller Empey, of Rochester, N.Y., are amongst the summer visitors at present in the city and are receiving a cordial welcome from many old friends who have most kindly recollections of them.

Marmora Herald:—Messrs. V. Brennan, Terry Dolan and Chas. Dolan, of Belleville, are visiting Cordova. Miss Moynes, of Belleville, who spent a pleasant outing at the lake returned home yesterday. Miss Ethel Hicks and Miss Mary Lake, of Belleville, are guests of Mrs. Haight at The Jolly Oaks, Crowe Lake.

At the Quinte:—A. Clarkson, Halifax; J. Everett, F. G. Soper, F. A. Brady, O. F. Hill, R. J. McDonald, W. G. Hopwood and wife, J. A. McDougall, W. E. Puck, Toronto; J. A. Vandervoort, City; W. R. Murch, J. A. Mitchell, R. Fliny, Montreal; W. C. Roberts, Corning, N.Y.; F. A. Sparks, Philadelphia; D. Wallbridge, Vancouver; R. A. Francis and wife, Yonkers, N.Y.; Mrs. P. B. Lynt, Ardsley, N.Y.; A. A. Roblin and wife, New York.

THE ANAEMIC YOUNG GIRL.

Perhaps she is sixteen. Suddenly she seems to lose strength, her beauty fades because her strength fails, her eyes lose their lustre. How her spirit droops! It alarms you, but all this may be corrected quickly. Get her Ferrozone, it is a nerve tonic, it aids the stomach to do its work. Appetite? She'll eat anything and digest it, too. Ferrozone is an absolute specific for the anaemia of young people. Ask your druggist for it.

GLASGOW WAREHOUSE.

Three Days Sale
...OF...
Muslins and Ginghams.

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday.

MUSLINS

All our Fancy Muslins from 10 to 15c, sale price.................. 8c
All our Fancy Muslins from 20 to 25c, sale price.................. 15c
All our Fancy Muslins from 30 to 50c, sale price.................. 25c

GINGHAMS AND ZEPHYRS

All our Ginghams and Zephyrs from 10 to 12½c, sale price 8c
All our Ginghams and Zephyrs from 15 to 25c, sale price........ 12½c

If you are wanting any of the above lines you will readily understand by inspecting the stock, which contains both quality and pattern what a grand bargain is to be had during this sale.

JUST ARRIVED—New Ties, New Belts, New Collars. The very latest New York styles

Laidlaw & Ketcheson
DIRECT IMPORTERS

Daily Intelligencer.

THE INTELLIGENCER IS SOLD AT
J. W. London's and G. Wardhaugh's.

Local Reading Advertisements,
ords 50 cents; 2 cents per word first insertion, per word subsequent consecutive insertions. Headlines count as 12 words; contracts for ong periods made at office.

Rowntree's
Coffee
Chocolate

A most delicious and nourishing eating chocolate in thin, crisp cakes.
10c a package.

CHAS. S. CLAPP

NAMES THAT COUNT IN MEDICINE

Physicians who are familiar with the stock of drugs and chemicals we carry express their appreciation freely. The names upon the packages of goods indicate to them that this is a store that stands for all that is best in pharmacy. These names might mean little to you as far as their direct significance is concerned, but they are apt to mean much to you whenever you have a prescription to be compounded. In drug store goods we provide the best.

McKeown's DRUG STORE

The Sun & Hastings Savings and Loan Co. of Ontario.
AUTHORIZED CAPITAL
$5,000,000.

3 1-2 per cent. allowed on Deposits payable on Call.

4 per cent. on Deposits for one year or over.
Money to Loan upon favorable terms.
OFFICE, No. 46 Bridge St., Belleville.

J. P. C. PHILLIPS,
Manager Belleville Branch.

Lost chances never leave any trail.

MONITOR

This is another fine Mantle Clock, not quite so expensive as Gadski in last week's advertisement, but fully as serviceable. It is an eight-day hour and half strike on cathedral gong, fancy columns with trimmings and drop handles, in every way a beautiful clock. Our price only $5.50.

T. BLACKBURN.
Eyes examined free of charge. Jeweller & Optician.

SPECIALS FOR THIS WEEK.

Rose Pink Flank, 10c yd	7c	10c Pair Straw Cuffs, Japanese	5c
5c Bottle Vaseline, 2 for	5c	40c Pair Bath Towells for	27½c
5c Package Magnesia, 2 for	5c	White and Colored Shelf Oil Cloth Scalloped, 10c yd, for	7c
10c Package McLarens Jelly Powders, 2 for	15c	4-4 Chenille Table Covers	47c
25c Belladonna Plasters, 2 for	25c	15c Bottle Sweet Oil	7c
50c Rose Miracle Pills for Dyspepsia	10c	Skinners Balsam of Ainseed	15c
4 Sheets Tanglefoot Fly Paper for	5c	Hind's Honey Almond Cream, 50c, for	33c
10c Fly Pads, 2 for	15c	D. & L. Malt Extract, 5c Bottle	23c
8c Fly Pads, 2 for	5c	Chases Catarrh Cure, 25c, for	15c
Granite Wash Basins	11c	Best Fruit Jar Rings, for	5c
25c Window Screen	19c	Granite Preserving Kettles, from $1.25 to	20c
50c Pillow Sham Holders	25c	See Our 10c Tables This Week.
15c Towel Rollers	15c

McINTOSH BROS.

He Saved the Foreigners.

Chang-Chih-Tung, represented sometimes as the friend and sometimes as the foe of the eminent Yuan-Shih-Kai, receives the highest praise from The Paris Temps. He prevented a general massacre of Europeans in the interior of China at the time of the Boxer outbreaks. He is a Manchu, a thinker, a man of letters, with a sharp wit. That he is a poet is shown conclusively by the English version of his ode to the Emperor of China, which appeared recently in East of Asia, an able Shanghai magazine. "So unswerving is his diligence," asserts Chang-Chih-Tung of the Emperor in the ode we have alluded to, "that he sleeps in his clothes," and from the foreigner the poet-statesman says his country derives great profit. "With equally kind and cordial hospitality we meet all aliens; may they live upon the borders of our sea, or on our distant mountains!" But the Empress-dowager is thought to dislike Chang-Chih-Tung, either on account of the tone of his poetry or because he is a friend of the progressive party in Japan. To the great disappointment of the English, she did not appoint him to the post of Grand Secretary, which corresponds roughly to that of a Minister of Foreign Affairs in Europe, when the illustrious Young Lu died last April.

Beware of "Absolute."

Whatever may be the merits or demerits of "absolutely unique"—and it may be noted that the Prime Minister, Mr. Balfour, employed this term in describing the tenure of the Colonial Office by Mr. Chamberlain—there is no doubt that "absolutely" is the most overworked adverb in our vocabulary. Among politicians especially the word is used in the most careless way; Mr. Balfour, in his brief speech, employed it twice. But it is not for newspapers to sneer at politicians in this respect. Only the other day, in a news agency telegram printed in several evening journals, the world was informed that there was an official assurance from the Vatican that the rumor of the Pope's death was "absolutely without foundation." With this one may compare Mark Twain's comment upon the report of his own death—that it was "much exaggerated."

Willing to Pay Half.

In a Scotch country parish not long ago, says Tit-Bits, there lived a church officer who had filled that post and that of grave digger for the long space of fifty years. Suspicion had long been entertained that he was in the habit of helping himself out of the collection plate whenever opportunity admitted. It was difficult, of course, to prove this. At last, however, the sum of £1 was abstracted from a missionary box which stood in the vestry, and everything combined to point out this man as the culprit. The elders told the minister that something must really be done. The reverend gentleman said he would make investigations.

The following Sabbath, after the morning service, the minister was taking off his gown and bands, and, being alone in the vestry with the suspected man, he thought the opportunity was too good to be lost, so he said:—

"Andrew, have you heard of the money that is a-missing from the box?"

"O'ay," said Andrew. "I was hearing something aboot it."

"Andrew," continued the other, very gravely, "this matter lies between you and me. We are the only two who have access to the box. Either you or I must be the thief."

"'Deed, sir," rejoined the imperturbable Andrew, "it is just as you say; we're the only two that has had access to the box, and I think the best way'll be for you tae pay the half and I pay the tither, and sae nae mair aboot it."

Is New Zealand British?

Queer points are raised from time to time in courts of law; for instance, one just seriously reserved for consideration by an Australian Judge of the Supreme Court, namely, whether New Zealand is legally a British possession. It sounds like a joke at the expense of that most ardent and energetic of Imperialists, "King Dick" Seddon. At the same time it is possible there may be something in the point. Although Captain Cook repeatedly urged upon the Imperial Government the colonization of New Zealand no practical step was taken until very late in the thirties, when it leaked out that the French were contemplating the annexation of the islands. It was a close race between a British and a French man-of-war, the British ship winning by a few hours. It is conceivable that in the excitement of the moment some formality in the proclamation of British sovereignty over New Zealand may have been overlooked. In 1835 a Frenchman who called himself "Baron de Thierry" proclaimed himself 'Sovereign Chief of New Zealand,' but his funds failed, ninety-three followers deserted and he sank into obscurity.

A Wonderful Dog.

They were talking about the almost human intelligence exhibited by dogs on some occasions, says The Washington Star. Several anecdotes had been related of the wonderful intellect of canines, when an army officer, who is connected with the cavalry arm of the service, stepped into the ring and squared himself for a good one. He is something of a sportsman and knows a good dog when he sees one, so that his story was listened to with more than usual interest by his friends:—"It was down in Texas several years ago that I came across the greatest dog I ever saw or heard of," he said. "The animal belonged to a friend of mine and was the greatest quail dog you ever saw. We have taken that dog out day after day and he would never go wrong, and would point quail in the most unlooked-for places. One day we were walking into town from the army post where I was stationed, this friend of mine and I, and we had the dog along. As we were walking along the road carelessly a well-dressed stranger passed us. No sooner had the man passed on than the dog stuck his tail in the air, and assumed the attitude recognized as 'pointing.' It was some time before we were able to determine what he was pointing, but finally came to the determination that he was pointing the stranger, which proved to be correct. We called to the man and asked him if he had any quail about him, or if he had eaten any quail, explaining why we asked. He said he had nothing of the kind, and did not remember having eaten any for some months. Turning to my friend, I said:

"'Your old dog has gone wrong.'

"'Not a bit of it,' he replied. 'That dog is right, and I'll bet you $10 he is.'

"I did not see then how the bet was going to be settled, but took it up anyway, and we continued on to town. We went to the biggest hotel in the place to get some refreshments, and there saw the stranger we had met on the road. My friend asked the clerk who the stranger was, and the clerk pointed to the register. As soon as my friend saw the name he gave a yell and called me to come over there.

"'Give me your money, my boy. That dog knew what he was doing when he pointed that man.'

"To satisfy myself I glanced at the register, and saw the stranger's name. It was 'Robert F. Partridge!' Truly that was the most wonderful dog I ever saw or heard of."

"The Purple Lady."

The announcement that Miss Hallie Erminie Rives, the Virginia novelist, was seriously considering the plan of giving up literature for the footlights to assume the role of the heroine in the dramatization of her late novel, "Hearts Courageous," has inspired one budding poet to song. The authoress's notable possession is a wonderful head of curling hair of the tint that Dido and other fascinating women of antiquity have possessed. Interviewers have called it by such terms as "flame-washed," "Swedish yellow," "beaten-bronze," "tawny-russet" and "streaked amber." Others have contented themselves with the more obvious adjective of three letters. Miss Rives was once heard to say that when, as a child, she asked her "black mammy" why her hair was not like other children's, the old woman used to say: "Honey-chile, ah specks, fo' yo' was borned, yo' done runned th'oo hell bar'-headed." The poetical effort referred to, Miss Rives found in her mail the other day. It was unsigned, and the authoress has been passing it around among her friends with joy. The "Book News" prints it:

A RHYME OF REDHEADS.

I warble no ballad of sense or of salad,
But a rhyme of a torrid intention,
For I sing of the red that emblazons the head
Of a type that's too many to mention.
It's wiry and fiery and always inspiry,
And very, oh, very well bred.
It's a vision Elysian of tints that are Titian—
That's red!—Red!!—RED!!!

Now, lithe Mrs. Carter, who chews cream-a-tartar
And zazas her frizzes of auburn,
Has a head of rare red (tho' a rival has said—
That she wouldn't for money so daub hern!)
It's gushy and blushy, and maybe not lushy,
Though very, oh, very well fed.
But I sing of an airy, new, cap capillary
As red!—Red!!—RED!!!

For Mrs. Brown Potter a new plan has got her
To put in a play galumpageous
A fresh tawny-top, 'neath whose sorrel-hued mop
Grew the story we call "Hearts Courageous."
Oh, it's rough on the yellows, the blacks and prunellas,
But it's very, oh, very well said
That the cerebral color that yanks the big cruller
Is red!—Red!!—RED!!!

She Will Do it.

Lady Member of the Advanced Brigade—I cannot understand why you men seem to prefer the silly, foolish, inane women, who have not two thoughts in their empty heads. If I were a man, I should select a girl with a mind of her own.

Male Outsider—The worst of that sort of woman is that she is always so fond of giving pieces of it away.—"Ally Sloper."

Dyer—Who holds the record in your automobile club? Jack—Shaffer. He ran over himself.

Philosophy.

To become popular, allow people to teach you what you already know.

To make enemies, always tell the truth.

More people give to please themselves than to please others.

The man who runs into debt frequently flies from his creditors, is carried into court, and subsequently driven to distraction.

When a thief is in concealment, if he's found, he's lost.

Many a man who has devoured his wife with kisses has found that she disagreed with him afterwards.

The following epitaph was ordered to be inscribed on her husband's tombstone by a certain widow: "Rest until I come."

SORE HANDS

Itching, Burning Palms, Painful Finger Ends,

With Brittle, Shapeless, Discolored Nails,

As Well as Roughness and Redness.

One Night Treatment with Cuticura, the Great Skin Cure.

Soak the hands on retiring in a strong, hot, creamy lather of Cuticura Soap. Dry and anoint freely with Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure and purest of emollients. Wear, during the night, old, loose kid gloves, or bandage lightly in old, soft cotton or linen. For red, rough and chapped hands, dry, fissured, itching, feverish palms, with brittle, shapeless nails and painful finger ends, this treatment is simply wonderful, frequently curing in a single application.

Complete local and constitutional treatment for every humour of the skin, scalp and blood, with loss of hair. Bathe with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales, and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and lastly, take the Cuticura Resolvent, to cool and cleanse the blood. This treatment affords instant relief, permits rest and sleep in the severest forms of Eczema and other itching, burning and scaly humours, and points to a speedy, permanent and economical cure of torturing, disfiguring humours, from pimples to scrofula, from infancy to age, when all other remedies and the best physicians fail.

Cuticura Resolvent, liquid and in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. Depots: London, 27 Charterhouse Sq.; Paris, 5 Rue de la Paix; Australia, R. Towns & Co., Sydney; Boston, 137 Columbus Ave. Potter Drug & Chemical Corp., Sole Proprietors.
☞ Send for "How to Cure Every Humour."

THE SOUL'S RETURN.

Theodore A. K. Gessler, Secretary of the Baptist Congress.

I will arise and go to my father.—Luke xv., 18.

The sweetest of stories told in any tongue among men is this beautiful parable of the Prodigal Son. Everywhere it is attentively heard. Simple even to plainness, told ten thousand times, it never loses its marvellous charm.

What is perhaps most wonderful about it is that while the guilt of the wanderer is never for a moment hidden, while his transgression is set before us in characters so distinct as never to be mistaken, we do not for a moment lose our sympathy for the wanderer himself. So the Master wished it. For so He opens the inexhaustible fountains of the divine love to our vision; so He shows us how He receives sinners and eats with them, how He welcomes the guilty to the feast of His love and rejoices over them as a father over a child that was lost.

And yet this sympathy turns altogether upon the incident to which the Scripture directs us. Let the narrative have another termination and our pity turns to disgust. Let it read: "But he was besotted and rejoiced in the husks with the swine; he longed not for his father's home; he ignored its plenty and died in his wretchedness." We should then say: "Miserable brute, he lived and died as he deserved."

In the strange land to which we have come, whether our feet go into flower gardens or deserts, we are apt to lose knowledge of the fatherhood that is over us. The material advantages of the world, all its profits, honors and emoluments, can never satisfy the highest aspirations of the human soul. We want something more enduring and profound. Nor will art, literature or sentiment satisfy the craving. Not anything that exhausts itself in the realm of the intellect or the emotions alone responds to the soul's highest aspirations. The leverage by which it is to be lifted must be outside itself. It wants God.

The burden of sorrow, care and anxiety that oppresses us requires a higher ministry than this "strange land" affords. Its comforts are but "husks." Many a business man who reads these words to-day shudders as he recollects that the Sunday rest is already half gone and that to-morrow he must resume the grind of yesterday and take up the agonies that had only been laid aside during his resting spell. The mother who left the body of her child in the cemetery a few days ago is not relieved by the thought that she shares only the common lot of mortals. A tenderer hand than that of philosophy is needed to stay the rush of her tears.

No, it is not satisfying, this "far country." Many of its gifts are high and noble, indeed they are all of them of the Father's bestowal—we must not forget this when we are tempted to belittle the world's favors—but they are only the media and not the substance of a divine affection. We need to get beyond and above them all to the perennial fountain from which all beneficence flows if the soul is to be satisfied with perfect refreshment. "I will arise and go to my Father." Let every reader of this morning's paper say this to his own soul to-day. Beyond and above all songs and psalms, beyond and above all rites and ceremonials, to the loving heart of the Father!

There is no room for doubt as to my welcome, for His arms are always open to receive His sorrowing, suffering, penitent children. They are His very own. He gives them a peace which this world can neither bestow nor despoil.

My Father! When every soul shall come to the sense of proprietorship which this pronoun suggests, then shall men cease to tremble before an awful tyrant, and that sense of despair which accompanies the idea of an impersonal or absent power that is above us perishes. The vague yearning that had its birth in our early childhood when at a mother's knee we learned to say "Our Father, which art in heaven," finds a higher realization than was then possible to our dreams, for the heavenly gates have opened and the Father has come down to meet His returning child in an ineffable ministry of comfort, peace and love.

A Woman's Business.

Mrs. Ivy E. Tutt is attracting attention in California, not only because she is a beautiful woman, for there are said to be many beautiful women there, as in other States of the Union, but because she is engaged in a business enterprise that will require an actual outlay of $3,000,000. The scheme, according to an exchange, is Mr. Tutt's own. While on a visit to Arizona she discovered two unused water rights that could be had at a price and a promise to organize a company and proceed with the storage of the water and the development of the electrical current. The fact that she was willing to risk her own money in the scheme helped Mrs. Tutt in interesting additional capital, and two companies were formed, one to erect a 6,000 horse-power plant, the other 1,500. Of both companies Mrs. Tutt is Vice-President and General Manager, and all that the rest of the stockholders know about the work is what she reports to them from time to time. She has entire charge of the construction work, with headquarters at Prescott, Ariz., and the directorate is so divided that wherever Mrs. Tutt happens to be, whether at Prescott or Los Angeles, there is a quorum and a meeting can be held—"Where MacGregor sits, there is the head of the table."

And such a MacGregor. She is not even aggressively tailor-made, except when she undertakes a 50 or 200 miles engineering trip. Then she can live for a week, if need be, in a smartly severe riding-dress, forgetting entirely the pretty gowns in which she has a purely feminine delight.

DOMINION E. BITION
1903 - TORONTO - 1903
AUG. 27th to SEPT. 12th

The Agricultural, Manufacturing and Natural resources of Canada will be exhibited on a scale never before attempted.
DAILY PARADES OF LIVE STOCK

E R

In addition, by order of HIS MAJESTY THE KING
THE JUBILEE PRESENTS
of his august mother, the late Queen Victoria, will be exhibited FREE, as well as, by permission of the Dowager Duchess of Dufferin and Ava,
THE DUFFERIN PRESENTS
And by permission of the Countess of Aberdeen treasures
OF IRISH MANUFACTURE
The special features, including an entirely new spectacular production entitled
A CARNIVAL IN VENICE
under the personal direction of Bolossi Kiralfy, will be on a scale never before attempted at an annual fair in any part of the world.
Reduced rates by land and water from everywhere. Consult your station agent.

W. K. McNAUGHT, President.
J. O. ORR, Manager and Secretary.

8c
Sale of Prints

NATHAN JONES.

This week we offer our large stock o PRINTS, bought from the best Canadian and English makers, ranging in price from 10c to 15c, all to go at 8c yd.

NATHAN JONES.

At Wallbridge & Clarke's. At Wallbridge & Clarke's

Supplies For Camp or Cruise

New York Biscuits
In "In-er Seal" pkgs.
Uneeda "Jinger" Wafers, Butter Gems, Cheese Biscuits, German Zwieback, Pretzelettes, etc., etc.

Christie's Fancy Biscuits
Fresh supplies every week — 40 varities.

Heintz's Pickles
Heintz's Celery Sauce,
Heintz's India Relish.
Heintz's Sweet Midgets.
Heintz's Sweet Pickles.

Spanish Olives
A fine assortment of Olives from 10cts per bottle up.

Campers Supplies
Essence of Coffee, Condensed Milk, Lime Juice, Raspberry Vinegar, Fancy Cheese, New Pack Lobster and Shrimps, French Sardines, Scallops, Deviled Crabs, Concentrated Soups, French Potage, Beef Extracts, etc., etc.

Pickles and Sauces
A complete assortment of English and American Pickles and Sauces, including Pickled Walnuts, Onions, Chow Chow, Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce, Yorkshire Relish, Mushroom Catsup, Harvey's Sauce, Sultana Sauce, Chutney's Capers, Durkee's Salad Dressing, etc., etc.

Delicious Teas
Wallbridge & Clarke's Delicious English Breakfast Teas in lead packets at 30, 40, 50 and 60cts per lb.

Canned Meats
New Packs. Finest Quality.
Whole Ox Tongues,
Lunch Tongues.
Lamb's Tongues.
Boned Chicken.
Boned Turkey.
Boned Duck.
Pate de foie.
Potted Ham.
Potted Tongue.
Sliced Dried Beef.
Ham Loaf.
Veal Loaf.
Chicken Tamales.
Lunch Beef.
Lunch Bacon.
Chicken, Ham and Tongue,
Pigs Feet.
Jellied Tenderloins.
Vienna Sausages.
Luncheon Sausages.
Baked Beans—plain or in Tomato or Chili Sauce, etc., etc., etc.

Ale and Stout, Wines, etc.
Carling's, Labatt and Davies' Dominion Ale, Bass' Ale, Dow's Sand Porter, Guinness' Stout, in prime condition.
Gurd's Ginger and Soda Water Appolinaris and Radnor Water.
Barton & Guestier's and Nath. Johnston's Bordeaux Clarets and Sauterne AT POPULAR PRICES.
Rhine Wine and Burgundy Cordials and Liqueurs.
Light Canadian Wines, red or white, at lowest prices.

WALLBRIDGE & CLARKE
EST'D. 1871.
BRIDGE ST. Tel. 139.
Branch Store
Front St.—Tel. 157.

For Torpid Liver, Flatulence, Constipation, Biliousness and Sick Headache, TAKE
BRISTOL'S Pills
Safe, Mild, Quick-acting, Painless, do not weaken, and always give satisfaction.
Reliable Household Medicine, can be taken at any season, by Adults or Children.
Druggists sell "BRISTOL'S."